M. W. MCCLURE BUYS CHELSEA STANDARD

Health Conditions Responsible for Retirement of E. H. Ahrens.

With this issue of The Chelsea Standard ownership reverts to M. W.
McClure, from whom the business was purchased by E. H. Ahrens last June.

Impaired health made it advisable for Mr. Ahrens to relinquish business responsibilities and he expects to take a rest from the cares of newspaper publishing until fully recuperated.

Mr. McClure is an energetic young man, well known by the people of this community and an introduction by the writer would be entirely superfluous. He was successful in publishing The Standard, giving the people of the community a good, clean paper.

Within the past six months new equipment has been added—a big newspress, new type, casting box, saw and trimmer—increasing the facilities to no small extent.

The Chelsea Standard is one of the oldest newspapers in Washtenaw county, being a continuation of the Chelsea Herald established in 1871, and among the list of subscribers are still names of persons who have taken the paper since its origin over half a century ago. Its good clean news service has made it a household necessity to the families of Chelsea and surrounding territory.

PIONEER LADY GOES TO REWARD

ters Eternal Sleep Saturday.

Ann Arbor with her parents in 1853, where she attended school and was a teacher until her marriage in 1864 to Rev. Aaron A. Watkins, of Nagawanna, Michigan. On the death of her husband in 1887 she returned to Ann Arbor.

In 1880 she was several months in Colorado, gratifying her lifelong desire of painting from nature. Painting was always her great pleasure until failing health prevented, and her nephews and nieces will enjoy the work of her brush for many years to come.

She took up government land in Dakota, bravely enduring the struggle of a pioneer. She also lived a few years in southern California.

In January, 1891, she was married at the home of her sister, Mrs. Jay Everett, to Clement E. Thompson, city recorder of Battle Creek, a lover of early life, who died at Matawan, Michigan, in 1898.

She spent the next few years with her two sisters, Mrs. E. A. Nordman and Mrs. Jay Everett until their deaths. The past ten years she resided in Chelsea and was a consistent member of the Methodist church.
She was a brave little woman and through all the many walks of life kept a smiling face. The funeral service was held Monday at two o'clock, Rev. C. L. Adams of Hudson officiating. Burial at Grass Lake.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

MR. ADLER EXPLAINS

In our issue of November 2 we discussed in this column the telephone service, mainly in regard to obtaining information from the local exchange the location of a fire when an alarm is given. We expected to hear from Chas. A. Adler, district manager of the Michigan Telephone company. Our expectations were realized and a pleasant visit resulted.

In the interview that ensued Mr. Adler stated his side of the case as follows:

"It is our aim to furnish a service satisfactory to our patrons in every community where we operate. In so doing, it may be that we sometimes make mistakes and, perhaps, sometimes misinterpret the demands of our subscribers or the public in general. However that may be, we have come to believe that we can best serve the community by confining our efforts to putting two telephones into communication and by consistently eliminating any function which may tend to interfere with this aim.

"In the early days of the telephone business the exchanges have served as a clearing house for general information. As the business has grown, it has become necessary to abolish many of the special features and confine the work of the operating forces strictly to that of giving telephone service. Anything which interferes with the prompt and accurate completion of calls does not meet with the approval of the public. In the giving out of information it tends to interfere with the legitimate calls and there were numerous instances when the telephone company was severely criticized. As a concrete illustration, I wish to cite a case where a fire broke out and was of rather a serious nature. Every one called the central office to learn where the fire was, and the operators were so busy attempting to give out this information that when one of the fire fighters tried to get through a call to arrange for a more adequate water supply, his call was unduly delayed. There also is always a possibility of another fire, which ought to have the prompt attention of the operator, as well as other emergency and the regular calls that have to be considered.

"In any of the instances mentioned where the operators were faced with an unusual number of calls, many of them made only in curiosity, it actually interfered with calls which were needed to protect property, call for a doctor or other emergency calls, as well as irritating the subscribers who are endeavoring to place their regular calls. We have learned through actual experience that where we attempt to give out information as to location, the telephone service was greatly interfered with and we have felt that it was to the interest of our customers and the public generally, to refrain from continuing the practice that might be interfering with bonifide calls of the nature heretofore mentioned.

"At the present time we are endeavoring to handle the fire calls at Chelsea in so far as notifying the engine house and the different firemen of the location of a fire. It is impossible for us to give out the information to subscribers other than to firemen and at the same time give the proper attention to calls made by the firemen. If we were to give the information to other subscribers, they would soon become accustomed to calling the operator at the time of a fire and it would be even more impossible to give the proper attention to those who should know the location of a fire.

"We have also felt that the giving out of any kind of information on the part of the telephone company sooner or later is bound to interfere with the service in such a way as to cause actual injury to some one. It may be that there are cases where some of us use poor judgment in attempting to work out these things. Perhaps sometimes we may give out information when we ought not to and there may be other times when we do not give out information when we should.

"It is our aim to conduct our business to the best advantage of every one concerned, and it is our idea in refusing to give out information we were protecting the interests of those who use the telephone."

Telephone subscribers who desire to be fair will recognize Mr. Adler's contention. The telephone exchange must be at times a strenuous and nerve-racking place for the operators, who, by the way, are only human and not machines. While the operator, in case of fire, is expected to notify the owner of the property involved, still there are subscribers who own several pieces of property in town, some that the operator would not know about, feel that they are entitled to the information. It is a peculiar situation in the matter of service and one in which the exchange or telephone company and subscribers should co-operate for mutual benefit.

As far as baseball, football or election news is concerned, the telephone is not as important as it has been, for the radio outfits are becoming more numerous and there is now no trouble in keeping informed along outside news of that character.

NUDITY IS NOT IMMORAL

"Clothes are a matter of climate and custom, not of morals." Thus does Mlle. Cecile d'Andrea, whose interpretive diversissements in "Up in the Clouds" made even blasé Broadwayites gasp as they gazed upon her manifold charms and quivers during the run of the extravaganza at the Lyric and Forty-fourth street theatres last season, thus does the charming danseuse set at naught the teachings of ages.

"To say that raiment betokens good or evil is absurd," recently declared Mlle. d'Andrea in an interview. I have seen thousands of women fully clothed whose aspect was a suggestion to the baser thoughts of men. I have attended salons in Paris where a score or more models posed in the nude before a mixed audience. The exhibition was as chaste and as free from vulgarity as one could conceive of.

"I think you Americans are inclined to strain at a gnat and swallow a camel. They say in 'Up in the Clouds' I do not burden myself with clothing but I assure you when I performed the same dance at the Folies Bergere I wore much less.

"Still this is a young country. You are not so bigoted as you were a few years ago. I believe that in ten years from now it will not be considered in bad taste for the artistic presentation of the nude on the stage."

Chelsea theatre-goers will have an opportunity of seeing the young woman whose unconventional ideas of dress expressed both in word and deed have excited much comment. She will be visible during the progress of the Jos. M. Gaite's extravaganza which is scheduled for the Capitol Theatre, Jackson, matinee and night, Saturday, November 25.

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION

The retiring editor of The Standard herewith extends his appreciation for the loyal support given by the business interests and the people as a whole in the maintenance of an institution that is of vital importance to a community center. It is with regret that it has been found advisable to lay aside the pencil and discontinue the weekly communication with the thousands of readers of The Standard.

Chelsea we found a pleasant little city for home life, with a fine lot of people as associates. There is no better and this fact every citizen should appreciate, and every effort should be made to keep this thought foremost. Keep the social and business activities alive, and the city will continue to prosper and the home values increase.

In laying aside business activities in Chelsea, a few remarks in behalf of The Standard, its service and its future prospects will not be amiss. To the business men that use publicity it is scarcely necessary to state that the firmly established circulation of The Standard is a valuable asset to be considered, for there is no other advertising medium that will reach as many homes contingent to this community center. Use it freely to advertise your business and your town, co-operate with the publisher, with your fellow business man—don't divide but unite in community strength and this beautiful little city will prosper and grow to your own satisfaction.

With these few remarks and again expressing appreciation for the courteous treatment received, and trusting the same will be extended to our successor, Mr. McClure, a young man of sterling character from your own midst, we bid you, dear readers and patrons, a kind farewell.

E. H. Ahrens.

JUST A WORD OR TWO

It is indeed with pleasure that I again take over the management of The Chelsea Standard, after a rest of nearly six months. While there is plenty of hard work, and not all of it rosy, there is a certain fascination in the publishing business that draws one back, especially when one can count upon the friendship and assistance of the people of a community. The publisher, to issue a successful community newspaper, must depend to a large degree upon the help of the people—those who read and are interested in the paper—and the columns will team with the events, social and otherwise, that occur in Chelsea and surrounding territory.

I have enjoyed and appreciated this friendship in my former work here and feel confident that the pleasant associations will be resumed and continued. It will be my aim to serve the people of the community to the best of my ability.

M. W. McClure.

The Socialist party has a large following in Dowagiac.

Livingston, Michigan Agricultural College extension specialist, who recently returned to his headquarters here following the end of the tour of the land-clearing demonstration train in the Lower Peninsula.

SAND IS GOOD FOR VEGETABLE STORAGE

Can Be Used Effectively in Absence of Suitable Storage House, Says M. A. C. Specialist.

East Lansing, Mich.—That sand makes a good medium in which to store root vegetables such as potatoes, carrots, beets, and parsnips, is the statement of Mr. E. P. Lewis, of the M. A. C. horticultural department.

These vegetables must be kept cool, fairly moist, and free from contact with circulating air, in order to be stored without wilting, rotting, or starting growth. In the absence of a suitable storage house, sand can be used effectively for this class of vegetables.

"Sand for this purpose should be clean and free from organic matter. It is preferable to use fresh sand each year but if there has been no rotting the previous winter, the same sand may be used again. However, in case of decay the sand should be discarded and fresh material used, or else it should be thoroughly sterilized with formalin or some other disinfectant.

"Only those specimens which are sound in every way should be used for storage. Any crack, bruise, or puncture provides entrance for bacteria and other rot organisms. Most of these organisms enter through a wound in the epidermis, and sound roots greatly lessen the chance of infection.

"The most common method is to place alternate layers of roots and sand in boxes on the basement floor. Or the roots may be placed in a conical pile and covered with a layer of sand to a depth of eight inches. The temperature should be 38 to 42 degrees to prevent growth. Growth of roots in storage, either at the crown or side roots, results in loss of moisture and nutritive elements, thus reducing the palatability and food value of the product."

FRIDAY TELLS OF MICHIGAN PROGRAM

M. A. C. President Addresses U. S. Department of Agriculture Staff On Plans for State Agriculture

East Lansing, Mich.—Outlining his program for agricultural development in the state, President David Friday addressed the staff of the U. S. department of agriculture at Washington on Tuesday, Nov. 21.

On invitation of secretary Henry C. Wallace, the M. A. C. executive made a special trip to the nation's capital to tell of his plans for future agricultural work in Michigan. Attention of farm leaders all over the country has been attracted by Friday's tentative plans for a big Michigan agricultural program, and the call to address the department of agriculture came in direct response to this.

While much of President Friday's material was of a general nature, it is understood that he touched on the question of adapting production to market demands; the development of local markets; the part that improved livestock can play in the state's farming industry; and the value of such crops as alfalfa in building a more efficient agriculture.

U. of M. STUDENT SHOT

BY OFFICER, PAID

Ann Arbor—A. K. Hall, prosecuting attorney from Wyandotte county, O., has made a settlement with Theodore Reising, of Hopkins, and P. H. Goldsmith of this city, the students who were respectively shot and assaulted while in Carey, Ohio, following the O. S. U. Michigan game, Sunday morning, October 22.

Reising, who is almost recovered from the bullet wound in his right side, is to receive $1,000 and Goldsmith will receive $100. Moreover the fines, which amounted to over $110, collected from the 24 Michigan students implicated in the affair, will be refunded.

Andrew Greer, the officer who shot Reising and Edward Gibbs, the one charged with assaulting Goldsmith, are out on bail, the former under $2,000 and the latter $500. They will be tried in the near future. Greer being charged with shooting with intent to kill, wound, maim and with assault and battery. Gibbs is charged with assault and battery and with pointing a loaded firearm.

In addition to the financial settlement, the citizens of Carey have sent a resolution to the university, through President Burton, expressing regret at the incident and condemning the actions of these two officers.

QUEEN OF SHEBA AT THE PRINCESS THEATRE

"Queen of Sheba," a William Fox super-special which enjoyed a sensational run on Broadway, New York, is booked for the Princess Theatre. It is described as a stupendous spectacle and a great love story. New York critics hailed it as one of the greatest photodramas ever produced. It showed to crowded houses throughout the run until taken off to make way for another of the Fox specials.

It is declared that the pageantry of "Queen of Sheba" is unsurpassed for magnificence on the screen, and that few such thrilling spectacles as the chariot race ever have been presented in motion pictures.

The filming of "Queen of Sheba" under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards took an entire year. Throughout the period a huge force of workers in many lines of endeavor was employed, and in addition every member of the Fox organization on the West Coast—actors, clerical workers, artisans and all—took a personal interest in the progress of the stupendous production and lent their aid to it. Tom Mix, for instance, volunteered his services in rendering the chariot race thoroughly realistic.

The construction of massive sets, the designing and making of the elaborate costumes, the perfecting of the dances, meant a vast deal of labor, and the difficulties in the way of completing the production on the scale originally planned seemed insuperable. They were overcome, however, and "Queen of Sheba" given to the screen.

Betty Blythe appears in the role of the Queen, Fritz Lieber, the noted Shakespearean actor, is King Solomon, and Clair de Lorez is Queen Amarath, wife of Solomon.

THE SUNKEN GRAVE

Nothing can be sadder than a grave that is no longer a mound. The inevitable has come to pass—the weight of the sudden earth has crushed in the last protection. It helps nothing to close the imagination to what happens then! Yet there is not the slightest necessity for this barbarous, unsentimental, old fashioned method of burial. THE NORWALK VAULT—at little cost—will protect absolutely and forever. Cement and steel, waterproof and airtight, it seals in plain sight and becomes one solid piece of masonry that literally "Lasts through the Ages." The best undertakers insist on its use.

COMING TO WHITNEY THEATRE SUNDAY

Largest Attraction That Has Ever Visited This Section Is "Up In The Clouds."

What is declared to be the largest theatrical attraction that has ever visited this section is booked to appear at the Whitney Theatre, Ann Arbor, Sunday, November 26.

By a special arrangement the management of the theatre has guaranteed Jos. M. Gaites, the big New York producer, a huge sum in return for which the metropolitan showman is sending his original New York, Chicago and Boston company and production of "Up In The Clouds" on the above scheduled date.

"Up In The Clouds" spent the largest portion of last season at the Lyric and Forty-fourth street theatres, New York, and Garrick theatre, Chicago. It is the same identical organization that is coming this way. There are eighty-two persons in the big spectacle which carries its own special symphony orchestra and requires four double length railroad baggage cars to transport its paraphernalia from stand to stand. No attempt to cart such a huge outfit about the country has ever been made before and it is only because of special inducements that Mr. Gaites was prevailed upon to make the booking.

Despite the usual magnitude of "Up in the Clouds" the announcement is made that a moderate scale of prices will prevail. In fact the tariff will be much less than that in vogue during the New York and Chicago runs when three-fifty and four dollars were the top prices. The exact scale for the impending engagement is $1.00 to $2.50 plus tax.

Mr. Gaites will be remembered as the producer of "Take It From Me" and "Three Twins." Will B. Johnston, author of "Take It From Me" is likewise responsible for the book of "Up in the Clouds." Tom Johnston, composer of "Molly Darling" and "Gimme A Thrill," provided the score of the new Gaites extravaganza.

Mail orders sent to the theatre management will be given prompt attention. In fact out of town patrons are requested to use this method as telephone reservations for this booking will not be accepted.—Adv.

COVERT ACT ROADS

County Road Commissioners Discuss the Problem of Highways.

Why build Covert roads? Many persons have asked the question. The board of county road commissioners attempt to answer it in the board's annual report, part of which is printed here.

Funds for constructing Covert roads are provided for by the sale of bonds. These bonds are retired during a period of from 3 to 10 years depending upon the vote of the people in the special assessment district. The assessment is spread on the county at large, on the townships at large, and on the special district laid out on either side of the road to be improved.

Method of Financing. "If improved roads are to be built in Washtenaw county the financing is possible in two ways, by a bond issue large enough to construct all the roads required over a period of years or by a tax spread each year, as has been done during the last few years," reads the report. This tax has been at the rate of two mills on each dollar of assessed valuation in the county.

"Some of the trunk line roads built thruout the state by the state highway department are given aid by the national government and hence are known as federal aid roads. Seventy-five per cent of the cost of such roads is paid by the state and federal governments and the other twenty-five per cent by the various counties through which the roads extend.

"As long as such roads are being built in Washtenaw county," continues the report, "we must furnish our 25 per cent of the cost, which sum is raised by the two mill tax. With the program which the state highway department has had during the last two years and will continue for two more years in the county it will be impossible to build many miles of new road from the proceeds of the two mill tax.

Favor Covert Law "It can be seen readily that not all the communities in the county can be served by trunk line roads. Many districts have wanted good roads and have received them under the Covert act. The same is true in nearly every county in the state. It was a case of keep the old dirt roads in many localities or build Covert roads.

"We believe the Covert law is a good law and should be retained, but we also feel that it should be amended by the next legislature in certain respects. Many people who have criticized the law have had no knowledge of what the law provides nor did they know or understand its provisions well enough to draw the conclusions they did."

BREVITIES.

Jackson—An open competitive examination will be given December 14 at the post office by the civil service commission for general clerical positions. Salaries offered range from $900 to $1,400.

Ann Arbor—The work for the new Literary building of the U. of M. has begun. The trees have been removed from the grounds and the steam shovel has begun excavating for the basement of the new building.

Jackson—Bishop Humeston, aged 58 years, was found dead in his car, 15 miles southwest of the city Thursday afternoon. Death was due to heart disease. The funeral was held from the home Saturday.

Ann Arbor—Professor Frederick Newcombe, since 1890 a member of the faculty of the department of botany at the University of Michigan, and since 1904 its head, has tendered his resignation to take effect at the close of the academic year in June 1923.

Ann Arbor—Leo Horka of Saginaw, committed suicide here Thursday when he leaped from a second story window and sustained injuries from which he died a few hours later. He was a patient at the University hospital.

Ann Arbor—Spirits ran high on the campus Friday when sophomores found the freshman flag raised on the 150 foot university flag pole and were unable to get it down as the first year men had cut the rope after raising it. The sophs retaliated by making all freshmen doff their hats at every turn on the campus.

Manchester—Those who have been observing the flow of water in the Raisin river for several months are wondering what the village will do this winter if rains fail to fill the ground, ponds and water holes before the freeze-up comes. The municipal electric light plant has had to buy continually from the Clinton plant, we understand.—Enterprise.

Ypsilanti—Work on the new Lutheran church on River street is progressing rapidly. The iron girders for the roof are being placed in position and it is expected that the building will be enclosed before winter. The interior work will be completed during the winter. The old church property on Michigan avenue is for sale. The congregation expects to occupy their new church home the latter part of May.—Record.

Pinckney—Deputy Sheriff Charles Moran and Under Sheriff Roger Carlisle of Howell, were shot at by a woman of Green Oak township late Wednesday night while making a raid in search of liquor at the woman's home. Neither of the officers, however, were hit. At the time the shots were fired Sheriff Teeple was in the yard of the home with the man and both the owner and his wife were putting up a fight. The woman at first barricaded herself in one of the rooms and when she finally came out fired. No arrests were made and no liquor found.—Dispatch.

Brighton—When the schoolhouse was being fumigated Monday night at about midnight, it had all the appearances of a genuine fire getting a nice start, and when Clio Case saw it he turned in an alarm, just as nine out of ten would have done under the circumstances. The fire department responded and they too supposed it was a real conflagration. A couple of the boys got a lungfull of the disinfectant when they undertook to enter the building through a window. Some of the school officers arrived at this juncture and an explanation followed.—Argus.

Brooklyn—Joe DePries, the Charlotte truck driver who was recently injured here when his truck left the Cambridge road, was picked up last week unconscious by South Bend officers. At the hospital his identity was established and it was thought he had fallen off a train. He had stopped at South Bend enroute to Chicago and it was found that his trouble was a blood clot at the top of the head which developed from his previous injury. DePries has recently been in the navy and had become skillful as light weight ring fighter. He will be sent to the Foote hospital in Jackson where an operation will endeavor to remove the clot from beneath the skull.—Exponent.

Saline—An expensive runaway occurred on Friday, when a team owned and driven by Peter Stevenson, south of town, which the owner left as he stepped into the office of the Mercantile company, became frightened by a New York Central engine and ran up town with the wagon, which was well loaded with coal.

When the horses reached Michigan avenue they turned east, crashing into Fred Zimmerman's new Hudson touring car, the tongue of the wagon going through the body of the car, doing damage estimated at more than two hundred dollars. Fortunately for Mr. Stevenson the horses escaped uninjured. When the team started on their mad flight up town Mr. Peterson rushed out and grabbed the bits of one of the horses in a vain attempt to stop them, but was forced to relinquish his hold and let them go on.—Observer.

Niham—The body of John Poplar was found early Tuesday morning in the ditch beside the Ann Arbor Railroad track in Azalia. The man had been dead for some time. It is thought that he was struck by a north bound train early on Monday evening. One leg was partially cut off and he was badly cut about the face and head. He was probably killed instantly. No definite details of the accident are available for no one as far as can be learned saw the accident. Poplar was well known in this vicinity and has worked on several farms in the neighborhood of Azalia. He was a brother of Frank Poplar who met with an accident while filling silos a few weeks ago. John Poplar leaves a wife and one small child. The funeral was held from the local Catholic church Saturday morning at 9:30. Burial took place at Marble Park cemetery.—Leader.

Jackson—Crippled for life, Ollie Pretty, 36 year old Spring Arbor farmer lies in a critical condition at Mercy hospital. Doctors Friday afternoon found it imperative to amputate both his arms. He had mangled them terribly a few hours before while operating a corn shredder on his farm. The accident happened on the old Pretty place between Spring Arbor and Concord. It was about 11 o'clock. With Pretty was an assistant by the name of Fiske. When Pretty's hands became caught in the machine Fiske, who was not familiar with the mechanism of the shredder followed Pretty's directions as he dictated. When Pretty finally extricated his mangled arms he had Fiske tie them to his body. He then walked from his barn across the road to his house where he had his wife call Dr. Frank Tutthill of Concord. After rendering first aid Dr. Tutthill brought the injured man to Mercy hospital where he was operated upon. At midnight the injured man was reported doing fairly well.—News.
