The pennies, the dimes and the quarters, you scatter around are all carefully collected by SOMEBODY, and safely deposited. Why not try the plan of making a small deposit regularly at our bank? YOU profit by the money you earn if you SAVE it. OTHERS profit if you SPEND it.

Buick Continues its Leadership

For the seventh consecutive year Buick has first choice of space at the National Automobile Shows. This signal honor is awarded annually by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce to the manufacturer-member having the largest volume of business for the preceding twelve months.

In winning and in maintaining this enviable position year after year, Buick has demonstrated conclusively that the true value of any automobile is reflected in the consistency with which the public buys it.

Since the introduction of the 1925 Buick models, public patronage has increased to an even greater degree.

A tribute to the Buick engineering skill and manufacturing ability that have provided newer and better Buick cars without departing in any way from the fundamentals of power, economy and dependability for which all Buicks have been famous.

DEATH RAYS

Edwin R. Scott of San Francisco claims to have invented a "death ray" that will kill at a mile and a half. He has offered his invention to the United States government.
Steinmetz exhibited a thunderbolt at the works of the General Electric company in Schenectady, N. Y., which would have dealt death to thousands, had they been within its path. Why not a death ray that would kill at a mile and a half, or a thousand miles, for the matter of that.

A Londoner claims the invention of a radio wave that will explode bombs thousands of miles away.

Human beings have not reached the limit of invention for wholesale slaughter, by any means. Another war between first-class powers would reveal death-dealing engines infinitely more terrible than those used in the last war. With this great advancement in the science of killing, is it not high time that the government of all civilized countries should undertake to destroy disease germs, and free the human race from the destruction wrought by them every hour of every day of the year, rather than apply enormous sums to discovering ways and means of killing other human beings?

John D. Rockefeller, it is said, has ambition to furnish enough money for scientific research to discover means to eradicate all the common diseases which now attack and destroy millions of human beings annually—and no man has ever lived with a loftier purpose than this.

COOLIDGE THE SUBSTANTIAL

When the newspaper correspondents at Washington following the weekly custom called on the President last week, one of the correspondents threw out the query, that now since the election on November 3, 1924, President Coolidge had endorsed the President in the electoral college, would it not be time for the President to take a little firmer hold on things, when it came to speaking to the Congress. Wouldn't it be time, in other words, to wield the big stick?

President Coolidge replied that he had been working like a horse to serve the American people as President. He had done his duty as he had seen it. He is "not in his ways," as they say, and at his time of life he could see no reason for any change.

It is the substantiality of President Coolidge that the American people like. He is not subject to change like a weather-vane, and may be depended upon to go about his duties as the Chief Executive of the great American Republic just as a matter of business and duty.

AN AGRICULTURAL DEFICIT

Speaking to the members of the convention of the Association of Land Grant Colleges at Washington last Thursday evening, President Coolidge told his hearers that America is rapidly approaching an agricultural deficit. He said that the time is not far distant when instead of being a great agricultural exporting nation, we shall be a great agricultural importing nation.

The President doesn't speak without mature deliberation and what he has said is enough to set the American people thinking.

All of us know that for more than a generation there has been a tendency to leave the farms and concentrate in the cities. We have grown industrially, and profits in industry and commerce have been so great that they have enticed workers from the farms to the cities.

We have neglected our farming interests. Crop raising is the poorest occupation a man can work at nowadays. Farm help has become so scarce and so expensive that the farmer is hard put to get help on the farm.

There must be something done that will change the situation or we may see America, the richest agricultural country in the world, dependent on other lands for its food supply.

Law will not help the farmer so much as plans for furnishing money to the farmers at a low rate of interest, and furnishing him with means of cooperating in the production, the gathering, the shipping and selling of his crops, so as to remove the unnecessary waste that goes to middlemen.

When we hear of call money in New York at two percent, coming out of Federal reserve banks, used for highly speculative purposes, and of farmers in the west paying eight, ten and even as high as twelve percent in some instances for money, it isn't hard to place your finger on one thing that is wrong, that is depriving the farms of the necessary capital and labor to keep up the American food supply.

A person named Rhineland, in New York, married a girl whose parents were poor, and lived in humble quarters. The New York newspapers made a great sensation of the story. When it comes to such a pass that it creates a sensation for a rich man to marry a poor girl in this country, then we are drifting far away from the purpose aimed at by our fathers in establishing our government.

STORIES RUSSIAN SYSTEM

Emma Goldman, deported from the United States in 1919 as an undesirable alien, and sent to Russia, is not at all pleased with the Soviet government. She has left Russia, and gone to England, with the idea of making her home there.

While she lived in America Emma Goldman spent her time preaching revolution and anarchy. Her speeches were inflammably red. The red theory of government to her was an ideal government.

A few years under a red regime, however, has changed the lady's opinion. She is more severe now in denouncing red Russia than she was in denouncing the American government. Language seems to fail her when she undertakes to speak her mind.

The best cure for such as have an inclination to pray for Soviet government in America, would be to send such persons to Russia and let them have a taste of what it is like. Most revolutionist doctrinaires in this country, however, are of that class of people who are "just naturally against the government." They wouldn't like a government established under their own constitution and after their own plans and specifications, once it was set up and operating.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT CHANGE

News from Germany is to the effect that the result of the German elections will make Dr. Wilhelm Marx President of the German republic, and transfer President Ebert to the place now filled by Dr. Marx.

The Ebert-Marx combination seems to be the strongest that has been formed under the new regime in Germany, and with that country rapidly on the road to recovery from her war damage and the destruction of her currency and credit, we can but hope that the combination remains intact until the German people are again a happy, prosperous people.

Whatever of enemies we may hold against the German government on account of the World War, lies against the former Kaiser and the heads of the German army who brought about the holocaust of war. The people of a country are, generally speaking, not responsible for wars.

STOCK MARKET BOOM

The New York stock market has never had such a boom as it has experienced in the past two weeks. Not only has a new record of sales been set nearly every day, but prices have gone up, making this the biggest bull market the country has ever seen, with call money dropping to, or even below two per cent.

This is all very well as far as it goes, but it is not a condition of general prosperity such as the people have a right to expect. The selling of millions of shares of stock daily, and advancing prices indicates a speculative market, and not a sound investment market. It is only an indication of what business may be.

The price of wheat, corn and cotton has steadily advanced, however, and that does mean something to the people. When the necessities of life advance, and the producer gets more for what he raises the general condition of the country may be noted as much better. The whole public shares in such benefits.

A cider case in Maryland, in which the rights of a citizen to make his fruit juices into such things as he may deem fit, resulted in a judge agreeing with the contention that a man may use the juices of his fruits as he wishes, so long as it is for his own use. It has been the argument of the Kentucky moonshiners ever since revenue was placed on whisky, that "I have a right to do whatever I please with my corn." It would seem that if a Maryland citizen has a right to do as he pleases with his fruit juices that the Kentuckian would have the same right to do as he pleases with his corn—and that would be the end of the Volstead act.

In Washington they are counting bootleggers like they used to count fingers. All of us can remember that hectic period when states boasted of so many fingers to so many inhabitants. Now Washington boasts that she has one bootlegger to every 100 inhabitants. If they are as scarce as that, where does the booze come from that we hear now and then, threatens to submerge the national capital?

It isn't the business transacted on the stock exchange that indicates prosperity or the lack of it. It is the business done in stores of the home merchants that indicate conditions of prosperity. The retail merchant is the man who contributes more than any other person to the prosperity and progress of his community. The retail store is first to reflect an improvement in the condition of the finances of the buying public.

Sir Auckland Geddes, former British Ambassador to Washington, addressing a London audience said in effect: "We have surrendered world leadership to America." That is a great concession coming from an Englishman—but a clear statement of a condition quite apparent to any intelligent observer. This important role of world leadership places on us a responsibility we have never before had. It will require great acumen, sagacity and statesmanship on the part of our leaders to carry this responsibility.

Trouble is again brewing in the Balkans—that witches cauldron out of which have come more wars and hatreds than any other on earth. Montenegro doesn't want to be a part of the new Southern Slav kingdom. It might be well for all the world to lay off the Balkans and bid them fight it out among themselves.

BREVITIES

Ypsilanti—The Republican Women's club is planning to continue the meetings through the winter, taking up an informative program that promises to be very interesting.

Pinekey-Morris Amburgey, 18, while being taken from the home at Anderson, to a Jackson hospital for treatment for diabetes, died in the automobile near Gregory-Dispatch.

Stockbridge—Fire supposed to have started from a passing train, burned over the big marsh southwest of this village Monday, destroying a large quantity of baled marsh hay for A. L. Mayer and Wirt Thompson.

Dexter—Geo. Benton left Wednesday for Ann Arbor from where he will leave Saturday morning for Harvey, Ill., to spend two weeks at the home of his son, enroute to Bradenton, Florida, to remain during the winter. Leader.

Ann Arbor—About 90 representatives from Washtenaw county took part in the meeting of the Poultry association held at Ann Arbor, Thursday night. The association decided to hold a winter poultry show starting December 15 and ending December 20.

Ann Arbor—Suit of Lucy Richards, seeking to collect damages of $5,000 she claims resulted when an automobile she was driving collided with one driven by Harry A. Fidler at Emmett and Bower streets, Ypsilanti, March 31, 1923, was begun in circuit court Friday morning. Jury was drawn and testimony taken.

Pinekey—The Pinekey fire department was called to the Frank Barton farm, two miles west of Anderson, Monday afternoon. A fire in a nearby marsh was spreading so rapidly in the high wind. Two gangs of men thrashing and putting up silos in the neighborhood turned in and by hard work headed off the blaze before it reached the Barton buildings. Dispatch.

Howell—James Murray of Tyrone township, lost 25 bushels of potatoes last Saturday night. They were taken out of a pit by parties who used an automobile in their get-away with the goods. The Howell sheriff's department is working on the case. Mr. Murray, it seems, was awakened by the noise and looked out just in time to see the car driving away. Democrat.

Fowlerville—Gerald Dunn, Charles Purdy and Mr. Elliott met with a serious accident Friday as they were driving near the Wooden farm in Iosco. They turned out to pass another auto when a tire blew out, overturning their car and seriously injuring Mr. Dunn and Mr. Purdy. Mr. Elliott escaping with slighter bruises. The auto was pretty badly damaged. Review.

South Lyon—Last week the Parged Seamless Tube Company received their rolling mills, which were made in Pennsylvania, and which are the last machinery needed before the company begins the actual manufacture of seamless tubes. During the past few months their factory has been changed from an empty building to one which is filled with real machinery, and which has been enlarged by two steel additions, one for the boilers and a large one for their annealing furnaces. Herald.

Jackson—A young man named Herbert Hart, who gave his home as Cass Lake, Minnesota, applied for lodging at police headquarters Thursday evening. The traveler was fully equipped with a knapsack and complete camping outfit, which he left in the office for safe keeping. Hart says that he has no particular destination in view, but merely is out to see the country. When he was asked if he thought this time of season was a poor one for hiking, he said that it got too cold he would head for the south, either California or Florida. News.

Ypsilanti—The board of education announces that a special election will be held Tuesday, November 25, to submit to the qualified electors the question of issuance of bonds to the amount of $175,000 for the purpose of erecting a gymnasium as the next unit of the high school plant, the purchase of the land required for the building, and the erection of an addition to the Woodruff school. Ypsilanti is the only city in this part of the state so inadequately provided with gymnasium facilities. At the present time the assembly room on the third floor of the old building serves the purpose of auditorium and gymnasium. Record.

Manchester—George Merz has been exhibiting some home grown thin shell walnuts of the English walnut type—that is, they were grown on the farm of his son-in-law in Lima township. The trees which bore the nuts grew from nuts brought from Germany and planted 14 years ago. They have been bearing the past four years, with an increased crop each year. It is thus demonstrated that nuts of this type will grow and thrive in this locality, though we have known of repeated efforts to raise the English walnut to fail. The nuts exhibited have the general appearance of those found in market everywhere. Enterprise.

Conviction Needed
"You have all done not so badly," he would say. "But you shall remember that it is not enough to have the method and the art and the power, nor even that which is touch, but you shall have also the conviction that calls the work to the wall."—Kipling.

HERE'S A REAL FOR-SURE OLD-TIMER OF A CLOCK

Frank Lemmon, Lima Center, has in his possession a clock that was purchased by his grandfather, Wm. Lemmon, from George Marsh, the maker, in 1822. Wm. Lemmon came to Michigan in 1825 and registered 160 acres of land in Section 4, now owned by Henry Heininger, John Lucht and the cement plant. This was the second registration of land in Lima township.

The clock which was purchased by this pioneer settler, has been in the Lemmon family ever since his advent into the state and has been ticking the time for over 100 years. Recently its present owner brought the clock to A. B. Winans & Son store for minor repairs the first time it ever made a trip to a jeweler, and while there the case will also be cleaned. It has a mahogany veneer case with a clear face and Roman figures, also a picture on the face of Magdalen College in Germany.

Mr. Lemmon was born in Section 4, in 1868, in a log house. All that remains of the old homestead is a black walnut door now used by Mr. Heininger on his granary, and which was used as the front door to the log cabin. It is four feet wide.

Many offers have been received for the old clock, according to Mr. Lemmon, and while many faces have looked at the time registered on its dial, it is still doing its duty as a reliable time keeper. The clock will be at the Winans store for a couple of weeks.

Many "old timers" will be interested in the following dates with reference to father and grandfather of Frank Lemmon, who were widely known throughout this territory:

Wm. Lemmon, grandfather of Frank, died in 1898 at the age of 86 years; Charles H. Lemmon, father of Frank, died in 1920 at the age of 91 years.

Here is An Extraordinary Opportunity to Buy Winter Coats

We've just received the coats selected last week in the New York market. In going to market at this time of the selling season, we buy only such items as are decidedly under priced, and we buy only of our regular sources of supply. It would be no trick at all to buy cheap coats at a low price but every garment we bought was bought of the same manufacturers that made our first fall shipments. Every coat is much less in price than earlier and styles in every instance is the latest. Only one of a kind.

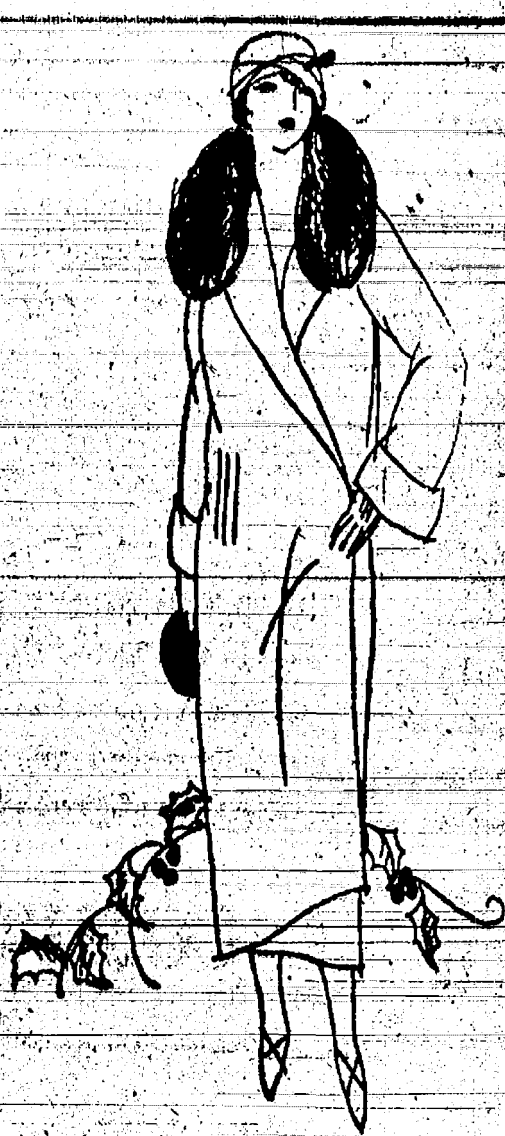

These new coats are so much less than usual that we have been forced to reduce practically every coat we had in stock to get the prices in line with these new garments.

The prices are $29.50, $39.00, $48.00 and $59. Values up to $85.00

This is one of the finest collections of coats we have ever offered at such drastic reductions.

Among the materials are the finest of the season.

Every coat is trimmed with luxurious furs.

An Important Sale of Quality Dresses

Scores of new dresses just selected in New York at reduced costs. Also lots of our latest silk dresses and wool dresses from our regular stock reduced for this sale.

We found several of our regular makers of dresses were closing out all stock on hand and we have some exceptional values to offer in these new dresses. Prices are from 14 to 1-3 off regular prices. We've added a big assortment of dresses from our regular stock at reduced prices to this lot.

About 25 navy, brown and black serge, charmeuse and twill dresses, were $20.00 to $33.00; now $5.00, $7.50 and $10.00

Umbrellas

For Christmas Gifts For Women and Men

There is as much difference in the style of an umbrella as there is in wearing apparel. We are now buying our umbrellas of the largest maker in America and these can only be selected in their sample room in New York City. Our stock of umbrellas shows distinction. They are different from the "ordinary run" of umbrellas. Some have amber or celluloid tips. Some are very short with a wide spread when opened. There are eight, ten, twelve and sixteen ribbed umbrellas. Handles are rings, loops, straps and large carved handles. Colors are black, brown, green, wine and purple. Prices $3.50, $4.00, $5.00 to $10.00. Some beautiful new umbrellas for men just received. Prices $3.50 to $5.50.

Christmas Handkerchiefs

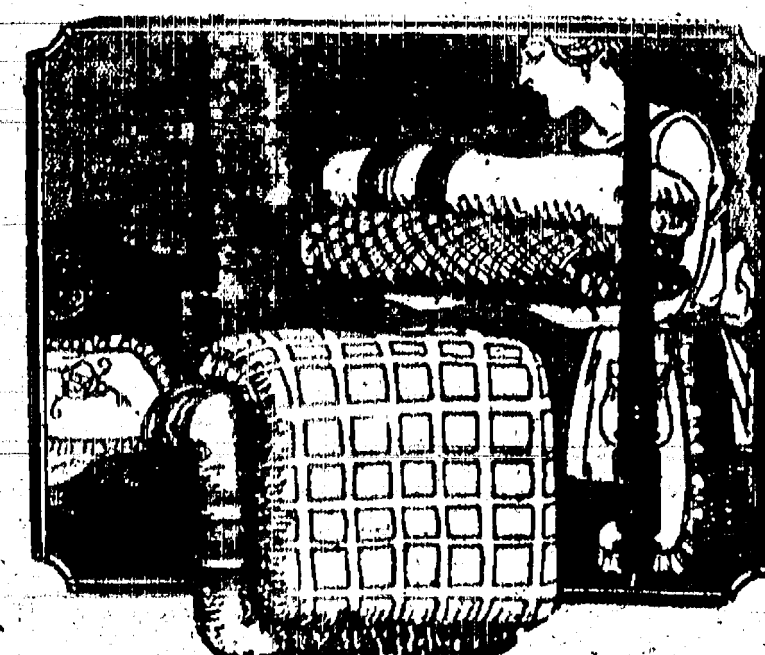

Our Christmas handkerchiefs have just arrived and were selected last week in New York from the stocks of two of the largest importers. By leaving the selection of Christmas handkerchiefs until now we were able in many instances to buy at decidedly less. There were a great many small lots being offered low to close out before Christmas and several lots that arrived in this country too late to be sold by traveling salesmen. This enables us to undersell. You can get better handkerchiefs here for any price you care to pay than you can in any city store and the styles are the newest.

Prices 10c to $1.25 each

We have some especially good values in boxed handkerchiefs, 3 in a box, for Christmas gifts, at 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 box

PUBLIC JUDGES AUTOMOBILE

BY MOTOR PERFORMANCE

Only those who have actually gone through a motor car factory realize that practically one-half the force works on the building of the motors. For after all, the regard in which a car is held by the public has really been built upon how well the motor functions under all conditions.

And how well the motor is built depends on how fine are the measurements or limits used in the building of the motor and its parts.

Though it is well known that in the building of the motors in the highest priced cars the limits to which the parts and assembly are held are so small as to be invisible to the naked eye, it is not so generally known that such practice extends to some of the lowest priced cars on the market.

In the building of all the Chevrolet motors at the gigantic factory at Flint, Michigan, limits are held as low as two ten thousandths of an inch. Practically every part manufactured receives 100 per cent inspection before it is fed into the assembly line.

Then such close assemblies are made as: piston pin fits into piston to a limit of .0002 of an inch; cam shaft, connecting rod and crankshaft bearings are held to .001 of an inch. In addition to holding to these inflexible limits, there are inspectors for practically every assembly operation, such as the crankshaft and cam shaft bearing fits and alignments; the piston pin and piston fits; the clutch alignment and the valve seating.

But the inspection does not stop here. As soon as the motor has been assembled, it is given the electric test. That is, run on an electric motor at 1,200 revolutions per minute for from two to three hours. This test is to take the stiffness out of the new motor, work in the bearings, and piston rings to insure smooth operation.

After this has been completed, the motor is disassembled, washed, and again thoroughly inspected. Then the motor is re-assembled.

Again it is put on a test and run under its own power for approximately twenty minutes as a final check-up. The valves are "adjusted," the motor is "timed," and all final adjustments made. Then the motor is put through a steam bath to remove outside grease or oil, and painted with a coat of lead paint ready to be placed on the chassis.

COPIES OF LINCOLN FILM

GIVEN GOVERNMENT WITH PROVED

Must Not Be Quoted Until 2109 A. D.—Authentic Life of Great Liberator Will Then Be Shown to Posterity.

The Rocket-Lincoln Film Company of Hollywood makes the announcement that a copy of their picture, "Abraham Lincoln," has been offered the United States Government for deposit in the Smithsonian Institution or elsewhere in Washington, D. C., with the proviso that it be kept sealed until February 12, 2109, the three hundredth anniversary of Lincoln's birth.

The film, together with a modern projecting machine, with full instructions how to operate it, will be sealed in a steel vault, specially constructed to preserve the film and machine in perfect working order, and with these will be deposited a copy of the working script of the picture and a few copies of the best books on motion picture production and practice. The idea back of this is that in the 180 years to elapse between 1828 and 2109 tremendous changes will take place in motion picture production and exhibition, and the donors of the Lincoln picture will take every precaution to insure the proper exhibition of their picture in 2109.

"HEALTHY AND HAPPY, THAT'S ME," SAYS JANE

CHRISTMAS SEALS GAVE HER A NEW LEASE ON LIFE. HOW ABOUT OTHERS?

See the mischief in her eyes? Looks healthy, doesn't she? Jane was one of 40 children who spent two months this summer at the Fresh Air Camp of the Ingham County Tuberculosis Association. She went there, listless, apathetic and underweight. Before she left, she gained fifteen pounds and her pranks were the talk of the camp. She changed physically and mentally. Her pallor gave way to a healthy tan; she learned to play. There was no wonderful medicine. A dozen such camps do as much for hundreds of boys and girls every year. Christmas Seals which cost you a penny apiece, give health and strength to possible victims of the scourge which numbers children as one-third its dead. BUY SEALS.

CHEWING TOBACCO GUARDS HEALTH, STATISTICS SHOW

A recent examination of insurance statistics reveals the important information that the practice of chewing tobacco, indulged in by millions of men in every vocation and profession, is in many ways actually very beneficial to the health.

In the first place, tobacco-chewers seem to have better teeth and less trouble with their teeth. The reason for this fact is readily understood. Germs, of course, are the greatest cause of tooth decay and tobacco juice has for many years been recognized as one of the best preventives against germs.

These very germ-preventing properties of tobacco juice, it is claimed, are as helpful to the chewer's digestion as to his teeth. This again is borne out by the statistics, which demonstrate that tobacco-chewers have stronger digestions and sounder nervous systems than any other type of tobacco users.

It is evident that the better the tobacco, the more beneficial it will be. The P. Lorillard Company, manufacturers of BEECH-NUT Chewing Tobacco, claim that BEECH-NUT is best quality chewing tobacco made. In support of their claim, they assert that BEECH-NUT is the highest selling chewing tobacco in the country, that it is the choice of one out of every four chewers—a remarkable achievement in the face of competition from several hundred brands, that in a single year over 250 million packages of BEECH-NUT have been sold, and that this popularity is the logical result of the demand for quality on the part of tobacco chewers.

CLOVER SEED SHORTAGE

IS FACED IN MICHIGAN

Michigan faces the greatest shortage of cloverseed in its history and the farmers' salvation is to grow alfalfa. The statement is based on government figures just made public which show this year's production to be the lowest on record.

Production was poor in 1923, the total in the state dropping from 240,000 bushels in 1922 to 147,000 bushels. This year the production is only 101,000 bushels or 69 per cent of last year.

The statement on the cloverseed shortage says:

"The crop report just issued shows that the total production of cloverseed in the United States this year is estimated at 817,000 bushels, as compared with 1,100,000 bushels last year and a five year average of 1,810,000 bushels. Last year approximately 24,000,000 pounds of cloverseed were imported to make up the deficiency in America but Europe has a shortage this year also and probably will have little clover for the United States.

"Red Clover seed prices already are high and are likely to go higher. Fortunately, both alfalfa and sweet clover have produced larger crops than usual this year, alfalfa being one-third larger, so farmers of the nation are urged to seed with alfalfa. It will be more economical than to practice thin seeding which is so frequently done when clover seed is scarce as now."

HENRY FORD II CARRIES

5,000,000 FEET LUMBER

Laden with more than 5,000,000 board feet of high grade lumber, the largest single shipment ever carried on the Great Lakes, the motorship Henry Ford II of the Ford Motor Company fleet, on her last trip of the season docked at the River Rouge plant Thursday forenoon, November 13, where she will tie up for the winter. While tied up she will furnish storage space for the lumber which will be unloaded as required.

The cargo, taken on at the Ford docks at L'Anse in Upper Michigan, is a product of the Ford sawmills there. In addition to the lumber carried in her hold the big freighter carried a deck load 10 feet high.

The Benson Ford, sister ship to the Henry Ford II, is scheduled to complete her last trip for the season late this month. She, too, will bring lumber to the Rouge where, like the Henry Ford II, she will furnish storage space for her cargo during the winter months.

The House They Wanted

By MYRA CURTIS LANE
(© 1934, Western Newspaper Union)

THEY couldn't get it—the Waris couldn't—that old-fashioned little house on the outskirts of the town. They had liked it at first glimpse of it—but they couldn't get it. The Cravens, rich meat dealers, got it. What business had the Cravens with the little old-fashioned house?

Craven explained to Ward one day on the train. "Just about the house. It was a hundred years old. It had one of those old-fashioned kurdens that one dreams about and hardly ever sees. And it had that atmosphere of all the previous occupants that made it what it was. It was the generations that had been there—loved it, lived in it, and passed on that gave it its unique feeling which the Cravens could never understand."

When what business had they taking it away from the Waris? The Waris were just too late. They had—these days of house scarcity—they had to take a little yellow bungalow nearly opposite the old house. A starting thing with a lot of sparse grass growing about it. Not a private hedge. Not a flower or tree. (Ward said, Mrs. Ward cried when they bought the bungalow after Craven had laughed Ward out of the little old-fashioned house.)

"It's just too dreadful for words," said little Mrs. Ward. "What the Cravens should have that dear little house watch we want so much and they can never appreciate. And we've got to have this hideous b-b-bungalow."

"Cheer up," said Ward. "Perhaps we'll die."

"Oh, I wish he would!" snapped Mrs. Ward viciously.

"Or maybe he'll get tired of the place. I can't for the life of me see why a man like Craven, who deals in meats and looks it, should want a little place like that."

"I just know they'll never get tired of it," sobbed Mrs. Ward.

Mrs. Craven on the street today and she told me she adored the little house—just to spite me. There was such a malicious look on her face when she told me."

The winter passed. Once a gleam of hope came to the Waris when Craven was reported dangerously ill with pneumonia. How they watched the doctor's car! They had really reached the stage of wanting Craven to die. But he got well. And then, when he had begun to compute again, he explained to Ward on the train:

"Queer little place, more like a working man's home than a gentleman's. Ward, but I've just been waiting for building costs to fall before pulling it down. It's going to be the best investment in this town that corner. I'm going to build a gentleman's home there."

Ward repeated this to his horrified wife. And a few weeks later cars arrived with sand and cement, workmen began the demolition. It was hideous to see the little house being pulled so tentatively to pieces. It was hideous to see the little garden smothered under heaps of sand.

But by bit, timber by timber, the old house was taken down. And in its place a glaring monstrosity of a "gentleman's house" began to arise.

At last, when it was clear that nothing could save the little house, Mrs. Ward collapsed. She was ill for days. Ward was only the shadow of her and she was only the shadow of herself when she came downstairs again.

"Dear, let's get out of here," she said.

"Sell the bungalow!"

"Yes, I shall never be happy here. Besides—I haven't told you, but—"

Ward folded her in his arms tenderly when she told him. It was a solemn and sacred moment for them.

"But wherever we go we shall take with us the memories of the house we with us can never have," said Ward.

"What was that about that little house that meant so much to us?"

"The atmosphere, the sense of the people who had lived and died there. I suppose in the beginning it was just an ordinary house. Those people had to make it what it became. Listen, dear, I've got an idea—I don't know what you'll think of it. Suppose we just stayed here and made this a bungalow like the little house—my garden, and children. Don't you think loving each other, we could?"

"I—I think we could," answered Mrs. Ward gently. "Because it is the people who make their houses, isn't it?"

Separate Ideas

Above all, endeavor to grasp the distinction between the great primary ideas and the small secondary ideas which jangle each other in the turmoil of thought.—Dean Stanley.

Double Meaning

"I know like rain today," said the milkman, as he poured the customary quart from the can to the picher. "It always does," replied the housewife, compressing her lips with cold significance. Stilling an oath, he took up his liquid burden and departed heavily.—Jack Canuck.

He Wasn't Polite

In a recent entrance examination for one question was: "Explain the difference between a strong verb and a weak verb." A small boy's answer was: "If I say shut the door it is a strong verb, but if I say please shut the door, it is a weak verb."—Lionel Post.

Caviar in Hamburg

The words "caviar" and "Hamburg" are synonymous in the New York, London and Paris markets. In the "Times" of Hamburg, caviar is one of the most expensive luxuries of European tables. But in Petersburg or Moscow it is a common dish of the workman.

French Reign of Terror

The Reign of Terror was that period of the French revolution beginning with the fall of the Girondists in June, 1793, and lasting until the overthrow of Robespierre, July 27, 1794. During this time the country was under the domination of a faction which carried on wholesale executions regardless of age, sex or position.

Panacea

Plausible Quack—"I guarantee that one dose of my wonderful mixture will immediately cure influenza and take away that spring lassitude, and—be lieve me, ladies and gentlemen, you need not waste the rest. It will clean and renovate furniture, old clothes, and restore upholstery!"

False Values of Oneself

Be very slow to believe that you are wiser than all others; it is a fatal but common error. Where one has been saved by a true estimation of another's weakness, thousands have been destroyed by a false appreciation of their own strength.—Colton.

In Lieu of Screwdriver

So often the screws in eyeglasses become loose and we have no screw-driver small enough to tighten them. A steel pen or the end of a cuticle knife will answer the purpose.

Not an Infallible Guide

Physiognomy is not a guide that has been given us by which to judge of the character of men; it may only serve us for conjecture.—La Bruyere.

Too Slow

The reason why a lot of men are bachelors is because they failed to embrace their opportunities.—Hillsboro News-Letter.

Tricks and treachery are the practice of fools that have not wit enough to be honest.—Benjamin Franklin.

SUCH MUTE APPEALS—BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

Your rather wistful faces aren't they? They were snapped at the state tuberculosis sanatorium at Howell. Averaging less than ten years old, these girls fight desperately against death from tuberculosis, the most persistent scourge known to man.

The treatment prescribed for them was rest and heliotherapy, which means exposing the body to the curative rays of the sun. Tanned they are, and happy they might be, if they did not know that they might be added to the death toll of 3,489 taken annually in Michigan for the last ten years by "The Great White Plague."

Double, triple and quadruple these wistful faces many times and you have some idea of the number of boys and girls who daily lose their youth; perhaps their lives, as a death toll to tuberculosis. Christmas Seals fight tuberculosis. Every penny is a blow against the insidious monster whose next victim may be your child. BUY SEALS.

Those having the misfortune to suffer from backache, urinary disorders, gravel, dropsical swellings, rheumatic pains, or other kidney and bladder disorders, will read with gratification this encouraging statement by a Chelsea man.

J. A. Kaercher, Insurance agent, 515 S. Madison St., says: "I was all run down when I began using Doan's Pills. At first I didn't know what was wrong with me until my kidneys began to show signs of disorder. My back had a dull pain in it and there was a sharp pain through my right side. Every time I stooped I got dizzy. I tried different remedies, but Doan's did me more good than anything I ever used. Two boxes cured me up in good shape so I am only too pleased to recommend Doan's Pills."

Shoemakers' Patron Saint

The patron saint of shoemakers is St. Crispin, who, though of noble family, became a shoemaker, and is said to have stolen leather to make shoes for the poor. He was beheaded at Soissons, France, about 287.

Thrifty Wife Sells Shoe

Shortly after a traveling man returned from a long road trip he went to his closet to get out his light summer suit and white shoes. He could find but one shoe. He asked his wife about the missing shoe, but got no information. Inquiring further, he learned from his daughter that the wife had sold one of the shoes to a well-to-do man who had called at the door. —Kansas City Star.

MICHIGAN BELL COMPANY

ANNOUNCES EXPANSION PLAN

President Franz C. Kuhn of the Michigan Bell Co. announces that his company will expend more than $85,000,000 between now and the end of 1929, for additions to Michigan's telephone plant. That program of expansion will bring the property worth of the plant with which the company serves Michigan up to more than one hundred and fifty million dollars.

President Kuhn, briefly outlining the Telephone company's plans for the next five years, indicates that additions to plants serving most of Michigan's larger cities are contemplated.

During the year 1925, alone, the Michigan Bell company will expand its plant to the extent of $16,782,000, Judge Kuhn says. It is planned to invest $7,568,000 in Detroit next year, $4,500,000 in the Southern Michigan division, of which Lansing is the company's divisional headquarters; $1,713,000 in central Michigan, with divisional headquarters at Saginaw, and $359,000 north of the Straits of Mackinac. The company's northern divisional headquarters are at Menominee. Telephone plant and service expansion and consolidation in western Michigan alone next year will cost about $2,700,000, of which $1,700,000 will be spent in the city of Grand Rapids.

There is expected to be a net gain of 162,000 telephones in Michigan the next five years, Judge Kuhn says. That will mean connecting 591,000 telephones, the difference being accounted for by disconnections. A net gain of 34,000 telephones is anticipated in 1925 alone.

Judge Kuhn, emphasizing the Telephone company's problem in this regard, stated that it is necessary to move an average of 42,000 telephones a year. Each move means a disconnection, as well as an installation. Including those concerned in the moves there will be a total number of disconnections in only four years, more than equal to the number of telephones now in service.

These enormous expenditures are proposed, President Kuhn says, because of the growth of Michigan, its cities and its industries, the increasing use of the telephone, both in local and in long distance service, and a sincere desire to aid the state in its expansion.

The Telephone company's program calls for the yearly addition of approximately nine hundred million conductor feet of wire cables throughout Michigan, about half of which will be required in rapidly growing Detroit.

The principal projects included in the Bell company's five-year program include completion of the installation of the new automatic equipment at Ann Arbor, completion of the consolidation of services at Grand Rapids and Lansing, equipping of the new automatic central office now building at Grand Rapids and additions to other central offices in that city and large additions of central office equipment at Detroit, Kalamazoo, Saginaw, Flint, Battle Creek, Wyandotte, Royal Oak, Jackson, St. Joseph and Benton Harbor and other important Michigan cities.

The telephone company's toll and long distance plant expansion plans call for the expenditure of $1,404,000 in 1926 for the provision of additional facilities for inter-city communication. Many thousands of miles of new long distance circuits will be added to the plant, a considerable mileage of the new wire to be placed in cable form.

There has been a steadily increasing growth of toll cable plant in the state, according to Judge Kuhn. The Telephone company's toll cable program indicates that, at the end of 1924, there will be 48,000 miles of Michigan toll wire in cable, or 43 percent of the company's total wire mileage. At the end of the five-year period, December, 1929, there will be 159,000 miles of toll wire in cable or 71 percent of the state's total miles of toll wire.

The large growth in toll business over main routes makes this toll cable program necessary. Placing the toll circuits in cable will result in fewer interruptions in the toll service because the sheathed circuits are less liable to get in trouble from storm or other agencies than are the open wire circuits. The toll cables, however, require greater watchfulness and efficiency on the part of the maintenance men because of the fact that a large number of circuits are concentrated inside a single cable sheath.

The big toll cable projects to be undertaken by the Telephone company will total $4,000,000 the next five years. They will include placing an additional cable underground between Detroit and Royal Oak; extension of the Detroit-Dearborn cable to Plymouth and to Ann Arbor; addition of a second cable on the Detroit-Dearborn toll line; extension of toll cable from Comoros Creek, Detroit, to Port Huron, reaching the latter city in 1928; placing a second Detroit-Birmingham cable; placing a second cable from Flint to Bay City, reaching the latter city in the middle of 1927; completion of the Detroit-Lansing cable as far as Howell, from Detroit, by the middle of 1929; placing a new Wyandotte-Trenton cable; building a cable from Niles to Benton Harbor; placing a cable from Grand Rapids to Kalamazoo; construction of cable entrances to Lansing, Ann Arbor and other points and placing a new submarine cable between St. Ignace and Mackinac Island.

The Detroit-Royal Oak cable, which lies underground, was completed in October, 1921, with the expectation that it would suffice for many years. But growth of the North-Woodward districts has been such that the cable's capacity almost has been reached. A continuance of that growth is looked for. The Telephone company, Judge Kuhn declares, wishes to be prepared to serve the expanding city and growing suburbs to their full telephone requirements and thus to aid their expansion. The present cable to Royal Oak and its extension to Birmingham contain 8,815 miles of wire.

Telephone operating and maintenance costs are expected to show a decrease during the coming five years according to Judge Kuhn. However, taxation is increasing, as evidenced by the increase from $2.19 per telephone in 1920 to $4.19 per telephone in 1923. Depreciation and interest charges will increase rather than decrease, because costs of new telephone plant per unit are higher than the average cost per unit of plant new in service. The present Michigan telephone plant was built during the past 20 years, over which period labor and material costs were lower, on the average, than present costs or the costs expected the next five years. The average capital required per telephone, therefore, is increasing.
