William Lingane Died at Home of Parents, Wednesday

William Lingane, aged 18 years and 10 months, passed away at the home of his parents, Wednesday evening, November 1, 1922, after a two weeks illness of inflammatory rheumatism.

William Lingane, son of Patrick and Lillian Skinner Lingane, was born in Sylvan Township, October 26, 1904. Besides his parents, he is survived by one brother, Leo Francis.

Funeral services will be held from 9 to 11 o'clock, Saturday morning, November 4, at the home of the family, 1201 North Main street. Rev. Father Henry Van der Vliet will officiate. Interment will be in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

ALMOST SPOIL A

LADIES PARTY

Just why would a mere man be so much a mess. The Lady Macbeths were to have a masquerade Tuesday night and it was supposed to be for women only.

Names of every description were and it looked like a hilarious was in store for the women. But when got in there, dressed in over and they caused a good deal of trouble.

One ventured to say anything for time until finally one of the men stepped up and hid the names of the guests. The men left by they were not ascertained any ideas were expressed. At last they left and the ladies party was uninterrupted.

DIVORCE FOR "BILL" HART

Conciliation between William S. Hart and Mrs. Winifred West-Hart is reported to have followed recent arrival of William S. Hart. Mr. Hart and his friends have denied that there is any truth in report that Mrs. Hart ever intended to bring suit for separation or divorce.

FIRE ON STAFFAN HOME

A Chelsea fire department were out at 9 o'clock Tuesday evening on a roof fire at the home of George Staffan on Park street. The fire was caused by sparks. A strong fire had been drawn up the chimney, pieces of the roof were blown off, a small amount of damage was done, the fire being under the roof.

SPARE TIRE STOLEN

A spare tire, rim and tire cover were stolen from a Ford coupe Sunday. The car was parked in front of the Congregational church and the tire was attending church. The tire was made directly under a light.

Seven hangs Hems

Paris—A story worthy of some Twentieth Century La Fontaine comes from Vienna, and is told in the Petit Bleu. There were two brothers who inherited 50,000 kronen each from their father. The elder was a spendthrift, the younger was a miser. The latter placed all his fortune in the savings bank, while the former, following his favorite inclination, provided himself with a large wine cellar, which of course was soon exhausted, leaving only an immense heap of bottles.

Then came the war and the defeat and the fall of the crown. The younger and the thrifty brother found to his dismay, his savings diminished in value to 2,500 kronen; that is a few cents. The elder found himself in possession of his empty bottles. Driven to despair in his own improvidence, he sought to sell them, and he got for them 8,000,000 kronen.

Of course, the obvious moral of this fable is too shockingly immoral to be exploited.

How Not to Take Cold.

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled, becoming the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over. Advise your friends.

FORMER PARTNER BUYS OUT OLD BUSINESS

The business of Updike and Harris, was purchased by H. B. Murphy Monday. Mr. Murphy will be remembered as the former partner of Earl Updike. Mr. Murphy has taken over the entire business and will continue with the work as before. He has kept W. D. Arnold as office manager and will employ the men that have been with Updike and Harris.

Mr. Murphy is well known here having been in business here for some time. The former owners will continue to work on all their contracts until completed.

Mr. Updike will go to Ann Arbor where he will have charge of a branch of the Premier furnace company. Mr. Harris has made no definite plans for the future as yet but will remain here.

PEAT FIRE SCARES

NEIGHBORS

Tuesday evening people on S. Main street became rather worried when the fire that had been burning in the peat marsh spread and came close to their homes. No alarm was turned in although firemen were on the scene. The fire which has been burning for several weeks got another good start and burned toward the west. The large amount of dry material made a bad fire and because the marsh is so close to their property the people along Main street feared that during the night the wind might change and considerable damage done. Luckily no steps had to be taken toward preventing the fire, as a light rain checked it and eliminated any great amount of danger.

SEDAN AND TRUCK CRASH

A Ford Sedan and Ford truck smashed into each other Thursday on the paved road just east of town. The Ford Sedan going east was driven by a man from Chicago, Illinois and another man from Grand Rapids was accompanying him.

The driver turned out to avoid hitting some small pigs that were running along the side of the road and before he could get back to his side of the road the Michigan Portland truck driven by Andrew Turner crashed into the rear end of the sedan. The truck was traveling west.

The sedan went into the ditch and was badly smashed, especially the rear end. The truck was also damaged. The man riding in the sedan suffered two broken ribs, the other people were not injured. A local physician cared for the injured party.

FISHING CLUB PLANTED

MANY FISH THIS YEAR

The Chelsea Fishing and Fish Propagation club received 67 cans of perch fingerlings last Saturday, which were distributed among the lakes of this vicinity. During this season the club has planted 8 cans of brook trout, 44 cans of perch fry, 30 cans of small mouth bass, 2 consignments of bluegills totaling 48 cans and 67 cans of perch, making a total of 197 cans. This will surely be a wonderful help toward restocking our beautiful lakes.

ELECTION DAY TUESDAY

Tuesday is the day, when it will behoove every thinking man and woman to know what they want and then to go to the polls and to vote. Election is at hand and many important questions are to be decided.

The candidates have been on their toes for several weeks now and with an eleven hour effort are endeavoring to line up every vote possible.

A question that is causing a considerable amount of comment is the new state income tax which will come before the people as an amendment, for the legislature to pass upon if carried. Advocates of the new tax say that it is not an additional tax, while opponents argue that it means just added taxation in the long run. Look well at the subject before you vote Tuesday.

Staunch Republicans say that they will vote a straight Democratic ticket while earnest Democrats are going to split their votes. Who knows? But don't forget that Tuesday is the day.

ST. MARY'S SCHOOL

The pupils of St. Mary High school were entertained at the home of Gertrude Young, Tuesday evening at a Halloween party. The house was decorated in orange and black. The front yard and porch were lighted by many jack-o'-lanterns. The evening was spent in games and dancing. Just before returning home a dainty lunch was served.

ATTEND CONVENTION

Mrs. Anna Hoag and Mrs. Elmer Lindemann were in Lansing several days of this week where they attended the State Sunday School convention as delegates from the Congregational Sunday school. Rev. C. S. Risley and family are also in attendance at the convention.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.

A FINE OFFER MADE BY A SCOTCHMAN

This morning as the editor was talking to some men, one of the crowd asked if he were the "sub reporter." His answer was in the affirmative and then came the hottest line of fiery talk that a red headed Scotchman can give.

He wanted it to be understood that his opinion of the S. Main street road was more than words could express, although he managed to express himself very forcibly.

The condition of M. 92 at the narrow place just south of town is bad and any one traveling over it knows it only too well. Some days ago it had been scraped and it was in fairly good condition but the first rain spoiled it all again.

This Scotchman was so worked up about the condition of the road that he said that if there was no gravel available, he would supply it from his farm and if there wasn't enough there he would send back to Scotland for it.

Winter will soon be here and M. 92 is a main road, so that some work should be done to keep it in condition for use during the cold weather.

Randall Parrish

THIS author is noted for his smashing effects and his vigorous, stand-up-and-fight characters. A hero who cannot battle and who, on the other hand, is not tender and lovable in his peaceful moments, has no place in a Randall Parrish story.

He is one of the most popular writers of stirring fiction in the country and one of the most industrious. For about a quarter of a century he has been turning out books with great regularity and the public is always ready to receive them. His best-liked tales are those of the West and those which center about mysteries and amateur detectives. Of the latter class is "The Case and The Girl" which we have secured and will offer to readers of this publication in serial form.

SCIENCE.

Muller, professor in University of Texas, arrives in Moscow from Berlin with an airplane load of flies, which he studies to learn more about heredity.

He is welcomed by Russian fly enthusiasts, who have been making similar researches. The same Russians, under Professor Kolzoff, are experimenting on birds to learn how to prolong life, and getting results.

Are you surprised to learn that science still is thriving in the ruins of Russia? Science is one thing that nothing has ever been able to kill. That's because it's based on the powerful force, human curiosity.

DEVELOPMENT.

Will Hay gathers up a museum exhibition showing the historical development of the movie. The start? Chinese shadow shows, at least 4,000 years ago.

The Chinese stretched and painted a hide and a parchment, before a brightly burning lamp. On this parchment the audience saw shadows of wax figures, moved like puppets in front of the flame.

It took thousands of years to develop that lamp into the modern moving picture projecting machine and to evolve the moving shadows on the parchment into the figures that enchant us on the silver screen. Time amounts to very little, in the long history of progress.

BRAZIL.

The great countries of the world 100 years from now will be United States, Australia, China, Russia and Brazil.

Do you know that Brazil has more square miles than our country? It claims a population of about 20,000,000, which will be 10 times that big when the enormous Brazilian jungles are drained and put to the plow. Men come out of those jungles now with prison pallor, tho they have been outdoors for months. Under the huge jungle trees that interlace to keep out the sun is as fertile soil as anywhere on earth.

American capital will develop Brazil.

LUCK.

Sad days for Pinhas Rutenberg, Russian engineer. He has a concession from the British government for a monopoly in Palestine for the production of electric light and power, with exclusive right for 70 years to utilize the waters of River Jordan and Yarmuk. The Turks may keep M. Rutenberg very busy for the rest of his natural life. Yet when the house of commons voted him the monopoly last July 4, the sailing looked clear. You can never tell what tomorrow will bring forth, anywhere, these troublous times.

ADVERTISING.

Lillian Gatlin, first woman to cross the continent by airplane arrived at Mineola, L. I., from San Francisco. The trip took 27 hours and 11 minutes of actual flying.

More important than her achievement is the purpose of her trip—to create public interest in her plan to have March 2 set aside as a memorial day for men who die pioneering aviation.

Miss Gatlin is a shrewd psychologist. She knows the value of advertising. Her trip was a flying ad.

BOOTLEGGERS.

Prosperous Michael Kulik, on his way to a wedding, dropped into a bootlegger's and had two drinks. He fainted at the wedding. Next morning woke up blind. Wood alcohol.

Three years later, to a day, he gropes into the county records office, says he is broke, has been evicted by his landlord. He goes to the poorhouse at Laurel Hill, N. J.

Yes, "anyone can get a drink that wants it." Mike did.

BUILDING HEIGHTS.

London makes a concession to its merchants and permits the erection of buildings 140 feet high. The tallest building over there is Whitehall court, a clubhouse, 110 feet high.

We Americans wouldn't have anything taller if high land values didn't force us up into the air.

We hear the Ohio politician who doesn't expect to be president has consented to see a doctor.

The stingiest farmer we know about had barbed wire fences so that the birds can't sit down.

KIDDIES SIX

By Will M. Maupin

WE HAVEN'T any "little girl" with eyes alight with glee, And hair in many a dancing curl, Her happy heart carefree, She started off to school today. And mummy's heart is sore; "Our baby's gone," I heard her say; "Our little girl no more."

"We lost our little girl today. With eager, hurrying feet She sped with laughter light and gay. Along the busy street, And watching her a mother's eyes Grew moist with unshed tears. A backward now her memory flies Through quickly vanished years."

We lost our little girl today. With lightly tripping feet She hurries on her schoolward way. Far down the city street. But though the years speed swiftly by, In eternity, She'll be, however, fast they fly, "My little girl" to me. (Copyright by Will M. Maupin.)

ROMANCE OF WORDS

"CONFETTI" literally "confectory," this Italian word was originally applied to the small hard bonbons formerly thrown during the carnival days in Rome, Naples and other cities in the southern section of Europe. These candies are known as coriandoli, and the term "confetti" is applied to the cheaper and more popular substitutes—hard pellets about the size of a halibone which are carried in bags by the masked revellers and thrown from the ladies.

The custom of throwing confetti was introduced into France several centuries ago, and was especially popular at the fetes of St. Catherine (Mid-Sept) and Mardi-Gras (Shrove Tuesday). But the French, possibly because they took their pleasure less seriously than the Italians, substituted bits of gaily colored paper for the hard pebbles or candies, and when the custom was introduced into the United States by the French settlers of Louisiana and other sections, confetti was understood to mean only the scraps of paper.

The amount of confetti used in Paris is apparent from an account of one of the Mardi-Gras celebrations, when it was estimated by one of the local newspapers that 1,500,000 pounds were sold during the three days preceding Ash Wednesday. At an average price of twenty cents a pound, some $300,000 was spent upon this form of amusement alone. (Copyright by the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

XXIII. ANOTHER SIMPLE TRANSMISSION SET

One of the simplest transmission sets which can be devised for really practical work is that shown in Fig. 50. In this set, the only instruments which are required are as follows:

- Vacuum tube with socket.
- Variable condenser of .001 mfd.
- Telephone transmitter or microphone.
- 60-volt B-battery.
- 6 volt storage battery (ordinary dry batteries may be used).
- 2 Fixed condensers of .0005 mfd.
- 1 Modulation transformer or an old type Ford spark coil.
- 1 Rheostat.

In addition, you will need some No. 28 B. & S. double covered cotton insulated wire.

No. 20 B. & S. double covered cotton insulated wire.

- 2 pasteboard tubes 3/4 inch in diameter and 2 inches long.
- 1 pasteboard tube 3 inches in diameter and 2 inches long.
- A supply of ordinary cotton-covered bell wire.
- Aerial wire (No. 14), seven-strand phosphor bronze or copper is best, but plain will do.

Also, to secure the best results, use a counterpoise as described under "Aerials."

The diagram shows so plainly how this set is made that no detailed explanation is necessary. The inductance C is merely a single coil made by winding about 50 turns of the No. 28 wire on the pasteboard tube 3 inches in diameter. The radio choke-coil L is made by winding a few layers of the No. 28 wire on the pasteboard tubes. Inductance N may be bought ready-made or an old style Ford spark plug with the buzzer or contact screwed down hard may be used. In setting-up be sure the primary coil of the modulation transformer is connected with the phone transmitter O. One great advantage in this set is that there are only two adjustments to be made, the rheostat R, and the variable condenser B. In the diagram, A is the aerial, B the variable condenser, C the inductance or helix, D the ground, E fixed condenser, F tube plate, G grid, H rheostat, I 6 volt battery, J 60 volt battery, K fixed condenser, L radio choke, M grid leak, N modulation transformer, O phone transmitter.

Michigan packs of nearly all the fruits have been sold, according to A. R. Todd, Grand Rapids, secretary of the Michigan Cannery association, who adds there are a few small operators who have lost money this year because of lack of cost accounting. The semi-annual meeting of the state association scheduled for November 6-7, at Grand Rapids, has been postponed until later in the month because of the convention of the western Michigan canners the same week.

An extensive road building program for 1923—one that will give Michigan better thorough state-trunk lines than ever before—is planned by the state highway department. A total of 922 miles of highway will be built in 1923, according to present estimates. This will be divided as follows: 252.31 miles of pavement; 30.8 miles of stone (macadam); 449.5 miles of gravel, and 129.6 miles of grading and culvert work. The total estimated cost is $14,522,300.

The One-Call System

MANY concerns who handle doubtful promotion securities have a school for training salesmen to sell the investor on a ONE CALL SYSTEM.

These salesmen are trained in this school to make big promises of dividends and paint such a rosy picture of their 'scheme' that they rush the investor off his feet and make the sale on the first call.

This ONE CALL SYSTEM may be fine for the salesman and the house handling questionable securities but it is usually disastrous for the investor.

History Made When Camera Clicked This Picture.

Thomas A. Edison made a pilgrimage to Schenectady, N. Y., last week, the first in 25 years. He was met there by Dr. Chas. P. Steinmetz, the only man in the world his equal in electrical knowledge. Photo shows Edison examining parts of tree and porcelain insulators shattered by Steinmetz a few moments before with his newest invention—a lightning making machine. It is the first picture of the two great inventors together. It is to be preserved. Edison is now 75 years old and Steinmetz is 57.

INDICATIONS OF CORRECT DRIVER

Something More Needed Than Being Able to Stop, Start and Guide Car Along Road.

SOME UGLY DRIVING TRICKS

Among Most Common Practices That Result in Accidents Are Starting Ahead in Second Speed and Relaxing Vigilance.

The test of a good driver is not whether he is able to stop, start and guide the car along the road, but whether he is invariably considerate of the mechanism of his own vehicle and of the feelings, eccentricities and safety of all other users of the road. If a man drives well in every respect except that he expects all pedestrians to know how to walk, all equestrians to know how to ride, and all motorists to know how to run a car, he is still a menace of the highways.

There are some bad driving tricks which are encountered every time you go out—ignoring the right-of-way rule, cutting corners, swinging around a corner without first going close to the curb, cutting in on the wrong side of a car.

The careless, unmannerly driver is a poor driver, even though he may be expert in car control. The simple mechanics of driving—the steering, the manipulation of gear shift lever, pedals and so on—are easily mastered. But the record of crumpled fenders, damaged lamps, and wayside wrecks tell the story that a whole lot of motor car owners do not know how to drive.

Result in Accidents. Among the most common practices that result in needless accidents may be mentioned the following examples: The first driver, Mr. A., was very proud of the car's acceleration equipment. After being held up by congested traffic he always started in second and was going twenty miles an hour before slower cars had got into motion.

One day he relaxed his customary vigilance and piled head-on into the rear of another car. First result: Two bent fenders and no headlights on his own car, plus two sheered spring clips on the car ahead, totaling a repair cost of $12.50. Second result, arising from stopping too quickly: Demolished rear luggage carrier, and the total eclipse of the lights on the car which bumped him from behind. Because he failed to put out his hand on stopping, Mr. C. assumed responsibility for the damage to the overtaking car—and it cost him about a hundred silver dollars to learn that he didn't know how to drive.

Next in line comes Mr. B. He was such a good driver that he could afford to be careless. He prided himself on knowing the bumps and other peculiarities of all roads in his neighborhood. But one night after a heavy rain he was looting along at 50 miles an hour when his car bounced in and out of a hole which had been caused by undermining water, and he indulged in two new springs and a rather expensive rear axle assembly. He is now a better driver than he was.

Could Divide His Brain. Here we find Mr. D. E. Eff, to whom driving had become like second nature. He could divide his brain into two parts, reserving the one for guiding the car around corners, speeding it up and down hills, avoiding bad spots in the road, and so on, and utilizing the other for entertaining his guests. He could laugh and tell droll stories which provoke his friends into gales of merriment. But one day he glanced around to see how the point of a story had been taken, and just then a telephone pole grew up in what he thought was the middle of the road. His spirit is now motoring down the long, long trail.

Every man possesses something that some other man envies.

"HEART DISEASE" COMMON AILMENT

Storage Battery Is One of Most Important Units of Car, Yet Often Overlooked.

MANY ARE STARVED TO DEATH

To Secure Long Life It Should Be Charged and Discharged Frequently—Careless Owner Soon Makes It Piece of Junk.

It is a very peculiar fact, but nevertheless true, that a hard-headed business man will invest three or four thousand dollars in a motor car and then cease to take the necessary precautions in safeguarding his investment. The storage battery is one of the most important units of the car, yet it is a device which seldom receives the proper attention, writes B. W. Cooke, president of a Chicago trade school. All that the average owner knows about this unit is that it requires a certain amount of distilled water occasionally. I have often seen storage batteries in use that did not receive even occasional attention. Literally they were starved to death.

Heart of Automobile. The battery may be considered the heart of the automobile and when it fails the car stops. When the engine is in good condition it will start within fifteen seconds. If it does not, then the operator should locate the trouble before he abuses the storage battery. When the starting button is pressed, as much as 200 amperes of current may be drawn from the battery. This means excessive chemical action in the battery and if continued for any length of time the battery is sure to overheat.

Sooner or later the battery becomes a useless piece of junk in the hands of the careless car owner. Excessive use is one extreme. The other is when the battery is used but little and the car much.

Charge and Recharge Often. To secure long life in a storage battery, the unit should be charged and discharged frequently. If you should find that you are overcharging your battery turn the tail light on occasionally during the daytime, or even when you leave the car at night. This will serve to drain the battery slightly and keep it in condition.

Always bear in mind that your battery can be likened to a wooden pill. If it is drained too much, it will be like a pill left in the sun; it soon falls to pieces. It is the storage battery man's duty to keep your battery in condition. He is the man who can "pour the water out of the pill and fill it again." Every time you pay him 50 cents it is an investment that pays big dividends. Remember this: Don't let your car have heart trouble.

That the state tax on dogs is mis-treated in many townships was shown in a report presented to the Saginaw county supervisors. The total dog tax collected in the entire county was about $2,500, and of this Saginaw showed the greatest percentage.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

AGAINST THE TIDE

RESISTING you on every hand is the invisible tide which is hourly sweeping humans from their charmed course and carrying them in to unknown waters.

The captives of courage who have gone before, weathered the treacherous current and reached a secure haven, are the only ones who can tell you what this resisting tide means to the young or the inexperienced, or the overconfident.

They will tell you how difficult it is in trying moments to keep your honor bright; how hard it is to steer away from temptation or the habit of loose thinking; and how ponderous it is to avoid the sea of slights when you should keep cool, stand to the straight, course and fight your utmost strength.

You may pass for a hero before the world, but be sure you lost the tide pull your under and expose the fraud.

If your colors are not as bright as the tide knows them.

In spite of his surging voice and shining face it is a restless joy, a beauty of no false, a slight destroyer of ambition and a weaker of hope when your star seems to glow the brightest and you stand pulled up in concert before an adulating world.

Alas! for the man who in such a moment plunges headlong into the tide without first reckoning his endurance. The water is icy cold, swift and treacherous.

How many men do you know who have gone down in such a plunge, never again to show their head? Their pride and pomp, their wealth sank from sight and left only a few empty bubbles behind, bursting and disappearing.

Be honest with yourself, sincere with others, practice the Golden Rule, steer your craft by the unfailing compass of faith, and though the waters swirl about you, your frail little boat will at the end of the journey find a friendly harbor where Truth and Mercy will welcome you and give you peace.

Call out! you who are half discouraged because you are not shining in the show-places, riding in automobiles, living in mansions and blurring your name in the Blue Book.

The earth is reserved for the meek, and this inheritance is for you, for you who, through simple faith are stemming the tide and making the final port!

An amphibious motor car has been invented by a man from Kalamazoo, Mich., and the machine was recently given a successful test. The car has three wheels, the front one acting as a rudder in the water and a steering wheel on land. The machine is propelled by motor or foot power. 1923 Superior Chevrolet 5-Passenger Touring

A glance at this photographic reproduction of the SUPERIOR Touring Car shows why it stands in a quality class of its own—incomparable.

Here is an automobile which anyone can be proud to own, because of its up-to-the-minute style, complete, modern engineering, and the lowest operating costs of any 5-passenger automobile made.

More than ever before the Chevrolet Motor Company has again emphasized its admitted leadership as producer of the world's lowest priced quality automobiles.

The SUPERIOR Model here illustrated, at no higher price than that of our preceding Model, represents the most sensational value in modern economical transportation ever established.

QUALITY has been still further improved by more artistic design and added equipment.

ECONOMY has been still further increased by engineering refinements and greatly increased service facilities throughout the whole country.

PRICES remain the same in spite of added equipment and more expensive construction which have materially increased the average value.

VOTE NOVEMBER 7 for the re-election of United States Senator Charles E. Townsend, Governor Alex J. Groesbeck and the whole Republican Ticket.

SENATOR TOWNSEND is opposed to the U. S. entering the League of Nations. Were we in the League today the blood of American boys would be staining the sands of Asia Minor in a war that would serve only the selfish interests of Europe.

SENATOR TOWNSEND is the National Leader of the Great St. Lawrence Waterway Project, which will give lake ports direct access to the sea. He is the National Good Roads Leader, sponsor of Welfare Laws Governing Child Labor and Virile Worker for all Real Progressive Legislation.

In voting for Townsend you vote for America's best interests.

GOVERNOR GROESBECK is giving Michigan an efficient, economical, able administration. In the past year he and the State Administrative Board have saved the State $1,839,617.63 in expenses. The general tax levy for 1922 is $3,140,489.85 less than that of 1921, and the lowest since 1918. Even greater accomplishments are expected next year.

In voting for Groesbeck you vote for Michigan's best interests.

How Wisdom will Win

QUITE to its amazement Wall Street woke up one morning recently to find Henry Ford the richest man in the world. What amazed them most was that he had grown rich in spite of them. Time was when Wall Street refused to help Ford, when it looked upon him as a questionable risk and wanted eleven per cent. Now Ford is propping up the plutocrats of Wall Street with a loan of nearly $200,000,000. With finer spirit he is letting them have at four per cent.

Mr. Ford made his mammoth fortune in a clean and splendid way. It is no crime to be rich. It is not ethically wrong to acquire the greatest fortune if you have gained that fortune by helping men instead of hurting them.

John D. Rockefeller acquired a great fortune. Much of his fortune was made by the most despicable practices. He brazenly defied the laws of the land. He was not a man-helper. To gain his own ends he would cruelly crush. His ambition was to corner a commodity. He bought up hundreds of patents and suppressed them because they economized for the consumer on oil consumption.

Ford created an instrument. He made an instrument that consumes more Rockefeller gasoline than all the oil-consuming devices known before. By his inventive mathematical and mechanical genius Mr. Ford caused an enormous increase in the Rockefeller wealth. Compared to him John D. was a one-cylinder affair. He is not a loved name. He is not revered. He is a very old man now. His face is crisscrossed with lines. Years ago a troubled conscience overtook him and he set out to square himself. It is possible for a man to do that—that is, if our Christian faith is practicable.

Polluted water will run itself pure; so will tainted money. Rockefeller began his substantial philanthropies by the endowment of a theological school in Rochester, New York. Then he hurried a great university into one city and a hospital into another. Since then he has been bolstering up weak colleges, creating great pedagogical and research foundations, and so on, subsidizing a benignant life-rescue work through bacteriological laboratories, hospitals and feeding stations the wide world over.

With all his undeniable iniquities, the Rockefeller who defied our courts will die. The Rockefeller who is trying to save life all around the world and after saving it to lift it up to higher and finer altitudes, is the Rockefeller who is going to live.

What will Henry Ford do with all his fabulous wealth? Unlike Rockefeller, he has not cramped his character to get his money. He is not burdened with Rockefeller's handicap. But with all Rockefeller's handicap, Rockefeller may yet overtake Ford in the enduring race, unless Ford does more wisely with his great wealth.

When wealth reaches beyond the proportions of supplying rational personal needs, it becomes not an asset but a responsibility.

Henry Ford has proven himself to be 100% the right-minded fortune builder. Future generations will measure him not by his ability to acquire but by his power to serve through giving.

The Rockefeller-Ford race for riches is over. Ford wins. Now the race for wise spending is on. In this great race wisdom will win.

poem by UNCLE JOHN

If there's ever a pastime a feller holds dear, it's gatherin' nuts, in the fall of the year. The forest, arrayed in its purple an' gold, appeals to the hearts of the young an' the old. A call that's resistless floats out from the trees, when the trophies drap down, at the toss of the breeze. O, there GATHERIN' ain't any pleasure that's any more dear, than GATHERIN' nuts—in the fall of the year.

The big, juicy shrapnel, from walnuts ranks—the shell-barks, a-shootin' the roisterer's tanks. The hazel-machine-guns, in hid-away-dell, bombard the invaders with many a shell,—all, army maneuvers, with nothin' to fear—campaignin' fer nuts, in the fall of the year.

Then, forward,—with baskets an' gunnysacks, too,—charge on, past the medder—the fortress in view! We'll pillage the stronghold of kernel an' pod, and win, by the grace of a bountiful God.

Each brown-fingered trooper busts loose with a cheer, when we go after nuts, in the fall of the year.

HOMEY PHILOSOPHY for 1922

DR. BASIL G. GILDER. SLEEVE, 91 years old, greatest of Greek Scholars, once professor of Johns Hopkins University, in splendid health, telling the world does not like to be 91. It is an ugly number. Ninety is divisible by 1, 2, 3, 5, 9, and 10, whereas 91, well, one must multiply the jinx 13 by the sacred number 7, and this jars him. Then the mellowed sage says he grows no less old-fashioned with the years. He loves the classics, but he has learned there is really such a thing as a gentleman. An optimist? No, nor yet a pessimist. He has seen the country go to the dogs so often and come back that he is not in despair. The professor has learned much since he left college and absorbed the teaching of old man Time—don't grow excited.

Mother's Cook Book

It costs a lot to live these days. More than in days of yore. But when we come to think of it it's worth a great deal more.

TIMELY DISHES

WHEN the chicken left from dinner is not enough to serve again, a few suggestions for such leftovers are helpful.

Chicken Custard.

Cut off every scrap of meat from the bones and put them through the meat grinder. Mix the meat with an equal measure of cooked rice, season with salt, pepper and press in a round form in the center of a baking dish. Make a custard using two eggs, two tablespoons of flour stirred into a little milk and a pint of milk. If any cooked green peas are at hand add them. Pour around the loaf and bake until the custard is set. Serve hot.

Chicken Scramble.

Into a quart of chicken stock, boil hot, stir a pint of cornmeal. Season to taste and cook slowly for a half hour, then add any bits of cooked chicken and pour into a mold. When cold cut in neat slices and fry.

Fish Croquettes.

Take two cupsful of cold boiled fish, two cupsful of mashed potatoes, one tablespoonful of butter, one-half cupful of hot milk, salt, pepper and parsley and a teaspoonful of minced onion. Form into balls, dip in beaten egg, roll in crumbs and fry in hot fat. Drain on brown paper.

DODGE BROTHERS BUSINESS COUPE

With this coupe Dodge Brothers have proved once for all that a closed car can be as sturdy and practically as inexpensive as an open roadster.

This is largely due to the all-steel body—the first ever marketed—which admits of lower cost of manufacture through standardized machine production. Unlike wood, the steel surface will take a finish of enamel, baked on at high temperature. This process results in a permanent lustre, and eliminates the trouble and expense of repainting.

The wide straight seat is upholstered in genuine Spanish blue leather, durable and readily cleaned.

Who wants this 4% State Income Tax?

Who started this talk in favor of a 4 per cent Income Tax in Michigan? Listen to this. There are certain politicians and interests in the state who keep their political machines oiled by spending the money raised by the people of Michigan—Money obtained by taxation. These men are always looking for a way to increase taxation. THE MORE MONEY THEY GET, THE MORE THEY WILL SPEND.

This Tax will be an Additional Tax

Don't think for a minute that this income tax will relieve you of any taxes you now pay. It will force you to pay an ADDITIONAL tax of 4 per cent of your income for State Expenses, and the State Legislature, after given the power by the voters, may not exempt as much of your income as does the Federal Government. This exemption can be anything the legislature decides, and probably will be low.

Let's Quit Spending Tax Money

The Great War made it necessary for the State to spend huge sums of money. The politicians are so used to spending this money that they do not like the idea of stopping.

Let's Put the Brakes On Now

Instead of finding new ways of raising money to spend by paying more taxes, let's start looking for ways to cut down on State expenses. Let's make an effort to get an honest, efficient administration of the present General Property Tax. If this is done, we will not need to load our citizens down with a 4 per cent Income Tax, or any other kind of Tax.

Do You Want to Pay Another 4 per cent in Income Taxes?

ON THIS NEXT ELECTION DAY—Tuesday, November 7th, 1922—you will be asked to vote on a proposed amendment to section 3 of Article X of the State Constitution, to read as follows:

Sec. 3. Provision may be made by law for a tax of not to exceed four per centum upon or with respect to the net gains, profits and incomes, from whatever source derived, which tax may be graduated and progressive and which may provide for reasonable exemptions. For the purposes of such tax; property and persons, firms and corporations upon which such tax may operate may be classified. This proposed amendment, if adopted, will authorize the enactment of an income tax law providing for a tax of not to exceed four per centum upon net gains, profits and incomes, and provided for a classification of property and persons upon which such tax may operate.

Do You Own Your Own Home or Farm?

If you own your home, you certainly do not want to pay any more Taxes to the State, do you? Remember—if the people of Michigan vote for this amendment, to the Constitution, allowing the State to enact the 4 per cent Income Tax Law, THERE IS NO GUARANTEE THAT ANY OF THE TAXES NOW EXISTING WILL BE REDUCED. The Legislature can easily find new ways to spend any additional money that is voted to it. Remember—this 4 per cent Tax will affect you, whether you are a farmer, laborer, merchant, or manufacturer, no one escapes it.

Help Keep Taxes Down

Instead of helping to raise taxes. Vote NO on this amendment.

New York, Massachusetts, and Wisconsin are the three leading states that now have a State Income Tax. What is the result? The PER CAPITA TAX in New York is $90 for each man, woman and child. In Massachusetts it is $60, in Wisconsin it is $51. Michigan and the neighboring states of Ohio and Illinois have a general property tax, and taxes are much less. In Illinois it is $46.00 for each man, woman and child; in Ohio $44, and in Michigan it is $43.02. Why raise more money just to spend it?

The Big Thing To Remember

After all is said and done, is that the 4 per cent Income Tax is JUST ANOTHER WAY TO PROVIDE AN EXTRA-VAGANT STATE LEGISLATURE WITH EASY MONEY TO SPEND.

Are you willing to give up still more of your earnings? Do you intend to sit idly by to defeat it? Next Tuesday go to the Voting Booth, and vote NO. Be sure that you do not permit this thing to go through without fighting it. There is just one sure way—Vote "NO." Tell all your friends to vote "NO."

Lulu smiled faintly and shook her head.
"Dwight," said Ina, reasonably, "she knows what's in it and we don't. Hurry up."

"She is," said Dwight, after a pause, "an ungrateful woman."
He opened the letter, saw the clipping, the avowed, with its facts.

"A-ha!" said he. "So after having been absent with my brother for a month, you find that you were not married to him."

Lulu spoke her exceeding triumph. "You see, Dwight," she said, "he told the truth. He had another wife. He didn't just leave me."

Dwight instantly cried: "But this seems to me to make you considerably worse off than if he had."

"Oh, no," Lulu said serenely. "No. Why? You know how it all came about. He was used to thinking of his wife as dead. If he hadn't—hadn't liked me, he wouldn't have told me. You see that, don't you?"

Dwight laughed. "That your apology," he asked.
She said nothing.

"Look here, Lulu," he went on, "this is a bad business. The less you say about it the better, for all our sakes—you see that, don't you?"

"I want the people to know the truth," Lulu said.
"But it's nobody's business but our business. I take it you don't intend to sue Ninian?"

"Sue him? Oh, no!"
"Then, for all our sakes, let's drop the matter. Tell you, Lulu, here are three of us. Our interests are the same in this thing—only Ninian is our relative and he's nothing to you now, is he?"

"Why, no," said Lulu in surprise.
"Very well. Let's have a vote. Your snap judgment is to tell this disgraceful fact broadcast. Mine is, least said is soonest mended. What do you say, Ina—considering Di and all?"

"My poor, poor sister!" Ina said. She struck together her little plump hands. "Oh, Dwight—when I think of it! What have I done—what have we done—that I should have a good, kind, loving husband—so protected, so loved, when other women—

Dwight said, "You know how sorry I am—we all are."

Lulu stood up. Her white shawl slipped to the floor. Her hands were stiffly joined.

"Then," she said, "give me the only thing I've got—that's my pride. My pride—that he didn't want to get rid of me."

"You can't help that," said Lulu.
"But I want you to help it. I want you to promise me that you won't shame us like this before all our friends."

"You want me to promise what?"
"I want you—I ask you," Dwight said with an effort, "to promise me that you will keep this with us—a family secret."

"No," Lulu cried. "No, I won't do it! I won't do it! I won't do it!"
It was like some cruel chant, knowing only two tones. She threw out her hands, her wrists long and dark on her blue skirt.

"Can't you understand anything?" she asked. "I've lived here all my life—on your money. I've not been strong enough to work, they say—well, but I've been strong enough to be a hired girl in your house—and I've been glad to pay for my keep."

"Well, then I get a little something, same as other folks. I thought I was married and I went off on the train and he bought me things and I saw the different towns. And then it was all a mistake. I didn't have any of it. I came back here and went in to your kitchen again—I don't know why I came back. I suppose because I'm most thirty-four and new things ain't so easy any more—but what have I got—or what'll I ever have? And now you want to put on to me having folks look at me and think he ran off and left me, and having 'em all wonder. . . I can't stand it. I can't stand it. I can't."

"You'd rather they'd know he fooled you, when he had another wife?" Dwight sneered.

"Yes! Because he wanted me. How do I know—maybe he wanted me only just because he was lonesome, the way I was. I don't care why! And I won't have folks think he went and left me."

"When a family once gets talked about for any reason—," said Ina and shuddered.

"I'm talked about now!"
"But nothing that you could help. If he got tired of you, you couldn't help it. That's the way it was. Dwight's."

"No," Lulu said, "I couldn't help that. And I couldn't help his other wife, either."

"Blessing," said Dwight, "that's a crime."

"Yes, damn-it, crime," said Ina.
"Blessing," said Dwight, "disgraces everybody it touches."

"Even Di," Lulu said.
"Lulu," said Dwight, "on Di's account, will you promise me to let this thing rest with us three?"

"I suppose so," said Lulu quietly.
"You will?"
"I suppose so," said Lulu.

Ina, pink from her little gust of sobbing, went to her, kissed her, her trim tan tailor suit against Lulu's blue corset.

"My sweet, self-sacrificing sister," she murmured.
"Oh, stop that!" Lulu said.

Dwight took her hand, lying limply in his. "I can now," he said, "cover back the matter of the letter."

Lulu threw back her head and her hair behind her ears, swallowed, and cried out.

"Don't you go around pitying me! I'll have you know I'm glad the whole thing happened!"

It was not yet nine o'clock in a vivid morning. Cornish had his home and sidewalk sprinkled, his red and blue plush slippers dusted. He sat at a folding table well back in the store, and opened a law book.

For half-an-hour he read. Then he found himself looking off the page, startled by a reflection which always stabbed him anew: Was he really getting anywhere with his law?

And where did he really hope to get? Of late when he awoke at night this question had stood by the cot, waiting.

It was behind that curtain that this unreasoning question usually attacked him, when his faint, wavering shadow had died upon the wall and the faint smell of the extinguished lamp went with him to his bed; or when he walked before any sign of dawn. In the mornings all was cheerful and contented—the question had not before attacked him among his red and blue plush slippers, his golden oak and mahogany cases, of a washing morning.

A step at his door set him flying. He wanted passionately to sell a piano. "Well," he cried, when he saw his visitor.

It was Lulu, in her dark red suit and her filled hat.
"You're out early," said he, participating in the village chorus of this bright challenge at this hour.

"Oh, no," said Lulu.
He looked out the window, pretending to be caught by something passing, turned to see if the better.

"Oh, how'd you get along last night?" he asked, and wondered why he had not thought to say it before.

"All right, thank you," said Lulu.
"Was he about the letter, you know?"

"Yes," she said, "but that didn't matter. You'll be sure," she added, "not to say anything about what was in the letter?"

"Why, not till you tell me I can," said Cornish, "but won't everybody know now?"

"No," Lulu said.
At this he had no more to say, and feeling his speculation in his eyes, dropped them to a piano seat from which he began flicking invisible specks.

"It came to tell you good-by," Lulu said.
"Good-by!"

"Yes, I'm going off—for a while. My watch's in the bakery—I had my breakfast in the bakery."

"Say!" Cornish cried warmly, "then everything wasn't all right last night?"
"As right as it can ever be with me," she told him. "Oh, yes. Dwight forgave me."

"Forgave you?"
She smiled, and trembled.
"Look here," said Cornish, "you come here and sit down and tell me about this."

He led her to the folding table, as the only social spot in that vast area of his, seated her in the one chair, and for himself brought up a piano stool. But after all she told him nothing. She merely took the comfort of his kindly indignation.

"It came out all right," she said only. "But I won't stay there any more. I can't do that."

"Then what are you going to do?"
"In Milton yesterday," she said, "I saw an advertisement in the hotel—they wanted a chambermaid."

"Oh, Miss Bett!" he cried. At that name she flushed. "Why?" said Cornish. "You must have been coming from Milton yesterday when I saw you. I noticed Miss Di had her hair cut. He, stopped, stated, 'You brought her back?' he desired every thing."

"Oh!" said Lulu. "Oh, no—I mean—"

Thomas L. Handy, railroad builder and operator, coal operator and manufacturer and one of the men who, in the last 18 years, has had a great deal to do with the development of Day City, died at his home there after an illness of several weeks. Handy came to Day City about 1885, as a youth and engaged in the box manufacturing business.

In response to the expression of the community, Representative Cramton named George Moffat, of Sandusky, acting postmaster of that city. John Moffat, 42 years old, had been appointed to the office and was to have taken it over October 16. He was stricken with typhoid fever and died October 17.

Superintendent Frank Cody, in report to the board of education, Detroit, stated that the membership of the public schools is 143,492, the greatest number in the history of the city.

A free site to be used as a park has been offered the city of Flint, provided the ground, which was a public dump on Third avenue, is cleaned up.

Judge Frank L. Goyert in circuit court in Pontiac expressed disapproval of the "Kangaroo court" as an institution in the county jail. Wilfred Griffith was before the court charged with failure to pay alimony to his divorced wife. Griffith said the Kangaroo court had taken $5 as a "contribution" while he was in jail. The circuit judge overruled the decision of the Kangaroo judge and ordered return of the money and its payment to Mr. Griffith.
