RAY R. COOK PASSES AWAY SUNDAY, MARCH 23

Stroke of Paralysis Suffered in October of Last Year Proves Fatal to Former Chelsea Resident.

Following an illness which dates back to October of last year, Ray H. Cook, son of N. H. and Anna Riggs Cook, passed away at the home of his father here on Sunday, March 23. Mr. Cook was widely known here having spent practically all his life in Chelsea and vicinity.

Born February 3, 1887, in Sylvan township, his younger days were spent in this vicinity, graduating from Chelsea high school in the class of 1905. For a number of years he had been connected with automobile firms in Detroit in which capacities he had been actively engaged until stricken with paralysis on October 22, 1923. He had been confined to his bed since that time.

Surviving are the father, N. H. Cook, and one sister, Mrs. Otto Hinder, both of Chelsea, and one nephew, besides a host of friends who learn of his death with sincere regret.

Mr. Cook was a member of Olive Lodge, No. 156, F. & A. M.

Funeral services were held from the home of his father at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. E. L. Sutherland officiating. Interment was made in Vermont cemetery.

CHAS. MESSEVA WILL OPEN NEW GROCERY

Announcement was made on Wednesday evening by Chas. Messerva that he will open cash and carry grocery in the Stabler building, better known as a time building, on West Middle street, within the next ten days. Lease of the building was secured from Messers. Frank the Stabler Oil Co. today and it was expected work would begin immediately looking toward a finished grocery store room.

Mr. Messerva is an experienced grocer, having been connected with the O. P. Smith stores for a number of years during which time he has become thoroughly conversant with this particular line and it is believed his new venture will meet with success. He expects to have his opening date some time next week.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES

The Junior Carnival held at the high school last Friday evening was a big success both financially and otherwise. It was one of the best carnivals held here in some time. The side shows were entertaining and attractive. The moving picture theatre, the fortune teller, the big production at the assembly theatre, the shooting gallery, museum and many others served to make a night of it. The big auction brought many surprises for the purchasers and the lucky roses with a box of candy attached attracted the pocketbooks.

The big five-pound door prize was won by Lloyd Lloydlauff. Some idea of the crowd present may be had from the fact that Lloyd's number was 20,008 and he was among the first to arrive.

Much credit is due the Junior class sponsor, Mrs. Robinson, in making the carnival a success.

The editorial staff for the Senior Reminder has been chosen and the support of every student and citizen in the town and surrounding community is desired. This year's annual publication is promised to be the best ever produced.

The Juniors are practicing for the Junior play, "And Home Came Ted." The play will be given April 4 and 5 at the town hall.

Next Tuesday morning the French club will take charge of the chapel exercises.

ABNER BEACH CELEBRATES NINETY-SECOND ANNIVERSARY

In a recent issue of the Ann Arbor Times News appears the photograph and life sketch of Abner Beach, pioneer resident of Washtenaw county, who resides with his son, D. Edward Beach, and family of this place. Mr. Beach celebrated his ninety-second birthday anniversary Sunday, March 16.

The adoption of this plan simply means, Magger Adler says, "that the work of sending out a large number of bills is divided into parts which are completed at different dates, thus levelling out a load which is particularly heavy when the job must be completed at one time."

"As applied to the Michigan Bell Telephone Company it means that our monthly bills will be issued in six equal groups, dated the 1st, 8th, 11th, 16th, 21st and 26th, and will be mailed as soon as ready after those dates. All subscribers in the local exchange will have the same billing date each month, the twenty-first."

Missing Dog Discovered in the Family Laundry

New York.—"We do not wash dogs." This is the sign that A. J. Burton, laundryman, threatens to hang out in front of his establishment.

When Mrs. Norman Roberts, wife of Lieutenant Roberts of the naval medical staff, could not find her valuable pet dog who was her broken. Twelve dogs were appointed to run down all clowns that might lead to the canine's recovery.

The search ended when Mr. Burton found the pet in the Roberts' family laundry.

CHELSEA BUSINESS MEN ORGANIZE KIWANIS CLUB

Affiliate With International Organization in Move to Sponsor Community Improvement and Civic Betterment.

Plans which culminated during the past week in an organization having for its purpose only co-operation, good-fellowship and a common interest in the growth and prosperity of this community, are destined to play a large part in the future of Chelsea and vicinity. Such an organization functioning under the name and emblem of the Kiwanis Club International has been perfected in Chelsea and is starting out with an overflow of pep and enthusiasm to accomplish the things often dreamed of for a community such as Chelsea.

Feeling the need of organized effort on the part of business and professional men to work in unity toward accomplishment of certain ideals in the future development of Chelsea and vicinity, a number of local men attended meetings of the Kiwanis clubs in Ann Arbor and Jackson during the past two weeks and were highly elated with the success being attained by these clubs. Visiting officers of the Kiwanis Club International, "cinched" the organization locally and on Monday of last week, Thos. B. Marshall, district organizer of the club, came to Chelsea and went to work. On Friday evening of last week at a meeting in which approximately thirty men participated, was held and a charter membership of thirty-five signed up. Officers and directors were elected as follows:

President—W. R. Daniels.
Vice President—Geo. P. Staffan.
Secretary—A. B. McClure.
Treasurer—H. W. Schenk.
District Trustees—Leigh G. Palmer, Board of Directors—Edward Vogel, Dr. A. A. Palmer, Conrad Lehman, L. P. Vogel, Howard S. Holmes, John L. Fletcher, and P. G. Schable.

At a meeting of the officers and board of directors held immediately following committees were appointed for the numerous duties of the club during the next year and arrangements for meetings, time and place were made with the result that the time was fixed for each Monday evening, at 8:15 at the Schnebelt hall over the Liberty Cafe, when "casts" will be served and a general good time enjoyed for one hour and fifteen minutes.

In spite of the fact that, on the surface, the club appears to be a "luncheon club" only, there is a definite program of affairs for the attention of the club as soon as the social side of the organization has been perfected. Action looking toward civic betterment and community uplift will naturally fall to the lot of this body of men in the future and it is expected that a "pull-together" spirit will be developed which may mean much to Chelsea.

Membership in the club is not necessarily limited to the original thirty-five and it is expected that additions will be made as soon as the club is capable of handling new members.

PHONE BILLS WILL BE SENT OUT MONTHLY ON 21st

"Rotation billing" which will be introduced into Chelsea by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, April 21, is well known to most people according to C. H. Adler, manager of the Jackson district, as it has been used for some years by gas companies and power and light companies.

ANN ARBOR K. of P. CON- FERS DEGREE WED HERE

On last Monday evening about forty from Ann Arbor Lodge No. 44, K. of P., came to Chelsea and gave the work in the rank of Knight at the Maceneba hall. Following the work there a roast beef lunch was served at the K. of P. hall to about one hundred. Among those present was Judge John Thomas of Ann Arbor, who gave a very interesting and instructive talk. Ann Arbor boasts one of the best degree teams in the state.

FARMERS CLUB MEETS AT ELMER SMITH HOME

Parent-Teacher Association Also Entertained at Pleasant Country Home Southeast of Chelsea.

A very interesting and pleasing event of the week occurred Friday, March 21, when Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith entertained the Western Washtenaw Farmers Club, at their pleasant farm home on M-17, one mile southeast of Chelsea.

A dinner was served at noon, followed by a program. Opening song, America, by Club, roll call, answered by Irish Witticisms; duet, Mrs. J. N. Dancer and Mrs. H. E. Fletcher.

The members were very fortunate to have three fine speakers with them. Mr. Watt, former girls and boys club leader; Miss Ernhold, of Ann Arbor, Secretary of the Tuberculosis Association of Washtenaw County, and Dr. Poole of Lansing, Public Health Service, all of which gave very interesting talks.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Smith entertained the Parent and Teacher Association of district No. 4, P. R. Sylvan and Lima. About 70 members, families and friends gathered there and enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

No special program was prepared for the evening. The three well-known speakers of the afternoon were on the program. Music, orchestra.

Mr. Watt was the first to speak and gave an outline of the club work that is being done in the county. Through club work boys and girls are led to realize the possibilities of farm life and to look upon it as worthy of their best thought and effort. During the past ten years there have been numerous and striking examples of improvements in farm life and practice brought about through the influence of the work. In many instances the club animal has been the first purchased on the farm and has been the interest of the boy or girl that has won the farm over to modern methods.

From an economic standpoint club work more than pays its way in actual money returns and in addition gains and broadens them in social outlook, hundreds and thousands of girls and boys. The girls and boys who have been enjoying the club regret very much to learn of the resignation of Mr. Watt, in the capacity of club leader, he having accepted a position as general manager of the Washtenaw County Fair.

Miss Ernhold, Secretary of Washtenaw County Tuberculosis Association, gave an instructive talk on the work being done in the schools and among the poor people.

"Tuberculosis is one of the greatest menaces to the human race, she said. The rapidity with which the disease can be stamped out depends on the amount of money appropriated by the State or County for the work, according to the speaker.

Dr. Poole, of Lansing, Public Health Service, also gave a fine talk. He spoke of the importance of providing the right kind of food. "Many people have enough to eat and enough left for another meal, but it does not contain the right protein. There is danger in not eating proper kinds of food. This happens many times through ignorance as well as poverty. It causes people to get in a run-down condition and they are susceptible to disease."

The evening's entertainment was closed with music, by orchestra and song, by Katherine Fletcher. At a late hour they all departed for their respective homes vowing Mr. and Mrs. Smith royal entertainers.

OLIVE LODGE, CHELSEA, ASSISTS IN DEGREE WORK

About 28 members of Olive Lodge No. 156, F. & A. M., went to Dexter on Tuesday night and assisted in the conferring of degree work on several candidates at that place. Refreshments were served following the work. Bad roads played a part in the Dexter visit Tuesday. While all managed to get through, it was said some of the machines were stuck in the mud and had to be pulled out by other members of the party. Returning from Dexter most of the cars returned by way of Ann Arbor and M-17.

AN OLD MAN

Dr. Eliot, once president of Harvard, was ninety last Thursday. Metropolitan papers all over the country wrote voluminously and warmly of his personality, ability, and achievements. All wished him many happy returns of the day.

But we won't have them. He may quit work and living most any time now. Perhaps he won't mind the transfer. We are told we should all live that way.

Naturally, Dr. Eliot was asked the secret of his longevity and buoyancy. Naturally he gave the formula. Everyone does. While differing widely in some things, they nearly always agree on a few points like work, optimism, plenty of play, having a definite goal, strong principles, and such. Dr. Eliot's formula is: A calm temperament, expectant of good.

A whole life philosophy is tied up in those six words. They have a reasonable tone. Nervous, irritable folks either kill themselves before they get gray hair or nature saves them the trouble. Also, folks who think the world is bound for the lower regions with the throttle wide open, don't live long as a rule. We're a bit glad those who, like Dr. Eliot, look for good, hope for good, and think good thoughts are the kind who see their great grandchildren.

Dr. Eliot is honored and loved all over the globe. That is an interesting train of thought for young folks looking around for some guiding principle, some overwhelming ambition, some mighty inspiration. To be widely known is a fine objective; but to be honored and even to be loved is much nicer. Not many folks are even endured by their juniors when they get old. The fault doesn't lie with the younger ones, either.

It seems to be a definite test of character and a sure token of success in living, not in life when an old man holds a world's regard.

A STICK OF TYPE

The last stick of type set by Warren G. Harding, newspaper man and incidentally our president, was for the Alaska News Miner. (A stick of type is a little metal frame in which the type is put, piece by piece.) The Alaska publisher gave the memento to Frank Noyes, head of the Associated Press.

An important symbol to an important man. Way back in the morning time in civilization, a German learned to print by movable type. The world took a big leap forward then. Look at our books, schools, knowledge now. The stick of type set by the newspaper man who died on the Pacific would be a mighty token of uplift even without him. His touch shall we say sanctified it.

Printing, like the expansive power of steam, the magnetic force of an electric solenoid, the magnifying power of a lens, is a fundamental thing; a principle in progress; a determinant of a thousand other benefits. Every time a fundamental is discovered and utilized, mankind comes a long step nearer his heritage of mastery of the universe which was ordained for him in the beginning, but which Adam and several since his time postponed.

Printing is a light, or perhaps better, a current for a light. Used in the proper way, giving folks good books and newspapers, it brings humanity a little closer to divinity. Used in a short-circuit fashion it can destroy more peace and love and purity and prosperity than man's little mind could dream of.

A VAMPIRE'S END

Out in Kansas City, screaming headlines have told us, a woman chiropractor was mysteriously slain. Journals of all degrees of color, from saffron to deep purple, got busy and uncovered her past life, not to help officers find the criminal but to show the people what's what.

The woman had five husbands, in proper sequence. One of them is apparently responsible. A young married druggist committed suicide because of her. Several other men, it is evident, had come into her adventurous life. She was beautiful, bored by her several husbands, and wanted a broader life. She got it. It isn't the first time such a woman has been killed by an embittered or revengeful on-jalous victim. It won't be the last. Perhaps the world was left with just a bit of leeway, so such things could settle themselves. It would be a tame life if everything was foreordained from the beginning, with all crimes automatically punished and all good deeds rewarded by a superior force. Nature makes out justice among plants and animals. Man has more to say in his life and actions.

So Zoe Wilkins that was, who is resting, we hope, under Kansas soil today, followed her adventurous cravings to the end. Perhaps she will meet the druggist who lost his head and life over her, out yonder somewhere. Perhaps the druggist's young wife and fatherless children will follow along some day and join them. Perhaps Zoe will hover around her old home, invisible yet strangely potent, and whisper dire warnings to pretty young women with perverted desires for excitement. Perhaps they will listen and heed; perhaps not. The world moves on.

WHEN BOYS ARE GOOD

Clark Hall, a London judge, says there is no such thing as a bad boy. Boys want to "show off," he said. They have a gang spirit, and he admits they are often mischievous and hard to handle. But as for being bad—not at all.

No true mother will admit that her boy is bad. He may be wayward, or too full of life, or lacking in some firm qualities. But always to a mother he has enough saving graces to atone. Everybody should feel that way, because it is true. Of course, the wayward boy should be corrected. He may easily become bad. But until he is nearly grown, he has merely a tendency, not an actual fact.

The boys to watch are the good boys, those who reprimand their playmates for a naughty word, or scream when others throw stones at a cat, or turn the other cheek when struck. Boys are animals, and any departure from pure animal instincts because of strong outside influences will take its toll somewhere in their makeup. The law of compensation is immutable.

The over-trained boy may be a delight to his parents but he will likely prove the despair of his friends later. Normality may not always be desirable. Most people want to be super-normal, better than the average. Yet normality betokens sound mental and spiritual health, at least; it is far more fatal to be consciously perfect than unconsciously imperfect.

When boys are good, the angels weep over years spent in a straight jacket which should be blissful, and should furnish golden memories for three score years of troubles. If the boy learns the principles of right living, such as honor and courage and justice, the rest will come. The teaching of these three alone offer a big job for any parents.

MODERN MAGELLANS

Four planes started around the world the other day, and their progress has been carefully noted daily. Every step of this long journey counts.

Yet the trip, even if successful, won't be as important as one made less than four hundred years ago, when Magellan encircled the globe in a fleet of ships, the largest a little bigger than a trolley car.

These planes won't discover any new land or facts of known territory. The best they can hope for immediately, is finding out how planes stand such a journey. Perhaps some facts of military value, like new landing fields or possible naval bases, may be charted. That and the prestige will be all for the present.

Nobody cares about going around the world in an airplane just now. Travel is sufficiently precarious as it is and costs plenty. Haate doesn't spur us that hard yet. However, the time may come when giant air liners holding a dozen or more will hop off at Washington, stop a few moments at San Francisco, then jump over to Japan overnight. Planes, not maps, need pioneers just now. Yet we're interested just as a few years ago, folks were interested in Magellan, waiting for him to come back though doubting his return. Such attempts are perhaps necessary forerunners of progress whose edge we have barely touched.

IN this age when science has made light, power and water everywhere available, when machinery has lessened labor and anaesthetics have dulled the edge of pain, the funeral director has utilized science to lighten the burden of the sorrowing.

With the aid of science he is able to protect the family and the community from the danger of contagion, to make transportation safe, and to remove the traces of illness and unnaturalness which used to accentuate the grief caused by death.

With the help of professionally trained assistants, modern equipment, motorized conveyances, and often a fine funeral home or chapel, he is able to relieve the family of all details, and perform a service that brings comfort in the darkest hour and affords the comforting consciousness that the last tribute has been fitting and beautiful.

BREVITIES.

Dexter—Jay Keith, who has been the agent of American Express Co. here for the past 34 years, has tendered his resignation—Leader.

Ann Arbor—The fifty-ninth annual meeting of the Michigan Schoolmasters' club will be held in this city on Thursday and Friday, April 3 and 4.

Powerville—At the village election held in Powerville March 10th, the citizens voted to return to fast time. The vote was 84 to 70 in favor of Eastern Standard time.

Unadilla—In Unadilla township the republicans nominated Chas. Whitehead, the present incumbent, for township clerk and the democrats nominated Mrs. Whitehead, his wife, for the same office.

Powerville—The vote to build a new town hall at Webberville, carried by a majority of over two to one, which shows that this village is very much alive to its best interests.—Review.

Manchester—Mr. and Mrs. C. D. McMahon who have been spending the past few months in Albion, where their daughter is attending college, have returned to their home here. Mr. McMahon is a brother of Mrs. H. W. Schmidt of Chelsea.

Pinckney—During his illness, the late D. W. Murta, deputized Irvin Kennedy to act in his place as township clerk. The township board at the last meeting appointed Kennedy to the office made vacant by Mr. Murta's death.—Dispatch.

Brighton—Jess Everett has a "canned" tarantula which he will show you if you call. The spider crawled off from a bunch of bananas Saturday and was just looking for a hiding place when Jess spied him. He is still quite active in his glass cage.—Argus.

Jackson—Humane Officer John Pulling made a visit to the farm of George H. Berry, Leoni township, Thursday afternoon and said he found the place in the most terrible condition. Following three or four complaints during the past week, Pulling decided to investigate. He said there were six dead cows and three dead horses about the place.

Clinton—It is with great pleasure that both pupils and patrons of the high school have recently learned that the board of education has engaged Harold Mumbe as superintendent of the school for next year, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the present superintendent, Leo DuVal.—Local.

Ann Arbor—A tablet donated by Charles F. Brush of Cleveland, will be placed in the ground floor of the new literary building over the spot where the class tree of 1869 formerly stood. The tablet will be a bronze plate bearing the following inscription: "More Than Half a Century Here Stood the Class Tree of '69 Growing to a Mighty Elm."

Saline—The construction of the temporary bridge in the western edge of town, which is to take the place of the one that was washed out by the high water and ice a few days ago, is nearly completed. It is being built nearer the old bed, eliminating the bad mud holes and curve that made the temporary road almost impassable.—Observer.

Brooklyn—Brooklyn Chapter O. E. S. observed its 34th anniversary Wednesday evening with a fine fraternal celebration. A banquet was served at 6:30, the banquet room being prettily decorated and the Brooklyn orchestra furnishing music. Worthy Grand Matron Edna Kimball Wilcox was guest of honor and other guests were present from surrounding points.—Exponent.

Milan—Another place suspected of selling moonshine liquor was raided last week by Deputy Sheriff Tom Goodridge, Steve Demick, who lives south of town near the depot, was arrested and turned over to the Monroe County officials. Up to the present time no disposition has been made of the case. A quantity of illicit liquor was seized when the illicit liquor entered the place and it is said that Demick had been peddling the stuff for some time.—Leader.

Ann Arbor—Criminal cases now occupy most of the time of the federal district judges, whereas a short time ago civil cases were in the great majority. Judge C. C. Simons, who, with Judge Arthur Tuttle, sits on the eastern Michigan federal district bench, declared in his talk before the Lawyers' club Thursday for the judge said that while 750 cases had been tried this year there were still 1,500 criminal cases pending. The district attorney's office, he said, was flooded with cases, many of them violations of the Volstead act, the Mann act, anti-narcotic laws and automobile laws.

The Mourning Band.—The custom of wearing a black band on the coat sleeve in token of mourning came from England. It was introduced there for liveried servants whom it was not thought necessary to fit out in black uniforms.

ALFALFA POPULAR AND PROFITABLE DAIRY FEED

Alfalfa is becoming a popular feed for dairy cows and other stock. Many farmers in the vicinity of Chelsea are making plans to sow alfalfa the coming spring. Some only five and ten acres and others 25 acres. In the western states alfalfa has been raised for many years, some men raising as high as 250 acres. Some of the farmers in this locality have not been successful in raising it, but have found it necessary to inoculate the ground in order to get a good stand. One of the best methods to inoculate is to get a load of dirt taken from the ground where sweet clover was grown and spread it on the ground where alfalfa is to be sown. Many times alfalfa failures have been laid to the wrong variety of seed, but if the ground is properly inoculated there is no necessity for a failure. A farmer with an average size farm can raise plenty of hay from 10 or 15 acres. A farmer in the vicinity of Chelsea, who has raised alfalfa for the past ten years told of his experience the past summer. He had 15 acres of alfalfa and started to cut the first cutting about June 15th, cutting two tons to the acre. The second cutting was made about four weeks later with a little over a ton per acre. A third cutting the latter part of August, which was fairly good and the fourth and last cutting was the middle of October, and five large loads were drawn off the field. The 15 acres yielded the farmer over 50 tons of fine green colored hay on which he has had an offer of $25 per ton. Alfalfa is the best kind of feed for dairy cows and also fine for sheep. Dairymen in this section who have high producing herds, consider alfalfa and corn silage, without any grain a good feed for dairy cows on which they will produce from 9,000 to 10,000 pounds of milk in a year. The United States does not as yet produce enough alfalfa to meet its demand.

To Save Natural Gas.
An electrical method of producing lampblack has been devised. This will result in saving large quantities of natural gas formerly used to produce the lampblack.

How Do They Figure This?
It is estimated that by the end of the present century the population of the United States will have become stationary at from 175,000,000 to 200,000,000.

Another First Prize Essay

Another of the first prize essays contributed during the contest recently staged by this bank is given here—that of Catherine Canfield, student in the 8th grade of St. Mary's school. Miss Canfield is 13 years of age, and her essay, like the others, reflects much credit on her school, teachers and herself.

"IN THE HOUR OF TRIAL"

It seems a remarkable fact that great men are raised up to meet great emergencies. Washington was one of these men. His character as a leader was early recognized and he was made commander-in-chief of the continental army during the trying days of the Revolution. The army, at the time of Washington's appointment was an unorganized mass of men undisciplined and many insubordinate. He immediately began work, arranging the army in three divisions, and taking command himself, of the division at Cambridge.

His first work was the siege of Boston, where Howe, the British general was forced to evacuate the city. Later when the whole British force opened hostilities near New York, Washington on arriving on the field found his army nearly ruined. His resolute spirit rose above the disaster, and in a few hours he brought together his shattered forces and stood ready for an assault back of Brooklyn.

Washington's quick perception of the time to act led to the renowned victory at Trenton. This victory caused hundreds of soldiers to re-enlist. It was at this time too, that Robert Morris offered his fortune to the cause.

The bravery of Washington shone forth when he rallied his fleeing soldiers near Princeton. He rode between the lines to within thirty yards of the enemy. When the smoke of the assault cleared away Washington was there, unhurt, and the British ranks broken and flying.

The American army was defeated at Philadelphia. Howe took possession and Washington went to Valley Forge. Wretched and suffering as they were Washington ordered prayers of thanksgiving to be offered for their successes and their safe arrival to their winter quarters. The winter was long and severe, moaning and suffering were in the camp. These were the darkest days in Washington's life. Congress had abandoned him, and men high in service, even Samuel Adams, did not help him.

Help came from France, however, and in the same ship that brought supplies, came Baron Von Steuben, a soldier trained in the army of Frederick the Great. He went to Valley Forge and trained the soldiers there.

The British army evacuated Philadelphia on the arrival of the French fleet and Washington took possession. La Fayette followed Cornwallis to within eight miles of Yorktown. From here he sent messages to Washington who broke up camp and hurried to Virginia. A French fleet under de Grasse anchored at the mouth of the York river, and Cornwallis surrounded on land and sea, surrendered. Seven thousand, two hundred forty seven English and Hessians, with eight hundred forty sailors were made prisoners of war.

The war was now ended and the news sent to Congress. Washington's work was now done and he called together his men to say farewell. With sobs and tears they came forward to bid their General good-bye. The General whose influence over and over again had kept the army from disbanding when men, disheartened by their sufferings, were returning to their homes as their term of enlistment expired, the General who had shared their sufferings, especially at Valley Forge, when he could have returned during that winter, to a home of comfort; the General whose kindness had won their hearts and whose bravery they respected and admired. It is said that no Commander in Europe could have kept his men together under the same circumstances, as Washington did.

He gave up his commission on the 23rd of December, 1783, to become again a private citizen of the Republic.

These are the thoughts called up by the picture "In the Hour of Trial," where Washington is shown as a true soldier and a humble Christian in the darkest days of the Revolution.

METHODIST CRUSADERS TO MEET AT YPSILANTI

Approximately 500 young people of the high school groups of the Methodist church and the Epworth League of the Ann Arbor district are expected to gather in Ypsilanti April 4 and 5 to attend the annual Crusaders' conference and Epworth League convention to be held in the Methodist church. The local high school Epworth league and the Wesleyan guild will be hosts for the occasion.

Friday evening the four dining rooms of the church are expected to be crowded for a banquet and to hear Dr. Ames Maywood, a prominent speaker in Michigan Methodism, Saturday Dr. Harry C. Wilson, of Chicago, will give two addresses and a play, "The Rich Young Man," will be offered by the Ann Arbor delegation.

WHY NOT GIVE THE AMERICAN A SHOW

The amendment to the Immigration Bill brought forward by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania contains a certain element of startling originality. Various national and racial elements have been deluging Congress with appeals for proper representation in the immigration quota. Senator Reed's amendment actually recognizes the fact that if racial interests are to be considered impartially, the native's natural preference for his own breed should be given equal consideration with the similar preference for his own on the part of the foreigner.

He therefore proposes that, after 1926, the total immigration should be cut down to 300,000, and that admissions of various racial stocks shall be apportioned in proportions corresponding to the numbers of persons of the various racial stocks residing in the country in 1920, leaving out the descendants of slaves or involuntary immigrants. This would practically settle the Japanese issue without giving offence, and probably would give southern and eastern Europe about one-sixth of the total of immigration. In doing this, it would automatically preserve our racial status about as it is now, and that is what most real Americans are calling for whatever their racial origin.

Differences in race and language have their practical effect entirely apart from questions of superiority or inferiority. It is well known that the sons and daughters of native stocks are often crowded out of a place of employment simply because it is so filled with persons of alien race and language that they find it no place for them to live and work in. While occupations are often taken over in this way by foreigners. A letter from a boy who had gone to a middle western city expressed this as follows:

"We could not resist the pay in these shops and stayed as long as we could, but no one, except the colored men, could speak English."

The million young native-born coming forward each year, and joining our army of workers, have therefore a decided interest in the character of their imported co-workers. In this amendment the native stocks are given a consideration that is decidedly refreshing. Since equal consideration for all races has been demanded, why not have it.

Insects Have Compound Eyes.
All insects have a pair of compound eyes, although simple eyes may be present also. The compound eyes project on each side of the head as convex, immovable structures. There is only one pair, although each eye may be partially divided. The compound eye consists of a great many similar parts, each a complete organ of vision, but requiring the surrounding elements to form the whole image. Each of the many elements of the eye makes a small image, so that the whole is a mosaic of separate contributions, which combine in a unified visual impression conveyed to the brain. Flies have several thousands of these eyes.

Force of Habit.
A friend calling on De Soaque asked for a glass of water. As the guest drank it the host stood eyeing him with a speculative gleam. The guest, somewhat embarrassed, asked the reason for his behavior. De Soaque apologized immediately. "Force of habit," he explained. "I was waiting to see if it was going to kill you."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Dodging the Question.
"Recently, when I was in New York," a friend once asked Lillian Russell. "I have a friend," replied the actress with apparent irrelevance, "who was born in midocean on a steamer. After she and her mother had landed, the steamer, on its return trip blew up. So practically she has no birthplace." Then, after a pause: "My age is like that."

Charge.
The chairman of the gas company was making a popular address. "Think of the good the gas company has done," he cried. "If I were permitted a pun I should say in the words of the immortal poet, 'Honor thy father and mother, for this is the first commandment.'"

A consumer jumped up and said: "What a charge."

COW TESTING ASSOCIATION ORGANIZES IN LIMA-SYLVAN

Many Dairymen Taking Definite Steps Toward Accurate Recording of Production of Herds.

A Cow Testing Association is being organized in Lima and Sylvan Townships, Washtenaw County. Agricultural Agent Osler of Ann Arbor, accompanied by H. E. Spaulding, canvassed the western part of the county a few days ago and were well pleased with the number of farmers that signed and joined the Association. It requires 26 farmers to sign up in order to get a Cow Testing Association started in this vicinity and it is hoped with another day's canvassing the number required will be obtained.

There are only two Cow Testing Associations in Washtenaw County at the present time and they are in the eastern part of the county. With so many good producing and well bred herds in the county there should be more of the work going on. About fifteen years ago this work was unheard of to the farmers, but they are going into it bravely and trying to make a success of it. Milk is the main product a farmer has to sell. Some are selling whole milk by the 100 pounds while others are using cream separators and sell their cream, using the skim milk for raising pigs. If a farmer tests his herd he knows if he has producers and also knows if he is feeding the proper kind of feed. One of the big advantages of the Association is that the cost is small, $4 or $5 per cow a year. Each member is to have a pair of scales and is furnished with milk sheets and barn sheets. The farmer weighs his milk every milking. A tester is employed to do the testing and keep the herd books. He will also give advice on feeding.

Cow Testing Associations of any sort are service organizations and organized for the purpose of obtaining information for the members which will enable them if they desire to improve the production of their herd. Many farmers regard Cow Testing Association fees as an unnecessary farm expense, but those who have gone into the work seriously call it an investment and realize the dividends on their money invested. But the farmer who joins the association just because his neighbor joined or for some other similar reason is the man who continuously complains of having received no benefits from the work. Anyone must be interested in the work in order to receive any benefit from it. Those who have been in the Cow Testing Association work for some time realize the great value of improving the herds.

A Washtenaw county farmer in the eastern part of the county joined the Cow Testing Association some time ago, tested his herd, and among them he found one of his cows made a fine record and was the third highest milk-producing cow in the United States for the month of September, 1923. He has one of the finest herds in the state, all Registered Holsteins. And previous to this testing did not know what good producing cows he had.

A farmer may have a herd of eight or ten fine looking cows, but they do not produce as much milk as his neighbor, who has only five or six ordinary cows. That is why a farmer should join the Cow Testing Association and see if he has the right kind of cows to produce milk. It matters not what breed, registered or grades. The dairyman who knows the records of his cows is usually the owner of a herd that yields a profit. It is hoped with a little more work a Cow Testing Association will be in full swing in Sylvan and Lima townships.

Whistles to Remind Autoists of Children

New York.—The greatest traffic safety drive the city ever has undertaken was inaugurated here recently and will continue until the schools close next July. It was announced by Marcus Low, secretary of the police department bureau of public safety. The plan is to educate autoists and pedestrians, especially school children, in the prevention of accidents.

At 2:30 p. m. thirty-one minute before public school children are dismissed for the day, whistles are blown and bells rung throughout the city, to notify automobile operators that the children are on the streets. At the same time children in the schools stand at attention for one minute, thinking of accidents and means by which they may be prevented. A second minute is used by teachers to caution the children about crossing streets.

Display cards have been posted throughout the city instructing pedestrians and autoists how to help in the safety campaign.

Deposits Stolen Money for "Jesse James, Jr."

Sturford, Conn.—Police are searching for the thief who after looting the motor vehicle department mail here of $5,700, sent the checks, money orders and cash to the First National bank at Palo Alto, Cal., with the request that it be deposited to the account of "Jesse James, Jr., Lord Jesse Chase."

The money was returned, but the whimsical thief is still at large.

INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION TO BE HELD IN DETROIT

The municipality that wins either the first or second prize cup offered by the Detroit Board of Commerce for the best municipal display at the Michigan Industrial Exposition, to be held in Detroit, May 3rd to 17th, at Convention Hall, will have reason to be proud. Indeed, the cups were selected this week and are marvels of the silversmith's art. They are of classic design in wrought gold and silver and are mounted on ebony bases. The largest one stands two feet in height without the base, and the second prize is nearly as large.
The Detroit Board of Commerce will cause a proper inscription to be engraved upon them after the winning town is named. They may be won by a local Board of Commerce, Kiwanis Club, Rotary Club or commercial organization, of any kind that promotes such an exhibition.
