CALL MASS MEETING FOR FRIDAY EVENING

Citizens Asked by Council and Electric Light and Water Works Commission to Discuss Municipal Questions.

A mass meeting is called for tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the town hall by the village council and the electric light and water works commission for the purpose of discussing the following questions:

1. Shall we repair present electric plant?
2. Shall we build modern electric
plant?
3. Shall we purchase service from the Consumers Power Co.?

Engineer A. H. Lovell of Ann Arbor, who was engaged by the village to make estimates and recommendations, is expected to be present at the mass meeting, as is also Howard Pepp, representing the Consumers Power Co. of Jackson.

Mr. Pepp was in the village Monday evening to meet with the council, but as a quorum failed to be present no official business could be transacted.

However, Mr. Pepp had with him drafted ordinance and contract to cover the transaction, should the citizens deem it wise to make the change and purchase service from
the Consumers Power Co.

The documents contain some points that have not yet been made public. It has been stated that the company has offered $10,000 for the lines of the municipal plant. This does not include the building, the machinery therein nor the boulevard lighting system, but just the poles and lines and the privilege of furnishing service. In addition the company offers the village $5,000 with which to exchange privately owned equipment such as motors, including those on washing machines,
the heat units in flat irons, lamps,
etc.

The current proposed to be furnished by the Consumers Power Co.
will be alternating and of 120 volts.
While this will require 120 volt lamps, the current will answer for any 110 power equipment.

Another point: The company wants a 30-year franchise, but through the efforts of President Wurster, a clause has been inserted whereby the company agrees to sell the line to the city after ten years or at any future ten year period.
This is a valuable concession for the village, for if at any time the company's service is unsatisfactory the village can again assume ownership.

All people interested in municipal affairs, in fact everyone who has at heart the welfare of his or her home town, should be present at the meeting tomorrow evening and listen to the discussion that will take place.

SUMMER CAMP AT HALF MOON LAKE

Four Boys to Have 10 Days Outing
Under Experienced Leaders.

The summer camp conducted by the Students Christian Association of the University of Michigan, has opened at Half Moon lake in Dexter township.

There will be four groups during the summer and each group will remain ten days. There is plenty of good drinking water and a good swimming hole and each boy who has been chosen to attend the camp will probably have a very enjoyable ten days' outing. The camp will accommodate 75 boys who are under the guidance of experienced camp men.

Most of the boys in the first camp were selected from Detroit through the probation officers of the juvenile court, the different welfare associations and relief organizations. Fifty-five of the first group are from Detroit, the others from Ann Arbor and Flint.

NEW JERSEY BREEDERS TOUR THE COUNTY

Members of Washtenaw County Jersey Cattle Breeders Association
Visit County Farms.

Saturday morning members of the Washtenaw County Jersey Cattle
Breeders association met at the farm home of V. E. McNitt on the Saline road.

The breeders then started a tour of the various farms in Washtenaw county. H. S. Osler, county agent, mapped out the following program:
From the McNitt farm the breeders went to Dr. G. Waterman's farm in Pittsfield township, thence to Gauss farm on the Pittsfield road. Lunch was served at the next stop, the Brookwater farm in Webster township.

After luncheon, Prof. H. E. F.
on of the Michigan Agricultural Experiment station, addressed the breeders. Roy T. Lee, fieldman of the Michigan Jersey Cattle club, described the club's activities and addressed the breeders. There was also a discussion of the Jersey cattle competition and a discussion of the Washtenaw county
Jersey cattle club.

Members of the Lenox farm bureau accepted a
to participate in the tour.
This is the first tour
which has been arranged county Jersey cattle breeders.

GENERAL STORE AND RESIDENCE BURN

Stock and Furniture in Store Building Consumed—Occupants Have Narrow Escape.

The general store at Freedom Center, conducted by Mrs. S. J. Worthing, was burned to the ground early Friday morning. The fire was discovered about 1:40 in the morning and the family had a narrow escape from death.

Mrs. Worthing and her two children, who resided in rooms over the store, escaped with but very little of their clothing and a young man who was a guest of the family, jumped from the second story window.

Mrs. Worthing, who came to Freedom from Ohio and purchased the stock of merchandise some months ago, lost the entire stock, her household goods, a five passenger touring car and a Ford truck. The loss is covered by an insurance of $7,000, which amount is far short of covering the loss. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The building was owned by Fred Wagoner of Manchester, who formerly conducted the store. His loss will exceed the amount of insurance, which was $3,700 and was carried by
the German Mutual Fire Insurance Co. Geo. Haist, of Lima, one of the directors of the company was at the scene of the fire early Saturday morning to view and assess the loss of Mr. Wagoner.

The cement block residence of Louis Vogel, which adjoined the store building, was burned to the ground, but most of the contents were saved. Mr. Vogel had an insurance of $2,500 on his property in
the German Mutual Fire Insurance
Co. which will fall short of covering his loss.

During the progress of the fire the town hall and school house opposite the store and residence were both endangered by flying sparks and the fire buildings on the farm of Henry Lutz were also threatened. It was very fortunate that no high wind prevailed or the result might have been more disastrous.

Mr. and Mrs. Vogel and family have moved their household goods into the vacant house on the farm of Theodore Kuhl and the township board of Freedom turned the town hall over to Mrs. Worthing and family as a temporary dwelling place.

As the telephone wires are down it was difficult to call the residents of the farms to the scene of the flames,
so word was passed from neighbor to neighbor and they were soon on the scene and assisted in stopping the further spread of the fire.

Heselschwerdt-O'Hara Wedding
The marriage of Miss Florence Elizabeth Heselschwerdt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Heselschwerdt, of West Middle street, and Mr. John Louis O'Hara, of Detroit, was solemnized at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, July 1, 1934, in St. Mary church, the pastor, Rev.
Father VanDyke, celebrating the mass.

The couple was attended by Miss Margaret Burg, of Chelsea, and Mr.
Leo O'Hara, of Ann Arbor, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride was handsomely gowned in Periwinkle Romaine crepe, with hat to match. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. Her bridesmaid, Miss Margaret Burg, wore a dress of tan crepe de chine with a bouquet of Columbia roses.

Following the church service a wedding breakfast was served at some of the bride's parents to twenty relatives and intimates of the young people.

The bride was the
at several pre-nuptial

EARLY MORNING FIRE CAUSES HEAVY LOSS

Large Barn and Contents on Thompson Estate Farm Destroyed.

The horse barn, its contents, hog house and windmill on the Thompson estate farm in Lima, located on the Chelsea-Dexter road, were burned to the ground at three o'clock this morning.

The farm is occupied by Walter Trinkle, who has just completed burning 30 tons of hay in the barn.
His automobile, a quantity of small tools and binder twine were also consumed by the flames. The windmill, which stood near the residence, was also burned, and only from the fact that there was no wind the residence would probably have been burned. The fire started in the hog house.

A. J. Easton of Lima Center has charge of the property and as the telephone line has not been repaired
The Standard was not able to reach him.

The loss will be a heavy one for both Mr. Trinkle and the Thompson estate. The property was partially covered by insurance.

FARM CONDITIONS LOOK PROMISING

Crops Growing in Abundance and Livestock Fat and Sleek.

On a little trip the first of the week through the townships in the southern part and the northeastern part of Washtenaw county by a representative of the Standard the growing crops were given some attention as he passed along the public highways.

The prospects were never better than this year for a bumper crop.
The wheat and rye fields are well covered and are fast ripening. The oat crop gives promise of one of the largest yields that has been harvested in several years. The barley is also in excellent condition and a very even stand. The corn crop in most instances is very short and unless the season is a long one this crop may be a short one for most of the farmers. Both the early and late potatoe lots are to all appearances beyond the average for the last two seasons. The hay crop is an extremely fine one and many of the large farms are considerably crowded with cattle.

"Way Down East" Coming. D. W. Griffith's picturization of "Way Down East," based on the stage play of Lottie Blair Parker, which for the past twenty-two years was one of the rural classics of the American theatre, will be presented at the Princess Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, two days, with the following cast: Lillian Gish, Richard Barthelmess, Mary Hay, Burr McIntosh, Lowell Sherman, Creighton Hale, Mrs. Morgan Belmont, Kate Bruce, Edgar Nelson, George Neville, Viola Ogden, Porter Strong, Josephine Bennett, Mrs. David Landau, Patricia Pruett, Florence Short, Emily Fitzroy, and Myrtle Satch. Firestone

GUM-DIPPED CORDS

and their High Mileage Records

The high mileage records of Firestone Cords continue to emphasize the fact that Firestone methods are different. These records, steadily increasing in number, justify the Firestone contention that this is the way to build tires.

Among the primary sources of Firestone's high mileage records is double gum-dipping—the saturation of each cord with liquid gum—thus coating each cord with an internal heat and friction.

Another is Firestone's air bag curing process, which places every cord under uniform tension.

By blending the rubbers of different grades and by tempering it before mixing, more mileage.

Many cord tires are good—a few are the best.

Those who have already experienced the superior performance of Firestone tires should investigate the Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords and buy your tires from the nearest Firestone dealer.

Strike of 400,000 Railway Shopmen Sanctioned, and Pullman Workers Included.

LABOR BOARD TAKES ACTION

Coal Miners' Representatives and Operators Called Into Conference by President Harding—Germany Upset by Murder of Rathenau—Fierce Battle Fought in Dublin.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

FOUR HUNDRED THOUSAND railway shop workers were called out on strike, effective Saturday morning, and the order included also all Pullman shopmen in the country. An equal number of maintenance of way employes was expected to join in the walkout, though as their strike vote had not been completely canvassed, it was said their action might be delayed a few days.

The strike was set on the day when the rail workers were to undergo a cut of $134,000,000 in wages, and when the $400,000,000 freight rate reduction went into effect. B. M. Jewell, head of the shop crafts, had told the railway executives the strike would be sanctioned unless they agreed to ignore the federal labor board's wage reduction order, to restore certain working rules which the board had eliminated and to abolish the "farming out" system adopted by some of the railroads. The railway managements would not yield, and the strike decision was promptly sanctioned by the following six international union presidents, constituting the mechanical section of the railway employees' department: William H. Johnston, International Association of Machinists; J. W. Kline, International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers of America; J. A. Franklin, International Brotherhood of Boiler-makers, Iron Shipbuilders and Helpers of America; J. J. Hynes, Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance; James P. Noonan, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and Martin J. Ryan, Brotherhood of Railway Car Men of America.

Railway managers were confident that the strike would not greatly handicap transportation operations, at least for some time. They had anticipated it by making such provisions as were possible, and besides, as has been noted before, the train service men and dispatchers are not involved in the present controversy, and will continue to work.

There was some hope that Ben Hooper, chairman of the labor board, could stave off the strike by persuading certain roads to cancel their contracts for shop work, but it was considered rather unlikely that this would satisfy the unions. Furthermore, bitter internal strife in the labor board developed. The majority members, comprising the group representing the public and the railways, issued a statement that labor members, in their dissenting opinions, were "sowing some of the seeds that have germinated and blossomed into industrial anarchy in Russia," that they had "advised the employees to strike against the decision of the board" and had advanced "incendiary arguments to the railroad employees in favor of striking against a decision of the board."

The board called the shop crafts international officers and the railway executives to appear before it for an inquiry.

PRESIDENT HARDING finally has taken personal action in the matter of the coal strike. The administration, through a high government official, stated its position thus: "Coal is going to be mined in sufficient quantity to prevent any fuel famine next winter," and it was added that if peaceful measures to end the strike failed, more drastic action would be taken. Next, Mr. Harding invited the representatives of the miners and operators to a conference in the White House Saturday for the purpose of devising "methods upon which negotiations for the settlement of the coal strike can be initiated." It was understood that attendance at the meeting did not bind either the operators or the miners to accept any conditions that might be laid down. The belief in Washington was that if the President failed to persuade the employers and workers to get together voluntarily, he might determine on the appointment of an arbitration commission and call on both sides to abide by its decision.

Officials of the miners' union have realized that public sympathy is lost to them by such occurrences as the shocking massacre of non-union men in Williamson county, Illinois, and not only disown all responsibility for acts of violence, but call on the strikers to maintain the peace for their own sakes. Many of the residents and some of the public officials of the southern Illinois region where the outrages took place seem to be in sympathy with the murderous miners, and there is little prospect that the men who slaughtered the strike-breakers will be arrested and prosecuted. Wounded survivors of the massacre in the hospital at Herrin were carefully guarded, for threats had been made that they would not be permitted to leave the town alive, lest they testify against the murderers. The mayor, however, guaranteed their safety.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S statement to congress last December suggesting regulating of labor unions was severely criticized by the special policy committee of the American Federation of Labor in its report to the Cincinnati convention. "It would seem," the report says, "that the propaganda for industrial feudalism supported by political bureaucracy has found its way into the White House. It is most regrettable to note the utterances of the President of the United States wherein he disapproves of labor's reluctance but necessary resort to the right to strike against industrial oppression."

ACQUITTAL of Governor Small of Illinois on the charge of conspiring to defraud the state was no surprise to those who had watched the progress of the trial and observed the attitude of the jury. The latter held that the prosecution failed to trace to the governor any of the misappropriated funds. A sad sequel was the sudden death of the governor's wife, who suffered a stroke of apoplexy during the impromptu celebration at their home in Kankakee. Sympathy for Mr. Small in his bereavement was general and genuine, but unfortunately a lot of ghouls tried to make political capital out of his great loss.

MEXICO got on the front page again because a bunch of bandits in that benighted country captured A. Bruce Rhoads, former chief of the bureau of investigation for the Department of Justice, and held him for $5,000 ransom. Finally he made his escape, ill, badly beaten up and half starved. Then came the story that forty Americans connected with oil companies in the Tampico region were held captive by bandits. This report was denied by President Obregon himself after investigation. Our State department, however, was informed that the bandits had released the forty and then had seized 85 employees of a Dutch-British oil company, including six Americans.

SOVIET RUSSIA'S representatives, headed by the wily Litvinoff, entered the conference at the Inaugure last week and at first assumed a defiant and uncompromising attitude. They insisted that the first thing to be discussed and established must be the credits to be accorded Russia by the other nations, and to every other proposition Litvinoff merely replied: "We want credits or goods; have you got any?" Outside the conference hall, he said cash was not necessary but Russia was anxious to buy abroad and must have credits from either foreign governments or foreign companies. After this was settled, said he, the conference could take up the question of private property and debts and the status of Russian bonds. The experts of Britain, France and Italy were equally firm in opposition and finally Litvinoff consented to submit to the subcommission on debts the details of Russia's budget covering extraordinary receipts and expenditures so that the other powers may make a careful study of Russia's financial prospects. The subcommission then practically agreed upon cancellation of the Russian war debts and a moratorium on pre-war debts and interest. The financial information thus dragged from the Russians has hitherto been kept scrupulously secret by them.

Litvinoff told American correspondents that the soviet government had issued a decree recognizing post-revolution rights to private property of all kinds except land. The allied and neutral delegates said that if this decree were genuine, it was the most important move the Russians had made since the adoption of their new economic policy.

GERMAN nationalists who had been planning great demonstrations for last week in favor of restoration of the monarchy, decidedly overshot their mark by the assassination of Dr. Walter Rathenau, the minister of foreign affairs and one of the country's wealthiest industrial magnates. The socialists and other groups were so aroused by the murder that drastic steps were taken which effectually stopped the proposed uprisings. Chancellor Wirth and the cabinet imposed restrictions that approached martial law, a "state of emergency" being declared. The monarchists, however, did not remain silent and their societies joyfully celebrated the death of Rathenau, in Bavaria, where they are especially strong, the restrictive measures were ignored by populace and officials alike. Stormy scenes took place in the Reichstag in Berlin, the nationalists being denounced as murderers. In the German section of Upper Silesia alone was there any actual monarchist uprising. Government troops and nationalists fought in several towns, and the affair then developed into a pogrom, many Jews being robbed and killed.

Rathenau was considered one of the ablest ministers in Europe and was doing his best to restore relations between Germany and the allied nations. In France his murder was regarded as probably ending any policy of conciliation in settling the reparations problem.

IRISH FREE STATE forces, with the aid of English guns and advice, fought fiercely with the republican irregulars in the very heart of Dublin last week, and at this writing the issue of the battle is undecided. The republicans held possession of the Four Courts' building and also of several hotels in the vicinity. The Free Staters surrounded the Four Courts and attacked with rifle and artillery fire and bomb-throwers, and by Friday the casualties were somewhere near one hundred. The attackers were hampered by their desire not to injure the handsome building and to spare the invaluable records it contains. Eamon de Valera in an interview characterized the irregulars as "the bravest of the brave in our nation." In other parts of Ireland the insurgents were active and the provisional government issued three manifestoes explaining why it was compelled to act against them.

LATEST advices from China are not encouraging. Gen. Chen Chung-Ming, who drove Sun Yat Sen from Canton, was said to have been assassinated while at a meeting of his military leaders. Doctor Sun himself, who apparently is again free, is planning to retake Canton as soon as his troops arrive from the north and to re-establish his regime there. The leaders in the Peking government are in favor of establishing the "United States of China."

DISAFFECTED Republicans of North Dakota, in combination with the Nonpartisan league, defeated Senator Porter J. McCumber for re-nomination, naming in his stead Lynn J. Frazier, former governor who was recalled. McCumber has been in the senate 23 years, chairman of the finance committee, and second in rank on the foreign relations committee. His defeat is another blow to the "old guard." Wisconsin Democrats followed the lead of those in Minnesota by selecting a woman for the senate. She is Mrs. Ben C. Hoopes of Oshkosh.

RETURNING VACATIONERS

Relief Flyer Carrying Nurses and Doctors Rushed to Scene in Care for Many Injured.

Atlantic City, N. J.—Fifty persons were reported killed and several hundred injured in the wreck of a Pullman sleeping car, packed with vacationists, at Winslow Junction, between Camden and this city, early July 2.

Seven cars of a 15-car train went over the railroad embankment at Winslow Junction. The accident was said to have been caused by a track washout due to the violent rain storm of Sunday night.

Summoned by telegraph and telephone calls for help over a radius of 20 miles, physicians, ambulance police and firemen equipped with relief cots, lanterns and torches were hastening to the scene. A relief train left here with scores of doctors and nurses. Another has left Camden. Both trains will pick up additional rescue workers along the route.

Trains arriving here aboard a New York "empty," sent back from New York to handle outgoing traffic Sunday, declared the wrecked Reading express, which runs under the Pennsylvania bridge at Winslow, could be seen piled up across the south-bound tracks, where it had plunged down the embankment.

One of these men said the engineer apparently had gotten the wrong signal and had taken the cutoff to the Cape May branch.

From the indications, he said, the train had reached the Winslow Junction spur during a heavy rain storm, and in some way the signals had been confused. The clear signal for the Atlantic City route is above that of the Cape May semaphore, and railroad men believe the engineer got this light instead of his own and hit the cutoff at the peak of his speed.

Meager reports by telephone said that the intense darkness at the foot of the embankment was greatly handicapping the rescue work. Lanterns, flashlights and even lamps from the surrounding farmhouses were pressed into service to aid the work of the men and women who hurried to the rescue.

MINERS AND OPERATORS AT ODDS

U. S. Warning Falls to Bring Opposing Factions Together.

Washington—Five hours' heated debate between representative operators and miners following their meeting July 1 at the White House where they were addressed by President Harding, resulted in continuance of the deadlock as to whether joint conference to settle wage and other disputes shall be on a national or a state basis.

This issue has divided the operators and the miners from the beginning, and has defeated all efforts to prevent and later to settle the strike.

"WETS" SCORE SHIP BOOZE SALE

Anti-Prohibition Organization Declares It Contrary to Law.

St. Louis—A letter protesting against forbidden beverages on United States shipping board vessels has been sent to President Harding by the Missouri branch of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, Inc. It was signed by former Federal Judge Henry S. Priest, president of the Missouri branch of the organization. The letter declared the "lotter and spirit" of the prohibition law should be enforced as rigidly as "the easiest way to demonstrate their folly."

TWO EARTHQUAKES RECORDED

Georgetown Seismograph Detects Shocks, 600 and 3,800 Miles Away.

Washington—Two earthquake shocks were registered on the seismograph of Georgetown university Sunday, one in the afternoon apparently being "local" and possibly in the United States at a distance of 700 or 800 miles from Washington. The other was felt in the morning but was at a distance estimated to be about 3,800 miles away. The one in the afternoon continued from 4:23 to 4:36 o'clock, but was not as pronounced as the one in the morning.

Erect Barracks at Marquette.

Lansing—Erection of barracks at Marquette prison to house the state police detachment now at Negaunee and the construction of a new factory building at the institution was authorized by the state administrative board. Upon recommendation of Governor Greenbeck, the state architect was directed to prepare plans for an addition to the prison cell block. The governor also suggested that the walls of the prison be moved to give inmates

Reduce Your Production Costs

Farming, like every other business, must cut down the overhead.

It is not a question of being able to afford a Fordson; it is a question of being able to continue farming on the old too-costly basis.

The farmer's problem is not all a sales problem; it is also a production problem. He must cut down the cost of production.

The Fordson does more work at a lower cost and in less time than the old hand methods.

Let us give you the proof. Write, phone or call today.

WALK OUT SATURDAY

Sweeping Strike Now On—Old Employees Near Pontiac Are Hit.

The shopmen of the railroads of the United States laid down their tools Saturday and walked out with the exception of a few old employees who are near the pension limits. The workmen are dissatisfied with the scale of wages as fixed by the federal railway employment board. The cut of the men who are receiving less than fifty cents per hour for eight hours labor will hardly maintain a man and his family at the present prices of food and rentals that they have to pay, is claimed.

The men in the shops at Jackson obeying the vote of their union quit at 10 o'clock last Saturday evening. This includes the craftsmen that are in six departments of the Junction shops. The men in an interview with the police department of Jackson have pledged themselves to assist in maintaining the law.

The federal wage board and the heads of the various unions are trying to effect a readjustment of the scale of wages as announced by the labor board some time ago, and unless an agreement is reached the maintenance of way men will probably stop work about the first of August. This department of the railway are the trackmen. The shopmen are employed in keeping the engines and cars in repair.

G. W. Moore, who is the car repairman here is one of the men that is out with the rest of the employees pending the settlement of the wage scale.

Last Friday afternoon village president D. H. Wurster received a telegram from the railway officials requesting him to place guards in the company grounds here to protect their property, but as yet their request has not been granted.

The chief of the railway detective force with headquarters in Jackson was here and employed four guards, E. P. Steiner and Roy T. Evans for the day watch and Elmer F. Klump and Geo. Knoll for the night turn. The men are being paid by the company.

Helping the Judge.
It was his first case, and the lawyer, whose zeal probably outweighed his learning, was arguing a case in a local court.

"My contention, your honor," he said, "is that the lower court made an error because the verdict is against the weight of evidence."

"We can't hear that," said the judge, meaning that even a rising young lawyer's opinion is not evidence.

"Very well, then," said the young man of the law, who entirely missed the point. "If your honor will listen I will prove a little more."

Foster and family, of Grass Lake, and the members of the Staffan family gathered at the home of Grandma Staffan Tuesday, the Fourth of July, in honor of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Staffan, who celebrated the 84th year of her birth. A sumptuous dinner was served, and a birthday cake with 84 candles was a feature of the occasion. This is an annual celebration and is generally held at Cavanaugh Lake, but because of the coolness of the weather was held here.

A very pleasant gathering took place at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sager at Sugar Loaf Lake the Fourth, to celebrate several of their family birthdays. A potluck dinner was served to about 25 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stone of Detroit, and Mrs. Mary Castle and sons, Fred and Don of Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dalton and son of Dexter, Mr. Geustler and Mr. Steffa of Ann Arbor, Meda and Leita Kappler of Ann Arbor, Ruth, Alma and Herbert Sager of Chelsea, Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Sager of Sylvan, all departed having spent a very enjoyable day.

Wm. Cassidy and H. Weber, with their men, are now building a large cottage at Sugar Loaf Lake for B. B. Turnbull. Messrs. Cassidy and Weber have been engaged since early spring in remodeling several farm homes, one of which was the residence of A. L. Lowry, on what is known as the Runyan farm, which has been equipped with all of the modern conveniences. They have just recently completed the beautiful, farm home on what is known as the Wm. Long farm, in Sylvan, also the Harold Glazier cottage on the north side of Cavanaugh Lake. Situated on the brow of a hill overlooking the lake, with its large screened-in porch, it will certainly be a model summer home.

The annual reunion of the Lehman family was held Sunday, July 2, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barth, 206 Third street, Ann Arbor, and the event is one that every member of the family makes every possible effort to attend. This year every branch of the family was represented, there being 95 present, and the day was fully enjoyed by all. A bountiful dinner was served. After the dinner hour a business meeting was held and the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Conrad Lehman, Chelsea; Vice President, C. H. Lehman, Detroit; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Matthew Lehman, Stockbridge.

The family reunion next year will be held at the home of Mrs. M. J. Lehman in Ann Arbor. Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Lehman, of Chelsea, were among those who were in attendance.

CHELSEA HIGH GIVEN LONGER DIPLOMA RELATIONSHIP WITH UNIVERSITY

Chelsea high school was inspected this spring by Prof. E. B. Edmondson, University inspector of the high schools of the state, and has been given a two year relationship with the University. This means that Chelsea High ranks on the accredited list with other schools of her size, and larger, as the largest, most fully equipped high schools of the state are given only a three year relationship.

There is much encouragement to be gained from this report of the inspector as Chelsea has had only a one year relationship and a year ago was threatened with expulsion from the list.

country, and we know what they mean to do to us. So we're going to attend to them. Of course that's why I'm here. It wasn't you.

"Don't forget to write pretty soon, Dora. You say in your letter—I certainly was glad to get that letter—well, you say I have things to do more important than 'girls.' Dora, I think you probably know without my saying so that of course while I have got important things to do, just as every man over here has, and everybody at home, for that matter, well, the thing that is most important in the world to me, next to helping win this war, it's reading the next letter from you.

"Don't forget how glad I'll be to get it, and don't forget you didn't have anything to do with my being over here. That was—it was something else. And you bet, whatever happens I'm glad I came! Don't ever forget that!"

Dora knew it was "something else." Her memory went back to her first recollection of him in school: from that time on he had been just an ordinary, everyday boy, floundering somehow through his lessons in school and through his sweatearthing with Millie, as the millions of other boys floundered along with their own lessons and their own Millies. She saw him swinging his books and romping homeward from the schoolhouse, or going whistling by her father's front yard, rattling a stick on the fence as he went, care-free and masterful, but shy as a deer if strangers looked at him, and always "not much of a talker."

She had always felt so superior to him; she shuddered as she thought of it. His quiet had been so much better than her talk. His intelligence was proven now, when it came to the great test, to be of a stronger sort than hers. He was wise and good and gentle—and a fighting man! "We know what they've done to this country and what they mean to do to us. So we're going to attend to them." She read this over, and she knew that Ramsey, wise and gentle and good, would fight like an unchained devil, and that he and his comrades would indeed and indeed do what they "came for."

"It wasn't you," he said. She nodded gently, agreeing, and knew what it was that sent him. Yet Ramsey had his own secret here, and did not tell it. Sometimes there rose, faint in his memory, a whimsical picture, yet one that had always meant much to him. He would see an old man sitting with a little boy upon a rustic bench under a walnut tree to watch the "Decoration Day Parade" go by—and Ramsey would see a shoot of sunshine that had somehow got through the walnut tree and make a bedazzlement of glinting fine lines over a spot about the size of a saucer, upon the old man's thick white hair. And in Ramsey's memory, the little boy, sitting beside the veteran, would half close his eyes, drowsily, playing that this sunshine spot was a white bird's-nest, until he had a momentary dream of a glittering little bird that dwelt there and wore a blue soldier cap on its head. And Ramsey would bring out of his memory thoughts that the old man had got into the child's head that day. "We knew that armies fighting for the Freedom of Man had to win, in the long run. . . . We were on the side of God's Plan. . . . Long ago we began to see hints of His Plan. . . . Man has to win his freedom from himself—men in the light have to fight against men in the dark. . . . That light is the answer. . . . We had the light that made us never doubt."

A long while Dora sat with the letter in her hand before she answered it and took it upon her heart to wear. That was the place for it, since it was already within her heart, where he would find it when he came home again. And she beheld the revelation sent to her. This ordinary life of Ramsey's was but the outward glinting of a high and splendid spirit, as high and splendid as earth can show. And yet it was only the life of an everyday American boy. The streets of the town were full, now, of boys like Ramsey.

At first they were just boys in uniform; then one saw that they were boys no more.

They were soldiers.

[THE END.]

They Were Soldiers.

I guess he will let this much by. Who do you think I ran across in a village yesterday? Two boys from the old school days, and we certainly did shake hands a few times! It was that old foolish Dutch Krusemeyer and Albert Paxton, both of them lieutenants. I heard Fred Mitchell is still training in the States and about crazy because they won't send him over yet.

"If you have any idea how glad I was to get your letter, you wouldn't lose any time answering this one. Anyhow, I'm going to write to you again every few days if I get the chance, because maybe you'll answer more than one of 'em."

"But see here, cut out that 'sent you to be killed' stuff. You've got the wrong idea altogether. We've got the big job of our lives, we know that, but we're going to do it. There'll be mistakes and bad times, but we won't fall down. Now, you'll excuse me for saying it this way, Dora, but I don't know just how to express myself except saying of course we know everybody isn't going to get back home—but listen, we didn't come over here to get killed particularly, we came over to give these Dutchmen a—!"

"Perhaps you can excuse language if I write it with a blank like that, but before we get back we're going to do what we came for. They may not all of them be as bad as some of them—it's a good thing you don't know what we do, because some of it would make you sick. As I say, there may be quite a lot of good ones among them; but we know what they've done to this

In a Pinch, Use ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE

What member of the army, navy or the duty engineers, or the quartermaster corps, marine corps, tank corps, medic corps, balloon corps, etc., etc., who served overseas during the World War ever found a photograph similar to the one reproduced here? If that member of the etc., etc., will surrender it to its owner, who prizes it most highly for sentimental reasons, naturally, two hearts will beat violently as one.

The photograph is that of Miss Harriet Flinn of Indiana. It was carried next his heart by her soldier sweetheart, and in the well-known tumult and confusion of a battle around Chateau Thierry, or at St. Mihiel, or in the Argonne, or while his baggage was being very considerably cared for some place far back of the lines, the photograph was lost. Men who went through the same mill will know that neglect didn't lose the photo, but, as some one has so well said, but few girls get into those battles.

The photograph shown here was made from the same plate as the battle-scarred one that is being sought. The gentleman who found it, if any, may communicate with the Legion's headquarters at Indianapolis, Ind.

ENGLISH FAKER HAD GENIUS

More Than a Century and a Half Ago He Made Big Money With His "Celestial Bed."

One of the most brazen fakers in history was Doctor Graham, who, in 1770, opened a "Temple of Health" in London. He had recently come from America and had somewhere picked up an elementary knowledge of electricity, or at least its terminology. He had at his temple a "celestial bed" which, if a sick person slept in it, was advertised to be a sure cure.

This wonder-working piece of furniture was made by one Denton, on Doctor Graham's order. It was beautifully carved, covered with silk damask, supported by 28 glass pillars, and surmounted by a richly carved and gilt canopy from which crimson curtains with fringe and tassel were suspended.

In his advertisement he claimed: "This bed is magneto-electric. In a neighboring closet is placed a cylinder by which I communicate celestial fire to the bedchamber, that fluid which animates and vivifies all." He charged admission to see the bed. To sleep in it cost $50 ($250). Later the rate was reduced to $25 ($125). Graham was a skillful stage-manager and made a lot of money with his "celestial bed."

EIGHTEEN HOURS IN WATER

Phillip Burger, Legion Man of Troy, Wears Decoration From Portuguese Government.

Spending eighteen hours holding to the edge of a life raft in icy water after saving a shipmate's life, made Phillip J. Burger eligible for the unusual honor of a decoration from the Portuguese government and the American Distinguished Service medal. Burger was a second class gunner's mate on the American destroyer Jacob Jones, when she was torpedoed by a German submarine off Lands End, England, in December, 1917. Burger and the shipmate whose life he saved were among the few survivors picked up by a British warship after eighteen hours in the water.

He is now receiving vocational training in his home city, Troy, N. Y., and is a minuteman in the Noble Callahan post of the American Legion at Troy.

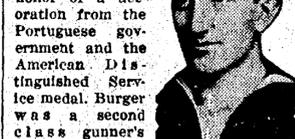

NO JOB, GIVES HIS BLOOD

Former Service Man of Omaha Aids Sufferer and His Own Family at Same Time.

The heroic spirit of man has not always been born under the shadow of awe-inspiring mountains, on the rock-bound coast of the sea or in the busy, crowded ways of a great city. Fred W. Smith of Omaha has never lived in the presence of those magnificent and noble works of God or man. In fact, his days have been spent on an unromantic Nebraska farm, in an Omaha packing plant and in the kitchen of a base hospital in France.

But these things have not kept him from being the true hero. Not long ago, when a man was dying in an Omaha hospital, and the doctors believed that a pint of human blood might save his life, Fred Smith went immediately to the hospital and offered to let as much blood as was needed be taken from his body. "I was strong and a little blood didn't mean much to me if it would save the other fellow's life," he said.

His act gained all the more commendation because he had a wife and two small children to support and was out of a job.

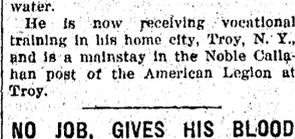

Carrying On With the American Legion

A tourist park for tired Fordsters is projected by the American Legion post of Tracy, Minn.

To give the town a thorough cleaning and brightening up for the summer, each member of the Legion post of Villard, Minn., donated a day's work.

A new definition of the well-known army phrase "S. O. L." has been evolved by the Douglas county Legionnaires of Omaha, Neb. It is "Staying Outa Legion."

At Grant's Tomb in New York a tree has been transplanted from the dooryard of the General's old home in Missouri by the Legion and the American Forestry association.

Thought is Not Really Rapid

Mind Moves Comparatively Slowly, Notwithstanding Expression That Has Become Common.

"As quick as thought" is an expression much used to denote the acme of speed in action, but, like so many popular expressions, this one is misleading. Thought, or at least the mental registering of a sensation, is not an exceedingly speedy process, the thought impulse moving at the comparatively slow speed of 110 feet a second or 75 miles an hour. Light travels only one million times as fast.

Experience teaches people lots of things they would rather not know.

RELIEF 40 YEARS

Tanlac Restores Los Angeles Man to Splendid Health After Every-thing Else Had Failed.

"Tanlac has done me more good than all other medicines and treatments combined, and that's saying a great deal, for I was a sufferer from indigestion forty years and have tried every kind of medicine that came my way," said R. H. Bowron, 1635 W. 17th St., Los Angeles, Cal.

"I could hardly stand the bad spells I frequently had with my stomach. I was weak and nervous, had no appetite, and I felt miserable generally. Nothing I took gave me more than temporary relief and I gradually grew worse.

"About two years ago Tanlac put me in splendid condition and it has been my standby ever since. Whenever I get to feeling a little off, a bottle or two puts me in fine shape. I eat heartily now, sleep fine, have no distress after meals, and, in fact, am enjoying splendid health. Tanlac is just the thing for those who suffer as I did."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

In Sullivan county there are still many rural phones, the sort that when the bell rings on one it rings for all the others, too, reports the Indianapolis News. But each patron is supposed to be honorable and answer the phone only when his or her own call is given. Many, being rather lonely, answer all calls and do the listening stunt to perfection.

A recent graduate at one of the schools received a present from his "girl" and also one from several of the neighbors at the exercises. But when the girl's came he decided to thank her right away. And he went to the telephone and called her number.

He heard central ring her phone, and then counted six clicks before she answered him. He knew he had an audience. So quite politely he said, "Now that you are all together I want to thank you individually and jointly for the nice presents you sent me for my graduation."

A silence, and then gently six receivers clicked back on their hooks. The boy, sure he had privacy with his girl, immediately told her what he wished to say about her present.

MORE ABOUT VACUUM TUBE AS A DETECTOR

How a "Three-Electrode" is Connected in a Simple Radio Receiving Circuit.

Obviously working the tube at a point on the upper bend of knee of the characteristic curve would produce the same asymmetrical changes in the plate circuit by symmetrical changes in the grid potential as it will if the tube is worked at the lower end of knee of the curve. However, the alternating current applied to the grid would now produce a large decrease and a small increase of the plate current; the reverse of that shown in Fig. 9. The objection to working the tube on the upper bend of knee of the curve is that when no potential is applied to the grid a relatively large current would flow in the plate circuit and rapidly exhaust the "B" battery.

Should the tube, by means of the potential applied to the grid, be made to operate at a point on the characteristic curve midway between the upper and lower bends—that is, on the straight part of the curve, symmetrical variations in the grid potential would cause symmetrical change in the

USING ELECTRIC LIGHT WIRE

Experts Tell the Safe Way to Employ This System for Radio Receiving.

Since the announcement that the bureau of standards of the department of commerce had perfected a method of employing electric light wires in place of aerials, considerable experimenting has been done by various amateurs, some of whom have had good luck while others succeeded only in blowing a large number of fuses.

Engineers of an eastern electric light company have offered the following suggestions to amateurs:

"First—Successful results have been obtained so far only with audio bulb sets. Crystal sets receive the signals, but for some reason they are very weak and indistinct.

"Second—No set should be used on this system without air or oil filled condensers, placed in series with either the antenna circuit or the ground circuit—preferably in the antenna circuit.

"Third—A fuse not heavier than one-half ampere should be used in series and just ahead of the antenna connection.

"Fourth—An ordinary separate detachment plug—i. e., one with two blades connecting the two separate halves of the plug—is used. Only one wire is run from this plug, the other binding screw left undisturbed. This single conductor wire should be long enough to reach from a handy electric light socket to the table where the instrument is located and should terminate in the fuse mentioned above. In case an externally connected condenser is used, the circuit should be run from the fuse to the condenser and from the condenser to the antenna binding post of the receiving set.

"In sets where the condenser is built into the instrument the connection from the fuse is run directly to the antenna binding post. All other connections should be exactly the same as for conventional overhead aerial receiving.

"Screw the attachment plug into the electric light socket and tune as usual. In case no signals are received reverse the blades in the attachment plug by simply pulling the attachment plug apart and turning the lower half half-way around.

"Caution—Under no consideration should the connection from the electric light socket be brought directly into contact with the ground connection, or fuses will be blown in the house circuit, and the whole house left without light. Operators should also be careful about making contact themselves bodily with the electric light wire and ground at the same time, in order to avoid shock."

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favor, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.

Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little-ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrup was the sole thought that led to its discovery. SPECIAL FEATURE EXTRAORDINARY

D.W. GRIFFITH

'WAY DOWN EAST

Based on Wm. A. Brady's Famous Play by Lottie Blair Parker and Jos. R. Grismer

It's a simple story of plain folks—the greatest of all Griffith plays—uncommonly well done and with breath-taking effect.

Every audience has set spellbound through the unfolding of this great production.

With its humaneness and its story of unusual love, its thrills and its pathos, it stands alone in the field of spectacular pictures.

The all star cast which carries out the story quite eclipses any cast that ever appeared in this piece on the speaking stage.

Harold... days... that he could be... pigeons... up "Mr. Fish" at the state... and get New York... "Mr. Lyons" to... Only... faith in him. That was Zoe Graves.

"Harold, I do wish you didn't bite so often," she said when they were about fourteen. "You're such a nice boy, Harold, and it's just a shame, the way you treat everybody."

But Harold went on biting, even after he had entered the local office of the National Oil company, which meant, in a way, an assured future, even though he was only getting twenty dollars a week.

Some of the boys were jealous of Harold—notably Percy Spender, who was a rival for Zoe. And there were times when Zoe lost patience with Harold.

"Harold, can't you see that they're tormenting you?" she asked earnestly. "You believe everything—everything!"

"But when they said Jim Barton's child was dying, some one had to ride for the doctor," pleaded Harold.

"And how about Miss Foster?" demanded Zoe. "Why did you go to the drug store on that impossible errand?"

"But Percy said she must have that salve immediately, Zoe."

"Yes, but what salve? Tulip salve. Two-lip salve, for an old maid! Oh, Harold, you're hopeless, I'm afraid!" said Zoe mournfully.

After that Harold knew that she saw more of Percy than she had done before. Even a devoted girl gets annoyed at a butt sometimes.

Harold was planning a visit to New York—his first—for which he had saved up fifty dollars. It was his week's holiday. The day before he left Spender came to him.

"Of course you intend to pay your respects to Mr. Cottoner," he said.

"Mr. Cottoner?" gasped Harold. "Why, he wouldn't see me!"

"He'll be extremely angry if he learns you've been in New York without seeing him," said Percy. "Don't you see, Harold, what a chance it is to get him to make Spoonville the northern state center for oil distribution?"

He expects the local men to come and talk things over with him. Why, I've drafted a letter for you to announce your visit!"

Harold read the typescript. It was a blatant announcement to Mr. Cottoner, the octogenarian head of the company, that he, Harold Straker, intended to pay a visit to New York for the purpose of discussing local affairs, and would call on him at his country home at Millwell Hills at a certain hour on the following Tuesday morning.

"Are you sure he'll want to see me?" gasped Harold.

"Your job won't be worth a week's purchase if you don't see him," answered Percy.

Harold departed, having sent off the letter. Percy and the boys in the office saw him off at the station, and went back, chuckling. Harold registered at a small hotel to which he had been recommended, and went out to Mr. Cottoner's country home the following day.

He was so dazed that he hardly knew what happened until he found himself confronting the aged financier, who was sitting in a pillowed chair in his living-room.

The old man scrutinized him. "Sit down! Sit down!" he said testily. "Now what's this mad scheme of yours for making Spoonville the northern distribution center?"

Harold was aroused. It had been his own pet scheme, and the subject of ridicule in the office. Now he had his chance at last. Forgetting his fears, he poured forth his views: how Spoonville was linked up with so many neighboring cities by trolley and rail road; but a short pipe line branch—he drew a diagram on Cottoner's immaculate blotting pad—would connect up with the southern reservoir. All the while Cottoner watched his face with growing eagerness. When Harold had ended he burst out:

"You're the right sort! I like your nerve! I wish all my men were like you! It's my own plan, and you've said it word for word! I was looking for a man. You're appointed head of the district at a hundred a week. That's enough! I know a good man when I see him! You'll get your letter of appointment tomorrow!"

Harold went home dazed. He went straight to Zoe's house. Percy was there, sitting on the sofa beside her.

"Why, here's Harold!" he exclaimed. "Well, well, and how did Cottoner receive you, Harold?"

Harold saw the blush of indignation on Zoe's face.

"Fine, Percy," he answered enthusiastically. "The scheme's gone through, and I'm to be manager at a hundred per. I'm so grateful to you fellows."

"Stop!" Zoe was on her feet. "Is that true, Harold? Do you mean that you saw Mr. Cottoner, and—"

"Sure it's true," answered Harold. And, with success, the bigger, submerged part of him came to the surface. "As true as that we're engaged. Haven't you told Percy?"

"—so, not yet," faltered Zoe, looking still deeper. "I—I was waiting for you, Harold, doesn't that mean—"
