"PETRIFIED" BODY IS DUG FROM SKINNER GRAVEL PIT

Much Speculation As To Whether Uncarved Bust That of Human Being or Stone Image.

What is believed by some to be the petrified body of a young girl in the early teens was unearthed by members of a gang of men in the employ of Frank Rose, Lyndon township highway commissioner on Thursday afternoon while hauling gravel from a pit on the A. B. Skinner farm two miles northwest of Chelsea. Only a portion of the body is "petrified," the bust and head being almost perfectly formed while the balance of the body is missing. Discovered at a depth of perhaps twelve feet from the surface of the pit, the supposed body was taken to the home of Mr. Rose where representatives of the Standard "viewed the remains" early this week.

Whatever the supposed body really is—whether the remains of some human being buried years ago, or a stone image cast there in days gone by—probably will never be ascertained. In size it is probably sixteen inches long, 10 inches across the shoulders, face and features in proportion. The chin evidently rested on the left shoulder inasmuch as that is the present position. A knot of hair at the back of the head, held in place by a ribbon bound around the head, the marks of which are plainly visible, nostrils, eyelids, the right ear are all in an excellent state of preservation, whether made of stone originally or turned to stone from a human body. Arms are missing from slightly below the shoulders. Several items enter into the idea that it might be the petrified remains of a human person. The stone is lacking in weight, being of a porous nature, unlike a marble or stone image. Total weight of the freak probably would not exceed ten pounds.

Belief of several that the scene of the gravel pit might have been an Indian-burying ground at one time, are dispelled by close scrutiny of the little lady's features, which bear a mark of refinement. Method of "doing up" the hair is that worn by the ladies not so many years ago. What the "find" will eventually turn out to be is awaited with interest. Persons who visit the Rose home and see the curiosity are divided as to its origin, some believing it is but a stone image. And then come the questions: Why was it buried twelve feet below the earth's surface? Why the hair should be carved to rest on the left shoulder? Why more weight to the stone? An ordinary stone this size would weigh at least twice as much. And so the speculation continues as folks come and go after seeing the lady from the gravel pit.

GAY ISLAND PARTY AT CAVANAUGH LAKE

Summer Residents Hold Weiner Roast In Mid-Lake On Site of Old Dancing Pavilion.

Recollections of the belles and beaux of over 30 years ago were revived in the minds of the old time residents of Cavanaugh Lake, Thursday evening, August 6th, when they looked out over the water to a camp fire blazing brightly upon the "Island" in mid-lake, and recalled the past glories of the old dancing pavilion which long since was located upon what was then a real island.

Years ago the original outlet of the lake was closed and the normal level of the water raised so that the old island was engulfed. The pavilion disappeared, and the little steam boat which Rush West had operated from the mainland to the island, passed with it. For upwards of 30 years there has been no island at Cavanaugh; only a bit of shoal water ankle deep in mid-summer with two or three old tamarack stumps and a growth of rushes to indicate the spot where the girls and boys of a past generation were wont to congregate for social times.

But this summer, with only about 30 per cent of the normal rainfall, has seen the lowering of the inland lakes to a foot or more below the usual water level and the old island at Cavanaugh is now partly above water. A spot about 20x40 feet in extent is "near dry" land; dry enough so that it was possible to build a fire there Thursday evening and several of the summer colony at the lake enjoyed a "weiner roast" on the site of the old dancing pavilion. Over the wood burned was cut on the island, excepting a few pieces used for kindling the fire, the old tamarack roots proving excellent fuel.

Those attending the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Kousch, John and Beatrice; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Wheeler, Katherine, Virginia, William and Robert; Mrs. Chandler Rogers, Albert and Jack; Mrs. Fred Belser and Harriet; Mr. and Mrs. Ford Axtell; and Paul; and Francis Armstrong.

FLAG COMPANY INCREASING VOLUME OF OUTPUT-SALES

Bronze Tablet and Metal Sign Department Will Be Moved Here, This Week.

Chelsea people are greatly interested in the progress made by the Detroit Flag & Mfg. Co. in the tower building and from all indications they are carrying out the program outlined when they moved here. Shipments of toys are being made in quantities, their printing department started to operate this week and they are now busy making G. A. R. Banners for the Grand Rapids Convention, also Real Estate pennants for firms in Florida. It is interesting to note the method used for making designs from which to print. These they make themselves at a very small cost.

Their Bronze Tablet and Sign department will all be moved here by the end of the week and sales in Detroit alone have doubled during the past month. It is generally known that the beautiful bronzes illuminated directional signs in the interior of the Book Cadillac hotel and many of the banks and office buildings in Detroit are made by this company and now arrangements are well under way to extend sales efforts in Cleveland and Chicago where the company's signs are well known. This is a very profitable business and sales will probably run over $75,000.00 during the present year.

The plant will be operated under the name of the Chelsea Manufacturing Co., with separate divisions for Bronze Tablets, Metal Signs, Toys, Stampings, Flag and Special Work which latter includes Street Decoration, Printing, etc.

The officers are very optimistic regarding the sure development of an industry of which we all may be proud.

STINNES FORTUNE PADES

It has not been long since the American public was reading almost daily of the great industrial, commercial and financial organization that had been built up by Hugo Stinnes of Germany. Many times his fortune was compared with that of John D. Rockefeller and Henry Ford, and often there were guesses that the Stinnes fortune was second only to either one of these great American fortunes and might be first.

Stinnes has not been long dead. Soon after he died there were dissections in his family. There was an effort on the part of his two sons and wife, to wield an iron hand in designating just what should be done with the Stinnes fortune. Dissension brought on friction and financial troubles set in. Now the story comes from Berlin, and it seems to be fairly well authenticated, that the Stinnes fortune may fade into absolute nothingness!

It has always been so with wealth. That wealth comes quickly, and of

Clean Electric Bulbs

Therefore, all electric lamp bulbs and fixtures should be cleaned thoroughly and regularly.

Removing Vitrophane
To entirely remove vitrophane from glass, take one-half pint of boiling water and a piece of soap sufficient to make a good lather. Saturate a cloth and place cloth on the window. Let stand for a few moments. Take a clean cloth saturated with ammonia (double strength) place on glass for a few moments. The vitrophane will begin to loosen and can easily be removed with a thin knife blade.

BREVITIES

MILAN—A homecoming celebration will be held in this village on Thursday, August 20.

YPIRANT—Officers at Ypiranti have begun registering those who own firearms, in compliance with the new law, which makes it a felony to carry or possess firearms which have not been registered.

BRIDGEWATER—Some fields of wheat in this township have yielded from 28 to 30 bushels to the acre and barley has yielded 27 to 30, according to reports. A considerable amount of wheat is threshed.

FOULERVILLE—The editor has carried and used continuously a pocket knife given him by Fred J. Cook who was engaged in the hardware business here in 1916, and is wondering who has beaten that record. Let's hear from you.—Review.

HAMBURG—A barn on the Will Spicer farm, near Silver Lake, in Green Oak township, was struck by lightning late Tuesday afternoon of last week and burned to the ground. The South Lyon fire department responded to the call but could not save the barn. Two horses and a calf were burned up.

PARMA—Parma's community picnic is to be held a week earlier than usual and the date has been set for Thursday, August 20. All the usual sports and big time events are to be on the program. As usual, the Parma community will have a rubber boundary, the line being at the greatest distance anyone comes from.—News.

BRIGHTON—It isn't the army world that is invading the state this time. This invasion is a small army of shoe peddlers who are making a house-to-house canvass for what they claim are special bargains in both men's and women's shoes. You are warned to examine their wares carefully if they appear in your community as they are leaving a large number of dissatisfied people on their back trail.—Argus.

SALINE—Lucille Lohmar Jaeger, the "Girl Tramp," arrived back home to Saline on July 27th after a six thousand mile trip to Seattle, Wash., and return. The "Girl Tramp" started from Ann Arbor on June 12th, hatless, cloakless and penniless on a dare to reach Seattle in two weeks. On the 28th of June she entered the western city with seven full hours to the good. After a brief visit with childhood friends and relatives she left on the 18th of July in an express plane on her return journey.—Observer.

BROOKLYN—Guy Richardson came home to Napoleon from Grayling last week having been in the northern part of the state on a topographical survey for the past two years. He is now one of the few engineers in the state specializing on topography. Lately the surveying party has been working on a complete survey, with the topographical aerial maps of 100 square miles surrounding the fine state military camp at Grayling. The state militia has just gathered at the camp, including about 5000 troops.—Exponent.

MANCHESTER—In driving into Monroe county Sunday we saw nothing of anyone guarding the roads in the quarantined district to detect corn cobs, but on our return at the Lenawee-Washtenaw line north of Clinton we were stopped and questioned. A card handed us by the police officer shows this quarantine district starts in Huron county on the Lake Huron shore, runs south, dividing Sanilac, Saint Clair, and Oakland, passing down the east side of Livingston, dividing Washtenaw and Lenawee east and west. Every person, and especially every farmer, should do what he can prevent the spread of the borers. If you find a stalk of corn withered, burn it at once.—Enterprise.

MASON—The large demands being made on county funds these days through the loss of livestock by marauding dogs roused Supervisor Lovejoy of the general claims committee to call the attention of the members of the board to the fact that some supervisors are entirely ignoring the law and not listing the dogs in their respective townships with the county treasurer as the statutes require. His motion that the prosecuting attorney be instructed to begin proceedings against the delinquent township and city officials brought smiles to the faces of the solons, but none had the courage to vote against the resolution for fear the finger of suspicion would be pointed at them and so the motion carried. The prosecuting attorney was also instructed to begin proceedings against the owners of killer dogs in cases where they are known.—News.

DR. FRANK CRANE
STRONG IN PHASE OF "CAPTAIN BLOOD"

Holds Him, Fascinates Him, Is An Event Declares It Taken Him by Storm.

"When a man recommends anything he likes to his friends, he is in danger of being a nuisance, whether the particular thing is a kind of smoking tobacco, a necktie, a brand of religion or a new book. At the same time, when one strikes something which pleases him immensely, it does not seem to be quite fair to keep it to himself.

"I read many books, swarms of them, galaxies of them, oodles of them. I am expected to read them, some because other people are reading them, some because I want to find out something in them; and some because I like them. The latter, however, are few. To come across a book that takes one by storm, holds him, fascinates him and gives him that rare intoxication that meets the inmost passion, is an event.

"Recently I went upon a long journey and spent many days upon the train and steamboat. Upon this journey I found a book. It was entitled 'Captain Blood,' by Rafael Sabatini. I read it first languidly, then interestedly, and at last I went at it as a drunkard consumes his liquor or a child devours sweets.

"I passed it on to the other members of my family. Each read it and each was consumed by the same flame that had consumed me.

"I do not hesitate to say that this is the best story I have read since 'The Count of Monte Cristo.'

"I do not judge of it as literature. All I know of it is that it is good, swift, clean English. But it is not of its style that I would speak.

"It has something more than style, something rare, the rarest thing indeed I know of in writing. It has creative imagination.

"A magazine editor said to me once that he wished he could get hold of a good story every month, something in the best manner of Conan Doyle. I replied to him that his wishes were modest, and that he probably failed to realize that, out of the billion or so population of the world there were probably not more than three or four individuals who could create a story, a really fresh, vivid, gripping story.

"In 'Captain Blood' Sabatini has proved that he is one of these few.

"It is a story of buccaneering days in the Spanish main, one of the most romantic and adventurous epochs of the world. And the reader is taken into the atmosphere of the time, and is made to realize all its vivid charm, yet without being kept from being amazed by its brutality.

"The best thing about it is that it is an imposing tale, a wonderful yarn. The reader is interested in its descriptions, in its literary values, in its English, in this or that; he is interested in Captain Blood, and before he gets through he is better acquainted with Captain Blood than he is with his neighbor who lives next door.

"Whether this is a recently published book or not, I have not taken the pains to inquire. All I know is that I have just read it and I count it one of the great books of the world.

"It took me out of myself. It opened a door through which I escaped from all the commonplace things of life. I am a thousand years old more or less, and it is very rare that one can tell me a story interesting enough to blot out all of my surroundings."

—Frank Crane.

"Captain Blood" in motion pictures—one of the really big pictures of all time, will be shown at the Princess Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday nights, August 19 and 20.

SOUTH LYON—Hamburg and Ann Arbor parties were plaintiff and defendant in a civil suit at Howell last week. The Hamburg man, who owns considerable land around Cordley Lake in that township, claimed the Ann Arbor party had no right to anchor his boat on the lake while fishing and had him arrested. In a suit some years ago, which went to Supreme Court, the court decided that waters of a lake are constantly in motion and therefore, in cases of several people owning abutting property, they are the property of none of them. Under that decision it has been held that if fishermen could lawfully get onto a lake, they could fish in all parts of the lake, but the court held that fishermen trespassed when they anchored, in that private parties own the land under the lake. In the Hamburg case, the Howell court decided in favor of the plaintiff.—Herald.

Then there's cause for worry and more cause to give your weakened kidneys prompt help. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Chelsea folks recommend Doan's for just such troubles.

Lewis Eschbach, farmer, R. F. D. No. 2, Chelsea, says: "I was in bad shape with kidney trouble. My back was painful and there was a constant weakness and soreness just over my kidneys. My head ached and I was nervous. I didn't get any relief until I started taking Doan's Pills from Eschbach's Drug Store. Three boxes of Doan's cured me."

SERMONETTE FOR AUGUST 10TH
Theme—"Efficiency"

Just make good! Do not explain. Do the thing you are expected to do! Do not waste time in giving reasons why you did not, or could not, or would not or should not. If you were to cook for me, I would expect my meat and other foods on time, and done and appealing. I would not be interested in the butcher's mistake, or the stove's defect, or the misery in your left arm. I want the food, not explanations. I could not work at any profession, folks do not want to hear why they are half done—they want results. This no doubt sounds cold, cruel, heartless; but to real men it is a joy and gladness. They rejoice to make good themselves, and they expect others to make good and they like to hear preached the gospel of making good. We will all want to hear the Master's words, "Well done, good and faithful servant." There we have it. The law we do the more we explain. Efficiency—learn that word by heart, get to saying it in your sleep. Of all the joys on this terrestrial sphere, there is none quite so satisfying and so much more hundred per cent as "Making Good."

E. L. Sutherland.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL
Rev. C. S. Bishop, pastor.
Our theme for Sunday morning will be "Are We To Believe in Christ, or Not?" In these days of confusing thought and many beliefs what are we to do? Our Bible school is a "bummer" for these summer months—come, but remember the preaching services just before Sunday school. We expect special music. Our happy Sunday evening services—"After the Storm"—will be our topic. To members of the other churches, white you have no services—we extend to you a cordial invitation to worship with us. I would be glad to have every member of the church at church. Why not? You are robbing yourself of more than you can tell. One cannot live the Christian life and abstain from the worship of God in God's appointed place of worship. It is one of God's ways of communion with his followers. Come to church. "The Big Stone Church."

FRESH AIR SERVICE
A fresh air service will be held at H. Hadley's grove at Bruin Lake, next Sunday at 3:00 p. m. Rev. Bowser from Stockbridge, will give a very able sermon. All are cordially invited to come.

PRENTICE REUNION
On August 6th, 1925, occurred the 32nd annual reunion of the Prentice, Baines and Wadsworth families. It was held at Camp Perry, Ohio, on Lake Erie, 85 miles east of Toledo. This is a training camp and rifle range for the Ohio National Guards. There were two regiments there at the time. They drill and shoot at targets for two weeks and then give way to others. The rifle range is one-half mile long. That is, one-half mile of targets set close together and the lake for a backdrop. Several squads were firing at the targets which were numbered. A squad of cavalry was out and seemed to have just finished as they were wet with sweat.

In the afternoon the cavalry displayed past our picnic grounds in two apparently for our benefit and a fine sight they made. We were the first to arrive, which we usually are when not among the last. They soon came however, to the number of 183, and many surprises were sprung.

A radius of 30 miles would catch the most of them but one car from Indiana brought friends we had not seen for forty years. The day was spent renewing old acquaintances and meeting incidents both ludicrous and pathetic. One young man asked me if I remembered the time I hired him to ride horse to sow wheat in standing corn, and when we were ready to start there was no seed wheat within a mile. I came back at him by asking him if he remembered the time when he and his harem-scarem brother used to ride the milk cows in the lane when his screaming, men shouting and a hundred people jamming the door at once. In that first moment of the panic, Doctor Darand stood dazed; then he knelt beside the man on the floor at his feet and automatically, as a surgeon, set about examining his wound.

"I got him all right." It was Eddie Pellen's hard, clear voice which Bertram at first thought spoke to him, "Don't worry," said the voice. "I got him." Then Bertram realized that Pellen was speaking to Kitty Hewitt.

Another voice addressed Bertram. "How is he, doctor? How is he?" This was Furgister's.

"Dead," replied Bertram. "Well," demanded Pellen's voice, "it had to be, didn't it?"

"Too bad, Ed," said the plain-clothes man hoarsely. "You're in for it this time."

"You saw it?" Kitty Hewitt's voice rose hysterically. "All these people saw it! Larry picked a quarrel—you all saw him do it!"

Pellen put out his hand to quiet her. "It's 'framed,' Kit; of course it's 'framed.' They're going to railroad me."

"They shan't!" "Come on," ordered Furgister, and he started Pellen for the door. Two detectives followed close behind; outside, the "wagon"—it really was a motor-wagon—was waiting and without more ado they put Pellen in.

"Take me with him!" Kitty Hewitt begged; but they thrust her back and the police car drove off.

"I'll take her home," Bertram said, and freed her from the officer's grasp. He turned to Cleahy, the proprietor of the place, who was close beside him. "Can you give me a room—your office will do—for a few moments?"

Cleahy showed them the office and went out closing the door.

She sank upon a chair and her head fell forward and her shoulders were shaken with pitiful sobs. Beside her Bertram stood, trying to collect his thoughts.

Kitty Hewitt controlled her sobbing and repeated: "They'll railroad him. They'll railroad him. She reiterated the bitter phrase for false evidence given to convict. "That's what they mean to do."

Did they mean to "railroad" him? Bertram wondered. Or had they seen Pellen draw his gun first and shoot? No one, not a person in all the room, had come to support Kitty Hewitt when she had cried out her testimony against the police. And hers must be prejudiced evidence, if any way. If the police would have seen the fact only as they wished to see it, was it not equally true that she would have seen what she wished?

Bertram said, thinking of this, "What is he to you?"

"Nothing," she denied. "Nothing! Absolutely nothing at all!"

"Nothing?" cried Bertram. "That can't be true."

"I mean, I'm not his wife or his woman or even engaged to him. Nothing; nothing at all is between us. No one can say there is. I can give my honest evidence for him."

"What is he to you, then?" Bertram asked again.

"He's my brother and sister together. The same thing had happened to us. We didn't have any people. I didn't have any at all. He had his mother. She took me in; she brought me up. When she got sick, Eddie tried to take care of his mother and me and himself. The first crooked job he got in was for me. Of course I didn't know it. He was in love with me. He wanted to give me things; then he got in deeper and deeper. But he never murdered. And he didn't tonight. You saw it, doctor. You'll swear to the truth with me, won't you? Won't you?"

Doctor Darand knelt beside her. "God help me, Kitty," he cried, "I didn't see it. When they fired, I was looking at you."

"Oh!" she sobbed. "Oh!" She tossed up her head and stared at him and saw he was telling the truth.

"When they got him. They got him. For him, there's just me. But you'll stand by me, doctor, all you can, won't you? You're the only friend I have now, free in the world."

"I'll stand by you," Bertram said, "you can be absolutely sure."

Dr. Bertram Darand, grandson of Marshal Darand and son of a once-reigning hells of Chicago society, telephoned at one o'clock that morning to Mrs. Henry Fraley, who had been a friend of his mother's. Never would Bertram have appealed to his mother's friend directly for himself; but tonight he needed a safe refuge, among his own people, for Kitty Hewitt, and it was offered her, and so, in the same hour, he took her to the Fraleys' home on the Drive.

He had made explanation in advance so when he brought Kitty to the graystone mansion Mrs. Fraley asked no question but took the girl at once to her care and put her to bed. Bertram waited below and at last his mother's friend came down to him. "I believe she's the loveliest creature I have ever seen," Mrs. Fraley said.

"She's the loveliest I've ever met," said Bertram. "Take care of her—awfully good care. Oh, I know you will. But she's had a different sort of deal in life from any other girl you ever knew."

Morning newspapers began to appear; and in the dawn of light, as once before, Doctor Darand read the headlines of an exploit of Eddie the Immune; but this time the headlines told that "they" had him. He had shot a man before a score of witnesses who had thrown evidence against him.

father was away carpentering. Dinner was served at noon. In a new club house the property of our president, Francis Wadsworth, there were boats at hand but nobody seemed to have time to use them. Several however donned bathing suits in a tent on the beach and took a dip in old Lake Erie.

FARMER BAIN SALE OF WHOLE MILK NOT PROFITABLE

I wish to take exception to an article in the Chelsea Standard of last week regarding the meeting of the Michigan Milk Producers' Association of Michigan. It is true, there was much interest shown at the beginning of the meeting, for it was rumored that the farmers in this section were to receive forty cents per hundred pounds more for their milk this year than last. But what of that? The price of hay at present makes it impossible for one to realize as much this year for their milk at a 40 cent advance in price than they did last year at the old price. To prove this the average yearly production of the cows in Michigan is less than 4,000 pounds. An increase of 40 cents per hundred weight would mean an increase in the profit from a cow of $16.00. The past year hay was worth from $10 to $12 per ton. This year it is worth from $20 to $24 per ton. Statistics show us that the average cow will consume approximately two tons of hay annually. Two tons of hay last year were valued at $24, this year it is worth $48. Therefore the cost of hay alone for a cow during 1925 will be $24 more than the past year. Where the increase of 40 cents per hundred for milk will leave the farmer in debt for roughage alone $8.00.

We were told by a representative of the Milk Producers' Association (our association) that if we could not produce milk for $1.80 per hundred we had better raise sheep or hogs. Figures show that at a $3.00 base when the surplus (which may be given you at any time regardless of base) is considered, the average price received by the farmer is not far from $1.80 per hundred weight. It looks as if it was a case of take what you can get or go into some other branch of farming.

One young farmer at this meeting ventured to say that he received more for his cream at the price paid at the creamery than he did by selling his whole milk. He was very politely informed that others had been in the business longer than he and knew more about it, and it was apparently very little he knew about his own business. Now in our own mind we believe that this young man knew what he was talking about. The Board of Health representative gave a very interesting talk in regard to the production of clean milk, but before he gained the floor most of the so-called interested crowd had departed, but he made plain to the handful that remained the necessity of producing a cleaner product. Now Brother Milk Producer, we understand there is to be another meeting of this same nature in the near future. Are you going to attend? Are you going to sit there and not ask a question? I will wager you do not even know who set the price of milk in Michigan. But it is set, you take it, and surplus too, and say nothing.

What if the milk producers of Michigan would feed the milk produced on their farms to their hogs for just one week? Would it not tend to produce a change in the situation?

As it is today the producer is simply marketing his corn, oats and hay at a price less than he could receive for them at the market. At the present price of milk the farmer's profit is what he puts on the "back forty."
