Chelsea's Manufacturing Interests Augmented By Three New Industries

Detroit Flag and Manufacturing Co., Chelsea Foundry Co., and Monarch Bumper Manufacturing Co. Occupying Several Buildings of Lewis Spring and Axle Co.

Visions of a revived manufacturing industry which have been cherished in the minds of people in Chelsea and vicinity appear to be nearer realization today than they have been for many years, when announcement is made that three industries, new to Chelsea, but two of them old organizations, have perfected plans for operation and are operating in the several buildings of the Lewis Spring & Axle plant north of the railroad and east of North Main street.

The companies who are operating or will operate within a few days are The Detroit Flag and Manufacturing Company, Chelsea Foundry Company and the Monarch Bumper Manufacturing Company. The Detroit Flag and Manufacturing Company, which has been negotiating for the No. 7, or tower building, for several weeks on Tuesday closed the deal and immediately began work repairing the building, and putting it in shape for occupancy within a few days. As soon as machinery, which now stands on the floor of this building is removed it is planned to move a car load of the Flag company machinery and start men and men operating on certain branches of the work. When these are "broken in" and operating smoothly more of the machinery and equipment will be moved and more persons employed until finally within two or three months the entire plant will have been installed in its new home and manufacturing goods for the fall trade.

The company, which manufactures flags, pennants, toys, dolls, etc., will occupy the first and second floors of the tower building, while it is expected another concern, manufacturing toy sail boats will occupy the third floor.

Outlook for the factory is unusually bright, according to Ernest Jewell, president of the concern. Salesmen are already on the road looking for orders. A substantial amount of business is booked for immediate delivery to keep the wheels turning throughout the spring and summer months. Demand for the company's product is gradually spreading throughout the country until some of the largest wholesale and retail firms in the United States are listing their product among the "best sellers." That this business will expand into one of more versatile ability is indicated by the fact that already plans include branching out into other commodities of great demand. However, possession of wide business experience and ability, the officers of the company have adopted a conservative policy, that of building slowly and securely on a solid business foundation which will discourage any desire to see the business unduly inflated along questionable lines.

Officers of the Flag manufacturing company are Ernest Jewell, president, Dennis Boyle, vice president, and Conrad Lehman, secretary-treasurer.

Quietly and patiently, but with a thoroughness which indicates the soundness of their project, the Chelsea Foundry Company, doing business here for the past several weeks, is climbing the ladder to business success in the building just east of the office or welfare building of the Lewis plant. Coming here in December and negotiating a lease on this particular building the company, of which M. B. Giberson is head, remodeled and repaired until an excellent location has been developed for the company's business. Manufacture of iron castings including window weights, bell traps, ash pit doors, dome dampers, dump grates, sewer strainers, etc., furnishes the company with enough business to warrant the employment of between fifteen and twenty persons, while plans for the future which include branching out in various other articles of great demand will bring the working force up to 25 or 30 men inside of two months. Markets in Detroit, Jackson and other nearby places afford a ready sale for the company's output, shipments being made in most cases by truck.

NO JEFFERSON DAY DINNER

Thomas Jefferson was our third president. He was a great man and a good president. He did much to shape the policy of this country and keep it from any taint of monarchy or autocracy. It has been the custom for high members of the Democratic party to celebrate the anniversary of his natal day by a big dinner and many speeches.

A "get-together dinner for Democrats" was proposed to be held on the Jefferson anniversary at the Mayflower hotel in Washington to celebrate the natal day of Mr. Jefferson, and also to attempt to bring together some of the factions of our national Democracy as expressed in the Democratic party.

The consensus of opinion expressed by democratic leaders was that this comes too soon after Madison Square Garden to be effective, or conciliatory; therefore the dinner was called off.

Mr. Jefferson left a heritage to the American people great enough to cause us to commemorate his birthday anniversary without making it a day to discuss partisanship, or party politics, or party expediency.

SOUND MONEY IS IMPORTANT

Those of us who watched the tragedy of German currency, when the paper mark, unsupported by even the integrity of the German government, or anything substantial, dropped from small value to less than no value at all, are now concerned about the present French financial troubles.

Currency disturbance of any great country, a factor in world production and world trade, is the concern of all. America today feels the effects and suffers from the drop of the German mark to a point below the value of the paper mark on which the mark was printed. Two and three years ago the German currency was running a mad race to ruin. Goods were worth something, German money was worthless. Manufacturers of German goods shipped enormous quantities to this country and put them in warehouses. These goods are being released now, and neither the tariff wall nor any other economic condition which the government could or might impose has any power to stay the selling of these things, manufactured in panic, and paid for in worthless marks.

Thus we see a concrete example where in foreign currency depreciation has wrought damage to American industry. What is true of that one is true of others, and much unemployment and loss of trade in America today is due to the tragedy of German currency running back two, three and four years.

A similar condition in France now, or in the future, would spell trouble for American industry and commerce in future years.

Sound money—money that is backed by the integrity of the government, and all its resources, is the only protection the producers of the world have as an assurance that their labor will be rewarded.

INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS HIGH
March collections of the federal income tax were higher than the estimate of $134,000,000 made by the treasury department. That indicates not only a healthy financial situation in this country, but it also indicates that further tax reduction may be undertaken without any danger of impairing the national income.

While the country generally speaking is in a prosperous condition, there are burdens of taxation which ought to be lightened in order that there may be a lessened cost of living.

The American people are paying for the cost of our participation in the world war both by high taxes and higher living costs. The reduction of one ought to bring about the lessening of the other.

"WOMEN CAUSE WAR"
Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske of the U. S. Navy is credited with the statement that "women are the cause of war." He says this is true because men fight to protect women and to show off before them. The admiral might add with equal force and truth that women cause the continuance of the human race. Some of these admiral's wobble terribly when using their sea legs on land.

THE TRAVEL TO EUROPE
Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant prince, in a radio address on Wednesday night, predicted—one might say promised—airship lines between America and Europe in the very near future. He declared that airships would be, before long, carrying passengers between America and England at the rate of two cents a mile in perfect safety.

New York City has merged more banks. The Manufacturers Trust Company, the Gotham and the First National, with combined resources of nearly $200,000,000 are to join forces. Big business has grown so rapidly in bigger business that financial institutions have been compelled to grow bigger institutions to take care of the financing of this great growth of business.

On the other hand the court ruled that no law could be passed, which would compel an employee to work for an employer, if he desired to seek employment elsewhere.

This is not only sound law—it is sound common sense applied to any economic situation.

The decision disposes of any attempts at compulsion to force organized labor to continue an employment after it has become irksome, or for any owner of an industry to be compelled to operate that industry after it ceases to be profitable. A very proper and necessary decision, if we are to remain a free republic.

X-RAY PRINTS BY WIRE
The left hand of A. J. Ryan, an official of the Victor X-ray Corporation at Verona, N. J., was injured in an accident. An X-ray picture was taken, and in seventeen minutes after the exposure was made, it was in the hands of expert diagnosticians in Chicago, whence it had been transmitted by telegraph.

This is a new use for both the X-ray and the telegraph. The picture was reported to have been received "perfectly clear and intelligible."

With such new uses for the telegraph and the X-ray, no place in the world, where an X-ray and a telegraph transmitting instrument can be had, will be too remote for the use of these two things which will doubtless come to be largely used in surgery, and in examining the bones, especially after an accident when fast work is imperative to save life and limb.

KANSAS LABOR COURT

The Supreme Court of the United States by a unanimous decision has pulled the teeth of the Kansas labor court. The gist of the opinion which was read by Associate Justice Vandenberg was in effect that the Kansas legislature, (and that means any legislature, state or national) has no right to pass a law compelling the owners of an industry to operate it at loss.

On the other hand the court ruled that no law could be passed, which would compel an employee to work for an employer, if he desired to seek employment elsewhere.

This is not only sound law—it is sound common sense applied to any economic situation.

The decision disposes of any attempts at compulsion to force organized labor to continue an employment after it has become irksome, or for any owner of an industry to be compelled to operate that industry after it ceases to be profitable. CONSOLIDATION FIGHT
An interesting fight is in progress between minority stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad and the Van Sweringens and their associates, who seek to consolidate the C. & O. with the Erie, Nickel Plate and Pierre Marquette. The minority stockholders claim their stock is worth much more than is to be paid for it under the agreement the Van Sweringens have made with themselves, after securing control of a majority of the C. & O. stock.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is said to favor the consolidation of the consolidation, despite the legal proceedings pending in Virginia courts. It will be interesting to note what will happen when the Commerce Commission hitches with the court, and the case goes to the highest tribunal, if that should occur.

ARTISTS MAY BENEFIT
Mrs. F. W. Fitch, of Des Moines, is suing her husband, hair tonic and barber supply manufacturer, for a divorce and large alimony. She alleges that she did most of the work in building up the business. Fitch is said to have established residence in Reno, for the purpose of getting a divorce from his wife. With this hair-pulling by the Fitches, Fitch brushes may be more plentiful and artists may be benefited. "It is an ill wind," etc.

STOCK FLUCTUATIONS
At the close of 1924, the stock market showed great activity. Millions were made overnight. Stocks went to new high records. Many of them wholly unwarranted of sales values.

Since the New Year there hasn't been such flights upward. On the other hand, stocks have fallen very materially on exchange, and many of the quickly made millionaires who benefited by the rise, were unmade by the so-called bear movement.

Small dealers or investors in stocks, who rush into rising markets almost invariably get pinched. The great stock market manipulators know when stocks are to go up, and when they are to go down. The small dealer does not know, and has no way of finding out. If he buys, he buys on a pure guess.

It is a rare thing, indeed, when a stock has a legitimate 24-hour increase in value approximating anything like the increases shown in the trading tables. Good stocks have a stable value. Such stocks, in honestly managed concerns are, generally speaking, good investments. Anything else is a very dangerous gamble.

PLANES BEAT GUNS
In the army war tests at San Antonio, the airplanes were awarded points over the artillery. Little by little the ancient crust of omni-science assumed by our American army heads, is being broken, and one day they will discover that the airplane is the modern war machine.

Our Metropolitan newspapers are long on guesses. For a time they had Trotsky dying, then reported him dead, then exiled him to the Caucasus, stripping him of all power in Russia. Now they are staging a come-back for him, and we may expect to see him dictator in Russia before long.

Henry Ford has started building all metal airplanes for commercial purposes. His business has covered the earth, so he is going up in the air.

No "Walking Stick" Snake
The biological survey says there is no snake known as the walking stick. This, however, is an insect of the orthopteran family Phalangidae, especially one of those forms, in which the body is long, slender and cylindrical like a small stick, the legs being slender and delicate, and resembling little wigs.

2000 Years Ago and Tonight

TONIGHT—be the sky clear—there will gleam the light from the star Betelgeuse. So many million miles away is this great star, and despite the tremendous speed that light travels—187,000 miles per second—the gleam which shines on you tonight left that star over 2000 years ago.

When that light left that star the benefits of electricity were unknown on this earth. The while it hurtled through space, electric service was born and paved the way for industrial growth—and new realms of human ease, pleasure and progress.

Electricity Is Instantaneous!

Electricity—"the light of Tonight"—is used the instant it is made. In its mysterious way, its path through hundreds of miles of copper wires from the power plant to your fingertip is instantaneous. Do but press a button or turn a switch—and far away in the power plant on a distant river or in a nearer steam plant, there is an instant impulse in the Electric Generator.

Is Not Stored!

Electricity is not made in "batches" and stored—it cannot be in the vast quantities needed by homes and cities. Every hour of every day and night—coal is being burned in the steam plants, or water is turning turbine-generators, filling your wires with energy—so when you want the help and convenience and comfort of Electric Service, it is there!

Consumers Power Company, backed by over 20,000 partners—constantly seeks new ways to make Electricity of greater service to you.

BREVITIES.

Howell—Memorial day is again approaching and arrangements are already being made for the proper observance of the day at Howell. Hon. Grant M. Hudson of Lansing, congressman from the 8th district, has been secured as the leading speaker of the day.

Saline—The powers that be have routed M-65, in which Saline is "vitality interested," through Ypsilanti and south to Toledo. Of course, later on, the same powers may as consistently re-route it a few miles east of Saline if they care to, which they no doubt will.—Observer.

Ypsilanti—R. D. Pierce, arrested on a charge of passing worthless checks on local merchants, was released by police authorities after settling with merchants here. Wayne officers have taken him in charge on similar counts on complaints of Belleville merchants.—Record.

Pineknay—Monday, M. E. Chalker added another subdivision to Pineknay's ever increasing summer resort acreage. The latest exploitation of lake property consists of 160 lots for summer homes on Island Lake, of the Patterson chain of lakes, about 3 miles southwest of Pineknay.—Dispatch.

Manchester—The semi-annual meeting of the Washtenaw County Association of the Eastern Star will be held here Friday, May 1. Manchester Chapter has engaged Arbeiter hall where the afternoon meeting will be held, as well as the initiatory work in the evening. The Arbeiter ladies have been engaged to serve supper on the second floor.—Enterprise.

Nixon—Recently the local lodge of Pythian Sisters presented the management of the Ingham County Tuberculosis Sanatorium with furniture for the reception room at the new hospital. The furnishings consist of very attractive wicker furniture, and a handsome rug. Tuesday a small bronze tablet was placed in the room acknowledging the gift. Optometry—Its Value To The Public

By A. E. Winans & Son

Besides headaches, what other annoyances are caused by far-sight?

If a person's nervous system is disturbed by the strain to which the eyes are subjected nervousness may arise or other troubles.

A far-sighted person may see well in the distance?

Yes, and if young may be able to read perfectly and still be far-sighted to a considerable degree.

How does the Optometrist detect this error in children?

The Optometrist while examining a patient usually uses an instrument called a retinoscope, by which he reflects light into the eyes, and at a glance can detect if far-sight is present.

Without this instrument he could not be so sure of his diagnosis?

In no other way can far-sight in children be so accurately determined.

Do parents owe their children any duty regarding the eyes?

Yes, if a parent wishes to have his child free from the handicap of far-sight or any other error of vision, the services of the Optometrist should be secured at the earliest moment.

SCOUT DOINGS

Boy Scouts enjoyed a great treat last Tuesday evening when they were all taken to the Michigan Union, Ann Arbor, and enjoyed a swim in their wonderful new swimming tank. After the swim a fine lunch was ready for them.
After the lunch the county scout executive, F. W. Swits and six other scout leaders conducted a court of honor for 22 of our Scouts who had passed all their second class tests. Now Chelsea has 20 full fledged second class Scouts. The Scouts recently had a kite flying contest. Winners: first prize, Vincent Swickard; second, Robert Wallace; third, Frederic Steiner; fourth, Laram Foster. The Farmers and Merchants Bank gave the prize money.
The Kiwanis is sending E. P. Steiner and Herbert Hepburn to the Tri-County Scout Leaders' conference on April 25 and 26, at Wolf Lake. State and National Scout Executives will be in attendance. Last but not least the Scouts have arranged to construct one of the finest slides in the state at Staphish gravel pit. Length of slide is 550 feet. Cable for this slide is 3-8 inch, 7 strand wire and it will easily carry 600 pounds. With not more than one passenger at a time there will be a big margin of safety. The Scouts say "it will be a thrill that comes once in a life time."
The Scouts want to thank the Kiwanis club for their loyal support. Also Howard Holmes, the chairman of the local committee who made the trip to the Michigan Union possible. Kent Walworth, L. G. Palmer, Dr. A. A. Palmer, O. T. Hoover. Each took a load of Scouts. We all thank them. E. P. Steiner, Scoutmaster.

Members of the Epworth League of the M. E. church thoroughly entertained a large audience at the Town Hall on Monday evening when they presented the play "Aaron Boggs, Freshman." JACKIE COOGAN "THE RAG MAN"

Jackie Coogan remains as ever the sweet, charming, unspoiled lad that he has always been.
Jackie presents a unique case. Many a person thrice Jackie's age would have succumbed to the glare of public adoration long before this; but Jackie possesses that undefinable something popularly known as "personality," a part of which is his lack of self-consciousness.

A bad back makes you gloomy. Can't be happy with continuous backache. The aches and pains of a bad back are frequently due to weak kidneys.

Doan's Pills are recommended for weak kidneys. So Chelsea citizens testify. Jacob Houk, 211 Lincoln street, Chelsea, says: "I was in bad shape some years ago and had lumbago and rheumatic pains. For awhile I was compelled to lay off work as the pains across my back were severe. The rheumatic pains were worse in the spring and in damp and cloudy weather, especially in my lower limbs. My kidneys didn't act regularly so I knew something had to be done. I saw Doan's Pills advertised and went to Fenn's Drug Store and got two boxes. I used them until the trouble left entirely."

Antecedents of Modern Writing Paper Told

The credit of making the first sheet of paper is due, according to the American Forestry Association, to a scholar-early-church named Tsai-lun of China. In the year 75 A. D. For this achievement he was 40 years later raised to the rank of marquis.

It appears that Tsai-lun, believing that old bamboo tablets and stylus had outlived their usefulness, set for himself the task of making new writing materials. After 30 years of paper, and the first hand sheet of paper, and it was made from the bark of a mulberry tree.

Prior to Tsai-lun's day leaves of trees and various barks used in crude form had served the Egyptians, Romans and other nations as paper.

Tsai-lun, however, did not use the crude inner bark of the tree as the final material on which to make his records. He did use the bark, but merely as a raw material from which he produced a finished sheet of paper by a series of processes which, crude as they may seem now, were the forerunners of paper manufacture today.

Heine, Like Others, Felt Charm of Don Quixote

Heine, a later, magician in laughter and tears, has narrated his own alternating attitudes toward Don Quixote. It was the first book he read after he had returned from his travels, and he took the tale, he told us, with the unshaken faith and seriousness of childhood. "He wept bitter tears over the ridicule and rebuffs of the noblehearted knight. He read the book every five years or so, with ever-varying feelings. As a youth he was, he confessed, bored by it. Later he saw in it only the comic side, and laughed at the follies of the mad knighterrant. Older yet again and wiser, he made friends for life with Quixote and Sancho. Afterward he had but to glance over his shoulder to perceive, attending him the phantom forms of the thin knight and the fat squire—more particularly, he adds, when he himself hung irresolute at some parting of the ways. What Heine felt by turns, the world has felt by classes. Times Literary Supplement.

Miracles of St. Leonard

If there were such a personage, St. Leonard would certainly have been the patron saint of prisoners. He was a nobleman, a French nobleman, at the court of Charles I, and became a monk and founded a monastery which, after his death, about 500, was known as St. Leonard's. He was famous for his charity toward prisoners, and is reported to have worked many miracles on their behalf. These miracles in releasing unhappy captives continued after his death, according to tradition, which was very convenient, as his festival happened to be the first day of the Michaelmas term, when many were made captives. Family Herald.

Early Adding Machines

Peru possessed an adding and calculating machine has been revealed in the recent discovery by excavators of a knotted cord, or "quipu," in the ruins of a prehistoric tomb. The cord is sixteen yards long and contains 100 knots. Divided into ten unequal sections these knots represent the odd numbers from one to nineteen. The sections are of different colors, including red, brown, yellow, blue and green, and are separated by silver beads, which represent the even numbers from two to twenty. By using this simple way of counting, based on the decimal system, rapid calculations can be made. Montreal Star.

Marriage Ethics in East

She is training the young second wife, whom she had herself advised her husband to take, to wash the dishes and plates. She was tired of being the only wife of her husband, who was earning quite enough to take a second young wife. Her jealousy is dead. She herself found the girl, and her husband was quite pleased with this charming little second wife, and the first wife has a maid at last. Never again will she wash dishes and plates in the river." Eastward.

First Recorded Divorce

There may have been the idea of an ancient Egypt. According to this paper, a papyrus document found in a tomb excavated on the site of that city contains the first divorce decree in recorded history which is thoroughly authenticated. The document is probably two thousand years old. It bears the signature of a notary named Thut. On the reverse side of the papyrus are the signatures of four witnesses. The grounds for the divorce are not stated. Pathfinder Magazine.

Right of Trial by Jury

Trial by jury was introduced into England during the Saxon heptarchy, mention being made of six Welsh and six Anglo-Saxon freemen appointed to try causes between Welsh and English men of property, and under responsible to the extent of their whole estates for false verdicts. In Magna Charta, 1215, a clause insisted upon by the great barons of the people's liberty. The right of challenging men called jurors has always been possessed by the accused by virtue of common law.

He Was Going the Limit

By FRANK D. HOPLEY

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"I'M READY! Come on, Inspector!"

LIVINGSTON stood with one thousand dollars in each hand, beside the open safe in the First National.

On the floor, at his feet, was a young man, crumpled and still, whose face showed white under the rays of a flickering candle that had been stuck in an inkwell. In another minute that door would open, and then—

He had followed his friend, Carey, that night, to the rear of the bank; had seen him open a door and disappear within. Entering quietly, he saw Carey beside the safe. In each hand was a package or bundle. As he saw Livingston a look of terror came into his eyes.

Livingston had seen that terrified look in the eyes of newcomers to the state prison, where he, himself, had served five years. Carey, who, up to the present, had been honest, was going the limit to save the stock in which he had invested all his savings and all because of the fluffy-haired girl at home. The girl that Livingston, too, had loved, and Carey had won.

It all came back to Livingston in a flash. They had been pals for years, working side by side in the First National bank. Then a sudden temptation had come to Livingston and he had fallen.

It was this same Carey who, for five long years had stood constantly by his friend, visiting him at the prison each month. The Carey who, when he had come out, had taken Livingston to his home, and after much effort, found him a position.

"Livingston went over to the man on the floor and, putting his arm around his shoulders, gently raised him and led him to a chair. Carey was babbling incoherently; his nerve was completely gone."

"Carey," said Livingston sadly, "why—why were you going to do it?" Carey looked at him beseechingly. "I—I had to," he faltered. "There's no other way. I've got to go the limit on that stock to save myself—because of—you know—Elsie."

"But, Carey, don't you know—?" Carey paused, gulped hard, then began again.

"I heard this morning that Inspector Commons was killing down. I went to my broker's office. All the time I was going down, down, down. They told me that they would require new margins of two thousand dollars tomorrow morning. Before the exchange opened, or they would sell me out. I didn't have it. I'm cleaned out."

Livingston started to speak, but Carey stopped him. "Wait," he said. "until I've told you all. I left the broker's office at two o'clock. I didn't know what to do. I wandered around and finally found myself in the park. I stayed there until I knew that every one had left the bank, then I came here, but I couldn't stay."

"You went out again, but you didn't come home."

"Carey nodded. 'I couldn't,' he said. 'I couldn't face Elsie. I walked the streets. The newsmen were asking extras. I saw 'Industrial Common' in the papers on the front page. Then I thought of taking the money to tide me over. I was horrified at first, but there seemed no other way. I thought of you, Livingston, and I hesitated, but something had to be done, so I—'

Carey paused suddenly. Through the stillness came the sound of footsteps. The measured tramp of feet, such as distinguish an officer of the law over the ordinary pedestrian. Under the open window the footsteps suddenly stopped; then voices.

"I think I'll take a chance and go up; there might be some funny business going on." The words came in a hoarse, hoarse tone. Livingston had heard it before; so had Carey at the trial.

"Inspector Willis!" he gasped. "He's found the door open and is coming up. I'm lost!"

Livingston thought quickly. "See here, Carey," he commanded. "I'll save you, but you must do exactly as I say. I'm an ex-convict. I've served five years, and my record's against me. Yours is clean. I was robbing the safe when you came in and caught me. Do you understand?"

Carey gasped. "You—you'll do this for me? Go back to the pen again?" Livingston nodded. "Yes, you helped me when no one else would. I'll do it for you—and Elsie."

"But I won't let you, I'll—"

"Yes, you will. You can't help yourself. Sorry, old man, but I've got to be a little tough. You see, you caught me and I knocked you out and was just preparing to get away when the cops came," and Livingston suddenly brought his fist against the point of his friend's chin.

Carey crumpled to the floor. Livingston picked up the package of bills that he had dropped. There was a heavy step upon the stairs. Livingston squirmed his shoulders, and with a thousand dollars in each hand, stood looking expectantly at the door.

"Now," he said, "I'm ready! Come on, Inspector Willis!"

Skull Turned Hatchet

Henry Leigh, a negro of Springfield, Ohio, was standing under the scaffolding of a new seven-story building, on which some carpenters were at work. A hatchet fell from the roof, striking Leigh squarely on the head, causing only a slight abrasion. The blow was not enough to fracture the negro's skull.

Not the Same "Kitty"

The other evening Jimmy's mother was settling herself down for a good read when she saw her small son stride over to the window, seize the kitten that was dozing on the ledge, and, swinging it about by its tail, give it a vigorous shaking.

"Jimmy! Jimmy! Stop that at once," she cried, and making a grab at the kitten, rescued it from its tormentor.

"What do you mean by being so cruel to the poor little thing?" she demanded.

"I wasn't cruel," said Jimmy. "When dad was playing cards last night I heard him say, 'Now boys, there's at least five dollars in the kitty,' and well, I was trying to shake it out."

Not So Dumb

When the earl of Bradford was brought before the lord chancellor to be examined on the application for a statute of lunacy against him, the question was asked him from the wool-sack:

"How many feet has a sheep?"

"Does your lordship," answered Lord Bradford, "mean a live sheep, or a dead sheep?"

"Is it not the same thing?" said the chancellor.

"No, my lord," returned Lord Bradford. "There is much difference; a live sheep may have four legs, a dead sheep has only two; the two forelegs are shoulders, but there are only two legs of mutton"—Yorkshire (Eng.) Post.

Cancer in Lower Animals

Scientists seeking a cure for cancer have been attempting to find a solution for their problem and to learn more of the nature of the growth by producing it in animal specimens. Experiments with rats and mice have shown that a certain kind of fat will cause cancerous formations six months after it is applied to the living tissue of the animals, and it was also found that cancers were produced in the stomachs of the specimens infested with a certain kind of worm. While the cure is being sought, efforts are also constantly in progress to improve existing methods of treatment to allay the ravages of the mysterious affliction. Calgary Herald.

An Ingenious "Alibi"

The people who are most indolent physically are often quick enough mentally. Such was the case with the British workman of whom the father tells. He was usually late in coming to work, and one day the foreman took him to task.

"It's a funny thing, Jim," he said, "you alius coming in a quarter of an hour behind the time and living next door to the works, while Paddy is alius on time, and lives three miles away!"

"There's nowt funny about it," retorted Jim. "If he's a bit late in a morning, he can hurry a bit; but if I'm late, I'm here."—Youth's Companion.

Serving All Alike

We serve many customers at a loss. They use such a small amount of gas that were our business-like others we would have good reason for dropping them from our books. But you can't do this in the gas business.

We must serve all alike—the cottage and the mansion, the rich man and the poor man.
And gas service must be of the same quality and of the same price to all—except in special cases where very large quantities are used.

The gas business is thoroughly democratic.
Every customer is considered a good customer and treated as such. And we give just as careful consideration to the complaint received from the smallest customer as we do from the largest. That is the obligation of serving the public.

Sunlight and Moonlight
How much brighter is the sun than the moon? Actually an infinite number of times, for the moon's light, like that of the earth, is only reflected, while the sun's is actual. But an interesting comparison of the moon's reflected and the sun's actual light is the following: In order to equal the light of the sun, about half a million moons would have to be shining in the sky at the same time!

STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY WILL CONVEY IN JUNE

"He was ever a loyal Democrat.
Blessed are they that die in the Lord." The lines here quoted have no bearing on the league of nations, the airship-versus-battleship controversy, or any other pending political issue. Rather they serve to call attention to an interesting and extensive enterprise which is being prosecuted in the State of Michigan, and which will be described by Miss Annie Pollard at the convention of the Michigan Pioneer and Historical Society which will be held at Benton Harbor June 3, 4 and 5.

The state has begun to keep its record of births, deaths and marriages (at least theoretically) with the year 1867. Prior to that time such data had never been systematically compiled in Michigan. A few years ago the Michigan Pioneer and Historical Society undertook to organize the compilation of the earlier data by counties, from such sources as the county and other local records, including cemetery inscriptions.

Somewhat simultaneously the Daughters of the American Revolution of Michigan became actively interested in the same field, and under their general sponsorship the work of compiling the records is proceeding in many sections of the state. In Hillsdale county the survey has been completed, and in Oakland and some others much progress has been made.

The magnitude of such a task becomes readily apparent from the fact that for Hillsdale county, which contains no considerable city, seventy-six cemeteries were canvassed and some 20,000 records were copied.

This phase of the work, although but one portion of the self-appointed task, constitutes perhaps its most picturesque aspect. Even the element of humor is not lacking, as the above inscription discloses. Here is another, and whether it should be classified as humor may be left to the critical public:

"I am gone, but remember, my friend
That some day you must come to see me."

Cold-Time "Handout"
In the older days in England judges were forbidden to wear gloves on the bench for fear of being dropped into the sea. Hence the custom of presents, a judge with a pair of white gloves when he has no cases to try at assizes.

she says that they are colors that were

SCHOOL NEWS

Last Thursday afternoon J. V. Van Kirk went before the student body and gave a spirited talk on World Peace. Mr. Van Kirk is a man who has been all over the world and who has carefully studied world conditions and problems. He knows that the future lies with the young people and they are the ones to be educated to settling disputes without war. He pointed out conclusively that a Disarmament Conference must come and some means by which ALL nations shall settle their disputes.

Mr. Van Kirk brought with him a flag which he has designed as a World Flag. It has received serious attention but yet remains to be adopted.

The second "shot" of the "shot" toxin was given Wednesday. About 400 persons took it.
