GRANGERS ENJOY SPLENDID OUTING

Fourth County Assembly at Pleasant
Lake Draws Big Crowds

The fourth annual assembly of the Washtenaw County Grange was a splendid success, large crowds attending the picnic and programs during the two days' session, some remaining on the beautiful ground at Pleasant Lake, while others having chores to attend to at home made trips back and forth. The afternoon and evening sessions proved the most popular and the programs were attended with interest.

Thursday, the opening day of the Grange Assembly saw the close of the boys' camp of a week, during which 33 boys enjoyed camp life with O. W. Laidlaw, of Ypsilanti and a well known worker among boys, in charge. This day also saw the opening of the girls' camp, 39 attending, the camp being under the capable supervision of Miss Bernice Scheld of Manchester and Mrs. George Sage of Chelsea. Both camps enjoyed the outing immensely.

Opening of Assembly
The Grange assembly opened Thursday afternoon with the welcome address by Mrs. N. W. Laird, of Chelsea, master of Pomona Grange, who spoke in the absence of Mrs. Jennie Buell, secretary of the Michigan State Grange. Mrs. Laird welcomed the visitors and stated it was her greatest desire to see the Grange grow and she believed the organization would receive an impetus through the assembly. Mrs. Laird thanked the Delco company for the lighting provided free during the camp and also Grinnell Bros. for the use of the piano.

Rev. H. R. Beatty of Chelsea responded to the welcome address, expressed his desire to see the Grange continue to grow and gave the invocation. Other speakers were A. C. Graham, field director of the Michigan Anti-Saloon League, who spoke of the growth of the prohibition movement; G. W. Preston of Ypsilanti, lecturer of Pomona Grange, who eulogized Mrs. Jennie Buell, stating she was one of the finest workers the Grange ever had; State Representative Floyd M. Rowe, who spoke on "The State Income Tax."

Mrs. Lee Becker of Chelsea delighted the large audience with a splendid vocal selection and responded graciously with an encore.

The Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce band gave a splendid concert and H. S. Osler, county farm agent, and A. S. Watt, boys and girls' club agent, had charge of the movies which delighted the crowd in the evening.

Friday's Also Big Day
Friday also saw a big crowd on the grounds and the programs were all that could be expected. Marc Cutler, the "Michigan Harry Lauder," gave genuine pleasure with fine vocal solos and the address by Miss Muriel Hopkins, M. A. C. nutrition specialist, was instructive and highly appreciative. A reading by Mrs. Lowry of Manchester concluded the morning program.

In the afternoon Marc Cutler again favored the Grangers with vocal solos and addresses were given by A. P. Sandies, former commissioner of Agriculture of Ohio, who spoke entertainingly on "United We Boost, Divided We Bust," and Hon. Chas. M. Gardner, editor of National Grange Monthly and high priest demeter. The fraternity Grange chorus furnished music.

The Ypsilanti Chamber of Commerce band gave an excellent concert in the evening and two movie plays, "Joe McGuire" and "Henry Buys a Farm" furnished amusement for the large gathering.

Both ball games were won by Freedom, Manchester and Norvell being the victims.

Religious Program Sunday
Sunday was another banner day for the camp, the grounds being crowded, this being especially the case at the picnic supper.

The program was of a religious nature, opened with community singing. Rev. H. R. Beatty of Chelsea gave an exceptionally good address, and a five reel motion picture, "Makers of Men," a religious play, was given in the evening.

Plan to Purchase Picnic Grounds
This evening, when parents go after girls who have been enjoying a week's outing at the lake a meeting will be held where plans will be discussed for the purchase of the picnic grounds.

The picnic this year has been such a delightful and successful affair that the spirit of making it an annual event has grown strongly and the desire to own permanent grounds is general among the Grangers.

The refreshment booth conducted by Pomona Grange did a fine business and the hot lunches served by Pleasant Lake Grange were in popular demand.

The spirit of the camp was one of genial fellowship, making the outing one to be pleasantly remembered.

F. AXTELL APPOINTED TO FILL VACANCY

School Board Makes Choice and Adopts Rules and Regulations at Meeting Tuesday Evening.

The Chelsea board of education held a meeting Tuesday evening in the office of Dr. H. W. Schmidt. The vacancy caused by the resignation of John Kalmbach was filled by the election of Ford Axtell.

With the exception of one of the lower grades, the entire corps of teachers have been engaged for the coming school year and the board will probably have in their hands soon the contract from the instructor for the grade that has not been filled.

The board decided to hold their regular meetings the last Tuesday of each month in the board room at the high school building. The tuition for non-resident pupils in the high school was fixed at $60 and the grades at $35 per annum.

The following rules and regulations were adopted and approved:

Rules and Regulations for Non-Resident Students.

1. Non-resident students will not be received for a shorter period than two full semesters, unless by special permission of the board of education.

2. At the beginning of each year all non-resident students must enroll at the superintendent's office for all courses elected, after which they must also register with their teacher.

3. A non-resident student is not permitted to enter his classes after ten days without presenting a receipt for tuition to the teacher from the treasurer of the district.

4. Non-resident students entering after the beginning of the first semester must pay the full tuition.

5. The tuition and all other fees must be paid in advance to the treasurer of the district for which the treasurer gives a receipt.

In no case will tuition be refunded, unless appeal for same shall have been made to the secretary of the district prior to the expiration of the session for which the student has registered.

Non-resident students who "drop out" or fail to report for lessons will not be entitled to a refund of any kind.

6. The board of education reserves the right to withhold a diploma or certificate from any candidate who is not fitted to receive the endorsement of the school.

7. All enrolled non-resident students must be filed by the superintendent with the secretary of the district within ten days from date of enrollment.

For the purpose of maintaining an efficient administration in the Chelsea public schools your president would recommend the following system to be approved, corrected and adopted by the board of education:

1. That a unit checking system be introduced throughout the Chelsea public schools.

2. At the beginning of each school year, each teacher, janitor and superintendent make and file an invoice of his or her full equipment on hand in the department under their jurisdiction with the secretary of the district.

3. All necessary requirements needed from time to time by each person in the school—teacher, janitor, superintendent or student—be in writing on a regular form and filed with the secretary of the district.

4. These forms to be adopted by the board of education.

5. The superintendent to keep a day book of all resales of text books and school supplies listed. This book to be open to the secretary of the district for inspection each month.

COUNCIL APPOINTS ELECTION BOARD

For Next Tuesday's Election—Water
Rates Raised to Former Rate.

No quorum being present for the regular council meeting Monday evening, an adjournment was taken to 8 o'clock Tuesday morning.

President Wurster called the adjourned meeting to order, with trustees Klingler, Hummel, Fahner and Heselshwerdt answering roll call.

A number of bills read by the clerk were allowed and warrants ordered drawn on the treasurer for the several amounts.

On motion of Trustee Hummel, the clerk and board of trustees were appointed to act as election board for the special election of Tuesday, August 29.

The water rate, which was lowered for the summer months to encourage citizens to sprinkle, was on motion ordered returned to the former rate of 20c per thousand gallons, with a minimum of 50c per month, beginning September 1.

No further business, council adjourned.

CHELSEA LADIES ENJOY PLANE RIDE

Air Passengers From Cleveland to Detroit—Time Only Ninety Minutes

Two Chelsea ladies, Mrs. Verne Fordice (Nee Ruth Bacon) and Miss Beryl McNamara enjoyed all the thrills of an air trip when they recently took passage in an aeroplane from Cleveland to Detroit.

The starting point was from a landing dock built in Lake Erie and they landed in the Detroit river at the foot of First street where they were met by a motor boat and taken ashore. The cabin of the plane will accommodate eleven passengers, but there were but five aboard when the young ladies made the trip which was accomplished in ninety minutes. The average height was about 500 feet during the flight. The young ladies report that the scenery was grand and all the passengers were gowned in their ordinary street garments. The plane makes a round trip every day and the fare for a one way passage is $40 and $75 for a round trip.

SERVE INJUNCTION ON SYLVAN TOWNSHIP

John J. and Austa M. Cox Bring Action to Stop Work on Cavanaugh Lake Road.

An injunction was served on the Sylvan township board last Saturday forenoon to stop work on a portion of the road on the east shores of Cavanaugh Lake. The action was started by John J. and Austa M. Cox, in front of whose home some of the work was done.

The case will come before Judge Sample in the Washtenaw county circuit court on Saturday, Sept. 2.

The complainants contend that the highway is but an eight foot roadway, and that their property will be damaged by trimming the trees and cutting brush, work which the board deems necessary to make the road safe for the public.

The Sylvan township board have entered their appearance in the case and will try to have the road question settled for all time to come.

FORMER LIMA MAN KILLED IN WRECK

Michigan Central Wreck Sunday,
Near Gary, Indiana.

Edward McCoy, engineer of Niles, born in Lima about 60 years ago, was one of the victims killed in the wrecking of express train No. 39, enroute from New York to Chicago, near Gary, Ind., early Sunday morning.

His fireman, Frank Lubbs, of Niles, also lost his life, and several persons were injured. Mr. McCoy left the farm in Lima about 38 years ago and went into the employ of the Michigan Central railroad company. His first run as engineer was from Jackson to Niles, but for the last 15 years his trick was from Niles to Chicago. He was born on the farm now owned and occupied by his brother, Chauncey McCoy and was a nephew of Mrs. Jacob Dancer of Park street and a cousin of J. W. and Miss Florence Van Riper. He is survived by his widow.

The funeral was held Wednesday and the remains were interred at Dexter.

The wreck was caused by a deliberate removal of 27 spikes from one of the rails, Michigan Central railroad officials declared, and a reward of $1,000 was posted for the arrest of those responsible.

F. HESELSCHWERT HURT IN ACCIDENT

Car Wrecked as Result of Collision
With Truck—Stripped by Thieves
Later.

The Chevrolet touring car of Fred Heselshwerdt, of Sylvan was completely wrecked about 2 o'clock last Friday morning when he ran into a Detroit truck that was standing in the highway just west of the farm of Frank Riggs on No. 17 trunk line in Sylvan. The truck had no tail light displayed, Mr. Heselshwerdt claims, but the driver switched on the light after his truck was struck by the Heselshwerdt car. The driver of the truck was in his stocking feet and had evidently been asleep. Mr. Heselshwerdt received a gash in his forehead which was dressed by a local physician. He was brought to Chelsea by Arthur Faust who returned to the wrecked car to bring it to Chelsea after the wound of Mr. Heselshwerdt had been dressed. During their absence some one stripped the Heselshwerdt car, taking the tools, robes, battery, head lights, spot light and in fact almost every part of the car that could be carried away. David Mohrlock purchased what was left of the Heselshwerdt car for $50. Mr. Heselshwerdt purchased a used car and left Saturday morning on a trip along the shores of Lake Michigan.

EDITORIAL COMMENT ## OUT AND VOTE

Today is the day set for the annual election to decide whether the Chelsea electric lighting plant or current will be purchased by the Consumers Power Co. The proposition for the people to vote on Tuesday is an important one. It should have the best attention of the voters, especially the taxpayers. The local situation as regards the long standing, hence it is improper to advise people to vote next Tuesday. But the voters, men and women, cast their ballots and cast the way they think will be for the interests of the city. Make the vote one that will show the majority of the people stand for a few voters with it. Only eligible to vote should vote on this important question. The village officials have deemed it wise to bring the matter of purchasing current from the Consumers Power Co. before the voters for several reasons. First, the plant is over loaded and needs an expenditure of a large amount of money to put it in condition to care for Chelsea current users in the future. The plant has given service for the past 25 years, and is still furnishing current, but at a loss for the past five or six years. The coal shortage will not ease matters, it is claimed. Current can be purchased cheaper from the Consumers Power Co., than the village can manufacture it, is the claim of those who favor the change, and this is substantiated by the report and recommendations submitted by the engineer employed to make a survey of existing conditions. This report was published in The Standard and should have been studied by the people.

As is the case in all public business there is opposition to the change. The most prominent objection is the granting of a long franchise to a corporation. To alleviate this objection a clause has been inserted in the franchise providing for a repurchase of the lines at the end of ten years or any five year period thereafter. Then there is also a certain amount of sentiment connected with the municipal plant and many take pride in the achievement of ownership and past accomplishment, which is quite proper.

The question now, however, is what is best for the future of Chelsea. The matter has been gone into by the village authorities and they have put the proposition up to the voters. Have the voters studied the matter?

If they want to retain the plant are they willing to vote money for proper rebuilding or equipment? If they are interested in the future welfare of Chelsea they will give the proposition serious thought and express their conclusion with the ballot next Tuesday.

DO WE NEED THEM?

And now the state of Michigan, or the state department of conservation, is attempting the task of conserving as public playgrounds the available small lakes, of which there are more than 5,000 in our great commonwealth. Do we need them?

Play grounds are a mighty good thing and we all need some recreation to keep the machinery of the human body in condition for continuing the work of everyday life. But isn't the play idea growing a little strong at this time? Isn't there danger of overdoing along this line to the detriment of the commercial interests of state and nation? It seems the most important thing to be done just now is to help bolstering up our industrial activities—produce more, work more and play less. The Standard is not against the play ground, but rather for it. It is a good thing in its place, but it must not predominate in American thought or activity. That would be dangerous and lead to more discontent, strikes and disturbances. Human nature demands that people be kept busy to keep out of mischief, and we shouldn't force the play idea too strongly upon the coming generation.

LOOKING AFTER TOURISTS

Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce and business men are looking after the tourist. They showed shrewd foresight in preparing a beautiful tract of land donated by the Washington County Fair association for a camping park for automobile tourists who might prefer to camp in the open rather than depend upon the accommodations of crowded hotels.

At the opening night of the park the latter part of the week it is stated fully 150 automobiles loaded with tourists stopped at the park and were entertained with band music.

The idea is certainly more clever than setting a speed trap to secure the tourist's money.

REVIVING BUSINESS

According to information from many branches of commerce and according to approved tests of the state of trade, business in the United States is becoming decidedly better. The movement of freight on the railways is growing in spite of labor troubles, and there is no surer test than that, for it means that manufacturers are selling and delivering more goods. Buying and selling causes money or credits to be transferred, and the clearing-house aggregates show what those transfers amount to. The clearings for the whole country in the first week of July were an eight larger this year than last.

More business than to more letter writing, and the June postal receipts were the largest that the post office has ever recorded.

The building movement is another test in some respects one of the most trustworthy for men do not undertake to build on a large scale unless they have confidence in the future. There has been more building in New York in the last twelve months than in any two calendar years previously. Although complete statistics as to other cities are not available, it is well known that all over the country the building of houses has greatly increased.

Not all classes of business have yet become normally active, nor has every part of the country felt the improvement that has just been mentioned; but if such special and local conditions are not deceptive, if even to a limited extent they indicate a real recovery in commercial, financial and transportation business, the improvement, unless it is checked by adverse influences, will ultimately extend to all regions and to all forms of industrial activity.

Of adverse influences the chief one is the labor situation. It may be proof of the vigor of the business recovery that it occurred when the relations between the public and the miners and railway men were at the worst, for general prosperity is impossible when the coal supply is cut off and when the railways cannot be depended upon for prompt service. Confidence in the future when there are strikes in progress in the two industries that are most essential for the full production and quick delivery of commodities implies, therefore, more than ordinary optimism and is a most encouraging sign. —Youths Companion.

TOURING THE STATES IN HOUSE ON WHEELS

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. McCracken "Seeing America First," Reach Chelsea.

The "house-auto" coming into Chelsea about noon Monday was nothing much to look at from the outside, but it contained conveniences that allows Mr. and Mrs. H. G. McCracken to see the big United States at their leisure and in comparative comfort.

The rig consists of a Ford chassis with a combination passenger, kitchen, dining and sleeping compartment built thereon.

The seats in the vehicle are removable and when stops are made the room is used for a kitchen where Mrs. McCracken prepares the meals. At night they have a comfortable place to sleep and they say their mode of traveling is comfortable and they have all kinds of time to see the country through which they pass. An ice box underneath the running board made of cork keeps their milk and victuals in good condition.

Mr. and Mrs. McCracken left Brownsville, Texas, seven months and two weeks ago, going from there to El Paso, through New Mexico, Arizona, California, Oregon, Washington, across Idaho to Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota, about 300 miles up in Canada and the Upper Peninsula, back through Wisconsin to Chicago, then through Kalamazoo and Jackson to Chelsea. From here they go to Detroit then east to Buffalo, New York and Washington, D. C., and expect to spend the winter in Florida.

They have encountered no serious difficulties during their trip and the repair bill for auto troubles was $18.60. Hotel accommodations have not bothered them, for they stopped where and when they pleased, cooked their meals, and slept in perfect peace.

Says "Magic Valley" a Graft Coming from so near the much exploited "Magic Valley" of the Rio Grande, The Standard questioned him concerning the prospects of Michigan people who invested out there.

"Say," he said, "that entire 'Magic Valley' stunt was a good graft from top to bottom. Those land dealers took people out there and sold them land at from $500 to $800 per acre. I could take them around and show them just as good land that can be bought for $3 per acre. You know, Texas is a big state. They took people down there in the winter time, through the valley at night and plant them in a cabbage patch at a time when you can't raise vegetables up here. You are raising vegetables here; we are eating your vegetables now. What's the difference, whether you raise them in the summer or winter? They're not raising vegetables down there this time of year. Yes, there are some beautiful and productive places in the valley, but the whole thing is not for sale."

When he is really a Michigan man, his home at one time being at Grand Ledge. He expressed a desire to meet Henry Ford and tell him face to face what his little Heine has accomplished.

TERRIFIC RAILROAD SMASH

Head-on Collision Staged For The Movies, Scene Cost Thousands of Dollars for Few Feet of Film.

Some people say that the movies are purely mechanical and that they get few thrills out of the big scenes shown in pictures. Those folk have something coming when they see the terrific head-on smash between two giant locomotives that takes place in the jail delivery scene in "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight" which comes to the Princess theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 30 and 31. The scene calls for a huge locomotive running wild and on which a prison warden is fighting with several escaped convicts. The director, knowing that such a scene would not make anything extraordinary, resolved to stage a real smash-up.

Forthwith two big locomotives were purchased and a track built on the city limit freight yards.

The track was about a half mile long. The engines were placed at either end, and with a full head of steam, were set loose with throttles wide open. With a roar of the escaping steam and the exhausts puffing like mad, these two leviathans dashed headlong at each other like a couple of mad bull dogs. They met in about the center of the span of tracks and crashed together with a deafening roar and an explosion that rent them into a thousand pieces.

Thrilling doesn't describe the scene. It must be witnessed on the screen to be fully appreciated. It is unquestionably one of the greatest head-on collisions ever staged in pictures and cost upwards of $12,000 for this one shot alone.

When you pay $1.50 for a year's subscription to this paper it returns to you fifty-two times in the shape of all the news of this community fifty-two times in the year. No other investment pays as high a rate of interest or bestows as much pleasure.

A. L. Bradburg of Lima, who had his right arm broken while engaged in cranking his automobile three weeks ago, is recovering from the effects of the accident as satisfactorily as could be expected.

P. C. Schable, president of the Farmers and Merchants bank, returned home Saturday from a short vacation spent in western states. Mr. Schable intended to visit Yellowstone National Park, but strike conditions made the trip undesirable if not impracticable. The strike has made train service deplorable in the western states and, Mr. Schable says, newspaper reports are not exaggerated. Referring to the passenger train reported to have been abandoned by trainmen in the desert at Needles, California, Mr. Schable says the story was true and he rode on the train. Traffic all along this line is delayed and it took 48 hours to make the trip from Omaha to Chicago.

BREVITIES.

Illness—About 250 people enjoyed a picnic and annual homecoming and school reunion held here Wednesday, August 22.

Deaths—The F. & A. M. lodge and the O. E. S. chapter of this village held a picnic at North Lake on Tuesday, August 22.

Saline—The American Legion Post here has made arrangements for the dedication of the Soldier's Monument and a Labor Day celebration on Monday, September 4.

Ann Arbor—Mrs. Mary Sullivan, aged 89 years, and a pioneer of Washtenaw county, died at her home here Thursday morning. She was a resident of Seio township for a number of years.

Ann Arbor—Jumping to avoid an expected collision of two automobiles, Louis J. Prochnow of Ann Arbor was instantly killed at Morrison, Ill. Friday, when an automobile driven by John J. Quayle of Haywood, Wis., struck him. The accident occurred about three miles from that place on Lincoln highway.

Manchester—To fill the position of rural mail carrier at Manchester, the U. S. Civil Service commission has announced an examination to be held at Tecumseh, Sept. 8th. The salary of the 30 mile route served by the late John P. Schaffer is $1,980 per year. Here is an opportunity for some qualified person to secure an appointment. —Enterprise.

Ypsilanti—Plans for the big Knights Templar field day which is to be held here October 3, began to materialize with the appointment of committees to take charge of arrangements for the occasion Friday evening. Between 600 and 800 visiting Knights and their ladies are expected here on the above date, and commanders from Detroit, Hillsdale, Adrian, Jackson, Monroe, Howell and Northville will participate. —Record.

Brooklyn—The 16th annual picnic of the business men of this place, Thursday at Eagle Point, Clark Lake, was a fine success. A base ball game between business men and farmers furnished amusement and the picnic dinner was a feature of the occasion.

Jackson—Two suits for divorce were started Friday in circuit court. Etta Whiting asks separation from Thomas W. Whiting on the ground of extreme cruelty; they were married Aug. 9, 1909, at Grass Lake and have one child. Waisille Tyslenko asks for a divorce from Anna Tyslenko. They were married in November, 1906, and have no children. —News.

Milan—The local post of the American Legion will give Milan an old fashioned home coming celebration and a general get-together of old friends and neighbors. Arrangements are already under way and a program of events that will make the day one long to be remembered is being rapidly developed by the members of the Legion. The date for the celebration has been set for Thursday, September 14.

Ann Arbor—The condition of Joseph Seckinger, Manchester grocer, seriously wounded by William Stetmann, who is said to have been shot and arrested, following an alleged dispute over a line fence, continues to improve, according to reports. A charge of assault with intent to commit murder has been placed against Stetmann but his arraignment has been postponed until Seckinger is able to leave the hospital in Jackson.

Grass Lake—The remains of Mrs. Eugene Hooftagle, who died in Jackson Wednesday, were brought here for burial Friday afternoon. Jackson—Milo D. Buckingham and Pearl A. Lee pleaded guilty Friday in circuit court to a charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquors and were sentenced by Judge Williams to pay fines of $75 and costs of $15 each or serve 30 days in jail. They told the court they were holding a reunion, having met for the first time in nine years, and convinced the court the quart and a half of liquor in their possession was for only their personal use. —News.

Stockbridge—A petition is being circulated to try and get the passenger train schedule changed. The plan is to reverse the running of the trains. The one going west in the morning would leave Jackson in the morning and return at night, and the train leaving Jackson at 8:30 p. m. would run west at night. This it is believed would give us much better mail service as well as giving those who wish to transact business in Detroit a chance to get to that city and back the same day. —Brief-Sun.

Manchester—Jackson officers were notified by a small boy that while walking in the woods east of Napoleon he and a companion came upon a small distillery, and the officers started out to see what could be found. Three stills were hidden in a secluded spot in the woods. —Enterprise.

Reid were awarded the prize for being the oldest married couple on the grounds, Mr. Reid being 90 and his wife, 87 years of age. They have been married for 69 years. The Chamber of Commerce defeated the supervisors in a game of base ball, 8 to 6. The basket dinner was a big affair, the park management serving a barbecue lunch. There were all kinds of sports, music by the Newsboys band and an excellent address by Senator C. E. Townsend.

Jackson—Bert Arnst, 18 and Gill Knickerbocker, 17, were certified to the juvenile court Friday when brought before Judge Simpson, accused of having taken 250 grain sacks from the S. M. Isbell store, North Mechanic street. They attempted to dispose of the sacks for 25 cents each at the Stockbridge Elevator company. The boys on Thursday mingled with the workmen of the Isbell concern, and with men employed by a contractor in the vicinity. Their actions led the Isbell people to believe they were employed by the contractor, who in turn thought they were Isbell employees. At night 250 sacks were thrown from a third story window to the railroad below. A night watchman witnessed the proceedings and notified the police. Detective Frank Hoffman Friday brought the lads to court. —News.

PRESS FOLK HAVE ENJOYABLE OUTING

Battle Creek, Charlotte and Agricultural College People Hosts

Michigan Press association members made an interesting auto trip Friday and Saturday of last week—the first of a "Know Michigan Better" series of excursions.

The party assembled on the beautiful campus of the Michigan Agricultural College at noon, Friday, and had a picnic dinner which made even college dignitaries envious. Cold chicken, Miss Hunt's brand of hot coffee, cantaloupe, cherry pie, ice cream, etc., comprised the menu introduced President Fred Keister Friday, head of the Michigan Agricultural College, who outlined in interesting fashion his plans for increasing the net income of Michigan farms fifty millions of dollars in four years' time. He stated that to achieve real and lasting prosperity, Michigan farms must reduce the average cost of production per unit illustrating that in flocks of chickens containing one-third non-productive hens, the drones must be eliminated; that where cows are kept producing only 2,000 pounds of milk they must be replaced by cows giving at least four or five times that amount in order to prove profitable.

President Keister stressed the natural relationship existing between the farm people and the farm college, and the rural press of the state. "The country newspapers stand for clean living and thinking and for the widening of opportunities for the better education of the young boys and girls of the farm—country newspapers believe in the open country, and will fight to keep our most promising productive units—our young people—close to the farm," he said.

After witnessing the Grange championship ball game, and a run around the campus, the tourists headed toward Charlotte where the Rotary Club and Charlotte newspapers spread a fine feast under the giant trees at Bennet Park—110 acres of wooded fairy land dedicated to the use of the people. A dozen modern tourist camps are located here, and the city spends $3500 a year keeping the park fit.

Charlotte's entertainment "was featured with singing by the "Melody Maids," a local organization; and music by the Charlotte Community band, H. A. Higby, leader. Congressman J. M. C. Smith sent the ice cream for the feast.

Charlotte business men and their ladies certainly entertained the press members and their families most royally and the visit will never be forgotten by the participants. Charlotte's community rooms, probably the most ideal in the state, were thrown open to the visitors.

In the late evening, Friday, the M. P. A. crowd autoed to the ever-inviting Post Tavern at Battle Creek. Saturday morning at 9:00 the Michigan Press and hundreds of farmers who were starting on a tour to Mackinac Island witnessed a great review of all the Citizens Military Training corps, some 5,600 men from Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, under command of General G. V. H. Moseley. Every man, horse, tank, piece of artillery, etc., at Camp Custer was out and it was truly an inspiring sight.

At noon the Postum Cereal Co. entertained the press folk with a delightful luncheon, the guests were shown through the private office and art collection of the late C. W. Post—first and foremost national advertiser. The Duplex press factory was visited, there was a drive around beautiful Battle Creek and other fine treats. The Battle Creek sanitarium was as hospitable as this great institution always is to the newspaper profession and then the tourists headed homeward better equipped to take up the duties of their every day work.

ILLINOIS PICNIC AT BRITTON NEXT SUNDAY
The annual picnic of former residents of Illinois who reside in this part of Washtenaw county, Lenawee county and a portion of northern Ohio, will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevenson, of Britton, next Sunday.

Those who reside in the vicinity of Chelsea, came from Saunemin, or places near that village, as did most of those who reside in Lenawee county and northern Ohio.

The following expect to attend the picnic: Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Pritchard and children, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Damon and family of Sylvan, Mr. and Mrs. Bert White and family and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Grubill of Chelsea, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Jones and family and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schommer, of Lima.

How about home-made bread for a change? Remember, "1900" is the name to use.

SCHOOL COMMISSIONER EMMERY GETTING BUSY

County School Commissioner Evan Emmery has started preparations for better school conditions this year and to this end has sent out letters to teachers of various schools of the county. One gives advice as to preparations for the opening of school and the other calls for conferences as follows.

Dexter high school, August 30, 2 p. m.; Chelsea high school, August 31, 2 p. m.; Saline high school, Sept. 1, 10 a. m.; Manchester high school, Sept. 1, 2 p. m.; Ann Arbor court room, Sept. 2, 10 a. m.

Commissioner Emmery concludes his letter as follows:

"You will note that the conference will last about two hours, but every minute will be used. These five places and dates give every teacher an opportunity to attend and it goes without saying that you will attend one. The same program will be given at each. I want to announce 100 per cent attendance when the last meeting is held. This is just an announcement. The subject matter will be given at the meetings."

CHELSEA LOSES TO DEXTER

Good hitting by Dexter sluggers took victory from Chelsea in the ball game played here last Sunday, by a score of 6 to 4. The game was vigorously contested by the local team and no scores were made on either side when Chelsea brought in one run in the fourth inning. Dexter through heavy clouting brought in three scores in the sixth, one in the seventh and two in the ninth, making a total of six, and in the meantime kept Chelsea from scoring until the eighth, when the home team brought greater interest in the game by bringing in three runs, making the score a tie—4 to 4. It then looked like a prolonged game, but Dexter spoiled this thought by bringing in two scores in the last inning and keeping the locals scoreless.

"JOE'S DEAD!"

SYNOPSIS.—Looking over Big Muskeg, a seemingly impassable swamp in the path of the Mississippi railroad, Joe Bostock, builder of the line, and Wilton Carruthers, chief of engineers, are considering the difficulties. A rifle shot instantly kills Bostock and breaks Carruthers' arm. Carruthers tries to carry the body to a post of the Hudson's Bay company, where McDonald is the factor. McDonald's daughter, Molly, sees Carruthers struggling in the muskeg and drags him from the swamp, with his burden. Unaccountably, her father objects to her saving Carruthers. Weakened by his wound and exertions, Carruthers is disturbed by the appearance of Tom Bowyer, Bostock's business rival and personal enemy. Bowyer insults Molly, and Carruthers strikes him. Carruthers declares his love for Molly. She promises to be his wife. Carruthers has to reach the town of Clayton to attend a meeting at which Bostock's enemies plan to wrest control of the Mississippi from him. Molly goes with him. They are delayed by a storm. Attacked by his dogs, Carruthers' life is saved by Molly, who is forced to kill the animals. "The snow, the snow!"

CHAPTER V—Continued.

"I'm going on to Clayton. I'm feeling better. No, listen, Molly! I didn't tell you, but my arm was swollen from the bandages. They had tightened and stopped the circulation. I'm better without them. I'm feeling stronger—and the pain's less. We can go on. We've got to go on."

"Walk, Wilton?"

"We'll walk," said Wilton, rising with great effort. The dying animals had ceased to whimper, and stared at him out of their glazing eyes. Outside the snow was drifting down through the leafless branches, but the wind was dying away. It was late in the afternoon, though no sign of the sun came through the heavy, lowering cloud.

"We'll go on," said Wilton. And, going out of the shack, he unfurled the cord of the sleigh that held Joe's body, and took it in his wounded hand.

"Will, it's impossible!"

"It may be. But I'll try. I can't face Kitty otherwise."

Over the new snow the journeying was not so difficult in their snowshoes, but the drag of the sleigh-ropes up the hills and across the corduroys proved almost impossible. Their progress was infinitesimally slow. The night came down and shut them in. And the nightmare of delirium clouded Wilton's brain, peopling the world with phantoms. He lived over again scenes of the past, and always Joe was of them. It was a night of unmitigated horror to Molly.

At every cache, at each shack, they would stop, feeling the sheer impossibility of going on, and sit huddled in their blankets under the lee, with the drifting snow about them.

Yet always they went on again; until at last the never-ending night lifted. The snow ceased to fall; the dun horizon was streaked with fire. And slowly Wilton came back to full consciousness.

They had toiled up their highest hill, and as they reached the summit they saw the sweetest sight that they had ever seen. For far away was Clayton, over the plain, with its ugly streets and bare, new houses, and the gaunt station buildings, roundhouses and locomotive shops.

They were white as shrouded bodies, besmeared with grime, and Wilton was caked with the blood that had oozed from his wounds and frozen.

"One last try, Molly," he said, "and then they can do what they like with me. But it's you who pulled that trick, girl of mine!"

But as he spoke he slipped to the ground and leaned his shoulders against the sleigh.

"Seven miles yet, and the meeting's at nine," he said. "I can't make it, Molly. I've tried. I've fallen short—just short. A little later, Molly, I'll try again. I'm going to sleep in the sunshine."

Molly stooped over him, and it was a harder thing than she had ever done to try to drive the driven man further. But she knew that, having staked all, Wilton would be content with no less than the sacrifice of all.

"Remember Joe, dear," she said, "and Kitty."

He tried to rise to his feet, but could not. Wilton's mind was quite clear, but his body, driven by his will, had collapsed suddenly like a worn-out horse.

Three horsemen were riding over the plain toward them. They watched them in a dull apathy. Even Molly cared any more, except for Wilton, and he had done all that a man

Police. In the foremost Molly recognized Quain, the inspector who was in command of the detachment at Clayton.

The three trotted their horses up to them, and, catching sight of the coffin upon the sleigh, the inspector dismounted. He looked hard at Wilton, and suddenly he recognized him.

"It's Will Carruthers!" he exclaimed, staring into his face in bewilderment.

Wilton got up with an effort. "Morning, Jack," he said wearily. "Yes, it's I. And here's Miss McDonald. You know her, I think?"

The inspector turned his puzzled glance on the girl. Mechanically his hand went up to his cap in salute. Then he looked at the sleigh again.

"And this is—was Joe Bostock," said Wilton; and all at once in the reaction from the nervous tension, he felt the tears streaming down his face, and could hardly keep his lips steady.

"My God!" muttered Quain. "An accident, Will?"

"Shot!" shouted Wilton. "Some sneaking dastard's bullet in the bush. Shot at my side! The bullet broke my arm after it had passed through Joe's heart, and his blood and mine were mixed together. It didn't need that for me to know that I'll hound the murderer if it takes me to my dying day!"

"Joe—Joe dead!" whispered Inspector Quain, half unable to realize it. Joe had been a very living personality in Clayton. "And murdered!" he added. Then:

"Where are your breeds?"

"Gone! But they didn't shoot Joe, either by design or accident. That's a story you can learn from Andersen, at the half-way cache."

"That's where we're bound for," said Quain. "We're looking for—"

"And by the way," said Wilton with a mirthless laugh, as the relative unimportance of the fact struck him, "I'm under arrest for having murdered Joe."

Quain looked at him keenly, and then turned his glance upon Molly in inquiry. It was plain that he thought Wilton was raving.

"That's true," said Molly. "A sergeant and a constable from the P.S. followed us up to Andersen's and placed Wilton under arrest yesterday morning."

The inspector rubbed his nose in perplexity. "If Will had told me that I wouldn't have believed him, Miss McDonald," he said. "Describe those policemen to me, please."

"The constable was short and dark, stocky in build. The sergeant was fair, with a long mustache—"

"Bit of a squint!"

"A cast in his left eye. His name is Peters. The other one is named Myers. You know them, then?"

"I do," said Quain softly. "Peters is Jim Hackett, and Myers is Tonquay, a half-Frenchman, from the eastern townships. They were discharged last year after a short time of service, as soon as their records became known, and they got away, taking their uniforms and equipment with them. They're wanted for a cattle-stealing job and impersonating members of the force. So that ends that trouble, Will."

Quain nodded to his men to dismount. "Get the sleigh in to barracks as quickly as you can," he said, "and notify the coroner. I guess a half day's extra leeway won't do that precious pair much good. Miss McDonald—Will, old man, you can manage to ride in, can't you?"

Wilton, staggering to his feet, set his face in a ghastly grin. "I've held on," he muttered. "I guess I can hold on for two hours more. There's a bigger thing behind this than you—or I—know just now. I'm going on ahead. I'm all right, and you won't stop me, Jack?"

Austin Payre, the president of the Bank of New North Manitoba, stood at the table. He was a man of about fifty, with a gray, waxed mustache, and gold-rimmed glasses. His manner was pompous, and he was immaculate in his black cutaway, with the expanse of white cuff and tall collar.

"Mr. Chairman," he said, "some of us shareholders have requested that the meeting be called in order that we may obtain certain information from those best qualified to impart it, as to the prospects of the Mississippi line, concerning which disquieting rumors are afloat."

"You have before you a statement of our financial position. It is not the most satisfactory one that could be imagined. Of a total capital of five million dollars, nearly one-half has already been disbursed. The estimate before you provides for nearly two millions more to be distributed over grading, track-laying, water-tanks, telegraph line, bridging and ballasting. Unavoidable, unexpected difficulties have arisen. They tell us that the entire route will have to be re-surveyed; that the swamps are impassable."

He glanced with affected investigation about the table.

"It seems hardly worth while to put these questions under present circumstances," he said. "But we should like to be informed why the surveyors' reports were not properly checked. We should like to know whether it is going to pay us to build a line out into this unsettled wilderness, and in how many years? Finally, we wish to elicit the opinion, whether our interests are in the best possible hands."

"What did your bank invest for, if you feel that way?" shouted an old, roughly dressed man across the table.

"That is exactly what I am trying to find out," retorted Austin Payre blandly. "If Mr. Betts will permit me—"

"I'll tell ye why ye did it!" yelled the old man, rising to his feet and shaking his fist vigorously. "Ye want to get control for Tom Bowyer, so as he'll have another line to bankrupt. Ye know what we all know, that old Joe Bostock never went back on his friends yet. If he says the line's a-going to pay, it's a-going to pay. Ye know Joe and Will Carruthers went up to look the line over. Give 'em a chance!"

Jim Betts, a familiar figure in many western towns since he made a lucky strike in the Cobalt region a few years before, had been one of Joe Bostock's staunchest friends. He had brought in a good many of the investors. Yet now he stood almost alone in championship of his friend.

"If the line ain't no good, what does Tom Bowyer want it for?" yelled the exasperated old man. "Did ye ever know Bowyer want anything that wouldn't pay? Wait for Joe, boys! Ye won't condemn a man when he ain't here to speak for himself? Ye all know Joe!"

"Don't Joe! I want my money!" shrieked an infuriated investor.

Austin Payre waited calmly until the hubbub had subsided. "I move, Mr. Chairman, that the question of the Mississippi route be submitted to a commission of engineers, to be appointed by the directors," he said.

"I oppose ye!" shouted Jim Betts. "I'll fight ye to the end on that. Ain't ye bought every engineer in Manitoba, except Will Carruthers?"

"I beg to second the motion," said Frank Clark, one of the small investors, and manager of the bank.

Jim Betts threw up his arms dramatically. "Well, Joe Bostock, ye'd best hurry," he remarked in a tone of confidential communication. "Where are ye, boy?"

A noise outside; the door was flung violently open, and Wilton stood in the room. And at the sight of him a sudden, dead silence succeeded the uproar.

A Noise Outside; the Door was Flung Violently Open, and Wilton Stood in the Room.

He was mud and blood from head to foot. His face, covered with a bristly growth of beard, was white as a specter's, and the skin, drawn tight as parchment over the cheeks, revealed the contour of the bones beneath.

Wilton strode to the table and flung down a paper. "Mr. Bostock's power of attorney, authorizing me to represent his vote," he said.

He turned to the shareholders, but his eyes sought and held only Austin Payre's.

"We've been to Big Muskeg!" he cried. "We've seen it. It can and shall be ballasted and crossed. No loop about it, and no change of route. Only rock, and more rock, till you shall have a permanent way as stable as the New Northern's. I pledge my word—and Joe's. I ask for your vote of confidence."

Austin Payre, who had sat down, sprang to his feet again. The ringing cheers which greeted Wilton's outburst told him to make a virtue of necessity. Wilton had swayed the meeting. The spirit of success flamed in his flashing eyes and carried conviction in his manner.

"Mr. Chairman," he said in his suave tones, "in view of Mr. Carruthers' positive statement that no change of route will be necessary, of course I am ready now to press my motion. I will substitute a vote of confidence in the present management of the Mississippi company. And, gentlemen!"—he glanced about him and smiled—"in order to inspire the public confidence, I ask that it be unanimous."

"I second that!" shouted Jim Betts, rising enthusiastically.

Half a minute later the motion was declared carried unanimously, and the shareholders clustered about Wilton. His eyes were fixed upon the door, and he was listening for something.

"Where's Joe?" everyone was demanding.

Then the door opened quietly, and a girl stood in the entrance. She looked hardly more than a child. She was dressed in black; her fair hair was tumbled about her neck, and her blue eyes were reddened and tear-stained. She glanced uncertainly about her, saw Wilton, and ran to him.

"Joe's dead!" she cried. "Will—oh, Will!"

A loud cry broke from Payre. His face was transformed; his lips were working with rage.

"You heard that?" he shouted convulsively. "You heard it? Joe Bostock's dead! Joe Bostock's dead! It's a put-up scheme! We've been tricked into voting confidence in him, and he's dead! It's a fraud and a lie! How can a dead man vote?"

The shareholders stared at him. His face was purple, and he seemed near apoplexy.

"Joe Bostock's dead," he raved. "And until letters of administration of his estate have been granted, his power of attorney is worth no more than waste paper!"

"Well, say, ain't ye forgetting that the vote was unanimous?" grumbled Jim Betts belligerently.

"We'll rescind it! We'll take the vote again! Mr. Chairman, I move—"

"Thirty days' notice of that motion under company laws," said Betts. "And I guess we'll have them letters of administration by that time—eh, Will?"

But Wilton, without a word, tumbled at Kitty's feet.

CHAPTER VI

An Unexpected Development.

For weeks thereafter he was only faintly conscious of his surroundings at intervals. Once, roused by some injection, he was aware of making a brief disposition for use at the corner's lugeist, and once Molly's face appeared, wet with tears, out of the shadows, and her lips touched him. But he was desperately ill, and it was February before the crisis was past, and he awakened, intensely weak, but conscious, to realize that he was in Kitty's house, and that Kitty had been nursing him.

Feebly he whispered his gratitude, and asked forgiveness because he had not been able to keep his promise to look after Joe.

"You did all that could be done, Will," she answered. "It was wonderfully plucky, your bringing him to Molly's house as you did. No one could have done more."

He asked for Molly, and learned that she had gone home on the day after he had been brought to the house. Kitty promised to show Wilton Molly's letters when he got better.

"Then you know we are engaged?" asked Wilton.

Kitty smiled a little. "I couldn't help knowing that," she answered. "I'm glad for Molly's sake."

Wilton's mind had been all bewilderment as he racked his brains for a clue to Joe's death. Had he been sure it was murder, he could have gone grimly to work on the solution. But there was always the doubt, the paralyzing doubt, that it had been an accident, and that one of the half-breeds had fired the shot.

Yet Bowyer must have known of it; Bowyer had sent the impostors to arrest him; he became more and more convinced that Bowyer had learned of Joe's death that afternoon at the portage, and had devised the arrest to keep him from the meeting.

Among Wilton's callers was old Jim Betts, to whom he extended his confidence in a large measure.

"Bowyer's guilty as h—!" he declared. "Payre mightn't have known. I guess he didn't. But Bowyer knew, when he had Payre bring that motion forward, that Joe wouldn't return. Put that thought in your pipe and smoke it, boy!"

"Jim," said Wilton, "I'm giving up my life to the Mississippi, because it was Joe's work. And I'm going to hound down his murderer, if it was murder."

"Aye, boy, and go cool about it," counseled Betts. "It was crafty work, but it'll come out. Don't doubt it. And you'll find them two snakes, Bowyer and Payre, under the brushwood. And maybe Clark, too," he added.

It was the middle of February before Wilton was allowed to leave the house. Nearly two months had been lost, and during that time Bowyer and Payre, whatever their plans might be, had had a good leeway to develop them.

"Kitty," said Wilton, "you know everything is in your hands now. You control the line. And I know that you'll stand by the line to the last, because it was Joe's big dream."

"Will, you can count on me to the end," said Kitty solemnly. "I've been thinking a great deal about Big Muskeg, and I feel my own responsibility. I want to see the work, Will. I want to know that you are succeeding. And I'm going to live there."

"—McDonald's angry protest— and then a cry from Molly!"

NEED FAITH AND CONFIDENCE

Positions Open for Newly Trained Victims of World War Before They Are Ready.

That the rehabilitated World War veteran's success in life depends absolutely upon his faith in himself, is the assertion of Maj. W. F. Lent, chief of the employment service of the United States veterans' bureau which has in charge the proper training of thousands of disabled service men.

Major Lent, in speaking before the headquarters staff of the American Legion in Indianapolis, said that the Legion and the Legion Auxiliary had as one of their greatest obligations the task of instilling into the hearts of service men an absolute faith and confidence in themselves and their abilities to cope with life's problems.

He said that the government is to have a place for every veteran three or four months before the veteran is ready to take it. "We do not guarantee that a man who has studied to be a factory superintendent will be placed in that position," the major explained, "but he will be placed in the path so that he can obtain such a position through his own initiative and ability."

"We want employers to understand, too, that these men are no longer cripples. They may be physically crippled, but not industrially or vocationally. When we put a man with one arm into a job, he is as well able, and perhaps more so, to do that particular work as is the man with two arms."

A white wig and a hoop-skirt are not generally considered as part of the necessary equipment of a "flapper" pictured here, however, wore these and other colonial trappings most effectively when she wanted to draw the attention of the public to the fact the Indianapolis American Legion was presenting a historical motion picture at one of the local show houses.

Miss Hilda Scheurer, charming as a "flapper" of 1922, was still more attractive as a "flapper of 1776." The crowds which packed one of the largest and finest motion picture theaters in the Middle West during the entire showing of "Cardigan," a picture of Revolutionary days, which the American Legion is sponsoring, was proof of the fact that Miss Scheurer and her sister "flappers" did a good job of advertising.

It was not the first work Miss Scheurer has done for the American Legion. She is an ardent worker in the Legion Auxiliary.

War Gases for Farm Pests. Gases which were used with such deadly effect during the World War are now being used for the extermination of farm pests. Gases have been used in the West for the extermination of jack rabbits and gophers.

Mustard gas is sprinkled over the paths of rabbits, irritating their feet and causing them to rub them across the face. The poison then quickly becomes effective.

Clock for Airplanes. The air service of the United States War Department has developed a peculiar kind of clock to be used on airplanes. It is said the clock will keep perfect time in any temperature from 90 degrees below zero to 150 degrees above. Furthermore, the vibration of the plane does not affect the accuracy of the timepiece, which has a movement like a watch and is wound by electricity.

Veteran Had Many Relatives. In investigating the record of Benjie F. Taylor of Crystal Springs, Miss., a World War veteran who died in 1918, the veterans' bureau found that Taylor, exclusive of cousins, was closely related to four per cent of the total population of his home town of 1,355 residents. The stepmother and 15 brothers and sisters are each receiving monthly installments of $1.92.

Carrying On With the American Legion

"Standing Bear," a Sioux squaw, presented Mrs. Lowell B. Hobart, national president of the American Legion Auxiliary with an Indian doll during Mrs. Hobart's visit to the Indian reservation in South Dakota.

On a $10,000 wage six American Legionnaires from Dallas, Tex., started to walk from Dallas to New York in 300 days. One got married on the way and three fell by the wayside. Only two reached the last lap of the journey.

A hero of the World war, five times wounded at Chateau Thierry, but without work and with no prospect of getting the government compensation to which he was entitled, Daniel Webster of Philadelphia, Pa., committed suicide and would have been buried in a potter's field had not the American Legion given him a decent burial.

Stomach Trouble Had Him Nearly Past Going, Declares Mowrer.

"Tanlac has helped me to gain ten pounds," said J. E. Mowrer, 157 Park St., Akron, O., well-known railroad man.

"My stomach was in such bad fix that for several days at a time I could hardly retain any food. I had no appetite and often the very sight of food made me sick. I was intensely nervous, too, could not rest at night, felt tired and worn out all the time, and lost weight and strength until I was almost a wreck."

"Tanlac has made me feel like a different man. My appetite is enormous and I haven't a sign of indigestion left. I never felt stronger. Tanlac certainly does the work."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement.

Lawrence COE, U. S. N. HOME ON FURLOUGH

Lawrence Coe, who is in the U. S. Navy and has been at the Navy yard in Philadelphia since March assisting in the work of dismantling naval destroyers, arrived at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Coe, Sunday evening, on a thirty days leave of absence. Lawrence, accompanied by a comrade, whose home is in Cleveland, left Philadelphia on a hike, but most of the distance was covered by the young men in automobiles, the drivers of which picked them up and gave them a lift as far as they were going. Mr. Coe is very enthusiastic over the mountain scenery in Pennsylvania over which he traveled on his trip. From Cleveland Mr. Coe was given a ride to Dearborn by a car driver who was going through to Flint. From Dearborn to Chelsea the trip was made on the electric line. Upon his return, Mr. Coe expects to start on a two-year's cruise in foreign lands.
