

MAN KILLED NEAR DEXTER IN AUTO

Machine Turns Turtle After Detroit Driver Lets Car Pass

William Beamer, age 26, of Detroit, was killed shortly after noon Sunday about one mile east of Dexter on the Ann Arbor-Dexter rd.

Beamer's companion, Russel Reinelt also of Detroit was thrown clear of the car and was rendered unconscious but recovered later and is suffering only from minor bruises.

When the car turned turtle Beamer suffered a fracture of the skull, the right side of his head being smashed.

Dr. M. K. Guinan of Dexter was called and expressed the opinion that Beamer was killed instantly.

There were no eye witnesses of the accident but, according to Reinelt, the car in which he and Beamer were riding was going down the Wurster hill toward Dexter when a car came up from behind and signaled to pass.

Beamer's car was going about 30 miles an hour according to Reinelt, and Beamer pulled over to the side of the road. As he attempted to get back in the middle of the road, his car struck some loose gravel and the steering knuckle buckled, the car turning a complete somersault, alighting right side up in the road.

Both occupants were thrown clear of the car but while turning over the car must have struck Beamer in the head as the entire right side of his skull was badly crushed.

GET CAR OF FISH FRY

The Chelsea Fishing club received one of the largest consignments of fish ever sent here, early this morning when a special car of the State Department of Conservation was sidetracked here.

The allotment was made as follows: Blind, 10; Cassidy, 6; Cavanaugh, 2; Crooked, 8; Four Mile, 8; Mill, 5; North, 10; Long, 6; Sugar Loaf, 7; Warners, 5.

Mr. Staffan had 10 cans of fish sent so him on special consignment and these were taken to Cavanaugh.

Members of the Fishing club were on hand to take the fish to the various lakes. The fry were all good size and will make fine stock to add to the supply in the lakes.

UP GO LIVING COSTS AGAIN. New Tariff Law Less Than Month Old When Sugar Starts Climb and Woolens Jump Upwards.

General Advances 25 to 50 Per Cent. Special to The Chelsea Tribune. By Edward Percy Howard.

Twenty years ago the two great political parties reached the parting of the ways at the sign of the tariff, and it was difficult for the people to form any well-rounded judgment on the subject.

Republican newspapers felt themselves bound to support and justify a high tariff, right or wrong, and Democratic newspapers felt it incumbent on them to shout for free trade and the common people quite regardless of the consequences.

Now conditions have changed. The tariff has been taken out of politics in a measure. True, there remain newspaper publishers who conscientiously believe they serve the country best by the advocacy of the high or the low tariff, and the "tariff for revenue only" crowd; we will always have with us, but for the most part that kind of political bias that has prevented the presentation of facts because they did not fit in with a particular editorial policy has pretty much disappeared.

Clear thinking publishers now publish the results of tariff schedules regardless of political consequences. All of which is introductory to the presentation of a few facts in connection with the Fordney-McCumber tariff that unmistakably point to a quick revival of the high cost of living.

Sugar Starts First Upward Climb. The Fordney-McCumber tariff has been in effect less than a month, and sugar is on the climb. Under the Smoot schedule the price to the housewife is steadily hoisting.

The Pennsylvania Refining Company of Philadelphia has advanced the price of refined sugar 25 points to 6.76 a pound. The Federal and Arbuckle refineries report in New York an advance in price of 10 points.

The West is equally affected. Penn and McCahan have advanced, and Warner National and American have gone up. California, Hawaiian, and Western have gone up to 6.50 seaboard basis in competitive territory up to and including Missouri river points. Plus these advances two other Pacific Coast Refiners are preparing to go to a 6.90 basis for Pacific coast territory and the Rocky Mountain states.

Turning to the subject of clothing, the ink had not dried on the President's signature before The American Woolen Company announced advances on its lines of men's staple and fancy worsted fabrics for next spring. A general advance in the fabrics of other concerns has been made.

Advances 25 to 50 Per Cent When Bill Was Signed. According to The New York Journal of Commerce, it will be no surprise to the trade in general to learn of advances from other sources whose products more directly compete with the fabrics of The American Woolen Company. One man frankly stated he had raised prices on certain of his lines not because he thought it was really necessary to do so, but he felt the opportunity was afforded to get better prices.

Chemicals and drugs have gone up steadily since the new schedule has been in effect. A comparative table of prices existing two weeks before the new tariff bill became law and those now put into effect immediately the bill was signed show general advances ranging from 25 to 50 per cent.

The same story is being repeated in almost every line of trade, and there is no doubt the effect will soon be "forcefully" felt in the general cost of living.

QUINTUS WHITMORE, CIRCUS. MAN DIES. Quintus Whitmore, 74 years old, circus clown, who has been connected with leading tent shows throughout the United States, died at his home in Detroit, Thursday, October 26, of paralysis. Mrs. Whitmore was with him at the end.

Beginning when he was 14 years old Whitmore worked through the various stages of circus life, from chore boy, clown and acrobat to owner of his own show. Many times he appeared in the role of Santa Claus at the Elks Christmas celebrations in all parts of the country. On two occasions he has appeared in these programs before Detroit Elks.

Three decades ago "Quint" Whitmore lived in a modest little home on the outskirts of Dowagiac and spent such of his time as he could in the attic endeavoring to invent a flying machine, which effort finally brought forth what he said was a contrivance that would fly a few feet across the room, but which was of no practical value.

In those years his Punch-and-Judy show and his sleight-of-hand performances, put on in a tent, when he traveled about to the various county fairs, was the delight of the children.

Mrs. George Turk of this village is a cousin of Mrs. Whitmore. Only a short time ago he was in Chelsea and at that time he planned on giving a performance here.

FORMER MERCHANT DIES. Steven S. Gallagher, an Owosso merchant, died at the hospital in that city, Thursday, October 26, of cancer of the stomach. He had conducted stores at Alma, Sheridan, Chelsea and Lansing before coming here. The remains will be taken to Alma for burial.

Mr. Gallagher conducted a 5 and 10 cent store in the building now occupied by Hinderer Brothers Grocery.

Miss Bessie Potts of Detroit, Bernard Cutting of Boreo, Ohio and L. C. Lovell of Ann Arbor were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Storms.

REPUBLICAN MEETING HERE SATURDAY

Only a small crowd attended the Republican mass meeting held in the town hall Saturday night when some of the candidates were here to talk to the people.

State Representative Manyaring gave an interesting talk reviewing the old administration and asked for the support of the people for their reelection.

Congressman Earl C. Michener was the main speaker of the evening. He spoke of the work of the Republican party during the past session: He reviewed the advantages of the income tax, of the ship subsidy, and the tariff question. His talk was very interesting as well as instructive.

John Kalmbach of this place acted as chairman of the meeting.

KLUMP GARAGE MOVES. The Klump garage which has been located on Jackson street in the Conklin livery barn has moved to N. Main street in the Lewis Spring & Axle assembly building, where they are now open for business.

The large building has been cleaned out and fixed up for garage use. The old rubbish and scrap material that was lying around has been cleared away also.

The assembly building is a large one and is well suited for a garage, having large floor space. This will accommodate many cars for winter storage and will serve as a fine workshop. The building is located next door to the municipal power plant on Main street.

NEWS EDITORS OF CENTURY AGO HAD DIFFICULT TASK

Modern Telephone Methods Have Worked Many Changes in Journalism.

With a telephone at his elbow and wire service to every corner of the country and worldwide cable and radio communication constantly at his disposal, the modern newspaper editor rarely stops to count his blessings or to contrast them with the handicaps under which the members of his profession labored a century ago.

The telephone has supplanted the "leg-man"—the reporter who went out on an assignment and hurried back to the office to write it in time to catch the earliest possible edition. The news gatherer now covers his assignment, but saves precious minutes and perhaps hours by telephoning the story to his office, where it is either transcribed verbatim as dictated or handled by "rewrite men" who simply take the details and write the story themselves.

But even the reporter of the old school was an advance over the news-gathering facilities of an earlier generation, when the editor had to depend largely upon the assistance of interested readers for much of the information purveyed through his columns.

The New York Evening Post recently reprinted from its issue of September 22, 1868, an item which illustrates the difficulties attending the task of the editor at that time. Under the caption, "Information Wanted," the article makes this plea to the public:

"The editor has been waiting some days in hopes that some person would furnish him with facts which led to the disaster which on Monday last befell the Grand Tammany Sachem, William Mooney, who lately presided over the Almshouse, in his removal. Surely the citizens have a right to be informed of such things. Will any person, acquainted with the circumstances, communicate them to the editor?"

Another reprinted item, which originally appeared in the same paper under date of July 10, 1826, strikingly illustrates the almost complete isolation of the various sections of the country because of inadequate means of communication. When it is recalled that today the news of the death of any famous man is carried by telegraph and telephone to remote parts of the country within a few hours after it occurs, the editor's comment on the death of Adams and Jefferson assumes added significance.

He says:—"The newspapers of the North and East are filled with remarks upon the death of John Adams, while those from the South are equally engaged with the obsequies of Jefferson, neither section having yet heard of the loss sustained by the other. How much is the surprise at each extremity of the country destined to be increased by the information which is now traveling from the South to the North, and from the North to the South!"

IN GOOD TIMES

The recovery of business this year has extended into that mysterious civilization of the insect world—the activities of bees. Bees have speeded up. And the 1922 yield of honey will be a whopper, possibly breaking all records, if preliminary reports to the department of agriculture pan out as expected.

Next time Willie spreads honey too thickly on his bread or buckwheat cakes, maybe you can check him by telling him this: To make one pound of honey, bees have to carry 39,000 loads of nectar from flowers to hive.

Infinitely patient and elaborate preparations, then it all vanishes down the human throat in a twinkling. Such is life—nine tenths preparation, one tenth realization.

You use the expression, "busy as a bee." But few of us realize just how busy bees really are.

They toil from sunrise until the last glimmer of light after sunset. In summertime, at the height of their activity, the life of worker bees is only a matter of two months.

They foolishly work themselves to death. And then some one else—man, not a bee—eats the honey. It reminds you of the man who slaves himself into the grave, leaving his fortune to heirs to squander it quickly.

With autumn comes rest for some of the bees, death for many. The queen and some of the workers will survive winter.

When next spring comes, the workers will house clean the hive and build new combs cells in which the queen will lay eggs. Then the workers split into two squads, one gathering honey, the other serving as nursemaids for the babies.

The workers are females with their development arrested so that they cannot reproduce.

The men bees—drones—are of little use except as professional husbands, dodging work, not gathering enough food even for themselves. They gorge on honey brought by the women folks and, when not lounging in the way, "show off" by flying around near the hive and making a great fuss about it.

The life of bees is an existence of no permanence, brief, seeming futile. You wonder if there is any purpose behind this intense activity which never seems to get anywhere. Many philosophers wind up by wondering the same about the activities of man.

WORRY, THE KILLER.

Roger Dolan, fishing in Portage lake, Ontario catches a dore—wall eyed pike perch generally and incorrectly called Canadian pickerel.

Dolan kills the four pound fish with a club, throws it in his canoe. Half hour later, on shore, he cleans the dore, tears its insides out. Two hours afterwards, he happens to notice the "cleanings"—and finds the heart beating normally and vigorously as it in the fish. Life still was present.

No one can explain it. But this much is probable: If the dore had the human ability to worry, its heart would have stopped in the canoe or when the insides were torn out. Worry is a sure killer.

EXPECTATION

Henry Ford orders his foremen to speed up production and install new machinery so that the output of Fords will be 6,000 a day by April 1, 1923.

Allowing for Sundays, Ford will be able to turn out nearly two million cars a year, the greatest industrial miracle of history.

Ford is always expecting better and better business. And he gets it—for many reasons, chief of which is that he never hypnotizes himself into stagnation by "anticipating" depression. In the long run, we usually get what we expect, no more no less.

CHANCE.

N. P. Lindberg, originator of the slogan, "Say it with flowers" was killed in an auto accident in North Dakota. As you thought, he was a florist.

His famous four word slogan has sold more flowers than any 10,000 florists that ever lived. And the slogan was not carefully thought out. Lindberg coined it off hand, almost absent minded, in conversation at a national florists' convention.

That is what a gambler calls chance. It is chance, the sudden appearance of the unexpected, that shapes our destinies and makes life interesting. Never get discouraged. Chance probably has something better in store.

INVESTMENT.

Eighteen billion dollars worth is the world's total production of gold since Columbus discovered America.

Only eight billion of this exists as money or locked up in banks and the treasuries of nations.

An unknown quantity is being carried in the form of watch cases and other ornaments to satisfy humanity's vanity. Possibly a third of the gold mined since 1492 has disappeared. All things come from the soil. All things return to it. Small wonder, land is the average person's idea of the best investment.

JUNK AND DEBTS.

The national debt now is nearly two and a half billion dollars less than it was three years ago.

It was cut down $230,000,000 in September, lowering it to $22,812,407,791.

At this rate of reduction, the entire national debt would be wiped out by the year 1950. Don't expect it. Much of the reduction to date came from the salvaging surplus war materials. The junkman has finished the best of the picking.

The Springfield Register, which is a close observer, remarks that few diapers hang on the line where the silk stockings hang.

More than 300 women's clubs agree long skirts are dangerous. Dangerous for women, safe for men.

Besides walking easy, rubber heels protect desk and table tops

CAR WASHING IS IMPORTANT TASK

Mud Should Never Be Allowed to Remain Over Night as It Is Injurious to Varnish.

USE PLAIN EVERY-DAY WATER

Guard Against Excessive Use of Soap and Let Hood Alone Until It Has Cooled—Go Over Entire Body With Hose and Sponge.

There is a proper time to wash an automobile and the work should be thoroughly done. If mud is allowed to dry on the car it is harder to get off and stains the varnish. Mud should never be permitted to remain on a car any longer than absolutely necessary, by any means not over night. All mud contains alkali, and in some parts of the country is almost clear alkali. Alkali has the same relation to varnish as muriatic or nitric acid has to steel. The antidote is water; isn't it simple, plain every-day water right on the tap.

If one expects to keep a fine car looking like new he must be willing to flush off the mud at night no matter how late it is; the work need not take more than half an hour and the work can be done thoroughly in the morning.

The chief faults to guard against are the excessive use of soap, using water with too much force, and washing the hood before it is cooled. In the old days no coachman would permit a car to go uncleaned no matter how late he came into the stable at night. You must treat an automobile the same way if you reach the same standard that the old-fashioned coachman reached.

Soap Injures Varnish.

There are two things that should be remembered. First, that soap, gasoline, or anything like them intended to cut grease will attack varnish if allowed to stand on the car, because oil is an important part of varnish. Second, hot water takes the lustre from varnish.

First of all a car should not be washed out in the sun, because the sun will dry off the water too quickly, leaving water marks; choose a shady place with plenty of light.

Dissolve a little good soap in a pail of water so as to make a soap solution. Have a soft carriage sponge ready. Start with the right hand front wheel and the under side of the fender and that part of the chassis nearby. Let the water flow from the hose in a gentle stream so that it will carry about six inches from the end of the hose. Go over the wheels, etc., first with water from a hose. Most of the mud will come off. There may be road oil or machine oil, which requires soap. In that case put some of the soapy water on these parts, sopping it on freely.

After that has been done start right in with a hose and sponge and wash off. Don't let the soapy water stand more than five minutes on the varnish. Now wash off thoroughly with clean water because all of the mud and grease should have come off by this time. Leave it alone to dry. That completes the right-hand front part of the chassis, and the same work should be done on the three other wheels and adjacent parts. That completes the work on the chassis.

Use Hose and Sponge.

Take another clean sponge and with the water still flowing gently from the hose start at the left-hand front of the body and flow all the dust off. There will be no need for soap because machine oil or road oil is never splattered on the body. After flowing the water on, then go over the entire body again with a hose and a wet sponge and wash it. Go entirely around the car, including the top of the fender to the left side, but don't wet the hood, it may still be warm.

Now all the dirt has been flowed off and the sponge should be squeezed as dry as possible and all the water remaining on mouldings or in crevices should be picked up.

After all that is done, wash the hood and the top of the radiator. There may be some splatters of machine oil on the hood and if there are use a little soap locally, washing it off soon after it is put on. In any case, don't let the water stand more than five minutes on the hood because it has become heated by the engine and the lustre will be damaged.

TIRES HELP MAKE GOOD CAR

Appearance of Machine Is Often Marred By Appearance and Condition of Tires.

Tires tell mileage history more convincingly even than speedometers. The appearance of a car is frequently made or marred by condition of the tires. A new set of tires and a little cleaning up of the car, any old tire men, will accomplish the same results for the old car that a shave, a hair cut and a shine will do for the man with an old suit of clothes.

Lieutenant R. L. Maughan, United States army pilot, smashed all world speed records when he traveled at 245.6 miles an hour for one kilometer at Selfridge field, Mt. Clemens.

John George Mitchell, 45 years old, of Highland Park, died in a Royal Oak-Clawson bus as it entered Clawson. His death is believed to have been caused by heart disease.

Fred Yoche, of Hemlock, was killed when a rifle accidentally discharged the bullet piercing his heart.

Apparently despondent over her ill health for 20 years, Mrs. Elsie Erickson of Manistee, ended her life by burning. She was 53 years old. When found by a daughter she lay lifeless on a bed, her body scorched by flames from the bedclothes which she had soaked with kerosene and lighted.

THE HOME RADIO

How to Make and Use It

XXII. THE SIMPLEST SENDING SET

Although it may be possible to devise a transmission set or radiophone which is simpler than that shown in Fig. 58, it is questionable if anything simpler could really be effected. At any rate, this is so extremely simple that the veriest amateur should have no difficulty in setting it up. It has only two adjustments, the rheostat and the variable condenser. Moreover, it is a very cheap set and, aside from the batteries, there is nothing which need be purchased ready-made (except wire) other than the following:

- 1 Variable condenser of .0005 mfd.
- 1 Microphone or telephone transmitter.
- 1 Rheostat.
- 1 Vacuum tube and socket.
- 1 Cardboard tube about two inches in diameter and about three inches long.

The diagram needs no explanation as to details. A being the aerial, B the ground, C the tap-off of inductance.

The first army aeroplanes used in the Pulitzer air races at Selfridge field near Mt. Clemens, are being packed in readiness for shipment to McCook field, Dayton, O., where they will undergo a further testing at the Army Air service engineering field. It is said by army officers that the winning planes, which traveled more than 200 miles an hour, will be fitted out as regular pursuit ships for experimental work.

Seven brands of Yuletide posters and several million Christmas seals are going out from the office of the Michigan Tuberculosis association at Lansing to its affiliated county organizations. In all the state association will handle 40,000,000 of the health seals. The largest single order in the state is from Detroit, which last year took 12,000,000 seals and this year ordered 21,000,000.

Five tractor plows are ready to battle snow on Kent county's roads next winter. The last one, recently purchased from the government at a low price, was set up a few days ago. V-shape plows are to be placed on the front of these tractors and road officials promise the worst snow that ever has covered Kent county can be effectively removed with this combination.

The One-Call System

MANY concerns who handle doubtful promotion securities have a school for training salesmen to sell the investor on a ONE CALL SYSTEM.

These salesmen are trained in this school to make big promises of dividends and paint such a rosy picture of their 'scheme' that they rush the investor off his feet and make the sale on the first call.

This ONE CALL SYSTEM may be fine for the salesman and the house handling questionable securities but it is usually disastrous for the investor.

When you are considering the purchase of securities of any kind take your time and have this bank make a thorough investigation before you buy. We have every facility for obtaining for you reliable information.

After two weeks, during most of which time he hovered between life and death John Lorish, 33 years old, was removed from a Kalamazoo hospital to his home in Sturgis. The little boy was almost entirely scalped, July 31, by the accidental discharge of a shotgun which tore away the top of his head. Two weeks ago he submitted to a difficult operation by which 12 square inches of skin was grafted from one of his legs to the top of his head entirely replacing the lost scalp. Physicians say he will regain his mental faculties.

"I got tired of carrying my money around," is the explanation of Nathan Rubenstein, 26-year-old Russian millionaire in rubles—for his journey to America. Rubenstein arrived in Owosso faintly attired in a 148,000,000 ruble suit, which translated into United States currency means $28. It was necessary, Rubenstein said to pay for the garments on the installment plan because he couldn't get the entire 148,000,000 rubles into his wheelbarrow pocketbook at once.

Daniel Carney, 65 years old, a wealthy business man of Maumee, O., and his grandson, Junior Carney, 3, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their cottage at Evans Lake, a summer resort 15 miles northwest of Adrian. "She'll cry," Di sobbed. "Then he'll tell papa—and he'll never stop about it. I know him—every day he'll keep it going. After he tells me it'll be a joke for months. I'll die, Aunt Lulu."

"Dear," said Lulu. "Tell your Mother—you must tell her."

Street came in—laughter, a touch of a piano, a chinking clock. Lights started and quickened in the blurred houses. Footsteps echoed on the board walks. The gate opened. The moon yielded up Cornish.

Lulu was inordinately glad to see him. To have the strain of the time broken by him was like hearing, on a lonely winter morning, the clock strike reassuring dawn.

Cornish, in his gentle way, asked about the journey, about the sick woman—and Dwight talked of her again—and this time his voice broke. Di was curiously silent. When Cornish addressed her, she replied simply and directly—the rarest of Di's manner—in fact, not Di's manner at all. Lulu spoke not at all—it was enough to have this respite.

After a little the gate opened again. It was Bobby. In the besetting fear that he was leaving Di to face something alone, Bobby had arrived.

And now Di's spirits rose. "To her his presence meant repentance, re-education. Her laugh rang out, her replies came archly. But Bobby was plainly not playing up. Bobby was, in fact, hardly less than plump. It was Dwight, the irrepressible fellow, who kept the talk going.

PRESENT-DAY ROBIN HOOD IS ARRESTED IN SICILY

Rome. Sicily's modern "Robin Hood" robber, Salvatore Rapisarda, has finally run foul of the police in his career of robbing the rich and befriending the poor.

Twelve thousand citizens in the Didol district, who have regarded Rapisarda as a public idol, have signed a petition for his release from jail. During the war he rounded up hundreds of army deserters, who overran the country stealing and committing petty crimes, and forced them to return to the army or face a vengeance, peculiar to himself.

He was noted for protecting Sicilian muggers, and recently he rescued one from three ruffians in a lonely pass.

About the best way to induce a woman to keep a secret is to keep it to yourself.
