DETROIT COMPANY SEEKS TO LOCATE IN CHELSEA

Would Purchase Tower Building of Lewis Spring & Axle Co. Manufacturers of Toys and Games.

Negotiations which have been pending for the past few weeks whereby Chelsea might have a new factory, practically came to a head during the past week when the industry in question, the Detroit Flag and Manufacturing Co., was endorsed by the Kiwanis club of Chelsea as well as by many other prominent business men here.

Some weeks ago, when plans were first presented to the Kiwanis club for bringing the company in question to Chelsea, a committee was appointed to make a thorough investigation of the proposition and report back to the club. After going to Detroit and making the investigation, members of the committee made a very satisfactory report concerning the company. Later a meeting of the holders of claims against the Lewis Spring & Axle Co. was called, and they unanimously signified their willingness to take stock in the new concern for the amount of their claims if the new company could be brought here.

The Detroit Flag & Manufacturing Co. was first organized as a flag and decorating business. At the close of the war the flag game was at a standstill and the company has gradually been getting into the toy game which they wish to expand. The present plant occupied by the company in Detroit is an old three-story brick building, with a very good condition.

Very bad and the investigating committee reports that there is every reason why the concern should wish to come here.

The expansion program of the company calls for increased capitalization, from $100,000 to $150,000. This will allow them to purchase the tower building of the Lewis Spring & Axle Co. add new equipment and give them a working capital sufficient to take care of any and all orders coming to them, which is more than they have been able to do in the past.

Gross business of the company in 1924 was about double that of 1923, and orders now on hand for 1925 are about three times the gross business done in 1923. That they are on the right track can be seen from the fact that they are doing business with the largest wholesale, retail and mail order houses in the country.

The company would use the first and second floors of the building if purchased and have a concern lined up which they hope to bring with them to use the third floor. They would employ from 40 to 50 men and women.

It is hoped that business men and others of the village who can, will put forth every possible effort to bring this new business to Chelsea.

PIONEER CITIZEN PASSED AWAY TUESDAY NIGHT

The life of one of Chelsea's most respected citizens came to a close Tuesday evening with the death of Louis H. Hindelang.

He was born in Lyndon, January 2, 1853, son of Peter and Elizabeth St. Paul-Hindelang. He was married in 1877 to Henrietta Lamme, who died in 1884. Of this union, three sons, John L. of Detroit, A. G. of Chelsea and Leo H. of Sandusky, Ohio, survive.

He was married May 29, 1888 to Honora E. Daly. To them was born one daughter, Mrs. Hugh E. Quinn of Detroit and one son, who died in infancy.

Besides the widow and family, Mr. Hindelang leaves twelve grandchildren, and a host of friends to mourn their loss.

To all who came in contact with his honesty, charity and justice, his name will ever be remembered with kindness and reverence, for there is nothing so kindly as kindness.

There is nothing so royal as truth. The funeral will take place Friday morning at ten o'clock, with solemn requiem mass, from the church of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart, of which he was a devoted member.

ST. MARY'S WINS STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Finals Played in Ypsilanti Saturday Gives Local Team Honors in Class D Tournament.

Eaton Rapids and Chelsea won the district basketball title at Ypsilanti Saturday evening. Eaton Rapids taking the Birmingham five into camp in the Class B final, 26 to 11, while St. Mary's quintet of Chelsea defeated Marysville, 17 to 9, in the Class D final.

The Chelsea five was outweighed many pounds to a man, but uncovered teamwork which bewildered Marysville. Although Hoffman did not score, he was the main cog in the Chelsea machine, both on defense and offense. Elsie, Chelsea center, called 12 points while Tuttle garnered five.

In all the games played in the tournament Chelsea was outweighed, they averaging only 180 pounds. The high school enrollment is the smallest of any high school taking part in the tournament.

The first game, Thursday evening, was with North Adams, scoring 25-22 in favor of Chelsea. Friday Grand Blanc was taken into camp by a score of 28-20. In the semi-finals Saturday morning Chelsea won by a score of 23 to 10.

Winning this tournament gives the local team the state championship in Class D, consisting of high schools of less than 100 enrollment. This is the second state championship won by the local team, they having won the state amateur Class C championship in 1923.

In the last five years St. Mary's has played 168 games, having won 148 and lost 10, which places them in an enviable position among the high school basketball teams in their class in the state of Michigan.

The team consists of Maurice Hoffman, Leo Tuttle, Ambrose Elsie, Robert Wheeler, John Keusch, Joseph Policht and George Liebeck. A. G. Hindelang and Chas. Byers have managed the team this year.

CHELSEA TIES FOR SECOND PLACE IN LEAGUE

By defeating the National Guard 22 to 16, at the Armory in Ann Arbor Thursday evening, Chelsea ended the season in a tie for second place in the Southern Michigan league with Saline, each having won six games and lost four.

The Guardians put up a great battle in their final appearance, leading the first quarter by a score of 8 to 5. In the second quarter the Soldiers rallied but one field basket while Chelsea took the lead, 11 to 8.

In the second half the Soldiers always remained within striking distance but lacked the punch to regain the lead.

Glenn Brooks led Chelsea in scoring with 13 points while Shankland proved to be the leading point guard for the Soldiers with seven points.

Buick Torque Tube Drive

The fine engineering in Buick motor cars is demonstrated by the torque tube drive. This is a steel tube which transmits the drive from the rear wheels instead of adding this important duty to the burden of the rear springs. The torque tube also encloses and protects the propeller shaft. This type of construction also holds the rear wheels in alignment regardless of road conditions.

PASSING OF THE GOULDS
Forty years ago, Jay Gould was the "financial wizard" of America. He was king of transportation. He owned more railroads, and dominated more things which required big capital, than any other man had ever dominated in all history.

When Jay Gould passed from the scene of his activities, he left what was at the time considered the largest estate in the world. His family held stocks that controlled more railroads than any family had ever before controlled. Jay Gould thought he had left his estate in such shape that it would forever hold dominance in American railroads.

Following the passing of Gould, came the railroad renaissance of E. H. Harriman. He, like Gould, made his money in railroads. What he made thousands of people lost. Harriman became the king of transportation, then, he too, passed.

Last week the St. Louis & Southwestern, the last piece of railroad property owned and controlled by the Goulds, passed from their control, and for once in more than half a century the Gould family holds no dominance in any American transportation line.

When Harriman died he left all his holdings to his wife, Mrs. Harriman more quickly relinquished the control of rail lines, and sought other investments. Until now, the Harrimans are but a faint memory in the railroad world.

There will probably never be other cases of Goulds and Harrimans. Great railroad men will rise and fortunes may be made, but the public will never be so deeply involved in railroad lines as they were in the old days; and the period of the old "squeeze play" will not return. Men of money will fight for control, cut each other's throats, and break each other, but the good old lamb's wool once so easily extracted from the public has grown thinner with the years, until now it has almost vanished. And it is well enough that this is so.

WARREN REJECTED
For the fourth time in American history, an appointee of a president of the United States failed for confirmation when Charles B. Warren of Michigan was rejected by a tie vote in the senate last week.

President Andrew Jackson had an appointee turned down, and President Tyler made two appointments which failed to receive the sanction of the senate.

Charles B. Warren has been prominently identified with the sugar-trust as one of its attorneys. For this reason many senators opposed him for the position of attorney general of the United States, where he would have to pass on cases involving some of the big trust corporations. No direct charge was made against Mr. Warren. It was only that his connection with a great trust as their legal counsel, was held against him, as a possibility of causing prejudice in dealing with trust prosecutions, should any come up.

The attitude of President Coolidge, in his inaugural address, and the attitude of his party in the senate, in denouncing some of the senators known as insurgents, were a big factor in bringing about an unfavorable verdict in Mr. Warren's case. There is a rift between the administration at Washington, and some of the republicans who have figured in progressive movements in the past, which does not augur well for a smooth operation of government machinery, needed legislation and harmony at Washington for the next two years.

TIME WORKS WONDERS
The whirligig of Time brings around many queer changes. James E. Ferguson, known as a "farmer banker" was governor of Texas in 1917. The Texas legislature impeached him, and denied him the right to hold office. Then the 18th amendment to the federal constitution was passed, giving women's right to the franchise, and to hold office.

Ferguson's wife ran for the democratic nomination for governor of Texas in 1924, and after a bitter fight was nominated. She had run on a platform of justice for her husband, whom she alleged was unjustly impeached in 1917. She became governor.

The Texas senate took up and passed a bill restoring the civil rights of James E. Ferguson, and removing, insofar as possible, the stain left by the action of the legislature in 1917, which impeached him.

The lower house passed the bill last week, and Ferguson has had all his civil rights restored. He is again a full-fledged citizen of his native state.

Bookmakers are trying to collect amounts claimed to be owed by Babe Ruth, "king of swat," they say. Babe lost betting on horses. If Babe owes as much as is claimed, it proves that he is a better guesser as to what the pitchers are to toss up, than he is as to the name of the horse that will come first under the wire. It also implies that the cognomen of "Babe" is not without significance.

GREAT WATER POWER DEVELOPMENT UNDER WAY

It is not alone at Muscle Shoals that there is concentration of public attention on water power development. The Delaware river is partly in the state of New York, partly in New Jersey, and partly in Pennsylvania. There is a gigantic scheme on now, to dam the Delaware and get the benefit of the immense amount of water power which this would develop.

As a matter of course all the states, wherein there is potential Delaware power, there was an instant desire to get as much of that cheap power as possible for that state. A treaty between the three states was entered into, and now the real battle is being begun, to endeavor to control the companies which will develop the power. The states are, seeking common ground upon which they may unite for joint control, to prevent the power control from passing from the several states concerned, to the federal government. The time state authorities believe, to do that, is in the beginning, before the companies have fastened their tentacles on the power available, with such a grip that they can deny to the states any authority to control.

The general tendency of the times is toward water power development, and at the same time, to safeguard potential power development in such a way that some of the economies growing out of such development, may be preserved to the public.

THE FLAG OF JUDEA

The steamship, President Arthur, bought and equipped by Americans of the Hebrew faith, sailed from New York last Thursday, direct for Palestine. The boat will make regular trips a round trip every sixty days, between New York City and Haifa, Palestine, very close to Jerusalem the cradle of Christianity.

This ship, for the first one in over 2000 years, flies the flag of Judea on the high seas. It carries to the Zionist colony about Jerusalem, all sorts of medicines and supplies. It carries a large shipment of modern agricultural implements, which if properly applied to the soil, along with the fertilizer, will work marvels in ancient Palestine. The ship carries more—much more than these material things—it carries a high-spirited hope of Judaism. It is a realization of a dream 2000 years old. It is the beginning, many think, of the return of the Jews to Jerusalem. It is the fulfillment of scriptural prophecy and desire.

America can but wish the expedition well. It may mean much—very much in spirituality, if it never means much in a material way, and, after all, most of our lives are lived in the spirit.

A REAL HERO

Sometimes a stage hero has a chance to prove himself a real hero. Curt Taucher, German tenor in the Metropolitan company, New York, while singing the leading role in Siegfried, last week, stepped back from the "ring of fire" on the stage, and in doing so, lost his balance and tumbled twenty-one feet into the pit. He was badly shaken-up, had some broken fingers and other severe injuries, but was able to push back on the stage at his cue, rescue Brunhilde, and finish the act for forty-five minutes.

The audience knew nothing of Taucher's accident until the final curtain. Then it paid him the homage of applause and approval that an American audience always accords a real hero.

A LARGER PLANET

The astronomers are now telling us about the planet Mira, which has just been measured by them, and proves to be the second largest star in the solar system, with a diameter of some 200,000,000 miles. They tell us, too, that it takes 155 years for the light to travel from Mira to this earth. Importance is attached to Mira, because of the belief that it is a "young" star. Sometimes it shines with great brilliancy, then it fades out, until it is not to be seen by the naked eye.

All of which goes to prove that the earth is little more than an atom in the universe, and each of us, thinking himself to be so large and important, is less—far less than the smallest grain of dust.

Politics do make very strange bedfellows. In Washington, President Coolidge, republican, wants further national tax cuts, and the minority is said to look upon the matter with unsympathetic eyes. In New York State, Governor Smith urges tax reductions, and his republican opponents do not seem to be enthusiastic about the governor's program. Taxation is a question of economics, and should never be a foot ball for political parties.

The new federal district attorney locks on 4000 places where it is alleged the supply of booze for those who have the price, is said to be quite as adequate as ever it was. Jail sentences are the only remedy for such violations.

Traditions Long Kept

Maddesty Clinton is one of the beautiful ancient mounted granges of England. It possesses a private chapel where, with one or two short periods of interruption, mass has been said ever since the days of the Reformation. But the Roman Catholic traditions of another country house, the chronicles of which have just been published, are even more remarkable than those of Maddesty Clinton. At East Hendred house, near Abingdon, there is a private chapel in the grounds which has stood there from the thirteenth century. Here the Eryton family, who have a private entrance from the library of the house, have worshipped for centuries; and it is accepted as a historical fact that the lamp before the altar has never ceased to burn for 900 years. No Protestant service has ever been held there, and it was left quite intact by Cromwell's soldiers when they visited East Hendred.—Family Herald.

Conscience Ruled Him

One of the witnesses at a royal commission appointed to inquire into a case of alleged bribery in an election stated that he had received $25 to vote Conservative, and in cross-examination it was elicited that he had also received $25 to vote Liberal. "You say you received $25 to vote Conservative?" "Yes, my lord." "And you also received $25 to vote Liberal?" "Yes, my lord." "And for whom did you vote at the election?" asked the astonished judge, throwing himself back in the chair. "And the witness, with injured dignity in every line of his face, answered with great earnestness: "I voted, my lord, according to my conscience."—Vancouver Province.

DODGE BROTHERS TYPE-B SEDAN

Popular with men because the body is all steel, the finish Dodge Brothers enduring black enamel, the upholstery genuine leather—factors which make for long life at lower first and after cost.

Reserves of Coal

In estimating coal in reserve it is usual to figure that in a vein of coal one foot thick there would be 1,800 tons under an acre. In a vein three feet thick it would amount to 5,400 tons. About one-third is estimated as waste, therefore, mined it would amount to 3,600 tons. The amount might be some less or possibly more.

"Banking" System Old

The Roman emperors lent money upon land. The lending of money on the security of movable articles, which were said to be pledged, became common in European countries during the Fifteenth century. Out of this grew the system known as pawnbroking, which was specially regulated in England in 1706, and 27 years later the business of pawnbroking was licensed.

Wealth Through Misfortune

At the end of life a man finds himself rich, not so much by his fortunes as by his misfortunes. The Persians had a vase of glass when empty was colorless, but when filled with wine flashed forth many rare pictures. So a bosom empty of a heart of pain makes a lusterless life, but a bosom in which a heart bleeds reveals hidden virtues.—Tilton.

Destroys His Own Vision

It is well to be in touch with many people. The man who keeps other people from looking in on him shuts the windows and draws the curtains so that he can't look out.

Or did you ever hear of a man who saved his money by waiting for just the right time to begin?

Of course not. Neither have we.

WILLIAM J. GUTHRIE

William J. Guthrie was born in Syvan, June 26, 1848, and died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jos. Smith of Fulton, March 11, 1926. He enlisted in the Civil war in 1862 and served three years. He was the last surviving member of Company K, 20th Infantry.

He was united in marriage with Julia Depew August 28, 1872. Mrs. Guthrie died nine years ago.

He is survived by one son, Warren Guthrie of Fulton, three daughters, Mrs. Joe Smith of Fulton, Mrs. Nelson Barnebee of Mendon, Mrs. Cecil Simpson of Illinois. He was a brother of Thomas Guthrie of Vicksburg, Albert, James and Samuel Guthrie of Chelsea.

The funeral was held Friday afternoon from the home of his daughter.

MRS. FRANCES A. WESTFALL

Frances Adelaide Hulce was born at Athens, Michigan, October 11, 1846. In the year 1884 she was joined in marriage to Palmer Westfall of Lima. For 34 years their residence was almost continuously in Washtenaw county on the old homestead 1 1/4 miles north of Lima Center.

To this union were born four sons and one daughter, all of whom have preceded her in death. In the year 1898 the husband also answered the call of the angel of death.

From the year 1918 she has made her home among her grandchildren and nephews. For several years the deceased has been afflicted with heart trouble but not until the last few months has this condition become acute. For the past 5 months she has been with a grandson in Detroit at whose home she passed from this world Sunday, March 15, 1926.

For three days the deceased had been unable to speak although she constantly tried to. What experiences and thoughts may have been hers can only be surmised but from her constant attitude of eagerness and optimism we are confident she met the call of the Creator undaunted.

The deceased has lived a long life of noble and sacrificial service to relatives and friends alike and will long be remembered because of the contribution of good will and happiness she made to her fellow creatures.

Those left to mourn their loss are: 2 grandsons, Clark P. Westfall of Levering and Corwin B. Westfall of Detroit; 3 nephews, Frank Hulce, Cheboygan, Fred T. Hulce, Niles, Guy O. Hulce, Chelsea; 3 nieces, Mrs. Cora Wagner, Colon, Mrs. Anne Simons, Battle Creek, Mrs. Adelaide Brounell, South Bend, Ind.; together with a large number of friends.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hulce and at 2 o'clock from the Lima Center church. Contributed.

Optometry—Its Value To The Public

By A. E. WIMANS & Son
Is it likely that many persons who are not now doing so should wear glasses?

Yes, investigation has proven that many people of all ages would be better for the help that Optometry gives.

Why do these not seek the aid of the Optometrist?

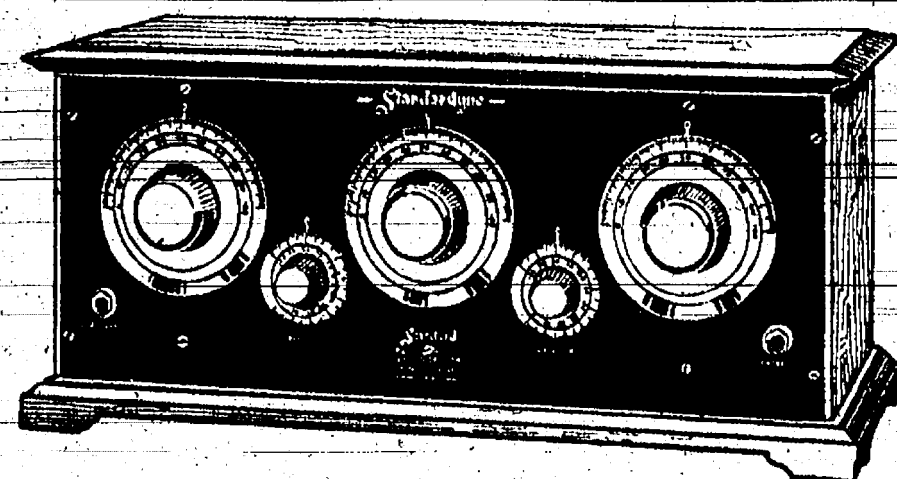

Because they do not know they need it. Even though a person may see perfectly without glasses they may be needed?

Yes, seeing well is no proof that glasses are not needed. Is there any way by which the Optometrist can convince people of their need of glasses?

No very direct method. If all children's eyes were examined on entering school many defects would be detected where they are not suspected.

What would happen if all defects of vision were corrected? There would be an immediate and surprising increase in health and efficiency.

To Clean Tortoise Shell

To repolish tortoise-shell articles that have become dull and dingy dip the finger in linseed oil and rub over the whole surface. Very little oil should be used and if the article is a pattered one it may be necessary to use a soft brush to get into the crevices. Then rub with the palm of the hand until all the oil has disappeared and the shell feels hot and looks bright and shiny.

World's Earliest Banks
The earliest banks on record were the national temples, such as Delphi and Delos in Greece. The money they received in deposit they loaned out at rates of interest varying from 10 to 80 percent per year. Private bankers were first found in Babylon in the time of Sardanapalus about 600 B. C. The Greeks, Romans and Suetonius all allude to the existence of banks in their histories.

When Padagogues Kicked
Scotland's army of schoolmasters in the year 1782 sent a memorial to parliament pointing out that while their average income was £18 a year that of a plowman was £14 to £16. No relief was granted until 1802, when the schoolmasters' act was passed, and their income was legally fixed at "not over 300 marks (£16 13s. 4d) nor over 400 marks (£22 13s. 4d)." The heritors had also to provide a house, which need not contain more than two rooms, including the kitchen, and with ground for a garden or not more than a quarter of a Scots acre, or two bolls of meal as its equivalent." They were highly magnanimous in being obliged to "erect places for dormitories," but legal compulsion could no longer be ignored. Thereafter conditions were at least good enough to prevent schoolmasters from resigning their office to become headless—as had actually happened during the darkest days!

Marvels of Jelly-Fish
The jelly-fish has a truly wonderful way of reproducing its species. In most cases the beginning is an egg, which, lying on the bottom, produces a beautiful tree-like growth. The "tree" fastens itself to the bottom and brings forth buds which, when ripe, drop off and develop into jelly-fish. The latest in turn lay eggs and the process is repeated. Most of the very large species have a different way of reproducing themselves. The egg is set free in the water and develops into a pear-shaped larva which floats about and swims about rapidly, being provided with half-a-dozen appendages that serve the purpose of ears. These larva settles down, anchors itself to the bottom, increases in size rapidly, and finally splits up into thin flat discs which swim off and grow up into large jelly-fishes.

Origin of Gloves
Gloves trace their origin back for centuries, the first mention of them in literature is to be found in the Bible, but scientists believe we should go back still farther for among prehistoric relics an unmistakable drawing of a glove, rudely etched upon a stone, was discovered.
It is said that the first skilled glove-makers were the monks of the Middle Ages. In 760 Charlemagne granted to the abbots and monks of Sithin, in ancient France, unlimited right of hunting the deer for skins of which to make gloves. Glove-making was established in France as an industry in the twelfth century.

Economical Wooling
"There are men, I suppose," she remarked pensively, "who get engaged to more than one girl at a time."
"Yes," he answered, "but I am not one of them."
"I'm glad to hear you say that. It is so frivolous and insincere."
"Of course. And there is no reason why a man shouldn't make one engagement ring go all the way around. He only takes his time."

Farm-Grows-Walking Sticks
In Europe, naturally grown walking sticks of cane are more popular than in America, and it is interesting to note that the walking stick farm located in Surrey, England, there an ancient custom is followed of growing a mixture of cane and cherry for the manufacture of cane and bamboo sticks.

FIVE REASONS Why Classified Advertising Will Sell What You Do Not Need

- 1.—The Chelsea Standard reaches the largest number of people who are in the market for your unused machinery, household goods, or live stock.
- 2.—The Standard has secured unusual results for those who have used its Classified Columns.
- 3.—Standard Readers have learned to look over the Classified Columns even before reading the local news.
- 4.—Past experience has convinced hundreds of the effectiveness of such advertising—why not you?
- 5.—Last, but not least,—the expense of Classified advertising is negligible compared with results obtained. Thousands of dollars of merchandise and farm equipment are sold every year with little outlay of money.

Look around today for that material you have long since ceased to use, but is still in good condition—some one wants it and will be glad to pay cash to get it. Don't wait until house cleaning time when rush of work compels you to destroy rather than "cash in" on such material.

RACEE SEES HOW HE RISKED LIFE MAKING THRILLS

Lou Wilson Views "Sporting Youth," Now Understands His Injury.

To sit in a theatre chair and see himself in an auto accident that almost cost him his life was the strange experience of Lou Wilson, racing driver, when he visited Universal City to see a specially arranged showing of Reginald Denny's new racing picture, "Sporting Youth," coming Wednesday and Thursday, March 25 and 26, to the Princess Theatre.

Wilson furnished one of the big thrills—although unintentionally. One of the Denny cameras caught the accident in which his car crashed over the embankment, through a fence, and hurled him twenty feet into the air. Several bystanders were injured and one man lost his life in the accident—the most severe in the big Detroit road race. By a miracle Wilson escaped without permanent injury.

Sitting in the Universal City projecting room, he saw himself in his car whirl around the curve, saw the machine skid, dash up the bank, and saw his own body, catapulted from the seat, go somersaulting through the air.

"Ouch!" yelled the racing driver. Wilson says that after he was picked up unconscious the racing officials found his shoes in the car. Wedged in the brake and shift pedals, they caught, as the shock hurled him into the air, drawing his feet completely out of them. It was by accident that the cameras caught the accident, but it was retained in the picture, with Wilson's approval, as one of the most startling thrills.

Denny, star of the picture, was present at the showing, it being in celebration of his first visit to the studio since the auto accident which confined him to his bed for weeks. He is still in a plaster cast, but is allowed to be carried about. Among the racing drivers present as Denny's guests at the showing were Ralph De Palma, Tommy Milton, Jerry Wonderlich, Jimmy Murphy, Bennie Hill, Harry Hartz and others.

ROAD COMMISSIONERS TAKE OVER STATE REWARD ROAD

The Sylvan township board on Thursday of last week received a notice from the board of county road commissioners that on March 6, 1925, the board took over state reward road No. 2384.

This road is in Sylvan and is the mile of road that was built about 10 years ago. It starts at the intersection of M-17 on the Chelsea-Manchester road and runs south through a portion of the farm of Fred Young, where it joins the road that was constructed last fall.

At this meeting the board also took over eight other roads which are situated in the townships of Webster, Dexter, Freedom, Manchester, Saline, Sharon, York and Lodi.

Scientists May Claim

Improvement on Nature

If experiments at present in progress prove satisfactory, in time to come steam boilers will not be used to work big power plants—mercury or sulphur vapors will be employed instead.

The idea is that such vapors involve much higher temperatures than even superheated steam, and the higher the temperature, of course, the greater the power produced.

The hot vapors, after driving a turbine, will be condensed, yielding their heat to water, thus generating steam for use in its turn.

This century has been a wonderful one for the chemical industry.

Even new materials have been produced, writes Mr. Harrison B. Howe in "These Eventful Years." The demand for silk at a low price has brought about the production of artificial silk. The fiber looks like silk, and answers the purpose of silk; yet it is made from wood pulp or even cotton.

In the plant world science is improving on nature. On sugar cane plantations it has been found that a certain kind of paper, when spread over the rows, discourages weeds and thus minimizes hoeing.

The same sheets can push through this specially prepared paper, which is tough enough to prevent quite effectively the growth of soft-topped weeds.

with your GAS man Serving All Alike

We serve many customers at a loss. They use such a small amount of gas that were our business like others we would have good reason for dropping them from our books. But you can't do this in the gas business.

We must serve all alike—the cottage and the mansion, the rich man and the poor man. And gas service must be of the same quality and of the same price to all—except in special cases where very large quantities are used.

The gas business is thoroughly democratic. Every customer is considered a good customer and treated as such. And we give just as careful consideration to the complaint received from the smallest customer as we do from the largest. That is the obligation of serving the public.

WASHTENAW HOLSTEIN

BREEDERS MEET MONDAY

The annual meeting of Washtenaw County Holstein breeders was held Monday evening, March 16th, at Hotel Tavern, Saline.

At 8 o'clock a banquet was served to about 75 Holstein breeders, their friends and families. One unique feature of this banquet was, instead of serving coffee for drink milk was served, donated by W. L. Randall of Saline, who no doubt has one of the finest and largest producing Holstein herds in the state. This milk was the product of one cow for one day, enough to satisfy 75 people, aside from what was used in the kitchen.

This cow, Howittie, Maid, Kentucky, 3-26, in eleven months made nearly 22,000 pounds milk containing 842 pounds fat, which is equivalent to over 1650 pounds of butter. A fine program was given with the president of the association, William Austin, acting as toastmaster in a very capable manner. The first of the program was a piano solo, by Miss Janace Austin, which was heartily applauded; secretary's report read by W. L. Spaulding; vocal solo, Mr. Miller, accompanied by Miss Austin at the piano; H. O. Oster gave a short talk suggesting the breeders to take a series of work along the Holstein lines the coming year. Holstein field man, James Hayes, told of the work of the state association last year and outlined plans for the national sale at Grand Rapids June 2, 3 and 4. He also demonstrated his true type Holstein cow; male chorus rendered several selections during the evening.

A very interesting feature on the program was the fine talk by Carlos Beckington, member of this boys' club, who was the lucky boy to attend the national dairy show in Milwaukee. Mr. Watt, manager of Washtenaw County Fair, encouraged the breeders to exhibit not only stock but grain and fruit; cornet solo, George Austin accompanied by Miss Austin at the piano; treasurer's report, read by A. A. Snyder. Election of officers followed: President, Wm. Austin; vice president, Glenn Bird; treasurer, Frank Geiger; secretary, W. L. Spaulding; directors, W. L. Randall; R. B. Waltrous. A two-reel motion picture entitled "Jonathan Barr's Confession" was shown. The meeting was one of the most enthusiastic held in some time and was enjoyed by all.

Rubber Skin Saves Fruit

A practical new process for preserving tropical fruits, other than bananas and pineapples, so that they may be shipped long distances, recently has been discovered, according to Popular Science monthly. The fruit, gathered a little before it is ripe, is immersed with a thin coating of rubber latex, which, when congealed, forms a protective skin. The process of ripening is slowed up. It is said, keeping the fruit in good condition.

When Names Don't Matter

By BAYARD D. YORK

(© 1935, Western Newspaper Union.)

"LIFE," said Russell Dunmore, "is a stupid, dull, wearisome—"
"It's your liver again," his Aunt Olivia interrupted. "The bottle of black pills is—no, on second thought, I believe this would be better. After you've dropped me at Mrs. Montgomery's drive out to the cottage and back. The drive will do you good."

Russell had come. And now, with the cottages inspected and locked up again and the October twilight approaching, he paused beside his car at the sound of running footsteps.

Suddenly some one screamed. It was a shrill little sound, promptly stifled, and followed by a few guttural words. Then the scream was repeated, this time with a wild, beseeching, half-crazed note in it.

As Russell leaped around the corner of the cottage he caught the words: "There's nobody there, and if there was—" and then he cut in sharply. "What's going on here?" he demanded.

The blood was racing in his veins. The young man before him was unquestionably one of the natives of the lake region, uncouth, burly, sullen—but upon the girl's face was the evidence of intelligence and good breeding.

"None of your business," the big fellow said, in a surly tone.

Russell stepped forward. The other fellow gave no second warning. The quickly swung fist reached the spot which the point of Russell's chin had just occupied, but the chin was no longer there.

"So!" he muttered grimly. As the momentum of the unsuccessful blow carried his antagonist somewhat off his balance, Russell doubled his own fist and swung. The big fellow went down.

He was up with a yell of rage. He seemed like some huge flying animal as he rushed toward Russell. Again the latter's fist shot out—and again it reached its mark.

And now the thick-chested chap advanced slowly, with an eye of caution, and Russell knew that he faced the final test. His opponent's blows registered.

With one last desperate effort Russell tried to drag his brain from the daze which held it, tried to force his muscles into action—and failed.

Then something which seemed like a white cloud rushed between him and the speeding blow; he heard a little choking sob and knew that in some way, which at the moment he did not understand, he had been saved from the knockout.

Then he heard the girl's warning shriek and, glancing behind him, saw his new peril. A tall, fore-armed man was running toward him.

In that instant Russell became a man again. With a fury such as he never imagined himself capable of feeling, he struck out with all his might. His fist reached its mark.

The broad-shouldered fellow went down—and lay still. Russell whirled to meet his new foe. In the gloom he saw two other men approaching.

He felt the girl's hand on his arm. "Better run for it," she suggested. Together they leaped up the path. He pushed her into the car and jumped in. As the engine whirled he heard a shout behind him. The car gathered speed.

"Think you can carry off my daughter?" The voice was at Russell's ear. He turned. The tall man had galloped a position on the running board.

Russell swung his whole body around. The instant the man was sprawling by the roadside.

"I think I can!" Russell muttered grimly. Some eight miles down the road the girl spoke.

"Six o'clock," she murmured. "I was to have married him at six o'clock!"

"With your father's consent?" Russell asked.

"That man isn't my father," she answered. "While I was at college mother married him and then—then she died—and he—he—oh, it's all a horrible dream!"

A sudden wild spirit of romance seized Russell.

"Will you marry me—at seven o'clock?" he demanded.

The moon was rising above the treetops. Whirling his answer, he turned and looked into her eyes. She met his gaze steadily, perhaps a bit proudly.

Suddenly he understood. She challenged him to win her, not by cunning methods, but as a man should win the girl he loves.

"I'll take you to Aunt Olivia's," he said.

For a time they rode on in silence. Then Russell spoke.

"I don't even know your name—or you mine," he said. "But names don't always matter, do they? Do you know?" he concluded with a sudden smile. "Life is a mighty wonderful thing!"

Real Humility

A man in a train was accosted by a clergyman, who shook hands with him, saying: "Hello, Mr. Blinks."

"That's not my name," said the man.

The clergyman apologized and the man replied: "Never mind, I have shaken hands with a good man."

"Not at all," returned the clergyman.

Persia in History

Persia or Iran, in the Old Testament called Elam, is situated in southwest Asia. Its early history is mythical.

For some time the country was ruled by the Medes, living to the north, but in the year 550 B. C. the Persians under Cyrus revolted against the Medes, overthrew the Medo-Babylonian monarch, conquered Asia Minor, and became masters of the East. Cyrus, the king of the Persians, was killed in battle in 529 B. C.
