CAPITAL STOCK OF BANK INCREASED

Kempf Commercial & Savings Bank Adds $20,000 to Its Original Capitalization.

Rounding out forty-seven years—nearly half a century of service to the community the Kempf Commercial & Savings Bank, Chelsea's oldest financial institution, today announced an increase in capital stock from the original capitalization of $40,000 to $60,000 as a fitting celebration of their 25th birthday anniversary of the bank's reorganization.

Because of the rapid growth of their banking business, directors deemed it advisable to take action toward increased protection to patrons of the bank and accordingly took steps which resulted in the above announcement. Increase in capitalization has been approved by the state banking department, and recorded with the Washtenaw county clerk.

The Kempf bank is one of the oldest banking businesses in this section of the state. Founded in 1876 as a private bank by Reuben Kempf and Chas. H. Kempf, the firm was called R. Kempf & Bro., Bankers, doing business in bank offices on W. Middle street which have since been included in the L. P. Vogel store.

In 1898 the present bank was organized, with Reuben Kempf, Chas. H. Kempf, Harmon S. Holmes, R. S. Armstrong and Christopher Klein as directors. At this time the name was changed to the Kempf Commercial & Savings Bank, under which name it has operated since. Officers of the newly organized bank were: President, R. Kempf; Vice President, S. Holmes; Cashier, John A.

KEMPf COMMERCIAL & SAVINGS BANK

Palmer, Asst. Cashier; Geo. A. Be. Mont until January, 1920, when Har. S. Holmes was elected and served until the time of his death in January, 1922. Following the death of Mr. Holmes, D. G. McLaren, at that time a member of the board of directors, was chosen to fill the vacancy and is president of the bank at the present time.

The board of directors at the present time consists of D. G. McLaren, Edw. Vogel, D. Edw. Beach, L. P. Vogel, Otto D. Luick, M. J. Dunkel, J. L. Chandler, E. S. Spaulding, R. H. Holmes, Andrew Guldo. The officers are: D. G. McLaren, president; John Fletcher, first vice president; Edw. Vogel, second vice president; Paul C. Mayer, cashier; and Paul C. Mayer, assistant cashier. Edw. Vogel is the oldest member of the board, having been elected to that capacity in 1891, making 22 years of service in his executive capacity. John Fletcher has been with the bank since 1906, Carl J. Mayer since 1917, and Paul C. Mayer since 1921. All of the officers and directors of the bank, with the exception of Mr. Fletcher, are natives of Chelsea and enjoy an enviable reputation for fairness, square dealing and courteous treatment in their business relations with the public. John Fletcher is a native of New York.

A wonderful growth has been made in the financial responsibilities of the Kempf bank. For example, in 1907, 26 years ago, the total assets of the bank were only $179,791. In January of this year, total resources had reached the sum of $788,913.11, a gain of nearly $600,000. This amount has since been increased by a substantial sum until the total resources of the bank amount to more than $800,000.00.

Such growth in financial institutions can only come through conservative business methods and fair dealing on the part of officers of the bank. This has been especially true of the Kempf Commercial & Savings Bank. Twenty-five years of service to the community has resulted in its rewards and this bank will continue to look forward to increased growth and influence in Chelsea and vicinity. There has been a policy of personal service to our patrons which has won confidence in financial and business affairs. No doubt, will continue under the efficient management of the officers of the bank. Half a century of service has built a monument to the better banking facilities. It is a privilege to be associated with a business corporation dealing in financial matters, and a privilege to be associated with a business which has been in existence for half a century.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS MARKS CHANGES

First Settlement Started Two Miles West of Present Location of Village.

Persons acquainted with Chelsea and vicinity at the present time can hardly realize the changes that have come about in the village since its start some seventy or eighty years ago.

The nucleus of Chelsea was formed about two miles west of the present village. When the old strap rail line of the Michigan Central railroad was finished through the township, a station was established near the farm of Hugh Davidson, and it took the name of "Davidson Station" from the circumstance. The little business center at this point received the sobriquet, "Guntown," from the fact that a man familiarly known as "Old Gunn" lived there. At first the station was a mere stopping place for trains, and not till 1848 was there a station house erected, and then the structure was a rough affair. The track repairer was the station agent, and added to his other duties the function of wood sawyer for the road. The first agent who occupied this nondescript position was Thos. J. Davis, and he was followed by Davidson brothers, who added a horse car to their facilities for doing the work along the track. Elisha Congdon was the first grain buyer at Davidson Station, and James Seeley sold goods there at the same time, but finally sold out to Mr. Congdon. In the fall of 1848 the station burned, probably fired by an incendiary.

On account of the fact that the Manchester and northern roads could be more conveniently accommodated at Chelsea, the railroad company decided to establish the station for Sylvan township at this point, which was then jokingly called, "Kedron," because a creek ran near the locality. The two Congdons, Elisha and James, owned the land where the station was to be established, and took an active interest in the promotion of the scheme, which they plainly saw would result in the growth of a town.

The Chelsea station was built in 1850, and the first station agent was Mr. Finn. Elisha Congdon then lived in a frame house, where the family mansion was afterward erected (now McKune house). It was the first house in the place.

In the fall of 1850 the town was platted by Elisha and James Congdon. The first named gentleman owned 160 acres on the east side of Main street and the latter owned 300 acres of the east side of the same thoroughfare. The second business building erected in Chelsea after the location of the depot, was a brick blacksmith shop, on the east side of Main street north of the railroad, built by C. H. Wines for Aaron Durand and Newton Robinson. In the same year, 1850, Asel S. Harris built a hotel and saloon on the corner of the land just north of the depot, which he kept open for several years afterward. John C. Winters, who was doing business as a merchant in Sylvan, in 1851 erected a barn on the lot where his residence later stood. The same season he built a store on the corner of Middle and Main streets where L. P. Vogel is now. In 1852 or 1853 William Smith, from Dexter, built a store. Tom Hastings erected a business structure during the same year; and the Penn brothers and Clark built stores in 1854. From that time the growth of Chelsea was steady.

The first death in the village was that of Lewis Backus and the first birth was that of Eddie Sargeant. Situated as it is, 34 miles from Ann Arbor and 22 miles from Jackson, Chelsea is well located for trade and has a wide territory of tributary country. Business conditions here are reputed to be among the best in the state. Judging from the large number of shoppers and traders in the village almost any week day, when weather permits, it is evident that a huge volume of business is being directed through Chelsea business houses and banks. Optimism runs high and continuation of the present prosperous conditions of the village is looked for by a majority of its inhabitants.

LOCAL DURANT AGENCY CANT SUPPLY DEMAND

Business is good—in fact rushing—for the City Motor Sales. E. A. Tisch, proprietor of the garage on North Main street, states that cars cannot be secured fast enough to take care of the over increasing demand for the product. Durant and Star cars are sold by the local agency.

Mr. Tisch has been conducting the local Durant and Star agency since December 12. Previous to that time he operated the Crescent hotel for a number of years, being also connected with the Buick-Chrysler garage a number of years ago. He is a native of Chelsea and came to Chelsea in 1870.

GENERAL BUSINESS CONDITIONS IN CHELSEA ARE PROMISING

It is with a sense of pride, shared by every citizen of the village and community, that we call attention to Chelsea, by means of this, our "Booster Edition," which marks, we hope, the birth of a new enthusiasm, a new interest, new optimism, new hope, new expectations and new determinations in the heart of every resident and citizens of the village and community. Not a person in the vicinity of Chelsea but has the welfare of Chelsea, Sylvan township and its inhabitants uppermost in their minds. The question being asked by everyone is: "How best may we serve our village and community?" And it is in this view that The Chelsea Standard has gathered from a number of different sources, facts, figures and data which is of interest to citizens in general.

Chelsea, one of the prettiest villages in the state of Michigan—the prettiest, we might say—has shown growth in the town's business activities.

Commercially, the village is above the average. Fair, intelligent and business-like dealing has made Chelsea the business center of the whole community for miles around. Farm products, grain, stock and dairy, have combined to make Chelsea one of the largest market centers of its size in the state. Department stores, grocers, and other business concerns have been able to compete with much larger outside business institutions with better offerings, lower prices and better service, gaining the confidence of the buying public to the extent that the volume of business transacted here is making a steady upward climb, until today indications are that the best year ever will be enjoyed by the town's business.

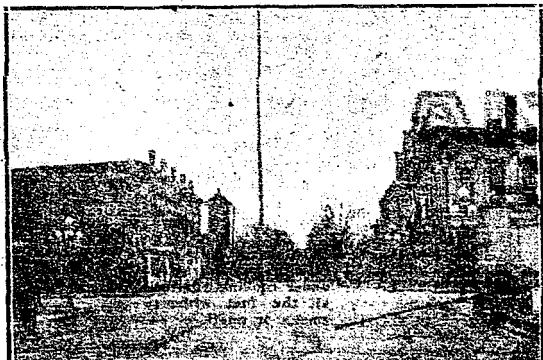

Housing accommodations are acute.

MAIN STREET, CHELSEA, LOOKING NORTH

a steady and sure growth from the time of its first inhabitants to the present time, and prospects for a further growth were never more promising than at the present time. Factories are running day and night, large numbers of men are being employed, huge sums of money are being expended weekly and monthly payrolls, which in turn is being spent in the regular channels of everyday business, all of which goes to make up a settlement of happy, energetic, thrifty and prosperous people.

From an industrial standpoint, Chelsea is fortunate. Factories, employing between two hundred and three hundred men, some of them operating on twenty-four hour schedule, are producing finished products which are finding ready markets all over the world. Numbered among the manufactured products are some of the highest grade articles on the market anywhere. Machinery used in their manufacture is the latest and best the market affords. As a result, markets which handle this particular line of products are turning toward Chelsea as a reliable source of supply, and the demand is greatly exceeding the ability to supply. Orders are continually being booked by local factories for months ahead, assuring steady operation and placing the laboring man on a firmer foundation than has been known in years.

From the laboring man's standpoint, the situation is exceptionally bright. Wages paid by Chelsea concerns are up to the standard for work performed, and there is every indication that a satisfied energetic laboring element exists in the village. Along with this feature—satisfied labor—is the apparent desire on the part of employer and employee to co-operate to the extent that labor difficulties in local manufacturing establishments is unknown. Such a record speaks well for the patriotic concerned and business-minded citizens of Chelsea.

Demand for homes to take care of those who desire to make Chelsea their residence, has far exceeded the supply, which is another good indication of the prosperous condition of the village. Many new homes are needed to care for home seekers and it is to be hoped these will be erected in the near future. Rentals have been considered reasonable considering real estate values and many who are employed in other cities are residing in Chelsea and traveling to their work daily.

From the standpoint of educational facilities Chelsea is very well taken care of. Public and parochial schools supply the needs of every pupil, while the teaching forces in both schools are highly efficient. Grammar and high school courses are available to all and the enrollment in the local schools is proof that much interest is being manifested by parents as well as children in gaining the best to be had in the

CHELSEA'S PRESIDENT

Elected to the village presidency at the annual election held March 12, Warren R. Daniels has entered upon his new duties as the village executive. Mr. Daniels is a man of wide acquaintance, whose influence will go far toward satisfactory conduct of the village affairs. Mr. Daniels is secretary-treasurer of the Chelsea Elevator Co. and for several years has handled the sales of Dodge Brothers and Oldsmobile automobiles in Chelsea.

W. R. DANIELS

THREE BROTHERS IN JEWELRY BUSINESS

Seldom does the whole family take up one line of business, but this is practically what happened in the case of the Kantlehner family. Three brothers, of whom W. F. Kantlehner is one, are connected with the jewelry business in one place or another, while a nephew of Mr. Kantlehner is in the jewelry business in Union City, Michigan.

The local Kantlehner jewelry store was started by Fred Kantlehner, father of the present proprietor, in 1875. Twelve years ago W. F. Kantlehner took over the business and has conducted it since that time. Mr. Kantlehner is an experienced man in this line, having worked at the business for the past 25 years and is thoroughly acquainted with the trade.

Along with the jewelry line Mr. Kantlehner conducts an optical department.

EDUCATIONAL LINE

Professionally, the village is in fortunate circumstances. Six physicians, three dentists, one chiropractor, two lawyers, two undertakers, are rendering professional service unsurpassed anywhere.

Railroads entering the village have put Chelsea in the more fortunate class of villages, in that both steam and electric service is available. Situated on the main line of the Michigan Central and the D. U. R. electric railway, the village and egress is made easily and quickly, first class service being rendered by both roads.

Access to first-class highways should not be forgotten in making note of the transportation methods available to the people of this village. Two main highways furnish excellent means of travel, either by motor truck or automobile, and consequently a large amount of the freight and passenger traffic of the village and township is routed over these two highways, M-17 and M-92. As a result of the building of these splendid highways, the automobile business in Chelsea has boomed and climbed by leaps and bounds until today practically everyone drives either a "limousine" or one of equal running length.

CHELSEA SCREW COMPANY HAVE LATEST IN EQUIPMENT AND PRODUCT

Efficient Executives and Skilled Labor Combine to Give Chelsea Thriving Industry Employing 50 Men Throughout Factory.

Amid a battery of automatic machinery, description of which baffles one not possessed of an extraordinary mechanical vocabulary, the Chelsea Screw Company, a Chelsea industry of no small proportions is turning out finished products the like of which probably could not be found elsewhere in the state.

We believe the general public has little idea of the immense amount nor the quality of the work turned out by this company in their plant on South Main street. Screw machine products—everything imaginable—is being manufactured in this plant. While parts and supplies now being manufactured number into the hundreds of thousands monthly. Steel and brass—tons of it—are constantly being turned into parts for automobiles, from small bolts, studs and nuts of 1-8 inch in diameter to 1-3-4 inches in diameter, all done by automatic machinery of the very latest type and design installed at a cost of thousands of dollars, and operated by motor power aggregating 131 horse power.

From three to four carloads of brass rod and two cars of steel rod are used each month by this firm. These rods come in shapes such as round, flat, square and from which is manufactured the finished product which is so much in demand. Shipments of the parts are sent to all parts of the country, principal markets being located in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

It is said by authorities at the factory that 95 per cent of the material manufactured are automobile parts and accessories, while 5 per cent of these are special parts made to customers order and specification which requires a great deal of skill in producing and which only the latest machines can manufacture.

The Chelsea Screw Company was organized in 1913 with $100,000 capital, by M. J. Dunkel, C. Lehman and Pauline L. Girbach. Of these Mr. Dunkel was president and general manager, Mr. Lehman secretary-treasurer, and Miss Girbach vice president. At that time the company was located in the Mack building on North Main street. On April 11, 1916, the company was re-organized with a capitalization of $50,000, all paid in, and has been operating upon this basis ever since. On the board of directors is found the names of M. J. Dunkel, C. Lehman, Edw. Vogel, J. P. Vogel, John Kalmach, P. G. Schnable and Howard S. Holmes. M. J. Dunkel is president and general manager, C. Lehman secretary-treasurer, and Edw. Vogel vice president.

An idea of the growth of this concern can be had from the fact that when the start was first made in the Mack building on North Main street in 1913, only five men were employed and ten machines in use. In 1916, 20 men employed. In 1919, the main building, 40x125 feet, was constructed, and more men added to the payroll. Today over one hundred machines are in use, fifty-four men employed, and buildings aggregating 10,500 feet of floor space.

An extraordinary record has been made by the company. No sickness or accident has ever been encountered, and a trip through the factory will convince anyone the reason why. Up-to-date equipment, satisfactory working conditions and general treatment have combined to make up a working schedule which pleases the employees and results in co-operation between management and workers.

As an example of the concern felt for the employee by the management, an electric oil sterilizer which purifies all the oil being in use in the entire factory every 24 hours is in use strictly for the protection of the employees. Oil extractors, working on the same principle as the electric clothes dryer, revolving at a rapid rate, extracts the oil from the steel and brass shavings and after being run through the sterilizer is ready for use again, making a great saving in oil consumption.

Another evidence of the relationship of employer and employee is group insurance, which went into effect March 15, being carried by the company on each employee. All premiums being paid by the company, and any benefits accruing from such policies being paid by the insurance company to the beneficiary designated by the insured. This is independent of outside compensation and is absolutely voluntary on the part of the management in its effort to

THESE MEN GUIDE AFFAIRS OF SCREW CO.

M. J. Dunkel, president and general manager of the Chelsea Screw Company, is a native of Berks county, Pennsylvania. He came to Chelsea and took charge of the automatic department of the Grant Wood company when that firm started here a number of years ago. He quit this concern some time later and for 14 years was employed in the demonstrating and selling of Davenport Automatic machines until 1913 when he became associated with C. Lab-man in the manufacturing business. Mr. Dunkel is a mechanical genius of extraordinary ability. Working at the trade practically his entire life he has become acquainted with practically all kinds of machines, has invented and built machines of his own, and a number of the more complicated machines in use in his factory today are the product of his efforts along this line.

C. Lehman, secretary-treasurer of the Chelsea Screw Company, is a well-known resident of Chelsea, having been born and reared here, and no doubt, expects to spend the remainder of his life in "the land of his nativity." Mr. Lehman is numbered among the progressive business men of the community and is influential in both business and political circles of the village. He has been secretary-treasurer of the Screw Company since its organization in 1913.

improve working conditions for the employees. The minimum insurance for any class is $500 while the maximum is $2500. One hundred dollars is added to the minimum amount for each year of service until the maximum amount of their class is reached.

Chelsea is proud of the achievement gained by this company in their contribution to the village industries one of the largest, if not the largest, factories operating here at the present time. Fifty-four persons are employed—fifty-four families earning their daily, weekly or monthly compensation from the earnings of this company. This alone places them in a position where credit is due for the successful development of an industry of such proportions, producing such finished products as to cause prospective customers to think of Chelsea when trying to locate quality in this line.

When You Look Into the Heart of the Red Star Burner

JUST to look down into the heart of the patented Red Star burner—to feel the sting of the heat as it rises from the two rings of clean blue gas fire—is to appreciate why so many women prefer to cook on the Red Star rather than any other means of cooking—even city gas.

Each days cooking brings to the woman who uses the Red Star a more complete assurance of the absolute dependability of this modern method of cooking.

The wonderful Red Star burner has neither wicks or wick substitutes. It burns either kerosene or gasoline—yet it gives a clean gas heat to cook with and a hot gas oven to bake in.

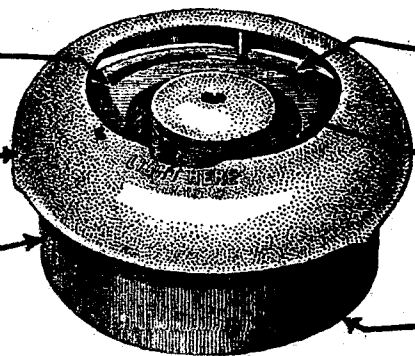

Are you entirely satisfied with your cooking? It is easy to own one of the new Red Star models. The prices were never so attractive and there is a size for every kitchen.

RED STAR
Detroit Vapor
OIL STOVE

Red Star Burner has no wicks or wick substitutes. Fuel is vaporized into gas giving a hot, blue flame.

Heat condenser is an inverted cone shaped casting which holds the heat and forces it to strike the utemall squarely.

Burner is a solid grey iron casting annealed to withstand heating and cooling; lasts a lifetime.

Double-ring flame of intense heat directly under cooking. Burns all the fuel without smoke or smell.

Castings fit in place without fastening. Easily taken apart for cleaning. Seldom needs any attention.

Fuel flows directly to the double vaporizing rings and is mixed with air to give perfect blue flame.

You can influence the depreciation of your car investment by using right or wrong gasoline.

You may point with pride to a speedometer that shows 30, 40 or 50 thousand miles or you may wear out a car every year.

You may have a smooth purring motor or a rattle-trap ready for the scrap heap. The influencing factor is the gasoline.

SCRATCHED HEAVILY TOWNSHIP TICKETS

Only Half of Eligible Voters Cast Ballots at Monday's Election.

At the annual election held in Sylvan Monday the entire republican state and county ticket was elected. The constitutional amendment lost out, the total vote in both precincts being 185, No 517. Many of the electors failed to mark their tickets under either party head or make a cross in the square opposite the name of any candidate on any of the party tickets. A light vote was cast on the prohibition ticket. Both the republican and democrat candidates on the state ticket received about the same number of votes as on the township ticket.

In the two precincts there are about 1700 registered voters and less than one-half of them appeared at the polls to vote.

The results on the Sylvan township follows. The republicans appear first and the democrats second. The democrat candidates for supervisor and treasurer were elected and the remainder of the officers chosen were republicans. The vote follows:

An appropriation of $50 was made for the purpose of paying to the residents of Sylvan special premiums at the Washenaw county fair the coming fall.

It was also decided to appropriate $100 to cover the costs of publishing the clerk's annual report.

THIRD OF CENTURY IN DRUG BUSINESS

Thirty-three years in the drug and grocery business in one capacity or another is the record piled up by L. P. Vogel, of Vogel's store, on the corner of Main and Middle streets.

Mr. Vogel, a native of Chelsea, started at the age of seventeen in the employ of the Glazier drug store, where ten years of his business career was spent. A year ago it was decided to change to notions entirely and now a stock of ladies' notions and hosiery will be found in the newly arranged store.

Mr. Farrell is a native of Ireland, although he came to this country when only a small child, so practically his entire life has been spent in America. Mrs. Farrell is a native of Michigan.

What value is there in public worship? What takes place when we enter the sanctuary? Can one stay at home from church and read the Scripture or other literature and find the exaltation of soul experienced in the sanctuary? What about Radio Religion? It is a good subject for discussion. Come and hear it. Sunday evening—Is sin changing life's good blessings into curses. The services all day are brim full of good things. Easter was a great day. Fine services from start to finish. Received ten into the church. One baptism. Well, come on—a place for all.

Many years ago, two Greeks in their snowy times came to the Disciples and with eagerness that was pathetic made the request.

"Sir, we would see Jesus."

Today there are thousands of people returning from ventures into the fields of ultra modern religion and no religion, to the Gospel of Peter and Paul and those who acknowledge Christ as the hope of the world—returning with the age old request, "Sir, we would see Jesus."

If you too would see Jesus—to worship Him in truth and in faith come to St. Paul's next Sunday morning. Certainly St. Paul's especially during the last few weeks has given evidence to the fact that it preaches only "Christ and Him Crucified as the Saviour and Redeemer of all the world."

St. Paul's has a vital message for you if you are concerned with your soul's salvation. Hear it not only next Sunday morning, but every Sunday morning.

The Hoover Ball Co. was started in Chelsea in 1911, when they purchased the ball manufacturing business of the Flanders Mfg. Co. Later L. J. Hoover moved the business to Ann Arbor, and it has grown by leaps and bounds since. The plant here was in operation for about a year, about three years ago, but has been closed until recently when machinery and men were employed in re-opening the plant which promises much in the way of additional employment for Chelsea men and women. H. D. Runciman, a native of this vicinity, is general manager of the company, which has branch offices in six other cities.

NEXT TO OLDEST FIRM IN WASHTENAW COUNTY

The oldest department store in Washtenaw county, except one, is the record attached to the Vogel & Wurster store of Chelsea.

Established April 15, 1887, by H. S. Holmes, the firm was then known as the H. S. Holmes Co. Later, in the year 1904, the firm was incorporated under the name of the Holmes Mercantile Co., and remained the same until 1916 when the present firm name was adopted by the owners.

Mr. Vogel, who is in charge of the dry goods, ladies' wear and shoe departments has been associated with this store for a period of 38 years. Mr. Wurster, in charge of the men's department of the firm, has been connected with the business for 36 years. Although owners of the store many years under the old name of the Holmes Mercantile company, it was not until 1916 that the change in firm name was made.

Mention might be made in passing that Miss Winters, saleslady with the firm, has been employed in that capacity for perhaps 30 years, while Miss Ella Barber, book keeper, has served a period of 23 years in their employ.

Dry goods, ladies' wearing apparel, men's clothing and furnishings, shoes and rugs are the principal lines carried by the firm, they catering to the better grade of goods, pricing them even more reasonable than other stores handling the same lines.

FENN SAYS "TRY DRUG STORE FIRST"

The slogan, "Try the drug store first" has helped to place Henry H. Fenn on the map locally. This bit of advice has served to guide many a person to his door in seek of relief or cure.

The present firm is 15 years old. Purchased of Dr. Armstrong twenty years ago, the firm was first known as Fenn & Vogel, who conducted the business together for five years, after which Mr. Fenn became sole proprietor. He is a native of Chelsea and is widely known in this vicinity as a wide-awake, energetic business man, dealing in groceries and drugs with their usual side lines.

ST. PAUL'S EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH

Rev. P. H. Grabowski, Pastor

St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church of Chelsea was organized February 2, 1868. The following were the original members: G. Wackenhut, G. Heselwood, M. Lehman, J. Biele, F. Vogel, D. Faust, J. Schable, G. Mast, I. Vogt, J. Schumacher, J. Mohrlock, F. Broesamle, J. Fahrner, J. Schell, J. Schultz, A. Boose, F. Boose. The church building on Summit street was erected during the year in which the church was organized. Rev. J. Schladermund, of Waterloo, during the first few months held services in the new church once in two weeks and in the fall of 1868 Rev. Tienk from Waterloo, assumed pastoral Organizations of the church consist of the Sunday school, with 112 children, 10 teachers, and 4 officers. Ladies' Aid, 92 members; Auxiliary, 46 members; Young Peoples League, 48 members; Willing Workers, 16 members.

Mr. Bunge, who remained until 1878, when Rev. M. Metzger, of Waterloo, became the shepherd of the flock. Coming down to 1901, we find that Rev. Albert Schoen became pastor of St. Paul's church and remained its tireless and energetic leader until 1920, when he was succeeded by Rev. G. W. Krause. In September, 1922, Rev. Krause was succeeded by Rev. P. H. Grabowski, the present pastor.

meier is president, E. J. Feldkamp, secretary and Fred Loeffler, treasurer.

St. Paul's church has been and is very active musically, this department being directed for the last six years by Miss Milda Faust, organist, who has rendered sincere and efficient service during this time.

Services are being conducted every Sunday at 10 a. m., the first, third and fifth Sundays of each month being in English and the second and fourth in German. Sunday school is held at 11:15 a. m. each Sunday, in English.

ST. MARY CHURCH AND SCHOOL

Rev. Father Henry VanDyke, Pastor

The first Catholic church of Sylvan was built about four miles northwest of Chelsea. It was a wooden structure and the original building received two successive additions. A cemetery, where Catholic dead are still interred, marks the location of this first Catholic church.

The first officiating priest in this locality was Rev. Father Hennessey, of Detroit. Rev. Father Cullen of Ann Arbor, was probably the clergyman who founded the church. Rev. John Van Genip, pastor of the Dexter church, held services for some time at the Chelsea church which was built in 1869. During the pastorate of Rev. Patrick Duhig, the church was modernized and a pastoral residence erected and the grounds about both dwelling and church improved. The church edifice is of brick, 52 by 100 feet. It was built at a cost at that time of ten or twelve thousand dollars.

Membership of the church at the present time consists of 160 families or between 900 and 1000 members, highly active and interested in their church advancement, under the very able leadership of Rev. Father VanDyke, who has been the local pastor for nearly five years.

Church societies are: St. Agnes Sodality, membership of 30 unmarried ladies; Holy Name Society, consisting of 100 men, with object in view of fighting against profanity; Social Club of 100 men, with club room over Kolb's restaurant; St. Alayusius Society, composed of 30 boys; Children of Mary with a membership of 30 school boys. A number of the local members belong to the G. C. at Ann Arbor.

is conducted in connection, which includes piano and wind instruments. Enrollment in the school numbers about 100.

Rev. Father VanDyke, leader and director of the Catholic affairs in this vicinity, is not a Frenchman, as years his name might imply, but one of those common, everyday, "Yankee" Americans whom everyone delights to meet. Born in Detroit, he received his early education in private school, later attending the Jesuit college, known today as the University of Detroit. Following graduation from the Jesuit college, he held a pastorate at Bad Axe, Michigan for 13 years prior to his coming here five years ago this coming August.

Rev. VanDyke's grandfather, James A. VanDyke, settled in Detroit in 1830 and was one of the early mayors of the city of Detroit. He was also prosecuting attorney of Wayne county, afterward becoming an attorney for the M. C. R. R., having charge of the famous conspiracy case familiar to many of the older residents here.

On his mother's side of the family, his ancestors were French, while his father was a Hollander. Ancestry on the material side of the house can

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

The record of the Congregational church of Chelsea shows its organization in the Vermont settlement to be completed March 21, 1835, under the name of the Presbyterian church of Sylvan. The meeting was opened by prayer of the Rev. Mr. Bouton. The Rev. Mr. Beach presided, with Mahlon Wines the appointed scribe. The articles of faith, covenant and practice adopted by the Presbytery of Monroe, February 1834, and recommended for adoption to the churches under their care, being presented by the chairman, was read by him and carefully considered by the persons present. They petitioned the Presbytery to appoint a committee to constitute them a church, and resolved unanimously to adopt said articles then and there presented.

The members included Ira Spaulding, houses, until the building of the church in 1851. Since re-organization the church has rapidly progressed.

In 1894 the old church building was burned and the next year, 1895, the present church building was dedicated for worship.

Rev. E. A. Carnes, the last pastor to be located here, resigned his pastorate the first of March and since that time no resident pastor has been secured.

Membership in the local church numbers 300 persons, with a Sunday school of 230 members. The church officials are:

Chelsea. Since that time it has made rapid growth until today both membership and finances are in a splendid condition, with prospects for the future looking unusually bright.

Membership in the local church now numbers approximately 280 persons, with organizations and departments working with lively interest, young people taking active part in all work of the church, and services

The Baptist church of Chelsea was organized at the residence of Dr. R. B. Gates on April 28, 1868, by 19 constituent members. In June of the same year Mr. Frank Everett was chosen deacon of the church. Rev. H. W. Brown was the first pastor and was succeeded by Rev. J. C. Arm-

NEW FIRM MAKES

GOOD SHOWING

The latest addition to the number of Chelsea's clothing dealers is A. Hindelang, who with E. A. Fahrner, purchased the interests of H. J. Dancer the first of February. Last week Mr. Hindelang purchased the interest of Mr. Fahrner, he now being sole owner of the business.

Mr. Hindelang is a life-long resident of this community and is widely known. As a partner in the Chelsea Hardware company for eight years he has met the buying public in a favorable manner and it is only reasonable to suppose that this acquaintance will stand in good stead in his conduct of the clothing and furnishing business.

THE BEST STORE

ON THE CORNER

Sixteen years in one stand is sure to mean satisfied customers, successful dealing and prosperity for anyone who can remain that long in one place. This is true of Chauncey Freeman, the grocer, druggist, and the corner.

Mr. Freeman, through consistent policies, has built up an extensive business which today is composed of three departments handling everything in the drug, grocery and hardware and mail paper line, employing six persons, all busy. He is a native of this vicinity, widely known in business 21 years of which time the last six years have been devoted to business by himself.

Consistent advertising, followed by courteous treatment, has contributed to the success of his business.

W. P. SCHENK & CO.

MAKE GOOD RECORD

W. P. Schenk & Co., one of the oldest concerns in this part of the country, have made for themselves an enviable record of square dealing and courteous treatment. Theirs is a business which has stood the test of depression, prosperity, reverses and successes, and came through smiling, ready for more, and incidentally, getting it.

Following a disastrous fire of ten years ago, the store was remodeled and modernized, giving the location a very good appearance, attractive as well as commodious. In it their department store business has increased and shown a substantial gain under the management of W. P. Schenk, a business man of 38 years standing in the community. Twenty-seven years have been spent by the company in the present location.

W. P. Schenk & Co., five years ago decided to branch out in other lines of business and as a result the Buick-Chevrolet Garage on Park street sprang into being and has since been a valuable asset to the concern, under the direct management of W. P. Schenk. Accessories are also handled by the garage, which also boasts a service department.

Buick and Chevrolet cars are sold by the company.

THREE YEARS IN MEAT BUSINESS

An up-to-date shop and butchering equipment, combined with service and courteous treatment has resulted from the efforts of the proprietors of the Loeffler Meat Market, South Main street butchers. Mr. Loeffler and son came to Chelsea three years ago, moving in from a farm in Freedom township, and went into the meat business, which has gradually and surely grown during the time they have been here.

With the latest equipment they have been killing and curing their own meats, sausage, etc., and doing a large business in the retail market.

A Bank, the Community's Financial Friend

A Bank in a community is not only a convenience but a necessity.

Where else but in a Bank will you find the pennies of the Children safeguarded as carefully as the thousands of the largest Depositors?

Where else will you find an Institution serving more People, or more deeply interested in everything that concerns People from every walk of life?

If you have thought of a Bank as an institution serving only the rich, or operated in the interests of the few, spend a short time, any business day, in the lobby of the Farmers and Merchants Bank and you will recognize that this Institution is your true financial Friend, striving to serve your best interests as well as to handle carefully the business you intrust to it.

VOLUME 52, NO. 36.

VAN TOWNSHIP HISTORY DATES BACK TO YEAR 1830

After making careful study of the history of Sylvan township, it has been found that, like most new counties and settlements, it was first settled by that hardy race of pioneers and their families, who, with business of purpose given only by the more courageous, penetrated the wilderness in an effort to find a home of their own to conduct the business of bread and butter making.

Van township was first settled by Cyrus Beckwith, who located the dwelling of Section 14. He brought his family to the township and he and his family were the first to settle in the township. Wm. A. Beckwith, who was the first to settle in the township, was the first to settle in the township. Wm. A. Beckwith, who was the first to settle in the township, was the first to settle in the township.

The characteristics of the township are well known to practically everyone in this village and vicinity. Dotted by lakes the western part of the township presents one of the most beautiful scenic pictures in the state, while the possession of summer resorts and favorable places have no limit. The most promising resorts in the township, and in fact in the county, is a rapidly growing summer place for resorters from all over the state, many coming as far as Detroit and other cities, in order to spend vacation times at the most beautiful township. Along with this resort, Crook's near Cavanaugh, is being developed by enterprising owners, and it is expected that it will be one of the favorite places of this section in a very few years. New allotments are being opened up containing an increased number of acres.

Land located on the west side of the township is rapidly rising in price, making them valuable to the township real estate market. The most part of the land of Sylvan township is fertile and fertile. Dairy farms are common and the land is one of the principal occupations. Large quantities of farm products, other than dairy products, are raised. Stock raising is in evidence. Stock raising is in evidence. Stock raising is in evidence.

The pioneers first visited the country they beheld a beautiful country, gemmed in part by many lakes, and diversified by rolling hills, the surface with "oak openings" that extend too thickly to prevent the growth of bluegrass. Owing to all these natural features the hardships of the pioneer life were lessened and the early settlers were provided with food and other necessities. The fish were abundant, herds were constantly seen cropping the rich herbage of the hills, and made a novel and picturesque scene as they were seen feeding in the orchard of oaks feeding or catering swiftly amid the trees.

At the bottom of the pioneer farmer's break up the soil while the trees yet standing, and after the trees, which, by the way, permit the sun to reach the ground and promote the growth of the next season or trees would be removed and the land completely cleared. What a picture in its wild state! Nature in its cultivated nature. The place to cultivated nature. The place to cultivated nature. The place to cultivated nature.

The reminiscences of early life, related by "old timers" who came that five years after the township of Sylvan was first settled. If one could have been visited by one of the first white settlers, he would have been our private secretary. He would have been our private secretary. He would have been our private secretary.

When the pioneer man was Cyrus Beckwith, who was the first to settle in the township, was the first to settle in the township. When the pioneer man was Cyrus Beckwith, who was the first to settle in the township, was the first to settle in the township.

the following year built his house. In 1832 Henry Depew arrived.

In 1832 a number of families from Addison county, Vermont, emigrated into the territory of Michigan, and settled in Dexter township which then embraced the present townships of Manchester, Sharon, Sylvan, Lyndon, Lima, Freedom and Bridgewater. In this Vermont colony were Wm. A. Davis, Truman Lawrence and Orlo H. Fenn, all having families. They founded what was then and has ever since been known as the Vermont Settlement. Stephen J. Chase and Nathan Pierce, from Ontario county, New York, came the same year. In the spring of 1833 Daniel Fenn, father of Orlo Fenn, and his family, arrived, as also did Tully Fenn; and in the fall Amos W. Davis and Dennis Warner were added to the population. In May, 1834, Mahlon Wines, Ira Spaulding, Sen., and Ira Spaulding, Jr., and families, arrived, and located land in the settlement. Joel B. Boyington came the same spring, exchanging farms with Stephen Chase. Wm. Begole also settled in the neighborhood, and was employed by Cyrus Beckwith as his first hired man, and as such, assisted Mr. Beckwith in erecting the first log house in the township. John M. Cummings, Arnold S. Bell, Thomas H. and Isaac Godfrey, Adonijah Godfrey and Elisha Congdon, all made beginnings in the township in 1834. About this time, or within three years thereafter, Azel Backus, Mahlon Beeks, Dr. Sears and Hugh Davidson arrived. Mr. Davidson established a hotel just east of the Short Hills. Alfred Holt came in 1834, and was the postmaster at Pierceville. John M. Cummings was a settler in 1834, and Arnold S. Bell, a school-teacher, located in the township the same year. Thos. H. and Isaac Godfrey, Adonijah Godfrey, and Elisha Congdon were comers about this time. The latter located on the spot where Chelsea now stands, owning the land on the east side of Main street, his brother owning the land on the west side of that thoroughfare that was to be.

On the west side of the Short Hills Edwin E. Conkling settled in 1832, and his first wife, Miss Hicox, named the township of Sylvan. Calvin Hicox was also an early settler on the west side of the Hills, as was also Joseph Peter Riggs. In 1832 Ira Spaulding had a small clearing, and Orlo H. Fenn, Stephen J. Chase, Truman Lawrence and Wm. A. Davis all had clearings of from three to ten acres. Otherwise the eastern half of the township was a wilderness, yet extremely beautiful. The territorial road ran through the township, entering on the east by Nathan Pierce's farm, and passing through Sylvan Center. The same thoroughfare exists today. The north and south roads, running through the township from Chelsea to Manchester, was also cut out in 1832-33. There was also a road leading to Birmingham, in Lima township; the early settlers had their sawing done at this mill. A line of stages, owned by S. B. Davis, ran through the township on the territorial road. In 1832-33 all mail for Sylvan settlers came to Dexter, and it taxed severely the pioneer's finances to raise the 25 cents necessary to pay the postage on a single letter. The second postoffice of the region was at Lima Center. There was a tavern at Sylvan Center, William Dunham being the landlord. In 1833 Elisha Frisbie opened the first store at the Center, and was followed in 1839 by Geo. Lord, who opened a general stock of goods, and in 1841 by J. C. Winans, who traded there until 1851. Previous to this period, however, a small grocery and saloon was kept by Joseph Perry. In the years following, Thomas H. Godfrey sold goods there.

In 1853 the first grist mill on the creek was built, the money being raised by subscription. In 1852, Hugh Davidson kept a hotel east of the Short Hills, and Andrew Murray entertained travelers one mile west of the Center, and displayed the sign, "Call and See!" Thomas Godfrey built a hotel here, and was landlord for several years.

Pierceville, at the junction of the north, south and Territorial roads, just south of the present village of Chelsea, on James Congdon's land, was a business center in 1834 and thereafter until the depot was located at Davidson Station, when the place was absorbed by the new village, and one after another the buildings were sold, moved away or torn down. When Pierceville was in its glory, a brother of John C. Winans, Stephen by name, had a store there. Albert C. Holt was the postmaster, and Dr. Stewart was the surgeon and physician; Israel Bailey was the blacksmith. Mr. Holt carried on a saw and blind factory. When the railroad came, and Mr. Congdon desired to divert business to Davidson Station, he bought out the Holt property, also the interest of Dr. Stewart, and Huldah Aldrich, a maiden lady; the buildings one by one disappeared until now there is not the slightest sign remaining of the once thriving hamlet.

The first death in the township was that of Mrs. Jesse Smith, whose demise gave occasion for the establishment of Vermont Cemetery. The first marriage was that of John C. Winans and Betsy M. Fenn. The first postmaster was Calvin Hicox, at Sylvan Center. In 1834 the settlers in the township had become so numerous that it was thought expedient to create a township organization, and accordingly on the first Monday in April the first election was held, which happened to be on the same day the first election was held in Lima township. The act says, "That all that part of the county of Washtenaw comprised in surveyed township 2 south, in range 3 east, be a township by the name of Sylvan, and the first township meeting be held at the now dwelling house of Samuel Dunham, in said township." In the following account of the meeting for organization it will be seen how faithfully the law was carried out and its conventionalities observed:

"The annual meeting of the town of Sylvan, on the first Monday of April 1834, held at the house of Samuel Dunham, in said town, organized by choosing Edmund E. Conkling Moderator, and Stephen J. Chase, Clerk of said meeting. The moderator and clerk, after being sworn, proceeded to open the meeting, and the following officers were elected in said town: Nathan Pierce, Supervisor; Elisha Congdon, Town Clerk; Stephen Chase, Orlo Fenn and Edward E. Conkling, Assessors; Calvin Hicox, Constable and Collector; Daniel Fenn and Samuel Dunham, Overseers of the Poor; Truman Lawrence, M. Medcalf and Asahel Backus, Commissioners of Highways; Nathan Pierce and Edmund E. Conkling, Road Masters. It was voted that the overseer of roads be fence viewer; Thomas H. Godfrey, Samuel Dunham and Edward E. Conkling, Commissioners of Common Schools; Nathan Pierce, John R. Jewett, Truman Lawrence, John C. Winans and Edmund E. Conkling, Inspectors of Common Schools. It was resolved at this meeting that the next annual town meeting should be held at the house of Hugh Davidson. The minutes were signed the 7th day of April, 1834, by Edward E. Conkling, Moderator, and Stephen J. Chase, Clerk."

The records of 1835 can not be found, and therefore the account of

The village of Chelsea is proud of her public schools.

Educational facilities here are equal to the best in villages of this size and even larger. Two buildings, one for the grades and the other for the high school, furnish accommodations for the 400 pupils enrolled, both being of modern construction, with the latest additions of advantageous equipment. Situated in the square bordered by Park, East and Harrison streets, they furnish a valuable addition to Chelsea public buildings and beauty spots.

Courses of study taught in the local schools are recognized as the best. Ratings given by colleges and universities place Chelsea in excellent standing, and reports coming in from these institutions of learning where Chelsea graduates are in attendance show them to be performing very satisfactory work and standing high in their classes. This alone speaks well for the school and teaching forces locally.

Four hundred pupils are enrolled in the public schools, 130 of these being in the high school. Four year courses are available in the higher branches of learning.

Athletics have come in for prominent mention during the past year. Two basket ball teams have held the boards for the majority of the games during the past season, both the boys' team and girls' team making an excellent showing in their meets with other teams both here and abroad, winning practically every game played.

to Davidson Station, he bought out the Holt property, also the interest of Dr. Stewart, and Huldah Aldrich, a maiden lady; the buildings one by one disappeared until now there is not the slightest sign remaining of the once thriving hamlet.

The first death in the township was that of Mrs. Jesse Smith, whose demise gave occasion for the establishment of Vermont Cemetery. The first marriage was that of John C. Winans and Betsy M. Fenn.

The first postmaster was Calvin Hicox, at Sylvan Center. In 1834 the settlers in the township had become so numerous that it was thought expedient to create a township organization, and accordingly on the first Monday in April the first election was held, which happened to be on the same day the first election was held in Lima township.

The act says, "That all that part of the county of Washtenaw comprised in surveyed township 2 south, in range 3 east, be a township by the name of Sylvan, and the first township meeting be held at the now dwelling house of Samuel Dunham, in said township." In the following account of the meeting for organization it will be seen how faithfully the law was carried out and its conventionalities observed:

"The annual meeting of the town of Sylvan, on the first Monday of April 1834, held at the house of Samuel Dunham, in said town, organized by choosing Edmund E. Conkling Moderator, and Stephen J. Chase, Clerk of said meeting. The moderator and clerk, after being sworn, proceeded to open the meeting, and the following officers were elected in said town: Nathan Pierce, Supervisor; Elisha Congdon, Town Clerk; Stephen Chase, Orlo Fenn and Edward E. Conkling, Assessors; Calvin Hicox, Constable and Collector; Daniel Fenn and Samuel Dunham, Overseers of the Poor; Truman Lawrence, M. Medcalf and Asahel Backus, Commissioners of Highways; Nathan Pierce and Edmund E. Conkling, Road Masters. It was voted that the overseer of roads be fence viewer; Thomas H. Godfrey, Samuel Dunham and Edward E. Conkling, Commissioners of Common Schools; Nathan Pierce, John R. Jewett, Truman Lawrence, John C. Winans and Edmund E. Conkling, Inspectors of Common Schools. It was resolved at this meeting that the next annual town meeting should be held at the house of Hugh Davidson. The minutes were signed the 7th day of April, 1834, by Edward E. Conkling, Moderator, and Stephen J. Chase, Clerk."

Another organization which has attracted much attention, has been the high school orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Lattin. This organization of musicians has been furnishing the music for practically all school affairs, both in the school and in public, playing the better grade of music and showing the result of able directing.

Superintendent Clark has been in charge of the schools here for nearly two years and has been hired by the board of education to continue in that capacity for another year.

Teachers in the high school are: Miss Maud Jayne, Principal; Mrs. Lily Robison; Miss Lucella Sturm; Mrs. Harriet Lattin; Miss Margery Mitchell, high school and grades; Miss Gladys Allen; Mrs. Eckenberger, high school and grades.

Teachers in the grades are: Mrs. Florence Howlett, Mr. Thompson, Miss Greitzner, Mrs. Ernest Dancer, Miss Rhea Yake, Mrs. Frank Staffan.

WALWORTH & STRIETER MEN'S OUTFITTERS

Characteristic of their slogan, "Outfitters From Lad to Dad," Walworth & Strieter have succeeded in doing this very thing for so many years that today it is only natural for men and boys needing furnishings to wend their way toward their store.

After 10 years in the employ of the Holmes Mercantile Co., now Vogel & Wurster, where they were "in training" these two men went into business for themselves and have left behind them 10 years of successful dealing with the public. Both are natives of this vicinity and are held in high esteem as prudent business men.

SCHNEBELT BAKERY OPENS NEW SHOP

Because of the success which is being met by him and his shops in the baking business, Joe Schnebelt, local bakery proprietor, has decided to expand and this week opens a new shop in Ypsilanti. Mr. Schnebelt already has shops in Chelsea and Dexter, where baked goods of all kinds are retailed.

But one of the main departments of Mr. Schnebelt's business is his sale of Schnebelt's Whole Wheat flour, a special blend of Joe's own concoction. Demand for this particular brand of whole wheat flour is coming in from all over the country and promises growth to unusual proportions. It is ground by the Chelsea Roller Mills.

Mr. Schnebelt has been in business in Chelsea for three years, one year in the location now occupied by the C. F. Smith company, on East Middle street and two in his present location. He is a native of Indiana.

At the first town meeting Edmund E. Conkling, at the suggestion of his wife, gave the township the name that it now bears.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS' SERVICE IN MINISTRY

Rev. C. S. Risley, pastor of the First Methodist Church, is a native of Indiana, preached there for a time after entering the ministry, and was transferred from the Hoosier to the Wolverine state in 1904, when he entered the Michigan conference. He is a graduate of Vincennes University, Vincennes, Indiana, and also attended DePauw University, Greencastle, Indiana, in his pursuit of further educational training.

In 1921 Rev. Risley was transferred again to the Detroit conference.

Teachers in the high school are: Miss Maud Jayne, Principal; Mrs. Lily Robison; Miss Lucella Sturm; Mrs. Harriet Lattin; Miss Margery Mitchell, high school and grades; Miss Gladys Allen; Mrs. Eckenberger, high school and grades.

Teachers in the grades are: Mrs. Florence Howlett, Mr. Thompson, Miss Greitzner, Mrs. Ernest Dancer, Miss Rhea Yake, Mrs. Frank Staffan.

WITH STANDARD 25 YEARS

One of the most liked and widely acquainted citizens of this community is George S. Davis, one of the "moving spirits" in the office of the Chelsea Standard.

Typical of the ideals back of the Standard and its conduct, Mr. Davis, a familiar face in almost any vicinity within twenty-five miles of Chelsea, has made it his business to "play square," and it has been this trait which has won for him a legion of friends in this community.

For twenty-five years Mr. Davis has been identified with the Standard in the capacity of associate editor and printer. While management of the paper has changed during that time, still "Davis" remains on the job, and is proud of the fact that during all these years he has never lost a day's pay.

Mr. Davis was born in Lyons, Wayne County, New York, January 19, 1855. He, with his parents, came to Michigan ten years later, landing in this state on the night President Lincoln was assassinated. He began his career as printer in 1868 and followed the trade until 1879. Married in 1879, his wife passing away in 1886.

of the Methodist church, and was stationed at Ironwood, Michigan, coming here last fall, succeeding Rev. H. R. Beatty, upon the latter's death.

With a record of 25 years in the ministry, Rev. Risley has held pastorates at Plainwell, Galesburg, (in connection with the work at Camp Custer), Elk Rapids, Cedarville, Bangor, Shelby, Ironwood and Chelsea. His work here is being received enthusiastically by his congregation and success is predicted as a result of his efforts.

SNYDER, THE PLUMBER, BUSY ALL THE TIME

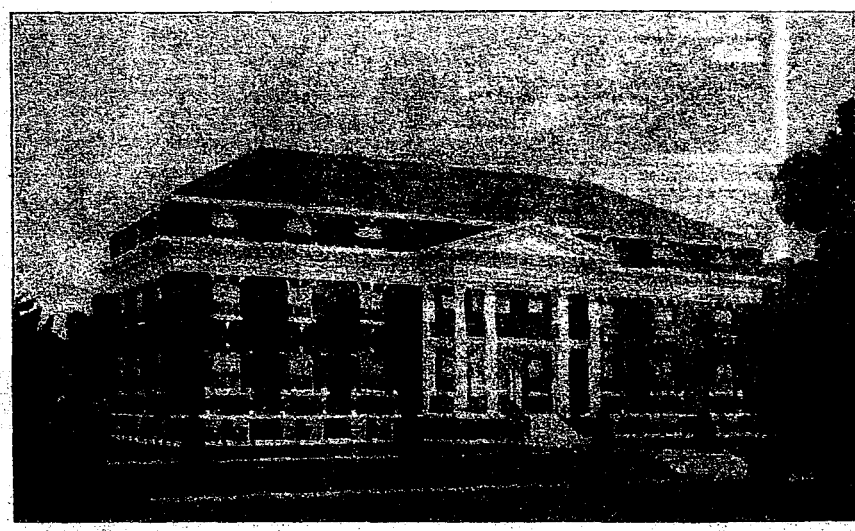

Starting three years ago in Chelsea, H. E. Snyder, local plumber, has rapidly increased his business until now his services are very much in demand.

Mr. Snyder started in the plumbing business 12 or 14 years ago, being employed in a number of other cities before locating here. His line covers fixtures and supplies for everyone from the smallest town customer to the largest farm job. He's all right when it comes to plumbing, in the satisfaction of his many customers.

Mr. Snyder is a native of Kent county, Mich.

Perhaps Washington never told him because the income tax was unknown, there were no traffic laws, he didn't play golf, and he never went fishing.

EMILY GLAZIER OLD PEOPLE'S HOME

EMILY GLAZIER OLD PEOPLE'S HOME

A monument to Michigan Methodism and the generosity of F. P. Glazier and the citizens of Chelsea and vicinity, the Emily Glazier Old People's Home stands at the western outskirts of the village.

Beautifully situated in a plot of 30 acres of fertile land, the building, a handsome stone structure of large proportions, presents an attractive picture to the traveler as well as the citizens of the community and no little pride is evident as the more attractive places of the village and vicinity are pointed out.

Under the superintendency of Mr. Isaac Bruns, the Home is being conducted in an efficient manner and being really made a "home" for some 60 inmates now residing there. Finances for the operation of the Home are being furnished by the Detroit conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, and entrance is available to any elderly person who can qualify with certain conditions pertaining to the Home and its management.

The main building of the Home was constructed in 1904. Since that time an additional building containing 24 rooms has been constructed, giving a total of nearly ninety rooms. Dr. J. E. Jackson of Detroit, is the executive secretary of the Home and has full charge and authority over the entire conduct of affairs.

VARNISH HARMED IN WASHING CAR

Improper Methods Are Sometimes Worse for the Finish Than None at All.

TEMPERATURE OF WATER

Cleaning Solutions Containing Ammonia or Any Kind of Lye Soap Should Be Avoided—Loosen Mud and Dirt Gently.

The purchaser of a motorcar, proud of its resplendent luster, is prone to make many commendable resolutions on a rainy day, but when the sun comes out and the car is out of the garage, the resolutions are often forgotten. The car is then subjected to a series of washings, and the finish is often ruined by the use of improper methods.

Do Not Use Brush.

He would make sure that the water was no warmer than 90 degrees, for no varnish will withstand sudden application of hot water. No matter how much mud or dirt is on the car, it should not be scrubbed off with a brush. Cleaning solutions should be avoided, especially if they contain ammonia or any kind of lye soap. And the practice of removing mud and dirt by a harsh winter blast is decidedly detrimental because the blast drives the grits of dust and mud into the finish.

Right Water Pressure.

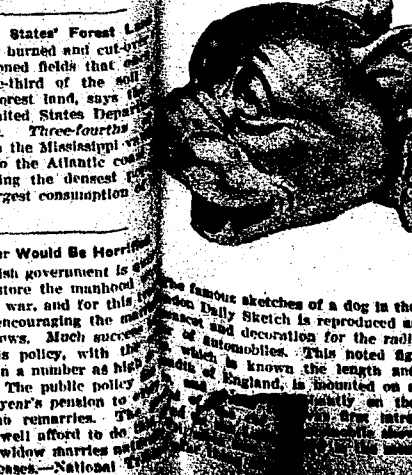

When running water is used the pressure should be just sufficient to keep the water moving six inches from the open hose. Then the mud and dirt should be gently loosened with a soft, clean cloth or sponge. If the mud must be used, it should be pure white. When the car is clean it should be washed with cool but not cold water, especially if warm water has been used at the beginning of the wash. If the car is to be run out in cold weather, it is advisable to wash one section at a time, drying it with a good cloth. In using the hose, the motion should be in straight lines rather than circular. The channels should be kept clean throughout the operation, washing it frequently with soap and water. Do not rub a varnished surface after it is dry.

PLAN TO CLEAN UPHOLSTERY

Many Automobile Owners Make Mistake by Using Gasoline—Plain Water Is Favored.

Many automobile owners make the mistake of trying to clean leather upholstery with gasoline. This method not only ruins the leather and destroys the appearance of most leather, but it is also a fire hazard. Plain water, mixed with a little ammonia, is recommended by those who have had experience in cleaning upholstery. After this has dried, the leather should be rubbed with a soft cloth in order to get a polish. Service stations will recommend good prepared leather dressings.

RAIN WATER FAVORED FOR AUTO RADIATORS

Its Use Is Recommended as Less Scale Results.

Driver Should Remember That Proper Supply Is Just as Important as Supply of Gasoline and Oil—Keep Close Watch.

There is always a day of reckoning for those who neglect details in the care of their car, and that day is likely to come when you least expect or desire it. What you think you have saved by neglect will be spent in expensive roadside repairs. Attending to details is thrice cheaper, and what is more, relieves future worries.

And one detail of your car which you should watch carefully is your radiator. Trouble is sure to come unless it is kept full at all times. Form the habit of inspecting and refilling the radiator before the car is taken from the garage. When on long tours, especially if you have been doing considerable hill climbing, keep a weather eye peeled toward the water supply.

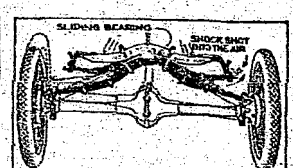

Remember that the proper amount of water is as important as your supply of gasoline and oil. It is not a bad plan to examine the water supply every time you stop for gasoline or oil. Use clear water, and if rain water is obtainable employ it, as less scale and deposit will result.

The cellular openings always should be kept clean. Keep mud from remaining in them, as it cuts down radiation and prevents proper cooling. You should occasionally flush the entire circulating system. This may be done by disconnecting both the upper and lower hose connections and allowing fresh water to enter the filler neck and flow down through the radiator and out the lower hose. The motor water jackets can be flushed out in the same way.

ADAPT REAR-SPRING SYSTEM

Said to Act in Capacity of Shock Absorber in Lessening Effects of Hard Jolts.

A new rear-spring system for light-weight cars is said to act in the capacity of a shock absorber or snubber in lessening the effects of a jolt when one of the rear wheels drops into a depression or strikes an obstruction, as well as to serve the primary function of the usual spring which it replaces. It consists of two separate cantilever springs, the ends of each being attached to the rear axle and frame in such a way that they cross

Illustrating Action of New Rear-Spring System When Left Wheel of Car Strikes an Obstruction, Shock Being Deflected to Right.

AUTOMOBILE HINTS

An emergency cotter pin can be made from a common hairpin by a few twists of the pliers.

It is not advisable to use a non-skid tire on one rear wheel and a plain tread on the other.

It is necessary to have a rather light-bodied, free-flowing oil when the splash type of lubrication system is used.

Don't turn the hose on your car in order to wash it. Water, forced out in this way, gets into impossible-to-reach places and doesn't improve the car.

POULTRY

HIGH MORTALITY OF CHICKS

Knowledge, Care and Good Judgment Required to Bring Little Fowls to Maturity.

There is no doubt about the statement that if the mortality among young chicks could be averted and the per cent that dies brought to maturity, the poultry industry would be one of the largest, if not the largest, in the country.

Family of Sturdy Little Chicks, Well-Cared For.

In the country, thousands upon thousands die each year from improper attention to the youngsters after hatching, and thousands fail to hatch from inexperience in handling incubators. To begin with, all eggs should be tested before placing in an incubator or under hens. If this be done only good, strong germ eggs would be used, and those showing defects would be rejected and sent to market for table use. Special attention should be given incubators to see that the thermometer registers just right, and also note that you have the required moisture. Incubators should be started at 101 degrees, 102 second week, and 103 third week. Those chicks which hatch on the night of the nineteenth day or early on the twentieth will be pretty apt to live, as they were good, strong, 100 per cent fertile eggs. Those that hatch later range in vitality from 50 per cent to 80 per cent. The 100 per cent birds thrive and mature to be standard weight. Those under that die beginning the third day, and sometimes straggle out for two or three months.

POULTRY SELECTION IS BEST

One of Quickest and Surest Ways of Making Improvement in Flock—Quality Counts.

One of the quickest and surest ways of getting improvement in poultry is through selection. Too many people have quantity, to the exclusion of quality, in mind. If you want increased production, it would be much better to have six producing birds in a pen with a male from a high producing female than to have a breeding pen of 200 females mated to a bunch of males of unknown origin.

VITAMINES FINE FOR LAYERS

Milk and Green Succulent Plant Growth Is Essential for Hens—Sour Milk Also Good.

Laying hens need vitamins, undoubtedly, and other elements which are found in certain specific types of foods such as milk and green succulent plant growth. The use of sour skim-milk has long been recognized as a splendid supplement to the grain and mash. Feed it in open pans, providing free access, if it can be secured at a reasonable price. Use semi-solid buttermilk at the rate of 3 to 5 pounds to 100 hens per day.

POULTRY NOTES

A hungry hen is usually a good layer.

Environment is a great factor in egg production.

Extreme cold and extreme heat alike affect the flow of eggs.

A turkey five months old is as good as raised, but not in a hurry about fattening.

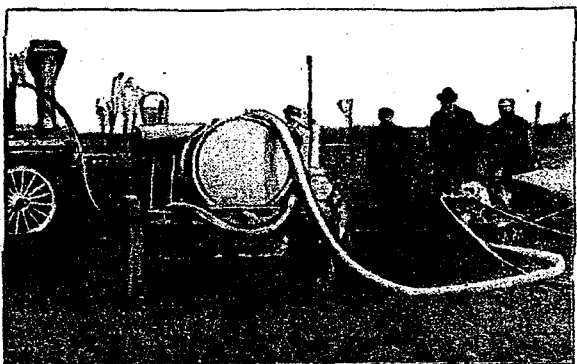

No flock of fowls can produce a high average egg yield per year per fowl unless there has been bred into that flock the capacity to use large amounts of food, respond to proper care and environment, and form eggs.

Nearly all the eggs are laid between the hours of nine o'clock in the morning and three o'clock in the afternoon.

The care of the newly hatched chicks may be put on range with very little trouble. It is a matter of getting the chicks to the range and keeping them there.

As the seasons vary, the time when chicks may be put on range will vary also. There is no danger of getting the chicks too early on range, but it is a matter of getting them on range at the right time.

LIVE STOCK INDUSTRY MENACED BY DISEASE OF FOOT AND MOUTH

Disinfection of Premises After Slaughter of Animals Affected With Foot-and-Mouth Disease—This Method Is Also Used in Control of Other Diseases.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The live stock industry of the United States is constantly menaced by an invasion by foot-and-mouth disease, a plague with which our producers and state and federal governments have had costly experience on a number of occasions. This disease, produced by the smallest of germs, is one of the most highly infectious and serious diseases affecting cloven-footed farm animals and when introduced into a country spreads with great rapidity. Should the disease appear in the United States, it would seriously interrupt the business of marketing, transporting, feeding and slaughtering and cause great losses to owners of live stock. It is beyond possibility of eradication with the present methods employed in most countries of continental Europe, and England is just getting her most recent outbreak under control. The only countries on the other side of the Atlantic from which live stock may now be shipped to this country are Scotland and the islands of Guernsey and Jersey.

Greatest Danger to Industry.

But, perhaps, the greatest danger to the industry in this country lies in the presence of the disease in South America, Central America, and Jamaica. Constant vigilance on the part of the United States Department of Agriculture is maintained to prevent the importation of diseased animals or material that might carry the infection within our borders. The organization for providing this protection for our live stock resources is inconspicuous, so long as no drastic action is necessary, but a well-organized army of veterinarians and other employees of the department and of state live stock sanitary bodies is ready to take arms against the insidious invader at practically a moment's notice.

In the words of Dr. John H. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry, "this bureau has not only instructed its men in the necessary procedure in the event of another outbreak, but it has selected certain experienced men to fill definite assignments in the various phases of quarantine and eradication work. A list of these men and the work they are to do is on file at Washington so that within an hour after the disease makes its appearance instructions can be telegraphed to these regular and reserve officers of the disease-defense army and the work of combating the destroyer will begin at once. The states have been urged to make similar preparations." A book of instructions as to the procedure in all phases of the work is in the hands of all chief inspectors and a supply is in reserve for emergency use.

PLANNING FOR 1923 SEASON

Time to Decide on Kind of Incubators and Brooders to Buy—Figure on Laying Pullets.

Proper care of the brooders is essential to success in the spring. It is time to decide on the kind of incubators and brooders to buy, as manufacturers will be rushed to make quick deliveries later. If any breeding coxerels will be needed it is well to order now and not be forced to take leftovers then.

It is also well to figure now the number of laying pullets for next fall. It will require on an average five eggs set for every pullet produced. It will take approximately 600 breeding hens for every 1000 or 1200 pullets that will be needed for the next year.

Close Watch on Mexico. Mexico, although the disease has not been reported as existing there, is looked upon as a convenient bridge between Guatemala, a country which has reported the presence of the disease, and our northwestern border. That reason representatives of the live stock industry are keeping a close watch on live stock and other imports from Mexico.

DAIRY FACTS

TESTING FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Bulletin issued by Department of Agriculture Outlines Three Principal Methods.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The three principal methods of testing cattle for tuberculosis are described in detail by L. B. Ernest and Elmer Lash in Circular 240, Tuberculin Testing of Live Stock, just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. The tests in use are the subcutaneous, the intradermic, and the ophthalmic. The circular lists the advantages and disadvantages of each test and gives directions for applying. Information is also given regarding the use of various combinations of these tests.

In the past, any the authors, tuberculin testing was regarded by many persons as being a routine operation that required little skill in its application or interpretation, but experienced veterinarians are required to obtain good results. In addition they must be men of sound judgment and diplomacy.

In addition to the discussion of the different tests and the responsibilities of veterinarians doing the testing, the circular contains chapters on the nature of tuberculin, tuberculin testing of swine and poultry, identification of test animals, post-mortem examination of reacting cattle, and necessary work following tuberculin testing. The circular is illustrated with photographs and charts and is of particular interest to veterinarians. Copies may be had on application to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

TURNING LOSSES TO PROFITS

Authorities at Ithaca Say Low Producer Is Loser—Suggestions for Improvement.

The low-producing cow is a money loser all around. So say authorities at the New York state college of agriculture at Ithaca, who cite one herd as an example where the average production for each cow for a year was only 6,585 pounds of milk. After all costs were charged, including all feed, interest on investment, depreciation, and service fees, the owner had left for his milk cow only 10 cents.

USE WHEAT DOCKAGE AS FEED FOR STOCK

Foreign Material Was Removed at Threshing Time.

Makes Excellent Substitute for High Priced Oats and Other Grains—Clean Wheat Brings Higher Price on Market.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Enough coarse foreign material, or dockage, to feed ten cows and 30 horses for seven months was removed from the wheat grown on a North Dakota farm in 1921, according to information received by the United States Department of Agriculture. The foreign material was removed from the wheat at the time of threshing with an experimental grain cleaner tested by H. H. Black, in charge of grain-cleaning investigations for the department. The foreign material was finely ground before feeding, so as to kill the germs of the weed seeds.

The owner of the farm had previously sold his wheat "in the dirt" at his local elevator and had received nothing for the foreign material in the grain. Moreover he had been compelled to use high-priced oats and other grains for feed for his live stock. By cleaning his grain and grinding the dockage in 1921, he obtained fairly good feed at practically no cost.

"Another inducement to clean grain on the farm is that clean grain will usually bring a higher price in the market than grain which contains dockage," Mr. Black says.

Various types of cleaning machines and methods of cleaning grain on the farm are described in Farmers' Bulletin 1287, Foreign Material in Spring Wheat, copies of which may be obtained upon request of the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

WEIGHING MILK TAKES TIME

According to Kansas State College Six Minutes Daily Are Required for Records.

Basing its statement on actual experience, the Kansas state agricultural college says that in a herd of ten cows six minutes a day are required to weigh the milk and maintain the records. Can anyone think of a better way to spend six minutes a day?

PRESERVE ALL SURPLUS EGGS IN WATER GLASS OR LIME SOLUTION

Essential Equipment in Preserving Eggs.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

From the end of March to July an overabundance of eggs is often produced in the home poultry yard, and it is worth while to preserve this surplus for use in the months when the yield is less. Many housekeepers who buy all their eggs, arrange in the spring for a few extra dozens of guaranteed freshness to put down in water glass or lime solution. This practice assures them of eggs at the season's lowest prices when the retail rate is rapidly advancing.

Properly preserved eggs will keep in good condition from six to ten months and can be used satisfactorily for all purposes in cooking and for the table. Even where the family demands fresh-laid eggs for the table, a supply in water glass will be found an economy for use in cakes, puddings and other cookery. They will prove a convenience when the hens are not laying enough for ordinary daily needs, or when it is impossible to send to the store for the usual order, or when unexpected company comes.

Best for Preserving.

Eggs fresh from the nest, gathered as soon as possible after being laid, are best for preserving. When only one-day old they will be almost equally satisfactory, but should not be "put down" after they have been kept three or more days. The best and most economical results have been obtained by the United States Department of Agriculture using one part water glass to nine parts of water. In some sections lime water is less expensive, and gives just as good results. Under usual conditions it does not appear advisable to use the water glass or lime water solution again the second year, although it has been successfully done.

Preserve in Water Glass.

Select a five-gallon earthen or stone crock and clean it thoroughly. Scald it and allow it to dry. Heat ten to twelve quarts of water to the boiling point and cool it. When cool, measure nine quarts of water into the crock and add one quart of sodium silicate (commonly called water glass), which can be purchased at most drug stores. Stir well to mix the solution thoroughly.

The solution is now ready for the eggs, which may be put in at once or from time to time as they are obtained. Before any eggs are put in the crock it should be set in a cool place where it can remain undisturbed, as some of the eggs crack and spoil, affecting the entire crock, if any attempt is made to move the jar after it has eggs in it. A five-gallon crock should hold about 15 dozen eggs, with the solution covering them at least two inches at all times. If any of the solution evaporates more should be mixed in the same proportion and added. If the jar is covered with a tight lid of waxed paper, very little evaporation will occur.

Preserve in Lime Solution.

If water glass is not obtainable, lime solution may be used. It is not considered so good as water glass, as in some instances eggs preserved by this method have tasted slightly of lime, although at other times lime-water has proved entirely satisfactory.

To preserve with lime, dissolve 2 pounds of unsifted lime in a small quantity of water and dilute with five gallons of water that has previously been boiled and cooled. Allow the mixture to stand until the lime settles.

Preparing Nest for Sitting Hen.

then pour off and use clear liquid. Place clean, fresh eggs in a clean earthenware crock or jar and pour the clear lime-water into the vessel until the eggs are covered. At least two inches of the solution should cover the top layer of eggs.

APPLE ICE CREAM IS LATEST

Synthetic Oil Has Been Prepared by Department of Agriculture for Flavoring.

A synthetic apple oil that possesses the aroma of ripe apples has been prepared by the bureau of chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture, and a public service patent has been granted for the process.

This preparation has the merit of having no substance in it that does not occur naturally in the apple. In this it differs from other artificially prepared flavors labeled to indicate their resemblance in order to certain fruits but whose components do not occur in the fruits they are supposed to represent. The water and beverage laboratory of the bureau has prepared a most palatable carbonated beverage with the apple oil as its base. The oil, being volatile, may not be used in the preparation of food products in which heat is a necessary factor, but is especially suitable for flavoring cold drinks and ice cream.

GOOD FISH CHOWDER RECIPE

Affords Pleasant Change From Meat Dinners in Winter and Is Palatable and Filling.

Besides being economical, a good hot fish chowder is filling and palatable in winter time and affords a pleasant change from meat dinners. The United States Department of Agriculture recommends the following recipe:

Two backbones cut out of large fish with what meat adhered to them, the cleaned heads and other fish scraps may be used for fish chowder.

Put over the fire in just enough cold water to cover and cook until the meat can easily be removed from the bones. Take up the fish and remove the bones, strain the fish soup, and return it with the picked fish meat to kettle. Add diced onions, diced potatoes, butter, and white pepper to taste. Simmer until the vegetables are done. Salt to taste.

Household Questions

Hominy, like rice, should never be stirred.

Coffee should be ground only moderately fine for the percolator.

Before wearing new shoes place them in a warm place for a few minutes. This will make the leather more pliable.

An old towel should be soaked in vinegar for a few hours before it is cooked. Steaming is the most satisfactory method of cooking it, and this rule is to allow an hour for each year of the towel's age.

Mildew on linen may be removed by scrubbing well with soap and scrubbing a little chalk over it. Spread in the sun to bleach and as it dries dampen it a little. It should be left in the air all day and then washed.

CHARM OF SUPPLE FABRIC; SPRING KNITTED APPAREL

IN SELECTING one's spring costume or costume-suit, as so many of the newer modes exploit, four essentials present themselves for consideration, namely material, color, lines or silhouette if you prefer, and individual details or style touches.

As to number one, supple, soft fabrics are the correct thing, this year, the sort which lend themselves to graceful manipulation. Among the materials most talked of wool rep promises a season of popularity, also poplin. Wool or silk crepes and sim-most sophisticated stylists marvel at the scope, style, charm, novelty, and general practicability exhibited in the spring collections of things knitted.

In sweaters coats particularly there is a revelation of enriched color schemes knitted in novelty stitches which accent the beauty of the garment. Note in this connection the handsome sports sweaters pictured herewith. It is of finest mohair, knit in a loose springy stitch, light weight, yet durable and shapely. It is developed in brown and light amber ilar effects feature throughout spring modes including slips.

Emphasizes Youth and Grace

When it comes to color, there is something very tempting about light tones for springtime wear, and to these there is an endless chain of tans, fawn, taupe, cinnamon and especially the tortoise shades. Navy blue—that loyal standby—has come into its own again. Gray, reddish and copper tones are also in the spring forecast.

Perhaps after all "lines" are of first consideration for if a garment possesses that intangible something called "style" it is voted a success.

Owing to the immense popularity of the jacquette and plaited skirt, a very interesting new silhouette is presented. Our illustration herewith testifies to the youth and grace of this mode. By the way, this handsome costume-suit which is so typically springlike in its general effect, is fashioned of wool rep in what is called a desert shade, in other words, sand color.

There is a touch of embroidery on the low hip, grille, sash ends and belt-cuts. That embroidery is looked upon as a leading note, is welcome news, for it portends the touch of individuality. Ribbon trims, plaques, buttons and self trims of the material are advised and one of the most important details is the sash tie over the left hip.

Spring, and its lure for the great outdoors is upon us. Already the blue, green and gray. Especially pop-check for the body, bordered with brown silk knit which corresponds to the sleeves.

If you are looking into the matter of latest knit sweater coats or slips, a brief tabulation of the loveliest showings may help you in selection. There are charming new ideas in the way of silk and wool slip-overs with a pattern of perhaps grapes, roses or single conventional designs worked into the front. These garments come in combinations of French blue and silver gray, rose and silver, gold and silver, and so on. Especially poplar is rife with plans for outdoor sports and recreation, while fancy lightly turns to clothes as an all-absorbing theme. Apropos of this subject "what to wear" here is a prophesy—most of us will find ourselves yielding to the fascinations of knitted underwear, to a greater degree than ever before. Now this is not a rash forecast, it is simply a logical deduction for the knitted industry is giving a most flattering account of itself to the fashion world. Even the ular is any combination of color, for it is said all shades of yellow will be favored.

The Egyptian vogue is interpreted in a series of Oriental pull-overs sweaters and many of these have scarves to match.

Spinks is a clerk in a downtown broker's office. His salary is about $35 a week, but his clothes suggest a Fifth Avenue tailor, and his general air is that of a man of wealth. Once in a while he lurches at an expensive restaurant; the rest of the time he dodges into those armchair places. But anyone seeing him a little later as he nonchalantly draws a toothpick from his paper jacket would get the impression that an entirely different restaurant had been graced by Spinks' presence. Having taken the precaution to provide himself with a batch of toothpicks bearing the name of the rarely visited expensive restaurant and using them judiciously he makes his point.—New York Sun.

What's the genius? Is it the gift of Heaven, as some think, or is it capacity for hard work, as others think? I don't know, and don't care. Whatever it is, it has been talked too much. Its possibilities are estimated, or if not overestimated, least given too much importance, are tired and sick of this prattle. The genius, about some folks being with silver spoons in their mouths while the rest of the world must have a back seat. Pooh! Forget it. It is wholly a matter of emphasis. A so-called genius does not turn out well, nor fill his niche in life so much as does the person "th fewer talents." Why? Because the latter placed emphasis upon this: a worth while, the highly endowed individual and do so.—Nathaniel Howard Gist in Good Housekeeping.

What to Eat and Why

A Natural Supply of Vitamin

The word "Vitamin" is new, but the thing itself is as old as the human race. It is the energizing, vitalizing, growth-producing element in the right food. Its absence is a serious fault of the wrong food. When the food is right, there is no need to go to the drug store for Vitamin.

Grape-Nuts, the famous ready-to-eat cereal, supplies the natural Vitamin from the wheat, and a further supply is included in the cream or milk with which Grape-Nuts is eaten.

Grape-Nuts is delightfully crisp and appetizing, with a flavor which happily suggests the wholesome health-building goodness which the food contains. Grape-Nuts is as free as well as Vitamin, with brain content to stimulate intestinal action, are supplied by Grape-Nuts. Many of our modern, "refined" foods lack these vitally necessary elements.

Ship Canal Across Scotland. The project for the construction of a ship canal across Scotland, between the Clyde and Firth of Forth, has been brought to the front again in a recent meeting of the Mid-Scotland Ship Canal Association, which took place at the Royal United Service Institution. Two principal schemes have been proposed, one by the direct route, the other, which entails itself of existing waterways, is known as the Loch Lomond route. It is hoped that the meeting of the experts are divided as to the relative advantages of the two routes, and it was agreed that what should include expert engineers, representatives of shipping and of the British Admiralty, a selection of the best route would be made by this commission, whose work would be final. —Scientific American.

Oddly Constructed Residence. The most peculiar house in the United Kingdom would seem to be the triangular one built by Sir Thomas Fresham more than 300 years ago at Rushmore, in Northamptonshire. Its design is supposed to typify the Trinity. It has three stories, and each story has three windows on each of the three sides, while each of the windows in turn of the three stories is in the shape of a triangle—the three windows there are twelve panes, arranged in three fives, and the panes throughout are triangular.

and when to keep silent, but this was one of the times she felt she must speak. "I would not go far away with Mr. Drake, my dear," she said. "You know you cannot stand the weather as he can and it looks to me like rain."

"Oh, bother," crowed Mr. Rooster, "can't you see the weather is fine, and besides Mr. Drake told me this was sure to be a fine day and he ought to know; he is older than we are."

"It may be a fine day for ducks," replied Betty, "but not for hens and roosters. Better not go far away."

"Come along, don't let your wife boss you, Mr. Rooster," said Mr. Drake, who had just waddled along. "I never let my wives tell me what to do, and I have had several; it is going to be a fine day, I tell you."

Mr. Rooster lifted his head higher and strutted off with Mr. Drake down the road; the sun was shining and there were plenty of worms and bugs to be found, and though the sky did look dark once in a while Mr. Drake assured him that the weather was sure to keep fine, so Mr. Rooster went along where Mr. Drake led him. The first thing he knew he was in the woods and the rain was pattering on the leaves. "Guess I better run home," he said.

"Oh, this is fine weather," said Mr. Drake. "Don't be frightened by a little rain. You rest under this tree and I will take a swim in the pond. I do love a swim when it is raining."

So off went Mr. Drake leaving Mr. Rooster all dripping wet under the tree and feeling very unhappy, and he wished very much he had listened to his wife and stayed near the barnyard.

By and by the lightning flashed and the thunder rolled and down came the rain as if poured from a pail. Mr. Rooster started for home soaked to the skin, and when he crept under the barnyard gate his wife, who was pecking out from under some bushes, saw him. "What did I tell you?" she said. "I knew just how it would be. Now you come right into the house and dry those wet clothes and get into bed."

"I'll put your feet in hot water and give you ginger tea and wrap you up in a blanket and the next time Mr. Drake wants to go on an excursion tell him to take some one that likes wet weather," and she gave him a sharp peck to let him know she meant it.

Biddy talked so fast that Mr. Rooster could not get in a word edgewise, and he didn't have anything to say anyway, so he meekly obeyed, and that was how he became a henpecked husband, for after that when Mr. Rooster started to do anything his wife did not like she had only to say, "Remember your trip with Mr. Drake," and give him a peck with her bill and the question was settled the way Mrs. Biddy wanted it.

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

TABLE DECORATIONS

It is a bad plan that admits of no modifications.—Publius Syrus.

IT HAS been said that decorative flowers are even more important in the arrangement of the dinner table than the knives and forks; and true it is that the wise hostess takes as much thought in arranging her centerpiece as in seeing that the silver is freshly polished and properly arranged.

A fat pocketbook is not the only thing needed to make a tasteful floral arrangement on the dinner table. In fact, one need have very little money to spend in order to make an attractive and tasteful arrangement. An elaborate arrangement is no longer in good taste. Towering floral structures that really look like nothing so much as the "set pieces" that the florists prepare for far less joyous occasions are really quite bad, and the careful hostess does not leave the matter to the florist, but makes sure that something very simple in arrangement is selected. Except for a children's party or a dinner that is to be given in a spirit of extreme hospitality, paper decorations are not in good taste either. A cluster of roses or any other handsome or colorful flowers attractively arranged in a glass or silver vase is a charming selection. The addition of ferns or salt-tax adds to the effectiveness. The vase may be placed either on a bit of embroidered or lace-trimmed linen or on a silver tray that reflects the flowers and candles so as to add to the general effectiveness of the arrangement.

A short time ago some of the shops offered for sale rather splendid-looking centerpiece devices that combined a vase placed at the center of a silver standard and little bonbon or salted nut baskets that were hung up on the silver brackets that came out from the standard on all sides. This was rather a clever arrangement, but it was not in the best taste, for nowadays we are on a visit from the past of the centerpiece, as was the case when wonderful centerpieces were made of spun sugar and pastry. The only exception to this rule is in favor of choice fruits occasionally combined with the flowers.

"What's in a Name?"

Dr. MILDRED MARSHALL
FACTS about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

CAROLINE

IT'S a curious fact that some heroes lose value with time, popularity, when their deeds are recorded in romance. Such was the case of the famous Karl of the Franks, who is responsible for the origin of the famous name Caroline. The great emperor has suffered at the hands of romantic chroniclers, but history preserved the memory of "Carlo Magno," and from his name came a long series of masculine and feminine names.

The first feminine translation known is Carlota. This name was synonymous with Charlotte in those early times, and, indeed, Charlotte and the Caroline of today are almost interchangeable, if their origin is to be observed, no matter how separate and distinct they seem to be. Charlotte, at Carlot, of Savoy married Louis XI and introduced the name to French royalty. Charlotte Albert had the misfortune to be given in marriage to Cesare Borgia and had one daughter, who married into the house of La Tremouille, whence the brave Lady Derby carried it into England.

The illustriousness of that house connected it with the house of Beau-lon, whose married, Carol, or Charlotte, was married in 1588. There the house of Orange derived it and it became known in Germany and was brought to England in its full popularity by the good queen of George III. It gained sentimental value and an international fame through Goethe, who chose the name for his heroine of "Werther."

The first Caroline was evolved in Italy, but was quickly adopted by Southern Germany and in turn brought to England by the wife of George II, who made it extremely popular among the nobility. America received it first through the Carolinas (North and South), and its fame and popularity as a feminine proper name spread rapidly.

Caroline has numberless derivatives and contractions. England calls her Charlotte, Lotty, Chatty, Caroline and Carrie. In France she is Caroline, Charlotte and Little, Carlot and Lola are purely Spanish and Carolina and Carolina are the Italian versions. Germany preserves the original preference for Charlotte, Carolina and Lina.

Caroline's ultimate gem is the diamond. It promises her faithful love:

Find What CANADA has to offer YOU!

If your dream of success seems like a hopeless ambition, if you are discouraged trying to get ahead on high priced land, if your present location fails to give you opportunity, there is a new deal for you, a new chance in the fertile, virgin farms of Western Canada, where the best produce, 20 to 40 bushels to the acre, where the 1922 crop was biggest in history, where oats, barley and hay and fodder crops are the basis of a great dairy industry, and a man's work brings him success and prosperity.

Low Priced Land—the Last Great West

In Western Canada you still can buy virgin prairie land at $15 to $20 per acre, on long terms if desired, near to town, railroads, etc.—land such as has for many years produced the world's best wheat, oats, barley, flax, etc. All this for no "war time" land boom prices are not inflated—you get it on the ground floor.

Taxes Favor the Farmer as Values Increase

The tax laws of Western Canada encourage the producing farmer. The tax on land is reduced when it is brought under cultivation—while on your buildings, machinery, improvements, personal property, automobiles, there is no tax at all. A single crop to often worth more, acre for acre, than the cost of the land.

Rent Now—Buy Later Pay Out of Profits

Canada welcomes the industrial worker. What you have now don't so much want. If your capital is small, or you cannot wait your present business to advance, rent a little Canadian farm and "try it out" for a season or two. It's the best investment you can make, and you'll have a fine home when you are ready to buy. Farms may be rented from successful settlers on very terms in some cases with option of purchase.

Buy on Exceptional Terms—32 Years to Pay

For the benefit of those wishing to buy land a national non-profit shelter, the Canada Colonization Association, has been established with head office at Winnipeg, and United States office at St. Paul. This Association offers selected land convenient to railroads—much of it at $15 to $20 per acre—on very small cash payments, so far as payment until third year; balance attempted over thirty years, but purchaser may pay up and obtain title at any time if desired. Interest six percent per annum on deferred payments.

MOTOR COMPANY MAKE MILLIONTH CAR

millionth Buick car, which is to be one of the six-cylinder touring models known to the world as Number 55, was surrounded by several thousand Buick officials and workmen as it stood in one of the yards of the Buick plant. The crowd were four men who were more or less important participants in the making of the car, which started the Buick Company on its meteoric career twenty years ago. With them were hundreds of Buick men who have worked on more than 900,000 Buicks and thousands of Buick men who have been two thirds of the Buick million leave the plant. In brief here is the production of the Buick million car. The Buick million car is the product of the organization of the Buick Company in 1903.

It is not uncommon to hear remarks made by strangers visiting Chelsea with regard to the beauty of the streets and residence section of the village. Nowhere will prettier ornamental trees and shrubbery be found than right here in our own town.

Many are the fine modern homes of the village which are landmarks causing much comment. Among the later built residences will be found some of the newest ideas in building architecture, surrounded with verdant lawns and shrubbery.

This distinguishes the Buick feat that of any other manufacturer. The Buick product has won for it the choice of space at the National Automobile Shows for the last five years, which means that the Buick product is not only commonly accepted with quantity output, but it is one of the "High Spots" in the Buick production story that really came to mind in connection with the twentieth anniversary of the first year of its organization. The Buick Motor Company produced 16 automobiles with a two door motor.

1907 the first four cylinder appeared in four body models, open cars. Two cylinder cars also built in 1907 and 1908. Two cylinder cars by far outsold the others. But in 1909 sales of the Buick cars more than doubled those of the previous year.

1911 the first touring car with doors appeared, also the first Buick car, a limousine. In 1914 appeared the first Buick cylinder car model, B-55. It was a five passenger touring car, four door model.

1916 ten body models were built, six cylinder chassis and there were no Buick fours. There were in that year 125,000 Buicks, an increase of 80,000 over the previous year.

1917 and 1918 both fours and sixes were built, but in 1919, 1920 and 1921, only sixes. In 1922, the Buick four was brought out, the combination of fours and sixes now offered has broken all records.

VE BROS. STORE MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

Though open only since the 25th of November of last year the Grove Variety store on West Middle Street is attracting much attention from the part of customers seeking variety in the novelty line. The slogan, "A little out of the ordinary," is coming their way, and in their establishment is to be found that would do credit to any store. The size of the store is being appreciated by the community more and more as they become acquainted with the variety of goods represented there.

CON-HOLMES CO. EXPANSIVE BUSINESS

Wm. Bacon-Holmes Company, business in lumber, builders' materials, coal, grain, feeds and field crops, is one of the largest concerns in this section of the state. Incorporated in 1901, the company has a hard wheat flour, soft wheat flour and rye flour is finding ready sale and business at the local level is booming.

Mr. S. Holmes, under whose name the business is steadily growing, became identified with the company in 1916. He is one of the most widely known citizens, having to do with the welfare of the town. He is a member of the Light and Water Works Commission.

MANY LATE MODERN RESIDENCES ADD TO BEAUTY OF CHELSEA

It is not uncommon to hear remarks made by strangers visiting Chelsea with regard to the beauty of the streets and residence section of the village. Nowhere will prettier ornamental trees and shrubbery be found than right here in our own town.

Many are the fine modern homes of the village which are landmarks causing much comment. Among the later built residences will be found some of the newest ideas in building architecture, surrounded with verdant lawns and shrubbery.

Residence C. Lehman, S. Main St.

table pictures of landscape gardening, the envy of the less fortunate and the pride of the village in general.

This feature which embodies the beauty of the homes and the care which must be taken of such residences is not alone confined to the village, but extends many miles into the country about Chelsea. Large farm dwellings which boast electric lights and radios, can be found within a radius of a few miles of Chelsea, standing as monuments to the energy and effort of their owners.

Reproduced herewith are two of the late residences of the village, each being of the most modern type and equipped with the latest devices for home comfort. One is the residence of M. J. Dunkel, president and general manager of the Chelsea Screw Company, and the other is that of C. Lehman, secretary and treasurer of the Screw Company, both situated on South Main street.

MICHIGAN PORTLAND CEMENT CO. SELLING PRODUCT ALL OVER COUNTRY

One of Chelsea's leading industries is the manufacture of Portland Cement, in the large plant of the Michigan Portland Cement Co., located about three miles from the village. This company was organized and commenced manufacturing cement in 1911. Mr. N. S. Potter, Jr., Vice President and General Manager, directs the business and Mr. L. L. Griffiths is in charge of production.

The raw materials used in the manufacture of Michigan Portland Cement are limestone and clay. The limestone is quarried in Rogers, Michigan, and shipped to the plant and the clay is dug on the property of the company. The two are mixed in proper proportions, as determined by the company's chemists, and ground wet to extreme fineness. The resultant mixture is known as "Slurry."

The Slurry is then fed into rotary kilns for burning. The kilns are huge steel cylinders, 8 ft. in diameter by 125 ft. in length and are lined with fire brick. They are placed on a slight incline and revolve at the rate of about two revolutions per minute. The Slurry is fed into the upper end of the kiln and gradually flows towards the lower end. Powdered coal is used in burning, and about two hundred tons per day are consumed at the plant. The coal is first passed through dryers and then ground very fine. The ground coal is then forced through pipes by air pressure into the lower end of the kilns where it ignites and burns like a huge blow torch. A temperature of from 2500 to 3000 degrees F. is steadily maintained. The Slurry works from the upper end of the kiln into and through the burning zone where it is fused into small and extremely hard pieces known as "Clinker." This Clinker emerges from the kiln at white heat and is then passed through a cooler and placed in storage.

The Clinker is later taken from storage to the Finishing Department where it is ground to impalpable powder in two sets of mills, a small amount of crushed gypsum rock being added to control the setting time of the cement. This completes the manufacturing process and the resultant powder—"Portland Cement"—is conveyed to the storage bins and is ready for shipment.

The manufacturing of Cement has been described as tearing down a mountain and putting it through a sieve. The rock is blasted from the quarries. After going through the manufacturing process, it is reduced to a powder which will pass through a sieve having 40,000 meshes to the square inch. This sieve is finer than the finest silk and will hold water.

Every step in the process is directed and controlled by the chemists of the company's laboratory. Samples are taken and tests made every hour of the day and night. This insures the purchasers of the cement a uniform and high grade product at all times.

The company carries in stock at its main office in Chelsea bulletins explaining in detail the use of cement in all sorts of construction. These bulletins are published by the Portland Cement Association, of which the company is a member, and copies may be obtained free of charge by anyone interested, upon application.

CHELSEA ELEVATOR CO. INCORPORATED IN 1905

Nearly twenty years of business is the record of the Chelsea Elevator Co., it having been incorporated in 1905. At the present time F. E. Storms is president, Edwin Koehne vice president and W. R. Daniels secretary-treasurer.

A large business in grain, feed and coal is being done by the company, which operates just across the M. C. tracks on the west side of North Main street.

R. D. WALKER STARTED MANY YEARS AGO

Following a practice which has been found practical by many—that of learning the business and then "buying in," R. D. Walker is today sole owner and manager of the Holmes & Walker Hardware and Implement store on East Middle street. Mr. Walker started in the employ of Hoag & Holmes 26 years ago the second day of April. Seven years were spent in their employ, at the end of which time an interest in the firm was purchased by him. The partnership was continued with Mr. Holmes until December, 1921, shortly before the death of Mr. Holmes, when Mr. Walker purchased the entire business and has since conducted the affairs of the business with the help of able assistants.

A general line of hardware is carried besides furniture, implements and fancy goods.

"We treat you right" has been the favorite slogan of Mr. Walker in his conduct of the business and it is through his efforts that the business has grown to its present proportions.

H. B. MURPHY

Handling a line of furnaces, asphalt roofing, and doing a general tinning and acetylene welding business, H. B. Murphy, local tinner, is doing a good business in his line.

Mr. Murphy is a man of several years experience, having worked at the trade for 24 years. He is a Canadian by birth, and came to Chelsea in 1919.

In February this year he purchased the business of Updike & Harris and has since operated the rapidly growing business.

PALMER MOTOR SALES MAKES RAPID GROWTH

Claiming the distinction of being the first man to go into the automobile business in Chelsea and remain in the business until the present time, L. G. Palmer, proprietor of Palmer Motor Sales, has passed the twelve year mark in his career in this line of business.

Mr. Palmer first went into the automobile business 12 years ago,

Following his educational training he was employed with the Detroit River Tunnel Co., Detroit, for five years, and with the government a number of years, in the capacity of civil engineer, prior to permanently locating in Chelsea and taking up the business of selling Ford products. Much success has attended his efforts during the ten years he has been and one year later built the garage where he is now located. Additions were made in after years, a two story addition being built in 1918, making him a strictly fireproof building, said to be the only one of fire proof construction in the village. In this building Mr. Palmer has a total of 6850 square feet of floor space.

Mr. Palmer is a native of Chelsea, identified with this line and at the present time both sales and service are working to capacity.

Beside the automobile business, accessories are handled, the firm being distributors for the Exide battery and have the exclusive agency for Goodyear tires. A full line of radio goods is handled, specializing in the Westinghouse product.

H. H. LYONS IS A CHELSEA PRODUCT

H. H. Lyons, who has owned and operated the Lyons' Shoe Market for the past five years, is a Chelsea product. In 1896 he started his shoe trade, working for U. H. Townsend then in the basement of the Miller Sisters—in 1898 Walter Leach took over the shoe shop of Thomas Leach, located on the site now the Overland Garage. Mr. Lyons worked for him off and on several years.

After spending a number of years in other cities and towns he returned here in 1918 where he says he is offering the best shoe bargains ever offered to this community as well as his skill as a first class shoe maker.

WINANS AMONG OLDEST MERCHANTS

A. E. Winans is one of the oldest business men in Chelsea. Thirty-seven years ago he began working for his uncle, Lewis Winans, in the drug and jewelry business, learning the trade with which he has been identified since that of a jeweler.

Twelve years after starting in the employ of his uncle, Mr. Winans went into business for himself, being then located in the room now occupied by the Toburen billiard hall, and moved to his present location five years later.

Along with the jewelry business Mr. Winans has conducted the affairs of the American Railway Express company for more than twenty years. His son is also associated with him in the business, the firm now being known as A. E. Winans & Son.

Fire on January 4, of this year, damaged the room occupied by this firm and made remodeling necessary, so that now they have ideal quarters newly decorated and finished.

Everything in the jewelry line is handled by the local firm, besides a news stand and optical business.

HANDLES VEHICLES LINE TWENTY-SIX YEARS

Starting in business twenty-six years ago, at which time he conducted a planing mill, manufacturing wagons, carriages and sleighs, Adam G. Faist has seen much of the development in local business during this period.

Mr. Faist entered the automobile business in August, 1911, handling the Overland and Willys-Knight cars, a line which he has adhered to the entire time of his automobile career. In 1915 he put up the handsome brick garage on West Middle street and added much needed room to care for his rapidly increasing business.

On January 1 this year, Mr. Faist took into partnership with him, Oscar Lindauer, who is now associated with him in the conduct of the business. Five persons are employed the year round while during the winter months one or two extra painters are usually employed to take care of extra work.

Mr. Faist is a native of Sharon township, receiving his early education in the Sharon schools prior to entering upon his business career in Chelsea.

LOCAL ATTORNEY HAS SERVED IN LEGISLATURE

Among the professional men of the village John Kalmbach is perhaps as well known as any. He is a native of this vicinity having been born and reared on a farm in Sylvan. His early education was secured at Sylvan Center, he later attending Detroit Law college, from which he graduated.

Mr. Kalmbach resided on a farm in Sylvan for a number of years, but upon his graduation from law school he returned and located in Chelsea where he has been actively engaged in the practice of law since. He served two years, 1911-1912 as a member of the state legislature from the first district of Washtenaw county.

EXPERIENCED MEN HEAD CHELSEA HARDWARE CO.

Chelsea Hardware Company history dates back a good many years. Seven years ago the hardware was purchased of J. N. Dancer by A. B. Clark, H. R. Schoenhals and J. B. Cole, at which time it was named the Chelsea Hardware company. Two years later A. G. Hindelang and E. A. Fahrner purchased the interests of Messrs. Clark and Cole. Mr. Schoenhals remaining with the new firm. Business was transacted by these three men as partners until January 1 of this year when Hindelang and Fahrner retired from the business, and J. L. Kilmer entered into partnership with Mr. Schoenhals in the conduct of the hardware store.

Mr. Schoenhals, the senior member of the firm, has been in Chelsea fifteen years most of which he has been identified with the hardware trade. He is a native of Howell.

Mr. Kilmer is an experienced hardware man, having been employed with the firm of Holmes & Walker prior to his identification with the Chelsea Hardware Co. He is a native of this vicinity.

O. T. HOOVER HOLDS POST FIFTEEN YEARS

Not the least of a town's assets is its postal department and the service rendered therein. Conduct of the affairs of the department call for qualities not to be found in every one who undertakes the job, and so it is an uncommon thing to find a postmaster who has held his commission under different administrations until fifteen years shall have been passed in the employ of Uncle Sam.

But O. T. Hoover has held the job. His first appointment came in 1908 during the Roosevelt administration. Later appointments were received under the Taft, Wilson and Harding administrations, he serving from 1903 to 1915 and from 1920 to the present time.

Although a native of Grass Lake, Mr. Hoover came to Chelsea in 1878.

O. T. HOOVER

After working at the printing business for a number of years he purchased the Chelsea Standard and issued his first paper on July 3, 1891. Upon his appointment as postmaster in 1903 the Standard was sold to Glen Stimpson. However, not being able to "break away" entirely, he with Archie Wilkinson re-purchased the Standard in 1906. In 1915 Mr. Wilkinson's interest in the newspaper was purchased by Mr. Hoover and following that time he conducted the affairs of the paper, alone until in 1920 when it was sold to M. W. McClure, one of the present proprietors.

Mr. Hoover has done much in this time to improve postal service in Chelsea. Satisfaction is generally expressed to such an extent that repeated appointments have followed.

"MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME" WILL BE SHOWN AT PRINCESS

"My Old Kentucky Home," an original story by Anthony Paul Kelly, who wrote the continuity of "Way Down East," named after the famous ballad and directed by Ray C. Smallwood, will have its initial presentation here at the Princess Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, April 11 and 12.

"My Old Kentucky Home" is a story of the South, of mother love, with a beautiful human romance running through it. It has thrills aplenty and has tremendous action, especially in the racing scenes. It has been compared to "Way Down East" for its wholesomeness and is making motion picture history throughout the land.

A splendid all-star cast is headed by Monte Blue, one of the country's favorite screen actors. Others are Sigrid Holmquist, Julia Swayne Gordon, Lucy Fox, Frank Currier, Matthew Burt and Arthur Carew. The scenes are lavish and well photographed. The big melodramatic punch, the Kentucky Derby, where is seen the running of that annual classic event and the winning of the race by a horse on which a proud Southern widow has staked her all for her boy, are remarkable. They were taken at the race track in Lexington.

The story has to do with a young man who has been railroaded to prison and when released fears to go home for breaking his mother's heart. He hears the strains of "My Old Kentucky Home," resolves to go home. How he lives in fear of being exposed, how a villain tried to wreck his life and take his sweetheart from him and how he wins in the end is unfolded in a great big human way.

This story represents the great writer of western romances at his best. Its plot is ingenious and stirring, its characters truly drawn and its narration absorbing in the highest degree. Cowboys of the real, not the moving picture type, contribute a vast amount of thrilling incident and no little humor. The scene is placed upon the Mexican border and brings in the depredations of bandits and rebels.

Many stories have told of the physical and moral reconstruction of eastern men by the West, but here we have one that centers upon the good effects of a western environment on the character and viewpoint of a wealthy, spoiled society girl. The soil of her own heart was ripe for beneficent culture, as expressed in the following quotation from the story:

"There had been months of unrest, of curiously painful wonderment that her position, her wealth, her popularity no longer sufficed. She believed that she had lived through the dreams and fancies of a girl to become a woman of the world. And she had gone on as before, a part of the glittering show, but no longer blind to the truth—that there was nothing in her luxurious life to make it significant."

A stirring of affection for a wayward brother who had begun a new life in the cattle country and a desire for change, caused her to visit the West. Arriving alone and in the dead of night at one of the wildest of the cowtowns, she had a particularly thrilling experience, one that would jolt the serenity of a western woman, and that to a girl of her experience and upbringing was shocking and unsettling in the highest degree. One of the wildest, bravest, handsomest, most dissolute and at the same time most generous and capable of the cowboys figured in the affair. Perhaps the jolt was what the girl needed. At any rate, it did her no great harm and eventually resulted in the awakening of a womanliness and a soul which up to that time had not been greatly evident.

OUT under the wonderful western stars, near the turbulent Mexican border of the present day, most of the action in this thrilling story takes place.

While replete with the atmosphere, romance, exciting events and human elements so characteristic of its author's work, it strikes a note that is different from the average of western fiction; indeed, it is quite different from any of Zane Grey's other stories and has been acclaimed in various quarters as the best he has yet written.

After overcoming her first fright, the girl began to love the West. She saw an opportunity to use her great wealth and to exert her personal endeavors in improving the country by the purchase of a cattle ranch. She did much for the people of the country, but almost immediately her ranch became the center of a border warfare. She stopped the downward journey of the reckless cowboy aforementioned by going in person and taking him out of a wretched Mexican hole called Chiricahua, by placing him in a position of trust and responsibility as her superintendent, and by arousing his self-respect and eventually his love for her. He and her other loyal cowboys defended her property from the bandits and he rescued her when she was captured by them. She repaid the debt by rescuing him from a sentence of death after his capture by Mexican rebels. The heart awakening of this man and woman furnishes the love interest, as expressed by the following declaration, made after a misunderstanding between them and as he was about to take his departure, as she expected never to see her again:

"You don't know I love you, do you? That ever since you stood before me in that hole in Chiricahua, I've loved you? You can't see I've been another man, loving you, working for you, living for you? You won't believe I've turned my back on the old wild life, that I've been decent and honorable and happy and useful—your kind of a cowboy? You couldn't tell though I loved you, that I never wanted you to know it, that I never dared to think of you except as my angel, my holy virgin? What do you know of a man's heart and soul? How could you tell of the love, the salvation of a man who's lived his life in the silence and loneliness? Who could teach you the actual truth—that a wild cowboy, faithless to mother and sister, except in memory, riding a hard, drunken trail straight to hell, had looked into the face, the eyes of a beautiful woman infinitely beyond him, above him, and had so loved her that he was saved—that he became faithful again—that he saw her face in every flower and her eyes in the blue heaven?"

Of course, a man who could plead like that was not to be withstood. The result was that he gained a wife and society lost a cherished leader.
