KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET MONDAY

Ladies Attendance of Fraternity Members and Ladies Most Interesting Program at Methodist Church.

Celebrating the sixty-first anniversary of their organization in Chelsea, Knights of Pythias of Chelsea Lodge, No. 194, and their wives, approximately one hundred and sixty strong, gathered in the Methodist church basement on Monday evening and banqueted in honor of the event.

Following a sumptuous supper served by the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church, those in attendance listened to one of the best programs ever staged at a banquet affair when local talent and an out-of-town speaker held their audience during an hour and a half of interesting features. Presided over by Rev. C. S. Risley, pastor of the Methodist church, as toastmaster, the program included toasts by local Knights, Frank Stozom, who chose for his subject, "Cyclone," and kept his audience convulsed in laughter during his talk. Rev. Sutherland, on "After Dinner Mints," he likewise leading his auditors through the land of laughs; and "Mushrooms," by H. D. Witherell, who characteristically entertained with wit and humor.

Attorney Frank DeVine, of Ann Arbor, furnished the meat of the program when he delivered an address on "Fraternity," in which his subject was handled from different angles, always hinging on the essentials of brotherhood through organized channels of fraternal bodies. His address was thoroughly enjoyed by the Knights and their ladies.

Vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. Milton Baxter, accompanied by Miss Nina Belle Wurster, and George Atkinson, accompanied by Miss Lucia Cox, while instrumental music during the banquet and for the after-dance at Macabee hall was furnished by Taylor's orchestra.

One of the unique features of the program was the presentation of a fountain pen to John Frymuth, financial secretary, by Will E. Hampton, of Ann Arbor, Grand Keeper of Records and Seals of the order. Mr. Frymuth ranks third in the state in the list of K. of P. organizations having the most perfect financial record during the past year. Mr. Hampton elaborated during the presentation with a fine tribute to Mr. Frymuth's record in the local lodge.

FELLOWSHIP CLUB WILL ENTERTAIN TUESDAY NIGHT

The Fellowship club of the Methodist church will entertain at a Ladies' Night affair in the basement of the church on Tuesday night with a program of music and other features. A scrub lunch will be served by the men and this will be followed by a debate on the question: Resolved, That an education is necessary to a successful career.

Three ladies will take the affirmative and three men will argue the negative of this question, which is drawn to the attention of folks every day in current magazines in which lives of successful men are sketched. Committees have been named as follows:

Men—Henry Masbach, W. Harper, E. Steiner, John Faber and Mr. Westcott.

PETER MCNANEY DIED FRIDAY MORNING IN JACKSON

Peter McNaney, 76, was found dead in his room at the Stag hotel, corner of Liberty and Milwaukee streets, Jackson, Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Coroner John Pulling was called and, after making an investigation, decided an inquest was not necessary. Mrs. Lawrence Turner, proprietress of the hotel, told the coroner that McNaney had been a roomer in the place since January 6 and that so far as she knew had no relatives. No papers, letters or notes were found in the room or among the man's effects to indicate who his relatives might be. His death was caused by apoplexy, according to the report of the physician who was called to the hotel.

Mr. McNaney had been a resident of this vicinity for many years. During the past year he had made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Aichele and left here about the first of the present year.

The surviving relatives are Mrs. Kate McNaney, widow of his brother, Patrick McNaney, of Manchester, two nephews in Detroit and a niece in Dearborn. The remains were brought to Staffan's parlors, Friday afternoon and the funeral services were held in St. Mary's church Monday morning. Rev. Father Fallon celebrating the mass. Burial in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Chelsea.

NORTH SYLVAN GRANGE

North Sylvan Grange will meet in the basement of the Methodist church on Friday evening of this week. Scrub lunch supper will be served at 7 o'clock after which degree work will be conferred on several candidates.

The social program follows: Song by Grange. Roll call—Miscellaneous. Reading—Mrs. E. J. Weinberg. Report of the Extension Work given by Mrs. N. W. Laird.

HIGH SCHOOL WILL STAGE OPERETTA, "THE WILD ROSE"

Under the direction of Mrs. C. F. Etzler, musical instructor in the local schools, the high school will stage an operetta, "The Wild Rose," at the town hall on Friday evening, March 6. Rehearsals have been under way for some time and with the finishing touches necessary to perfect the entertainment Mrs. Etzler expects to give to the public a fair sample of the work accomplished in the vocal department during the year.

About twenty-five students appear in the operetta which is built around a pretty little story that touches both the humorous and serious sides of life and ends in a "happy after" finale leaving a pleasant memory of the evening's entertainment. It is expected that a heavy advance sale of tickets will be experienced, tickets already being on sale, and that a large crowd will greet the students in their efforts.

PAID LARGEST AMOUNT OF ALIMONY LAST YEAR

It costs men and women of Washtenaw county at least $23,054.30 a year to obtain decrees of divorce. This amount, which does not include attorney's fees and expenses of litigation, represents the alimony paid by divorced husbands from February 1, 1924, to February 1, 1925.

The smallest amount of alimony paid, according to records at the county clerk's office, is $2 a week, and the largest sum is $250 a month. During the period from February 1, 1924 to February 1 of this year, 213 cases of divorce were started, divorce records in the clerk's office show. Of this number 19 were dismissed, decrees were granted in 76 cases and 118 still are pending.

The figure $23,054.30 is not merely the amount of alimony paid by husbands divorced during the year mentioned above. Many of those contributing to this fund were divorced years ago, but as it aptly has been remarked in court, "the alimony goes on forever."

POULTRY PEST HERE

The European pest, a much dreaded poultry disease, has been found to have infected Michigan poultry. Its first known appearance was in the Detroit poultry market. The disease seems to spread very rapidly and to be fatal in about forty hours. It first effects the eyes of the chicken, later the wattles. The eyes lose their brightness and begin to close and the wattles become swollen. Internally there is evidence of hemorrhage. Poultry raisers are warned against permitting any person to bring poultry into their yard or in any close proximity to their fowls. The crates, according to Michigan Agricultural College authorities are the best possible cause of the disease.

VILLAGE WILL VOTE ON TWO COMPLETE TICKETS

W. R. Daniels Nominated by Independent, While John L. Fletcher Heads People's Ticket.

Final decision on the part of W. R. Daniels to allow his name to be placed on the Independent ticket for village president, places two full tickets in the field for the village election which will be held 9th of March. John L. Fletcher, vice president of the Kamp Commercial & Savings Bank heads the People's ticket with an able selection of candidates backing him up. That the contest, while decidedly friendly, one will reach the point of acute interest, was the prediction of local political fans who have been scanning the nominations during the past week.

Indecision of President Daniels to make the run for a third term and hesitation on the part of Mr. Fletcher held up publication of the tickets last week, but with the time for withdrawal past without action to that effect by Mr. Daniels and final acceptance by the People's candidates, complete tickets are assured voters who go to the polls a week from next Monday.

On the Independent ticket all candidates are present office holders that office. Their candidates are:

President—W. R. Daniels.
Clerk—P. C. Maroney.
Treasurer—Albert E. Winans.
Trustees—Geo. W. Palmer, Edwin Koebbe, Edwin H. Chandler.
Assessor—John B. Cole.

Clerk—Eugene P. Steiner.
Treasurer—Herbert Loeffler.
Trustees—Fred Broesamle, Joseph Mayer, Jacob Hummel.
Assessor—J. Wilbur Van Riper.
Party Committee—H. H. Fenn, H. D. Witherell, Jacob Hummel.

ST. MARY'S EXPERIENCE FIRST DEFEAT OF SEASON

St. Mary's basketball team of Chelsea had a unique experience Sunday afternoon when it was defeated on its home court. The victor over the fast Chelsea quint was the News quintet of Jackson, which registered a 25 to 19 win in its second start of the season.

St. Mary's has received this season. The News victory was well earned and came only after a hard fought battle and in a game which Chelsea held the lead for nearly three quarters. During the first period the St. Mary's team played circles around the News aggregation and scored almost at will. When the quarter ended the count stood 11 to 2 favoring Chelsea.

With a nine point handicap, the News team braced in the second quarter and outplayed Chelsea during the remainder of the game. Once in the second period the count was tied at 11 all, but Chelsea spurred in the closing minutes of play and led 16 to 11 at the half.

It was the third quarter which spelled defeat for St. Mary's, when the Newspaper quint played St. Mary's off its feet. Chelsea was unable to score a single point in this period while the Newsies registered seven points and led 18 to 15 when the final quarter opened.

The fourth period was bitterly fought and once in this period Chelsea brought the count up to 21 to 19 with two minutes to play. However, a spurt in the final moments of play sewed up the game for the Jackson team.

Rough play throughout featured the game. This was principally because of the small court and the walls at each end of the court.

Burt, lanky forward, with five field goals, led the News in scoring while M. Hoffman was St. Mary's leading scorer, sinking three field goals and a foul for seven points. Five of them came in the opening minutes of play. Madden sank two long field goals for Chelsea and played a brilliant game.

The testimony of Brigadier General William E. Mitchell, "the flying general," was strongly to the point, and the point that he impressed the committee was that we have practically no air defense. Other testimony elicited was to the same effect, corroborating that of General Mitchell.

Of all the great airplanes we possessed in fact or on paper, only about twenty seem to be left with any potency as fighting planes in case they should be needed.

AGAINST "BAD" PLAYS

Jacob H. Banton, district attorney for New York County, in which is located the city of New York, has condemned two plays now running in the metropolis as "wholly unfit" and "being impossible of improvement or change to make them fit to be seen by decent men and women."

While a very severe indictment on paper of the plays, it is at the same time, a great advertisement for the plays, which have an appeal to the very large class of the people of the state of defencelessness if we were to be attacked by another nation from thousands of visitors to New York.

WET OR DRY?

When Alfred E. Smith of New York succeeded Governor Nathan Miller after the republican state Waterloo in New York in 1922, one of the acts of the legislature, which was quite equally divided between Republicans and Democrats, with the latter controlling the senate by one vote, Governor Smith advised the repeal of the Mullan-Gago act, a state law to assist in enforcing the national Volstead act. The Mullan-Gago act was repealed on the plea that it was an unfair law, in that it carried a double jeopardy for those charged with violating the Volstead act. Another law was talked of, but none came.

The New York legislature is now in session with Al Smith as governor, but with the Republicans controlling the legislature by a wide margin, and the senate by a small margin. Another dry law is up, and a hearing was set for February 17th. There were a thousand people at the hearing, in favor of the dry law, and only two opposed to its enactment. Another remarkable thing was that there were twenty-five women for every man present. That would indicate a preponderance of sentiment in New York state, counted wet stronghold, for the enforcement of the Volstead act. It also indicates how strongly the women feel in the matter of enforcement.

GAINING MOSQUITOES. The Jersey mosquito has been famous in defeat song and story, ever since the complexion of the inhabitants of Manhattan Island changed from red to motled and more or less white. His habitat was in the salt marshes and coastal plain lands across the Hudson river.

Gen. Amos A. Bries, head of the Chemical Warfare Service is working on a poison gas to be dropped from airplanes on the breeding places of the mosquitoes to destroy them entirely. If this can be done as they plan to do it in New York, it can be done anywhere, and will be worth counting millions to the people of the United States, especially in sections infested by mosquitoes.

And what can be done to mosquitoes can be done to every insect enemy of mankind.

Automobiles get credit for some good things along with bad. We are not going to have increased good roads 87 per cent, and badlands 70 per cent. Quite a job at the garage men.

All Accounted For

The clergyman's daughter was a good, sweet soul. She was so interested in all the parishioners and loved to know that they were comfortable and had all they wanted. More than one ill-natured person had been heard to call it needless, but no matter. One morning she met little Tommy Gutter on his way home with a basket of groceries.

"Well, Tommy," she said, stopping and smiling at the little fellow, "and how are you all getting on?"

"Nicely, thank you, miss," answered Tommy, touching his cap respectfully. "mother, she's got rheumatism. I've got a boil and father's got a month in jail."—London Tit-Bits.

Probably Windiest State

The weather bureau says that the question of which is the windiest state in the Union has never been accurately determined, and it is probably impossible to make a positive statement. However, it is quite probable that Oklahoma, as a whole, is the windiest state in the Union. This is due to the fact that the winds are rather constant at moderately high velocities during the entire year in this state; in many other sections the wind may at times average higher than Oklahoma, nevertheless, they are not so constant or cover so completely the entire state.

Causes of Earthquakes

It has been thought by some that the center of earthquakes and volcanic disturbances is always near the sea or other large supplies of water, and that the disturbances are directly caused by the filtration of the water down to igneous matter, and the consequent generation of vast quantities of steam, which forces itself by explosion. Others have sought to explain earthquakes as part of the phenomena of a planet cooling at the surface or to the yielding of strata so as to slip downward upon each other.

AGAINST INHERITANCE TAX

President Coolidge has come out openly in favor of the repeal of the federal inheritance tax.

Chairman Green, of the house and means committee, in an address to the convention of the National Tax Association, opposes the repeal of the inheritance tax, and allowing the states to manage that for themselves. He says the income tax is more in the direction of socialism than the inheritance tax.

It appears that there is to be a sharp clash again, on the question of tax reduction in the new congress to convene later this year. It means that again party lines will be broken, and a bitter fight made on the plan of the President's proposal to repeal the inheritance tax law.

Deprived of internal revenues on alcoholic beverages, and with an enormous public debt, requiring a tremendous sum every year to pay the interest on the public debt, the repeal will not likely be popular with the great mass of the American voters. Although the President may make a strong fight for repeal, when senators and congressmen begin to hear from voters to whom they are responsible, it will be a very difficult matter to force the Congress to accept the Coolidge plan.

The public mind is now quite concretely made up as to taxes. Any effort to reduce taxes paid by the poorer classes will be popular. Any plan to take off the tax burden of the rich, amply able to pay them, will be extremely unpopular.

RUSSIAN CHANGE

There is much confusion in the news we get out of Russia, but in all the mass of discordant notes that comes out of the soviet country, there seems to be agreement upon this point: that the peasants are disaffected, that they do not actually own the lands they are tilling, but the title is in the name of the community. This, it appears, is causing much dissatisfaction and sowing the seeds of another revolution.

That Trotsky has lost his great power with the red army, is quite apparent, whether he still has a voice in the commune, is problematical, some writers saying that he has, while others speak of him as an outcast.

In any event, there seems to be no doubt that Russia is in a bad way, torn by internal quarrels, even in the commune itself.

That this newest experiment in government is rapidly reaching the crisis of its existence is quite apparent. Whether there will be a bloody or a bloodless revolution or a rapidly moving evolution to bring about such changes as the awakening peasants desire, remains to be seen. The change, however, appears to be inevitable.

A SHORT INAUGURAL

President Coolidge is now preparing his inaugural address, and advance information is to the effect that it is to be a very short address—probably a record-breaker for brevity.

Newspaper correspondents tell us that the Coolidge inaugural address may be shorter than the short inaugural address by Grover Cleveland which, up to the present holds the record for brevity.

It is not that Mr. Coolidge hasn't anything that ought to be said. It is more likely that he has acquired the habit of silence and brevity and likes it.

But a man so minded may say a great deal in a very few words.

YOUR INCOME TAX

In making out his income tax for the year 1924 the business man, professional man, and farmer is required to use Form 1040, regardless of whether his net income was or was not in excess of $5,000. The smaller form 1040A is used for reporting income of $5,000 or less derived chiefly from salaries or wages.

Forms have been sent to persons who last year filed returns of income. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve the taxpayer from his obligation to file a return and pay the tax within the time prescribed, on or before March 15, 1925.

Copies of the forms may be obtained from offices of collectors of internal revenue and branch offices. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return, or in four equal installments, due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15.

SEK CONTROL OF CORN BORER

Recognizing the growing menace of the continued advance and increase of the European corn borer in Michigan, Rep. Joseph Warner of Ypsilanti has introduced a bill intended to aid in the suppression and control of this unwelcome European visitor. The Commissioner of Agriculture of Michigan would be authorized to prepare and enforce regulations for the control of the European corn borer and $25,000 would be appropriated to defray the state's share of the necessary expense. If this bill is passed, a considerable amount of federal funds will become available to aid in the control and eradication campaign.

Threat Was Too Much

Public Occurrences, which appeared in Boston, Mass., September 28, 1900 was the first newspaper in America to start out well by promising to print all the news without fear or favor, and to promote the interests of Boston. It also promised that in its next issue it would publish the names of all the liars in Boston. The paper, taking notice of the threat, "Public Occurrences" gave up in disgust and died.

Cost of "Lifting" Oil

The bureau of mines says that from 20 to 30 per cent of the total cost of producing petroleum may be charged to lifting the oil. Although the lifting cost ranges from less than three cents a barrel at flowing wells, producing several hundred barrels a day, to $3 a barrel, at wells producing less than a fifth of a barrel a day, the lifting cost per well may range from more than $1,000 at large flowing wells of the type recently discovered in Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and California, to less than $10 at many of the old wells pumped only a few hours a week, as in most of the oil fields of New York and Pennsylvania, where the average daily production per well per day is less than one-fourth of a barrel.

Authority on Cards

The expression "according to Hoyle" refers to Edmond Hoyle, a writer on games, who was born in England in 1712. Little is known about Hoyle's life. Tradition says he was educated for the bar. At any rate, he went to London, where he spent much of his time writing on games and giving lessons in card playing, especially whist. He published a book in which he systematized the laws and rules of whist, a game on which he was considered an authority. His name became proverbial as an authority on games. Playing a game "according to Hoyle" came to mean playing it fair and according to the recognized rules. Hoyle died in London in 1790.—Kansas City Star.

Began Life Work Early

Two men who have been considered the world's most famous clowns started acting at a very early age. Joseph Grimaldi, the great fun maker of England, made his first bow to an audience as the little clown at the age of one year and eleven months. By the time he was three years old he was a regular member of the company at Sadler's Wells theater, being cast in the arduous part of "the little monkey." George L. Fox, the Grimaldi of America, and the man who made "Humpty Dumpty" famous, was of a theatrical family and made his first appearance on the stage when he was five years old.—Mentor Magazine.

Creation of States

Congress in 1790, in order to provide the states having claims on territories west of the Alleghenies, or elsewhere, not included within their confines, to relinquish such claims, provided that it would not hold land entrusted to it as subject territory, but would erect it into states of moderate size as rapidly as population should warrant. This promise has been kept 82 times by the government. Aside from Maine, Vermont and Florida, all the states in addition to the original thirteen have been created in accordance with it.

New Flavor for Ham

The writer was puzzled as to how to use the juice from the pickled peaches until the idea occurred to her of adding it to ham, either baked or boiled. The entire juice of a quart jar should be poured over the ham before baking or added to the water if the process is boiling.—Christian Science Monitor.

"Belles-Lettres"

Formerly the expression "Belles-Lettres" was sometimes used as the equivalent to the humanities, but it is now applied rather vaguely to literary works of style, taste and imagination—in other words, "polite literature." The term has no recorded use in English before 1710, when it was used by Swift in the Tatler.

Value of Good Reading

Herbert Spencer and other philosophers have advised the daily reading of some page or even single paragraph of great literature, dwelling on the sublime, majestic and beautiful in nature and life as a means of purifying the soul of pettiness, greed and selfishly.

Excellent Maxims

From the good you will learn good; if you mix with the bad you will lose what sense you have. When you undertake great affairs, confide in but few. Maxims of Plutarch, the Greek poet of the sixth century B. C.

Old Cross-Word Puzzles

For many years archeologists have been trying to solve what is believed to be the oldest cross-word puzzle. It was made by a Cretan about 2,000 years ago, and a copy of it now lies in the archeological museum at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore. This puzzle is called the Phaestus disk. It was found on the island of Crete by an expedition many years ago.

Optometry—Its Value To The Public
By A. F. Winans & Son

What does Optometry embrace?
The pathology, anatomy and physiology of the eye. Its extreme importance to abnormalities. The means by which they may be corrected. The detection of all errors of vision when not caused by a diseased condition.

The correction of these errors by lenses without the use of drugs. Also the preparation of the lenses and their adjustment to the features of the patient.

It would appear that Optometry occupies an important relation to public welfare?

Yes, it is fully as important as any other profession.

How many people need Optometry?
Investigation has proven that about half the people would be benefited by the services of the Optometrist.

The Optometrist does not prescribe for diseased conditions of the eye?
No, though he is often able to detect them, and in such cases may recommend that the patient consult a medical practitioner.

Errors of vision are often present when the patient is not aware that they exist?

Yes, they are often responsible for much distress without the patient recognizing the cause.

The oriental ruby, the malachite and the rich sapphire are the most beautiful of gems, they are but simple crystals of a siliceous earth. The chemical action of one grain of iron in every hundred grains of alumina is responsible for the glorious light that lurks within the sapphire, while the red ruby owes its brightness and hue to a mingling of chromic acid with the patent clay.

CHEERFUL WORDS
For Many a Chelsea Household.
To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders, is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove helpful to hundreds of Chelsea readers. Ask your neighbor.

C. Lehman, South Main street, Chelsea, says: "I was bothered with weak kidneys and backache. There was a lameness about the small of my back and my kidneys were irregular in action. Nights I was restless and felt all tired out. Finally I used Doan's Pills and they put a stop to the trouble. My kidneys became normal and the lameness left my back. I have found Doan's to be a splendid kidney remedy." (State-ment given March 1, 1918).

On April 27, 1920, Mr. Lehman added: "I use Doan's now and then when my kidneys require a tonic and they always bring the same good results. My former statement holds good today."

By JAY HEMINGWAY
(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)
IF YOU believe that that implacable old lady Fate doesn't give her cheesemen a little shove sometimes, one way or another, after they are in place for the game of life, just listen to the story of little Mary Ellen O'Hagen and her bronze slippers.

For a whole year Mary Ellen's behavior had been simply incomprehensible. Mrs. O'Hagen was exasperated. Not that she wanted her beloved daughter to marry and leave her, of course not! But whatever did she expect with all those nice fellows who came knocking and asking her out to parties and dances and her acting so off-limb-like. Did she think that the prince of Wales, perhaps, would be coming back to ask her to share his throne? It looked that way, it did indeed.

But at last the pressure had been too much for her, and the evening Mary Ellen had promised to go to the party Caroline Murphy was giving for her mother's sister's boy who was visiting them, and Carrie had invited Tom Eldridge especially for her, knowing how crazy Tom had been about her. As Mary Ellen was getting into her beaded getto with the sleeveless blouse and buttoning up the little bronze slippers that she hadn't worn for so long, she got thinking.

No one but herself knew the beginning of the romance that Mary Ellen had put in her heart when she put on those little bronze slippers and tripped off to the party with solid, dependable Tom Eldridge.

It was almost a year since Mary Ellen had donned those same slippers for the first time and started out to spend the afternoon with Sue Parker. She went through the park as usual, and in crossing over to the bench where the squirrels played, she caught one of the very high heels that did not scolded so about; between two stones and off it came. Picking it up she hobbled to the bench. As she sat down on one and a big bronzed chap in a uniform rose from the other. "Beg pardon, Miss, but did you turn your ankle?" "I have a sister who is always doing that very thing."

It was then that Mary Ellen knew romance had come into her life. She didn't say a word, but held out the wooden travesty of a heel in explanation and the boy took it gingerly between his big thumb and forefinger.

"Such a thing for a girl to be wearing off," he scolded, for all the world as though he had known her years. "It's no wonder you tripped on it. It's attila you might as well be wearing instead of shoes."

"Did make a great old fuss when I brought them home. But they are pretty," and she tipped her head over on one side and smiled shyly. "Here, let me have your shoe," he demanded masterfully, and when she had taken it off and tucked her stockings foot up under her, he went over to the gravelled path and pounded the heel into place with a flat stone.

"Of course one can't run right off when a young man has been so very kind," said Mary Ellen, looking over her shoulder and the soldier who had discovered the soldier was in town to attend a Legion meeting, and that he hadn't cared much about girls since he had gotten home from France, and that it were some good to him to find that there were some of his kind left. And he didn't discover a single thing.

He asked if a squirrel couldn't introduce them. He said he would be on the very same bench at the very same time the very next afternoon.

Then they said goodbye and Mary Ellen went on to Sue's. There she found a phone message telling her to come straight home, Aunt Ellen Hilton who lived out west had died, and the whole family were to leave at seven the next morning for the funeral. Of course the adventure was over.

For a whole year Mary Ellen had waited, hoping against hope. And now she had stopped hoping, and was on her way to the party with Tom Eldridge.

Science Has Many Ways of Finding Criminals
Identification by finger prints has long passed the stage of argument and is considered almost absolute. In fact it has been laboriously estimated that the simultaneous discovery of two persons with identical finger prints might occur once in a number of centuries running into forty-nine figures, from the examination of 5,000,000,000 persons, in each century, says L'Avenir, Paris.

Criminologists, however, do not consider identification certain unless there are more than twelve points of similarity between the partial imprint left at the scene of the crime and the recorded dactylograph of the suspect. Professor Balthazard having demonstrated that, in order to find twelve coinciding features, very nearly 17,000,000 imprints would have to be examined.

But a criminal may leave other marks than those of his fingers. He may bear on his body or clothing evidence that he has been at the scene of the crime. The mark of a bite may be as valuable as a signature. The print of a bare foot is almost as characteristic as that of a hand. There are not only the marks left by the shoes of the criminal in soft ground, in blood stains or on certain pieces of furniture—marks which may serve to identify him because of the position of the knee joints or the manner in which the heels or soles are worn down but even particles of dust, coal and varnish on the clothing of the offender and his victim are of valuable assistance to the investigators.

Indians Feared Results of Eating Wild Turkey
Buffalo meat was, of course, the mainstay and universal dish of the plains Indians; now, dried, jerked, dried and pounded in the form of pemmican of wasas, as the Sioux called it; sometimes mixed with berries gathered by the squaws, but generally "just plain wasas," explains Frank M. Huston in Adventure Magazine.

The hump and tongue were the choicest portions when fresh, though the latter was dried by thousands. Of course, in their season roots and tubers, as well as wild fruits—especially wild plums—added to the larder. Sometimes wild grapes were added to give a dessert finish; but no Indian would eat apples when first introduced to them, nor would the men eat the wild turkey lest they become cowardly as the bird itself. They believed—no doubt a superstition—that "a man is what he eats."

First to the plains tribes was almost anything, though some would eat it when placed before them. But none would poison themselves by exertions in fishing. Meat was a man's food and "makes us strong."

Wasteful Men
"Why, Jeremiah Jones!" exclaimed Mrs. Jones when her husband came in safe and sound from a railroad journey. "Is this you?"
"Why, of course," said her husband. "This is the time I expected to come home, isn't it?"
"And you haven't had an accident nor lost your arms and legs or been killed?"
"How many times must I tell you that nothing has happened?" said the irritated man.
"Well," declared the good lady, "you do beat all. There you went and paid good money for an insurance ticket before you left, and you haven't done a thing to get the reward. That's money just wasted. Nice manager you are, Jeremiah Jones!"

Her Appetite Triumphed
Max Martezek, the impresario, had a large repertoire of stories. Henry Z. Flinn, the music critic, repeats one of them in his new book, "Musical Laughs." Martezek, on a trip from Cincinnati to Baltimore, feeling hungry, bought a big sausage and a loaf of rye bread. Presently Christine Nilsson, in a seat ahead, made fun of him for eating such awful stuff. Max, really humiliated, but he ely craved the remnants of his feast into his pocket and, feeling quite comfortable went to sleep. About two o'clock in the morning he felt a touch on his elbow. "Hush," said Nilsson. "Don't wake anybody, but do give me that bread and sausage you put in your pocket."

Plants and Light
All plants require some light. Sunlight supplies the energy which causes chemical reactions to take place inside the leaves. These reactions convert the raw food elements into food elements available to the plant, says a flower magazine. "Therefore, such sunbathing, when set away in a dark corner, do not thrive so well as when placed in a sunny window. On the other hand, plants which like a mild amount of sunlight, and this includes palms, azaleas, ferns and many of the vines, do not thrive if put in a sunny location."

One Symptom
Alice—What foolish things a young man will do when he's in love!
Ethel—Oh, Alice, I'll bet Jack's proposed.—Stray Stories.

Uncertain
Max—Well, old thing, are you coming to the show tonight?
Maxine—Oh, I don't think so, unless my husband objects.

Potted Mistletoe
After experimenting for 12 years a French gardener has produced a "mistletoe plant," growing in a pot, as a house decoration. The mistletoe shoots have been grafted on the top of a sapling apple tree, pruned of leaves and leaves. After five years the grafted mistletoe bears berries.

Safety First
"Safety First"—it's a good idea to have it on your car, but it's a far better idea to have it in your head.

Prisoner's Fate Left to Trial by Ordeal
As recently as the beginning of the Nineteenth century the populace of Hela, near Dantzic, twice plunged into the sea an old woman reputed to be a sorceress, who on persistently rising to the surface, was pronounced guilty and beaten to death.

Greece mentions many instances of water ordeal in Bithynia, Sardinia, and other countries, and it was in use in Iceland from a very early period. In the primitive jurisprudence of Russia, ordeal by boiling water was enjoined in cases of minor importance. In the Eleventh century we find burning iron ordered where the matter at stake amounted to more than half a grivna of gold.

A curious survival of ordeal—superstition prevailed till quite recently in southern Russia. When a thief was committed to a household the servants were summoned together and a sorceress was sent for. Should no confession be made by the guilty party, the sorceress rolled up as many little balls of bread as there were suspected persons present. "She then took one of these balls and, addressing the nearest servant, used this formula: 'If you have committed the theft the ball will sink to the bottom of the vase, but if you are innocent it will float on the water.'"

The accuracy of this trial, however, was seldom tested, the guilty person usually confessed before his turn arrived for the ordeal.

Indians Had Effective Method of Fire Making
The most widespread method of making fire practiced by the American aborigines at the time of the discovery of America by Columbus was by reciprocal motion of wood on wood and lighting the ground-off particles through heat generated by friction. It was the most valued as well as the most effective method known to the aborigines. The apparatus, in its simplest form, consists of a slender piece of drift or a lower piece of heart, near the border of which the drill is worked by twisting between the palms, creating a socket. From the socket a narrow canal is cut in the edge of the heart, the function of which is to collect the powdered wood ground off by the friction of the drill, as with in the wood meal—the heat rises to the ignition point. This is the simplest and most widely diffused type of fire-making apparatus known to uncivilized man. Some of the tribes also used flint and pyrites (the progenitor of steel and steel), which is supposed to have been introduced into America through Scandinavian contacts or from Europe or Asia.

First American Patent
In the patent office at Washington there is a woman's department, with the specifications of the patents arranged in chronological order. The first on the list is a patent taken out in 1809 by Mrs. Mary Kieser for a process of weaving straw with silk.

Keeping Down Pests
If it were not for the natural enemies of every insect, many that are not especially obnoxious now would soon become universal pests. Government experiments a few years ago showed that about 95 per cent of native caterpillars are killed by parasites.

EXTENSION WORK BRIEFS

Two club boys, Waldemere Buss and John Haab, purchased four Delaware Merino ewes from the Nye-Bragg Sheep farm in Hillsdale county on Tuesday, February 17th. Vern Freeman, live stock specialist from M. A. C. assisted the boys in the selection of the ewes.

The first meetings of the second series of the Clothing Project was held with Miss Sorenson, clothing specialist of M. A. C. at Ann Arbor Thursday and Friday of last week. There will be three more meetings in the second series. Township leaders present reported that the work given in the previous lesson had been passed on to 304 women in the county.

County Agent finds increased interest in the Guernsey breed. Among the prominent breeders in the county now are A. M. Bosworth and F. E. Stewart of Lima township. John Egeler of Lima township is the owner of an exceptionally good Guernsey Sire, as is O. R. Outwater of Delhi. Another prominent breeder of Guernseys is Ora Zeisler of York township. Geo. Chalmers of Pittsfield township is owner of one of the oldest herds in the county. A number of breeders are interested in the purchase of additional stock for their herds and there may be sufficient interest to organize a Guernsey Calf club in the county during the coming spring.

During the past week several applications for Federal Farm Loans have been received.

Members of the Jersey Breeders' Association of the county are making arrangements to hold a meeting some time during the month of March. A committee has been selected to outline a program of work for the association during the coming year. This will be presented to the county breeders at the March meeting. ## "SUNDOWN"

The February number of "The People's Home Journal" has the following to say in their department "What Pictures Shall We See?" in regard to "Sundown" the first National feature photoplay which comes to the Princess Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, March 4 and 5:

"SUNDOWN" (First National) Time 1 hour, 50 minutes. Another of the great epics of American history has been added to the screen's inspiring collection—this time an epic of today, as well as yesterday. It is the story of the cattlemen whose vast herds once roamed the plains of the entire southwest, and who have now been driven out by the oncoming homesteaders, and have crossed over into Mexico. It is a picture which could never be made again, for it was filmed during the actual cattle drive across the border, with all its attendant realistic details. With all its sweeping breadth of action, and stirring climax, it tells a gripping, human story of everyday folks. The characters live and breathe and hold our sympathy. In the opening, one of the last of the great cattle barons returns from the east with his son, having failed to win financial support. The result is the decision to drive the herds into Mexico. Meanwhile, typifying the homesteaders, we have seen a young girl bringing her shiftless father and young brother to the southwest, so that the latter may grow up away from crowded slums. They settle in a small cabin. The great drive starts, and the massing of the 150,000 cattle provides some of the most stirring scenes the camera has recorded. A prairie fire adds menace to the situation. In a stampede, the settler's cabin is wiped out, with all they possess, and they are taken in by the cattlemen. The son falls in love with the girl, and, of course, ultimately wins her. The picture ends as the vast herd crosses the border, and the cattlemen leave, the Stars and Stripes behind. It is a picture which the whole family will enjoy. Hobart Bosworth, Roy Stewart, Bessie Love, Arthur Hoyt, and Charlie Murray are outstanding members of the competent cast."

Hope to Find Skeleton of Hippo in England

The caves of Torbryan, near Newton Abbot, in England, are being searched in the hope of finding the skeletonized remains of a hippopotamus. In the middle of last century a Teignmouth draper named Wedger spent most of his leisure time for twenty years searching nine of the natural caves and found the remains of bears, wolves, hares and hyenas. His most startling find was that of the tooth and part of the forehead of a hippopotamus. Experts have argued for years over the latter discovery, and a systematic search of the caves is being made in the hope that the rest of the bones of the river monster will be found. It is common knowledge in scientific circles that in the different eras through which Great Britain passed, bears, wolves, lions and other wild animals ranged the country, but in regard to the situation of the caves, it is contended that there would be too little water to attract a hippopotamus. Beneath the natural floor of one of the caves signs of human habitation have been discovered.

Had Reason to Think So

Giles was being questioned in the court by a lawyer who considered himself great on cross-examination.

"Do you on your oath swear that this is not your handwriting?" he asked sternly of the witness.

"I reckon not," answered Giles.

"Does it resemble your writing then?"

"No, I don't think so."

"Well, do you swear that it doesn't resemble your handwriting?"

"I do, indeed."

"What?" thundered the bullying counsel. "You take your oath that that writing doesn't resemble yours in a single letter?"

"Yes," persisted Giles somewhat nervously.

"How do you know it doesn't?" asked the lawyer, with a cunning smile.

"Well," replied Giles, with a smile, "I think so, because I can't write."

Charcoal

Charcoal is the form of amorphous carbon obtained by strongly heating wood. It required for fuel it can be obtained by the partial combustion of wood in heaps. The wood, cut into convenient and uniform lengths, is systematically piled in a mound-shaped heap with provision made for draft. The mound is covered with earth, except a small opening at the top. This is a charcoal kiln. When completed it is fired, and by means of slow combustion, the wood is converted into charcoal, which is usually almost black in color and much lighter in weight than wood. That is the old way of producing charcoal.

Alaskan "Dog Car"

Almost every conceivable type of transportation is used to move the mails—railroads, steamboats, automobiles, airplanes, motor boats, wagons, horses, pneumatic tubes, belt conveyors, motorcycles, bicycles, the sled of the arctic, and even the "dog car," the Detroit News says.

The "dog car" is an Alaskan invention. An abandoned railroad runs out of Nome to a mining camp. The enterprising Arctic circle mail-man hitchhikes his dog team to a hand car and scoots up the mountain side with the post.

Earned High Title

Parker Cleveland, born at Bowley, Mass., in 1780, who died at Brunswick, Maine, 78 years later, was given the title, "father of American autography." He was professor in Bowdoin college for 63 years, acquired a world-wide reputation, and was elected a member of 10 different scientific and literary societies in Europe.

Ancient Scottish Family

The late Colonel Scrymgeour Wedderburn held the office of hereditary standard bearer of Scotland and was the lineal descendant of two famous families. The name of Wedderburn was taken from the lands and barony of that name near Berwick, and Walter de Wedderburn swore fealty to Edward I. Alexander Wedderburn was a great favorite with James VI, went with him to England, was a signatory to the union, and was presented by the king with a ring from his own finger, still preserved by the Wedderburns. This branch became extinct in 1761, when the estates were inherited by the heirs of the line, now represented by the Scrymgeour Wedderburns of Wedderburn and Kirkhill.—Family Herald.

Would Divide Cost

The young vacationist who had become engaged to the pretty girl received information that led him to question her.

"Is it true that since you've come here you've been engaged to Bill Arthur, George and Harry as well as me?"

The girl assumed an air of great disdain and hauteur.

"What is that to you?" she demanded.

"Just this," he replied, gently. "If it's so, and you have no objection, we fellows will chip in together to buy an engagement ring."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Moths and Bees

There are few more mischievous enemies to bees than the death's head moth. It is the female's disreputable habit to sneak into a hive, and not content with feeding on the honey, to lay her eggs there. When the larvae arrive there is a good store of food for them, but the hive speedily becomes foul and unhealthy, and there is strenuous work for the angry apiarist. Happily entrance is not as easily effected into the modern improved hive as into the old-fashioned skep.—Family Herald.

Look for the Best

Every man has his flaws and weaknesses; nay, the greatest men have them. It is often found in the most shining characters, but what an absurd thing it is to pass over all the valuable parts of a man and fix our attention on his infirmities.—Exchange.

No Method Yet Found to Prevent Hailstorm

The United States weather bureau says it is often asked whether there is not some way that hailstorms can be prevented. The answer, replies the bureau, is in the negative. Pathfinder Magazine reports. There is no known way to prevent hail. Much powder has been burned in Europe bombarding the clouds in a futile attempt to avert hailstorms. In some countries an elaborate technique has been developed; requiring the use of special types of mortars, bombs and rockets. In France before the World War it was customary to erect tall poles of "electric Niagara." These were large copper lightning rods, installed on high buildings and steel towers built especially for the purpose. A hundred years ago it was a common practice with Europeans to put up small iron rods, often consisting of poles in fields, gardens and vineyards. None of these methods, says the weather bureau, had any plausible scientific hypothesis behind them. Any effects ascribed to them were purely imaginary.

Boy's Essay on Ants

There are two kinds of ants, one being your mother's sister and the other being small black insects who may be some relation to.

Your mother's sister lives in a house like other people, while insect ants live in small round holes and generally seem to be either going into them in a hurry or coming out of them in a hurry, like somebody that don't know exactly what they want.

Insect ants all look alike, so it would be hard to teach one to do tricks because if he ever got away you would never recognize him again. They are not sociable, like dogs, and most people are glad of it.

It is supposed to be bad luck to tread on an ant, and even if it ain't for you it is for the ant.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Valuable Material

Aluminum is a very important product, since it is used in the manufacture of guns and of enameled ware, in the electrolytic refining of aluminum and lead, in the production of aluminum, in the manufacture of hydrofluoric acid and in the iron and steel industries.

FIVE REASONS Why Classified Advertising Will Sell What You Do Not Need

- 1.—The Chelsea Standard reaches the largest number of people who are in the market for your unused machinery, household goods, or live stock.
- 2.—The Standard has secured unusual results for those who have used its Classified Columns.
- 3.—Standard Readers have learned to look over the Classified Columns even before reading the local news.
- 4.—Past experience has convinced hundreds of the effectiveness of such advertising—why not you?
- 5.—Last, but not least,—the expense of Classified advertising is negligible compared with results obtained. Thousands of dollars of merchandise and farm equipment are sold every year with little outlay of money.

Look around today for that material you have long since ceased to use, but is still in good condition—some one wants it and will be glad to pay cash to get it. Don't wait until house cleaning time when rush of work compels you to destroy rather than "cash in" on such material.

SCHOOL NEWS

Sweeping Manchester High completely off its feet, Chelsea High ran away with a game that wasn't even close last Friday evening at Manchester, score 37-11. Chelsea's inability to find the basket in the opening minutes kept the early score low and the first quarter ended 4-3 in our favor. From then on the result was never in doubt; the Kinner, White, Fox combination scoring almost at will. Manchester showed a much improved team over her appearance in Chelsea earlier in the season, but the locals set a pace that Manchester soon couldn't follow. The half ended 16-5 with the locals on the long end.

Ringling a basket from a tip-off formation within 5 seconds after the second half ended, White started a scoring spree that ended only with the final whistle. Victory was due directly to team work; the local short underhand passing game with a quick break from defense to offense proving effective. The floor work of the whole team led by Capt. Kinner was the outstanding feature of the evening. Beach played his usual stellar game at guard and was the principal factor forcing Manchester to long shots, none of which found the hoop. Kinner and Steger both showed improvement in handling the ball and taking it down the floor. Fox consistently outjumped his opponent at center and rang up the first basket of the evening from a difficult angle while closely guarded.

Friday evening was the best exhibition of team work of this season and presented the locals with numerous chances at the hoop. White led the scoring with 6 field baskets, Fox contributed five more. Kinner added one and Steger 3. The final score was 37-11. In the fourth quarter Broesamle went in for Fox, Weinberg for White and Bradley for Steger. Line-up: R. F. Kinner, Capt.; L. P. Steger; C. Fox; R. G. White; L. G. Beach. Field goals: White 6, Fox 5, Steger 3. Kinner. Goals after fouls: White 4 in 4, Beach 1 in 1, Fox 2 in 4, Kinner 0 in 3, Steger 0 in 4. Substitutions: Broesamle for Fox, Weinberg for White, Bradley for Steger. Referee: Wolfson, Ann Arbor.

Preceding the boys' game, the Chelsea girls were defeated by the Manchester girls 13 to 7 in a game that was clearly contested throughout. The local girls scored most of their points because the numerous fouls called on the Manchester girls, especially in the second half.

Line-up: R. P. Anna Mayer; L. F. Dorothy Weinmann; C. Norma Pitts; B. Bernice Evans; Setter, G. G. Agnes Dancer, Ruth Brooks; L. G. L. Rein McLaughlin.

The local boys play with Ann Arbor high's second team at the Opera House this Friday evening. One of the best games of the season is expected, Chelsea winning the game played in Ann Arbor three weeks ago, 15-14 in an overtime contest. A game is being scheduled for the local girls also.

CHURCH CIRCLES

METHODIST EPISCOPAL
Rev. C. S. Risley, pastor.

A rather interesting subject for Sunday—"The Phillips of Today." The need of a deeper discovery of Christ. "What do our modern Phillips see? Is the world today being robbed of something fine and elemental? The pulpit, 'The General Rules of the Church.' An unusual evening service conducted by the Superintendent and Attorney of the Anti-Saloon League. A dramatic debate—"Can the Law be Enforced?" This is a thrilling, gripping, instructive drama. You should hear it. Our Sunday school is holding on well. Our young people's service is very interesting. A welcome to The Big Stone Church. We assure you that the church will be warm.

OTTO HINDERER
Village Treas.

Weather and Health
Different kinds of weather affect different people in different ways, but as a rule we feel better when the sun is shining. Damp is an enemy of health; a cool, bracing day a friend. Doctors frequently order their patients a "change of scene," and they are now learning that the benefits of such a change are greater even than they had thought, because a change of scene usually means a change of climate as well. Temperature, the amount of moisture in the air, the height above sea-level—all these things can affect our health.

Accept Wise Counsel
Good counsels observed are chains to grace, which, neglected, prove bait for strange, undutiful children.—Psalter.

Flames of Happiness
That Need Never Die

I always think of happiness as a flame. I always have, all my life. It's just a fancy of mine, but it's as clear as anything. Fire—a lighted fire throwing a gleam across the grayest day, an indistinguishable line. Because, however it dies down, you can find embers at the heart of its ashes and build it up again with what you have. Almost without knowing it, you have, in spite of yourself, you do just that. You take what you have: love, of course; if you are one of the lucky ones who have it, or friendship—anything that means happiness to you. Sometimes the fuel that comes to your hand is the joy you have in your own mind, in learning and thinking, in books and plays and music. Sometimes it's religion. Most people, after they're older, keep it burning with work, hard, clean work and the little things that make it—jokes and nonsense and bits of singing and laughing. Now and then, of course, you mix it with the old wood of your ambitions and your dreams shoot up and up. It's a queer thing, but you sometimes think: happiness; but you keep it going, as you keep the going. I suppose because it is instinctive to preserve what's yours. From "The Flames of Happiness," by Florence Ward.

Harmonika-Trumpet Easily Played by Child

With only a few minutes of practice, it is claimed, anyone can learn to play tunes on a combination mouth organ and trumpet.

trumpet. The instrument is about the same size and shape as a cornet. The tones of the harmonika, which is placed inside the horn, are amplified by the trumpet part which is slid back and forth as the breath is expelled or drawn in, according to directions carried on a visible indicator chart in front of the player.

Voice Amplified Fifty Billion Times through Radio

Power of the human voice in loud speech or song is estimated at only one hundred-millionth of a watt. A radio-broadcasting station using 500 watts, "steps" this sound up to the equivalent of almost a full horsepower voice, which means that the original tone has been amplified about fifty billion times. Measured in this way, the vibrations that leave the station's wires are far more powerful than the noise that would be produced if all the people in the world could unite in one mighty shout.

Approximately 15,000,000 bananas are consumed every day in the United States.

Water Found in Crystal Ten Million Years Old

Clear and sparkling as though they might have just bubbled from a spring, drops of water more than 10,000,000 years old have been found by O. C. Farrington, head of the geology department of the Field Museum of natural history. They were imprisoned in crystal quartz picked up from rock formations in Brazil. The estimate of the age is based on the character of the rock which belongs to a period that, some scientists declare, flourished over 500,000,000 years ago.

Saving the Clipper

With either power or hand-operated hair clippers the barber must continually shake or rap them against the chair in order to remove the hair from their teeth. While this may not involve much risk of damage to the clipper, it is annoying to customers. To avoid this, one barber attached a solid rubber ball by means of a countersunk screw to either side of the chair at the top, and found that, by tapping the clipper lightly against the ball, all the hair ends were thrown out.

Cleaning Rusty Tools

Take the lid of an ordinary round baking-powder can and partly fill it with a thick mixture of fine emery, dust and light machine oil. Touch the emery mixture with an ordinary cork, kept handy for the purpose, and rub it over the surface of any slightly rusted tool, or other article of steel. This will instantly remove the rust and leave a thin protecting film of oil.

The silverlike deposit on the inside of vacuum tubes occurs in the manufacturing process, when metallic magnesium is flashed inside the tube toward the end of the evacuating process. This is supposed to take up the last remaining gas inside the tube. Some tubes are of a reddish-brown color, and this is caused by a similar treatment, in which phosphorus is used in addition to the magnesium.

Mail Box Opens at Both Ends

Constructed along lines entirely different from those of the ordinary mail box, the homemade one shown in the illustration is of unusual convenience, as the mail is dropped in at the top and removed at the bottom, and it provides sufficient space for fairly large packages, magazines, rolled-up newspapers, and the like. It consists of a sheet-metal shell, about 8 in wide, 4 in deep, an 18 in high, open at both ends. The edges of the metal are doubled over to prevent injury. The top and bottom of the box are hinged to the wall on which the box is mounted and are held tightly against the opening by a heavy rubber band, and from an old inner tube and attached to the inside of the top and bottom by means of hooks and screws.

As shown, in use, the postman lifts the top and drops in the mail, while the owner removes it by pressing down the bottom as indicated.

When making floating lids for developing tanks give them one or two coats of the varnish that is sold by sporting-goods stores for varnishing fishing rods. It is waterproof and is more convenient to use than paraffin.

A Key to the Situation

By ANNA R. BURR

MISS BENTLEY took her remark overboard the Jewett back street. When one sits in the sun room every day after day, winter and summer, it means much to have something pleasant to gaze upon—something, too, which is shut from the rest of the world by a high wall. The Jewett garden seemed Miss Bentley's particular property, the maple trees, the grass-plot with the bed of water-cannas, the border which saw the seasons through from daffodils to lilies and the little summer-house. All this was like a stage set for small, pleasant happenings; the coming to and fro of tea men and grocery boys; children at their games; the kitten capering after a bit of mouse or a worm (domestic) for an audience of one. Miss Bentley's spectacles would stare at it, her tired old face brightened, she felt a stretching harder than ever. It belonged to her, and when a child got its feet wet or the kitten mewed for its forgotten saucer of milk, Miss Bentley almost rang the door bell. Once or twice the play had a society scene in it, such as Molly Jewett's garden party, and then the audience was rapt. A striped tent, rugs on the grass, and waiters who ran about with ice cream and strawberries. Molly herself, seated in a wicker chair, happier than the eighteen guests. Susan Bent came (at noon, with the ice-cream freezer) and stayed until dusk. The last glimpse of departing young people. She was in an ecstasy of delight when she would have to set up all night over her neglected work in order to finish it on time.

Her sense of possessing the garden, she looked at, had led to an odd incident—odd, because of Susan's nature. She was honest as the day, honest in fact than many April days, but when she picked up a key on the sidewalk, which had plainly fallen out of the garden door, she kept it. She kept that key, though it unquestionably belonged to the Jewetts, and she hung it up on a nail by her looking-glass. Somehow that key confirmed her sense of ownership in the garden. At her twilight hour of rest she would sit and twist it between her fingers, and dream dreamily on the maples and the red cannas and sage, and always she dreamed of another party she longed for it.

This hope grew very high when Molly Jewett began going with the Taylor boy. He was a nice-looking boy, a turn-up nose and he whistled as he came along about five o'clock. Later on the pair took to going in and out by the garden door. Sometimes they stayed at the gate a long time, and then Miss Bentley would rise hurriedly and leave the window. What she saw there once or twice made her feel uncomfortable like an eavesdropper; she realized humbly that it had nothing to do with her.

One afternoon that spring she saw them coming but there was something different somehow. Molly was walking stiffly, very far away from the Taylor boy, and his young face looked garden and angry. When they reached the gate it was plain that this delicate Susan Bent need feel no delicacy about staying at the window. So she stayed and stared; she could bear nothing, but she saw very well. She saw Molly's angry tone of the head and that she pushed open the door and ran within, slamming it behind her, and leaving Roddy Taylor on the wrong side. Once alone, the girl turned uncertainly toward the house, the summer house in the corner. The watcher from the window could see the bright head bent on her arms. "My hand!" cried Susan Bent.

Bedouin's Whole Life Ruled by Superstition

Despite his courage in battle, the Bedouin loves life and fears death. This is due to his conceptions of after-life, which are unclear and differ from the general Mohammedan ideas in fact, the average Bedouin is only nominally a Mohammedan; he retains very little of that faith over and beyond his belief in one God.

In the conception of the Bedouin, the soul of the dying leaves the body through the nostrils and flies away into paradise or hell, according to the life-time conduct of the deceased. Both paradise and hell are situated below the earth, and the soul leads a life there much similar to that of his brothers in this world, the main difference being merely that, according to his merits, it will be one of wealth or poverty. The principal advantage of paradise over hell is that the abode of the good is plentiful in water, the most important necessity to the desert dweller.

A great point in Bedouin imagination is played by superstition. The desert is inhabited by thousands of ghosts, "jinn" and "afrits," and the tribesman lives in constant fear of them. The soul of a man asleep is temporarily away from his body, and it is therefore, with particular care that a Bedouin awakes a companion for fear that his soul may fall to return to the body and be replaced by some ill-disposed spirit.—Dr. Edward J. Ling in Current History Magazine.

Safe Bet That Answer Didn't Win the Prize

The kindly old squirrel was giving a little treat to the village school children. After tea he stepped onto the platform and announced with a beaming smile:

"Now, I am going to perform certain actions, and you must guess what proverb they represent. The boy or girl who succeeds first will receive a shilling."

That did it. Instantly every eye was fixed on him. First of all, the old gentleman lay down on the platform. Then one man came forward and tried to lift him. Two others came to his aid and between them they raised the squirrel, who was rather portly.

"These actions were meant to represent the motto, 'Union is strength.' When they had finished the squirrel stepped forward and asked if any child had solved the puzzle.

At once a grubby hand shot up and an eager voice squeaked: "Let sleeping dogs lie."—Pearson's Weekly.

Arabian Dancing Girls

The Arabian dancing girls, a traveler explains, "are born to their profession. Many of them had dancing mothers. Others are dedicated to the art by their mothers when they are but babies. While there are no dancing schools, these children practice continually, imitating from earliest childhood the steps and movements of the dancers, until they are highly skilled in it themselves."
