DOLLAR DAYS OFFER BIG OPPORTUNITIES TO BUYERS

Many Business Places Making Special Preparations for Bargain Days With Marked Down Prices.

Dollar Days, looked forward to by a great many people who desire to effect savings in the purchase of necessities for months to come, will be a reality in Chelsea on Saturday of this week and Monday of next when merchants throw open their stocks for a real mark down in prices on season-end and staple goods. In a large number of instances great reductions have been made in order to clear out certain season-end specials which, two months earlier would have been best sellers at regular prices. In such cases shoppers would do well to buy for another season. Other instances are noted where merchants have made up combinations of articles, regular prices totaling much larger amounts, to be sold at $1.00 on these days. And they're all wanted articles, too.

Contrary to the belief of some that these days offer a chance for the merchant to get rid of his "stuff" that he can't sell, Dollar Days are established occasions when stocks are cleaned up of the season-end left-overs, practically all new a few weeks earlier, but which it does not pay to carry over into another season. And in recognition of this fact, the eagerness of shoppers to take advantage of the opportunities proves its popularity with the public generally.

Numbered among advertisers who are taking part in the Dollar Days for Saturday and Monday are grocery men, with a number of tempting combinations, dry goods, department and shoe stores, the variety store, drug stores, jewelry, and others are holding special bargains for this day. Advertisers who are quoting greatly reduced prices on other lines for "every day" in doing this the advertiser in good faith purchases space with perfectly good money in order to place his goods before the public—and the latter is rapidly coming to value his statements as made publicly through newspaper columns. Liberal patronage of advertised products is one way of securing first-class commodities at reasonable prices.

Read over the listed prices and goods carefully, note the articles you may need in the course of the next few months, and buy them on these days when your pocketbook will have the opportunity of doing double duty.

EXPERT GOLF PLAYERS ENTERTAIN LARGE AUDIENCE

Playing to a gallery of more than fifty fans, crack golf players from Battle Creek and Ann Arbor held the interest of their audience from start to finish in two rounds of golf at the public grounds north of Chelsea on Wednesday afternoon. Nine teen holes were played, nine out and nine in, and some of the most remarkable playing ever witnessed by local people was displayed at the grounds during the afternoon.

Starting throughout the afternoon was John Maloy, of Ann Arbor, amateur expert and participant in many state tournaments, where in the second nine he parried every hole with the exception of No. 8, when a short approach was caught in the creek, leaving him a six on a par four.

The match was played between John Maloy, Ann Arbor, Robert Holmes, of Battle Creek, and Geo. Faust, and Forbes Robertson of Ann Arbor.

Scores for the two rounds are as follows:

Out		Total
Par	5 3 4 4 4 4 4 3	35
Maloy	5 3 5 4 4 5 4 3	42
Holmes	7 4 5 4 4 5 5 6	46
Faust	5 5 5 4 5 6 7 5	47
Robertson	7 3 5 4 5 5 6 3	43
In		Total
Maloy	5 3 4 4 4 4 6 3	37
Holmes	7 4 5 5 5 4 7 6	47
Faust	6 6 4 5 5 5 6 3	45
Robertson	6 3 6 4 4 5 4 5	42

On Friday, starting at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, a local tournament will be held in which all Chelsea players are urged to take part. Prizes will be given, handicaps allotted, and it is expected a large number will enjoy the sport.

FAMILY HEIRLOOM DESCENDS TO RELATIVE IN LIMA

At the recent public sale of the household goods of the late Kathryn Hooker, a clock of the pioneer days was one of the articles that was placed on sale, that has again fallen into the possession of a descendant of the donor.

When the Michigan Central railroad station was built in 1850 Elisha Congdon, who was one of the founders of Chelsea, presented to the railway company a clock that is yet doing duty as a timepiece. Mr. Congdon and his brother James, who was the other man that founded Chelsea, also donated the land that is owned by the M. C. here.

Mrs. Guy Hulce, of Lima, a great-granddaughter of Elisha Congdon, is the new owner of the clock and as it was the first timepiece placed in the new station, she values it very highly as a relic of pioneer days. The McKim residence on South Main street was the home of her great-grandfather during his lifetime.

RESOLUTION PASSED BY COUNCIL FOR PAVING

Thirty-Foot Drive Will Be Built From D. U. R. to M-17 Before Fall if Present Plans Are Carried Out.

Pavement, thirty feet wide, from the D. U. R. to M-17, with curb and gutter, and boulevard lights the entire distance was practically assured at the meeting of council on Monday evening, when that body passed a resolution calling for the wide pavement from Pierce street to the village limits. Assurance by business men and others that funds would be forthcoming for extension of the wider pavement from the village limits to M-17 was instrumental in persuading council to pass the resolution. Preparations had already been made for the thirty foot pavement from the D. U. R. to Pierce street so that this arrangement will give Chelsea a real inlet and outlet of thirty foot proportions, properly lighted, to M-17.

Developments in the paving plans were brought to a head through the instrumentality of the local Kiwanis club, who took it upon themselves to push through a more up-to-date plan for building an approach to the south village limits. The fact that strangers, among motorists would drive past the entrance to Chelsea on M-17 without knowing where to turn in aroused local business men and others so that active steps were taken to alleviate this condition. It is expected that after the paving is laid and the lighting system erected suitable signs will be placed both east and west of the entrance. With these improvements in place there is every reason to believe Chelsea will be on the map so far as tourists are concerned beside furnishing an attractive drive for residents of this vicinity who drive in and from Chelsea.

In addition to the paving proposition council was offered use of the vacant property of Staebler Bros. on West Middle street for tourist camping purposes, providing conditions would furnish water and toilet facilities for camper use. This is in line with suggestions made by members of the Kiwanis club who believe there is an urgent need for such a camp for tourists. Generosity on the part of Staebler will no doubt make the camp possible and it is hoped its finish will be made a fact at an early date.

CHELSEA SCHOOLS OPEN

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2ND

Largest Enrollment Ever Listed Expected to Attend Local Institution Coming School Year.

Tuesday, September 2, will mark the end of this season's vacation so far as Chelsea school pupils are concerned, when the fall session of local schools will open their 1924-25 year.

With announcement of the reopening of Chelsea schools comes the statement that the enrollment for the coming year promises to be the largest ever experienced here. More than thirty pupils from outlying districts are expected to enter the ninth grade or freshman year high school. Added to thirty pupils from town in the same grade will give the class a membership of approximately sixty, one of the largest classes ever to be enrolled.

On Friday, August 29, Superintendent Clark will be at his office in the high school building where he will receive and care for classification of those who failed or did not have the opportunity to classify at the close of last school year.

On Monday, September 1, a teachers' meeting will be held at the building and final plans and instructions given out for the opening day.

HAVE YOU REGISTERED?

Articles appearing in daily papers being circulated in Chelsea and vicinity, to the effect that it was not necessary to register in villages of 10,000 or less, have been misleading, to say the least. While true to a certain extent, the articles take in too much territory.

Under laws existing in the state of Michigan, in villages of less than 10,000 inhabitants, re-registration may be called for by the township board every four years.

Under this law the board of Sylvan township, by resolution passed the 6th day of May, called for a re-registration of all voters and anyone not registering before August 30, 1924, will not be eligible to vote at the September primaries unless evidence can be submitted proving they were not in the township during the registering period. Very few, if any, will be eligible under this provision.

Some who have gained the impression that re-registration was unnecessary because of statements appearing in other papers should inquire further if still in doubt.

But, by all means, register and play safe!

HOOVER BALL COMPANY PURCHASES DETROIT PLANT

Chelsea Branch Will Open in Few Weeks with Normal Force of Employees, According to General Manager.

Purchase of the Imperial Bearing Company, of Detroit, by the Hoover Steel Ball Co., of Ann Arbor, promises to be a boost for Chelsea as well, according to information coming from H. D. Runciman, general manager of the Hoover Company, who stated in a telephone message to the Standard Wednesday that the Chelsea branch of his company would open in a few weeks with as large and perhaps larger number of employees than have been employed here at any time in the past. The local plant has been shut down for several weeks.

Purchase of the Imperial company by the Hoover Company, at a cost of more than a half million dollars means practically a new industry for Ann Arbor. The new acquisition will be moved from Detroit to Ann Arbor and it is expected the present force of 250 men at the plant there will be doubled within a short time. Merger of the two companies ranks the Hoover company as one of the greatest if not the largest ball bearing manufacturing plant in the world.

The Hoover Steel Ball Co. was founded in Ann Arbor, March 1, 1913, and has been one of the leading manufacturing concerns of the city and foremost among steel ball plants the world over. The factory was moved to Ann Arbor from Chelsea, where E. J. Hoover, the founder, had purchased the bankrupt ball bearing plant of the old Flanders Mfg. Co. The factory remained in Chelsea for about three months before it was moved to Ann Arbor. L. J. Hoover was active in the administration of the plant up until his death in 1918. Since that time H. D. Runciman, a native of Chelsea, has been general manager.

BODY OF DROWNING VICTIM STILL HIDDEN IN LAKE

The body of Miss Anna Pickering, of Detroit, who was drowned in Hair Moon Lake Sunday, August 10, has not been found, according to latest information received at the Standard office. All efforts at diving, dragging and examining were without success. For several days and nights the beach has been guarded by men in the hope that perhaps the body would come to the surface.

KOENIGER REUNION

The Koeniger families held their 3rd annual reunion Sunday, August 17, at Eisenbeiser's Grove, North Lake.

The usual bountiful dinner and supper were one of the main features of the day, followed by the election of the following officers: President, Henry Preschorn; treasurer, George Wacker; entertainment committee, Edna Haab and Herbert Eichelbach.

There were 80 members present from Lansing, Ann Arbor, and Chelsea.

The families then departed for their homes to meet in 1925 at North Lake.

WATTS REUNION

The 10th annual reunion of Watts family was held at Watts grove on the north shore of North Lake, Saturday, August 16th. The fore part of the day was spent in visiting and after a bountiful pot luck dinner, different sports were enjoyed, followed by a business meeting in which O. D. Johnson of Chelsea was elected president and Mrs. John Webb of Unadilla, secretary for two years. It was voted to hold the next reunion at the same grove.

Forty-eight members of the family were present from Dexter, Chelsea, Howell, Pinckney, Stockbridge, Ann Arbor, Williamston and Lansing.

HOWLETT FAMILY REUNION HELD AT PLEASANT LAKE

Members of the Howlett family held their reunion at Bartlett resort, Pleasant Lake, Thursday. At noon they began to arrive with well-filled baskets. The afternoon hours were spent in visiting and bathing.

The business meeting was called to order by the president, Arthur Howlett, of Mason. Minutes of last year's meeting were read and approved. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Arthur Howlett; vice president, Clyde Howlett; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Ehlert Muebach.

It was voted to meet the third Thursday in August at Homewild beach, Joslyn lake.

What Is a Kiwi?

Visitors at an aviation show heard an officer refer to a "Kiwi" (pronounced ka-wee) and found on inquiry that it applied to young aviators who had not won their certificates in pilot. The term "Kiwi" is now almost universally adopted to indicate an aviator who can't fly. The Kiwi is the wingless bird of New Zealand, and is practically a miniature man, that glides now extinct.

Editorial

ANOTHER QUARREL STARTED
International squabbles are the fashion now. We had just gotten through protesting the killing of Major Imbrie in Persia by vagabonds after unrolling a roll of red tape. Now we have to settle another delicate matter in Mexico because revolutionists saw fit to kill Mrs. Evans, American but British by marriage. Premier MacDonald wrote President Obregon a hasty and stern note (another fashionable trick just now) and Uncle Sam has to shake a finger because Mrs. Evans used to be an American.

In itself, the killing of a person in a foreign land shouldn't be a matter for the rattling of sabers. Plenty of Americans get killed north of the Rio Grande by amateur bandits, bootleggers, other folks' jealous wives and husbands or their own. A killing nowadays has to be extra gory to get more than two inches in a city paper. Yet a person who never amounted to a hill of beans at home can cross an invisible line or sail the briny deep to another realm, become a soft resting place for a bullet, and cause two governments to go-plunk loco. Wonder what does it?

Everybody tells us that only brotherly love and friendly trust can keep us from staging a real war before the century is out. And any next war will make the last look like tiddly winks. But just when we settle down for a nap with our hands hanging up on the wall we hear a shot in the Persian world and get out our stiffest paper and blackest ink for a hot episode of protest. Well, probably have a hard time going to sleep again if interrupted like this every hour. It shows the wrong spirit, anyway; we're looking for trouble, or at least are not averse to it. We preach beautiful theories but when it comes to practicing them—let George do it.

WHERE'S THE CENTER?
The ancient Greeks thought Delphi was the central part of the earth's surface, the center of culture and activity. Doubtless it was then, but the center has surely shifted since. The chief attraction at Delphi was the oracle of Apollo which propounded mighty words of wisdom. Every world capital now claims a similar potentate who spouts melodious knowledge. The Grecian oracle always spoke ambiguously, vaguely. Thus he gained fame and was uncontested. If his prophecies came true, fine; if not, of course he meant something else. Some men today may be suspected of the same acute strategy. They give us blab-blah by the jug full, but a jug full of air weighs precious little. Men today with clear vision, broad thinking, wide knowledge, strength, ability, and courage are as rare as a dry Fourth of July. The center of the earth has shifted, but where is it? We have plenty of intellectual giants as we are pleased to call them. But those on one side of a question are just as tall and verbose and cocksure, and vague and irresponsible as those on the other side. What and whom shall a man believe? We hear that the Bible is just a moral history; that democracy is a grand fizzle; that women are growing sweeter and men better; that there is no hereafter; that labor unions are the salvation of mankind; that colleges are practical; that polygamy is ideal; that bobbed hair is charming. Then shut that ear and open the other—and hear just the opposite. Ancient Greece had faith in the Delphian oracle; it was their one authority. Today we have seeds of authorities—but no faith.

INTERNATIONAL YOUTH
Our Olympic games are over, and American athletes of all classes and both sexes are returning laden with cups and ribbons. We won more than our share of the prizes, as we ought. Haven't our universities been emphasizing sports more than anything else? Apparently our athletes conducted themselves well across the sea. Europe seems to find no fault with our boys in short white pants, no matter what they thought of them in khaki. Seemingly they played in the same spirit in 1924 as in 1917.

International sport is a new thing. Men have played since the beginning but about the only game the Greeks liked to play with the Romans, for instance, was hurling the javelin—in earnest. International youth is also new; much more so. It bodes well that young folks can get acquainted with each other though they live across the oceans. It promises comity, sympathy, and understanding for the future.

A middle-aged German can look at a bearded Frenchman and see nothing but decades of boundary disputes and bickering. An American business man can look at a Swedish dairyman or a Danish fisherman and think patronizing thoughts, and wonder what kind of business they could do together. But young men and women don't do that. They see youth in each other, vitality and promise and cordial good will. When they play together they take each other's bumps with a grin; it's good sport. They learn a bit of each other's thoughts, lives, countries, hopes. Youth has a language all its own. The money deficit of the Olympic games ran into the hundreds of thousands. But they were worth while.

A FRIEND TO MAN.

The killing in Philadelphia of a red surgeon, Dr. Despard, by a patient he failed to cure, is a reminder to thinking people that men who give their lives to treating their neighbors' ills seldom have a life of roses.

There is no calling which demands more character, training, knowledge, tact, personality and, in fact, every sterling quality, than the medical profession. There is no calling which gives more or is rewarded less in proportion to its service. Yet the sufferer who shot Dr. Despard has killed in every hamlet. The most any doctor can do is to tell a man how to live to keep well, then tell him how to get well when sick, using when necessary a few simple remedies or the knife. And for one incapable doctor there are a thousand obstreperous patients. Yet occasionally a good doctor is blamed when the fault is far from his door.

The doctor needs no champion. His work speaks for him, and his character must of necessity be at least average else he will be shunned no matter what his skill. But men and women have been known to regard the doctor as one to call only in emergency; a sort of life saver on the beach of life. He is that, but more. He is the most zealous man in any community for the health of his

An Afghan in Her Home

By CLARA DELAFIELD

(1934 Western Newspaper Union)

WHEN he went to live at Mrs. Meyers' he looked so ordinary that the widow had not the least idea of letting him have a room. He was like ordinary people. But generally he was a superb specimen of a man—broad in the chest, with an eagle nose and dark, flashing eyes. He was engaged, he told the widow, in a very economic, or something like that, business.

He went in on an early train every day and came back at night. He was some sort of foreigner, Mrs. Meyers knew, but he was a very nice man. Edith Meyers thought so.

It was not for two weeks that it was known that he was an Afghan, sent here to study something or other for the benefit of his native country. An Afghan! But nobody had ever seen an Afghan before. Who were the Afghans? Mrs. Meyers looked it up in Everybody's Encyclopedia, and she was horrified. Why, they were the most treacherous, bloodthirsty race in Asia. They were always cutting your throat and plundering you. Afghan in her house!

Mrs. Meyers went to give him notice, but he smiled in such a charming way that she didn't have the heart to do it. She offered some apology and withdrew something like despair.

That wasn't the worst by any means. One day Edith confessed to him that she was engaged to marry a fellow named Abdul.

The widow screamed with dismay. Her daughter to marry an Afghan! Why, he'd murder her in her sleep or bring her back to his own country and make her a slave!

Edith was calmly obdurate. She said Abdul-Rahman, and she didn't see why she shouldn't marry him if he wanted her.

There was a terrible scandal in the community. Will Rogers, Edith's beau, started for the house with a whip, but Edith at the door changed his mind, and gave him a cigarette instead.

And so, a month later, Edith and Abdul were quietly married by a justice of the peace. They couldn't marry in church because Abdul was a heathen or something.

Abdul had furnished a little house far away from Edith's old home. The young couple appeared to be very happy. But still the good neighbors dogged them.

Anyone except an Afghan! "Waited Mrs. Meyers. 'Sooner or later that savage nature will break out and he'll come through the streets with a pistol and dagger, killing men, women and children. I've read all about it in the encyclopedia. One day, you mark my words, Edith will come to her senses and she'll murder him in her sleep first.'"

By the devotion of the young couple each other continued marked. The thing that troubled Edith was her husband's economic investigations. Why did they have to take him into the house so punctually every morning? Abdul gradually awakened. To cut short, one morning Edith followed him into the city on the morning train.

At last we let Mrs. Meyers tell the rest of the story. Picture her, telling it to the family and the neighbors in her parlor, with waving hands and spasmodic sobbing:

"And the poor child comes to me and in tears. And what'd you think I'd say? Why, Edith followed him. He went to one of those horrid little streets by the Bowery, and it was out—he's got a second-hand shop there, and when she was in he was standing with a vest in his hand and a pair of trousers in the other, and he turned white as a sheet. He confessed to her there and then he never saw Afghanistan in his life. He's a Polish Hebrew, who ought to be smart, and he would live under false pretenses. Edith, she wouldn't have minded who he was, not even the second-hand clothes shop, if only he hadn't lied her. 'The poor girl's been in hopes for months past of some one to marry her, and what'd he do? Just that. And all of us so proud of her being married to an Afghan!'"

Training a New Actor

Years ago a famous actor-manager was playing "Macbeth." A minor member of the company suggested that he had more than ordinary intelligence might be coached to speak the lines.

The actor-manager was not so sure of it, but the stage manager proposed to drill his pupil, making him repeat his words over and over again, until he had them on his memory so perfectly that he could almost say them backwards.

Scene changes. Behold the actor-manager declaiming in his very best manner when the curtain came down. He makes his entry and says: "My name is that Broom Wood doth dwell in Dunlough."

The astonished stage manager told me to you. —Chicago Herald.

ACROBATIC ACTS OFFER STARTLING SERIES OF FEATS

From start to finish the acrobatic act of the Four Reddings is original, startling and a series of feats that are far ahead of anything else of the sort ever seen. This remarkable quartet gives a number of tricks and produces several situations that could easily be stamped as impossible if not actually done, and the groups of master athletes proves one of the leading sensations and attractions of this season.

As sensational jugglers of human beings, the Reddings toss each other about in startling ease and marvelous skill, showing great strength, agility, accuracy and the gift of entertaining detail in everything they do. The finish is a sensational thriller, one of the members of the troupe descending a sharp incline of nearly thirty feet at great speed, clearing a space of half that distance, to a hand to hand stand. Nothing quite so spectacular, daring and splendid has been seen heretofore.—At the Washtenaw County Fair.

Guardian Interest

That is one kind of interest you probably never have associated with the banking business. However, every progressive bank, you will find, has a guardian interest in the vacation and traveling plans of its patrons as well as in their financial status and general welfare.

This bank is no exception. We are not so much interested in where our patrons go or how they travel, as we are in seeing that their travel funds are adequately safeguarded.

Our thorough knowledge of financial conditions both in our own and foreign countries makes this bank peculiarly fitted to render this, one of the most important of all banking services.

For travel, either at home or abroad, the safe and dependable and convenient way to carry your money is in the form of American Express Travelers Cheques.

The sale of Travelers Cheques is only one of the many services this bank offers to travelers.

JACKSON FAIR ASSN' PLANS ELABORATE PROGRAM

The details of the Jackson County Fair are fast being completed and comprises the most ambitious program ever offered by the Association. The Fair will be more diversified in its departments and will add many new features, not only in the educational units, but in the entertainment program, as each day of the Fair will have some new feature that will be of much interest. The most pronounced addition will be the showing at night of the fireworks spectacle, MYSTIC CHINA, pronounced as being the best spectacle ever produced by Thearle-Duffield Co., who are the world's greatest producers in this line of work.

Also in addition to four fast races daily, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will be added Friday, "A Society Horse Show", absolutely new to our Fair, and will continue afternoon and evening, comprising Polo, High Jumping, Fancy and Trick riding of all kinds, and will show some of the best horses in these classes from many states.

Saturday, closing day, will feature a big Industrial Parade and Pageant, portraying Jackson County's earliest history. Hundreds of our children, schools and societies, will participate in this pageant.

Every afternoon and evening, we will also show more than our usual number of acts in front of the grandstand, and the selection this year has been made with much care and research, and we can promise the public many thrills and chuckles of amusement.

It is advised that not less than three days be set aside for each person to attend, as it will surely take that long to absorb the benefits of the 1936 Fair.

Getting Around Law

Beggary here is forbidden by law—but it doesn't prevent it. Your Londoner doesn't provide himself with a half dozen moth-eaten shoes or with three boxes of sulphurine matches and becomes a salesman. The police respect him as a salesman, although people don't buy. They give alms and pass on.

"Gillie's" Duties

A "gillie" is a Highland attendant, a boy page, or menial; an outdoor servant, especially one in attendance on persons engaged in hunting or traveling. Formerly in Scotland the chief duty of a servant called a gillie was to carry a foot or gillie webfoot was to carry his master over brooks or watery places.

Dead Beyond Redemption

By EDWARD LEVINE

(© 1934, Western Newspaper Union)

HOW long he had been dead old Miller had no means of judging, because time had no longer any meaning for him. Indeed, it was with difficulty that he brought himself to the realization that he was dead. His last thought had been that he was ill, or even insane.

He, James Miller, the millionaire, whose word had been law and dogma, who had dominated his time—little wife until her death, and tyrannized over his daughter, Emily, and driven her from his home when she married young Pearsall against his wishes—he was reduced to sorry straits.

He found himself in a condition outside space and time, a place colorless, shapeless, and above all, hideously alone.

And that was the terrific part of it, that he, who had had hundreds at his beck and call, should be so utterly alone. "He had only one companion."

That was remorse. Remorse, at first hardly recognizable for what it was, then slowly strengthening as the situation dawned upon him, as the freed mind began to sift out the wrongs of life, the wrongs that he had committed.

And deepest of all was his treatment of his daughter, Emily. She had been the one person he had really loved. She was the one person who had really loved him. When she fell in love with young Pearsall it was as though that had impelled him to lay down his ultimatum.

She would give the fellow up or leave his house forever.

To his amazement Emily had chosen love, and left him.

He had regretted his act bitterly, but had been too proud to forgive—or ask forgiveness. He knew where the couple lived. He had seen their little bungalow on the outskirts of the town. Pearsall was doing well in a modest way, but they were poor, and he would never amount to anything. Old Miller had meant to change that will which left everything to charity—a poor sort of charity—only he had died.

Dead, beyond redemption, and his millions lost! That money which should have gone to Emily, in the hands of strangers. How she must hate him!

This was the remorse that became his companion in that shadowy realm of which he was a denizen, until his despair became so overwhelming that the creative power of the soul came into play. If only he could have the opportunity to make it up to Emily! If only he could see her again and ask her forgiveness!

And with the exercise of that creative power he seemed to pre-empt the conditions that bound him. He found himself within the cottage.

A shadowy wraith, he crept through the poorly furnished rooms until he found the one in which his daughter was lying. She was lying in bed, her face flushed, the sweat of agony upon her brow. Beside her stood her husband.

He took her hand in his. "How do you feel, darling?" old Miller heard him saying.

"Oh, so sick, dear! Stay with me!" The wraith looked down with infinite pity and remorse upon his daughter, Emily! He didn't understand. What was the matter with her?

But he felt in some strange way drawn to her as he had never been before. He felt that she comprised everything that he needed. He wanted her—as he had never wanted any one before.

It was all he could do to keep from slipping back into that nebulous place from which he had emerged. Only with the most intense concentration of will power.

And yet he was slipping. But not to there. A sense of peace unfolded him, he felt that in this second loss of self he was passing to a greater happiness.

Emily and her husband leaned over the cradle, looking at the child. "He has father's eyes, hasn't he, dear?" she said. "Dear father, you know, I am sure he always meant to do right by us. You see, I understood him. I've often wished that I could tell him so. Look, look! He seems to know me already!" The child stretched up its tiny hands to her and smiled.

Literary Coach Needed

A lady was entertaining her daughter's caller who was just back from a summer outing. The conversation had been somewhat spasmodic and finally she decided to try him on some of the new books.

"Have you read 'Freckles' Mr. Johnson?" she ventured. "No, ma'am," he stammered, blushing. "Mine are the brown kind."—N. Y. U. Medley.

Taking Them in Order

The elevator boy was green at the job. Two passengers, a man and a woman, got on at the street floor. "Ninth," said the latter once they were fairly started. "Sixth," said the man. The car sped by the sixth floor and stopped at the ninth. On the way back the man said: "Why in thunder didn't you stop at the sixth floor?" The sixth is lower than the ninth. "I know that," said the elevator boy, "but the lady said 'Ninth' first."

The Basilisk in Legend

The basilisk is a fabulous creature, resembling a serpent, and supposed by the ancients to inhabit the Libyan desert. It was described as being of a yellowish color with spots of white and as having a pointed head, where stood one or more prominences, also white, resembling a diadem. Its breath was considered to be especially poisonous and its glance fatal. The word basilisk is now applied to a sort of lizard.

Doubtful Compliment

"The right kind of man appreciated a compliment from his wife." "Well," said Mr. Bibbles, thoughtfully, "that depends on the circumstances. Sometimes I don't feel a ray of glow of satisfaction stealing over me after I have related a carefully connected story to explain my absence from the domestic hearth, and the wife tells me with a cynical smile that I'm 'truly gifted.'"

Manchester.—We have frequently asked if the mill burned in Manchester will be rebuilt. Of course it will, and on the site will also be a better mill than the old one was—that is our prediction. The site is one of the best in the country; the territory supplied by the mill is the largest and wealthiest. But it will take time to build such a mill. —Enterprise.

Jackson.—Residents of Michigan Center are wondering what the city commission is going to do about the land owned by the city in the village upon which many buildings have been erected. Leaseholders have been paying rent for years and assert they have always been led to believe they would be allowed to buy the land occupied. Now they declare the city has boosted the rental and refuses to sell. —Saturday Evening Star.

Milan.—Thirty-five local men, who enjoy standing up to the traps and shooting clay pigeons, have organized into The Milan Gun Club and in a few weeks will be ready to challenge the world or any part thereof with a team. The new automatic traps have been set and every Friday afternoon the reports of the shotguns can be heard east of town. The traps are located on the J. B. Hack farm, on the County Line. —Leader.

Saline.—The old fire cistern on the main four corners was uncovered last week, and will be filled in. It was of large dimensions, larger than most of the present generation expected to find it. It was built with a capacity of more than 500 barrels, and was of stronger construction than most brick work of today. It was quite a job of break in the top, requiring a great deal of picking. —Clinton Local.

Ann Arbor.—Where a herd of 25 or 30 head were inspected. Braun Brothers have a herd of good type cattle and some with high producing records and before leaving there the hospitality of Miss Sylvia Braun was much enjoyed. The fourth and last stop was at the home of William Geiger and sons, twelve miles north of Ann Arbor, where about 75 Holstein breeders, their families and friends enjoyed a picnic dinner and weinte roast. While the ladies were arranging the dinner barnyard golf was enjoyed by the men.

Following dinner a judging demonstration took place. Three of the Geiger cows were led out and Mr. Hays, Field Man, demonstrated the judging of cows on points as used in show rings and explained how to pick the heavy producers, showing the good points and the weaker points. Geiger and Sons will exhibit several head at the Washtenaw County Fair and have without a doubt one of the best producing Holstein herds in the county and also have the highest cow in the Cow Testing Association.

The herds visited on this tour have been in the Cow Testing Association the past year and have started on their second year.

Following this, Agricultural Agent T. S. Osler took several snapshots of the company.

The Holstein Breeders were very fortunate in securing two very able speakers to give talks at this meeting. "Jimmy" Hays, Field Secretary of the M. A. C., gave a very interesting talk on the work and progress of the Holstein breed. During the year 1924 an average of 9000 head of Holsteins a month have been dropped off in Michigan, in fact all over the United States and a yearly work is becoming more popular. The Semi-Official work has never been very strong in Washtenaw County, but is progressing rapidly. The yearly records show of the 18,000 Holsteins tested annually produced an average of 538 pounds of fat. The 1000 Guernseys produced 469 pounds of fat, 23,000 Jerseys produced 465 pounds, and 4,000 Ayrshires produced 404 pounds of fat. Holstein sales are also picking up. Mr. Hays told of an ordinary farmer with a large family in Wisconsin, started with three or four head of registered Holsteins and at the end of several years had a dispersal sale of 86 head which sold at an average of $1139 a head.

The next speaker was J. E. McWilliams, Manager and Supt. of the Detroit Creamery Farms, who gave an instructive as well as interesting talk about producing milk. About 25 years ago in the city of Newark, New Jersey, an epidemic broke out among children mostly babies. This epidemic was in form of bowel trouble caused from a bad source supply of milk. The Medical Milk Commission of that city made arrangements to have several farmers go in together and produce certified milk to supply these children which was done and the epidemic soon was stopped. Certified milk is milk produced under certain sales and regulations and today 4,000,000 families are supplied with this milk. About 14 years ago the Detroit Creamery Farms were started. They purchased 150 acres of land in Mc Clemons and 50 cows. When they first started to bottle and sell milk in the city of Detroit, they started with 100 quarts daily. Today they have 800 cows of which they milk 500 the year round, and sell and deliver daily 6000 quarts. Sixty per cent of this milk is pure Holstein and forty per cent is Jersey and Guernsey. About five years ago there was a small demand for Holstein milk, at that time they were selling only 16 quarts a day and at the present time they are selling daily 2500 quarts from pure bred cows. And it is a certified product endorsed by physicians. Holstein or White Nectar milk is becoming more popular as people are getting edu-

and prying to move the crown of the cistern.—Observer.

Brighton.—Workmen in taking down an apple tree in the yard of the former Sarah Rogers place Tuesday accidentally felled the tree onto the house, doing some damage to one side and stirring up a bees' nest—bushels of them. They made it interesting for all who came near during the rest of the day. Last evening Mr. Hoff came down from Howell and secured about 20 pounds of honey they had stored away between the siding and the inside sheeting of the old building.—Argus.

Ypsilanti.—George Holmes, alias Phillips, arrested with Garry Moystner and a woman, Agnes Dufor, in an attempt to rob the driver of the Ypsilanti Lumber company, was sentenced by Judge Sample to seven and a half to 15 years in Jackson Prison. Moystner was taken back to Detroit, where he has confessed to several robberies, implicating Agnes Dufor as his accomplice. Both are being held in Detroit, but Moystner will be brought back here for sentence for his part in the robbery here and possibly the woman will also have to stand trial as an accomplice. She was found in an automobile waiting outside the night of the attempted robbery.—Record.

Women Denounced Coffee
In "The women's petition against coffee," 1934, the committee made men as unfruitful as the deserts whence that unhappy berry is said to be brought. That the "offspring of their mighty ancestors would dwindle into a succession of apes and pigmies" and that of a domestic message a husband would "stop by the way to drink a couple of cups of coffee."

Strange Occupation
A man died in England the other day who for nearly fifty years had served as a "smelter" in a brewery. For a half-century this man gave his life to sniffing at empty beer barrels, thousands of them every week, and rejecting the "stinkers." What a critic he would have made if his fastidious taste had had ample scope.

First U. S. Patent
The first United States patent was granted to a descendant of a Waterbury (Conn.) miller. The second was granted to a resident of Waterbury, and the number of patents now issued to people of that city is about double that which might be expected from the population.

Cultivate a Hobby
"I am always poor, when I hear a business man of middle age say he has no hobby, because I know that when he retires he will live unhappily for a year or two and then die," said Dr. B. R. Kenwood, at London university.

No. 111367
A small child in the Sunday school class was told that the hairs of her head were all numbered. Promptly she pulled one out of her own curly locks and said: "Please, teacher, what number's this?"—London Tit-Bits.

Both Right and Wrong
Men too frequently believe they deserve all the good that comes to them, and very little of the bad. They may be as wrong regarding the one as the other. As a rule they are right only when by honest introspection they have consciousness of deserving. —Grit.

Tree That "Whistles"
A species of acacia found in the Sudan is known locally as the whistling tree. The extremely hollow shoot-sheath produces a sound as loud as is obtainable from a very sweet-toned flute.

Choose Friendships Well
As the shadow in the early morning, is friendship with the wicked; it dwindles hour by hour. But friendship with the good increases, like the evening shadows, till the sun of life sets. —Herder.

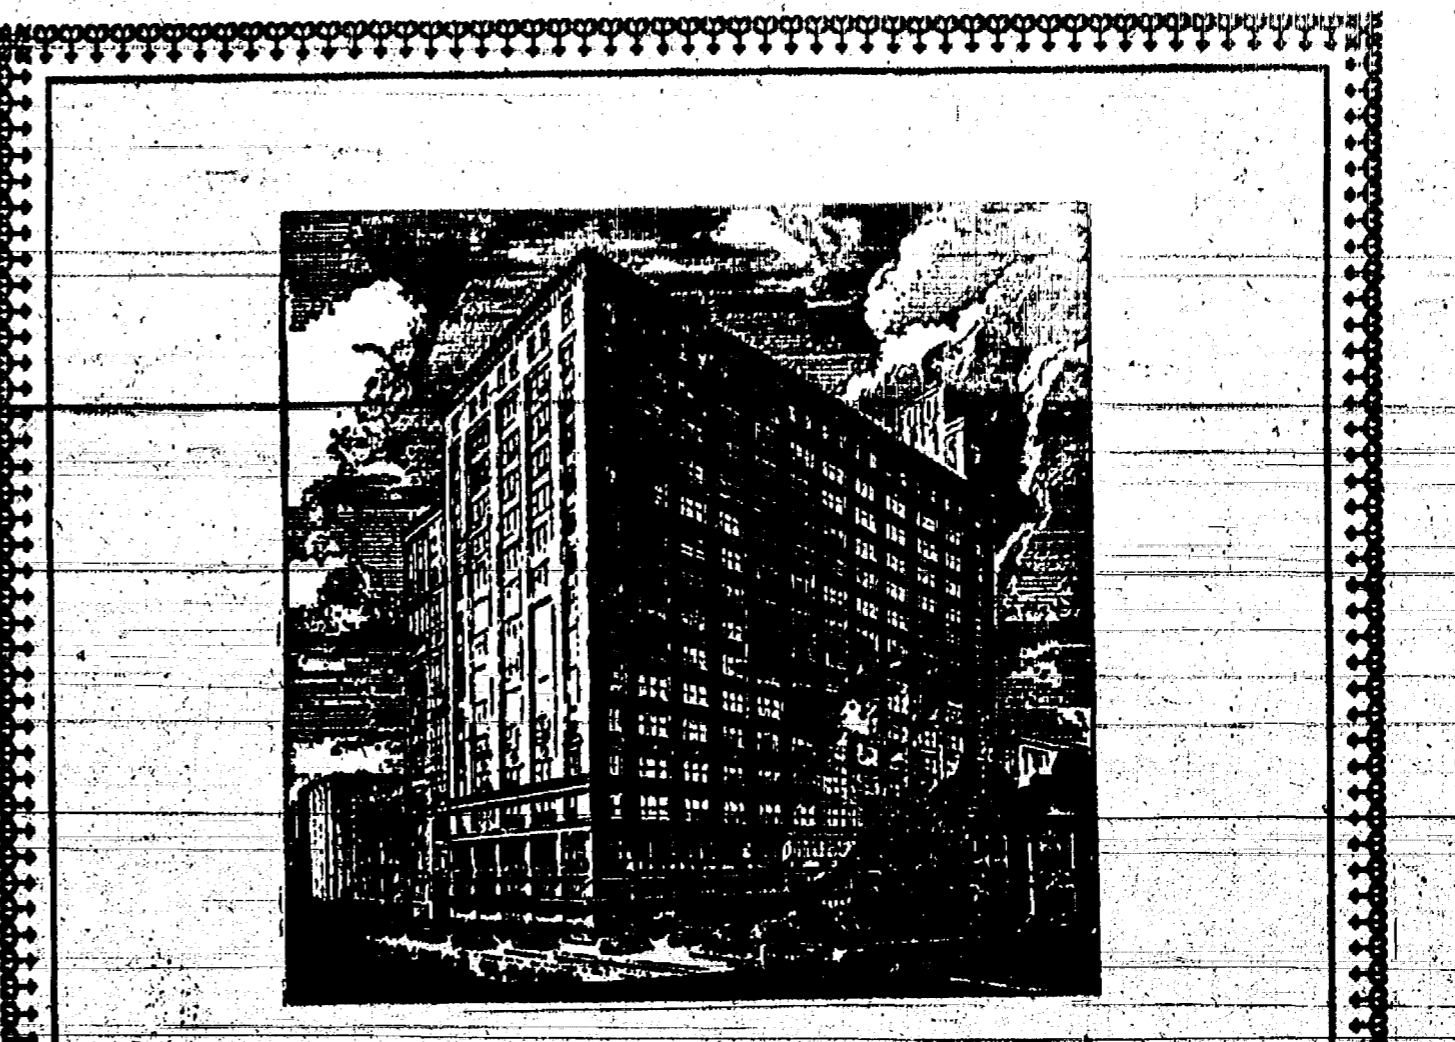

Ruler Believed in "Luck"
Frederick the Great of Prussia was governed in his military operations by astrologers and always waited until they had indicated the "lucky day" for a start.

His Badaise Manner
Doctor—"I don't like to bring a bill to a man as sick as you are, but it causes so much red tape, you know, to get money out of anyone's heirs."—Santa Barbara News.

Woman and Home
"Home," says the Newcastle (Pa.) Courier, "is a place where a woman, in about fifteen seconds can find something for which a man has searched one hour."

HOLSTEIN-FRIESIAN ANNUAL TOUR HELD
The annual tour of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Washtenaw county was held last week. The line-up for the tour was as follows: The breeders from the southwestern part of the county gathered at the farm of A. A. Teepel today morning, about nine o'clock with high records where some cattle with high records were seen. From there they went to the farm of J. G. Lewis, located north of Soio, about one-half hour being spent there looking over good being spent there looking over good type and well producing cows. At 10:45 they gathered at the farm of E. W. Latson, north of Ann Arbor, where they joined the breeders of the eastern part of the county. Mr. Latson has a fine herd of Holsteins and is fitting several head for the Washtenaw County Fair. From there they went to Fair Acres Farm, owned by Braun Brothers, three miles north with the interest the farmers were five homes less and a remonade taking in trying to make the fair a was served and a pleasant day success. The rate the cattle entries was spent at the fair for the fact was coming in the cattle exhibit home of William Geiger and sons, twelve miles north of Ann Arbor, where about 75 Holstein breeders, their families and friends enjoyed a picnic dinner and weinte roast. While the ladies were arranging the dinner barnyard golf was enjoyed by the men.

This is Hudson's New Fifteen Story Building
Now Under Construction

THIS new building will be 15 stories above the ground and three stories below.

It will be joined to our present 12-story building on Woodward Avenue (pictured below), giving Detroit and Michigan one of the largest and finest retail establishments in America.

The new building is being erected in a unique and interesting manner. In January of this year the north half of the old eight story Farmer street building was torn down and work started on the north half of the new building. In the meantime business continued in the south half of the Farmer street building.

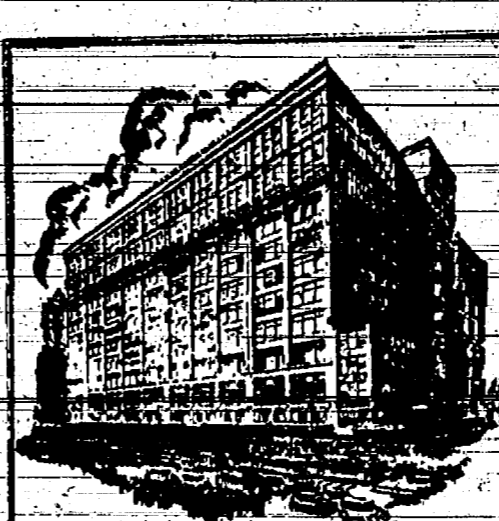

On Monday, August 18, the dividing wall between the old building and the new on the second floor was taken out and we began using one floor of the new building. Every few days now we are joining a floor of the new building to the old and during the Christmas season we expect to be using all of the completed portion of the new building together with the remaining half of the old.

In January, 1925, we will start raising the north half of the old building and completing the 15-story building.

The Chew That Cheers

A little BEECH-NUT Chewing Tobacco
now and then
Is just the thing for regular men.

More punch than a pipe. Fine for fatigue and indigestion—good for the teeth and gums.

Big do-ers are all chewers. Inventors and jurists, deep thinkers and hard workers, crack athletes, star golfers, ball players,
keep BEECH-NUT Chewing Tobacco sales
beyond the 250 million package mark.

Waxy leaf, cut just the right size—chosen from the best crops—unvaryingly blended—flavored with the purest ingredients—all stems and litter removed—prepared and sealed without one touch of human hands.

10c is flattered every time it meets a package.

COMMISSIONERS' NOTICE
State of Michigan, County of Washtenaw, ss.
The undersigned having been appointed by the Probate Court for said County, Commissioners to receive, examine and adjust all claims and demands of all persons against the estate of Rolla S. Armstrong, late of said county, deceased, hereby give notice that four months from date are allowed, by order of said Probate Court, for creditors to present their claims against the estate of said deceased, and that they will meet at the Farmers and Merchants Bank, Village of Chelsea, in said county, on the 20th day of October and on the 20th day of December next, at ten o'clock A. M. of each of said days, to receive, examine and adjust said claims.
Dated August 20th, 1924.

REV. F. BOEHM
Rev. F. Boehm has organized a catechetical class, consisting of the following: Nelda and Lemone Scherer, Wilma, Thelma and Laurene
Walt, Mildred Haynes, Harold Koch, Edward Willy. The class will meet twice a week until the public schools open in September, when it will meet Saturdays for instruction.

Mrs. Nora Notten expects to leave this week for Akron, Ohio, to visit relatives and friends. She will be accompanied by her sister, Mrs. John O'Donnell of Detroit.

Mrs. Fred Willy and daughter,
Frieda, were recent Grass Lake visitors.

Mrs. F. H. Angell went to Gull
Lake for the week-end to visit relatives and friends. She will also visit friends in Grand Rapids before returning.

Rev. Fred Boehm and family received word of the death of their granddaughter, Helen Armstrong, of Grand Rapids, Thursday. The child was recovering nicely from an attack of scarlet fever, and was up and about, playing, but complications suddenly developed. The funeral was held the same day, so it was impossible for the Boehm family to attend. Mr. Boehm left today for Grand Rapids to spend the week with his daughter, who is nearly prostrated from shock and grief.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong lived here a couple of years but about four years ago moved to Grand Rapids. Helen was about five years of age, and spent a month or more here with her grandparents last spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frey and son Wilbur, of Norvell, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frey.

Mr. and Mrs. August Willy, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wegchky and daughter, Margaret, of Saginaw, came Saturday to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Willy.

The missionary festival held at St.
John's church Sunday was largely attended at both services, and a fine collection was made. Special music was furnished by the choir of St.
Paul's church, Chelsea.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lambert and daughter Cecile, and son Junior, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Lowe of Summit, where a birthday dinner was given in honor of Orin Scramblin, father of Mrs. Lowe, and Mrs.
Lambert. A delightful family reunion was celebrated.

Mr. and Mrs. John Asfahl entertained nine members of St. Paul's church of Chelsea at dinner Sunday.

The Gleaners met Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rank.
At the business session it was decided to have an ice cream social Friday evening, August 22, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Plummer of Grass Lake. Gleaner ladies are requested to take cake or wafers.

Mrs. Emma Kalmbach has gone to Bay View to spend a couple of months.

Miss Marjorie Hammond of Ann Arbor, was the guest of Miss Vera Harvey part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Willma Plowe and daughter, Miss Gertrude, were recent Jackson visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Kalmbach spent Sunday in Grass Lake with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clark.

Uriah Shelly of Grass Lake called on his sister-in-law, Mrs. Martha Taylor, Sunday.

The Jacobs family reunion was held last week at the home of Clark
Jacobs, South Francisco.

Miss Lucile Lemm of Detroit, who has been spending some time at the Lemm home south of town, has returned home.

Misses Lillian and Ella Kulenkamp

have returned to their home south of town after attending a convention in Chicago at last week.

A large number of summer ones were loaned to the Maytag Preston farm south of town on Thursday afternoon. The ones that had been loaned out, but not yet returned, are being put away. It is thought that they may have caused some damage to the corn.

An Appreciation of Red Crown

The High-Grade Gasoline

THERE'S just one way you can know the vast difference between Red Crown and other gasolines. That is by asking Red Crown to get you out of difficulties. It does it every time.

Here's one man's experience:

"Red Crown had been my engine fuel for many years—long tried, well tested, and entirely satisfactory—

"But, in a foolish moment, YOU KNOW, on the advice of a (so-called high-test) gasoline salesman, I changed my brand, and for several months used other kinds of gasoline with various unsettling results, as: Short mileage, with more frequent filling of my gas tank; hard to start after the lighter elements were used out of my tank; lack of power on a hill, with always in low as I climbed; and, to top my difficulties, one day I ran out of 'gas' on the hill.

"Then I was cured. I had always carried a gallon of Red Crown under the seat, and I put it in the tank and climbed the hill on high gear for the first time in months. Red Crown for me from now on."

Furthermore, Red Crown takes a hint with a haste that will delight you. It has the right attitude toward its job—peppy, active, ready to anticipate your desires, and always dependable.

Forestall trouble. Put Red Crown in your tank now—and laugh at sand, grades and mud!

"Caesar" Once Family Name

The name "Caesar" was the family name of the first five Roman emperors, originating in the family of the family became extinct with Nero in 68 A. D., and the title "Caesar" became simply a title of dignity. Both Augustus Caesar, born September, 63 B. C., who died in August of the year 14 A. D., and Tiberius ruled during the life of Christ. Augustus was reigning at the time of the birth of Christ.

Causes of Earthquakes

What produces earthquakes is a problem not yet settled to the satisfaction of the scientist. Tremors of the earth may be caused by explosion of mines, falling in of caves, slipping of rocks, strata, and many other movements of the earth, but these do not explain the great shocks satisfactorily. Earthquakes are likened with volcanic activity, but which of the two is cause and which effect is not known.

Patient Old Bird

The green heron, which is sometimes called the fly-catcher, is about one and one-half feet long and is common throughout the United States and Canada. It feeds mostly on fish, frogs and other aquatic animals and may be seen particularly in the morning and in the evening, standing patiently motionless in some shallow water, waiting till prey comes within reach.

Some Abbreviations

Few people know that the word tag is a clipped form of fatigue, although everybody recognizes that photo is short for photograph, incog for incognito, memo for memorandum, motor for motor car, gram for gramophone, phone for telephone, and cycle for bicycle—clipped still further to "bike."

Making Money Fast

"Well," said the lawyer, "have you decided to take my advice and pay this bill of mine?" "Yes," stammered the client. "Very well," said the lawyer. Then he turned to his clerk and ordered him to add "to Mr. Smith's bill," for further advice.—London Tit-Bits.

Worth Considering

We long for ideal relations and wonderful friendships, forgetting that all relationships are made by the people who enter into them. Suppose the perfect friend should appear—what would we have to offer in return for such a rare gift?—Exchange.

Shameful!

"Birds' nesting strictly prohibited," read the notice which caught little Emily's eye. "What a shame!" she exclaimed indignantly. "Nancy not letting the poor little birds build their nests where they like!"—London Daily Mail.

Husband Made Her Famous
Elizabeth Stark, wife of Gen. John Stark, of Revolutionary fame, owes her renown to Stark's word to his soldiers at Bennington, Vt., "Tonight the American flag floats from yonder hill or Molly Stark sleeps a widow."

Republic Founded by Monk
The republic of San Marino, the second-smallest independent state in Europe, is said to have been founded by Marinus, a Dalmatian monk, some time in the fourth century. San Marino has never lost its independence.

Wisdom From the Talmud
All the blessings of a household come through the wife; therefore should her husband honor her. Men should be careful lest they cause women to weep, for God counts their tears.—The Talmud.

Result of Belief
It matters all in the world what a man does really believe and so hold as to bring it vitally home to his soul. What he believes molds him in spirit and in life.—Harvey D. Kitchel.

Uncle Eben
"I likes to hear a speaker use long words," said Uncle Eben. "Even if I don't get much out of 'em, dey sound like he was givin' me credit for helpin' purty smart."

Origin of Commencement
School and college commencements originally meant the inception of the pupil graduate as a teacher and he at once entered or "commenced" his new duties.

FAIR NOTES

Everything is now in readiness for Washtenaw's Greatest Fair which will be held at Ann Arbor next week, August 28th to 30th inclusive. Monday, August 28th, the exhibits and live stock will be received and placed and the big line of shows and rides set up and ready for operation. For weeks, the fair officers and superintendents have been planning and striving to have the 1924 fair far surpass any previously held. Plans and arrangements are complete and from the opening of the gates Tuesday morning until the close of the fair Saturday night, every fair visitor is assured a real outing and excellent entertainment which will include band concerts, horse and auto races, thrilling free acts, bicycle races, and exhibits in all classes which will reflect credit on the exhibitors and the county.

CORN BORER IN LENAWEE COUNTY

Specimens of the European Corn Borer were found by searchers from the Agricultural College on the farms of Paul Papenhagen in Riggs township and Thomas Stadley in Blissfield.

The cornstalk borer was also found at work, but it is different from the European Corn Borer. A parasite feeds on the cornstalk borer, but nothing has been found that will exterminate the European Corn Borer, it is claimed. Farmers are advised to cut their corn as short as possible and either burn or roll the stubble in the field.—Manchester Enterprise.

COW TESTING ASSN. MAKES MONTHLY REPORT

The report of the Western Washtenaw Cow Testing Association, Chester and Manchester, ending for the month of July 24th. Number of cows tested, 212; cows dry, 21; new cows entered, 3. Number of cows producing 40 to 50 pounds of fat, 9; above 50 pounds of fat, 1. Cows producing 1000 to 1250 lbs. of milk, 9; above 1250 pounds of milk, 3. Number of herds tested, 25. Owners of herds having highest butter fat average, Fred Notten, breed, Jersey purebred, average production in milk 771 pounds; fat, 41.8; William Ahrens, grade Jersey, average production in milk, 765 pounds; fat 41.3. Owner of cow having highest butter fat production, R. B. Waltrous, breed, purebred Holstein, milk 1668 lbs.; fat 33.4. Average production per cow in association, milk, 5825 lbs.; fat, 22.5. Men keeping daily milk records, 10. Owners of the highest record cows under three years, Fred Notten and Leon Stauty; under four years, A. M. Bosworth and Harry Knickerbocker; under five years, William Ahrens and D. A. Fraser; five years and over R. B. Waltrous and Clyde Gelske. Highest in milk class, R. B. Waltrous and Clyde Gelske.

Most of the members of the association are feeding grain on pasture and find it pays well and keeps their cows milking steadily. The pasture has been exceptionally good this spring and summer, but without grain and the intense heat cows will drop off in milk flow. The future of the cow testing association work looks promising at the present time. The association records enables the dairy farmer to feed his cows with greater economy. Alfalfa is the principal dry feed with several white others are feeding clover hay with silage.

Chocolate in Europe
Chocolate made its appearance in Europe just four hundred years ago. The Spaniards were the first to make the acquaintance of this nourishing food in Mexico. For a long time it was disclaimed in France; but Anne of Austria formed the habit of taking her cup of chocolate every morning; the court imitated the queen; the city imitated the court and the chocolate-drinking habit quickly spread.

Skulls in Washington
Ten thousand human skulls and skeletons are included in the collection of the National museum at Washington.

Praise
A man's praises have very mustant and charming accents in the mouth of another, but sound very flat and untunable in his own.—Xenophon.

Longevity Recipe

The Cardinal de Solis, archbishop of Seville, in Spain, was one hundred ten years old when he died. He used to tell his friends, when asked what regimen he observed to enable him to live to such a great age, "By being old when I was young, I am able to be young when I am old. I led a sober, studious, contemplative, but not lazy or sedentary life."

Present: Hon. George W. Sample, Circuit Judge.

In this cause it appearing by the Bill of Complaint, duly verified, presented and filed and to the satisfaction of the Court, that John Gorham and Parris P. Ford, their and each of their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, are proper and necessary parties to the above entitled cause and are interested in the subject matter involved therein and whose names appear in the Office of the Register of Deeds for the said County of Washtenaw as having at one time, claimed a right, title, interest or estate in the subject matter of said cause or some portion of it, or as having a lien or charge thereon, and who might at any time under the provisions or legal effect of such instrument or instruments of record, claim or attempt to claim or be entitled to claim benefits thereunder; and it further appearing to the satisfaction of the Court that all of the said named parties are dead, or their present whereabouts unknown, to said Plaintiff, and after diligent search and inquiry they have been unable to ascertain the same or where any of them or where any of their heirs reside, or whether such interest as they may or might have therein has been disposed of by will or otherwise, and that such defendants cannot be personally served with process.

On motion of Frank B. DeVine, attorney for said Plaintiff, it is ordered that the appearance of the said defendants and each and all of them be entered in this cause within three months from the date of this order; and that in case of their appearance they cause their answer to the Bill of Complaint to be filed and a copy thereof served upon the Plaintiff within fifteen days after the service upon them or their attorneys of a copy of said bill and that in default thereof said bill be taken as confessed by each of said defendants.

And it is further ordered that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be published in the Chelsea Standard, a weekly paper, printed, published and circulated in said County of Washtenaw, and that such publication be continued therein once in each week, for at least six consecutive weeks, or that said Plaintiff cause a copy of their order to be personally served upon said defendants and upon each of them at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

GEO. W. SAMPLE, Circuit Judge.

Claron L. Pray, Deputy County Clerk.

To said Defendants: Take notice that the above entitled cause involves the title to the following premises, situate in the City of Ann Arbor, Washtenaw County, Michigan: The north 22-feet of Lot number 44 and Lot number 45 all in James B. Goff's Second Addition to the City of Ann Arbor, according to the recorded plat therefor.

IT'S FOOLISH TO SUFFER

When So Many Chelsea People Are Pointing the Way Out.

You may be brave enough to stand backache or headache or dizziness. But, if in addition urination is disordered, look out! If you don't try to fix your sick kidneys, you may fall into the clutches of dangerous disease before you know it. But, if you live more carefully and help your kidneys with Doan's Pills, you can stop the pains you have and avoid future danger as well. Don't experiment—use the remedy Chelsea people are publicly endorsing. Read this case:

Mrs. Chas. H. Hagadon, 426 Congdon St., says: "My kidneys were bothering me and backache kept me from getting through with my housework. I had dizzy spells when black specks floated before my eyes. My kidneys didn't act regularly and in different ways showed signs of disorder. As Doan's Pills had been used in the home successfully I decided to try them. I was surprised how quickly Doan's helped me for two boxes cured me of the trouble."

STATE OF MICHIGAN

Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw, In Chancery.
Frank D. Nichols, Ada Nichols, Plaintiff, vs.
John Gorham and Parris P. Ford, and their and each of their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns.

At a session of said Court, held at the Court House in the City of Ann Arbor, on the 23rd day of July, A. D. 1924.

Present: Hon. George W. Sample, Circuit Judge.

In this cause it appearing by the Bill of Complaint, duly verified, presented and filed and to the satisfaction of the Court, that John Gorham and Parris P. Ford, their and each of their unknown heirs, devisees, legatees and assigns, are proper and necessary parties to the above entitled cause and are interested in the subject matter involved therein and whose names appear in the Office of the Register of Deeds for the said County of Washtenaw as having at one time, claimed a right, title, interest or estate in the subject matter of said cause or some portion of it, or as having a lien or charge thereon, and who might at any time under the provisions or legal effect of such instrument or instruments of record, claim or attempt to claim or be entitled to claim benefits thereunder; and it further appearing to the satisfaction of the Court that all of the said named parties are dead, or their present whereabouts unknown, to said Plaintiff, and after diligent search and inquiry they have been unable to ascertain the same or where any of them or where any of their heirs reside, or whether such interest as they may or might have therein has been disposed of by will or otherwise, and that such defendants cannot be personally served with process.

On motion of Frank B. DeVine, attorney for said Plaintiff, it is ordered that the appearance of the said defendants and each and all of them be entered in this cause within three months from the date of this order; and that in case of their appearance they cause their answer to the Bill of Complaint to be filed and a copy thereof served upon the Plaintiff within fifteen days after the service upon them or their attorneys of a copy of said bill and that in default thereof said bill be taken as confessed by each of said defendants.

And it is further ordered that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be published in the Chelsea Standard, a weekly paper, printed, published and circulated in said County of Washtenaw, and that such publication be continued therein once in each week, for at least six consecutive weeks, or that said Plaintiff cause a copy of their order to be personally served upon said defendants and upon each of them at least twenty days before the time prescribed for their appearance.

CHELSEA PRODUCES BEST WOOL IN STATE OF MICHIGAN

"The finest grade of wool produced in Michigan comes from Chelsea," said W. M. Meagher, wool buyer from Boston, and formerly an attaché of the Michigan state farm bureau, Saturday evening when discussing the different grades of wool, and the fleece produced in Michigan and northern Ohio. Mr. Meagher's statement was given during an interview which appeared in the Jackson News of Monday morning. He continued: "The wool produced at Chelsea is always clean, free from chaff and burrs, which increases its value—something most farmers neglect, which is at their own expense."
"Farmers could get more for their wool if they wouldn't bale and tie it up in sisal twine. Sisal twine is injurious to the fleece, as it shows up in the cloth, and it is almost impossible to get it out. Wool bound in sisal twine often has to be discounted. Paper twine should be used."
"One reason farmers don't receive more money for their fleece is because it is full of burrs and chaff. They should be more careful where their sheep graze, and avoid this loss."
"There is more wool discounted in Michigan than any other state in the union, because it is full of this undesirable stuff. Good wool is also raised in Brooklyn, where competition is not so keen as it is in Chelsea."
Mr. Meagher said that the ordinary sheep would produce about 75 pounds of wool a year, providing its grazing and food is not neglected. He is buying wool from all points in Michigan, and expects to work out of Jackson to various wool centers for some time yet, before leaving for the east.

Acoustic Experiment

A very pretty experiment in acoustics can be achieved by the use of a child's tin horn. Tie a sheet of thin paper firmly over the big end, hold the horn so that the paper is level, scatter over it a little fine sand orycopodium powder, then sing a note into the horn. You will find that the powder has formed itself into an intricate geometrical figure. It was in this way that the first voice pictures were obtained.

Desirable Place of Residence
The Land of Cockayne was an imaginary land of idleness and plenty, in which the houses were roofed with cake, the rivers ran with wine and roasted fowl offered themselves to be eaten. The name was applied in derision to both London and Paris, following the writing of a satirical poem entitled "The Land of Cockayne" about 1800.

Original Daylight Saving
Daylight saving, as we know it, had its inception in England in 1907 in a book published by William Willett, entitled "The Waste of Daylight." A daylight-saving law was enacted in Great Britain in 1916, and in the following year in Denmark, Germany, Holland, Italy, France, Portugal and Australia.

"Hoodown" and "Breakdown"
The word "hoodown" originated among negroes in the South and was common even before the Civil war. Nobody has been able to trace its origin. It means a noisy, riotous or disorderly dance, and especially a peculiar dance of the colored people. The word "breakdown" is used in the same sense.

Tricks in All Trades
"How do you get so many subscribers?" asked the visitor to the office of the great magazine. "Just between you and me I'll tell you the secret. I answer the contributors and tell them the stuff will be used as soon as available. That makes them subscribe for life."—Indianapolis Star.

Clocks of Wood
Eli Terry, born in Windsor, Conn., in 1772, made his first clocks by hand, the movements being of wood. He was the leading maker of wooden clocks in America and invented the shelf clock which introduced the pillar-scroll top case.

Accommodating Churchman
Andrew Perno, English churchman, was noted for the many times he changed his creed. He was a Catholic under Henry VII, a Protestant under Edward VI, a Catholic under Mary, and a Protestant under Elizabeth.

Thorough
Paris is a city where the same name is used for many different things. The word "thorough" is used in many different ways.
