MIDNIGHT BLAZE CAUSES CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE

Basement of Freeman's Store Scene of Serious Fire Late Tuesday Night; Damage Unestimated.

Fire, smoke and water combined caused considerable damage to the Freeman department store late Tuesday night when the store room in the rear of the basement department caught fire, presumably from a defective electric wire, spreading to the room. Lack of sufficient air to cause draft possibly kept the fire from gaining much headway and confined it to the room below. Steel ceiling also is given credit for keeping the fire in the basement.

The blaze was discovered by Mrs. Lorenz Bagge, night operator of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., which has its offices in the front upstairs rooms of the Freeman block. Water from the faucet, usually cold for drinking purposes, was found to be hot when drawn about 11:00 o'clock, and upon investigation it was discovered the hallway was full of smoke. The alarm was given immediately and quick response by firemen saved the building from further damage.

That there will be considerable damage from smoke was believed by both Mr. Freeman and Walworth & Stratton, the latter with a store room adjacent to the Freeman room. Density of the smoke was such that for more than an hour after the fire was extinguished it was practically impossible to penetrate it. Doors and windows were opened and the smoke drawn out as soon as possible. Residents of upstairs rooms were driven from the building by the smoke. Estimates of the damage done could not be given by occupants of the block today. Apparently, however, it will amount to several hundred dollars.

METHODIST HOME SCENE OF AFTERNOON WEDDING

Rev. John B. Oliver and Mrs. Esther Reason, Residents of the Home, United in Marriage Wednesday.

Rev. John B. Oliver, superannuated minister of the Detroit conference, recently accepted as a member of the M. E. Home, and Mrs. Esther Reason, formerly of Pinckney, now a member of the Home, were married Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 at the Home, in the presence of all the Home family. Rev. F. O. Jones officiated during the ceremony.

With Miss Olga Hutzel at the piano the wedding party descended from the second floor to the strains of Lohengrin's march to the first floor parlor where a canopy of pink and white roses was arranged. The ring ceremony was used, Miss Mann acting as ring bearer. The service was very pretty and quite impressive in spite of the advanced age of the groom who is 84 years of age, while the blushing bride is 62.

The bride was attired in a dress of white organdie and carried a bouquet of pink and white roses. The house was decorated in pink and white throughout.

After congratulations were tendered by their friends a 3 course luncheon was served in the dining room. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver will reside in the Home.

SUGAR LOAF LAKE DEFEATS DEXTER INDEPENDENTS 17-10

Dexter again fell victims to the heavy hitting of the Sugar Loaf Lakers in the game played Sunday on the Dexter diamond. The game was more interesting than the score would indicate for when the Lakers went to bat in the ninth the score stood 8-7 in their favor. Here the third pitcher Dexter used weakened and two more were tried in quick succession but they failed to stem the tide until nine runs had crossed the plate.

Pollard pitching for Sugar Loaf kept Dexter busy trying to get a line on his deceptive curves.

This is the second victory over Dexter in as many starts. The Lakers collected 20 hits while Pollard held Dexter to 11 safeties.

DECAPITATED BODY OF MAN FOUND ON M. C. TRACKS

Local and Railroad Authorities Unable to Identify Victim of Friday Morning Tragedy.

The body of an unidentified man, badly mutilated, was found by section men on the Michigan Central tracks, about two miles west of Chelsea on Friday morning. That the man had been run down by a train was evidenced by the severance of one arm and the head from the body.

Trainmen were at a loss to account for cause of the accident, if accident it was. Among the effects of the deceased man was a watch, sum of money, and among other things a page from a Hamtramck Polish newspaper. However nothing could be found among his possessions which might lead to his identification.

The body was brought to the Staff an undertaking parlor where it was held until Tuesday and then taken to Ann Arbor for use in the medical department of the university.

HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE FLOCK TO CHAUTAUQUA

Largest Crowd in History of Local Entertainment Crowd Tent for Musical, Dramatic and Speaking Programs.

Surpassing in interest and enthusiasm any entertainment organization ever to appear in Chelsea, the local Chautauqua program has met with unusual success during its appearance here the first four days of this week. Crowds taxing the capacity of the tent and grounds have been in daily attendance, increasing in number from the very start of the opening number Monday afternoon.

That the people of Chelsea and vicinity are appreciative of the opportunity presented is apparent from the repeated attendance of practically everyone who has witnessed any one of the numbers. Residents for miles around have driven in to have a share in the educational and entertaining programs offered.

At the very outset of the chautauqua's stay in Chelsea, a "Junior Chautauqua" was organized among the children by special organizers with the Mutual-Morgan company. Since then daily meetings of the juniors have been held and this evening at 7:15 they will appear in a special program for entertainment of their elders.

Monday evening the Elias Tamburizza Serenaders appeared to a repertoire of native Jugo-Slavia songs and dances, instrumental numbers and characteristic humorous hits. Costumed in colorful outfits of their native land they carried their audience with them to the land of far-away Europe of which little is known in America.

On the second day two concerts by the Stuart Barker Concert artists were enjoyed by large audiences. Included in the company are Stuart Barker, haritone, Miss Louise C. Lee, violinist, and Miss Mary Virginia Mosby, pianist, all finished artists. Especially appreciated were the violin selections of Miss Lee, who is assistant to Adolph Hahn in the College of Music Faculty, Cincinnati, Ohio, and piano solos by Miss Mosby, who also accompanied Mr. Barker and Miss Lee in their solo work.

Taking for his subject in the afternoon "The Church, School and State" at the evening "Shamrock and Weather," Prof. M. H. Jackson of Wisconsin, proved to be one of the biggest hits of the Chautauqua program. In his evening lecture Mr. Jackson, a fluent forceful speaker, took his audience on a journey to Scotland, Ireland and Russia, and gave an account of conditions as they actually existed at the time the World War broke out. The speaker was in Europe at the time he spoke of, and gave a vivid account gained from actual first hand knowledge of these countries, interspersing his address with bits of wit, Scotch and Irish poetry, native folk songs and word pictures of work and play people in the lives of the common people. That his address was much enjoyed was evidenced by the generous applause and laughter on the part of his audience.

Wednesday afternoon a large audience listened to Mattison Wilbur Chase, one of the best lecturers on the chautauqua platform in America. Mingling his address with touches of philosophy, sentiment and common sense, Dr. Chase held his hearers with one of the most interesting talks heard here in many a day. His subject was "Sight and Insight, or Seeing the Elephant." Members of the Elias Day Players entertained with music and readings.

In the evening the Elias Day Players entertained to perfection a crowd estimated at 1,000 people, with the popular play, entitled "Daddy Long Legs," a charming comedy in four acts by Jean Webster. Produced and played by artists of first rank, the play carried the audience off its feet with the sentimental little story of "Judy" and her imaginary "Daddy Long Legs," who later in the play developed into the realistic benefactor with whom she "lived happily ever after." From one extreme to another, many times during the play the audience was carried from convulsions of laughter to tear-provoking sentiment in the life of the heroine who, after eighteen years in an orphan asylum, is given her chance in the world of education and learning by the unknown "Daddy Long Legs," later known to be Jarvis Pendleton, sweetheart and later fiancé.

The cast of characters included: Mrs. Lippett—Pauline Kissinger, Judy Abbott—Francine Darke, Miss Pritchard—Josephine McAndrew.

This afternoon the Morrison Girls appear in "Songs of the Sixties," and Bess Gearhart Morrison, reader, will entertain. Tonight the Junior Chautauqua will lead in the program, followed by the Morrison Girls in a popular prelude and Bess Gearhart

Morrison will give "The Copperhead," a reading which carries one back to Civil war days.

While additional chairs have been brought in each day it has been impossible to accommodate the huge crowds with seating facilities. Popularity of the chautauqua itself has wholly outgrown tent capacity and it is believed larger seating capacity than ever will be necessary with the coming of another season's program.

Small stations along the lines of big western railroads, which do not have night agents, are lighted at the approach of the train and the lights extinguished at its departure by means of automatic switches placed at short distances from the buildings.

WHY WHO BUILD

The Prince of Wales himself welcomed with a speech the International Advertising Convention at London last week. The Prince said about the things that the world's biggest advertising men expected him or anybody else to say—that those men hold the fate of business in their hands, and that advertising is a recognized art as well as a prime necessity for growth.

Others declared with much pounding of tables that advertising is one of the noblest sciences; will eliminate strikes and reduce unemployment; means greater spiritual happiness; whatever that is, and enhance a nation's health and wealth.

But these things are just phases, results, the more obvious aspects of systematic advertising. Yet, although it is one of the oldest customs of the world, its tremendous efficacy, leaving influence, and broadening power take a long time to penetrate to some businesses in some communities. Our early ancestors used to barter stuff they had made for stuff their neighbors made. They would draw pictures of their wares on stones and trees when their neighbors had nothing they wanted. History says such markings drew a crowd. Is that the source of "Marked?"

Some do that yet, but men have so little money and there are so many things to buy that a single drawing and a few bromides, stale, meaningless words don't turn over goods. Men and women are more intelligent than when they wore their skins and little else. But, by the same token, they can be swayed much more easily by logic, fair representation, and good goods. The advertising chiefs now in Britain are expert in turning over goods by the use of printers' ink. They don't touch shoddy stuff. Anything they advertise, be it ginger ale or soap, flakes or chewing gum or vacuum cleaners or first mortgage bonds, is tip top. Nobody with any sense wastes money advertising worthless stuff. The first lot may go big but then it flops. The people are wise in the way of advertisers. They know that a thing announced as good quality generally is. They buy advertised goods preferably every time. Thus they benefit by getting stuff that is backed up, inferior wares tend to disappear, merchants know what to buy and avoid stocking up with dead supplies, and when they advertise they know what they're doing—and so do the people.

These men in London, then, are the big men of a big work. Advertising is all the Prince and others said it was, and more. They didn't go over to get incentive to continue their work, but for trading good ideas on wording, space, location, and details of campaigns. If advertising were just a matter of ordering a quarter or half page in one edition, filling it full of words and sitting back to watch the customers pour in, there would be few advertising agencies and there would be no London Convention.

THE RABBIT'S REASON

So many have applied for reservations in the Chicago court when the two young millionaire slayers of the Franks will be tried that the judge has numbered the seats and awarded them to the most deserving. Newspaper reporters will get first choice. Since so many readers will be interested in getting all the sensational bits, all the juicy and frightful details, the press gallery will be well crowded.

Relatives and friends of the murderers and their victim will want in. Their schoolmates will insist upon hearing the trial. Alienists will be there to testify about sanity. Women won't be lacking, many of them mothers, all of them with pressing jobs at home going neglected. Riches will rub elbows with rags. Dudes and derelicts will bend forward eagerly, just as they do in every alms case.

Human nature is blamed for the craving for excitement. But human nature is generally blamed for one's failings. Yet everybody starts out as a babe; qualities cultivated or suppressed are individual matters. One is supposed to develop and cherish his own human nature.

Spring that on some of the mob at the Franks trial! When an acquaintance starts telling an ungainly story, saying human nature is responsible for his taste, or when someone tries to explain theft or lust or temper or profanity or laziness by it, ask whose human nature is meant. There is a universal human nature. But there are about seventeen million individual ones, and each has seventeen million divisions. Folks who through the murder trials have plenty in common, but they can't rightly claim kinship with the rest of us.

Calderon's Busy Pen

Calderon, the celebrated Spanish dramatist and poet, was an indefatigable worker. He composed during his life 111 plays and 73 sacramental plays for the church. He enjoyed extraordinary popularity.

AN ASSASSIN ON MARTYR

A monument is to be erected in Czechoslovakia to Gavrillo Princip, the lad who killed Archduke Franz Ferdinand at Sarajevo ten years ago. People with good memories will recall that this pistol shot started the World War. Note we said started, not caused. For the World War was caused by hundreds and hundreds of little animosities and grievances of France and Germany. They had fought before, were jealous of each other, afraid of each other, and all Europe had caught the fever.

Young Princip was, undoubtedly, an assassin. Yet such folks are all but canonized sometimes. Had one of our soldiers killed the Kaiser any time up to 1918, would we have rebuked him? The Archduke and Princip were just pawns in a mighty game. Germany and Austria didn't load rifles with real bullets because Ferdinand was killed. France didn't call in all her provincial troops to defend the killing. It was just a tiny, an unneeded, excuse.

Czechoslovakia may honor Princip as a martyr and hero, just as our own South might have remembered Booth for shooting Lincoln had circumstances been more different. The South been more sure it was right, the North more obviously oppressive, and our country divided into really hostile camps instead of into argumentative, but loyal at heart, Americans. Most folks have forgotten about Princip. After all he merely swung back the curtains on history's bloodiest drama. Whether martyr or murderer he was just a chessman, a card.

FINANCES HELP SOME

One thing the Democratic, Republican parties have in common for the presidential campaign is plenty of money. Davis, Coolidge, and La Follette will all be amply supported as far as money goes. That will be consoling news to some who feared an unfair race.

But nobody should say, or even suggest, that it will be a race of dollars, not men, issues or platforms. The American citizen has been called indifferent to his ballot, but in spite of all sorry jests on the subject, his vote isn't to be bought, as a rule. And we have had plenty of presidents who won with little money against well-financed opponents.

Of course, finances help some. Their main advantage is more publicity. The highest thing any campaign manager hopes for is to let the people know. Tell the country who your candidate is, what he has done, what platform he stands for, and what he hopes to accomplish; that's the big thing they declare. That takes money, of course, hundreds of thousands of dollars. Luckily, it doesn't come out of our taxes, and also fortunately we can seldom trace any important legislation back to campaign contributions by "interests" or rich individuals.

This money won't be wasted if it awakens even just around election time, the lagging interest of voters in politics and their government. Newspapers print sufficient news of all candidates, and fairly enough, for the average voter to choose wisely. But interest, the enthusiasm, the zeal can't always be aroused by the editorial or the big headline. So we have stump speakers and circular letters and hired automobiles and big halls and railroad fares and the inevitable cigars to be paid for. It is legal and legitimate, and generally believed unavoidable.

But, as said before, the money isn't wasted if it makes for better, cleaner, more above-board government. That is what we want.

OUR AIRMEN COMING BACK

When our round-the-world fliers landed in Paris last week, newspapers which had neglected them for two weeks bristled again with their praise. Later when they hopped to England and prepared for the hazardous hop across the Atlantic by way of Greenland and Labrador, folks began to plan for their rousing welcome.

They will be on American soil shortly, barring accident, and of course we will hail them as Magellans of the air and our grandchildren will see their pictures in histories. That is all very nice, and to be bromide again—we will have taken another tremendous step forward in civilization.

But we aren't much excited over it. We've long seen it coming, and have predicted things even more startling. This was just a big feat, not a sensational one. At no time were the fliers in more danger than those who fly over big cities. Our night mail fliers are just as brave.

Besides, a journey of 30,000 miles should be little to a machine which makes 160 to 200 miles an hour. Also, the men have been several months on the journey, had their course mapped out to the mile with every necessity provided and installed new engines at least twice. Their feat isn't as remarkable as unprepared; they are the first to fly around the world. Hundreds will follow, as they do all pioneers.

The convention of the manufacturers of electrical supplies at Atlantic City heard fair proof that the radio is helping to keep juveniles out of the streets. City folks declare it keeps kiddies off the streets in the evenings. Like the phonograph, the radio was alete young couples possessed of more admiration than money to enjoy the evening. Farmers say it helps teachers find it a circulation booster; non-church goers occasionally hear things they ought to hear in spite of their indifference, and obviously the national taste in music is improving. It is difficult to find any field in which it does not help. That's encouraging. Our forefathers scoffed at modern inventions as works of the devil. We're a bit more lenient.

LOVABLE CHARACTERS IN FORTHCOMING PHOTOPLAY

The two most lovable characters ever conceived in the brain of an author are without a doubt those of Abe Potash and Morris Perlmutter, the famous partners in the series of "Potash and Perlmutter" stories written by Montague Glass. Not only did they appear in nearly two hundred stories in the Saturday Evening Post, but they have been portrayed on the stage by Barney Bernard and Alexander Carr for nearly nine years and a quarter of a million books containing their adventures have been sold.

Potash and Perlmutter became the idols of the nation soon after the series started in magazine form. "Read the 'Potash and Perlmutter' story this week?" was a question put many million times by readers. The stories became so popular that many persons bought the magazine solely of their acquaintance.

Abe and Morris were lovable characters because they were so human. Their partnership was a practically unbroken line of comedy stories. Their arguments never came to the point of blows. The stories were so good that when misfortune threatened one of them the other would have been willing to lay down his life or make a sacrifice to avert the blow. As "Mavrus" put it:

"I can insult you as much as I wish, Abe, that's a partner's privilege; but I won't allow anybody else to insult you, even if you deserve it." The screen version of "Potash and Perlmutter", which was produced by Samuel Goldwyn, is coming soon to the Princess Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, July 30 and 31. Bernard and Carr play their original roles in it, assisted by Vera Gordon as Rosie Potash.

Build Nests in Cactus

Birds of New Mexico build their nests in the spiny branches of the cactus, where their eggs are safe from the many animal thieves who are not brave enough to encounter the needle-like spines even for a delicious meal.

Good for Evil
A mother whose gold watch was stolen by a little girl, was asked at the County Jail, offering a reward for its return, "What they used to call a good baker's customer."—London Bits.

Baker's Dozen
"How many children have you?" "A dozen." "What they used to call a good baker's customer."—London Bits.

Mollusk Does Harm
A snail mollusk known as a pest has been reported to have caused serious injury to the brickwork at Calcutta. The creature enters into the bricks where the mortar has been destroyed. In this case they were destroyed after having penetrated to about half an inch. Scientists believe that except for they would have destroyed all brickwork.

Cat Knocks on Door An English artist owns a cat which will not enter the house by the back door. It always walks up to the front door, which has a knocker at a convenient height, gives one or two knocks and then waits for the door to be opened. Red Crown

The High-Grade Gasoline

Means Your Money's Worth of Mileage

TRUE gasoline economy lies in mileage--providing other good fuel qualities are not sacrificed.

Comparative road tests by users and by manufacturers of automobiles, prove that Red Crown yields more and better mileage than any other gasoline of its kind. In addition to extra mileage, Red Crown gives flexibility and efficient performance at all times.

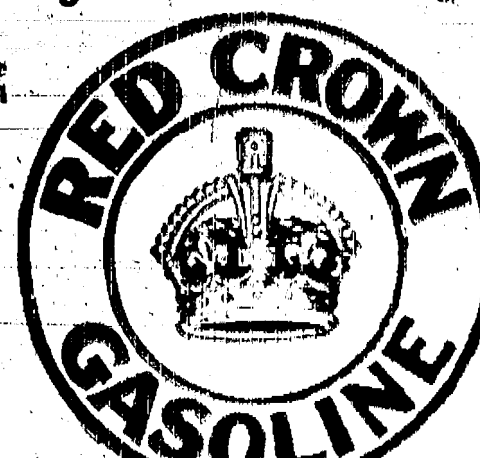

To quote from a letter recently received--"Red Crown, used by us for the last four years, has given us smooth acceleration, more mileage and power, and does not thin out the oil in the crank-case, because it burns up clean. Our carburetors do not have to be adjusted because Red Crown is always uniform in quality, everywhere."

Red Crown effects other economies. It keeps your engine running sweet and clean. It reduces overhauling and cleaning bills, and best of all it provides that dependability of performance which is so agreeable to all motorists.

Use Red Crown this summer. It will give you more for your money and more days of service from your car.

SECOND CROWNS EXPECTED AT WASHTENAW FAIR

Ever since the Insane Fourth has gone out of style and the Sane Fourth has come into style, the idea of having fireworks exhibitions—not little children and careless grownups—but in charge of experts who know how to avert disastrous fires and loss of life and limb, has grown in favor all over the country and the nightly exhibitions that are to be given at the Washtenaw County Fair, August 26th to 30th inclusive, will win record patronage.

The displays are much better and much safer in professional hands than ever before in the world's history—and the public realizes it. History and drama are now reproduced in gigantic, set-pieces—Washington's Cherry Tree, The Surrender of Cornwallis, The Statue of Liberty, and many other of similar kind—while dame "Nature" also invades the realm of fireworks. The Old Rose displayed in a pyrotechnic garden; then, a whole zoo of fireworks animals is shown as one form of the entertainment features. Even Barney Google with his well known steed Spark Plug and Sidney Smith's mirth provoking cartoons; play important parts now in the fireworks game.

The famous Andy Gump, philosopher, wise-acre, humorist, husband and politician, he who wears no man's collar, may be seen in a characteristic pose, holding an enormous firecracker in his hand, as cause for great mirth and merriment all in fireworks, and thus a new and important branch has been added to the world's show business.

Primitive Race

Primitive people, living to holes in the ground and believed to be descendants of a race antedating the Arabs in north Africa, were found by a fellow of the Royal Geographical society a few hundred miles south of the Mediterranean coast in Africa. Here dwell more than 12,000, without tents or houses, living in subterranean homes which are entered through sloping tunnels. They are Moslems and extremely timid.

NO SMOKING IN THE COURT ROOM

WHEN a lawyer's mind is wandering towards the cigar case, it's hard to keep it on his client's.

The suave, easy, self-possessed cross-examiner usually holds himself and witness in hand with a helpful little chew of BEECH-NUT—the favorite tobacco of thinker and worker.

Supreme Court justices, outdoor workers, expert craftsmen, athletes and business executives are never without it.

The biggest package of the best tobacco that ever flattered 10c.—a clean, pure chew for keen, sure brains.

Not a stem or impurity in a million packages and over 250 million packages sold in a single year.

Increased overheads haven't raised the price or reduced the quality—Makes 10c. swell with pre-war pride.

Happiness and Prosperity Go Hand in Hand

Prosperity is the crown that enthrones happiness—it is the superb jewel that creates enduring gladness, and if the far-away skeptics, whose timidity holds them back, could only be induced to investigate such opportunities as this one we are offering you, they would hasten to invest with a thought of prosperity and in increasing the happiness of those needing aid, causing the big-hearted helpers to glorify their own lives and make their good deeds shine through endless memories.

The Board of Directors and Officers of The Michigan Mutual Savings Association are among Washtenaw county's best known and successful business and professional men. These men realized the need in this community of an institution of this kind to take care of the home-building and progress that the community is bound to engage in within the next few years, and realized also the need of the citizens of this community for a place to invest their money, with absolute safety and good returns. Wild cat schemes have taken entirely too much toll from this community and it is time to urge our people to invest in their home institutions, in associations that are under State supervision and where the money of stockholders and depositors is absolutely protected. The men constituting the Board of Directors and the officers are not only investing their own money in this institution but they are giving of their time and energy to create a financial institution of which the community may be proud and which will furnish our citizens a place for investment of the safest character known in the State. These men recommend this institution to our citizens without qualification, and you may rest assured that they would not do so if they did not know its safety, its possibilities and the great profits it will bring to the community.

Chats With Your Gas Man

WHY are some gas bills higher than they should be?

Because the housewife uses the giant burner on her range, when a smaller one would do.

She lights two burners at a time, and then lets one of them wait while she is getting food ready.

She takes food off the fire and leaves the burner lighted.

She buys so-called gas-saving devices, without finding out whether they really save gas, although the gas company would tell her.

She uses the gas oven to heat the kitchen and to dry damp clothes.

She allows water and foods to boil furiously, instead of turning down the flame.

She uses a worn-out range, with burners out of adjustment.

She never cleans the burners of her range.

She uses larger cooking utensils than she needs.

She uses open vessels, which consume five times as much gas as closed vessels of the same size.
