SO. MAIN STREET PAVING AWARDED BIDDERS MONDAY

County Road Engineer Bailey Sells M-92 Project to Koch Building & Supply Co., Ann Arbor.

Koch Building & Supply Company, Ann Arbor, were successful bidders for the M-92 paving from the D. U. R. on South Main street to M-17, when that section was sold by County Engineer A. R. Bailey at the Washtenaw county court house on Monday. W. H. Ryan, Jackson, was the only other bidder. Final awarding of the work will rest with the state administrative board who will render a decision on qualification of the Koch company to do the work, on next Tuesday, according to advice received by Village President W. R. Daniels, Wednesday.

President Daniels was present at the court house on Monday and immediately conferred with officials of the Koch company with regard to grading and paving of the village portion of the road. Should the grading be done several weeks prior to laying of the sewer and lowering of water mains, a large amount of work necessary for the latter would be unneeded for, since, in some places, as much as two and a half feet would be removed from the surface as it now stands. A large saving to the village would result. Officials of the company went in accord with the idea and it is believed these plans will be followed, should the Koch company be finally awarded the contract.

A movement on the part of villagers to have the South Main street pavement extended full width (29 feet) the entire distance from the village limits to M-17, was initiated at the Monday meeting of the Kiwanis club and a committee composed of Edw. Vogel, Geo. P. Staffan, and L. G. Palmer, accompanied by Supervisor Geo. W. Beckwith and O. D. Lulick expected to go to Ann Arbor today to confer with County Engineer Bailey with regard to proper methods for proceeding. As plans now stand, the pavement would be 29 feet wide from the D. U. R. to Pierce street and from there narrow to 20 feet to M-17. Inasmuch as residents along South Main contend their petition calls for a 20-foot pavement to the village limits there is likely to be some argument before the paving is finished.

Advocates of the full width pavement all the distance to M-17 contend that the cost at the present time and in conjunction with the contract sold Monday would be comparatively negligible, while it is only a matter of a few years until widening would be necessary anyway. Dirt from the grading and excavating could be used to fill in low places each side of the road, they contend, trees could be planted and a really attractive drive created which would tend to direct traffic through Chelsea from the main highway. That there is force to their argument is conceded by everyone who has the interest of Chelsea at heart. Future development commercially depends largely on the quality of highways leading into the village, a fact recognized by villages and cities everywhere, and until a system of roads, with Chelsea as the center, is completed, Chelsea will feel the effects of its isolation.

WILL COOPERATE IN HEALTH EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN

The State Department of Health, the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs, and the Michigan Tuberculosis Association in joint conference at Lansing have agreed to cooperate in the interest of a statewide public health educational campaign.

The work will be carried on under the direction of Doctor Olin, Commissioner of Health. Mrs. Russell, President of the Federation of Clubs, offers the largest organization of women in the state of Michigan to make effective the educational movement. Theo. H. Wente, Executive Secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, with the hearty approval of the executive board of that organization has offered the clerical service of the state association for use in the campaign.

The educational work is planned along general public health lines but with special emphasis on the tuberculosis problems. Because of insufficient legislation, care for consumptives in Michigan is inadequate to the needs of the state. The renewed effort falls naturally within the interest of the official health organization, the State Department of Health.

The women of Michigan are actively interested in all public health work and the Michigan Tuberculosis Association exists through the power of the Christmas seal to educate tuberculosis out of Michigan.

CIVIL WAR VETERANS ENTERTAINED AT DINNER

Appropriate Decorations and Patriotic Program Feature Regular Meeting of Chelsea Kiwanis Club.

Nine Civil War soldiers, residents of Chelsea and hereabouts, were entertained by the Chelsea Kiwanis club at their regular weekly meeting on Monday evening, when a patriotic program, rendered amid a setting of appropriate decorations lent cheer to the hearts of the veterans of '61. The soldiers present were: J. W. Budd, Samuel Glover, O. J. Eaton, C. E. Bowen, Geo. Knapp, Mr. Salisbury, Dan Shell, John Strable, and Mr. White. One veteran, C. C. Dorr, was unable to be present.

Entertainment for the evening was in charge of a committee headed by Dr. A. L. Steger and consisted of an address of welcome to the veterans by H. D. Withersell, response by C. E. Bowen, vocal solos by Mrs. A. A. Palmer and readings by Miss Doris Foster, while patriotic numbers were sung by the entire club.

That the entertainment "touched the spot" which the veterans was evident by the many expressions of appreciation, while pleasure on the part of Kiwanians was unbounded.

CHELSEA HIGH JUNIORS HOLD ANNUAL RECEPTION

Journey to Sand Lake Through Downpour of Rain and Entertainment With Banquet and Program.

The annual C. H. S. Junior Reception held last Friday evening, was a radical departure from the old custom of entertaining. Attempting something new, the Juniors, with teachers, seniors, and sophomores, the latter as waiters, autoed to Sand Lake early in the evening where a sumptuous banquet was served. Although disagreeably cold and rainy, students are authority for the statement that it only served to whet the appetites for the feast that was to follow and was not allowed to seriously interfere with the evening's fun.

After the banquet the following program was given, Clayton White, of the Juniors, acting as toastmaster. Welcome—Helen Lambert. Solo—Norma Pittsley. Toast to the Seniors—John Hamp. Response—Gordon Mecklinger. Solo—George Atkinson. Toast to the Faculty—Florence Schmidt. Response—Mrs. Robinson. Toast to All—Mr. Clark. Following the program, most of the students and teachers went over to the dance hall and completed a very enjoyable evening.

LAST TWO SURVIVING OFFICERS 26TH MICH. INF. PLAN REUNION

From the Ingham County News: Col. L. H. Ives is sending out appeals to the less than three score surviving of the valiant Twenty-sixth Michigan Volunteer Infantry, which organization was largely recruited from this part of Michigan and which saw long and arduous service in the great Civil War, to meet together in Lansing on June 11, the first day of the State G. A. R. Encampment.

"A great majority of our comrades have crossed the Great Divide; we must follow soon," says the letter he is sending to each of those now living. "This may be the last rally of the 'Old Guard.' May we not clasp your hand once more?"

Attached to this heart stirring appeal to the remnants of a once mighty army are the signatures of the sole survivors of the twenty-nine original officers of this famous regiment, Col. L. H. Ives and Col. Nathan Church.

Col. Ives is well known in Chelsea and vicinity and is a frequent visitor at the home of Mrs. H. G. Ives of Madison street.

RUNAWAY AUTOMOBILE DAMAGES OIL STATION

Cement City Motorist Crashes Into Staebler Building on M-17 Causing Damage of Several Hundred Dollars.

The machine of O. A. Richardson, a motorist of Cement City, left the pavement at the junction of M-92 and M-17 about eight o'clock Wednesday evening, crashing into the oil station of Staebler Bros., through the side of the building, damaging a new Ford sedan of Manager Miller, and barely missing Mrs. Miller who was working at the desk. According to Mr. Miller, collision with his own machine was the only thing that saved Mrs. Miller from serious, if not fatal, injury.

According to the story told by Mr. Richardson, a machine coming from the west swerved to the middle of the pavement, forcing him from the road. From there he seemingly lost control of his car with the resultant damage to Mr. Miller's car and the Staebler building. Estimates place the damage at approximately $300.

WILL HOLD ANNUAL EXHIBIT SCHOOL WORK

Pageant on Wednesday Night and Program on Thursday Night Will Feature Next Week's School Activities.

Chelsea public schools will hold an exhibit of school work at both the grade and high school building on next Wednesday and Thursday evenings when each pupil will place on exhibition some of the work done during the year. An excellent opportunity will be afforded parents and others interested in the school to get in direct touch with results being obtained and efforts necessary toward that end.

On Wednesday evening pupils in the first eight grades will present an American History pageant and on Thursday evening the high school will give a program to both of which the public is cordially invited.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

Little Robert Franks was kidnapped in Chicago the other day, and when he recognized his abductors was killed and his body left in a swamp. His father was preparing to pay the $10,000 ransom demanded, but was an hour or so too late.

These things happen frequently enough to make serious folks probe causes and effects. People with big hearts, not inclined toward analysis, will probably sympathize with the parents and let it pass at that. Going a little further, some will remember that all rich people are in similar danger. Others will wonder about the criminals, how they got started and why they undertook this "job."

Something or somebody is to blame for every crime. Here everything is complex, mixed up. The father isn't to blame for to guard a boy every moment senseless and useless, and he was willing to pay the ransom. The boy couldn't help being an heir. The crooks were most guilty, but why?

Society helped. Probably they were born normal, but had to play in the street. Their fathers may have been unable to keep working; their mothers despairing and leading cheerless lives. Society, which means everybody, can alleviate such conditions. Crooks have to start somewhere. A few innocent people, like this boy and his parents, pay big penalties for the public's indifference. Criminals usually get their start young, because people who have pay little heed to those who haven't. Evidently the blame, if properly fixed, would be divided, rather generally. Maybe some would fall pretty close home!

KEEP YOUNG AND LIVING

That seems to be the plea of the National Conference on Outdoor Recreation at Washington. Take time to play, we are told. This is not only a duty to ourselves and family; it is an opportunity to keep youthful and to live to a very old age.

President Coolidge told the delegates that the advance of civilization was taking people further and further away from active outdoor life, and tending to make machines out of them. He emphasized needs of children, but said that, for adults, "life may not only be more enjoyable but more rounded out and complete" if they play.

Folks who have a horror of dying before their time, or, much worse, of getting crabbed after their fortieth birthday, might give it a try. All chances are in favor of its working.

LYING TO THE COURT

Charles Rendigs, found guilty of lying while being selected as a juror to try a man he knew on New York scandal, finds that he faces a ten to twenty year sentence for perjury. Evidently telling fibs in and out of school are different propositions. A sentence won't end prevarication by witnesses or prisoners, however. It seems to come natural to lie to escape punishment. But then, it seems natural to commit any number of faults which we are assured are morally despicable. Swearing before an open Bible to "tell the whole truth" seems, from a distance, a solemn procedure. It is. It ought to be undertaken reverently. But if a man always did the things he ought to do, and nothing else, there wouldn't be any courts.

KEEPING SWEET

The hospital at Orange, New Jersey, was the usual gloomy prison until Helen Pickenbach was brought in with both legs cut off by a train. Now it is said to be more like a happy school. If Miss Pickenbach were too young to understand the extent of her misfortune, or too old to feel that she would miss much of life, it would still make an interesting story. But she is just twenty-two, attractive, popular, and has been very busy in social affairs. In fact, she expects to be always. But she'll find some strange people outside. She'll learn something new. She will find pity by the wholesale, and toleration by the ton. Folks will commend her pluck, but mentally and literally relegate her to the ranks of the he-beens. We did that with some crippled war veterans. We do it today with folks who have one impediment or another. They would like nothing better than to forget their condition, but folks won't let them. They would like to be accepted as other people are, given work and responsibility and earned affection. Instead, they usually get fretting attentions, exaggerated cordiality, and patronage. That is worse than being ignored.

So Helen has some surprises coming to her. She will probably often long to be back in the hospital, with folks who accept her as one of them. She may keep sweet while limping through life on cork legs, but she won't get much aid. Having survived one of the most tremendous physical and spiritual handicaps one could imagine, she may wish she had died. But, anyhow, she remains a high school senior, and she is going to college.

We can't have too many standards. Ours keep slipping; our idealized heaven keep their halos; we get so much of the shoddy and so little of the genuine. We are apt to discredit good examples when we get them and to discount achievements. That will be difficult here. For a young girl to keep sweet, and make a whole hospital of sick folks cheerful, isn't easy to talk down. As inspiration, it ranks at the top.

ANOTHER EPIC

Harry Thaw is safe home in Pittsburgh, and morons turn reluctantly to the next best thrill. He got on the front page frequently for ten years and may get excited again. He made the editors of noisy newspapers gleeful, and they in turn regaled the rabble with tales of his misdoings. Recently he was released from the insane asylum with much journalistic ceremony. He attended to a few matters such as settling money on Evelyn Nesbit, his companion in two-inch headlines, and then went into seclusion. Thus passes another epic from out literary perusing; another spasm of what big city papers insist is vital news.

Curiously enough, both big newspapers and their readers point to such other when one questions the reason for featuring the frailties of human nature. Big newspapers, needing big circulations, say people want such rot. Since the big circulations thus become bigger, who can blame them? The readers, in turn, say their finer feelings rebel at it, and that they trust editors to deal out what they are to have. But—also strangely—no matter how much the mob resents sensational news, it gorges on such, and a history compiled from some of our most extensive prizes of illuminative journalism would indicate to posterity that we are grateful to the dogs.

A PROMISED RELIEF

After the Army had tested chlorine gas on several horses affected with colds, and cured them, the next patient tried was President Coolidge. He is reported to have been quickly rid of the ailment. After such an eminent candidate has proved the merits of the newly discovered method, we hope doctors will give the rest of us a chance.

Savages probably didn't have colds, but all the way up men have suffered from them. Strange that such an old affliction hasn't been made impossible or curable up to now, but it hasn't. Any doctor will give a remedy which may or may not work, but the process is often as unpleasant as the disease.

It is said that to sit a half hour in an air-tight room into which a small quantity of chlorine gas has been pumped, will quickly end any cold. Chlorine is cheap, easy to handle, and almost any room will serve. Doctors are invited to investigate the process. The world has had enough colds which hang on for weeks. Perhaps within a year we shall see the doom of our ancient and most malignant enemy.

NEVER TOO OLD

Edmund Barbour, of Boston, told the court he had paid $387,000 "hush money" after a man found him "petting" a woman in his office. Apparently he valued his reputation highly. Most people aren't so careful. A thousand dollars would make some lean forward; a little more make them fall.

But Barbour was eighty-two years old. That makes it more interesting, also more regrettable. His petting was doubtless innocent. But, he knew folks would smile sardonically and wag their thumbs at him. They must not have the chance. Two men learned of his uneasiness and helped him arrange for silence—for a fortune.

The cynic sneers with the platitudes that there is no fool like the old fool. But where the old man is unwise today, a thousand young ones are wanton cads. There's the answer.

NO END TO IT

Presbyterian clergymen used up a lot of time in Grand Rapids last week arguing over fundamentalism and modernism. Every denomination has done the same. Seems that religion is still a prime topic for argumentation, as it probably was in the days of the Pharisees. Now, as then, it does little good, however. Every man has a firm conviction, and while trying to convert everybody else, won't yield an inch himself. Apparently there is to be no end to the battle of creeds. And since they can't convert each other, it seems a good idea that they quit fighting, give each other credit for loyalty to a lost cause, and try to get along peacefully until one side or the other gets some solid and irrefutable facts for proof. The harm these inter-church and denominational scraps are doing is immeasurable. They destroy the faith of individuals, never too strong at best; they make cynics of unbelievers; they keep their organizations from progressing; and they abuse the tenets of their professed beliefs. For religion may be belligerent, and faith should always be militant and evangelistic, but when zeal becomes bitter hostility and tolerance changes to sourness, the scrapping had better cease.

EXPERTS FIND SECRET OF ANIMAL LONGEVITY

Horses in Active Service With the Army Have Average Age of 14 Years.

Washington.—Army experts believe they have discovered the secret of animal longevity.

Old horses and mules in "active service" today have an average age of fourteen years, while in the nominal civil activities eleven-year-old animals are regarded as beyond the age of usefulness. The "oldsters" of the army herds, whether in the cavalry, artillery or transport service, are still "going strong." In the case of a twenty-five-year-old charger is still winning blue ribbons for performances in his class.

The secret, the experts believe, lies in regularity of diet, exercise, rest, grooming and all the other cares with which the army sustains its animals in time of peace. They estimate that a five-year average increase in the useful-life period of horses and mules in the service has already been proved, figuring that still be at for active service two years from now.

The total number of animals in active army service is 44,423, and the average age for all of these is fourteen years. Of the 26,254 horses, 80 per cent are more than eleven years of age, and of the 18,169 mules 64 per cent have passed the eleven-year mark. These statistics indicate, according to army experts, that the bulk of animal work in the army is being done by horses and mules which, in civil life, would be regarded as fit only for the honkyard, or the pension list.

Kansas Carries No Insurance.
Kansas carries no insurance on its state buildings. The state has millions of dollars in buildings, and all of them constructed in recent years are fireproof. This insurance cost would be very heavy. It is regarded as being a policy of economy to lose a building by fire occasionally rather than to pay the insurance premium on fire protection.

Relics of Famous Massacre.
While excavating for electric conduits in Chicago recently workmen unearthed the skeletons of three American Indians, which archeologists and experts in Indian lore believe to be at least a hundred years old. These bones were found not far from the place of the famous Fort Dearborn massacre.

Got Him Cold.

Says Prehistoric Birds of Kansas Had Teeth

Birds once had teeth, but it was a long time ago. In fact, it was in that period of the earth's history when much of North America was covered by broad, shallow seas that were dotted with low and almost barren islands. And upon these islands roamed some of the strangest of all the thousands of odd creatures that have lived in past ages—birds that could not walk, and that had long beaks, armed with sharp teeth. These birds, described in Science and Invention by Carroll Lane Fenton, department of paleontology, University of Michigan, are known from their skeletons, which have been preserved and turned into stone in the chalk beds of western Kansas.

Hesperornis, the western bird, as this ancient dweller of Kansas has been called, measured nearly five feet from tip to tip of his beak to the tip of his toes. In shape he was a good deal like the black and white loon, or hell diver of modern rivers and lakes, but, unlike that bird, he swam by means of his legs and feet alone, never trying to use wings.

Indeed, he could hardly have done so, for after ages of disuse, his wings had disappeared entirely, and there remained but a few bones to show where they once had been. But stout legs and paddle-like feet were all he needed to get about, either on the surface or below. His body was shaped like a submarine, while his neck had the driving force of a heron's. Once a fish was caught in the bird's long beak with its backwardly directed teeth, it had no chance to escape.

Early Americans Tied to Coast by Need of Salt

Early American settlers were tied to the coast by the need of salt, without which they could not preserve their meats and live in comfort. Writing in 1762, Bishop Spangenberg says of a colony for which he was seeking lands in North Carolina: "They will require salt and other necessities which they can neither manufacture nor raise. Elsewhere they must go to Charleston, which is 800 miles distant, or else go to Bolling's Point in Virginia on a branch of the James and also 800 miles from here, or else they must go down the Roanoke—I know not how many miles—where salt is brought up from Cape Fear." An annual pilgrimage for salt thus became essential. Taking fire and gunpowder, the early settlers sent their pack trains after seedling time each year to the coast. But when discovery was made of the salt springs of the Kanawha and the Holston and the Kentucky and central New York, the West began to be freed from dependence on the coast. It was in part the effect of finding these salt springs that enabled settlement to cross the mountains.—Detroit News.

FINDS CHINESE GRAVE FOREIGN-MADE GOODS

Head of Chicago Museum Declares Nation Longs to Be More Modern.

Chicago.—Old, conservative China is no more, for the whole spirit of the Chinese people is modernized, according to Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of the department of anthropology of the Field Museum of Natural History, who has just returned from China where he made an extensive archaeological survey.

The Chinese of today are obsessed by a craving for foreign-made goods and styles in keeping with the trend of the modern republican movement, he said, in describing the last year's studies of the language and customs of the people.

More than 2,000 objects are included in the new collections which he brought back with him and which will be added to the Chinese collections at the museum.

The basic structure of the ancient civilization is shaken, he said, but he believes that present-day conditions of brigandage are transient and he has great faith in the Chinese people. During the expedition he came in contact chiefly with the upper classes and Manchurian aristocrats. He paid high tribute to the Chinese for their genuine courtesy and sympathetic understanding of his mission.

Dr. Laufer procured material from private collections, from the possession of old families and as the result of excavations undertaken by Chinese, outstanding among these being 284 pieces of medieval pottery, 138 of which fall within the time of the Sung dynasty, when the most artistic ceramic products were made.

The most striking expedition trophies, however, are an imposing carved red lacquered bed of the eighteenth century, an elaborately carved ornamental chair of the same period, and a large dragon boat, each object a marvel of technical taste. The bed measured 6 ft. 3 in. by 3 ft. 6 in., 14 feet long and 3 feet high, forming a sort of hammock in itself. The dragon boat, which is 8 feet long and 2 1/2 feet wide, is carried around in religious processions at the annual dragon-boat festival.

Another important acquisition consists of four court costumes, also many other bits of imperial paraphernalia of the Manchurian dynasty. Among these are a complete dress of a lady of the Manchurian aristocracy, court hats and elaborate headpieces, imperial brocades, tapestries, fans and door screens, complete set of the bows used in the military examinations for testing the strength of candidates, and numerous weapons and armor.

Among other treasures brought to the museum are 25 paintings of the Sung and Ming periods, several ancient tapestries, brocades and cut velvet. Numerous additions were made to the existing collections of jade and other hard stones.

The Song of the Builders

ON every hand is heard the rattle of the builder's hammer and the rasp of his saw. Over-night, it seems, buildings rise—new streets appear.

And the thousands of new homes and great buildings increase the problems of the public service companies.

This Company attempts to foresee the great growth of service demand and extends its plant into new districts as rapidly as possible, in an effort to most efficiently serve the people of Michigan.

However, sudden unforeseen population and industrial growth frequently make it impossible to furnish utility service at all points immediately upon demand. Hundreds of new telephones are wanted. The Telephone Company's problem is the same as that of the water, sewer, gas, electric, street, and school services.

But Telephone Plant expansion is breaking all records. Thousands of new instruments are being installed, miles of new circuits are being built and additional exchange facilities are being provided, to meet the call for service.

Everything possible is being done to provide service for all who desire it.

Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

Michigan and Her Railroads

Since 1920, when the Government returned Railroad operation to private enterprise, service in Michigan has become yearly more dependable—more nearly adequate.

That Service is today the best Michigan has ever enjoyed.

As a result there has come into being between the State's 24 steam Railroads and the public they serve, a spirit of pride and mutual good will.

Geographical isolation has made railroad service a local more than a national problem in both Peninsulas of Michigan. Within the enveloping barriers established by our Great Lakes, Michigan and Her Railroads can prosper only by prospering together. State and carriers become thus members of a close community of interest.

Michigan Railroads realize this fact and make it fundamental in all details of management and operation.

The public can also recognize this situation by neighborly cooperation and by insisting that the roads be repaid by receiving, in national and state supervision, the same square deal.

We invite from you any suggestion of more ways in which we can consistently better our service.

"In the Hour of Trial"

John Adrien, age 12 years, student in the 7th grade of the Chelsea public schools, contributes this week's essay. Mrs. Ella Eckenberger is teacher. The essay follows:

It happened on the tenth day of December in the year of 1776. The American army were in camp on the west side of the Delaware River above Trenton on the New Jersey side. It had met the British a few months before in a battle at Long Island, for there were only about 3,500 men left out of the army. A good part of these were ill on account of illness and lack of sufficient clothing from the cold winter weather. They were also tired from walking the long journeys.

The terrible retreat across New Jersey, and through New Brunswick, Princeton and on across the Delaware, and the British army near by, was finished and so they encamped here with the river between them and the enemy.

It had snowed all that night and the next day it was nearly two feet deep. They were very comfortable, all that seemed to be the matter with them was lack of food. General Washington and his men had a council and it was decided that they were short of food. They said it would be a good thing to forage in the country and send a few soldiers out to kill all the wild animals they could and this way Washington thought that they could secure food enough. This task was given to captains of various companies to appoint the hunters and appoint the members of various parties to go around to the neighboring farms and secure food for the armies.

The hunting party went through the woods as quickly as possible. Wading through deep snow was hard work for the men. They soon reached the spot that they were headed for. The hunters rested awhile and then spread out a mile or so in groups thinking they would get more game than if all were together in one bunch.

As the river was not frozen hard enough to hold a person the British could not attack the Americans and so they were safe for awhile. The Delaware was a swift river and would not freeze over unless it was extremely cold. All this time the American soldiers were sitting around in their cabins and making themselves comfortable, while some soldiers and hunters gathered food from the farms and woods.

General Washington and his men were busy getting ready for the attack on Trenton.

It was a very bold and daring plan for Washington and his men to do this, and the next day was Christmas. Cadwalader could not get his men across the river because the chunks of loose ice were floating down the river and that they would dash the little boats to pieces. Ewing, who should have crossed opposite Trenton, did not even try to get across, and he thought that Washington would be foiled also, and give the attempt up. They both sent a message to Washington saying that they could not get across the river. The message reached Washington just as they had got to the place where they were going to cross.

When Washington received the news of the failure he and the rest thought they would go on if possible and if they could get across the Delaware in safety. He also had picked men on this account and they were fishermen from Massachusetts and were used to being on water.

It was a terrible task and a dangerous one but General Washington, Sullivan and Gates superintended the work, that the boats were not over loaded and each one had good fishermen and oarsmen. The next morning before daylight the army was on the New Jersey side and ready to take the nine mile march down the river to Trenton.

The soldiers forgot that they had only a little cold food to eat with them and that they did not have any sleep all night. But with Washington they didn't mind it and started out for Trenton.

On they marched, slowly and painfully because now it was sleeting and snowing and chills and ice going through their clothes. But they marched on because they wanted to hit the British a blow as well as Washington did. They soon reached Trenton and captured the British there. It was a good victory for the Americans, because they had to work so hard to get there.

"Absolutely, Wilbur."

"And he will take me into the firm and let me put my name first on the letter head?"

"He will, Wilbur."

"And do you think he would let me give jazz parties here every week after we're married?"

A Plea for Poppy Day

By James D. Campbell, in New York Times

O, CHERISH the flag with the stars of blue. They stand for the men who stood for you. When a gold star fell a star of blue. Filled up the breach till their work was through. The story should never grow old.

Oh, cherish the flag with the stars of blue. And the pitiful stars of gold. The gold ones gave and they gave and gave. And all that a man could give, they gave. These stars shine down on a martyr's grave. And your grief must never grow cold.

Oh, cherish the flag with the stars of blue. And the myriads of stars of blue. Those stars of blue who were there to give. And the myriads of stars of blue.

Those who live they offered to give. So all that you hold dear might live. Yes, if need be, to die for you.

And our hearts can add yet another star. One that's stained with a blood-like red. It stands for the blind and the crippled. Who were fighting there in your stead. They took the wounds and the bullets. And the suffering all for you. Oh, cherish the flag with its stars of gold. And its stars of red and blue.

Arlington Typical of Great America

Service to Country Is One Necessary Requisite for Burial There.

MEMORIALS in wide variety have been erected to the valor and patriotism of the thousands of defenders of the nation, but by far the most magnificent of these tributes is the great Arlington cemetery, just across the Potomac river, on the heights overlooking the capital city of Washington. Here lie buried some 80,000 dead of the Civil war, the Spanish-American war, and the World war.

Neither money nor effort has been spared to make this cemetery a fitting resting place for the soldiers and sailors who here repose in their last long sleep. Simple marble headstones of private stand alongside the great mausoleums and monuments of distinguished army and naval officers. Service to his country is a necessary requisite for burial in Arlington, but rank matters not; the humblest and the greatest sleep together.

Standing out beyond all the monuments in Arlington, without doubt, is the glistening white marble of the great amphitheater—dedicated three years ago. Here on Memorial Day hundreds of government officials and private citizens gather in an impressive service. Three other memorials in Arlington command more than passing notice. The most of the battleship Maine, sunk in Havana harbor a quarter of a century ago, precipitating the Spanish-American war, serves as a monument over the graves of many brave American sailors who lost their lives when that ship struck a mine.

The monument to 2,111 of the unknown dead of the Civil war ever reminds the visitor to the cemetery of the thousands lying in unmarked graves over the battlefields of the South. And of more recent renown is the grave of the unknown soldier whose body was brought from the fields of France to typify his comrades in this last great conflict. It is a touching sight as some little gray-haired woman, often plainly dressed, but always in deep black, kneels at this tomb. She has made the pilgrimage to the grave of "her boy" and it may be her boy, if he was among the unidentified dead. At least, she finds consolation in thinking it is, and her mother heart is satisfied when she has knelt at his last resting place. Many mothers have in the last few months thus sought consolation for their loss.

Arlington cemetery is unique—there is nothing like it in the world. Other nations have erected monuments, arches and memorials to their successful military and naval leaders and statesmen. They have provided massive tombs and burial places, but always for men of high rank. England has her Westminster abbey, for men of high distinction in statesmanship, invention, science, letters, philanthropy, as well as war. France's Pantheon and Rome's Pantheon are for the same purpose, and Egypt's pyramids were reserved for kings and queens only. But not so Arlington. Here equality and sacrifice dominate. Wealth, birth, social station, and political eminence, without military service, try for admission in vain. Arlington is typical of a nation "conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

Force of Gravity

The moon's attraction on the earth's moon is in its center of gravity. A ship weighing 1000 tons would lose 10 pounds of its weight when the moon is overhead.

IT IS SERIOUS

Some Chelsea People Fail to Realize the Seriousness of a Bad Back. The constant aching of a bad back, The weariness, the tired feeling, The pains and aches of kidney ills May result seriously if neglected. Dangerous urinary troubles often follow.

A Chelsea citizen shows you what to do. Lewis Eschelbach, farmer, R. F. D. No. 2, says: "I was in bad shape with kidney trouble. I wasn't fit for any kind of work as my back was painful and there was a constant weakness and soreness just over my kidneys. My head ached and I was nervous. I didn't get any relief until I started taking Doan's Pills from Freeman's Drug Store. Three boxes of Doan's cured me, so I am glad to recommend them."

Price 80c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mr. Eschelbach had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Mice Answer Dinner Bell
White mice have been taught the meaning of the dinner bell. What is more, they have been able to transmit some sense of its significance to their offspring so that they may more easily be taught to jump for the table when the bell rings. The experiments are described in Science by Prof. Ivan P. Pavlov, the Russian physiologist.

The first generation of white mice required 800 lessons before they realized that the ringing of an electric bell meant that dinner was ready. After that they quickly trotted to the feeding place when they heard it tinkle.

Their young ones caught on to the trick after only 100 lessons, while their offspring in turn learned after only 80. The fifth generation had apparently so well inherited the tendency to "obey that impulse" that after only five trials they were ready and waiting.

Professor Pavlov hopes that future generations will know the meaning of an electric bell, just as surely as a newborn chick knows the meaning of a fragment of grain.

Commonest Metal
Iron is the metal most used by man, yet the metal which is by far commonest in the earth's crust is not iron, but calcium. Forty per cent of limestone is calcium. Calcium is a very light metal, easily hammered, easily drawn out into wire, and almost as pretty in color as gold. Why then, you may ask, do we not make more use of it? There are two reasons: the first that it is very difficult to isolate from its ores, but the second is worse. When isolated, let the merest drop of moisture touch calcium and it flares away into blazed lime. The present price of calcium is about twenty times that of gold.

Bark Forestation
Great trees from little seeds may grow sometimes. Experts of the United States forest service have found that many of the western yellow pine forests in the Northwest second-growth pine is not multiplying as it should.

The older trees are there. These trees bear plenty of cones. These cones are good seed to start the new growth. But the seed never gets a chance to dig in. Sawdust collects and store the potential forest for their own use.—Science Service.

Ready to Help
"Worried Hubby—Business is still pretty bad, dear. If you could economize a little in dresses—wear something plainer—"
"Wise—Certainly, darling. I'll order some plainer dresses the first thing in the morning!"—London Opinion.

Four Famous Rivers
Four famous American rivers, the Rio Grande, the Arkansas, the Colorado and the Platte, have their origin in Colorado.

Ancient Timbers Still Strong
Recent tests have shown that the oak timbers in the roof of the London building are as strong as when it was erected five centuries ago.

Definition of History
History is a narrative of events by a man who does not personally know them, compiled from writings of other persons, probably misinformed.

Bible Thoughts for the Week

Sunday.
SURE DELIVERANCE—Surely he shall deliver thee from the snare of the fowler, and from the noisome pestilence.—Ps. 113.

Monday.
DO WE?—Jesus said unto him, thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.—Matt. 22:37.

Tuesday.
DEPENDENCE—Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the majesty; for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine, and thou art exalted as head above all.—1 Chron. 20:11.

Wednesday.
GOD'S PROMISES KEPT—There hath not failed one word of all his good promises.—1 Kings 8:35.

Thursday.
A LAMP AND A LIGHT—Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path.—Ps. 119:106.

Friday.
VICTORY SURE—Greater is he that is in you than he that is in the world.—1 John 4:4.

Saturday.
HUMILITY AND EXALTATION—Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time.—1 Peter 5:3.

CHURCH CIRCLES

ST. MARY CHURCH
Rev. Fr. T. J. Fallon, pastor.
Low Mass at 8 a. m.
High Mass at 10 a. m.
Baptism at 11 a. m.
Mass on week days at 8 a. m.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL
Rev. C. S. Risley, pastor.
Rev. C. E. Stedman of Detroit, will speak Sunday morning. He represents "The Lord's Day Alliance of Michigan." Are we going to save the Sabbath for America? What can be done? Shall sports and movies kill the religious use of the day? Our Sabbath Day is bleeding from every pore. The "S. O. S." call has been sounded. What shall our answer be? Hear the address Sunday. Sunday evening we will take a subject that is quite prominent now—"Can the Churches Stop War"? Are they the only instrument for achieving peace? Our Sunday school is fine.

We had a fine attendance at all services. The Unity Class special effort to be present Sunday. President Coolidge has missed but one Sunday going to church since 1921, and that was due to sickness—can you say as much? Remember "Church first, God's out of doors afterward." Thursday evening Church night—"The Spirit that guided and uplifted the Church at Antioch." Come to Church.

CONGREGATIONAL
E. L. Butherford, Minister.
Sunday, June 1st.
At the 10 o'clock worship the subject for the children will be "What Ailed the Clock" (Sol. 2:15). For the adults, the discussion will be from "John 3:16." Evening service at 7:30. Subject "Basic Qualities of Life."

A cordial welcome to all, and to our Sunday school at 11:15.

A personal God is the great contribution of the Old Testament, and the supreme teaching of Jesus. Any form of thought which removes God from human life, any violence which loses the Creator somewhere in His creation, any psychology which turns the Almighty into a nebulous cloud of impersonal beauty, or force love, is attacking the Christianity of Christ at its most vital spot. Can we still believe in a personal God? Let us be honest with ourselves and look at this modern day religion. What kind of religious experiences do you possess?

I invite you through this paper to make some church your home.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH
E. H. Grabowski, Pastor.
English service every 1st, 3rd and 5th Sunday of the month.
German service every 2nd and 4th Sunday.
Sunday school all English.
Services commence at 10 o'clock.
Sunday school at 11:15.

Worse to Come
Having been served with a wedge of some yellow substance, the husband poked at it cautiously with his fork, and finally turned it over on his plate, asking:

"What is this?"
"Pound cake. What of it?" the wife replied.

"Nothing," said the husband. "I thought my section weighed more than a pound. What are you going to make next?"

"Marble cake," said the wife defiantly.—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Concocted
A young fellow was engaged in a clerical capacity by a friend of his father. He was, however, shiftless, and nothing he said could be relied upon.

One day his employer called him into his private office and gave him a lecture. He dwelt chiefly on his prevention and avoidance by saying: "You know, James, that you are always lying."

"Sir," said James, "I would have you remember that I am a gentleman."

"There you go again," said his employer.

Does Her Child Ascend
A mother recently told me that her child had been told that the moon was made of cheese.

ROOS-LEHMAN WEDDING
Carl A. Lehman, Hamburg merchant, was married Saturday afternoon to Miss Ruth Roos of Ann Arbor. Rev. E. C. Stehorn, pastor of Zion Lutheran church of Ann Arbor, officiating, the ceremony being solemnized in the Zion chapel.

The couple was attended by the brother and sister-in-law of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Roos of Ann Arbor. The newly-weds spent the week-end with Mr. Lehman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lehman of Chelsea. They will reside in the Anna Zeeb house, West Stone and Mill streets, Hamburg.

Ordered to Jail for Kissing Girl.
Chicago.—Dr. Justin Mitchell saved himself from going to jail by furnishing bonds of $25,000. Miss Mathilda Benhardt had obtained judgment of $10,000 from him for unwelcome kisses.

Two Race Horses Lost
From Moving Train
New Orleans.—E. T. Miller, turfman, loaded his three-selling platers, Stanley, Catrona and Beteman, in a box car at Bowie, Md., recently and headed toward the winter racing meet at Jefferson track.

When he awakened in a railway yard here only Beteman was accounted for. A singed horse by four and broken halter ropes were the only evidences that the horses had been in the car. The door of the car was open.

What became of them is an unsolved mystery for the trainer and police. Mr. Miller declared the trio were in their place at Piquette, Miss., where he fell asleep.

Balk Forestation
Great trees from little seeds may grow sometimes. Experts of the United States forest service have found that many of the western yellow pine forests in the Northwest second-growth pine is not multiplying as it should.
The older trees are there. These trees bear plenty of cones. These cones are good seed to start the new growth. But the seed never gets a chance to dig in. Sawdust collects and store the potential forest for their own use.—Science Service.
