LEGS ARE CRUSHED BY INTERURBAN CAR

Clarence Feldkamp, 19 year old son of Henry Feldkamp of Rogers Corners, is in University hospital in Ann Arbor, suffering from injuries received when his legs were crushed by an interurban car at Lima Center about 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

He was reported resting comfortably Monday. Both legs were fractured and an operation was necessary, although his legs were not amputated.

Feldkamp was left at Lima Center depot by his brother to await a car for Jackson, where he is employed according to reports. While seated near the tracks, he failed to notice an eastbound car, which crushed his legs. He was discovered some time after the accident by a resident of Lima Center.

WILL OPEN NEW GASOLINE FILLING STATION TODAY

That motorists will have ample opportunity to get "gas" when traveling on M-17 south of Chelsea is evidenced by the addition of a new filling station to "gasoline alley" today when Harry Prudden and Paul Pierce open to the public an up-to-date supply depot, modern and convenient in every respect at the east corner of the intersection of M-17 and M-92.

The station which has been in the course of erection for several weeks will be known as the "Community Service Station," and will handle Standard Oil products. Two pumps will be in operation assuring the public quick and efficient service.

MAINTAIN ISSUES WARNING TO TRAFFIC VIOLATORS

An emphatic warning with threats of drastic steps being taken upon failure to obey has been issued by the law enforcement department of the village government, to violators of traffic ordinances. Persistence of motorists to ignore stop signals, drive without tail lights, and speeding through village streets beyond the limit specified by ordinance has resulted in the necessity for such steps, according to Marshal Atkinson, who states that prosecution will follow continued violation.

EUCRE PARTIES WILL CLOSE TONIGHT

The silver loving cup will be played off tonight by the two highest winners in each lodge. The winner each year will keep the cup in their lodge room for the year until the next tournament is played off and if the same lodge should win again the cup will remain in that lodge for another year and if one of the other lodges should win the cup will go to that particular lodge room for that year and so on.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN CLINIC

WILL BE HELD APRIL 23

Armory at Ann Arbor Will See Continuation of County Service Clubs' Work.

Washington county's clinic for crippled children, sponsored by the six service clubs of the county, will be held at the Armory, Ann Arbor, according to an announcement Wednesday by Capt. I. O. Holm, chairman of the committee on place and equipment. The date already has been set for Thursday, April 23.

Members of Kiwanis, Exchange and Rotary clubs completed their survey of the county several weeks ago and committeemen estimate that about 150 children will be examined at the clinic.

Many of these already have had expert surgical attention, but it is pointed out, the club members will be more than compensated for their work if only a few of the children are benefited.

At similar clinics which have been conducted in other counties, conditions have paralleled the situation here. In practically every instance, however, some defects have been brought to the attention of physicians which have been corrected.

Arrangements for the clinic are being completed rapidly. Committees were appointed for carrying out the work at a meeting of club officials last week and several of these have their work practically complete.

Dr. H. H. Cummings, who is chairman of the committee on surgeons, has received promise from several outstanding doctors to assist in the work. Miss Frances Thorp has selected several local nurses to help in her branch of the work. She expects the assistance of nurses of St. Joseph's Mercy hospital and from University hospital. Several Ypsilanti nurses also will donate their services.

Other branches of the work are in the hands of the following committee chairmen: Clinic, Dr. Harley Haines; social service, Mrs. L. H. Boynton; transportation, Ray Vogel; recreation and reception, L. C. Reimann. Luncheon will be served by the King's Daughters.

Dr. A. A. Palmer, Chelsea, will represent the Chelsea club on the clinic committee; W. R. Daniels, transportation; Rev. E. L. Sutherland, reception.

Editorial

CHEMISTRY OF LIFE

The report from Baltimore that Professor Treat E. Johnson of Yale University has found new compounds in the cells that compose the human body and support life, gives rise to the publication of the scientist's statement that the riddle of life is nearer a solution than it ever has been.

For many years chemistry has been brought into play in combating and curing the ills to which the flesh is heir, and chemists have been ever broadening their field of investigation. Professor Johnson's report that the minute cells of the body are the fundamental unit of all living matter, and that within these units al-vital force is centered, is following in line with announcements of scientists made from time to time, in regard to the important part cell life plays in human life and activities.

The application of chemistry for the purpose of converting a diseased or non-functioning condition into a healthy, functioning condition has been practiced for several years with, in some cases, astonishing results.

Scientists believe they are at last on the final lap of the journey of discovery which will reveal the innermost secrets of all life and its purposes.

IN THE NAME OF PROGRESS

The announcement made by Mrs.
 Mabel G. Reinecke, collector of internal revenue at Chicago, that bootleggers, burglars and other criminals may file their schedules and pay income tax without fear that these will be used against them, is a startling revelation of our so-called "progress." Mrs. Reinecke assures an in dictable offense to publish or give information as to schedules, and clearly indicates that the government will not, perhaps can not, use confidential information given in an income tax schedule to detect crime or punish criminals.

The lady adds, in concluding her report that a burglar, making his return for income tax purposes, made a deduction "for tools lost while on the job."

We may well let out a wail for law and order when we thus see one branch of the government promising protection to criminals from prosecution of another part of the same government.

UNUSUAL PUNISHMENT

America is threatened with an army scandal growing out of the sentencing by a military court martial of Private Paul Crouch to 40 years and Private Walter Turnbull to 26 years at hard labor, on the charge of organizing a secret society in Hawaii, and making statements against the President of the United States.

It was one of the pre-war pastimes of Americans to ridicule and even express horror because of the Jesu-matic activities on the part of the Prussian courts, punishing German citizens for utterances against the "sacred person of Wilhelm." But no man ever got a sentence of forty years at hard labor for it.

It is important, as a matter of course, to uphold the dignity of the presidential office in these United States. But we should not be blamed if we sometimes wonder if our tendencies are too much away from a democratic form of government, and if we are not embracing too much of the form of a despotism in the application of some of our laws and the extremity of our punishments.

Too great activity in punishing men for radicalism will bring about the very thing it is intended to suppress—a strong radical feeling in the country far out-reaching any plan the propaganda or plotting of red radicals might bring about.

The book containing the private correspondence of Theodore Roosevelt with his nearest and dearest friend, Henry Cabot Lodge, reveals some very interesting inside history of our country in the past quarter century. Among other things, it shows how Japan was greatly ad-vantaged by the American support given her in her great contest with Russia.
 It is hard to believe the jingo newspaper stories when one reads these inside facts.

France participated in the naval disarmament party at Washington some three years ago, but she announces that she is unwilling to participate in any conference looking to limiting airplane equipment to be used for war purposes. France leads the world in airplane equipment for war purposes.

The fight between Senator Couzens of Michigan, and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, reminds us of the old saying that "when senators and cabinet members fall out, then may we expect full tax returns."

Detroit threatens to secede from Michigan if she isn't given more representation. What a nuisance. It would be to have to send out of the state for Ford parts.

Handling Money in the Modern Way

In modern business very little actual money is handled. It changes hands almost entirely through checks. The bank handles the cash, thus saving the individual the inconvenience of carrying it and the risk of losing it.

A check book also serves as a recommendation to the business world.

It will be to your advantage in every way to have a checking account at this strong

Question: Why are more women driving Buicks than any other make of six-cylinder car?

Answer: One reason is the striking appearance of this famous motor car. Then comes Buick dependability. A woman knows when she starts out with her Buick that she will "get there and back." Other reasons are—the comfort in driving a Buick—the velvet clutch action, easy steering; then the power and quietness of Buick's Valve-in-Head engine and the safety of Buick mechanical four-wheel brakes.

READY MONEY

Recently there was a stir in the financial and industrial world when the announcement was published that Dillon, Read & Co., had purchased the motor car manufacturing business of Dodge Bros., at a price in the neighborhood of $150,000,000.

This price for a business built up practically in a decade, reads like a romance, and yet, it is but half the story.

Last week the preferred stock of the new company was offered, a share of preferred carrying with it a share of the common stock as a bonus. The $85,000,000 was over-subscribed many times, reports being that subscriptions approximating $200,000,000 were received personally by telephone, telegraph and cable.

This indicates a great plenty of money in our country, and yet, reports on business indicate that there is not the retail business of other years, and a stagnation in many lines, that appear quite serious.

We have had many financial stringencies and business depressions, but we have never had a big business depression in a season of plentiful money. Money to be worth anything, must be kept employed. If it is kept employed, it is usually doing something even in a keenly competitive way, to earn its keep, to keep in circulation and gets in the hands of workers and wage earners who spend it.

Are we, upon investigation, to find that the failure to apply Sherman anti-trust law—the building up of trade agreements, and "trade customs," has practically eliminated all competition, especially in industrial and wholesale lines? Perhaps this consolidation of interests may have something to do with business depression?

It would be interesting to have a complete, accurate survey of the situation, and a comprehensive report on this very unusual condition in America.

HELPING THE CHILDREN

Mrs. William T. Carter of Philadelphia has endowed a chair in the University of Pennsylvania for Child Helping.

Mrs. Carter is the widow of William T. Carter, Philadelphia industrialist, financier and philanthropist, who for a quarter of a century maintained the "William T. Carter Junior Republic" at Redington, Pa., for the betterment of boys. This drew to him international notice and fame.

The Carter chair of Child Helping has a broad field, embracing every activity for child aid, from the home to the school and into vocational pursuits. It is along broader lines than anything yet attempted.

The general movement for child aid, fostered by luncheon clubs, and similar organizations are beginning to bear fruit. The movement to secure government aid for crippled children has grown out of these endeavors to have this class of our citizenry benefited by providing aid to children whose parents can not get for them the proper help, or for such as have neither parents nor means of securing aid.

As mental derelicts are taken care of by state institutions, those interested in helping crippled children urge that it is just as important to care for the crippled children. To do the things necessary to give them an opportunity in life on an equal footing with other children. They say most of these children will be reclaimed as useful citizens to the country, and that it is as important to help these as it is to help such as are and will continue a hopeless burden on the community.

Child welfare work is taking hold of the hearts and imagination of the present generation as nothing else has. It is safe to predict that great good will come out of it.

Babe Ruth, the "King of Swat," has had two fainting spells on the spring training trip. He has never been known to faint at the plate, however. If he does all his spring training early, he will hold his throne for yet another season, in all likelihood.

Governors seem to be burdened with recalcitrant sons. The governor of Ohio is the latest to have cause to regret acts of his young hopeful. Is it that the people are making too many mistakes at the polls, or that the governors are not properly governing that smallest unit of the nation—the home?

The member of the state legislature who offered prayer at the open-

One Billion Dollars

That's a lot of money. But it is estimated that every year Americans lose one billion dollars in fake stocks and speculative schemes. This great loss could be practically eliminated if everyone would adhere to the following suggestion:

FOR TEN YEARS-DEPENDABLE

Exceptional dependability has been a characteristic of Dodge Brothers Motor Car since the day the first of these sturdy cars was marketed.

Not once in a decade has it failed to uphold and enhance its reputation for faithful performance.

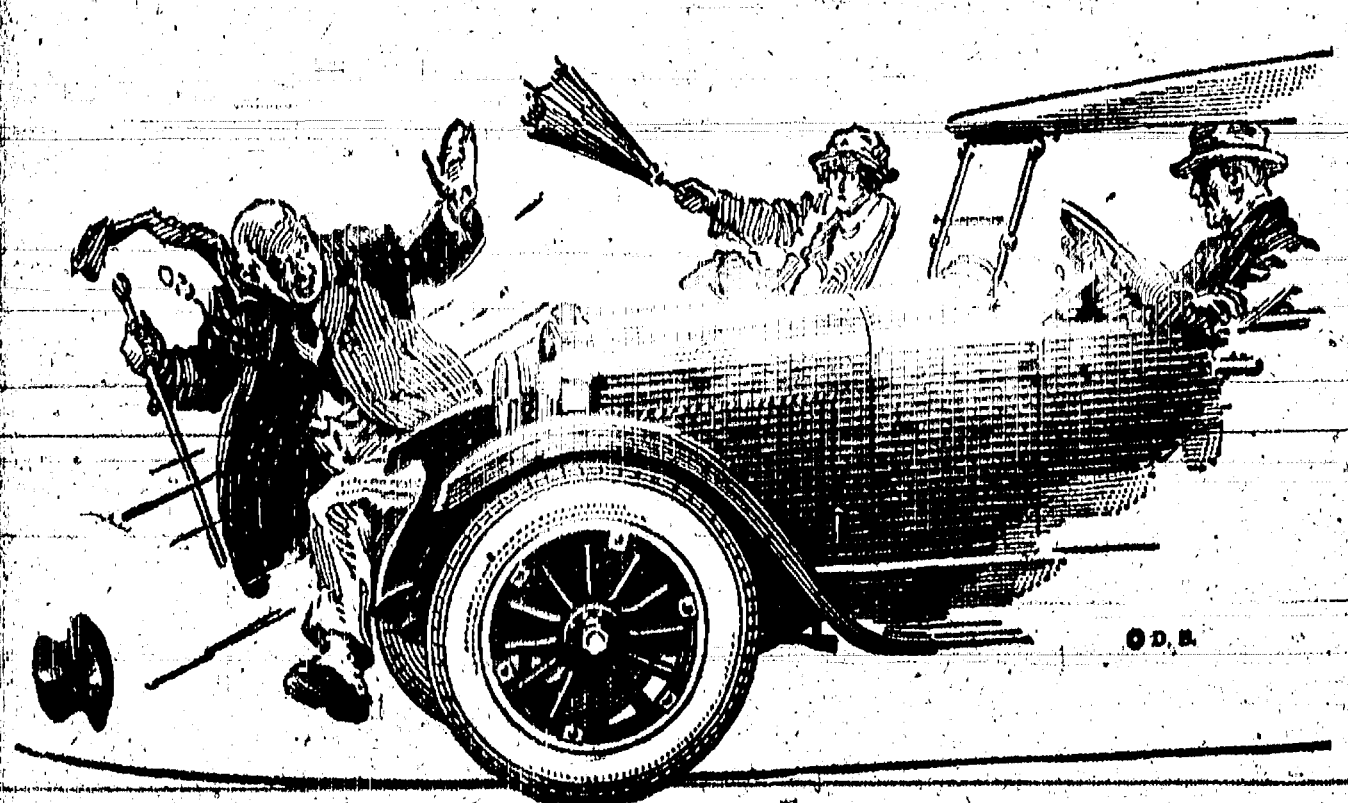

The reason for its consistent goodness and continued betterment points directly back to the ideals of the founders.

Instead of fluctuating between an endless series of annual models, they determined to concentrate on the perfection of a single chassis.

Dodge Brothers Motor Car today is the embodiment of that ideal—an ideal that will endure as long as the institution itself.

PUZZLE SECTION OF THE STANDARD

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition placed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black square below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Crocodiles' Advantages

Crocodiles, particularly those of the Egyptian Nile, are mighty hunters, although they exercise great judgment in choosing their victims. They are extraordinarily tough and tenacious of life, and are so shrewd and defended by their strong skins that other animals have much difficulty in combating them.

Variety of Food in China

Vegetables are used much more freely by the Chinese people than by the Americans. In addition to the common ones, such as potatoes, spinach, cabbage, radishes, and the like, many plants and woods are eaten which are not usually considered as food in America. Thus radish leaves, shepherd's purses, bamboo sprouts and a large number of seaweeds are used as food.

Creative Spirit Supreme

It is the creative spirit of man which fashions the world and turns it into a habitable home—compelling blind forces to go our way and yield to our ends.—Hugh Black.

Evolution of Trombone

The trombone, from the Italian "tromba," a trumpet, was formerly called the sackbut, and is a brass instrument of uncertain invention and epoch, though it appears in a manuscript of the Ninth century, preserved at Bologna, and a drawing bearing a great resemblance to the trombone of today without its bell.—Music World.

Nothing is known of the author of the first published dictionary of the English language, except that his first name was Henry Cockerham. His "English Dictionary" first appeared in 1620, and by 1670 had twelve editions.

EUROPEAN CORN BORER
MEETINGS ARRANGED

Many farmers and corn growers in Washtenaw County do not appreciate the seriousness of the European corn borer, which made its appearance in this county last year and was definitely identified in the following townships: Augusta, York, Ypsilanti, Superior and Salem. No doubt it will advance further westward during the coming summer. A series of meetings has been arranged by the county agent to acquaint farmers with the seriousness of this pest and methods of procedure to be followed in its control. At these meetings moving pictures will be shown illustrating the life history and practical control measures.

The State Department of Agriculture has recognized the seriousness of this pest and the legislature has already appropriated money to assist in carrying out control measures. It will only be through the cooperation of the corn growers that rapid spread to southern Michigan and other corn belt states can be prevented.

Last summer county agent Osler, together with a number of farmers from Washtenaw county visited a

Optometry—Its Value
To The Public

By A. E. Williams & Son

Is far-sight a question of age?

No, age has nothing to do with it.
In fact most children are far-sighted. But in youth the defect is often not suspected.

Does far-sight in children cause distress?

That depends upon the extent of the error and other circumstances.
It would be possible for a far-sighted child to suffer severely and no one recognize the cause of the trouble.

Yes, thousands of children are so afflicted.

How is far-sight corrected?

By having the Optometrist determine the extent of the error and supply glasses that make seeing as nearly normal as desirable.

The far-sight is not always fully corrected?

No, comfortable vision can often be secured by giving a partial correction.

How can the Optometrist determine how much of the error to correct?

His studies and experience guide him in this matter, and his advice should be carefully followed.

To Extract Splinter

To extract a splinter, take a wide, mouthed bottle and nearly fill it with hot water, then hold the injured part over the mouth of the bottle and press down quite lightly. The suction will act as a poultice and draw the flesh down and the splinter will come out quite painlessly.

We

...the late Charles Brookfield used to tell a story of a miserable railway journey that he had to undertake with some friends in order to get to a certain country house. It was bitterly cold, and by the time they got to the end of their journey it was pitch dark, and they were nearly frozen. A private omnibus had been sent to meet them, and they trudged in and pulled up the glass of the window.

"I hope to goodness they're remembered to put in the foot warmers!" exclaimed one of them, reconnoitering with his foot. "Oh, thank goodness! Yes, they're there."

Sure enough, they found, stored under the seats, two heavy contrivances which they hauled into line and gratefully rested their feet on. The effect was instantaneous. Immediately a delicious warmth permeated the soles of their boots and thawed their feet and soon their whole bodies were in a glow.

"Thank it!" one of them remarked, perspiring freely. "This is almost as much of a good thing. Let's have the window down."

They were immediately warm and refreshed by the time they arrived at the house, where they were met by an apologetic butler, who expressed regret that the omnibus had been sent out without foot warmers. It then turned out that the objects on which they had been so easily resting their feet were two of their own gun cases. Their own imaginations had warmed their feet.

Galen Earned Title, "Father of Medicine"

The foundations of medical science were laid in the early part of the first century by Claudius Galen.

Galen was born at Pergamum in Asia Minor. He spent some years at Alexandria and later went to Rome, where he was a doctor to the emperor and even performed dissections upon animals.

He considered that disease was largely based upon the four humors of man—bile, blood, phlegm and black bile—which were regarded as related to (but not identical with) the four elements—fire, air, earth and water—being supposed to have characters similar to these.

Thus to bile as to fire were attributed the properties of heat and dryness; to blood and air those of heat and moistness; and finally black bile, like earth, was said to be cold and dry.

"Hobble" Starway

In a certain building in Skowhegan, Maine, is an unusual sight of staves which have a rise of 6 inches and a correspondingly narrow tread, looking as if they were made for the convenience of small children. This stairway was built according to the idea of Dr. Henry Leavitt, a dentist in the building. It was the day of the hobble shoe that in a hobble skirt, any man who wanted a flight of ordinary stairs with difficulty and "Doctor" Leavitt planned the stairs with this style in mind. About the time they were finished, the style passed as a first-class invention, but the stairs will remain a memorial to a forgotten freak of fashion.

Louisiana Purchase

Payment for the Louisiana purchase was not made in actual gold coin or bullion. The exact cost of the purchase was 64,000,000 francs in the form of United States 6 per cent bonds, representing a capital of $11,250,000. The ultimate cost would include not only the par value of the bonds, but also the years' interest, the cost of surveying, the cost of transportation and of selling the lands. In addition, the American government agreed to assume the obligations of France to American citizens for French debts on American shipping. These obligations were estimated at $3,750,000, making a total payment of $15,000,000.

That Was the Trouble

A stranger on the main street of Homerville, Ark., came upon a battered individual with both eyes blacked and face swollen with bruises, lying in a heap against the curb at the principal corner.

"What happened to you?" asked the stranger with some agitation.

"A fellow beat me up," was the reply. "for not paying a bill."

"Why don't you send for a doctor?" the doctor was here about a minute ago, partner.

"Oh, you're all right, then?"

"Why, partner, said the wounded citizen, "it was the doctor's bill I don't pay."—Hjyega.

Beech for Fuel

Beeches are beautiful throughout the year. From the ground to their polished slender trunks the gray to brown bark is clean and smooth, and both bark and twigs are so distinctive that they are not to be confused with other trees of the forest. These trees are found only in their beauty and well, says "The Hobbies" by the American Association for Furniture. They are valuable for furniture and are made into bedsteads, dressers, and other household articles. Beech is also used for fuel. It has a superior quality.

BARTHOLOMEW hadn't been secretary to old William W. Twohey, the old millionaire, long enough to sense every weather signal. Had Bartholomew not been so absorbed with the photograph he held in his hand he might have taken a second look at the old man.

"Pardon me, Mr. Twohey," Bartholomew began. "I wanted to show you, sir, my little—"

"Bartholomew! Good!" he barked. In his nervousness Bartholomew laid his photograph on the desk.

"Yes, sir," he said.

"Call Grimsshaw Detective Agency. Now," snapped Bartholomew.

"What?" gasped Bartholomew.

"Personal. Never mind what. Do as told. All right. Make appointment. This morning."

Allen F. Grimsshaw himself received the perfunctory old message. William W. Twohey, like a photograph, started the conversation.

"Grimsshaw? Course, seen your photograph. Good! Only man can help me. Know me? William W. Twohey. Sit down. Mr. Twohey," interrupted the detective manager.

William W. Twohey, in his pocket, "Confidential," he muttered. "Young kid. Gene. Out in Los Angeles. Whishire university. Student, understand? Only nineteen."

"You don't mean—"

"Certainly not. Young blood. Impulsive. Gene crazy to get married. You send him operative, must be young, to Los Angeles today, understand?"

"I do. Enter Whishire."

"University? That's it. Don't care what it costs. Save kid from pitfall my price. Gene crazy to go in 'nuptials' too."

"Naturally."

"No, any way. Dumbbell on subject. Getting married, too. Prevent him. Must have close chum."

"Be—have you a photograph of your—"

"Here. Can't find later one. Show Gene's face. Hasn't changed."

"How old did you say your—"

"Nineteen. Full of wild ideas. California good place for Gene. If watched, you do that, Grimsshaw. Here's check thousand dollars. He'll never understand? Send young operative, your best."

"Very best—in this case. Mr. Twohey. Thanks. Now the Los Angeles address of—"

"Gene? Lives Delta Kappa Tau house. Mrs. Something or other in charge. Name or Mrs. Bronson, that's it. Suppose to watch down here. Mr. Twohey. Now—"

"Send operative today, understand? Now student. Got it all down? No going in the movies, no getting married, no—"

"Don't worry. I'll remember everything. I'll send you confidential daily—"

"Reports? Don't want 'em. Just watch Gene. That's all. No news, good news. Wire me if the kids—"

"About to throw over the traces? I'll have the operative do that direct to you, Mr. Twohey."

"Going to Grimsshaw. Good day. Send bill. Keep photograph. Give it to operative. Going to rain, huh? My—"

Out in Los Angeles apparently everything went all right with the youngest of William W. Twohey's brood. Week by week came from the Grimsshaw office but no reports.

Six weeks passed. Then a terse telegram, direct to old William W. Twohey.

Your son, Gene, has had marriage fever past three weeks. Impossible to stop or cure him. Marriage solution—have him married. So married him myself this morning. Wiring Grimsshaw office same report. Am resigning position. We are leaving tonight for Honolulu. Our honeymoon. All well. Same to you and Mr. Grimsshaw.

MARY RUTH, Operative.

A few minutes later—very few—the millionaire burst into the inner office of the detective manager. Both were snoring mad; both had wires in their hand, both began exploding at once.

Beautiful in Ruin Is Famous Dryburgh Abbey

A beautiful ancient church, like a fine old painting or poem, has a message for people of the present day. It is as if the builders challenged the modern world in this wise: "Here is our ideal of beauty; it breathes the life of our time and marks a step in our progress. Do you moderns surpass us in such expressions of beauty?"

The abbey of Dryburgh lies in Berwickshire, just across the border not far from Abbotford and Melrose abbey, says the Christian Science Monitor. There is a question whether it was founded by David I in 1150, or by Hugh de Morville. Probably both much for it. The abbey today is surrounded by orchards and noble trees and a peninsula around which sweeps the Tweed river. Two gables are still entire, and in the west end is a beautifully radiated elevation, called the wheel of St. Catherine. The general architecture of the abbey shows Roman, Saxon, Norman and Gothic influences. The spot is especially well known for its association with Sir Walter Scott. His Thompson composed his "Winter" here, and long before that Gower, the friend of Chaucer, occupied a cell in Dryburgh abbey. Chaucer himself stayed some time here with his friend and rival.

Then She Knew All There Was to Know

"Is this a speedometer?" she asked, as she tapped on the glass which covered that instrument.

"Yes, dear," I replied in a sweet, gentle voice.

"Don't they call this the dash light?" she queried, fingering the little nickel-plated illuminator.

"Yes, honey," my words floated out softly as before.

"And is this the cut-out?" she inquired.

"Yes, Tagolles," as I took my foot off the accelerator. Not more than 200 feet away our course was blocked by a fast moving train.

"But what on earth is this funny-looking pedal?" she said in a curious tone, as she gave the accelerator a vigorous push with her dainty foot.

"This, sweetheart, is heaven," I said in a soft, celestial voice, as I picked up a gold harp and flew away.—The Watchman Examiner.

Days of the Guilds

The name "guilds" was given to certain corporations or fraternities of trades that grew up in the free cities and towns of Europe in the Middle Ages. Free cities of this kind in England were called "boroughs." These corporations were most powerful in the towns of Flanders and South Germany. Each guild exercised a monopoly in its own particular craft. In return for what privilege the members rendered military service in right to exercise one's trade independently depended upon membership in a guild, which membership carried with it the rights of citizenship. The guild was expected to supervise the work of its members and to see that it was of reasonable quality. Henry VIII of England gave a death blow to the guilds by confiscating their property, on the ground that it was used for surreptitious purposes.—Kansas City Star.

It is the young who want to reform the world, but don't know how—and it is the old who know how, but are too indifferent to do it.—Exchange.

One of the oldest cities in the world is Shimon Sumner on the east of British Columbia. The entire place is made up of floating dwellings. The chief industry in that section is logging and most of the work is done on the sides of steep cliffs where it is almost impossible to build a house. Then, too, the loggers are continually moving to new sites. So they solve their housing problem by building comfortable dwellings of cedar, similar to shingles only about twice the size and rougher on log rafters. The loggers live in these raft houses for many years, towing their homes to new sites for logging.

A number of years ago one enterprising logger tied his raft house up at the place called Shimon Sound. As the anchorage was good and the location was sheltered from wind sales, he started a store. Gradually other floating dwellings were added until now steamships make regular calls to the port and the government has established a post office there. The main street of this floating city has all been connected and considerable city beautifying has been done. Flowers have been planted along the way in old canoes and the storekeeper has a garden in an earth-filled boat. In the winter many new floating homes are added to the city, but they float away again when the loggers go back to logging with the return of good weather.—Pittsburgh Courier.

Puritan and Pilgrim Too Often Confused

I should like to call attention to a mistake which appeared in the Public Ledger of March 7. It was the confusion, or rather the mistaken identification, of "Pilgrims" and "Puritans." Even as well read and well educated a man as Theodore Roosevelt made this error and was corrected by Henry Cabot Lodge, writes June L. Farnham in the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The Pilgrims settled Plymouth in 1620, while the Puritan migration did not take place until 1630, when the May colony was founded. No doubt both colonies were intolerant, according to our modern ideas, but the Puritans were stern in the extreme and banished such as differed with them in religious beliefs. Among those banished were Roger Williams, Anne Hutchinson and the Quakers.

The Pilgrim colony for fifty years at least did not restrict the votes to church members, as the Puritans did. Perhaps this difference between Pilgrims and Puritans seems infinitesimal to Philadelphians, but it is rather important in New England.

Freaks of Lightning

It is frequently said that lightning never strikes twice in the same place. This is not so. Only a few days ago two houses near Brentwood, Essex, England, were struck for the second time within a few months.

Mr. W. Larkins, the well-known steeplejack, was once called upon to repair a house in Sussex that had actually been struck by lightning on three separate occasions.

He found, on investigation, that the building stood on a subsoil of iron stone, such as is found in many parts of the world of Sussex. This subsoil is of course a splendid conductor of electricity. Hence the peculiarity of the lightning for the house, in question.

with your GAS man Serving All Alike

We serve many customers at a loss. They use such a small amount of gas that were our business like others we would have good reason for dropping them from our books. But you can't do this in the gas business.

We must serve all alike—the cottage and the mansion, the rich man and the poor man.
And gas service must be of the same quality and of the same price to all—except in special cases where very large quantities are used.

The gas business is thoroughly democratic.
Every customer is considered a good customer and treated as such. And we give just as careful consideration to the complaint received from the smallest customer as we do from the largest. That is the obligation of serving the public.

Vast Fortunes Theirs for Few Brief Hours

"I was a millionaire on paper for a brief few hours," said a clerk in a leading brokerage house and he added, "as a matter of fact I did not know I had been a millionaire until the chief bookkeeper showed a paper under my nose and commanded me to sign on the dotted line. I then observed that I had held 75,000 shares of leading industrial stock overnight, the certificate being in my name, and that I was about to sign away nearly $3,000,000.
The thrill was brief."

In many brokerage houses everybody from the office boy up temporarily has much wealth in his or her name. Some years ago a certain house had put ten thousand shares of a Standard Oil stock in a clerk's name. When the stock clerk came with the customary waiver for the estate's shareholder to sign, he was home on Long Island Island.

A hurry call revealed he was dangerously ill and in no condition to sign anything and would not be for some while; in fact, the doctor said, "I hope we can save him."

He came around and signed the paper some weeks later, but he had actually been the possessor of $3,000,000 of stock for that time and if he had died, the firm would have had to go through some legal gestures to unravel the net tape around an unindorsed certificate. —Wall Street Journal.

Classification of Teas

Tears are classed as green and black, according to color, flavor and mode of preparation. The leaves for green tea are heated or roasted slightly in shallow pans over a good fire almost as soon as gathered, after which they are rolled with the hands upon a table to decrease the moisture and to twist them. They are again roasted and quickly dried. The leaves for black tea are spread out in the open air for some time and then tossed with the hands until flaccid, roasted a few hours in a soft and moist state.
They are finally dried over a charcoal fire. The operation of rolling and roasting is sometimes repeated several times until the leaves have become the proper color.

Touch of Defilement

Sophronius had a fair daughter named Eulalia and she asked his permission one day to visit the gay Lucinda. "I cannot allow it," said the father. "Then you must think me exceedingly weak," said the daughter indignantly. Sophronius picked up a dead cat from the hearth and handed it to his daughter, but she hesitated to accept it. "Take it, my child, it will not burn you." Eulalia obeyed, and the milky whiteness of her hand was instantly gone. "Father, we cannot be too careful in handling cats," said the vexed daughter. "No," said the father solemnly, "for even when they do not burn their blacken." So it is with evil companions and communications.

Exist on Porcupine

Four men, wrecked on the north side of the Kenai peninsula in northern Alaska, lived entirely on porcupines until they were picked up by a boat a month later. This diet agreed with them so well that they were in fine physical condition when rescued.
The porcupine is one of the easiest of wild creatures to kill, for it cannot run fast and succumbs quickly to a blow from a stick. At night and time again prospectors whose provisions have become exhausted in the wilds have been saved from starvation by the flesh of these animals. An unwritten law of the North is that a porcupine must not be killed except for food.

Two Minutes' Silence

By C. N. WILLIAMSON

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

LADY PERKINS pushed in as Sir Richard was ducking the curtain.
The screen (a big sheet) was in its place on the wall. Everything was ready for the show.

"I've broken it to them," she gasped.
"What? You told them they were going to see—"

"No, not But Anne was determined to know why she and Dick had been brought down together to Surrey at this unearthly hour in the morning, so I thought it was better to confess—I mean confess that you were anxious they should see one of your films—the last time they're likely to see anything together before the divorce."

"Good God!" exploded the old admiral. "Proceedings aren't begun, are they?"

"Sh! Don't speak so loudly. The windows are open behind the curtains.
If Anne and Dick are in the garden—" "Well, while there's life there's hope! What did we bring them down for to this garden of memories? Cheer up, old girl. There, I'm all ready.

You can call them in."

"Promise that you won't make criticisms or remarks of any kind, or even move until the thing is over, no matter what you may feel or think," said Sir Richard. When Lady Perkins had brought the pair into his study and shut the door.

"Of course, we promise," they replied in a breath. But they did not sit side by side. Lady Perkins's chair was between them.

Suddenly a gramophone began to play. "Shouldn't acquaintance be forgotten?" sang the kind, sweet voice.

Sir Richard turned off the last electric lamp in the study—his "picture palace," as it was called. He had timed himself to begin the show precisely at ten minutes to eleven. This he had done for a very special reason.
Success depended upon the turning.

The machine began to click, and on the lighted screen appeared the picture of a village church, with a beautiful doorway, on the dusky grass of the churchyard, people groped—all looked smiling and happy and excited. Something was going to happen.

Anne Perkins uttered a faint cry.
She would have spoken, protested, but she remembered her promise.

The gramophone in the next room was playing the wedding march from Lohengrin. The bride was coming out of church—a lovely young bride, radiant with happiness. Her hand was on her husband's arm—a tall young man in khaki, with ribbons on his breast.
She looked up at him. Such a look of trust and joy and perfect faith in the future! He gave her a look for look, and impulsively pressed her hand.

As the bride and bridegroom descended the two steps from the church door children ran forward and threw roses in their path. "Roses, roses all the way," the gramophone was playing.

Suddenly the scene changed. The young couple had walked from the church to a welcoming gateway that stood wide open. There was a lawn, with shading beeches and Lebanon cedars. The two stood together, and friend after friend came to congratulate and wish them well.

There was a marquee, open on one side, showing a flower-decorated table.
The bride cut the cake with the bridegroom's sword. Healths were drunk.
But at last it was time for the bride to tear herself away. She threw a backward glance to her husband as he said, "How can I leave you, even to get ready for our honeymoon?" He took a step to follow her, caught her hand, then let her go.

Presently she appeared once more, dressed for traveling. On, on ticked the machine, until, amid a shower of rice, the two had driven off in a car from the door of a big country home—singularly like this house of the old retired admiral and his wife.

The scene was over; a resurrection of lost happiness. How lost, who could tell in words? Somehow it had been mishandled. How sweet it had been, how beautiful. Was it gone for ever?

The screen was dark. Anne's lips opened. "Cruel! Cruel!" were the words she would have cried out. But at that instant a clock sounded the first strokes of the hour—eleven—and the maidens in the village mounded the order for silence.

There had been no time to switch on the lights. The room was still in twilight. Lady Perkins had slipped like a shadow out of the chair that divided Dick and Anne. All four silent occupants of the room were on their feet. It seemed to Dick that the others must hear the pounding of his heart. And Anne—what was that tiny sound? Was she choking? Luck a sob?

Two minutes! Yet four years passed before the eyes of those two society at the wedding picture, taken by Sir Richard, had passed upon the screen. Four years full of mistakes and misunderstandings and foolish quarrels. But hadn't even the quarrels been born of love—young, pos-sionate love, that did not quite know the great and glorious game of "give and take"?

The two minutes were over, the maroons told them that. It was permitted to speak. But no one did speak.
Dick and Anne looked at each other.
Then impulsively, he held out his arms. She almost fell into them, weeping. Two minutes' silence had told them more than they could ever have put into words.

Prominent among the leaders of the beheading of Charles I was one Praise-god Barebones, a teacher, soldier and preacher, who was held in the highest esteem by Oliver Cromwell.

Not All in America

The average Briton who knows anything about America never fails to think that some American town names like Oshkosh and Yuba Dam are the funniest things that ever happened.

However, they forget the queer town names in their own tight little island.

For instance, there is a Nasty in Herefordshire, and a Mucking in Essex. Norfolk boasts of a Great Snor-ling.

In Lincolnshire one finds Swineshead Cumb., and Dripping Gore in Kent.
Yorkshire also has a match for Yuba Dam.

It has Dam Flank. Then there are other odd ones like Hellous Bump-stead, Toller Porcum, Heck, Over Wallop and Nether Wallop, Barton in the Beans and Lyngesack and Softly.

Sympathy

An untimely frost effectually completed the mischief done earlier by the insect enemies of Mr. Perkins's potatoes. The tops of the plants, which had served as pasturage for the pests, were entirely destroyed, and with them Mr. Perkins's hopes of a crop. He was not selfish, however, and could think of others in the hour of adversity. In the afternoon he was accosted at the post office by a friend.

"Hello, Perkins! How's everything up to the corns?"

"Terrible enough," Williamson, troubled enough, was the gloomy response.
"Ten million potato bugs, and nothing for 'em to eat!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Other Fish to Fry

The owner of an estate on which there was a lake was annoyed to see a stranger fishing therein. He approached the trespasser and began to abuse him.

"This lake," he said, "is privately owned and I stocked it myself. You must go away at once."

"Just a minute, sir," said the fisherman calmly. "What did you stock the lake with?"

"Trout," was the answer. "And I won't have—"

"That's all right, sir," said the trespasser unconcerned. "I'm fishing for pike."—Rochebourn Sunday Herald.

City May Have Been Myth

The ancient city of Troy is supposed to have occupied a slight elevation near the foot of Mount Ida, in Mysia, and nearly surrounded by the River Scam-ander, but its location is in dispute, and some even doubt that it ever existed. The founding of the kingdom is ascribed to Teucer, whose grandson was Troas, who was the father of Iulus, who called the city Ilium after himself and also Troia after Troas, his father. The classic poets say that the walls of the city were built by the magic sound of Apollo's lyre. The date of the taking of the city after a ten-year siege is usually placed at 1184 B. C.

How She Arrived

Said the bank teller to the new girl who was making a deposit: "You didn't foot it up."

"No," she replied innocently, "I took a taxi."—Wall Street Journal.

Cannot Replace Sun

Plants will thrive on artificial light, but the pseudo sunning is by no means a profitable plan for marketable plants, flowers or vegetables, according to experiments at the Boyce search, Yonkers.

ages through the sense of touch. Words spoken into the mouthpiece of the instrument set up a series of pulsations in the delicate receiver that correspond to the sounds of the voice. These result in a sort of code which the "hearer" may easily learn. Though surrounded by loud noises and other heavy vibrations, the can readily distinguish words and sen-interference from disturbances and sounds originating on the outside.

Speed of Shooting Stars Estimated at Forty-Five Miles a Second

Speeds as high as forty-five miles a second are attained by meteors, the "shooting stars" which are drawn into the earth's atmosphere and burn up in a brief blaze of glory, according to Prof. C.
M. Sparrow, of the University of Virginia.
The meteors, he says, are small bodies which, entering the upper atmosphere of the earth, are heated to incandescence and completely burned up, or fall to earth.
The height at which they appear between fifty and a hundred miles above

Identifying the Twins

Sir Henry Wood, the famous musician, is responsible for a delightful little story concerning baby twins who were so much alike that even their mother had difficulty in telling them apart. Not so their father, a piano tuner, who had his own professional way of identifying his offspring. He explained to the friend who was admiring them, he told the difference by plucking them.

"Good heavens! You must not do that. You'll make them cry."

"Precisely," replied the father.
"That's the whole secret. Listen."
"This one," he said, "is evidently William. He cries on the high C. The other, James," he said, "is half a tone lower."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Seek Prevention of Rust

In discussing advancements made in the direction of rust control, the Iron Age declares that the imagination readily pictures the large possibilities of life extension in the substitution of such material for that which crumbles and disappears under common conditions of service. Two advance steps in the fight against rust are the direct and indirect method of supplying chromium. Patent complications which involve all rustless iron processes are said to be holding up their development on a commercial scale.

Less Error Next Time

Astronomy has never fallen down yet on any prediction. This does not mean that we pretend to know it all, not by any means. Astronomy is advancing at every step. Every observation that is made helps it along, makes it a little more accurate and enables us to predict with increased precision.

At the North Pole

The North pole, recognized as the northern extremity of the earth, is in the midst of a hollow which holds no land in the neighborhood of the pole itself. The most northerly lands possess animal life—musk-ox, reindeer, polar bear, wolf, fox, ermine, land birds, as well as insect life, and during a few short weeks in summer, brilliant flowers. Human life is found within some 700 miles of the North pole.

Might in the Jungle

The lion, noted as being the noblest of the jungle's beasts, is, of course, a mighty hunter. His ferocity is preservable. All animals as well as man become its victims. The African bu-falo, however, is often its master, and elephants sometimes are able to overpower both lions and all members of the tiger family.

Protein in Wheat

Crude protein content has become an important factor in establishing the market value of certain classes of wheat. Premiums of several cents a bushel have been paid for each additional per cent of crude protein contained in wheat above an agreed percentage. Ash content also is an important factor in marketing flour.

Portable Lamp Illuminates Radio Set

A portable lamp that can be quickly attached to any radio set, eliminating all shadows and glare, is now available. Ex-with ordinary room lighting, and this little lamp is therefore a welcome addi-

A Homemade Device for Covering Up Seeds

Every home gardener has found that the apparently simple task of covering up seeds is really rather troublesome. A simple device, which will do this quickly and thoroughly, is shown in the accompanying illustration. All that is necessary is to set the device over the seeds and pull it backward. It consists of two wings of galvanized iron or heavy tin, about 8 in. wide at one end and 8 in. at the other, and 12 in. long. These are fastened together with an iron band, 6 in. long, bolted to the wings, as shown, about 3 in. from the narrow end. The parts are held together with 1/4-in. stove bolts. The whole frame, which holds the blades, can be made of one long piece of flat iron, heated and bent to the shape shown. An ordinary broomstick can be used as a handle.

Filing without Scratching

When filing, small particles of metal adhering to the file cause scratching on the work. This trouble can be prevented by obtaining the file after cleaning it. Prepared chalk may be used and rubbed on the file, or a large piece of lumps chalk rubbed over the file.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

Rev. C. S. Riser, pastor.
The preacher will take for his text the Sunday morning, "The Unfinished Task." This will be an Easter sermon. Ours is a task too large for this world, its completion rests upon the doctrine of immortality. What is the Spirit of the Resurrection?
This week is known as "The Kindness Week." Sunday, evening "Kindness to Our Dumb Friends" will be our theme. At this service we expect to show slides of "Mankind Bird Life and Their Progression." The Christianity according to the word of God is "preaching toward" the dumb mark in our Sunday school by Children's Day.
The Easter exercises at the Methodist church were of high order. The program was interesting and was greatly enjoyed by the church and people. Baptism was administered to eight children, three adults were received into church membership, while others will be received later.
The Easter offering amounted to $42.
Easter breakfast started the day in fine shape. The Epworth League had charge. Between 30 and 40 at this service. The day closed with Easter cantata. A good attendance greeted this service. The xylophone Offertory, played by Miss Georgia Smith, accompanied by Mrs. Broesamle on pipe organ, deserves special mention. We wish to thank every one for their fine cooperation in making the day a great success.

Having had a cousin as a missionary upon the field, I can give you some first hand information upon this subject. Evening theme, "From Easter to Pentecost." Easter has come and gone. We have all been brought nearer to our Heavenly Master I trust. Let us all work hard for the Master that His Kingdom may be upon earth as it is in heaven.
Remember the girls chorus at the evening service.

Boy Tonight?"

Floor Varnish

If you like your wood floors the natural color give them a coat of shellac. White shellac will keep them light; orange shellac will darken them a little. A good heavy coat of good floor varnish may be given, or you may wax them on top of the shellac, but it has not the body that varnish has, and will not wear so long. Shellac and varnish are both expensive, but any good floor finish is a housewife.

Oyster Grows Slowly

The sea otter takes several years to grow to maturity, says Nature Magazine, and this is the fact that the females have but one pup a year, to a large extent explains the quickness with which these animals became so nearly exterminated as a species under the intensive hunting to which they were subjected.

Caves in Britain Well

Worth Tourist's Visit

Little as some might suspect it, there are some famous caves in Great Britain, and still more that deserve to be famous. The country is rich not only in the number, but also in the variety of type of the caverns which it contains. Best known among these caves are the Peak cavern, at Castleton, in Derbyshire and the Cheddar caves, in Somerset. The Peak cavern has been known since the earliest ages. No one could help seeing it, for it yawns huge and black in the cliff-like side of that hill on whose dizzy crags Peveril-of-the-Peak had his castle, says the Wide World Magazine.

An ice-cold stream issues from its limestone recesses, and subterranean lakes stretch far into the hillsides.
This vast cavern has been explored for 2,250 feet.

The Cheddar caves do not advertise in so spectacular a fashion, although the Cheddar gorge is one of the most striking pieces of scenery in Great Britain. The first series of caves was accidentally discovered in 1837, through a man at work in his garden falling into the hillside. The second series remained unknown until 1893.
These limestone caves form a series of beautiful and lofty halls, hung with stalactites from the roof, and with beautifully colored stalagmites rising from the floor to meet them.

Saved From Death by

Knowledge of Morse

Two employees of a telephone company sent to repair a burglar alarm in a financial institution at Boston were accidentally locked in the vault.
Bank employees in vain tried to open the massive door. It was equipped with a time lock which was set to open the following morning. The police, fire department and safe experts could do nothing. There was a safety device inside the vault which, if the persons knew about, would have released them but there seemed to be no way to make them acquainted with the fact.

Finally someone thought of the Morse telegraph code. With huge sledges the words were sounded to the imprisoned men. Then the anxious knobs waited. There was no answer. Suddenly the door swung open and the two men tattered-out. They had heard the news and found the lock. They were on the point of collapse after being in the air-tight compartment for an hour.

Never Blotted a Line

Of Shakespeare it is said that he never blotted a line, so perfect was his command of his native tongue.
How much of truth there is in this popular belief it is impossible to determine.

Bashfulness Forgotten

"This collecting of cigar bands may be a nuisance," said Mrs. Smith at the mother's council meeting, "but something is to be said for it. For instance, it has cured our Tommy of his nervousness and timidity. He will speak to anybody now."
