RIDING CLUB ORGANIZED AT CAVANAUGH LAKE

H. W. Schenk Organizes Pine Lodge Riding Academy and Club House at Lake.

Ten Saddle Horses and Riding Master for Benefit of Patrons.

One of the finest improvements that has come to this vicinity in some time is now under way at Cavanaugh Lake. H. W. Schenk has organized a riding club which will be conducted at the lake. The name of the new club will be Pine Lodge Riding Academy and Club House. The idea of the riding academy is entirely Mr. Schenk's and he will manage the resort.

A club house has been fixed up and will be used for the present. As soon as possible it is planned to build a new club house which will have a large dining room and lounging rooms for the use of members.

With the opening of the club house about July first regular meals and lunches will be served. A regular chef will be in charge of the kitchen at all times.

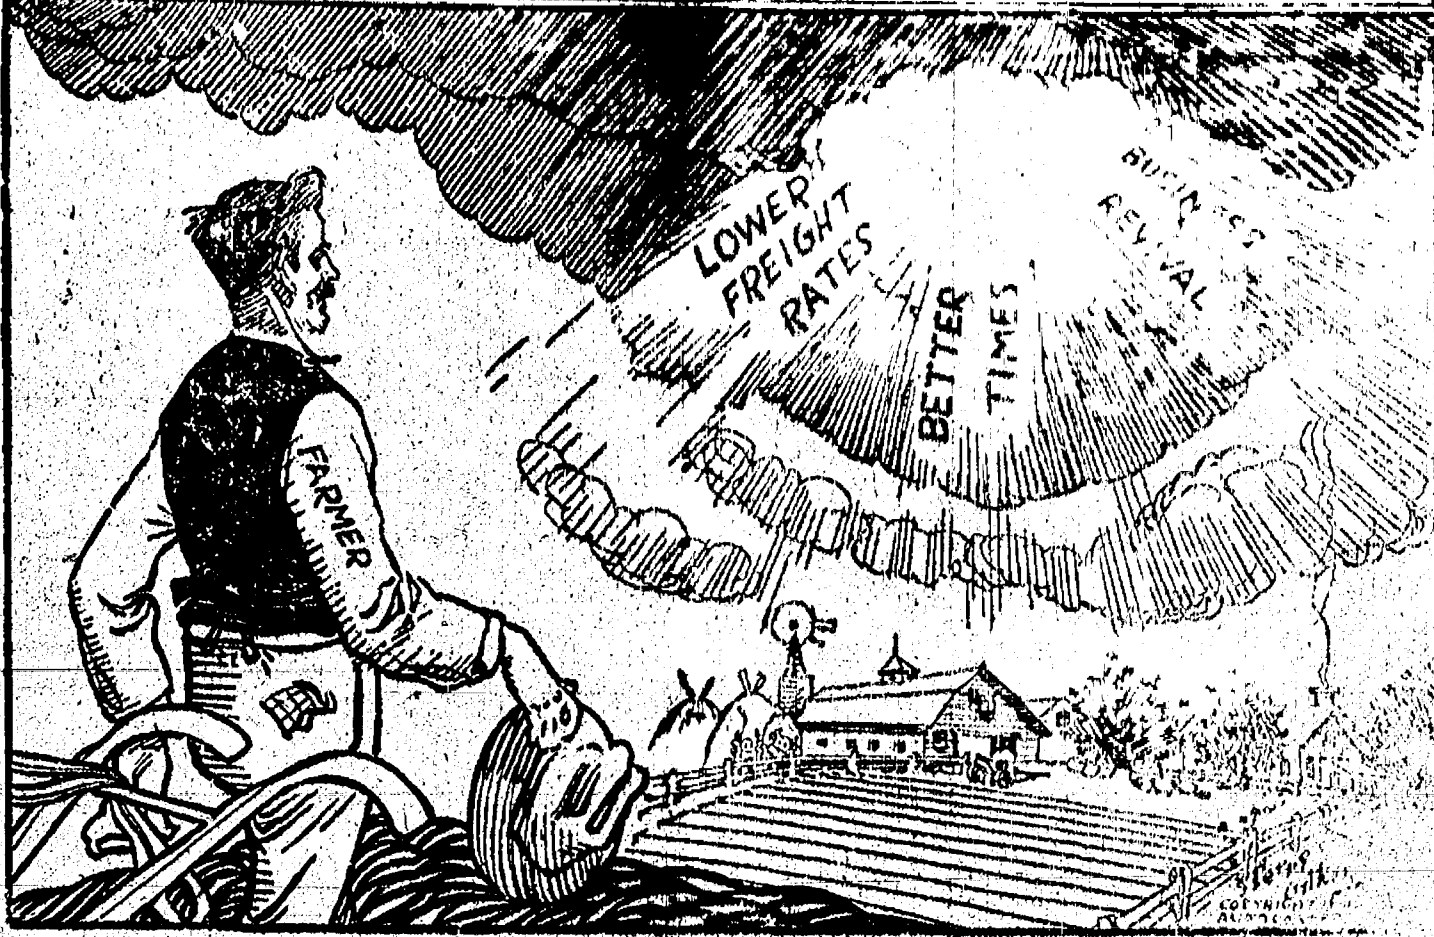

The stables are fitted for 10 saddle horses and there have been obtained for the use of riders. In charge of the stable will be riding master, Mr. Eryen J. Vineyard, who for the past year and one-half has been connected with the Palmier Park Riding Academy of Detroit. He will have charge of the riding classes and the instruction of pupils.

It is the plan of Mr. Schenk to fix up many of the old bridge paths and to build many new ones. The adjoining grounds will all be fixed up and it will be one of the most attractive riding resorts that can be visited. The natural advantages that are already there with the hills and the lake will make the place one that people will love to frequent.

The plans as laid out are to have a camping ground of about three acres where tourists can be taken care of. Those who bring their own tents and supplies will find places to put them, while others will be able to secure tents from the club. There will also be room to accommodate a few at the cottages that will belong to the academy, and so people wishing to stay at the academy will be taken care of.

Riding classes are being formed at present. The first class has already been organized and will receive instructions as soon as the club is opened. Mr. Schenk has already received word from Detroit of parties wishing to make reservations and it seems as though it will only be a question of a short time before the riding club at Cavanaugh Lake will be known for many miles around.

Rift in The Clouds

WINDOWS ALL BROKEN IN TRAIN

The Grand Rapids Flyer had to come to an abrupt stop Wednesday afternoon at Leoni. The road is being run under the railroad tracks at this place and a large pile driver is operating there. The boom of the pile driver extended just far enough over the tracks so that as the fast train flew by it struck every window in the long train. Although every window was broken and considerably more damage done, the miraculous escape of all the passengers is the best of the news. No one was hurt, at least seriously.

MINE VICTIMS NOW NUMBER 75

Bodies Scattered Over 15 Mile Area. Reports of the violent strike that is taking place at Herrin, Illinois states that the death toll will exceed 75. A check up made Thursday afternoon showed 26 known dead. Bodies were spread over an area 15 miles square, some of them riddled with bullets, others beaten to death, and three hanging by ropes from trees. Dying Denied Water. An Associated Press correspondent after 10 ineffectual attempts Thursday finally persuaded a taxicab driver to take him through the scene of the fight. The strip mine had been fired and a freight train on a siding also was burning while miners looted several cars of food supplies. Out in a road near the mine, six men tied together and all wounded by bullets and blows, lay in the scorching sun, while hundreds of men and women laughed at their pleas for water. One of the men, his face bloody and one shoulder shot away apparently was within a few minutes of death. "Please, boys, give me a drink," he moaned. A laugh from the hundreds of spectators was the only reply. The correspondent rushed to a house for water and when he returned he was faced by a sword and quickly drawn pistols and told to keep away. Mother Spurns Victim. When the man begged again for water, "for God's sake," a young woman with a baby in her arms placed her foot on the mangled body and said: "I'll see you in hell before you get any water." The men apparently had been dragged down a rock road behind an automobile. Their clothes were torn and pieces of gravel were imbedded in their mangled flesh. The flame up that occurred so suddenly was something that could not be reckoned with. The latest reports are that things are again quiet in that district and that the authorities have conditions under control. The brutalities and atrocities committed were many and it will be some time before affairs will be righted again.

OBITUARY

Martin Melvin. Martin Melvin who died suddenly answered death's summons June 3, 1922, was one of the early pioneers of Livingston county, having been born on the place now owned by Professor Bigelow in Hamburg township. Here he lived until his marriage to Margaret Ellen McCluskey, when they settled upon the farm near Cordley Lake, which has been their home ever since. He was the son of Martin and Hannah Melvin, and was one of a family of three children, his brother M. H. Melvin, residing in Detroit, and his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Clinton passing away June 7, 1917. Always contented and considerate and truly homeloving as to family life, and gaining many friends by his cheerful, quiet ways, he will not be forgotten. He was devoted to the church, being a member of St. Mary's congregation at Pinckney, and he daily lived his profession of faith. Mrs. Melvin survives, together with six children, Mrs. Edward Stapish of Chelsea, Mrs. Louis Coyle of Pinckney, Mark of Cleveland, Ohio, and John, Rose and Eva at home; also one grandson, Clarence Stapish of Chelsea, who all mourn his loss. The funeral services were held Tuesday, June 6, 1922, when Solemn High Mass was offered by Rev. Father Coyle of Albion and Rev. Father J. A. Crowe of Pinckney. He was laid to rest in St. Mary's cemetery. Among those who attended the funeral of Martin Melvin were: Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Melvin, daughter Adele, and sons Dr. Clarence Melvin, and Martin Melvin of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Terry Brown of Dundee; Mr. Thomas Coyle, daughter Mary and son Alexander, of Whitmore Lake; and Mr. and Mrs. N. Reld of Dexter. (Pinckney Dispatch.)

JUST STORIES

Now that the fishing season is open, eh, My! It is harder than ever before to believe all you hear. The many enthusiasts that are found in a district such as this, with its numerous fishing places, tell stories often that are mighty hard to believe. When the sportmen returned after the first day of the season was open you did not know who to believe. Some men told of the wonderful catches that they made. Others told of the big ones that were lost. Some told of getting a few and others just said "fair." Some came back with baskets full, some with only a good coat of sunburn, but the best was when one person answered that all he caught was a good cod. Now that the season is in full swing, many a wife will have to wait supper, and many a mother will wonder where her boy is all day. It sure is a great life though, so why worry.

STRAUB SERVING LIFE TERM

George Straub, the confessed slayer of Miss Alice Mallett, matron of the Crittenham home for girls at Jackson, arrived at Marquette branch prison Wednesday afternoon and began serving the life sentence passed upon him Tuesday. Guards who brought the slayer to Marquette said the trip was without incident. They did not use handcuffs. Straub was placed in a cell where he will be confined for 30 days, then he will be put to work with the other inmates.

CHELSEA BAND TO PLAY IN BROOKLYN

The Chelsea Band, managed by Wesley Smith has established a reputation in this part of the country. Word has been received by the manager from the Business Men's Association of Brooklyn, Michigan, asking them to come there and give a concert. The band will play in Brooklyn July 19. A band composed of 18 pieces will go there to give the concert. With everything right here why cannot Chelsea have regular band concerts for the benefit of all? Too often a community does not realize the wealth of material that lies so close at hand. Let's get together and make use of it and boost Chelsea.

GIVES 1ST AND 70TH INVOCATION

At the 70th Annual Commencement of the Michigan State Normal college at Ypsilanti Wednesday morning, June 21, the invocation was given by Dr. Seth Reed, age 99 years, of Flint. At the first commencement, the invocation was given by Dr. Reed. His voice is still loud and clear. Dr. Seth Reed and Mrs. Reed were in charge of the Methodist Home at the time it was organized. At that time the Home occupied the house now owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Witherell.

INDEPENDENTS TO MEET JACKSON EAGLES SUNDAY

The Chelsea Independents will meet the Jackson Eagles Sunday, June 25 on the Wilkinson field. This will be the second game of the season with the Eagles and from the fight they gave the local boys the last time it promises to be a fine game. In the last game with the Jackson team the Independents won by a score of 6 to 5 in a 12 inning match.

FIND BODY OF ONTONOGAN MINISTER

Houghton, Mich., June 22. — The body of George W. Dickinson, Ontonogan preacher missing since April 13, was found at Union Bay on the east side of Keweenaw point today and brought to Escabe Harbor by coast guards. It was taken to Calumet tonight. The body will be sent to Detroit where M. W. Dickinson, the young preacher's father lives. Mystery surrounds the manner in which Dickinson met his death. It was believed he was drowned near Ontonogan river or lake Superior near Ontonogan and his body carried by the lake current around Keweenaw point. One theory is that he went out on the ice on the lake and was caught on a floe.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Hoyer of Orono and Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Reynolds of Ann Arbor were guests at the home of H. W. Coe the first of the week.

CENSUS TAKEN BY ANCIENTS

Records Show That Babylonians Had Figures Made in Connection With Country's Fiscal Control. When and where was the first census taken? It is said that there was a census system in Babylon before 2400 B. C. in connection with a complete system of fiscal control. There are at the British museum some of the returns of a later census in Babylon in the form of a part of 30,000 tablets dated some 2,600 to 2,800 B. C. These tablets deal with the administration of the temple property, with agriculture, stock raising, and the produce of farms and gardens. In 1917 B. C. John was directed by King David to go through all the tribes of Israel from Dan to Beersheba, and to number the people. So the census was taken. The census was taken in the year of David's reign, and it was the first census taken in the world.

This Cat Very Much at Home. A Nova Scotia farmer's wife was working about her house one morning when she was surprised by seeing the latch of the door lift several times. On opening the door she found one of her cats at the latch. She then the cat does not wait to be let in, it just lifts the latch and walks in. The same cat invariably goes with her at noon to the henhouse and has lunch with the fowls. It sleeps in front of one of the horses at night, and is frequently seen seated on one of the cows' backs taking its morning sunbath. The cat takes its breakfast direct from the cow. One case of farm product going straight from producer to consumer.

NATIONAL HISTORY IN ADVERTISING.

Historians who study newspapers to learn the habits and customs of peoples say they gain more information from advertisements than from news accounts, and that the information imparted in advertisements is more accurate. Advertisements tell their stories without the intrusion of the editorial blue pencil. They show the development in transit, they disclose the changing conditions of the home, they announce the birth of scientific discovery and invention, they prove the worth of that which is true and lasting and unmercifully expose the sham and the fraud. They tell of our varying taste in dress, they show our belief in sanitation, they disclose our love of sport, describe our work, they mark the change in the status of womanhood and youth, they visualize the moulding of our morals and our methods and present to us humanity from the financier to the finale hopper.

The newspaper subscriber who fails to read advertisements misses more than half the value of his favorite publication. Advertising is news of the highest importance and the most reliable news presented to the people. During the war, when Michael Friedsam, the great New York merchant, was appointed to serve as Fair Price Commissioner by the government, he was asked how the public could be kept informed as to honesty of prices. His reply was terse and true: "Let them read the newspaper advertisements."

DANGER IN GOVERNMENT HYPOCRISY.

Hypocrisy in government has done more than anything else to create disrespect for law. While it may be true that national morals differ completely from the code set up for individuals, the fact remains that the national hypocrite always must suffer when the mask is torn off. The United States stands today as the greatest bootlegger in the world and the apotheosis of buncombe. On the one hand appropriating money for the punishment of individuals trafficking in liquors, on the other openly selling booze on American owned ships, the government presents a spectacle of humbuggery more dangerous than astounding, for there is nothing of news in the disclosure that American ships have been selling booze outside the three-mile limit. This is and has been always a matter of common knowledge. The startling development is giving the information officially to the public, which has known all about the condition and winked at the violation without concern. Shipping men, many of them supporters of prohibition, always have contended that American ships cannot hold passenger trade as against foreign ships if the American ships are dry, and as the dollar has been the standard of morality, the result has been a wet fleet, with America forced to depend on mouth-to-mouth advertising of the fact that prohibition really had no meaning for the American Government if the blinds could be drawn down.

Dragging the issue into the sunlight at this time is likely to have a far-reaching effect on the future of the American merchant marine. Perhaps the throwing of the bombshell was foreseen and explains the urgent effort to obtain a ship subsidy. The issue should be squarely faced. A dry fleet is a dead fleet, yet American ships are necessary to American progress. While prohibition is the law, the United States should run dry ships or no ships. Government violation of its own laws is a dangerous precedent for any country to set, and hypocritical evasion of the spirit of the law is no better.

FLAPPERS.

A statuette of a flapper who existed in Egypt 5,000 years ago is exhibited in Boston Art Museum. It was dug out of an ancient tomb.

The statuette shows the flapper making bread. Her hair is bobbed and appears to have a "permanent."

After 5,000 years the earth's toiling millions still are bobbing hair and baking bread.

Life runs in cycles, eternal repetition.

Parents of the ancient Egyptian flapper probably made a great fuss when she came home from the hair dresses's with her locks shorn.

EXTINCTION.

Wild animal life will be totally extinct on the North American continent, and in Africa and Europe, within a few years. This is the prediction heard on every hand at the annual meeting of the American Society of Mammalogists.

Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, museum expert, says: "Nothing in the history of creation has paralleled the ravages of the fur and hide trade which, with the bone fertilized trade now threatens the entire vertebrate kingdom."

In three years, on our continent, trappers have killed 23,801,905 moles, 14,858,316 squirrels and 402,590 beavers.

"Be kind to animals" seems to be limited to cats, dogs and horses. Man, the carnivorous hunter, is a parasite.

SLUMP.

The general business slump, which began in Germany during April, continues. Money is tightening there, banks charging 10 per cent for long time loans.

That is the cable report to our department of commerce from Commercial Attache Herring, stationed at Berlin.

It is important news, more vital than most of the political happenings on the other side of the Atlantic. For the whole future of Europe, for at least the next five years, depends on keeping the Germans at work. Idle nations, like idle men, cannot pay their bills.

When a check comes back marked "No Account" it is talking about the man who wrote it.

All the world is a stage, and there are plenty of stage robbers.

People are never so happy as when giving out information—why there is so much misinformation.

FEEDERS AVOID HEAVY LOSS

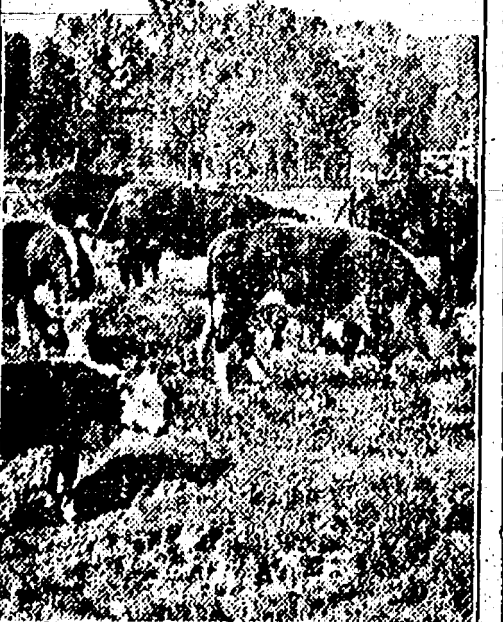

Cattle Cost Studies in Corn Belt Show Losses Are Small When Roughages Are Used.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Cost figures on 20,217 head of beef cattle fed in five corn belt states, summarized in a statement issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, show that scattering droves made good profits last season, in spite of the fact that there was an average loss of $20.87 per steer. Department investigators cite the fact that some of these droves made profits under the most adverse conditions, as emphasizing the extreme importance of watching the details of feeding and management in slump periods in the cattle business.

The feeders in the areas studied who made the most economic gains, in general, used standard rations. In Illinois and Indiana this ration consisted of corn, protein meal, mixed clover and timothy hay and silage with some stover and fodder. In Nebraska and Iowa the standard rations consisted of corn and alfalfa hay, while in Missouri it consisted of corn, protein meal, hay and fodder. In the latter state some of the cattle covered in the study were finished on grass.

"The average loss of $20.87 per head," one of the department investigators explains, "should be looked at in the light of the fact that all feeds were charged to the cattle at farm prices for all home grown feeds, and store prices for feeds bought." Thus the effect of the loss in question on the farm business as a whole was in some measure offset by the return from 1,000 to 2,000 pounds of unmarketable roughage fed to the average steer in the different localities. Even though the cattle-finishing enterprise may show a presumptive loss, there may be a profit for the farm operation as a whole, provided home-grown feeds have been produced at a cost far enough below the market price.

"No individual feeder could be sure of marketing his field products at a profit, including stover and low-grade hay, if he were to choose to sell crops rather than feed them to live stock. If all feeders, or even if a considerable number of feeders, were to try such a shift, the market for all field products would be glutted, with the probable result that the farmers could not even dispose of their corn. The cattle feeders, though he knows that his business for the time being is a precarious one, hesitates to turn to crop farming as a possible relief, because he realizes that cattle feeding is the business he is best fitted for, and because he believes a recovery to profitable production is not far distant."

The studies in question were made by the United States Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the state agricultural colleges of Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Missouri. Preliminary reports issued by the department, and by the several state institutions concerned, give in detail the quantities of feed and hours of labor used in ordinary feed lot production of fat cattle.

All reports may be obtained upon request to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., or single reports from the state agricultural colleges co-operating. Farmers' Bulletin 1218, "Beef Production in the Corn Belt," gives a discussion of feeding.

How to Make and Use It

By A. HYATT VERRILL

III. WIRELESS TELEPHONY

In many ways, all the principles and laws of wireless telephony apply equally well to radio telephony, but in other ways there are great differences between the two. In the first place, the vibrations or waves sent out by the wireless telegraph transmitter are interrupted as they are produced by the vibrator of a spark coil and while the flow of the oscillations or waves may be so rapid that they appear as a steady stream, yet there is really a distinct pause after each one. If a telephone transmitter and receiver were attached to the ordinary wireless instruments used in telegraphy, the sounds or vibrations of the voice would vary the path of the electrical oscillations and the same variations would be produced on the receiver. But, owing to the fact that the waves are interrupted and are not continuous, the words or sounds would be cut up into sections which would be meaningless, although such sounds as music, bells, whistling, etc., might be recognizable. In fact sounds of this sort frequently have been heard over ordinary wireless telegraph instruments. Hence it is easy to see that the only reason why all sounds cannot be carried through space by ordinary wireless telegraph apparatus is because of the interrupted or broken waves, whereas, if these waves were continuous or were so incredibly rapid as to appear continuous, the sounds they transmitted could easily be heard and understood. Therefore, the real fundamental key to successful wireless telephony lies in producing what are known as continuous waves and it is to the perfection and control of such waves that radio telephony owes much of its rapid advancement.

The accompanying figures, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 illustrate just how the interrupted telegraphy currents and the continuous waves carry sounds. Thus, 1 represents the variations in vibrations in a certain word. 2, the intermittent oscillations of the wireless telegraph sender and 3, the way the word would be broken and interrupted by being transmitted by means of such interrupted waves. Figure 4, on the other hand, shows the continuous waves of the wireless telephone transmitter; 5, the sound waves of a word and 6, the way the continuous waves, interrupted by the words would appear. By studying these diagrams you can easily see the difference between the word broken up as in figure 3 and flowing smoothly as in figure 6. It must be borne in mind, however, that whereas the sounds of the voice, music, etc., cannot be satisfactorily sent or received by wireless telegraph instruments, yet wireless telegrams can be sent to perfection, and can be perfectly received, over wireless telephone instruments. Indeed, the very best transmitting radiophones sets serve the best for sending telegraphic messages, the only difference being that for the former the continuous high frequency waves are used, whereas, when sending code messages by telegraph, the waves are broken or "chopped" by suitable instruments and a key which opens and closes the circuit.

In using wireless telephony, just as in wireless telegraphy, there must be two separate units known as transmitters and receivers, and a transmitter can be used only for sending and a receiver for receiving. As the sending or transmitting apparatus of the wireless telephone is far more complicated than the receiving apparatus, as the greatest interest in wireless telephony lies in receiving the messages, songs, etc., sent broadcast from large sending stations, and as the receivers are very simple and easy to understand and to construct, we will put the cut before the horse, so to speak, and consider the receiving end of radio telephony before we take up the sending end.

FARM BUREAU FIGHTS TO KEEP RAILS DOWN.

Intervention by the State Farm Bureau in the Pere Marquette railroad branch abandonment cases has stiffened considerably the opposition offered by shippers on the lines affected. The Farm Bureau has interests on the branches proposed for abandonment and is also acting in the interests of local farm bureau members, it said. The bureau is represented by a strong traffic department and a prominent traffic attorney.

In the Big Rapids-White Cloud abandonment case the Farm Bureau has filed exceptions to the Interstate Commerce Commission examiner's recommendation that permission be granted to abandon the road; it also asked a hearing of the case before the I. C. C. at Washington. The bureau will appear soon in the Remus-Weldman and the Mecosta-Bayton abandonment hearings. Entry of the bureau into the Buchanan branch case caused an order for rehearing. The railroad has dropped abandonment proceedings in the Haynor-Sheridan and the South Lyons Spur branches. The bureau and local shippers maintain that business on the branches warrants continuance of the train service and that removal of transportation facilities would wreck prosperous and developing agricultural communities. It is understood that the railroad proposes abandonment of other branch lines.

M. A. C. COMMENCEMENT.

East Lansing, June 21.—David Friday was formerly inaugurated as president of the Michigan Agricultural College here this morning, during the sixty-fourth commencement exercises of the state institution.

The largest commencement crowd in the history of M. A. C. gathered for the joint ceremony, hundreds of alumni and guests of the college, in addition to the graduating class and faculty, being in attendance.

Hon. Jason Woodman, of Paw Paw, senior member of the State Board of Agriculture, presided at the inaugural and administered the oaths of office on behalf of the Board and the faculty of the college.

President Friday, in response, delivered an address which served as both his inaugural and the commencement address. The new president, flanked by his faculty in full academic regalia, held the big audience through three quarters of an hour with a brilliant and scholarly discussion of world economic conditions into which the graduating class will enter.

Faculty of the college were hosts Tuesday evening at a reception given in honor of the new administration, President and Mrs. Friday and Secretary and Mrs. H. H. Halladay. A special alumni, inaugural program, with Michigan college heads and prominent alumni delivering addresses of welcome, was scheduled for Wednesday afternoon.

Why Suffer from Rheumatism?
Do you know that nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simple rheumatism of the muscles or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment? The pain may be relieved by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, which makes sleep and rest possible, and that certainly means a great deal to any one afflicted with rheumatism. Adv.

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions.
