Everyone seems to think that the winter cold is here now. How do you get up in the cold today? Is it better? Not so good was it?

At any rate if the cold blast they had down south came this way we should have a white Christmas this year. Without it it hardly seems like Christmas so we can hope that it comes, and the weather man is in all probability going to do his duty this year.

Thursday morning it looked strange to see so many people coming down as though winter were really here. They were all bundled up in heavy coats and wearing gaboshes.

Can you imagine this. A doctor in Ottawa, Canada, claims that 50,000 deaths are recorded in North America every year because people shake hands. This comes from Dr. W. W. Hill, formerly connected with the Public Health department of the state of Minnesota and now with the Institute of Public Health.

The doctor is launching a campaign to abolish hand shaking. And he says that Dr. S. K. Crumley, originator of the "Swat the Fly" movement will conduct the campaign in the United States.

The doctor even goes on to say that shaking hands is an even bigger menace to health than kissing as a greater variety of germs are on the hands than are on the lips. He thinks that the disappearance of the hand shake will save Canada $50,000,000 a year.

The watchman's position that was open for someone in a brewery in Detroit brought enough replies to keep a stenographer and deputy busy all day. Now just why should so many be interested in such a job. There were replies from all parts of the state. Some applicants were reported to have had breaths stronger than a brewery. Reports did not show that anyone from Chelsea applied but there was at least one applicant from Jackson.

Detroit is of course a strong political power and with Wayne County can do much to handle the state legislature. If the shut down on the buying of automobile license plates, as advocated, goes through, the desired ends will most likely be attained.

Wayne County wants more representation in the legislature and the claims are that there has been an absolute defiance on the part of the legislators to re-apportion the district.

If the automobile owners of Wayne County hold out on the purchase of 1924 licenses it will mean that nearly $2,000,000 will be held from the state treasury and if the officials succeed in having the county hold back taxes it will mean that $6,500,000 more will be deprived of the state. Not a bad way to attain a desired end if the people back those pushing the movement. Just a mild form of dress, one might call it.

Mexico is again at it. It won't be long before our neighboring country will have a worse reputation than some of the countries across the sea. The next thing will be an American will be killed and then things will be all off again.

There might be a chance then for some of the boys who got out fighting back in '17 and '18 to tie out the O's again and see how it feels.

One thing looks certain and that is that there won't be much of a Christmas spirit in Mexico this year, unless something unexpected happens soon.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE EXCEEDS EXPECTATIONS

Nearly Six Million More Seals Needed Than Estimated

The Christmas Seal sale, Tuberculosis Control Seal, has exceeded expectations at the time of the sale. The total number of seals in circulation has reached the number of 47,794,000 which is exactly 5,795,000 more than the first estimate, according to the most recent figures made public by the state office of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association. According to the latest available figures, Tuberculosis killed in one year 419 more Michigan people than were killed by automobile and railroad accidents, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, measles and diphtheria combined.

It is in the interest of the fight against this death dealing disease that Michigan people are making plans for clinics, preventoria, fresh air camps, and health education in schools will in all probability be realized by several counties if the number of extra seals ordered is any indication of progress.

The larger the sale of seals in a county, the greater the amount of tuberculosis work that is done, not only because of the funds which are available but because of the increased community spirit and interest in public health work which is engendered by the Christmas seal sale. The design itself on the Christmas Seal strikes at the root of the problem by picturing child looking into the future, Michigan children are depending on the continuance of the generosity of the Citizens of Michigan to give them a "Healthy New Year."

BEWARE OF THE GAS SAVER

This is the season of the year when the advertiser who deals in various "gas-saving" devices reaps his harvest in Michigan. Reports to the Michigan public utility information bureau during the past fortnight have been sufficiently numerous to justify a general warning to beware of this variety of confidence man.

Gas savers, as called, and their name is three-fourths of their selling argument, are cheap mechanical devices of various ingenious kinds which are put on stoves or inserted into the pipes for the purpose of reducing an alleged excessive supply of gas. What they actually do is to limit pressure or supply below the point for good combustion and often check the flow of gas to the burner only to drive it into the kitchen to be breathed by the family.

Every gas company has accumulated a collection during the past several years of various kinds of "gas savers." Among them will be found an ordinary gas tip of the early "fish-tail" burner type. This was installed at the valve and permitted only a small quantity of gas to reach the burner. But it did not check the flow of gas and the excess went into the air. This device cost the peddler 35 cents a gross and was installed on a stove for $5.

Another rather ingenious article was an asbestos pad with a few small openings to permit gas to pass thru. This was supposed to smother most of the openings on the burner. Instead of saving gas, the asbestos absorbed all of the heat and was about as effective as a hot water bottle would be in an ice box. Thousands of these have been sold to housewives in Michigan at enormous profits.

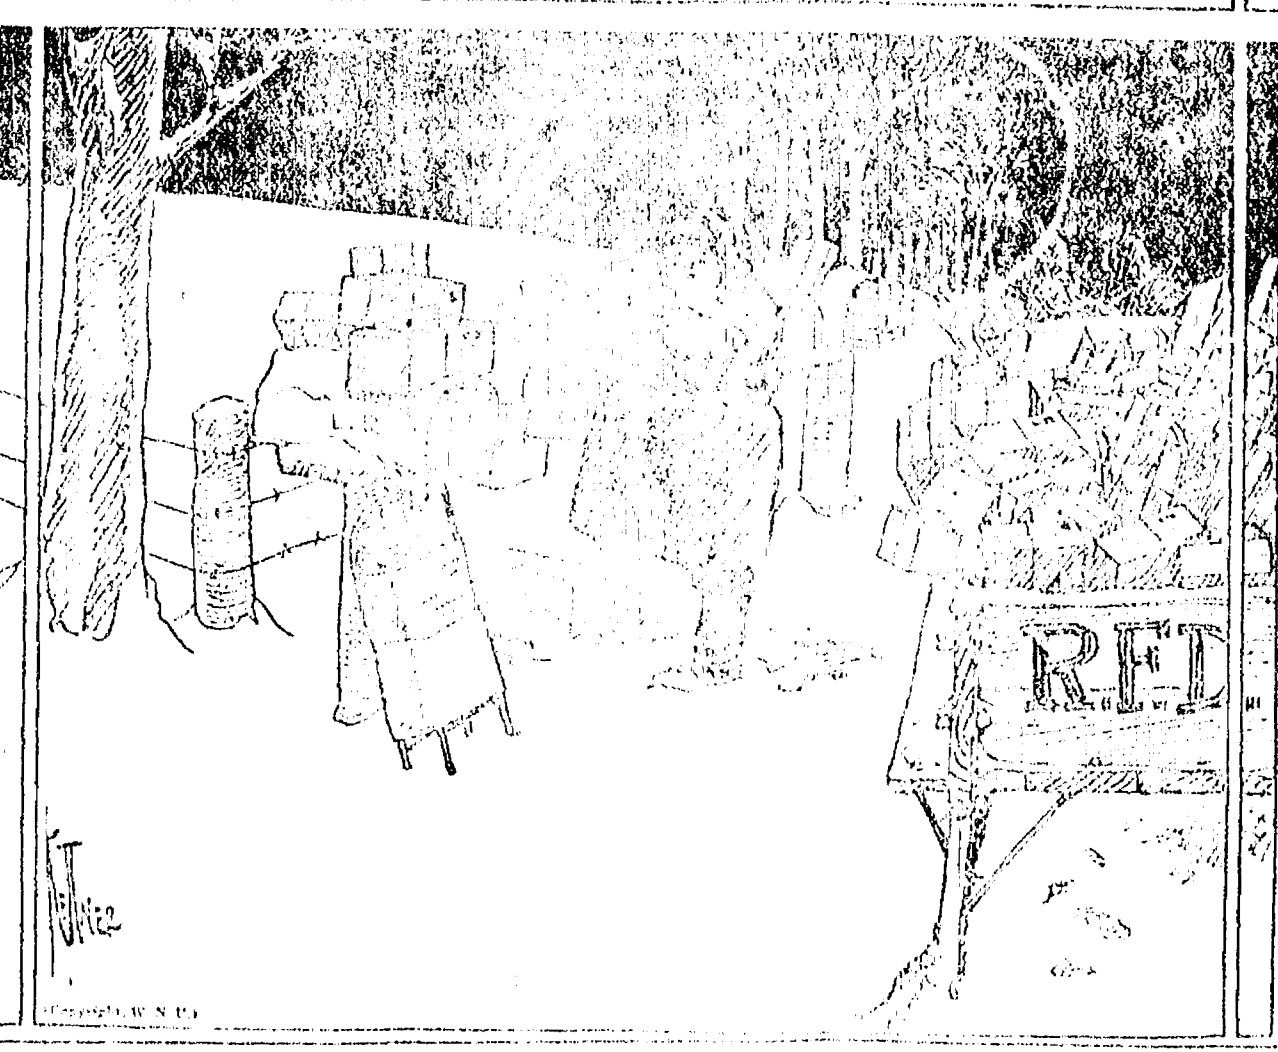

Another device is a tapering circle of cast iron which is placed on a burner and is supposed to concentrate heat under a utensil. What it does is to make impossible the use of a pilot lighter, and much of the heat is absorbed by the device which does not in any way conserve any fuel. This contrivance which is worth a few cents is sold at $3 for a set of four.

Various devices have been sold to fit the pipes, restaurants and other large gas consumers. These are naturally contraptions placed at or near the water and serve only to a disadvantage. They have been a source of great annoyance to consumers and generated considerable trouble to venturing companies following complaints of poor gas supply. Another highly dignified form of "gas saver" which sold for $8 and which was pushed in many towns, was an iron top for gas stoves. This rested on a framework which put the heating surface above the level for efficient use as well as it difficult for the flame to get the proper amount of air it needed.

It is suggested that when a salesman calls with a gas saving device, consult the gas company. They will inform you that every approved appliance has been designated for economical and efficient use and that a saver does not save. It merely reduces supply.

Santa's Assistant

UNSHAKEN BELIEVER

I still believe in Santa Claus, the old time Saint, I mean.

Not all the arguments I've heard or evidence I've seen.

Has ever shaken that belief; I know there's such a one.

Who comes to us on Christmas eve, all kindness and fun.

Not this one, I'm a little bit skeptical, but Santa of the sleigh.

Who made my eyes wide with delight each olden Christmas day.

He brought me costly Christmas gifts, sometimes a pair of shoes.

Or polished boots, or knitted scarf, some peanuts and some dates.

A stick of red striped candy and an orange. Oh, I see.

The little boy on Christmas morning, the boy I used to be.

I see him at the old fireplace all trembling with belief.

In Santa Claus, of all the Saints, his patron and chief.

Time has benumbed for me the rest of waiting for the day;

No more I hear the jingling bells, the scrape of Santa's sleigh.

No more I hear the rhythmic tap of every reindeer's hoof.

Nor can I trace the runner marks upon the snowy roof.

But Santa is as real and true as any gift he gives.

And spite of all the heresies, I'm certain that he lives.

Oh, little boy and girl I pray that when you, too grow old,

The memory of Santa may be one you'll always hold.

For then of nights you'll sit and muse of olden Christmas times.

And through your dreams will ring again the sweet old sleigh bells chime.

And ruddy faced and jolly in your fancy that you weave.

Your old friend Santa still will live that is, if you believe.

FOES OF GAS TAX WON'T COMPROMISE

Matter of Principle Won't Admit It, Declares Club Director

Detroit, Dec. 10, Monday.—The directors of the Detroit Automobile Club warmly reject any attempt by members of the state legislature to place them in a position of obstructing road improvement through their opposition to the proposed passage of any gasoline tax bill, and their insistence that such a bill, if passed, must be submitted to a referendum vote of the people of Michigan.

Officers of the Club "feel" that a similar charge was made last spring when the Club stood solidly behind Governor Groesbeck's veto of the gasoline tax bill passed by the legislature of that time, but point out that the charge has since been proven groundless by the fact that the state has broken all records for improved road construction during the past season, despite the gloomy forecasts of those who claimed that the Club and the Governor had upset all plans.

Both personally and as an organization, the Detroit Automobile Club has stood squarely behind every reasonable measure for state highway improvement," declared Edward N. Hines, one of the Club's directors and a former president.

"Much of the improved highway which Michigan already boasts is the direct result of the Club's active interest and that of its members.

"The Detroit Automobile Club needs no apology for any stand it has ever taken on the 'good road' question, least of all for its consistent opposition to the gasoline tax plan, imposing a principle which we believe unjust, unpractical and unsound.

"We insist that any bill which imposes a gasoline tax shall carry provision is not attached, we will attend to the question by securing a referendum by petition, as the law provides.

Principle is Wrong

"A matter of principle about the compromise and the principle of the gasoline tax is what we are fighting. Use it no more a just measure of highway tax than it is of school tax or any other form of government provided utility."

Opponents of the gasoline tax also point out the force of an argument based on the prevalence of gasoline tax laws in 26 states, pointing out that the 22 states which have rejected the law contain more motorists than the entire 26, and drawing the conclusion that where there is intelligent, well organized representation of motorists' interest taxation cannot be "put across."

FEDERAL EXPENDITURES ON ROAD IMPROVEMENT

1923 Federal Budget Allowed Two and One-fourth Cents From Every Dollar.

A few years ago the expenditures of the United States on roads were meagre. The Federal Budget for the fiscal year of 1923 allowed 2 1/4 cents out of every dollar for Federal aid.

This year of course is not enough to build the roads which the country must have to be developed by an equal amount of money. But all good citizens have to be patient and steady in their efforts to work out a public highway program at the point where this country is today. That we have gone as far as we have in the matter of road building with Government aid is a matter of congratulation, rather than regret that we have not as yet gone further.

The total 1925 budget for the National Road Program, with 90 million dollars for the United States appropriation for Federal aid in road building. Ten years ago such an expenditure would have been impossible. In a year hence it will be looked upon as ridiculous. When a man says that he has a job in the United States, he is really a job in the United States, and he is really a job in the United States, and he is really a job in the United States.

To those to whom the idea of greater Federal expenditure means greater taxes, it is pointed out that invariably the road load upon them pays for itself and that the increased profits, the decreased cost of hauling and the increased land values, which inevitably follow the establishment of a system of national highways, will not only pay the entire cost of the road, but a handsome profit besides.

BUSINESS NOTE.

How about business conditions? Are times going to be good or bad? . . . Well, the iron industry looks encouraging. And experts for years have considered pig iron production a weathervane of general business. It's supposed to rise or fall six months ahead of other lines.

Iron output in October was a trifle more than in September, a customary seasonal movement. October production was quite a bit less than in May, the record month, but production last spring was so excessively big that a reaction was inevitable.

October output of pig iron averaged over 104,000 tons a day. In October 1914, the average was not much more than half as big. As long as our basic or key industry is stepping it off nearly twice as fast as before the war, there's no excuse for pessimism.

Steel industry not only is busy, it's preparing to continue so. This year's shipments of iron ore down the Great Lakes, up to the first of November, exceeded 5,100,000 tons. This compares with about 39,000,000 tons in the corresponding period of last year.

If that doesn't shake the blues, try this remedy: In October over 360,000 passenger autos and trucks were manufactured, compared with only 239,191 in October 1922.

Railroads continue hauling record breaking amounts of freight. So far this year they have loaded and moved 416 cars of freight for each 353 cars in the corresponding period of 1922 and 328 cars in 1921.

Business men should clip that last paragraph and paste it on their desks.

FIRST RADIO CAPTURE.

Huntly Jenkins is dead—the London lawyer who defended the notorious Dr. Crippen. That was in 1910. You probably remember the case.

Dr. Crippen was physically timid, small and shrinking. Born in Michigan, he became a wandering medical practitioner. For his second wife he selected Kunigunde Mackamotzki, alias Cora Turner, who promptly became a household bully.

Crippen fell in love with his secretary. They fled to America. Mrs. Crippen had disappeared. The gossiping neighbors weren't satisfied. They called Scotland Yard. Inspector Drew tripped over a loose brick in the cellar. Digging, he found a murdered body.

Crippen was identified aboard ship at sea, by wireless, and arrested. He went to the gallows. The girl? She went free.

The Dr. Crippen case was the first time radio had ever been used to detect a fugitive criminal. Naturally, it appealed to popular fancy in addition to being historically important.

Crippen maintained his innocence to the last, and there's still considerable argument in England as to whether he was guilty. Psychologists who watched him at the trial marveled that such a meek individual could muster sufficient courage to turn on and destroy his tormentor.

After the lapse of 13 years, we read of the death of the lawyer who defended him, and the wireless end of the Crippen case no longer eclipses the criminal angle.

We can't help pondering how times have changed. Today a fugitive wouldn't "get much of a rise" out of the public from merely being caught by radio. Thirteen years ago, radio was magic. Today it's becoming commonplace, kids in knee pants sending messages as far as the one that brought Crippen to the gallows.

A WORLD LANGUAGE.

A great world telephone system, making necessary to all nations the use of a common language, or a common understanding of language, will some day join all the people of the earth into a common brotherhood. Such is the logical conclusion of John J. Carty, Vice President, American Telephone & Telegraph Company, and communications officer of the peace conference and in charge of the signal corps of the A. E. F.

The ultimate system of providing the communications of the world will consist of both wire and radio, each supplanting the other in proportion to its capabilities, for each has its limitations, he says.

IF WE DIDN'T HAVE AUTOS.

Half the autos in our country are used for long distance touring, on occasion, a check up shows.

Did you ever stop to think what fearful congestion we'd have on our street cars and railroads if the auto hadn't relieved them of part of the tasks of transportation?

With more than six million autos being used now and then for long distance touring, we realize how this invention has conquered distance and placed the world at the doors of people who otherwise would be doomed to see little outside their own community.

HORSE POWER.

George N. Crow, Ottawa contractor, claims he has the strongest team of horses in the world. George says his team, weighing 3,600 pounds, recently hauled a 34,000 pound piece of machinery 500 feet, in a six ton vehicle. Fortunately the motor truck is rapidly putting an end to this sort of thing.

Rather late in the day, it's discovered that a can of pebbles, rattled by the driver, stimulates a horse more than a whip.

BEST TO SMOTHER CARBURETOR FIRE

Pouring on Water Simply Floats Lighter Gasoline and Makes It Burn Hotter.

By ERWIN BERGER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.
How gasoline burns or explodes is what puts fear into the average man and makes him stand at what he considers a safe distance while he watches his car or truck go up in smoke. If the fuel tank contained twenty, ten or even one gallon of ordinary black gunpowder, his fear would be exceedingly well founded, since whenever fire reaches any part of a mass of gunpowder, it all explodes in a small fraction of a second. Fortunately gasoline alone is not only non-explosive but will not even burn unless it is first evaporated and the vapor in contact with the oxygen of the air.

Safe to Fight Fire.
Even if the gasoline tank is under the cow or under the front seat, there is little danger of its contents being ignited from a carburetor fire unless it is allowed to burn for several minutes. If the gas tank has its screw cap in position, the walls of the tank must be red hot (almost) above the liquid surface line before the fuel inside the tank will be set on fire. Hence it is perfectly safe to fight the carburetor fire before it has had time to heat up things too much.

First Thing to Do.
The first thing to do, of course, is to close the valve in the pipe line between tank and carburetor. The next is to smother the fire. Pouring on water is worse than useless because it will simply float the lighter gasoline and oil to the surface and make it burn hotter. A wetted cloth or bag, however, is effective and may be used. Anything that will not itself burn very rapidly will do to shut off the air supply from the burning gasoline. Wool does not burn so fast as cotton, hence a woolen coat, overcoat, lap robe, rug or blanket may be the best thing to push up tightly around and over the burning fuel.

If wool is not at hand, cotton fabric of any kind, if fairly thick, will answer. Road dust, sand, even sugar, salt or flour, wheat, barley, or other threshed grain, in fact anything that will stop or greatly slow down the flow of air will do the business. Usually a small carburetor fire, if put out promptly, will not do enough injury to the machine to prevent ready starting after things have cooled down enough to permit turning on the gasoline again.

Some spring poetry is so sad it looks as if it was written on the back of an income tax blank.

Relatives or husbands and wives are not seated together. Place cards are essential when there are many guests.

General Beauty and Care. A dislocated joint is the invariable result of wearing a too short shoe, and a very high heel used in walking will add in the condition. There are several mechanical devices made to remedy this trouble. GIVING CHRISTMAS

The First Presbyterian Church Sunday School of Seattle makes Christmas for others. So do each of her twenty-five branch schools. In other words, the pupils and their classes are required to search out all who may not have a good Christmas and provide one for them.

Weeks in advance the pupils and the workers are put to work visiting and ascertaining the conditions of homes where Santa Claus may not go unless we make him.

The baskets are then prepared with everything necessary for a perfect Christmas and a bounteous Christmas dinner. These baskets are prepared at the church, and the name of the family put on each basket. Then machines are provided, and with each machine some members of the class, the school and Session go to that home on Christmas Eve with a blessing and the basket.

The givers of course receive the greatest blessing.

Those homes discovered and thus visited are visited again after Christmas and throughout the year and assisted to their feet in order that they too may next Christmas be givers and not receivers. In this way we make the giving Christmas an opportunity and blessing throughout the year. So can you and your school.

A Carpenter
The young Carpenter of Nazareth was a worker who loved joyousness and beauty, even as His heart overflowed with sympathy for the weary toilers who passed before His workshop door.
He may have been a man of many sorrows, but it is equally true that He was also a man of many joys. They welcomed Him at wedding feasts; children went to Him instinctively; the common people heard His magic words that lightened their burdens, and the wise men listened to Him attentively because he had a secret beside which their knowledge was as dust before wind.
The centuries have rolled by and His command survives—
To love one another. And it was He who taught us that the greatest is he who serves most.
Obeying these commands, let us all open our hearts to the charity in the world and the loveableness and essential goodness of the men and women in it.
May we all learn that those who give most and that those who offer themselves completely in service to their fellows find their hearts flooded with peace which passeth understanding.
On His birthday let each one of us dedicate our lives to carrying forward His message of peace on earth, good will to all men.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER

...second to Henry Ford
...question of the average
...one of a dozen
...to him.
...the question to anyone
...automotive industry and you
...one answer:
...Chrysler.
...five years ago Mr. Chrysler
...engines in a railroad
...house in a little Kansas town
...I work he received five cents
...Today he is one of the big
...travels was one of the first
...of an automobile. He had his
...a day before he took it apart
...roved it. And he has been put-...tomobiles together ever since.
...he was 17 he wanted a car that
...other couldn't afford to give him

...one so he made one. And it shot per...fectly.
...When he was 18 he built a 31-hp
...facemobile complete down to air brakes
...and on a track a quarter of a mile long
...it ran under its own power.
...Mr. Chrysler has implicit faith in the ...future of the automobile business. He ...believes the car of the future will be
...a small car, desirable one that can turn
...around in a small area, six cylinders,
...four-wheel brake, plenty of speed and
...power so as to get quick pick-ups, well
...finished and fitted like the higher prahs
...of cars and yet sold for a moderate sum.
...He also believes that in the years to ...come there will be fewer makes of cars,
...larger companies making them and
...cheaper cars.
...Mr. Chrysler is the man who devel...oped Buick, helped Willys Overland out
...of a post war depression and today is
...building Newalls and Chalmers cars.

DOPE INJURIOUS
TO CAR BATTERY

Normal Way Is to Pass Current of Electricity Through It and Avoid Injury.

...In the old days, gasoline engines
...were quite in style with the get-...along quick bends. They were much ...more common than they are now. One ...could buy them in powder, paper, tin
...or liquid form and probably still in ...use there in homes, hotels or airports
...today. For the effect was just the ...same.

...As long as the car owner was very ...careful to have the carbon removed
...from the engine cylinders, the valves
...ground and the carburetor adjusted
...and then apply the so-called econom-
...izer to the fuel tank, he was certain
...to get greater mileage per gallon of ...gasoline. And no wonder!

Sold as Mysterious Compounds.
...The same thing applies to the pres...ent day storage battery "rejuvenators"
...("recharging solutions") and what not
...that are being sold as mysterious com-
...pounds and wonderful discoveries
...which recharge your storage battery
...in twenty minutes. Any battery serv...ice station can do the same thing by ...using a battery with strong acid, but
...they know the harmful effects of such
...treatment.

...The surprising thing is the willing...ness of many people to pay fabulous
...prices, three to five dollars being asked
...for a single application of these
..."solutions" when most storage battery
...service stations would do the same
...thing for 25 cents.

Normal Mode of Operation.
...There is nothing mysterious about
...pouring strong acid solution into a dis...charged battery and having it operate
...in twenty or thirty minutes afterward.
...Any service station can do that, but ...the normal way to recharge a battery
...is to pass a current of electricity
...through it and avoid injuring it or
...shortening its life. The quick way is ...to pay three to five dollars for about
...25 cents' worth of strong acid—and
...suffer the consequences.

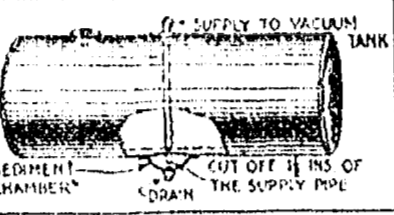

When to Blow Your Horn

Just before reaching the top of a hill.
Before taking dangerous

Before crossing a road and before coming to a crossroad.

WAY TO PREVENT GAS
LINE FROM FREEZING

Due to Fact That Water Gets Into Garage Supply.

Every winter gas lines freeze because of water in the tank. This is mainly due to the fact that water gets into the garage gasoline supply from the street level because the driver of the supply wagon does not sponge out the filling chamber before unscrewing the cap, thus allowing rain and melted snow to run into the storage reservoir, from which it is pumped into the tanks of automobiles along with the gasoline.

I found that by cutting off about one and one-half inches from the lower end of the supply pipe, a reservoir of more than a gallon is formed at the bottom of the tank.

There is another advantage in this arrangement: If you happen to run out of gasoline, you can unscrew the tank plug and fill some of the reserve in the vacuum tank. Ernest T.
Oldfort, in Popular Science Monthly.

FAILURE OF PRESSURE FEED

Leather or Rubber Gasket in Filter Cup Often Becomes Spongy
or Gets Caked.

It sometimes happens on cars where fuel is fed by pressure supplied by the exhaust gases, it becomes increasingly difficult to maintain the pressure at the requisite figure. As a rule, pressure does not drop quickly, but seems gradually to ooze away. The first thing to do in a case of this kind is to examine the filter cup of the tank.
A leather or rubber gasket is used at this point, and often the rubber becomes spongy or the leather gets hard and caked, or a small bit of foreign matter may have lodged between the cup and its seat. On the other hand, it sometimes occurs that the pressure,
in the system is built up to a point where the small valve operated by the carburetor float will be unable to restrain the fuel, and flooding of the in-strumen will result. As a rule, a pressure of one and a half pounds is sufficient to insure an uninterrupted supply of fuel in the carburetor.

WHY BANKS?

LESSON II

By J. H. PUELICHER, Chairman,
Committee on Public Education, American Bankers Association.

Why does Government charter banks,—simply to make money for stockholders, or because banks are needed by the public? What is a bank? Text books say, "A bank is a quasi-public corporation, chartered by State or Nation, to receive deposits and make loans."

STOCKHOLDERS — owners.
QUASI-PUBLIC — semi-public,—that is, owned by private stockholders, but regulated by government to see that the depositors' money is safely loaned.

STATE BANK CHARTER — privilege, grant or right to do a banking business under supervision of the State Banking Commissioner.

NATIONAL BANK CHARTER — grant to do business under supervision of the Federal Commissioner of the Currency.

SUPERVISION — the sending by government of examiners, at least once a year, into a bank without notice, to count its cash, examine its loans, bonds and mortgages, and see if its books are correct.

Banks can do only those things permitted in their charters. No business is more closely watched and regulated by State or Nation.
Banks cannot, therefore, be run simply to make money for stockholders, but are chartered to meet the needs of the people and are held to that purpose by government supervision.

Your character is what you build into your life through the principles for which you stand in your everyday work or play. As a man thinks, so he lives—and so is his character. What is needed for all this? This will be the discussion for the morning service and worship. The discussion for the evening will deal with both the material and spiritual side of life.

SERMON BY A. LEWIS AT 3 O'CLOCK, DEC. 9 AT HOME

FOR St. Peter's Day and his chains fell off from his hands, Act, 12-7. The early church at this time seemed to be in a very bad way. Herod, son of the who seen the innocent vexed the church, and it might have been well-nigh blotted out if it had not been Divine. Just as the old Herod, slaying the innocent, would have slain the Saviour. So this Herod would have blotted out the early church. He took James the brother of John, and slew him with the sword he had got Peter in the darkest, deepest dungeon, and he was quite determined that he should not escape the apostles was chained between two soldiers. From four quarters, i.e., 16 more soldiers kept the prison, besides the keepers at the gates all was made safe and sure. As sure as man could make it. The time had nearly come when Peter was to be brought out and slain. Nothing seemed more certain than that Peter was to be murdered in the morning. But man purposes and disposes. Ready to die what was Peter doing. Reposing in the arms of God, he was fast asleep between the two soldiers. Was not his mind disturbed, no! Not in the least, it is one of those beautiful pictures that the scriptures give us. He was loved of God and so he giveth his beloved sleep. We cannot help remembering what happened on the lake the day when Christ was asleep. Peter woke him up and said, Master carest thou not that we perish. What a change, he was afraid of death here his death was eminent, but all fear had gone, Peter was asleep. It is well for us just to pause and wonder whether our religion will stand us as well as that when our time comes. Once Peter was afraid of death and called it perishing, now he cares not in the least. He has learned to know and trust the Saviour. That is it. Peter of the prison is a different man from Peter in the boat. It is a man whose manhood has come to the stature of thefulness of Christ. He knows in whom he has believed and he is quite persuaded that it is all well and so he sleeps. Praying friends well know we have seen what Peter was doing. What were his friends doing. They were doing their very best, they were praying they had met together as the beautiful little bit of scripture tells us, in a house to pray earnestly for Peter. If you look in the margin you will instantly how earnestly they were pouring out prayers to God to save him. He was so much to them then. James was just slain and Herod was going to slay Peter. What would become of the early church, was it a wise thing do you think to stay at home and pray. Could not they have done something better. Made a collection and sent a bribe to the guards, no. no bribe that they could offer would be accepted by the guard, for if the guard let him out their lives would be demanded. What was the law if a prisoner escaped, they must suffer for it. You cannot bribe men with money against their lives, what could they do. They could pray and they did. There are some circumstances that we cannot forget. There are certain people that we cannot save, what are we to do if they prayed. The chains fell off Peter, lock and chain—some unlocked.

J. S. Warns Disrespect Applicants for Jobs
Washington.—You've got to tell the truth, if you want a government job. This is the warning of William C. Denning, president of the United States civil service commission, to would-be applicants for federal employment. In the past year, Mr. Denning said in a statement, 835 persons were added to the commission's "barred list," or roster of those who by their own dishonesty have forfeited the right to compete in civil service examinations.

By far the majority of these—approximately 700—were declared unsuitable, because of false statements in their applications on such questions as age, education, experience or criminal record. Six offered bribes for federal positions; six forged medical certificates, giving themselves clean bills of health; 28 were discovered cheating in the examination rooms, while two were found disloyal to the government.

But these figures, Mr. Denning added, do not reflect upon the character of civil service applicants in general, for more than 200,000 persons were examined during the year.

ELECTRICAL SYSTEM OF CAR
Efficient Operation Obtained by Running Current Through Metal Parts of Frame.

Certain parts of the electric system are grounded to the motor or frame of the car for the main purpose of saving copper wire. An electric system could have both positive and negative poles of storage battery, generator, starting motor connected with other parts of the system with which they function entirely with wire leading to and from these parts, but it is seldom done, as efficient operation is just as well obtained by passing the current through one wire and having it returned by way of the frame, motor or other metal parts to its source.

Chats With Your Gas Man

The average person is more dependent on the service rendered by the public utility companies than he realizes.

A recent estimate by a competent authority showed that in a certain private home the equivalent of about fifteen tons of anthracite coal was used for heating while the equivalent of about thirteen and one-third tons of bituminous coal came through pipes, wires and the kitchen door in the form of gas service, electrical energy and ice.

Engineers predict that in another generation coal will be seen in only two places—in the museums where it can be examined by school children, and at the mines. In those days, they say, the words "smoke," "soot," "ashes" will be obsolete and heat units in form of manufactured gas will supplant the fuel.
