Editorial

MODERN PHILOSOPHERS

Men have been hunting a long time for the philosopher's stone which they believed would turn iron and lead into gold. Apparently it is just a myth. Yet a modern philosopher, Professor Mothe, of the Technical High School of Berlin, Germany, announces that he has found a way of disintegrating mercury, or quicksilver, and making gold from its atoms. Ten years ago the world would have scoffed. We asserted that there were just four basic elements out of which all things are made; that gold and iron and sulphur and oxygen and mercury and such things could not be reduced further.

But our belief was based on the atomic theory, which itself is just a century or so old. It wouldn't be so strange if this new theory of atoms which has recently been promulgated should supplant the old. In that case, men would find it easy to make gold from base metals. Perhaps gold making would become an industry, as iron smelting is now. Then, of course, the governments would have to monopolize the process or get another standard of value.

We ought to praise our modern philosophers who slowly wrest nature's secrets from her long-sealed bosom. These men tell us new truths about our bodies, souls, minds, work, world and probable origin and possible destination. Naturally, we are slow to believe. We cling to old traditions and ideas. But if all the new things prove true, of course the world will quickly believe, and begin to live on a new basis.

Incidentally, psychologists or near ones told the court which tried the Franks boy slayers in Chicago last week that the boys had compound insanity; that is, that neither was insane alone but together they were. That's interesting. Stranger things than that are offered every day and eagerly believed. Folks want to know things. A hundred years ago such questioning of nature would have seemed impious. We keep moving.

HEROES, PERHAPS

Two Chicago men have just died by violence. Henry Derrig, long a hero of the police force, tried to beat his wife and his grown son killed him with a baseball bat. Adolph Schilphke, seventy-two, hanged himself because he was going blind and didn't want to be a burden on his relatives. At least, that was the reason he gave. Unless Providence had been extra nice to him in the matter of relatives, he probably knew what to expect.

Derrig really had been a hero. He had often fought bandits in gun battles and had many scars from weapons of crooks. But bad whisky can play strange pranks with heroism. An angel with a couple of drinks of wood alcohol would be more at home with a coal shovel than a golden harp. Derrig had been drinking, said the dispatch, and forgot his heroism. Something had to be done and his son did it. But what a pity it had to happen.

The other man got more sympathy. Any old man or woman who must depend on children or relatives or the county for support is in a bad way. We vaguely know that something ought to be done; that something is wrong with such a condition; that a cog has slipped somewhere in the universe, when a man works for fifty years and has nothing to live on for the next ten when he must rest. Who is to blame? Or what?

BIG WINNINGS

Two men cleaned up some big money last week. That's news, at least. Arthur Cutten, of Chicago, plunged in the wheat market and came out with $1,500,000. In New York a young chap, Charles Greenhaus, did the same with gold bonds. Both acted within the law, and according to all rules and morals of such deals deserved every cent they made. Money goes to brains today. Good guessing is another term for good judgment.

and the jury found Mr. Cutten guilty of the crime of wheat was going to be sold and Mr. Greenhaus guilty of the crime of manipulating the market. They plunged and won. Of course, for every winner there are a dozen losers. The game won't die. But proverbial tell us that nobody gets anywhere unless he dares; the coward lives placidly while the brave man plunges. If he wins, the world applauds his "genius". If he loses, he had "hard luck" or was a "fool". If one plunges without using brains he is a fool, yet not so culpable as the who never gets the nerve to try. The butcher, baker, and candle-stick maker are plungers; the merchant, garage proprietor, minister, newspaper publisher—everybody who invests time and money and a life in any undertaking. Most of them study carefully what they're going to do before they invest energy or capital. The more carefully they study, the more accurately they also up the situation and their own ability, the more likely they'll be to get big winnings.

We hear of big losses as often as big winnings. The former get our sympathy; we are often vaguely jealous of the latter. We wonder just how Mr. Cutten and Mr. Greenhaus got their "tips". Perhaps they didn't get any. Perhaps they worked and studied and lost many times to gain experience. Perhaps they had brains as well as courage.

FOR DRESS REFORM

The National Council of Catholic Women has undertaken another reform in clothes for women. Pope Pius XI offered a medal to the designer of the dress which will be most modest, most comfortable, and most smart. A combination of such superlatives will be difficult to attain. Smartness has been the ruling motive heretofore. Comfort has been second thought, and modesty has seemingly been either carelessly ignored or taken for granted.

The Pope's medal and desire will bring forth any number of creations which will be chic, yet would shock our grandmothers. Yet human nature will be reversed over night if women flock to the competing or to the winning models. They will think seriously about modesty for a few moments; that is all we can expect.

At any rate, nobody but folks who are soured on life consider the average woman's clothes immodest. Woman is just now finding out how to dress; she never had a chance with hoop skirts, gilded sleeves, trains, wrap waists, and floppy hats. It is because of the exceptional, the extreme cases that we consider reforms. Ninety-six women out of every hundred dress sensibly, delightfully, simply, and with good taste. The latter is the big guiding factor, more so than morals, or even modesty; perhaps. But what of it? The Pope's plan is fine; it will give us definite standards of modest beauty in clothes. We need that. His Holiness usually wants to cultivate good taste and eliminate freaks. More power to the movement.

STRENUOUS DAYS

Some of our big-city newspapers, pandering to mediaeval popular sympathy, made much of the hanging in Canada of Walter Muir, convicted and confessed murderer. We would have hanged him here, but up there we protested. Last week France condemned to death an American named Mourey who robbed a house while armed with a gun, a death penalty offence in France. Some people thought they ought to resent that with feverish letters to the press, signed Vox Populi or Pro Bono Publico or some other bashful nomenclature.

Why do we declare for punishment in general, and deplore it in individual cases? That's a funny trait of human nature. We insist that America has more foreigners than we can take care of, to say nothing of assimilate, and we are strong for our last immigration laws. Then some European starts over here without using his head in planning, and tries to lug his entire system of relatives with him. We send half of them back, and the aforesaid Vox Populi arouses again. Old human nature once more applauding the general rule and deploring it in individual cases.

Meanwhile, Johannes L. Boeh, Chief of Police of Copenhagen, Denmark, comes over here to study our police methods. That's strange because Copenhagen has 700,000 people and only 1,000 policemen. We ought to send officials over there. In Copenhagen, there is an average of only three capital crimes in a year, and nobody has been beheaded since 1880. Maybe Denmark is a more peaceful country than ours. Perhaps the folks there have better religion, or philosophy, or labor conditions, or are more strictly governed, or for some other reason can live without stealing, lying, killing, and living in adultery. Wonder why Americans cannot?

BOOTLEGGING WOMEN

"Some of the meanest bootleggers in the country are women," the Associated Press quoted Mrs. Elizabeth T. Stanley as saying. She is president of the Indiana Women's Christian Temperance Union, and she spoke at the conference of the World League Against Alcoholism at Winona Lake, Indiana, last week.

The Associated Press broadcast her remarks because they were news; because much comment was out of the ordinary. It was more than that. It was so startling that we doubt seriously whether she said it, or if she did, whether she knew what she was talking about.

The conference more than stoned, however, for the general suggestion on the fair, and the women bootleggers. The women bootleggers are a lot of women, but they are not the only women who are bootleggers. There are a lot of men who are bootleggers, and they are not the only men who are bootleggers. The women bootleggers are a lot of women, but they are not the only women who are bootleggers. There are a lot of men who are bootleggers, and they are not the only men who are bootleggers.

JURY AWARDS PLAIN- TIFFS BIG VERDICT

Famous Damage Case Ends After Two Months in Circuit Court.

William Strausbaugh and Leonard Miller, representatives of the State Mutual Cyclone Insurance company of Lapeer, were found guilty of conspiracy to injure the reputation of Michigan Mutual Windstorm Insurance company of Hastings by a jury in Ingham county circuit court, last night. The jury deliberated 12 hours. The damage was fixed at $40,000.

Next Move Planned
The trial began two months ago and exclusive of time lost in adjournments it took 27 days to put in the testimony, and receive the verdict. It was announced by attorneys for the defense that a motion would be made asking Judge Harry Dingman to set the verdict aside.

At the close of the plaintiff's case a month ago the defending attorneys made a motion to dismiss the case against all the defendants. The court granted the motion as to the defendant company and eight of its agents and submitted the case to the jury with action remaining against two defendants, Strausbaugh and Miller.

Ask Reconsideration
The defendants reserved the right under the Empton act to reconsider the motion in court, if a verdict should be rendered by the jury against the remaining two defendants.

Under this reservation, it was announced that the next move for the defense will be to bring up the original motion again at an early date with the expectation that it will be granted and the case dismissed or a new trial granted.

Judge Dingman left immediately after the verdict for Gratiot Beach and other court attaches left for their homes. Lansing Capital News, Saturday, July 26, 1924.—Advertisement.

Japan's Holy Mountain

A number of reasons enter into the fact that Fuji San is called "the holy mountain of Japan." Its perfection of beauty, its supposedly miraculous creation and the fact that on its slopes are many shrines cause thousands of pilgrims to hold the mountain in reverence and to visit it annually.

fore the country.

All the speakers, many of them widely known, insisted that the only control lies in prohibition enforced. They all agreed that it isn't being enforced, not because people don't want a dry nation for ninety per cent do. Officials, from town constables to Cabinet Secretaries were bombarded. They are responsible for a very decayed situation, was the cry. But as for bootlegging, women are a bit too fine, too proud, too honorable, and above all too clean to classify themselves with the roughnecks and gophers who sell rum.

THE HEALTHY HABIT

DR. LOUIS PASTEUR, the microbe sleuth, took his first cue from wise old gardeners who found, long before the pathologists' lens revealed their existence, that one of the surest preventatives against germs is tobacco juice.

Chew and stay healthy. Protect teeth and digestion. Fortify your system against throat and nose trouble.

BEECH-NUT Chewing Tobacco is the perfect form in which tobacco should be used.

Just prime, full-ripe, waxy, whole leaves with all the stems removed, free from dust and fragments, cut just to the right size and untouched by human hands through every stage of preparation until the air-tight, dust-proof package is sealed.

A rich, mellow chew of undeviating quality and quantity—the most liberal friend 10c.
ever had.

Over 250 million packages sold in a single year.

Do You Know?

Published reports show that there were in the city of Philadelphia in 1922, 2,440 active associations with aggregate resources of four hundred million dollars and 850,000 share-holders paying on subscription to $6,700,000 shares. And more than 35,000 homes have been financed by funds secured through the Building and Loan Associations. The aggregate savings deposits in Building and Loan Associations in Philadelphia are much higher than the aggregate savings deposits in all National, State and City Banks and Trust Companies in Philadelphia.

That the Bureau of Commerce and Labor of the United States, after a thorough investigation, pronounced Building and Loan Associations as nearly absolutely safe for investors as can be. "Under the head of Net Savings in Pre-War Days" we find three leading items. The largest was Life Insurance, amounting to about $900,000,000 yearly for premiums or, roughly, $8.00 per capita. The second was Building and Loan payments, $500,000,000 yearly, or $5.00 per capita. Third came our Savings Bank."—Saturday Evening Post.

That the Building and Loan Associations of the United States represent $2,890,764,621 assets and have a membership of 5,809,888.

INTERESTING FACTS FOR HOME BUILDERS—Some things you may not know regarding building a home: There are 9,255 building and loan associations in the United States, which is greater than the number of national banks. They have 5,809,888 stockholders.

They have $2,890,764,621 in assets, practically all invested and secured by first mortgages on homes, as the laws require.

These 9,255 building and loan associations increased their assets last year $370,849,650 and their stockholders increased 846,969.

The money paid in on the stock in building and loan associations is twice as great as the combined paid up capital stock of the national banks.

The actual assets of the 9,255 building and loan associations equal the paid-up capital of all the banks and trust companies and also equal 40 per cent of all the money in circulation in the United States.

There are less than 6,000,000 stockholders in these 9,255 building and loan associations. That leaves 100,000,000 of the population who are not stockholders. Is there a single other business that has so many prospective customers when we realize that few are too young, or too old, to begin a savings account?

"MAGAZINE OF WALL STREET"—In a recent number, this authority places BUILDING AS-SOCATIONS IN CLASS No. 1, in ranking investments "for those who cannot afford to take risk." Government Bonds are, of course, another of the three. The average return on these three is given as 4.33 per cent and it adds:

"BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS, HOWEVER, EXCEED IN RETURNS THE OTHER TWO INVESTMENTS IN THIS CLASS."

This association offers you security that will be dependable under all conditions—the best returns that we can earn through prudent business and unequalled accommodations.

Guardian Interest

That is one kind of interest you probably never have associated with the banking business. However, every progressive bank, you will find, has a guardian interest in the vacation and traveling plans of its patrons as well as in their financial status and general welfare.

This bank is no exception. We are not so much interested in where our patrons go or how they travel, as we are in seeing that their travel funds are adequately safeguarded.

Our thorough knowledge of financial conditions both in our own and foreign countries makes this bank peculiarly fitted to render this, one of the most important of all banking services.

For travel, either at home or abroad, the safe and dependable and convenient way to carry your money is in the form of American Express Travelers Cheques.

"A Tempest in a Tub"

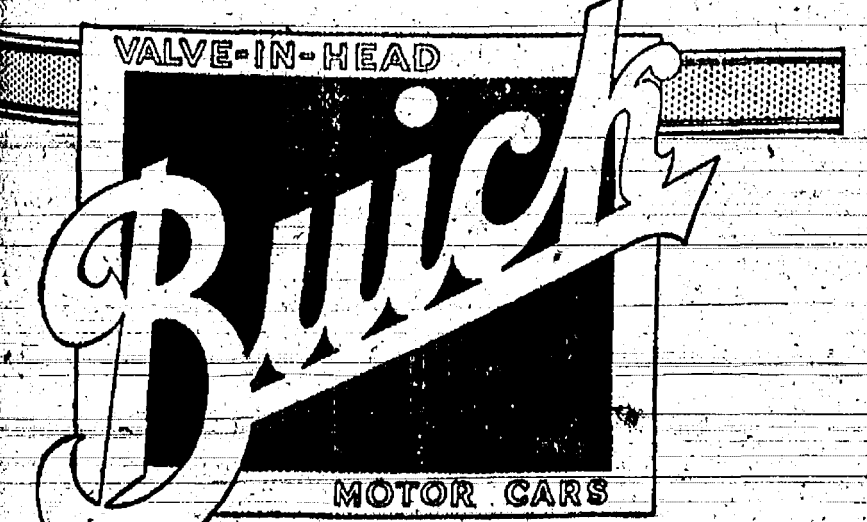

Cleans Clothes Faster, Better and More Carefully
Many years washing machines have been in use. They have helped to lighten the work of wash day. MAYTAG washing machines since the earliest days have been in the front rank. None have done better work. Yet we have felt that we had only begun to study the possibilities. For many years we have been experimenting to develop a principle that would wash everything with the thoroughness and carefulness of your own hands, yet with the speed of a machine. The goal has been reached. The idea came quick as a flash during a series of experiments. The result is a water action that is past description. Words cannot describe it. Pictures cannot half portray it. It is a "Tempest in a Tub." Behind the action is the GYRATOR, a wonderful invention.

RESULTS THAT REMAIN
Are Appreciated by Chelsea People—Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one kidney medicine that has earned a reputation for lasting results and there is plenty of proof of its merit right here in Chelsea.
Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Pills years ago, and now makes her testimony even stronger. Mrs. W. D. Arnold, of Middle St., Chelsea, says: "I suffered greatly from dull, nagging backaches and a distressing pain through my kidneys which gave me a great deal of trouble. Doan's Pills from Fenn's Drug Store, helped me wonderfully. They rid me of the backaches and corrected the action of my kidneys. I was better in every way after using Doan's."
The above statement was given July 7, 1920 and on April 27, 1920, Mrs. Arnold added: "I have the same good opinion of Doan's Pills now as I did when I recommended them before. They cured me and the cure has lasted."
