"BILL"

Well, now that the Fourth is over and we can again settle back to a more peaceful and quiet mode of living, we can also look forward to the next holiday. It really isn't so far away either when you consider, Labor Day is the next one, but there is no use counting on it until we get closer to it, because something might come along and change it and then we'd be all out of luck.

The Fourth was rather quiet here. Although many families had their little get-togethers, which afforded much pleasure there was no big celebration. Several of the small towns nearby though had celebrations that afforded good times.

Many people picked up their lunch or dinner and went to the lakes nearby where they enjoyed a peaceful day sitting around in the shade. Others went to places where thousands gathered, and tried to think that they had a good time.

The latter was the case with Bill. If the crowds had been any bigger it might have been called an angry mob, but as it was, there were just about enough people to make you think about hanging onto your pocketbook and about enough autos to make you wonder if there were any chance of getting across the street without being killed.

According to the latest reports there were no serious injuries resulting from fireworks in Chelsea. We can at least say that Chelsea enjoyed a safe and sane 4th.

Of course there are exceptions, possibly the person that was escorted to the village "Coop" did not figure that the celebration was just what it might have been, but—

Evidently no one had fire crackers powerful enough to blow the hitching posts from their settings on the Fourth because they were all there Thursday. Maybe no one had the nerve to blow them up.

Now that the Dempsey-Gibbons fight is over and they have settled their affairs, you can start getting your ready for the 12th when Willard and Fripp set to it to see who can take the most punishment.

A news item tells that there are now one-armed automobile drivers in Pennsylvania this year than ever before. In the first three months of the year 613 special operators licenses were issued. There are lots of those around Chelsea, too, but they don't have to get a special license, for they have two arms, but use only one with each to drive.

Complaints are being made about the bark and "fine shrubbery" along Main street. It might not be a bad idea to have the "stuff" trimmed before it is too late. There is one thing certain, an albat that it is not at all becoming or beautifying.

National politics seems to be heading toward a climax. But there is considerable contention among politicians. In Chicago the federal labor party with a platform under the leadership of the workers party of America was born last evening. The platform of the new party is described as "too red, communistic and shevike" and too radical for even

THREE NEARLY DROWNED WHEN CAR TURNS TURTLE

CARLOAD OF MEN FOLLOWING, RESCUE VICTIMS.

A serious accident which might have resulted in the death of three persons was narrowly averted Thursday afternoon about 3 o'clock when other motorists assisted in saving Adam Kalmbach when his car ran into the creek north of town.

Kalmbach and his grandson and another little boy, were returning to the Kalmbach home west of Chelsea. They were going out North Main street and were just at the turn in the road. A milk can in the rear of the Overland touring car had upset and Kalmbach turned around thinking it possibly had been one of the boys, who had fallen. In turning he swerved the car which ran off the road and into the ditch.

In attempting to put on the brakes, his foot rested on the accelerator and the car increased in speed, running into the creek and turning turtle. Kalmbach was pinned under the wheel and was entirely under water when rescued. One of the small boys was making a desperate effort to get out but the other little fellow was under water.

Roy Dillon, driving his car, with four other men, were on their way to the baseball game in Stockbridge and were traveling right behind Kalmbach. When they saw him go into the ditch they at once stopped and ran toward the car, which had turned over. The men turned the car over and rescued the three occupants. Had the rescuers been even a few seconds later Kalmbach would have been drowned, his head being entirely under water, and his body pinned so that he could not move.

No one was hurt in any way in the accident. The car had a broken windshield and a smashed top, but otherwise was not damaged.

The one little lad had not been caught and he was making desperate effort to save himself, and was partly out of water. The other little lad could not free himself and had swallowed some of the muddy creek water, which had made him sick. The curve at the end of North Main street just at the creek is a bad one and is not well protected for a state trunk line. A right angle turn has to be made just after crossing the creek and a person unaccustomed to the road could easily be confused. The only protection offered at the curve is the railing on the small bridge. Just at this place the creek is about two feet deep.

LIVE STOCK DEVELOPMENT IN WASHTENAW

And the County FAIR.

Four years ago, Earl W. Martin, manager of the County Fair, made the statement that a good fair would increase the value of Washtenaw County's Live Stock $1,000,000.00 in ten years. Present prospects indicate that such will be the case. There are 3500 farms in the county and the increase of $5,000.00 Live Stock valuation on 200 farms will reach the above figure.

There has never been such interest before in better live stock as is indicated at this time and the prospect for a real display of high class cattle at the coming fair is most encouraging. There are already three times as many members in the calf clubs as last year and the Holstein breeders assert that there will be more Holsteins shown this year than there were all kinds of cattle put together last year.

During the past year several of the best bred bulls in America and one of the most famous in the world have been brought to Washtenaw. A large number of purebred herds have been started and many of the existing herds greatly strengthened. Many breeders are realizing that "type" is merely the way a good animal should look to sell for good figures and the right kind of sire and dams will soon produce a herd of such animals.

CHELSEA ENJOYS QUIET FOURTH

The people of Chelsea celebrated a safe and sane Fourth Wednesday. No accidents were reported here during the day. The town was quiet and deserted most of the day, while the people sought comfort and pleasure at the lakes or elsewhere.

Many motored to other places where celebrations and fetes were being given, seeking pleasure there. Traffic on the highways was continuous all day long into the night. No accidents were reported near here.

At Owosso two boys were killed while celebrating the Fourth with home-made explosives. They had made a cannon from a piece of pipe and were using sulphur, saltpeter and other chemicals to make the explosion. They were killed outright when too large a charge was placed in the pipe and it exploded. The boys were 16 and 17 years of age.

In Detroit there were many accidents from fireworks, while many serious there have been no fatalities. In Chicago eight have been reported killed from celebrations. In most all cases those killed were children and youths.

LOOK OUT FOR INFERIOR CLOVER.

A German firm informs the State Farm Bureau that Europe has very good prospects for a big red clover crop. Conditions are very promising in Austria, Hungary and Roumania.

These countries expect to be great exporters of red clover, alfalfa and timothy in 1923. They are prospecting for markets. Michigan Agricultural College and Michigan farm tests have shown that this seed is far behind our Michigan or northwestern grown clovers. It winter kills. Millions of pounds of this inferior stuff is bound to come in and will be mixed with good seed by some distributors. The Michigan State Farm Bureau Seed Department handles only northern grown Michigan and northwest seed. When you plant Farm Bureau brands, you can't go wrong.

17 STATES HAVE GASOLINE TAX

There. Users of Roads Are Paying Just Share of Upkeep.

Washington, July 5.—Tourists, commercial truck and transportation companies and all automobilists in 17 states are paying a gasoline tax and are doing their share to pay for the construction and maintenance of good roads. In these states farmers are being relieved of the injustice of keeping up the roads almost single handed for a travel which is very often two-thirds commercial and pleasure cars from the cities.

Similar statutes are pending in California and Illinois. A gasoline tax law was defeated in Michigan by Governor Groesbeck's veto after both Houses in the Legislature had passed the bill by an overwhelming vote, but the farmers say that that is far from being the end of a gas tax in Michigan.

If the highway financing burden in Michigan were distributed among the 700,000 automobile owners, in proportion to the amount which they used their autos, as is automatically done through a gas tax, no one would feel the tax burden, and the present injustice to farmers and other general property owners would be removed.

SEC. OF AGRICULTURE CALLS HEARINGS ON STOCKYARDS RATES AT DETROIT, BUFFALO

July 5, 1923.—Because of the making of new schedules of charges for the handling of livestock at the Buffalo and Detroit stockyards, the Secretary of Agriculture, through the Packers and Stockyards Administration, has ordered the owners of these yards, the New York Central Railroad Company and the Michigan Central Railroad Company, to appear at hearings to answer the charge that these new rates are not justified at this time. The hearing in the Detroit case will be held in the Federal Building at that city, beginning July 19, 1923.

The new rates of charges, which are the same at both these stockyards, are as follows:

Cattle, when fed in the stockyards 30 cents, when not fed in the yards 50 cents.
Calves, 300 pounds or under: when fed in the yards 25 cents, when not fed in the yards 35 cents.
Hogs, when fed in the yards, 12 cents when not fed in the yards 22 cents.
Sheep or goats: when fed in the yards 8 cents, when not fed in the yards 14 cents.

The new rates for yardage on animals fed in the yards show an increase of 2 cents a head on cattle, 5 cents on calves, 1 cent on hogs and 1 cent on sheep and goats over the rates previously in effect.

In addition to these specific changes the reasonableness and lawfulness of all rates and charges for stockyard service at these markets will be considered at these hearings before the Packers and Stockyards Administration. At these hearings two respondents named and all interested parties will have the right to appear and show cause why the Secretary of Agriculture should not issue a further order in respect to these schedules of rates and charges.

WILL ROGERS AS ICHABOD CRANE PRESENTS HIS GREATEST SCREEN IMPERSONATION

The many admirers of Will Rogers will find a treat in store for them at the Princess theater next Sunday, when the Polles star and variety expert will be seen as the picturesque character of Ichabod Crane in "The Headless Horseman" or "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," a filmization of Washington Irving's most popular American classic.

Will Rogers, whose popularity extends from coast to coast is one of the best liked and cleverest of comedians. In the role of Ichabod Crane, a character that has been studied and admired through the past generation, Mr. Rogers presents one of the most laughable characters of his film career. According to those who have already witnessed a pre-release showing of this production it is stated that his work will be an epoch in his career.

The producer combed the motion picture industry for a character that could portray authentically and properly the peculiar Ichabod Crane and it was only after a diligent search that Mr. Rogers was found and agreed to utilize his historic abilities in the presentation of this difficult character.

Ichabod Crane the old schoolmaster of Sleepy Hollow whose superior learning made him the idol of girlish heart and whose love for good food caused him to decide to fall in love with the wealthy and beautiful Katrina Van Tassel, is a character that is a ready-made fit for Will Rogers. It is understood that he not only looks the part and in the words of a critic positively brings this time-honored school master of Sleepy Hollow back to life upon the screen. It is a bit of characterization that will live for many seasons upon the screen and for those who see this production the name of Will Rogers and Ichabod Crane will live in their minds for ever.

It is felt by the producers that the millions who have followed the out-of-the-ordinary courtship of Ichabod Crane in book form will relish the good humor with which Will Rogers brings to this little love affair, and to those who have gaped at the terrible midnight prowling Gobbie who has thrown fear into the hearts of all of the Sleepy Hollow inhabitants will thoroughly enjoy the supernatural and "spooky" atmosphere and the exciting chase in which the headless Ichabod was forced to flee for his life from the "headless Horseman."

GETTING RID OF THE BOSS.

Three developments in the communistic experiment in Russia should serve as a lesson to those persons who have been deceived by communistic propaganda. The first of these was that although the Russian experiment purported to be control of government and industry by the people the actual control of both was by an autocracy maintaining its power by armed force. There is probably no other country in the world today where the people as a whole or the so called proletariat, have less to say about the management of the government or of industry than they do in Russia.

The second development was an effort to turn unsuccessful industries over to the workmen engaged in each enterprise. It was thought that since invested capital could not claim a share in the returns and workmen have only their own interests and profits to consider, direct control by the workmen would result in increased profits for the industry and the individual. According to recent dispatches however this theory has proved fallacious. There was a marked decrease in total production per man, these decreases being explained by the statement that workmen managers retained much greater number of workmen than necessary or economically possible and entered into a new agreement increasing the minimum wage for everybody by 25 per cent.

The third development was an admission by the soviet leaders that they could not get along without capital and that an effort would be made to formulate a plan of leasing under which outside capital might be induced to enter Russia and undertake the operation of plants which had failed under communistic operation. After having practically confiscated the capital previously invested in plants, the communists were not even able to operate them at a profit and sought new capital which however hesitates to go in for fear of another era of confiscation.

This experiment in Russia indicates what would happen if American industries were turned over to speakers instead of to trained men to operate. Theoretically if the workmen could confiscate the capital that has amassed in a very few years by Henry Ford and could then take charge of the operation of the plants they could save themselves the profits that now go to the owner of the capital. Experience however would repeat the demonstration that has been given offered the world by Russia. Mr. Ford's ability as an industrial manager and mechanic enabled him to accumulate the capital and direct the successful operation of his enterprise. It is that managerial ability as well as capital and a mastery of business problems that elude of concerns must have if their enterprise is to make instead of lose money.

If Trotsky were in control of the American army he would probably confiscate the Ford property but he could not operate it successfully nor could he make a success of it if he turned it over to the Ford employees to operate. He might by chance find some man in the shop as capable as Ford but men of his ability are not discovered every day or even in every generation. If a communistic government of the United States should confiscate the Ford properties it could not induce men of his industrial ability to put their skill to full use as they have in the past. What is true of the Ford plant is true of every other.

THE OLD WAY.

Precedent sticks like glue. The first typewriter had to have a keyboard so the inventor arranged the keys in a row as on a piano. The first railroad cars were copied from stage coaches, even had brakes on the side. The airplane copied the bird.

Quite natural to imitate. It is hard to get old ideas and methods out of our head even when effecting revolutionary changes.

Not a bad idea at that this harking back to the discoveries of the previous epochs when we consider ways and means for today. Truths are as fundamental now as they ever were. This though do find new methods of applying the laws of nature and man.

No matter how many statutes we pass for instance we have not discovered a better foundation for our laws than the brief constitution our forefathers drew, and we never will.

Some of the stuff that is sold for liquor must make the old time barrel house keepers over in their graves.

WHY

Game Birds Should Be Planted in Suitable Covers

Planting game birds means liberating them in suitable covers where they may remain and increase their kind. In states having state game farms thousands of pheasants are sent out each year to sportsmen for liberation. Many sportsmen's organizations purchase these birds to improve shooting conditions in their vicinity. Bob white quail are imported by the thousands from Mexico, while the Hungarian partridges are brought from Europe, all with the intent of furnishing more game for the sportsmen.

Few realize the necessity of liberating such birds properly, remarks a New York Evening Post writer. We were greatly surprised only recently to hear a man who had been liberating a great number of birds remark that he enjoyed doing this kind of work because he liked to see the birds fly.

What sportsman does not like to see a game bird fly? We all do, but when liberating birds with the view of restocking depleted covers we would feel that our efforts had almost been wasted should we see any of the liberated birds fly immediately after they were released.

When birds are received in a crate and it is the intent to liberate them all at one place, the problem of keeping them from flying is a very simple one. The crate should be placed at the edge of a suitable cover for the birds and a quantity of grain scattered nearby. Dampen your crate by covering it with canvas or burlap excepting one corner, where, by opening the sliding door, sufficient space should be left for the birds to walk out. Having done this, go away and leave them and do not return to get the crate until there is no chance of frightening the birds.

This method permits the birds to walk out cautiously and look over their new home at leisure. They stay banded together for the time being and return for several days to the place where liberated to secure the food that has been placed there for them.

Good Form.—Chaperons are going out of fashion, it is true, but the old convention should not be entirely disregarded. Today girls are going with men to the theatre, to public restaurants and to parties without chaperones. It should not be allowed with school girls unless the party consists of a group of school friends and the girl returns home early. Parents should supervise care fully the escort of school girls.

Second Largest Copper Deposits in Europe Are Reported by Government.

Stockholm.—The largest deposits of sulphur ore and copper are ever discovered in Sweden, and the second largest copper deposits in Europe, are the subject of an exhaustive report just published by Axel Gavelin, chief of the Swedish government's geological research department. This new wealth of ore, the presence of which was detected recently by the use of electrical instruments, lies in latitude 65 north, near Kusfors station. Tests already made by Mr. Gavelin show that the copper ore contains as high as 10 per cent of copper, the average run being estimated at 4 per cent, while the sulphur content of the sulphur ore is as high as 41 1/2 per cent. It is estimated that this new mining field will yield annually 1,500 tons of copper and 100,000 tons of sulphur ore. The possibility of getting so large a supply of native sulphur is regarded as of economic significance to Sweden, as it can make all of the Norland sulphite cellulose mills independent of sulphur imports.

Other Metals Found.

Mr. Gavelin also reports the discovery of zinc, arsenic, gold, silver, lead and antimony, but the veins of these metals are believed to be too small for profitable exploitation. Research is continuing and further important discoveries are probable.

A new Swedish film company has just been organized under the leadership of Ivan Hedqvist, one of the leading actors and motion picture directors in Sweden. Associated with him are a number of Swedish "stars," including the famous dancer, Miss Jenny Hasequist. The new enterprise is backed, according to report, by several proprietors of motion picture theaters. Production is to begin immediately on a play written directly for the screen.

Fifty railroad locomotives for narrow gauge roads have just been ordered from the Swedish firm of Nylquist & Holm for Argentine railways.

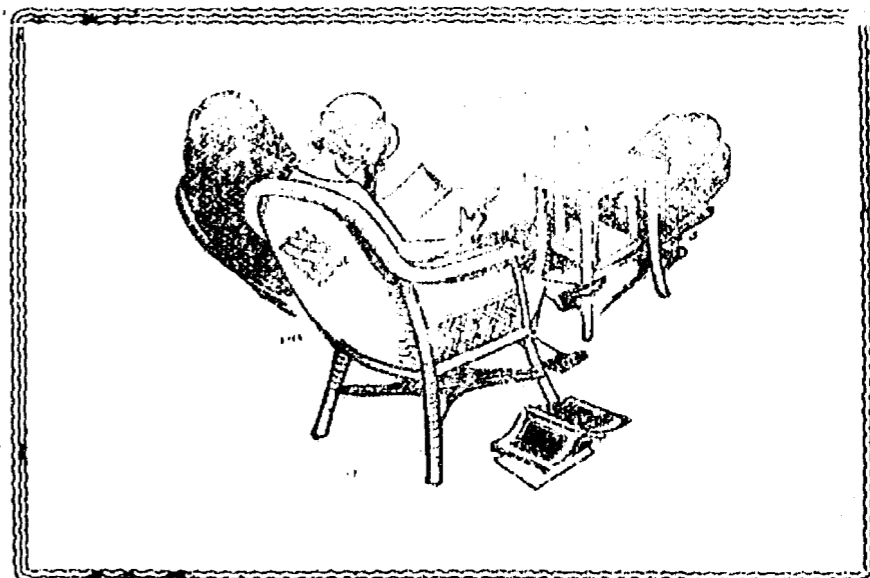

This is one of the successful results of a recent campaign throughout South America made by an expedition of Swedish salesmen.

Other Trade Developments.

Indicating the rapid extension of Swedish industrial influence to other countries is the news that the L. M. Erickson Telephone company has obtained the concession for all the telephone service in and about Valencia, Spain. A subsidiary company has been incorporated in Spain with a capital of 1,000,000 Spanish pesetas for the purpose of administering this new business. All of the mechanical equipment is to be manufactured in Sweden. The director of the subsidiary is H. Wahlquist, who is negotiating for other Spanish concessions.

The United States continues to be a strong buyer of Swedish wood pulp. American paper mills have already purchased 100,000 tons of bleached and unbleached sulphite since the beginning of the year, and it is predicted that this figure will at least be doubled before the end of the year. The report also says that 85,000 tons of sulphate cellulose have been purchased for delivery to America this year.

THE BEST THE FARMS PRODUCE

By WALTER W. HEAD

First Vice-President, American Bankers Association

Walter W. Head

Every banker and business man in the country is interested in the farm from another viewpoint than merely a place to raise farm products and livestock. Above all the farm is one of the places where we can best bring up our boys and girls.

Thousands of men and boys each year are looking to the city. There is no city where they are not expected to receive much more in the way of compensation.

But back on the farms are men working for a reasonable return, and in addition they have their houses, the wonderful sunshine above in the daytime, the wonderful fresh air and all the things that the soil produces. The boy who is raised on the farm will have an entirely different aspect of life and approach the various problems with which he has to deal in later years in a different way from the boy who is raised in the city.

In this period of unrest we are certainly vitally interested in robbing both on the farms and in the cities boys and girls with the proper outlook for the future, imbued with the belief that the activity in which they are engaged is, after all, something that will provide them both with the necessary things of life and with happiness. For in happiness there is contentment, and in contentment in America there is safety for our institutions.

Every single banker should feel that the problems his farmer customers have to contend with are not only the farmer's problems, but his problems as well. He should feel not only that the farmer must be prosperous so that he can deposit more in his bank, giving the banker more to loan and thereby increasing his profits, but that also there is something which cannot be measured in dollars and cents. It is the thought of rendering such service to their customers—regardless of whether they are farmers, men working in the shops, or big business men of the cities—that will bring not only prosperity but contentment as well. The banker should be as his motto: "Who serves best profits most."

Co-operative Marketing

Agriculture produces enough to feed the people the year around but some of this production should be stored to eliminate the over supply at times of harvest or during periods of high production. It can then be drawn upon the market in accordance with consumptive demands.

Co-operative marketing is still in its infancy. In a few localities where farmers have been properly organized and provided themselves with adequate facilities to store their products they have been able to considerably stabilize prices, to the advantage both producer and consumer.

Farmers are looking for a scientific merchandising basis upon which to market their products. It is extremely important that they organize rightly the commodity basis and secure efficient capable management and adequate financing. This cannot be done in a day, a week, or a month, nor in a year or ten years. It must be by gradual growth and development. The problem is so important it demands the best thought of not only farmers but educators, bankers and business men.—Banker-Farmer.

But meanwhile the politicians start manipulating the base of the currency. They would change it from the standard to a fiat money plan, a gold guarantee to the microcosm of the government that a piece of paper was worth a dollar. They wouldn't be watching the politicians. He would do so many things. At the end of the day, he has his thousand dollars, he goes to the landowner and says, "Buy your land now—here's the dollars."

SOME HARD FACTS ABOUT SOFT MONEY

By JOHN OAKWOOD

When a farmer takes his product to market and sells it for, say, a dollar a bushel, he is dependent upon the honesty of two measures—the dollar and the bushel.

The other day a crossroads storekeeper got sent to jail for manipulating a trick bushel basket with a false bottom that would slide up and down in a way that was grand, gloomy and mysterious. When using it to measure stuff he bought from a farmer, he'd secretly shove the bottom down until it held at least a bushel and a quarter, but he would only credit him with a bushel. The buying power of the farmer's product was thereby depreciated by about twenty per cent.

Finally the farmers themselves got wise to the fact that the only way they could get what was coming to them was to enforce a reliable standard of measurement. So they put a good stiff jail penalty on using a false measure, laid for that storekeeper with the trick basket and sent him to prison.

Politicians in Europe have been manipulating the other measure—the money measure—in much the same way. Some of them in America want to tamper likewise with the dollar. Here is about the way it would work out. Suppose, when the farmer brought his product to market, the basket measure was honest enough and he got a dollar bill for each bushel. He'd take his dollars home and save them. Perhaps he planned to buy some land next his own for a thousand dollars, and figured that in a year or so he could make it.

They say the former kaiser's wife has left him. Another war he lost.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

REPLY TO DODGE REPORT IN CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LITIGATION

To the Editor:

In your issue of June 8 appeared an article with the heading "Dodge Report in Christian Science Litigation Filed," purporting to give an account of the findings of the master in the legal proceedings mentioned. This account published by you was furnished to a newspaper syndicate by one of the litigants, and since it is intended to influence opinion in favor of its author pending a final decision of the whole question by the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, it is most unfair and misleading. That your readers may not be deceived space is asked for a brief correction.

The author of the account published by you (the plaintiff in the case) commenced a suit against The Board of Directors of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, to annul his dismissal from that Board. He was dismissed under a By-Law contained in the Manual of The Mother Church which provides that a majority vote of The Board of Directors may dismiss a member of the Board. The Manual was written by Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science for the government of her church organization and is accepted as final authority for that purpose by every loyal Christian Scientist. It must be so accepted before one can be admitted as a member of either of The Mother Church or of one of its branches. Provision is made in the Manual for one Board of Directors of five members for the transaction of all the business of The Mother Church. Section 5 of Article 1 of this Manual, under the provisions of which the plaintiff was dismissed, has been in force since July 30, 1903. The account printed by you was misleading in that it did not state that the master found that this By-Law was in full force and effect at the time plaintiff became a member of the Church, at the time he became a Director, and at the time he was dismissed.

The account published by you does not state the conclusion of the master that the preparation and adoption of the resolution of dismissal was not wholly induced by feelings of hostility and dislike of the plaintiff on the part of the other Directors, as was charged by him. Nor does it mention the plaintiff's participation in the controversy, which later reached the point of litigation, between The Board of Directors and the Trustees of The Publishing Society, although the master's report continually referred to that subject and found in it "the controlling motive" which induced the dismissal. This omission is significant because, notwithstanding the fact that the same master presented a report in that case which was fully as adverse to The Board of Directors as in the present instance, the final decision of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts unanimously upheld the authority of the Manual of The Mother Church and sustained the claims of The Board of Directors. Thus the Court overruled practically all of the master's findings relative to the application of law to the facts found in the case.

The account as published, although headed to indicate that it contained only information relative to the findings of the master, closed with a paragraph calculated to produce public sentiment against the form of church government established by Mrs. Eddy. For instance, it mentions a "self-perpetuating Board of Directors," in a manner which induces the thought of condemnation or reproach, although it was Mrs. Eddy herself, both in an important trust deed dated September 1, 1892 (Manual, page 130) and in the Manual (Article 1, Section 5) who established The Christian Science Board of Directors with the obligation to fill its own vacancies.

On page 230 of her book, "First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany," Mrs. Eddy has written: "This church is impartial. Its rules apply not to one member only, but to one and all equally." And again on the same page she says: "Now standing the sacrilegious moth of time, eternity awaits our Church Manual, which will maintain its rank as in the past, amid ministries aggressive and active, and will stand when these have passed to rest."

I thank you for this courtesy.

How Shark Fins Are Used.
The demand for shark fins is always greater than the supply, and they fetch a high price. The principal American market is in San Francisco. Consistent quantities are sent from the coast of the Pacific coast, but most of them are exported to China, where shark fins are regarded as one of the greatest of all delicacies. The fins should be at least six inches long; those of eight inches are preferred. The fins should be cleaned off them, after which they should be dried thoroughly in the sun, without salt.

Soft money would be only another way for the money politicians to hand the farmer the same dirty deal as the bank manipulator. In the first case the farmer unknowingly gave a bushel and a quarter of his product, and in the second case he would have to give a dollar and a quarter of his money, for a dollar's value in return.

In Germany they have carried the manipulation of the mark so far—well, it seems hardly believable, but they did the same thing to the dollar. It would take over ten million in money to buy that land. The money producer can raise his prices, not fast enough to equalize this in the gold value of unbound money. That is where the steps

CATARHIAL DEAFNESS

Is greatly relieved by constitutional treatment. CATARRHIAL MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhial Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever.

CATARRHIAL MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and aiding nature in restoring normal conditions.

HIP POCKET MENACE

No one doubts for a moment that the carrying of concealed weapons is a menace to the peace and happiness of a community. The hip pocket as a revolver case is a disgrace to a man, but it is a great menace to society. The hip pocket revolver case is not in any man's great a disgrace to the individual, but a great disgrace to the community.

The young man who today carries his hip pocket with a revolver case is taking intoxicating pleasure in himself a curse to society and a direct enemy of the Constitution of the United States. He is unwilling himself for any position of responsibility. He no doubt thinks the hip pocket flask is an evidence of smartness and the essential equipment for a lark. Such a young man enters your parlors with his hip pocket flask and one of his first introductions to your daughter is to notify her of his possession of the flask. His next step is to tempt her to drink. If he succeeds he puts her in a very dangerous position and makes of himself a social curse. It is almost impossible to protect girls from the hip pocket menace.

Young men seem to think that they can violate the constitution, trample the laws of the land under their feet, forget the amenities of life, repudiate the dictates of morality, and violate every known rule of society.

Talk about a crime wave! The hip pocket flask menace is the factor of the crime wave which is sweeping society, cursing the home, blighting youth, demoralizing men, and destroying many young women. Cured by the hip pocket flask-crook of America.

Etiquette

What & When to do it

By A. Leda

Any questions on etiquette will be gladly answered in this column if addressed to A. Leda, care of this newspaper.

Crossing Streets.—(1) When a boy is walking with a girl should he always help her across the street or just when a vehicle is approaching? (2) Who should get on the trolley car first, the man or the woman? (3) Does the same rule apply when leaving a car?

Henry R. V., Minn.

Ans.—Yes, a young man should always offer his assistance to a lady at a crossing. Just touching her elbow with his hand is courteous and is sufficient. (2) The woman. (3) No. The gentleman leaves first—this in order that he may help the lady off.

Hat Etiquette.—In a letter I am asked some questions on hat etiquette. The letter reads, "upon entering the theatre or movies when should a man remove his hat? (2) Is there any special place a man should put his hat during the performance? (3) Should one wait till outside the theatre the hat off again? (4) What is the hat etiquette in an elevator? Thank you."

Ans.—A gentleman should remove his hat as soon as he enters the lobby of a theatre where the tickets are sold. (2) Yes. Under the seat there is usually a rack for men's hats. (3) Yes. (4) If a man is in a private elevator such as an apartment house, hotel, department store, etc., whether there are ladies present or not, he should at once remove his hat. However, if it is a business elevator the man (regardless of any ladies present) need not remove his hat.

HELPFUL HEALTH HINTS

Sly on Eye.—A poultice of fresh tea leaves, moistened with water, will usually cure a sty on the eye. Another cure which is said to be good, is a gold wedding ring rolled gently on the sty.

Light Hair.—If you have light hair and wish to keep it so, put a little lemon juice in the last rinsing water.

Iodine.—After using iodine do not breathe the effluvia. It will cause a severe burn.

How Japan is Progressing.

The government of Japan has framed a scheme for the construction of new railway lines with a view to improving the transportation system throughout the country. The plan includes the construction of 28 new lines with a total length of 812 miles, the lines traversing 31 prefectures. The cost of construction is estimated at 170,000,000 yen. The program is spread over 11 years, the work being expected to commence by the next fiscal year. This scheme will be submitted to the railway council, which will be convened shortly, and afterward will be introduced in the imperial diet. If the plan is approved, the construction of 12 lines will be started in the course of the next fiscal year, to be followed by 16 other lines the following year.

Same Old Story But a Good One.

Mrs. Mahala Burns, Savannah, Mo., relates an experience, the like of which has happened in almost every neighborhood in this country, and has been told and related by thousands of others, as follows: "I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy about nine years ago and it cured me of flux (dysentery). I had another attack of the same complaint three or four years ago and a few doses of this remedy cured me. I have recommended it to dozens of people since I first used it and shall continue to do so for I know it is a quick and positive cure for bowel trouble."
