

BOY KILLED
ON M. C. TRACKS
LAST NIGHT.AD ONLY 6 YEARS OLD FOUND DEAD.Body not found for 2 hours after the accident.

Stanley Policht was killed last evening when he was struck by a train. Stanley, aged 6, had been playing around the barn at his home about 7:30 p. m. and was going with his brother to pick nickerberries. His brother had left evidently without seeing him.

The young lad no doubt thought that the other boys had gone to the creek near by, and he followed. Not finding them there he returned and it was then that the accident occurred. There is a hole in the fence where it is common for people to cross the tracks. This place is about 300 feet east of McKinley st. No one was witness to the accident, but it is thought that the accident happened when a west bound freight train and an east bound passenger train passed here.

Body Thought to be Bundle.

One of the men on the freight train saw something lying on the tracks and when he reached Jackson telegraphed that a bundle was seen on the tracks east of the station. Mr. Smith, the night operator, went out to investigate and found the body. This was about 10:30 p. m. and it is thought that the boy had been dead for about two hours then. The boys skull was crushed and his right arm and left leg broken.

Stanley was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Policht who live on Madison street. Mr. Policht is employed at the Michigan Portland Cement plant. Besides his mother and father Stanley is survived by four brothers and two sisters, namely: Eddie, Emil, Joe, Algy, Rosie and Mary.

The accidental death of their son comes as a great shock to Mr. and Mrs. Policht. Neither of the parents of the boy speak much English and their children serve as interpreters for them.

GRANDPA'S LOST SLEEP

The clergyman's eloquence may have been at fault, still he felt annoyed to find that an old gentleman fell asleep during the sermon on two consecutive Sundays. So after the service on the second week he told the boy who accompanied the sleeper that he wished to speak to him in the vestry.

"My boy," said the minister, when they were closeted together, "who is that elderly gentleman you attend church with?"

"Grandpa," was the reply.

"Well," said the clergyman, "if you will only keep him awake during my sermon I'll give you a nickel each week."

The boy fell in with the arrangement, and for the next two weeks the old gentleman listened attentively to the sermon. The third week, however, found him asleep. The vexed clergyman sent for the boy and said: "I am very angry with you. Didn't I promise you a nickel a week to keep him awake?"

"Yes," replied the boy, "but grandpa now gives me a dime not to disturb him."

AUTO BURNS WHILE GETTING GASOLINE

Fire Caused by Lighted Cigarette.

The car belonging to Arthur Avery was badly damaged this morning when it caught on fire. Avery had driven up to the Palmer garage and was having his car filled with gasoline. A lighted cigarette was which caused the fire. The gasoline ignited and spread rapidly, flames reaching 20 to 25 feet in the air.

The person filling the car had presence of mind enough to allow the gas in the filling station to run out. This added to the immediate intensity of the fire but no doubt saved a bad explosion.

People stand back.

The oil station adjacent to the filling station was also badly wrecked. People were somewhat backward about approaching the fire because of the nearness to the gasoline and oil. Had the fire in any way reached the large gasoline tank under ground the damage would have been over a considerable area. The fire department had the flames subdued with the use of chemicals and water.

EXPLOSIVE FLOUR.

Do you know that ordinary flour, the kind that is used to bake bread, is highly explosive?

Government chemists, after seven years' study, tell some interesting things about it.

Since 1860, at least 85 flour mills have been wrecked by explosions of flour dust. Old timers will recall the record explosion of 1878 when five separate flour mills were blown up in Minneapolis with a loss of 18 lives.

In 1917 a similar explosion in a grain elevator destroyed enough grain to feed 200,000 people for a year.

David J. Price, engineer in charge of Uncle Sam's investigation of dust explosions, says that dust in general is a high explosive. Combustible dust is an unavoidable by product of about 21,000 manufacturing plants in our country.

Terrific explosions lurk in the dust of coal, cork, aluminum, cottonseed, rubber, sawdust, sugar, starch and spices.

Many factories have been burned to the ground by fire started by spontaneous combustion in dust accumulated deeply on rafters.

The housewife, however, can go ahead baking bread and wiping dust disrespectfully after sweeping without fear. For dust, while explosive, is hard to "set off."

The thing that appeals to the scientific side of your mind is the enormous power that must be locked up in everything.

Some day the stupendous power locked up in tiny atoms will be released and utilized by man. Search for this atomic power utilization is keeping many a scientist working overtime in his laboratories. For years it has been one of Sir Oliver Lodge's main goals.

The fact that flour or the dust of such things as cork and rubber contain explosive powers like dynamite suggests that a generation or two from now people may be using entirely different kinds of power than at present.

For all we know, gasoline, coal and electricity may become obsolete, their places taken by a small machine that will release the thunderbolts locked up in tiny atoms. This is visionary, but possible.

MOVIE HOPES.

The worst failing of the movies is not the "sex stuff," the catering to a low curiosity or holding up criminals as master minds, exciting admiration among the imitative young.

All these are bad but worse than any of them is the portraying of the rich man's dissipated son as a hero. The eleventh hour reformation and all's well that ends well, finale are sickening. The majority of these heroes would be kicked out of the average decent home.

The old "Nick Carter" detective stories which used to torment parents might be full of "blood and thunder" and improbabilities but they inspired clean ambitions, for the hero was always honest, hard working and clean. The foul fellow was never a hero, no matter what his wealth.

They say Will Hays, the director general of the movie world has decreed that the suggestive film shall pass out. We hail him for it and the theater owners who asked for the ukase.

It means a tremendous improvement in influences surrounding the young.

RATES.

Barron, financial expert, says: "You could formerly get wheat to seaboard at one third of a cent per ton per mile. It now costs you double. You have in effect doubled the distance when you have doubled the rate."

The prosperity of the people in the interior of America depends largely on the railroads. High freight rates have had the same effect on middle west wheat growers as if they had been moved 1,000 miles farther inland from seaboard.

That is why there has been so much discussion about freight rates. Economics may be a dry study, but it is as vital as sleep.

BREWERY.

In Egypt, 3,700 years ago, an unknown sculptor made a small scale model of a brewery, showing 12 men making beer from barley.

Dr. Fladpeis Petrie excavates the model near Cairo. He sends it to the museum of the University of Pennsylvania.

In view of the fact that man has been drinking alcoholic beverages for thousands of years, is it any wonder we find it so hard to make prohibition absolute in a few years?

RECORD.

All telegraphic records are broken when Edmond Harriman, of Tucuman, N. M., receives 209 words, spelled out, in two minutes and 43 seconds. This happens at a convention of "knights of the key."

Twenty years ago, it would have created a national sensation. Today it gets only brief mention in the newspapers, being smothered by news about the new marvel, radio.

All marvels are comparatively short lived, in our generation.

In selling, too many of us are engaged in trying to steal trade that already exists instead of creating new business.

The difference between what it costs and what it saves is the supreme test of any proposition.

Keeping his nose to the grindstone would be fine if we could only get a mosquito to do it.

If reformers had their way, our national bird would be the sad bird.

Serve others and others will serve you gladly.

How to Make and Use It

By A. HYATT VERRILL

VI. TOOLS AND SUPPLIES REQUIRED

To give an entire or complete list of the various tools and supplies required for making, setting up and using wireless telephones is practically impossible. In the first place, some people can work advantageously with fewer tools than others; some people are naturally "handy" or "inventive" and can find uses for odds and ends which would appear worthless to others; some people must economize on tools and supplies, others can spend an unlimited amount and while still others prefer to purchase most of their appliances ready-made and merely put them together or set them up.

For these reasons, the tools and supplies listed below are only those which will prove most necessary and as their quality, size and number will depend largely upon the work to be done and one's pocketbook, no prices or estimates of their cost have been given.

TOOLS	SUPPLIES
One large screwdriver.	Wire nails.
One hand saw set of awls, screw drivers, etc., or small and medium sized screwdrivers.	Wood screws (flat head), assorted steel or brass.
One gimlet.	Wood screws (round head), as sorted brass.
One hack saw frame and saws.	Washers for round-head screws.
Pin and cross-cut saw.	Small brass bolts and nuts, as sorted.
Mini-saw and nutre-box.	Emery paper.
Chisel and gouges.	Wire of various sizes (see directions), copper, plain or bare.
Three-cornered file.	Same insulated (see directions).
Round or flat file.	Stiff cardboard.
Flat die.	Paraffine wax.
Sandpaper.	Good glue.
Smoothing or block plane.	Sealing wax.
Small bench (iron) vice.	White shellac.
Bits stock with bits and augers.	Either board or bakelite.
Breast or hand, geared drill with twist drills.	Hard rubber knobs.
Pin-nosed pliers.	Flexible insulated wire cord.
Round-nosed pliers.	Porcelain insulators.
Cutting pliers (flat-nosed and cutting pliers combined may be used).	Tin foil.
Soldering iron, solder and flux.	Binding posts.
Tack hammer.	Terminals.
Claw hammer.	Varnished cambric tubing.
Carpenter's square.	Strong twine or string.
Tape, yard stick or rule.	Sheet brass or brass strips (see directions).
Set of small screw-taps and dies.	Sheet copper.
Compasses or dividers.	Adhesive tape.

The list is one of the most useful articles one can have. It is useful in wrapping joints of wires; in covering wires as an insulator; in attaching wires where they cannot be soldered; in making temporary joints or connections; in covering coils or holding the wires on coils in place; in holding parts of cases or boxes together while they are being glued or nailed; to cover a cut in your finger, as well as for a thousand and one other purposes. But do not use the cheap, weak grades of tape sold in ten-cent stores and by many bicycle and automobile accessory dealers. Use a good, strong, rubber-covered tape such as "Tiro," for while it costs more it is worth many times as much more. The cheap tapes, when dry, lose their stickiness upon exposure to air; the thin rubber, if any, soon disappears and leaves only the fabric which is not an insulator; they have no tensile strength, whereas high-grade tapes are exceedingly strong; they are coated heavily with rubber, they never dry up and they retain their tenacity for a long time.

Varnished cambric tubing, known also as "Spaghetti," is the best material for covering joints in wires and should be used wherever possible.

Finally, let me advise you never to throw away anything which you have on hand in the way of electrical supplies, wires, screws, nails, etc. One never knows when such things may come in handy and may be put to some good and useful purpose, thus saving time and money.

FARM LIVE STOCK

IMPORTANT WORM DISCOVERY

Zoologists Find That Carbon Tetrachloride Is Effective in Destroying Parasites.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

The toll exacted from the live-stock industry by internal parasites such as worms is enormous, and because of this drain on the herds and flocks the zoologists of the United States Department of Agriculture keep up an unflagging search for chemicals and treatments that may be used to combat these organisms. Recently they have discovered that a certain chemical once used in medicine as an anesthetic and now used variously as a fire extinguisher, cloth cleaner, insecticide, and solvent for fats and gums, is very effective as a destroyer and expeller of intestinal worms. The name of this chemical is carbon tetrachloride.

The effectiveness of this chemical against certain round worms has been announced by the department, but what may be the most important use has just been brought out by tests on animals infected with hookworms. In the case of sheep the minimum effective dose has not yet been determined, but all the doses used, from 12 cubic centimeters to 48, in each case given in two ounces of castor oil, removed all stomach worms and all hookworms. It has been equally effective for hookworm in dogs and foxes, and has been used with success against some of the various kinds of worms that infest the digestive tract of pigs.

The fact that a species of hookworm also affects man makes this discovery of the efficacy of this chemical against hookworms in various animals of interest to medical men as well as to veterinarians and live-stock growers. Medical men are trying it out at several places as a possible cure for hookworm disease in man, and it gives promise of success. As a result of the work so far completed, scientists in the bureau of animal industry consider that this drug will prove of special value in the removal of the various kinds of blood-sucking worms in domestic animals.

In the Realm of Society

Want Their Skirts. Since Roumania wrested Transylvania from the Austrians efforts have been made to get the men to discard their skirts and wear modern masculine attire. But they have resisted all attempts to deprive them of their hand embroidered shirtwaists and lace trimmed petticoats. They declare that trousers and coats are unsightly as well as unsanitary and unbecoming, and they have given notice to the Roumanian authorities that they will brook no invasion of their traditional habits of dress.

In this part of the Balkans the raiment of the women is no less novel than that of the men. The well to do natives wear garments made of solid gold coins over rich lace embroidery. The coins are handed down to them as heirlooms from generation to generation, the number and weight of the gold pieces being a sure token to the outside world of the degree of opulence of the wearer and an ever present incentive to the neighboring swains to marry them.

A Daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. VanNatter (Hannah Hall) of Kalamazoo are the parents of a daughter, born Thursday, July 5, 1922.

Harry Morrissey Married. Miss Maud A. Willett of Wales, N. Y., and Harry E. Morrissey of Batavia, N. Y., were married Saturday evening, July 8, 1922, at eight o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. David Sikes, pastor of the Strykersville Baptist church. Mr. Morrissey was a former Chelsea resident.

EVERYDAY FISH DISHES ONE may usually find good salt or smoked fish in the markets when the fresh fish are unobtainable. Fish and fish-bone is dried and salted, then smoked, which gives it the flavor so well liked. It should be freshened very carefully not to lose that flavor. Twenty to thirty minutes' soaking in warm water is sufficient to remove the excess of salt. Picked up, added to cream and served with baked potatoes it is very good.

Fennel Haddie With Tomatoes. Take one and one-half pounds of fennel haddie, two tablespoonsful of flour, three tablespoonsful of butter, a dash of pepper, three tablespoonsful of minced onion, two cupsful of tomato juice and two tablespoonsful of green peppers minced. Freshen the fish and cook it gently in water for twenty minutes. Flake it into small bits with two forks, carefully removing all bones. Melt the butter in a saucepan, fry the onion and pepper until softened, add the flour and gradually the tomato juice. Let the mixture boil, add the fish, and when it becomes very hot serve at once with boiled macaroni.

Casserole of Smoked Halibut. Take one and one-half pounds of smoked halibut, three small onions, one-half cupful of carrots cut in strips, six potatoes quartered, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, one and one-half cupsful of tomato juice, four tablespoonsful of butter, boiling water and bread crumbs. Brown the carrots and onions in the fat and parboil the potatoes for five minutes, then drain and rinse them. Seal the fish and cut in pieces suitable for serving. Put a layer in the casserole, then some crumbs and vegetables, more fish, until all is used. Barely cover with boiling water and tomato juice. Put the cover on the dish and bake for one hour.

Biliousness and Constipation. "For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system to do its work naturally," writes Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala. Adv.

HOMEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922

Here was young Jim Jones just went into his back garden to see how his grape vines were coming along, and every one of them was dead—not a leaf in sight. He was sure he had doped the whole thing out so he would have a wonderful grape juice crop this year. He got the finest vines, planted them with the greatest care, and then gave them a dose of manure—he was sure would make them come up great. In the winter months he dug around them, and gave them more manure to keep them going through the cold spell. "Burned up," remarked old Jake when he saw them. "Ain't nothin' better'n manure, but too much kills. Plants are like humans. Grapes most of all—grow best when they have to fight, and don't get rich food too easy."

TEN TIMES BIGGEST CIRCUS IN DETROIT SOON

World's Greatest Amusement Institution Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Headed for Detroit.

Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Day draws near and with it will come a vast circus of "ten thousand wonders" to exhibit in Detroit, July 17 and 18.

This mammoth amusement enterprise of 1922 has been officially recorded as "America's ten times greatest circus." It is a third bigger than it was in 1921. For, in addition to the many innovations offered then, the present season's program numbers ten more trained wild-animal displays—making twenty in all—and the most superbly trained horse acts that Europe has yet produced. The wild-animal and equine displays of 1921 were introduced merely that the Ringling Brothers might judge of their popularity. So, enthusiastically were these numbers received that the famous showmen immediately arranged for the purchase of the world's finest acts of this kind. An entire equine circus was bought outright and brought to this country last winter. And while the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey agents were securing this and the trained tiger, polar bear, lion, leopard and jaguar groups, they had orders to engage the foremost men and women performers of the European capitals. And these stars from city and jungle are all to be seen with this wonder circus of 1922.

Everything, including the great double menagerie of more than a thousand animals and exhibiting such rarities as a myte of a baby hippopotamus and its three-ton mother, is to be seen for the price of one admission ticket. And by "everything" is meant not only the wild animal and equine displays, but the entire circus. More than 700 men and women, embracing the world's foremost acrobats, take part. There are 100 clowns. Aside from the ferocious beasts, the program includes forty trained elephants. There are five companies of trained seals, many dogs, bears, monkeys, pigs and tigers. It is the biggest circus program the world has ever seen, given under the largest tent.

CATARRAH DEAFNESS

Is greatly relieved by the use of the Eustachian Tube. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this inflammation has a running sound or a ringing in the ears, it is called Catarrh of the Eustachian Tube. It is the most common cause of deafness. It can be relieved by the use of the Eustachian Tube.
