

Buried treasure

It is estimated that the gold, precious stones and jewelry in Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb would aggregate about $15,000,000. Think what that sum would have earned during the 3,000 years it has been buried!

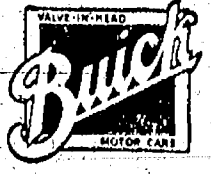

It may be worth that much now. It was worth more than that when it was hidden away, but for all this time it has done absolutely no good to anyone. It might just as well not have existed at all. Money in circulation makes business better for everybody.

Editorial

SECRETARY HUGHES QUILTS
The country was quite surprised at the resignation of Secretary of State Hughes from the cabinet of President Wilson.

Newspaper correspondents at the time that there was a possibility of such an eventuality. But there was no official confirmation from anybody in authority, until the news was given out a week ago Sunday.

Secretary Hughes went into the cabinet of President Harding, accepting the portfolio of Secretary of State, under most trying and difficult conditions.

The United States Senate had just concluded its long battle with President Wilson and his secretary. The Senate was much inclined to think that the State Department had assumed too much in dealing with foreign affairs—especially in matters in which the constitution provides that the Senate shall advise. Senators pointed to many instances where action had been taken by the State Department and the President without consulting the Senate as a whole. They were in no pleasant frame of mind.

Secretary Hughes came at a time when the President of the United States had made a treaty which the Senate utterly rejected. That created a situation of once embarrassing and difficult for the new secretary. President Wilson had but recently discharged a secretary of state, prior to the coming of Mr. Hughes, and this had thrown the State Department into confusion, so that it was no pleasant task that the new secretary found set before him.

There were loose ends following the world war. The whole world was a jumpy tangle. Old practices in diplomacy had been displaced by many new rules, and nations which had formerly acted in concert were so antagonistic that it was well nigh impossible to get their representatives into the same room, much less into an understanding.

Secretary Hughes attacked this prodigious task of getting the State Department in order, with that energy and intelligence he has applied to all his public jobs, and even his enemies concede that he has done a remarkable diplomatic task in getting the house in order for his successor, and in leaving the office when he does leave it March fourth next, with American diplomacy and stateship ranking second to none in the world.

Mr. Hughes has his critics and his enemies. But all fair-minded men must ultimately write approval upon his record of accomplishment while directing our affairs of State. His departure from the cabinet will be a distinct loss to the administration.

KANSAS GOVERNOR ARRESTED
Governor Jonathan M. Davis of Kansas was arrested last week when he turned over his office to his successor. The charge against him was that he had accepted bribes in connection with the issuance of pardons. His son, Russell Davis, was also arrested as the go-between who actually took bribe money.

Governor Davis charges that the whole affair is a frame-up to discredit him and his administration. He declares he is innocent, and that he will be cleared at a fair trial.

The American people will hope that Governor Davis may clear himself and the escheator of Kansas, which, like his own reputation, has been blemished by these charges.

It is a most regrettable occurrence when any official of the government, anywhere, is charged with a crime. It has a tendency to destroy public confidence in officials, and to bring high office into contempt.

A WOMAN IN THE CABINET
There is much gossip about Washington to the effect that Mrs. Mahel Willebrandt, who has been in charge of the enforcement of the Volstead Act, in the Department of Justice at Washington, is to be promoted to a cabinet position.

Mrs. Willebrandt has shown remarkable ability and capacity in her work.

There is a plan, perhaps vague as yet in its formation, to create another cabinet position for the enforcement of the statutes under the Eighteenth Amendment. It is pointed out that Mrs. Willebrandt would be the logical and proper person to be named as that cabinet officer. In case of that plan failing, to materialize, there are to be other cabinet vacancies, either of which, it is said, she is quite capable of filling.

With two women governors of states; with women in the American Congress—occupying high judicial positions and other important offices of honor and trust; it is quite reasonable that President Coolidge should select an able, competent woman for a cabinet position.

Benjamin R. Lacy, treasurer of the state of North Carolina for forty-five years, was ill in New York last week, after three days signing his name to fifteen thousand highway bonds of his state. This is a new cause of disease, which may not be expected to attack many of us.

WASHINGTON SCANDALS

The hearing of the divorce suit of Congressman Frank D. Scott, against his wife, at Alpena, Michigan, has attracted as much attention as a prize fight in the eastern press. The newspapers of New York City have tried to see how much luridly they could put in their headlines. Last week the New York World took the cake with this: "It's a Cocktail at Every Turn in Washington, Mrs. Scott Testifies in Divorce Trial."

New York is the American gateway. Whether it is immigrants or visitors to the distinguished citizen of a foreign country—nearly all of them enter America through the Gotham Gateway. Isn't that an enlightening head line to greet those who come here as utter strangers? Isn't that a fine impression to convey as to the character of the men who compose our government? We all do, regard Washington as our government.

Because one Congressman's wife is supposed to tell a lurid tale, which she has believed to be a scandal, should we have this shame and dishonor spread on the whole of our government—on all of our senators and congressmen, judges in the courts, and men connected with the executive offices?

There is no doubt that there is drinking in Washington. Most of us believe there is too much of it. Conditions may be worse than we really know—but on the whole Congressmen and Senators are representatives of the people "back home," and they are mostly of entirely men of integrity, high honor, good morals and clear records. Why should all be smeared because of a quarrel one congressman has with his wife? Isn't the metropolitan press of the East too prone to strive for lurid headlines at the expense of the dignity and honor of our country, and without warrant or justification?

GOVERNOR FOR A DAY

Hiram Bingham, once Yale professor, was elected governor of Connecticut last November, and in December was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Brandegee in the senate, took the oath of office as governor on January 7th, delivered his inaugural address, then resigned in favor of the lieutenant-governor.

This is the shortest term served by any man as the governor of any state. It is claimed Governor Bingham's inaugural address was the longest on record in Connecticut. It dealt chiefly with the necessity for strict enforcement of all laws, and in urging an increase in the charge for license for heavy motor trucks.

It is now Senator Bingham, and goes to Washington with a determination, it is said, to use the power of his vote and his influence to secure further legislation for the purpose of enforcing the prohibitory laws of the United States.

With a career in politics that is short but meteoric, with a reputation for breaking records and precedents, it is quite likely that Senator Bingham will be heard from in the Senate.

The death of Mrs. Edward LaCoo at Crown Point, N. Y., last week, moved the last of what has been known for a decade as "the oldest living couple in America." Edward LaCoo died recently at the ripe old age of 107. His widow, who followed him, last week, was 97. This couple is reputed to have observed their seventy-fifth anniversary before the death of Mr. LaCoo. This is a record of conjugal longevity, rarely if ever equaled in this country.

Mrs. Helena Normanton of England, the first woman ever admitted to the English Bar to practice law is visiting this country. She says America will have a woman president before 1950. Seven presidential elections will be held before 1950. Women have had the ballot in the nation in only two presidential elections, and already there are two women governors of states. Why does Mrs. Normanton set so far a date for a woman president?

Reports from Rumania are that American and Russian oil companies are competitors for Rumanian oil. The competition instead of raising the price has lowered it to $1.25 a barrel. Such competition seems to be on par with the competition we created in this country when our government cut the Standard Oil Company up into several companies. The price of crude oil went down, and the price of gasoline went steadily up.

New Lamp Burns 94% Air

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pump or up; is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent air and 6 per cent common kerosene (local oil).

The inventor, L. R. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

Power of Sea Tides Harnessed to Yield Electric Current

Dreams of engineers to harness the sea are approaching probable realization in the construction of the first big hydro-electric plant to be operated by the rise and fall of the tides at West Mersea, Essex, England. The unit is so arranged that at high tide, a tidal basin is filled and drives turbines as the water flows out during low tides. This furnishes power and also pumps water into an upper basin for use at high tide so that the operation of the generators is practically continuous. The first section of the plant will produce over 4,000,000 kilowatt-hours of current a year and the completed works will have a capacity nearly four times as great.

Scale under Freight-Car Wheels Gives Weight of Shipment

Eliminating the time and expense required in hauling freight cars to a rail bridge scale, a portable weighing outfit has been devised for checking overweighted and shortaged. The weight is registered automatically on a sheet of paper on the dial. The total weight is determined

Coaster Chair Steered with Feet Is Safe and Easily Carried

Said to be more easily operated and safer than an ordinary sled, a coaster on which the rider sits upright and which he steers wholly with his feet has been devised. It is strongly constructed of hardwood, shod with steel and braced with iron. The usual style has only one runner but two are furnished in those made for smaller children.

Thawing Water Pipes

After several fruitless attempts had been made to thaw out a frozen water pipe by pouring hot water on it, the use of lime was found very effective. The water pipe extended through the floor and into the ground, and there was a space around the pipe to a depth of about 5 ft. About a peck of lime was thrown into this space. After a small pailful of water was added the heat created by the lime was so great that the water in the pipe ran freely some minutes later.

Artificial Teeth Made of Steel

Teeth made from enameled steel have been added to the product of the Krupp plants at Essen. The metal is from the same mixture formerly used in making German cannon. Eight dentists have been employed in the department at the start, and Krupp hope to expand it later.

Stretching Poultry Wire

Stretching poultry wire on frames is a difficult task if attempted with the fingers. The tool shown in the illustration, which can be made in a few moments, will save much time and work and prevent sore fingers. A 3-in. length of 1 by 2-in. board, a piece of No. 9 iron wire and two small staples are the only materials required. Form a hook on each end of the wire and then bend the wire around the 3-in. side of the board, about 4 in. from the end, tacking it in place with the staples. After the wire is tacked to one side of the frame, the stretcher is used to pull it tight. This is done by catching the hooks in the selvage of the wire, and, resting the short end of the board against the outside of the frame, pulling back on the long end.

South Lyon Slot-Machines in Oakland County Will Not Be Tolerated

According to a statement made the other morning by the new sheriff, Frank Schram, two men of Springfield township were arranged in court that morning and fined $10 each on charges of operating gaming devices. Several machines have been picked up throughout the county. Some of these machines are mint-vending machines and offer a purchase for the money involved. Others do not pretend to give any merchandise for the money which is put into them, and these according to Sheriff Schram are strictly gambling devices. County officers will continue their work, he said, until all machines have been removed from the county and their owners taken into court.—Herald.

Scotch Cow Evidently Had Fondness for Fish

The real heroine of this adventure was a cow. A big angler could cast a fly and had caught trout in the south of England, but had never so much as seen a salmon river. Great was his joy therefore, when one day he received an invitation to fish one of the most famous spring salmon rivers in the north of Scotland, says the Field. In the very first cast that he tried he hooked and landed his first salmon—a ten-pounder.

The first salmon is always the most perfect and beautiful that ever was seen and the angler reflected that if he carried his fish in the bag all day it would dry and lose its lovely sheen. On the top of the bag there was a mariny nook that would answer his purpose admirably. He deposited his treasure in this nest and, having covered it with a thick layer of rushes, went on his way.

The rest of the day he caught nothing except a half-pound trout. Still he was very happy and content as he turned homeward and whistled merrily as he approached the marshy nook. But there he found a highland cow in the act of consuming his salmon, of which little remained except the head and the tail. In his anger he flung the trout savagely at the cow, hitting her full in the face, but, so far from taking offense, she seemed rather to think that he had brought her a bonne bouche where-with to complete the feast, for, after gazing at him for a moment with the innocent, confiding eyes of her kind, she contentedly swallowed the trout.

Rules of Politeness Were Not for Tennyson

Tennyson gained a reputation in his later years for rudeness. It was due perhaps to his dislike of intrusions upon his solitude. When the mood was upon him he was apt to disregard entirely the conventionalities, says the Kansas City Star.

A neighbor of the poet laureate once asked if he might bring to Aldworth a woman who was visiting in his home. She was well known in society. It was carefully explained to Tennyson that the woman had a great admiration for the poet's works and desired very much to see him. Tennyson assented quite readily, telling the neighbor to bring her to luncheon and named the day. When the day arrived the poet had forgotten all about it, and as it chanced, was in one of his solitary moods.

The woman was introduced; Tennyson bowed. Luncheon was announced and they went in. She sat next her host, who throughout the meal did not utter a word. At the end of it he retired in silence to his own room and the woman left the house to which she had made her pilgrimage in hope and reverence, not having heard so much as the sound of the poet's voice.

Cockney's Absent "H"

In Latin and the languages, such as French, derived from it, the "h" is not pronounced, its omission being due to the slightly different throat formation in different races. For centuries after the Norman conquest Latin and Norman French were the official tongues of England, and the aspirate, therefore, was never sounded. With the gradual rise of English as a national language, the "h" came into fashion, though even today, one may hear a clergyman who clings to the ancient tradition and speaks with conservative correctness of an "umbrile man," to the main, however, the dropping of the "h" was left to the less-educated classes, particularly those in London, which, as the court and official center, had of course been more affected by the French non-aspiration than the more truly English north country.

Gave Tint to Water

Opposite Buckingham palace is to be found the Victoria memorial. This beautiful piece of workmanship is particularly remarkable for the elegant, delicate green of the water in its marble basins. The secret of its coloring and transparency was revealed recently when two workmen were observed solemnly drawing a large sack to and fro through the water. They explained to an interested onlooker that the sack was filled with a certain substance which, while preventing the growth of weeds, gave the water its delicate apple-green tint.—London Times.

Oldest Form of Writing

The Egyptian system of writing is perhaps the oldest of the known scripts. This writing was in the form of pictures. The most ancient Egyptian papyrus now known contains accounts of the reign of King Assa (3580-3530 B. C.). The earliest literary papyrus is that known for the name of its former owner as the Papyrus Papyrus, now preserved in Paris. It contains a work composed in the reign of a king of the fifth dynasty and is computed to have been written as early as 2500 B. C.

Caddy's Limitations

One day "Ferry" was caddy for a rather petulant golfer, who, after missing a short putt on the ninth green at Muirfield, threw his putter into the neighboring potato field to relieve his feelings. With face unmoved, "Ferry" was walking in the direction of the next tee when the golfer said: "Oh! 'Ferry,' you might go and get my putter."

To this "Ferry" replied: "I'm paid to carry, no to fetch and carry."

YOUNA-BALDI COMPANY COMING FRIDAY EVENING

Joseph Baldi, of the Youna-Baldi Company, which will appear here Friday evening, January 23, 1925, on the Lyceum course at the town hall, is one of the most popular piano-accordionists in America today. With Youna, who has become well known for his mastery of Japanese jugglery, an intensely interesting program is given—one which is a distinct novelty and a great favorite with audiences everywhere.

Years ago, Youna, a small American boy living in Tokio, was attracted to the spectacular performance of the Japanese jugglers. Today he is almost without a peer in "Japanese acrobatic jugglery," even among native performers. He has traveled extensively in all parts of the world, and for five years was featured as the American Orientalist with Otsu Skinner in "Kismet."

Joseph Baldi is a native of Calcasieu, in northern Italy, near the French border. The piano-accordion which he plays is out of the most beautiful instruments of the kind in use today. It is pure white, trimmed in silver, and has 120 bass keys and 43 treble keys.

Mr. Baldi is a marked favorite with Lyceum audiences. During his tour of Redpath-Chautauque circuits he has been always enthusiastically received.

In his programs he uses both classical and popular numbers, interpreting them with skill and artistry upon his melodious instrument. The accordion was manufactured in Vienna about 1829 and soon became popular throughout Europe. It was a very simple affair, however, compared with the instrument used by Joseph Baldi. In recent years the accordion has become one of the most complicated of musical instruments.

Man's Place in Nature

We are members of one great body. Nature planted in us a mutual love, and fitted us for a social life. We must consider that we were born for the good of the whole.—Saneen.

Credit Given to Monks

Hubert's "History of Art" says that the Gothic style was introduced into Italy by Cistercian monks from Burgundy.

Originally "Jaws Harp"

The name, Jaws Harp, is probably a corruption of the original name of this simple musical instrument, jaws harp, so called because when in use it is held between the jaws. A musician named Charles Solenstein produced remarkable effects with Jaws' harp at the Royal Institute, London, on February 15, 1924.

Bird Hunts Snakes

The fancied resemblance of the long feathers of his crest to a quill pen thrust behind his ear suggested the name "secretary" bird. This bird's habits, says Nature Magazine, are far from literary, as its business in life is hunting snakes and similar animals. It is an African and is one of the largest birds of prey.

Early Santa Claus

Kris Kringle, originally meant Christ child—Kris from the German diminutive Krischen, Christkindel. It is common today now as Santa Claus.

YOUNG DUCKLINGS EARLY

at Home in the Water

The woodcock, unlike most other ducks, usually builds his nest far from his natural element, water, writes Ellis Gilmore MacLeod in St. Nicholas. But no sooner are the eggs hatched and the ducklings about the size of bumblebees, than each parent bird takes a little one in its bill, wriggles through the opening in the chestnut tree or white oak which harbors the nest, and with a quick glance lest some enemy may lurk near-by, swiftly, overland to creek or water hole. Here the tiny burdens are dropped gently into the water.

Without previous swimming lessons, these newly hatched ones dart over the surface of the water for the cover of marsh grass or tiny pines where they hide until the return of their parents with more of their brothers and sisters.

The flight of the old ducks continues back and forth from the home nest to the water until the family of from 12 to 18 are assembled, when, at a soft call-note from the parents, every little paddler darts from cover and starts chasing water spiders, as if that were an old game.

His Way Out of Dilemma

The commanding officer looked down the charge sheet to see what type of case he had to deal with that morning.

Suddenly he started. "Mutiny!" he muttered. "Private King charged with mutiny!" Then aloud: "Where is the corporal who made this arrest?"

"Here, sir," answered a corporal, stepping forward.

"Do you charge Private King with mutiny?" was the stern inquiry.

"I do, sir," was the reply.

"On what grounds?"

"The corporal hesitated for a moment. Then:

"Well, sir," he said, confidentially, "it was really insubordination, but I didn't know how to spell that, so I put 'mutiny.'"

HEAT KILLS GERMS

Radiant (or visible) heat was emphasized by Prof. Leonard Hill at a recent meeting of the London Zoological society—as "most useful in helping caged animals to fight against infection" from tuberculosis.

How water pipes, he pointed out, though an economical way of raising temperature in the animal houses, do not provide all the benefits of radiant heat such as we know have in the form of sunlight and, in another form, in the domestic coal fire. In fact, central heating—excellent in its place—is not healthy heating, as the prevalence of tuberculosis in steam-heating countries such as Sweden, Russia and the United States goes far to prove.

PAUSED OVER BONANZA

Although any 40er who made good in the gold rush to California in 1849 had no bone to pick with his fate, it is a comment that many of them and their brothers who were not so successful walked right over a rich bonanza in the southern part of Mexico, along the isthmus of Panama, over which many of them trekked. Along the river of the Whirling Snake many 40ers walked on their way to the Pacific coast, little knowing that later prospectors would find a rich field of oil beneath their feet.

Food Depends on Monsoons

In India, the greater part of the Bombay presidency, including Sind, depends for its food supply upon the southwest monsoons that happily invade that part of the country at regular intervals. In years of defective or irregular monsoons these areas are liable to the dreaded recurrence of the "famine" when the shortage of food supply is felt by animals as well as human beings.

WHAT IS IT?

It is worse than a low down cur, for no cur would be so low and contemptible as to poison one of their own kind.

The one who is promiscuously broadcasting poison for their fellow citizens' dogs and cats is only a beast in a man's disguise.

It is a high fence that has no top board and you only started something for us to finish when you poisoned our dog along with that of the Schwickerath boys.

The suffering that you inflict on these dumb helpless animals would be but a small punishment for you.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Schatz.

Early "Rubber Stamps"

Rubber stamps were first used for signature facsimile during the Civil war, around 1860. Prior to that time impressions were made in engraving. Wood cuts were made, and then the rubber stamp, similar to the rubber used on our typewriters, were used, and the name stamped through them.

Easy Way to Break Severest Cough

No matter how long you have had persistent, weakening cough—no matter how many remedies you have tried without success—you can usually get relief in 24 hours, by a very simple method. The method is based on a scientific prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take one teaspoonful of this cough medicine four or five times a day before meals, and the cough will be gone. The prescription is a combination of the most powerful cough remedies, and it not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The prompt relief seems almost magical, and the ease with which the whole cough condition disappears is often simply amazing. There is nothing better for coughs, chest colds, bronchitis, pneumonia, hoarseness, and all other throat irritations. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. ### Is Prosperity Ahead?

A COMMUNITY is as good or as bad as its gas service. The two things go hand in hand. If the community is prosperous, the gas company will be prosperous likewise. Or the contrary may be true.

Watch what takes place in 1925. If business expands and conditions are generally prosperous, you will be able to read the real story in the records of this company.

When the makers and users of gas service are on friendly terms, both benefit from prosperous times. Where there is lack of co-operation between them, both parties suffer.

All signs point to a prosperous 1925. We are equal to the tasks ahead, and can meet increased demands, but we must have the co-operation of our customers. To try to do the job alone would be to court disaster.

Bag Ornaments Irish Asset

One of the industries of Ireland has long been the manufacture of bog oak ornaments. Before the period of upheaval in Ireland the export of these goods from the Emerald Isle through the port of Dublin equaled a value of $100,000 a year. The trade originated in the reign of George IV, 1804, after his visit to Ireland in 1811, London Tit-Bits says. At first all the ornaments were hand carved and polished, but machinery was used with the increased demand. Yew, fir and birch, as well as oak, are woods used by the makers of the ornaments. The one necessity is that the logs shall have been long buried in the bogs.

Wedding Season in India

Customs in India bring annually a wedding season, marriages being practically unknown at other seasons. The wedding bells there ring from summer to late autumn, and the bride wears gold and silver trinkets and decorations, no man being so poor as to contemplate marriage without making the silver and gold presents. The metal must be imported from other countries, and this year there has been sent from New York to London for India more than $2,000,000 each of gold and silver.—Ohio State Journal.

Plant Relations

If we throw a simple glance on plants, we shall perceive that they have relations to the elements which promote their growth, that they have relations to each other, from the groups which they contribute to form; that they have relations to the animals which derive nourishment from them; and, finally, to man, who is the center of all the works of creation. To these relations I give the name of harmonies.—Bernardin de Saint-Pierre.

Famous Greek Statue

DECEMBER REPORT OF COW TESTING ASSOCIATION

The Chesapeake-Manchester Cow Testing Association, Grant Crowell, tester, successfully completed eight months' association work December 24, 1924. Just how profitable the association has been to its members has depended upon several more or less local factors. For instance the quality of the cows, feeds available and the willingness of the owners to help themselves. The report of the association for the month ending December 24, 1924, shows 177 cows tested. 45 cows were dry, 13 cows produced between 40 and 50 pounds fat, and 8 cows produced over 50 pounds fat; 15 cows produced between 1000 and 1250 pounds milk and 8 cows produced over 1250 pounds milk.

The owner of herd having highest butter fat average was George Hatley, whose herd averaged 78.8 pounds milk and 37.7 pounds fat. The owner of two cows having highest butter fat production was George Hatley, a Holstein producing 1890 pounds milk and 62.5 pounds fat and a Jersey producing 933 pounds milk and 62.5 fat. The average production per cow in the association was 654.7 pounds milk and 25.5 pounds fat. Owners of high cows under 3 years, A. M. Bosworth, pure bred Guernsey, milk 949, per cent fat 5.8; pounds fat 85; Henry Everett, pure bred Holstein, milk 1069, per cent fat 4.8, pounds fat 51.3. Cows under 4 years, Geo. Hatley, grade Jersey, milk 933, per cent fat 3.7, pounds fat 62.5. Clyde Gieske, Holstein, milk 1342, per cent fat 3.7, pounds fat 49.6. Cows under 5 years, Henry Everett, pure bred Holstein, milk 1349, per cent fat 4.2, pounds fat 56.1. O. W. Kalmbach, Durham, milk 1311, per cent fat 3.0, pounds fat 39.8. Cows 5 years and over, George Hatley, Holstein, milk 1389, per cent fat 4.5, pounds fat 62.5. L. F. Slutz, pure bred Holstein, milk 1572, per cent fat 3.2, pounds fat 50.3. Milk class, L. F. Slutz and George Hatley, Frank Stewart topped the association, with 40 pound herd average for December. He recently purchased his pure bred Guernsey herd from Dr. Baker of Redford, Michigan. George Hatley, another new member, claimed sixth place in ten among high cows the past month.

Two pure bred bulls were purchased during the month, an Ayrshire by D. A. Fraser and a Guernsey by John Eger. The following are a few statistics regarding the eight months' work: A. M. Bosworth, 234 pound herd average, the best in association for 8 months. George Steele, 200 pound herd average, most of his cows nearly dry and no ensilage. R. B. Walcott, owns high cow for 8 months, a pure bred Holstein producing 1199 pounds milk, containing 405 butter fat. One of A. M. Bosworth's Guernseys, holding second place, closely followed by a Jersey owned by Fred Notten. At the beginning of the association work 2 members were keeping daily milk records, today 12 members are doing this very important part of the work.

Safe Makers Only One Jump Ahead of Thieves

Recent defensive experiments and inventions might tend us to forecast an end to burglarizing. But to bring this forecast to pass is not so easy, as some of the Scientific American, what concerns safe makers immediately is the possibility of devising some metal or other substance capable of resisting the devastating onslaught of the various types of the acetylene torch. A high temperature device which will eat its fiery way through metal defenses once thought absolutely impregnable. The contest between the safe cracker and the safe maker is fast resolving itself into the old problem of the irresistible force and the immovable body—with the odds in favor of the safe cracker.

Since the beginning of safe-making the inventors have had two sets of men to deal with—the burglars who use the drill and those who use explosives. Each new improvement of safes has been met, on the part of the burglar, with equal success in attacking it.

Marvelous Natural Bridge

The Rainbow natural bridge is located within the Navajo Indian reservation near the southern boundary of Utah, and spans a canyon and a small stream which drains the northwestern slope of the Navajo mountains. This bridge is unique in that it is not only a symmetrical arch below but presents also a curved surface above, thus roughly suggesting a rainbow. Its height above the surface of the water is 300 feet, and its span is 278 feet. The bridge and its neighboring canyon walls are gorgeously clothed in mottled red and yellow. The Indian story concerning its origin is that a rainbow was usual to stone, thus resulting certain herds to escape flood waters in the canyon. Devout Indians will not pass under this bridge without saying their prayers. The Indian name was Nageeld None-wash—"The rainbow turned to stone."

Black Maria

Everybody knows that prison vans are called "Black Maria." The reason for that appellation is given in the following terms in the Star of November 28, 1874, in the form of a letter from a correspondent: "About 1835 or 1840 there resided in New York city a lady of African descent and benevolent habits bearing the classical name of 'Maria.' Her days of last week at the home of came to pass that whenever she indulged she was always nabbed by the police. They invariably had to put her in a wagon to take her to the station house. This thing occurring so often, the vehicle was called 'Black Maria' carriage. Therefore, the van used to convey prisoners came to be called the 'Black Maria.'—Washington Star.

PUZZLE SECTION OF THE STANDARD

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS WORD PUZZLE
When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definitions listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "Horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white squares up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "Vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

YOUR INCOME TAX
No. 2

The exemptions under the revenue act of 1924 are $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for married persons living together, and heads of families. In addition a $400 credit is allowed for each person dependent upon and receiving his chief support from the taxpayer, if such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective.

The normal tax rate under the revenue act of 1924 is 2 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the personal exemptions, credit for dependents, etc., 4 per cent on the next $4,000 and 6 per cent on the balance. Under the preceding act the normal tax rate was 4 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income above the exemptions and credits and 8 per cent on the remaining net income.

The revenue act of 1924 contains a special provision for reduced taxes which did not appear in previous laws. All net income up to $5,000 is considered "earned income." On this amount the taxpayer is entitled to a credit of 25 per cent of the amount of the tax.

For example, a taxpayer, single and without dependents, may have received in 1924 a salary of $2,000 and from a real estate transaction a profit of $3,000. His total net income was $5,000. Without the benefit of the 25 per cent reduction his tax would be $80. His actual tax is $60. From his net income of $5,000 he is allowed a personal exemption of $1,000; the tax of 2 per cent on the first $4,000 is $80, one-fourth of which, or $20, may be deducted.

For the purpose of computing this credit, in no case is the earned net income considered to be in excess of $10,000. A taxpayer may have received for the year 1924 a net income from salary of $20,000, but the 25 per cent credit can be applied to only one-half of this amount.

"Oh, Alice!" Virginia exclaimed, "have you heard about Gladys?"
"What about her?" Alice demanded.
"Well, she and Dick Rodney are going to be married in June!"
"You don't say! Well, I always knew Dick thought a lot of Gladys, but I never did think she would agree to marry him."
"And Alice," Virginia continued, "the engagement is a secret just now. I promised Gladys I wouldn't tell a living soul, so don't you breathe a word of it to anyone."
"Why, Virginia," Alice replied, "you know I wouldn't any more think of telling it than you would!"

Salesmen may be gracious and cheerful and yet lack knowledge of the goods they are expected to sell. This is a sad fault and a handicap to good salesmanship. A story is told of a genial storekeeper in central Ohio whose education in selling was of the kindergarten variety. A customer came in and asked for a little cheese-cloth.
The storekeeper disappeared, but came back tugging a large specimen of a New York cheese. "Here's the cheese," he said, "but I'll be ding-husted if I know how I'm goin' to get the cloth often it!"

Limburger Cheese
The unpleasant odor of Limburger cheese is due to specific fermentations induced during ripening. This cheese is made from sweet milk, the curd being formed into cakes about five inches square and two inches thick and not pressed. The main cause of the putrid fermentation is the extremely moist condition in which it is kept.
