CEMENT PLANT CLOSED FOR PRISONER'S FUNERAL

Impressive Service Held for Farmer Gruette Who Met Death Accidentally at Four Mile Lake Factory.

With a simplicity which only added to the impressiveness of the service last rites and respects were paid to the memory of Farmer Gruette, prison inmate, by his fellow inmates on last Friday afternoon. Gruette was killed on Wednesday when his clothing caught and drew him into a rapidly revolving line shaft at the state cement plant east of town.

Activities at the cement plant had ceased for the hour during which the service was held, and all prisoners employed at the plant gathered in the recreation hall where the body of their former companion, the "Big Chief," as he was known among his fellows, lay amid a mass of flowers given by inmates who had "chipped in" in order that Farmer Gruette might have the best available in spite of his circumstances at the time of death. Attendant also at the funeral were Warden and Mrs. Hulbert, besides a number of other officials and wives.

Absolute quiet which reigned throughout the building as prisoners seated themselves on the long benches served only to impress more thoroughly the tribute being paid their departed companion, and as the chaplain, Rev. William F. Hopp, proceeded with the service which was to mark the last spoken appreciation of Farmer Gruette, many a tear was brushed aside from faces long since grown stony with indifference.

Taking for his text Romans 12:12, "Rejoice in hope, patient in tribulation, continuing instant in prayer," the chaplain asked his hearers to heed the advice of St. Paul, himself a prisoner in a Roman dungeon, to substitute Christian joy for sadness. He did not refer to a history of the dead lying before him, but rather enlivened the life of his Creator, in urging upon his hearers the value of the spirit of brotherhood.

Referring to him as "Chief" and speaking in affectionate terms, an inmate of the prison paid glowing tribute to his departed friend. In exhorting his hearers to gratitude to Warden and Mrs. Hulbert for making it possible to conduct a Christian funeral and burial as was being done. Moved by the impulse of his own feelings this prisoner spoke appreciation for the life of Farmer Gruette and hope that his death might mean much in the lives of fellow inmates.

Leonard S. Aldridge, accompanied by Mrs. Aldridge, of Jackson, sang "I Walk Alone With God," "Face to Face," and "Teach Me to Pray." A cornet solo, "The End of a Perfect Day," was played by an inmate, concluding the service.

While in years past bodies of departed prisoners have been considered worth only such value as they might have for experimental purposes, a new era has been brought about in the state prison. Since the advent of Harry L. Hulbert as warden at the institution a plot of ground at Woodland cemetery, Jackson, has been set aside for a prison burying ground, and it was among some thirty others who have died within this prison walls at Jackson during the last few years, that Farmer Gruette's body found its last resting place. Accompanied by prison officials and carried by six long team prisoners without regard as to whether the remains were taken to Jackson Friday afternoon and buried. Denied the privilege of family and relatives to mourn their loss, his body has returned to the earth from which it came and the soul to its Creator.

MISS KATHARINE HOFFMAN ENTERTAINED WITH SHOWER

One of the most delightful events of the season was the magnificent shower given Friday evening, September 19th, by Mrs. J. N. Strout at her home in honor of her sister, Miss Katharine Hoffman.

The shower scene was beautiful and the house was beautifully decorated with lavender and rose asters. The sixteen guests were served to a delicious two course luncheon at three tables. The bridal table was centered with a miniature bride and groom and a lavender crepe umbrella suspended from the chandelier, containing individual corsages, with streamers leading to each guest's place. Bowls of asters and crystal candle sticks with lavender and rose candles also decorated the tables.

Appropriate games were played during the evening and the guest of honor received many beautiful and useful gifts.

The evening was a very enjoyable one.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish in this way to express my sincere appreciation to my many kind friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness shown me during the illness and death of my beloved husband. The beautiful floral offerings, to Miss Gertrude Mapes and Mrs. C. J. Tremmel for music rendered, to S. A. Mapes for his benevolence, and especially to Rev. E. L. Sutherland for his words of sympathy. Mrs. Addie Baird.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our relatives, friends and kind neighbors for assistance, their many acts of kindness and tender words of sympathy, the beautiful floral offerings, also the Rev. Grabowski for his comforting words, extended toward us in the loss of our dear son and brother, Alvin A. Goetz and children.

CHELSEA MAN OWNS HIGH PRODUCING DAIRY HERD

The Cow Testing Association Bulletin, issued by the State, shows that the Washtenaw-Chelsea Association has the fifth highest butter-fat producing herd in the state for the month of June, owned by R. B. Waltons. There are now 89 associations operating in the state and 1,963 herds tested. About 4 years ago there were only 7 cow testing associations and 156 herds tested. This work is increasing daily and dairymen are responding to the need of better cows and are using the cow testing association for this purpose.

BEFORE OR DURING

There's a lull in the prohibition fight just now. Is it the calm before the storm, during it, or just afterward? Nobody seems to know. Anyhow, the situation stands unchanged, with neither the prohibitionists nor those who presumably want only light wines and beer willing to give in.

The latter say that they would help oppose bootlegging and the saloon if they got their light drinks back. Those who are vehemently dry don't believe it, and fight wine as fiercely as whisky. And it is a fight, it has been one. There's nothing lukewarm in the prohibition field. Few folks are indifferent, and nobody is vacillating from one side to the other. Why can't our political issues be so sharp?

The big job of prohibition enforcement is stopping bootlegging now. Nobody seems to know just how to go about it. An astonishing number of people don't care. Many seem to have quit working or thinking when the Eighteenth Amendment was written on the books, called it a day and have gone to sleep. But John Barleycorn never closes his eyes. The hare let the tortoise beat him because he took a snooze.

Maybe after the November election with its consequent excitement passes, we'll poke the question in the ribs and hear a grunt. But meanwhile the country is getting pretty damp.

LUCY GASTON

She was an interesting, versatile, earnest, and indomitable woman. She made friends by the hundreds and enemies by the thousands but nobody despised her. Back many years ago she conceived a hatred for cigarettes. She formed the Anti-Cigarette League, with a world-wide membership, and was responsible for several laws curbing the coffee trade. Until she died last week, in Chicago, she never quit preaching against them and campaigning for converts. But her evangelism never moved mountains; she was bucking a stone wall of tolerant laxity and a world which reveled in cigarettes. With another cause she would have done wonders. As it was, she had but a half dozen mourners at her bier and no flags and half-masted at her passing. Nobody is rising to catch the torch she had to drop. Perhaps nobody will; perhaps the anti-cigarette crusade was futile from the start and will be abandoned. At any rate, those who smoke and those who don't give credit to a valiant spirit which sent one woman against the multitude in a cause she believed just.

She was never beaten, for only the soul can be conquered. She went out in the height of her glory. Who could ask a better fate?

MONKEYS AND SERMONS

A minister in Butte, Montana, preached against evolution last Sunday while a monkey chattered by the pulpit. That was one way to draw folks to church; perhaps he thought it the only way. Anyhow, he said he believed in "drastic methods to meet drastic situations". He got his crowd and their interest, and he illustrated his point. Now we hear rumors that his superiors are frowning on his conduct as unseemly. Perhaps it was. But that sermon won't be forgotten, and whether it lacked in spiritual nourishment it atoned for in added interest. And, beautiful theories to the contrary notwithstanding, church services ought to be interesting.

NONE SO BLIND

Carl Siefert, of Connecticut, lost his money in a bank failure and took his own life last week because, as he said, he didn't want to see his family suffer want. The age-old Bible text about there being none so blind as they who will not see might be twisted as texts can always be to answer this fiasco.

Obviously Carl won't see any more suffering on earth, no matter what has happened to him. Just as obviously—even a child can see it—his going didn't help his family to stay out of want; quite the contrary. Then, naturally, his excuse was a lie; he didn't want to suffer himself, or was mentally irresponsible, or didn't stop to think.

His family will have something to carry down through the years which Carl bequeathed. That they will be even more poor without a breadwinner is the lesser evil. Their most bitter lot will be in remembering Carl's cowardice, his blindness, his disregard of them, and his foolish hastening from earthly to eternal punishment—which most folks believe.

PERSHING OUTS

A meeting in New York September ninth, was the last public formal appearance of General Pershing as head of the nation's army. He retires on an old age pension, honorably and acclaimed.

World war veterans will be interested. Many were not fond of the grim general. Although affection is not necessary to the code of a good soldier. Many sagacious lieutenants and top-heavy privates could have directed the fighting much better, of course. But Pershing did the best he could, and with the bulk of soldiers willing to die for him and the rest agreeing with modified hostility that he acted according to his lights, he is now getting out for good. Those with ill will may discard it; they can hurt only themselves now by cherishing it.

A general who has spent his life fighting for his country is always an interesting figure. What patriotism he must feel; what absorbing devotion to its principles; what courage he must have developed! Pershing has won all the fame he received. No more can he said of any man.

BROTHERS IN BOND

Every man and woman who belongs to a lodge—and there are few who do not—will understand and reciprocate the pronouncement of President Coolidge in his address to the fraternal convention last week.

Unlike Harding, who was a "joiner" Coolidge judges such affiliations largely by observation. But he expressed simply what most people feel more or less vaguely.

Not all fraternal orders are based on religion, he said, and lodge members like to feel that their actions in and out of the hall are largely religious. "No true fraternity can rest on any other conception," he continued, and a moment's thought confirms his judgment. Any other association is not brotherly but merely social, we all know. For religion means universal brotherhood, acknowledging a universal Father.

"Fraternal virtues, necessary to fraternity are industry, loyalty, faith and fellowship," the President said. Any lodge officer vouches for that. The member who takes his vows of service lightly, and attends to duties indifferently, isn't a brother but a hanger-on. Then there's loyalty; everybody knows what that means. Fraternity is a force without it. Faith in the lodge's ideals insures their being taken seriously, which implies service. Fellowship requires more than a monthly assembly; it needs an attitude of trust and friendliness and help.

What every lodge tried to do is to make every member in name a member in fact. They must be brothers in deed as well as in word. Churches have splendid membership rolls but many empty pews and penny-strewn collection plates. Lodges have dozens of the same kind of names on the list, nothing more. There are far more joiners than doers.

A DUBIOUS HERITAGE

The Society of Mayflower descendants is becoming alarmed at the number of applicants for membership. In three years, 910 have claimed forbears on the Pilgrim liner and the Society is more than satisfied to call a halt with the 5,077 members. America kept a lot of ideas when she broke away from England. Awe of caste and old families, amounting in some cases almost to worship, was one. Europe and Asia make much of pedigree and family trees and families. One of the earliest fundamentals which we claim in theory even yet measures a man by what he is or has done. Yet the Mayflower must have been a whole fleet judging by the way its children have multiplied.

Rumor has it that most of those on that pioneer bark were crooks released from British jails if they would make the exploring passage. Certainly there were no celebrities on board. At any rate, records have been so laxly kept that one must be very sure of himself to claim with firm speech of the true believer, kinship with those bold spirits.

There is no question that an unbroken family line transmits something of responsibility, pride and incentive to youth. A good name is priceless. Where that pride rests upon principles of character like industry and honesty, the good name multiplies.

waxes better and the family reputation stronger with each generation. Occupation of one's forefathers is the sole point of judgment, most family trees are rooted in the sand. The American tradition insists that blacksmiths and farmers and fishermen of yore pass down a heritage of character and romance which richly endow each succeeding parent with an unfair advantage of our grandfathers and risking matters of great nobility. If we so regard our ancestors, have respect for only sterling attributes of manhood and staunch virtues of womanhood, and bank upon our family line solely as we have inherited its happier traits, then our legacy is better for us than gold. If we think only of the age of our fathers or the belief that a forefather was an early settler, we are taking men of yore pass down a heritage of character and romance which richly endow each succeeding parent with an unfair advantage of our grandfathers and risking matters of great nobility. A special election was held for the purpose of voting a $12,000 bond issue for the paving of the street of the village.

The Saline band will end the series of concerts for this season on the concert to be given Tuesday evening, September 30.

The state commissioner of agriculture has placed a quarantine on all cattle in Livingston county. In many of the herds of the county are affected with tuberculosis.

Five counties were represented at the meeting of bankers of Michigan Bankers' association, held September 24, at the City Hotel. The local clearing house committee, consisting of H. C. Blackman, O. Biebes and Frank H. Newkirk, in charge of arrangements.

John Williams, claiming to be a mining engineer but who has been in the employ of the city as a digger, was arrested on a charge, and Tuesday Justice gave him the privilege of paying a fine of $5 or five days in the five. Record.

Readers of the Leader will be interested to learn that O. S. Thompson of Pontiac, formerly of Chicago, has been elected president of the newly organized Pontiac Association of Retail Credit Men. Thompson is connected with the Pontiac and Credit Department of the Pontiac Music House, and is located at Pontiac. Leader.

There is a great deal of criticism about town regarding the cut-out and generally making all the noise they can. Unless the nuisances are abated there is a demand for an active campaign to enforce village ordinances and enact new ones. Enter.

The Pinckney Sanitarium is now ready for occupancy. Several months ago when the building was under construction it was decided whether or not to rebuild and continue the institution. It was finally decided to rebuild and today, although the Doctors Sigler have lost nearly by the fire this community is a big gainer, as the new Sanitarium is far ahead of the old one. Epoch.

Residents of Marion township hereafter will have their property padlocked nights owing to considerable petty thieving in that vicinity recently. One farmer had a car taken from his car one night as it stood in his garage. Another was minus the entire top of his car one morning, and still another farmer residing in the same neighborhood had the batteries taken from his machine some time during the night. Review.

An item published in a paper a few weeks ago to the effect that the High "crossway" or sink-hole, between here and Howell would be left unpaved this year, and the earth given a chance to settle, it was the intention at the time, but so often it is hard to tell what will be done. At any rate the crossway is all paved and will be opened soon. Unless we lose our guess, the road will settle, paving and all. Argus.

Howell—With the addition of one Detroit bootlegger made to the list Saturday night there are now under arrest and either confined in the county jail or at liberty under bonds, seventeen persons scheduled to appear in circuit court to answer violations of the State Prohibition law. These violations cover all possible offenses. Possession of liquor, transportation of liquor, sale of liquor and keeping a place where intoxicating liquors are sold or given away. Democrat.

Clinton—The paving work on Chicago street has advanced rapidly during the last few days. The strips on the north and south sides of the business block are completed, with the center strip remaining to be paved. This will be left open to traffic for the present, while the south side of the street, east from the four corners is being laid. The river bridge west of town has been moved to one side and is being used for a temporary bridge while the new one is being built. Local.

Brooklyn—Fishermen of this locality who some time ago witnessed the planting of a carload of adult small mouth bass in Vineyard and Stony lakes will be interested to know that they came from Potomac, Maryland Bay in Chippewa county. This county is now protesting to the state commission against removing any more bass from this arm of Lake Huron and may shut off further supply from this source. The bass have been caught in the nets of commercial fishermen at a cost less than that of propagation, said to be the each, and they are transported to the inland lakes to the south with little loss. "The Covered Wagon"

A Paramount Picture

A JAMES CRUZE PRODUCTION

"CORRAL! Corral! Indians!"
That was the terrible warning cry in the days of '49.
With mad haste the covered wagons scrambled into a protective circle.
Then thundering hoofs, the wild rush of yelling, painted red men. Round and round the fiery, bullet-swept circle of death—

Coming Soon—RUDOLPH VALENTINO in "MONSIEUR BEAUCAMPE" A BOOTH-TARKINGTON Story

J. Warren Kerrigan, Lois Wilson and Alan Hale in a scene from the Paramount Picture "THE COVERED WAGON"

Greatest Photoplay Ever Filmed Is James Cruze's "The Covered Wagon"

One of the greatest photoplays ever made, will be the popular ver when the motion picture public James Cruze's colossal Paramount production, "The Covered Wagon" which will be the feature at the Arcadé theatre, Ann Arbor, next Sunday. That is the prediction made not only by Mr. Cruze himself, but by those who have seen the picture and who hail it for its bigness, impressiveness and extraordinary realism. Perfect realism, a strong love scene, tremendous dramatic action, with that are utterly unlike the ordinary sort; a background of real interest to the screen, where the scene has never before been shown; all these facts, coupled with an splendid cast of virtually 3,000 men and women, certainly indicate a picture that is worthy of any director's enthusiasm. And James Cruze is enthusiastic. He has been in the picture from the start and with each day of shooting, some new conditions arise which make the picture more difficult, his enthusiasm has grown. Nor is he alone in his belief, for every person in the drama of the

- SOME BIG SCENES
Here are some of the big scenes in "The Covered Wagon":
The great wagon train leaving Westport landing.
The fording of the Kaw River by wagon train.
The attack by Indians.
The massacre of the pioneers.
The prairie fire.
Molly's wild ride and rescue by Banton.
The scene at Fort Bridger.
The parting of the train for Oregon and California.
The fight between Banton and Woodhill.
The great buffalo hunt.
The death of Woodhill.

old time western days shares his convictions.
The story with the vast sweep of the western plains for background, across which wind the "covered wagons" with their human freight, is essentially good picture material. The action is speedy and thrilling.

The plot is dramatic with the interest well sustained, and the story unfolds like a stirring panorama of an earlier day.
The theme deals with the adventures of a gallant young officer of the American army forced by a rival's enmity to clear his name of an undeserved stain, that of being a cattle thief, and to win his bride under heavy difficulties. J. Warren Kerrigan is the man, Lois Wilson, the girl, and Alan Hale, the scheming villain. This trio does the major part of the acting, and to them along with the director, goes the credit for this superb production. Others in the cast are Charles Ogle, Ernest Torrence, Tully Marshall, Guy Oliver and John Fox.
The action is exceptionally thrilling, the incidents being dramatic and impressive. These include the fording of the Kaw River by the wagon train, the Indian attack and massacre, the prairie fire, the buffalo hunt, the fierce battle between Banton and Woodhill, the parting of the trains and tragic death of Woodhill. The action is speedy and thrilling.

Strieter and sons of Chelsea.

Mrs. Florence Howlett arrived home Monday from her visit of about three months in Europe, most of which time was spent at the home of the American consul, Hon. and Mrs. C. S. Winans at Prague. Mr. and Mrs. Winans' daughter, who spent the summer at the home of her parents, returned with Mrs. Howlett, and will resume her studies in the U. of M.

One of the most vivid displays of the aurora borealis, or northern lights, ever to be seen from this neighborhood was watched on Tuesday night by a large number. Reaching from a point slightly north of west to the lights, between ten and eleven o'clock, spread throughout the northern skies to a point almost straight east. Streaks of light reached to a point almost exactly over the head. A distinct feature of which lights was the rapidity with which they changed location and effect, the streaks appearing and disappearing within the space of a few seconds.

NORTH FRANCISCO

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hauer and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cium and son Laverne of Hastings, spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Notten.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nason and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Plows of Clifton, New Jersey, have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Hammond.

Herbert Harvey and family spent Sunday at the home of Reuben Harvey of Romulus.

Henry Lehman and family spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Victor Mosket of Waterloo.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Notten entertained at Sunday dinner their children and grandchildren and Mr. Notten's only living sister, Mrs. Mary Havens. Mr. Notten and Mrs. Havens are the only survivors of the John Notten family. The gathering was a celebration of Mr. Notten's seventy-seventh birthday. He was born and has always lived on the homestead his father took up from the government in the thirties. He is hearty and works nearly every day. Nothing gives him more pleasure than the reunion of his family and he still loves to play the old snare drum. That he may live to see many more birthdays is the wish of his family.

Mrs. Erie Notten spent the weekend at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. S. Mitchell of Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Farington Taylor and son spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller.

Mrs. Mary Havens is spending this week at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Heininger.

INDEPENDENT PROGRESSIVES TO CAMPAIGN IN WASHTENAW

Either Philip LaFollette, son of the Wisconsin senator and presidential candidate, or Peter Witt of Cleveland, will be the speaker at two meetings which will open the campaign of the Independent Progressive party in Washtenaw county. The first of the meetings will be held in Ann Arbor next Monday evening, September 29, and the second in Ypsilanti on the following evening, Tuesday, September 30.

Philip LaFollette has come into national prominence since the convention in Cleveland at which his father was nominated. He has acted as secretary to Senator LaFollette and has been an active campaigner for him.

Peter Witt is famous as the man who converted Tom Johnson from the pursuit of adding to his already huge fortune, and persuaded him to devote his life and wealth to improving living conditions for the poorer people of Cleveland. When Johnson was mayor of the city, Mr. Witt was a member of his “cabinet”. Mr. Witt was prominent during the Progressive convention in Cleveland as a possible candidate for the vice presidency.

The choice of speaker and final arrangements for the meetings will be announced on posters Friday and Saturday of this week. The issues on which LaFollette bases his appeal to the farmers, working men and citizens dissatisfied with the action of the Democratic and Republican parties will be explained at these meetings. The Washtenaw county LaFollette-Wheeler committee plans to cover the county as thoroughly as possible with a series of meetings during the campaign. Mr. Fleming, chairman of the committee, requests that persons interested in arranging such a meeting in Chelsea write to him at 454 First street, Ann Arbor.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE
Whereas Mark Ball, a widower, of the Township of Dexter, County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, made and executed a certain mortgage, bearing date the 11th day of January, A. D. 1916, to James H.
Guthrie of the Township of Sylvan,
County of Washtenaw, Michigan, which was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Washtenaw, Michigan, on the 14th day of January, A. D. 1916, at 10:25 o'clock in the forenoon, in liber 133 of mortgages, on page 343.

And whereas the amount claimed to be due upon said mortgage is the sum of $1901.50, and no suit or proceedings have been instituted at law to recover the debt now remaining secured thereby, or any part thereof.

And whereas default has been made in the payment of the money secured by said mortgage, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that, by virtue of said power of sale, and in pursuance thereof, and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgage premises, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, at the south front door of the court house, at the City of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, Michigan, on the 14th

"YOU CAN DO IT BETTER WITH GAS"

FARMERS IN THREE COUNTIES WILL PAY $25,000 LESS TAX

Twenty-five thousand dollars less taxes will be paid by rural tax payers of Calhoun, Ingham and Washtenaw counties as a result of investigations which farmers of those counties made as to the relative assessed valuation of farm, village and city property.

Careful investigations were carried out in five counties and in each instance the average rate of assessment was found to be higher for farm land and buildings than for any other class of property within the county. Upon the presentation of this evidence before the equalization committees and boards of supervisors at their June meetings, equalizations were granted in all five counties, but in Kalamazoo and Monroe counties appeals have been taken to the State Tax Commission, so the final saving to the farmers of those two counties cannot be definitely announced as yet.

Farmers making these comprehensive investigations which resulted in at least partially satisfactory equalizations were all Farm Bureau members and acted through their County Farm Bureaus. Proceeding in accordance with a plan worked out by the Michigan State Farm Bureau, and with the assistance of the state organization, local workers in five counties obtained from official records on file in the offices of the Register of Deeds and County Treasurers, impartial and authentic figures regarding the average rate of assessment of various classes of property within each of the counties studied. The results show that without exception farm lands and buildings were assessed higher than village property and on a still higher level when compared with city property in the same counties.

Summing up the hundreds of real estate transactions taken at random and absolutely impartially from official records, with valuations totaling several million dollars, the results show that the average rate of assessment to the actual sale price for the various classes of property in all the counties studied, as follows: Farms 83.1 per cent, villages 73.7 per cent, cities 69.4 per cent.

Armed with the convincing facts regarding each individual county, Farm Bureau representatives went before the equalization committee and the entire board of supervisors in each of these counties, presented their findings and pleaded for an equalization. As noted above, the final result is still hanging in the balance in Kalamazoo and Monroe counties, but the equalizations granted to the other three counties, while not all that the facts in the case would have demanded, still will mean a saving of nearly $25,000 to rural taxpayers each year. This will be divided up as follows: Calhoun $11,933, Ingham $5,178, Washtenaw $7,702.

In Calhoun county the board of equalization decreased the rural assessments, in Washtenaw county city assessments were raised; in Ingham county a combination of both methods was employed. While this decrease in the assessed and equalized valuations of farm property and the increase in city valuations will not affect the local and township taxes paid by the farmers in the various townships, it will materially influence the proportion of the state and county taxes to be paid by the rural and urban districts of these counties.

It would appear that farmers of other counties might well get the facts as to how farm, village and city property is being assessed in their localities.

Active Volcanoes

Between 600 and 700 volcanoes have been counted in various parts of the world, and of these 270 are still on the active list. Vesuvius was silent for over 2,000 years before it suddenly woke up and in a few hours destroyed Pompeii. Etna is known to have been active as far back as 500 B. C. In 1183 it destroyed 15,000 people, since when at varying intervals it has been the scene of a number of disasters.

Lucky Criminals

The Braganza, one of the largest diamonds in the world, was found by three criminals, who had been sent into exile among the cannibal tribes and wild beasts in the Brazilian interior. They took the stone to a priest, who turned it over to the governor. The gem became the glory of the crown jewels of Portugal, and the king, in gratitude, pardoned the exiles.

Interesting to Scientists

When the swamp areas of northern Minnesota are drained, remains of many elephants may be brought to light. Prof. Clinton R. Stauffer of the University of Minnesota, has reported to science that recent finds indicate that huge mastodons and mammoths were once abundant in that region and survived the great ice age formerly thought to be the period in which they became extinct.

No Danger From Comets

The Naval observatory says that the mass of a comet is never large; and the material is, for the most part, exceedingly tenuous. It is probable that the earth, if struck by a comet, would witness nothing more than a meteoric shower. The explosions, if any, would be similar to those hitherto observed in the case of large meteorites.

WASHTENAW FARMERS ATTEND CORN BORER FIELD DAY

Last Monday, County Agricultural Agent Osier together with a number of farmers and others interested in agriculture, attended the Corn Borer Field Day put on by the Ohio farmers from the north western part of the state.

Approximately 500 people from north western counties in Ohio and south eastern counties of Michigan were in attendance. There were large quantities of material available to illustrate the destructiveness of this pest. Officials of the Ohio Experiment Station took particular pains to go into details relative to the seriousness of this insect. The European Corn Borer was first reported in this country in 1817 and was probably brought in through a shipment of broom corn from Italy or Hungary. It has an especially wide spread in southern New England and eastern and western New York. It has also covered extensive areas in Ontario, Canada, just north of Lake Erie. It has now been found along the entire length of the southern border of Lake Erie and as far south as central Ohio. It not only will attack corn but many other plants and has been actually found in 185 species and varieties of plants in the United States. It will attack celery, potatoes, rhubarb, dahlias and other stalk plants. In some sections it will raise two broods.

The adult of the insect is a moth which lays its eggs in the tassels of the corn as soon as warm weather begins. The borers descend through the stalk causing it to weaken and become lodged. It also is found in the shank of the ear and the cob. At the meeting last Monday, one field was inspected which had 43 per cent infection. One member of the party found a stalk which had 13 worms in it.

Where there has been considerable infection the U. S. Department of Agriculture has established a quarantine and corn is not allowed to be exported or removed from these quarantine areas. This is especially bad in the market gardening areas where the sweet corn growers depend upon an outside market. In addition to the quarantine method for preventing its spread, recommendations are made to cut the corn as low as possible and to clean up and destroy by burning all old stalks and cobs. The men reported that plowing it under five or six inches would not destroy it. In Europe where the pest is bad, parasites which feed on the worms are in sufficient quantities to keep it under control. Some of these parasites have been imported and have been liberated in the experimental fields near Bono, Ohio. They have not been able to determine the exact amount of good which they have done in these fields.

Experimental plots were examined showing the different dates of planting to the amount of infection. Earlier plantings did not seem to be infected so badly as corn which was planted late. Experimental work has been carried on by the Ohio Experiment Station in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture for one year and they do not yet have sufficient evidence to make dependable recommendations for its control.

In some sections of Monroe county it has been found quite common this year. It has also been located in Macomb, Wayne, Washtenaw and Lenawee.
