VERMONT CEMETERY ASS'N UNVEILS BOULDER SATURDAY

Resting Place of Sylvan Pioneers
Scene of Appropriate Dedication Services.

The dark rainy weather Saturday afternoon, October 24, prevented many from meeting at the Vermont cemetery. However, a goodly number gathered for the unveiling of the boulder which had just been placed there by the Vermont Association, and the tablet, presented by Mrs. Helen Prudden, Cady of Jackson, gives the names and dates of the early settlers, and the establishment of this "Silent City."

Little Roland Whitmer Spaulding, a descendant of Warren Spaulding, who was one of those early settlers who came from Vermont, lifted the flag from the stone.

On account of the rain, after prayer by Rev. E. L. Sutherland, we went to the home of E. S. Spaulding. A very appropriate place for the dedication program, as those Vermont people built their first log house just back of this home and lived together while they built their separate houses. Arnold Prudden, who was present, was born in that log house eighty-one years ago—a very fitting celebration for his birthday.

E. S. Spaulding, president of the Vermont Association, presided. Mrs. L. Bollolet of Detroit, gave a talk about the earliest settlers who in 1830-34 came from Vermont to Michigan and at the time of the first death in the neighborhood (Mrs. Jesse Smith) Aaron Lawrence, her great-grandfather, gave some land for a burial ground. Since then additions have been donated.

Mrs. Helen P. Cady told of her recent visit to Vermont, where she saw many scenes and objects about which she remembers her great-grandmother, Mrs. Abigail Davis, telling her. Mrs. Roland Waltons, in behalf of the Vermont Association, thanked her for the tablet. Roses were laid on the graves of those first pioneers.

It was an enjoyable occasion when these descendants of those early Vermont settlers honored their memory.

The Vermont Association have for years taken pride in keeping this sacred spot neat and beautiful, and the community appreciates the efforts of the officers and caretakers of this lovely quiet country resting place of most of Sylvan's pioneers.

AMERICAN ENTERTAINERS PLEASE LOCAL AUDIENCE

Said by many to be the best entertainment of its kind ever given before a local audience, the American Entertainers, Corine Jesson, mezzo-soprano, pianist, and Helene Portant, contralto, soprano and violinist, played and sang last Friday evening before a fair sized crowd in the first number of the lyceum course being held here this winter. The course is being presented under the auspices of the Congregational Brotherhood and St. Paul's Evangelical League.

Included in the Friday evening program were vocal solos, and duets, violin solos, readings and musical monologues, all highly pleasing and showing the brilliance and training of the artists.

The next number of the course will be presented on Monday evening, December 21, when the Farnum Trio will entertain with musical numbers and readings. Like the first number, they are highly recommended as artists of the first quality.

PIONEER SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

H. Wirt Newkirk has been elected president of the Washtenaw County Pioneer and Historical Society. Other officers chosen at the recent annual meeting are: Secretary, Ida C. Finney, and treasurer, O. C. Burk.

The appointment of vice president for the various townships was left with these officers.

The annual meeting was held at Stone school, and following a supper, Ann Arbor, and following a supper, a centennial program, presided over by E. C. Campbell, was given to commemorate the establishment of Washtenaw's first school.

Byron A. Finney of the University library, Prof. J. B. Steere, John M. Graves, Miss Florence V. Esery, school commissioner, and Prof. E. C. School of the Normal college, Ypsilanti, appeared on the program.

STATE ISSUES DEER DECISION

Hunters will not be allowed to take deer out of the state in automobiles this year, according to John Baird, director of conservation. Fifty wardens are to be stationed at strategic points to prevent motorists from crossing the state line with their bags. Many Michigan hunters, who have gone north by way of Illinois and Wisconsin, as well as non-resident hunters, must ship their deer by express.

According to Baird the law provides that deer must be shipped—never transported in automobiles. Since deer have been becoming the use of automobiles has become popular. It is interpreted by director as meaning shipments must be made by boat or railroad.

FORMER CHELSEA BOY SUCCEEDS AS MUSICIAN

James B. Bartch Engaged as Teacher and Conductor of Musical Organ-izations in Southern City.

Evidence of the success being attained by a former Chelsea boy is contained in the Fall Announcement of James B. Bartch, basso, musical conductor, teacher of voice and recitalist, a former resident of this place, and now living at Augusta, Georgia, where he is engaged in practice of his profession. A copy of the announcement has been received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hammond.

According to contents of the announcement Mr. Bartch is conductor of The Athens Civic Choral Society, Athens, S. C., The Y. M. C. A. male chorus, Augusta, Ga., and soloist with The Reid Memorial church, Augusta, Ga.

That his efforts are appreciated by musicians and others with whom he has come in contact is evidenced by a number of recommendations of prominent people in the music, social and ministerial world. Those contained in the announcement read as follows:

West Hurley, New York, September 23rd, 1925.
"It is with a great deal of pleasure that I recommend Mr. James B. Bartch, Basso, Soloist and Teacher of Voice to the Musical Public. Mr. Bartch has a magnificent voice which has been carefully developed by masters of The Art of Teaching. His interpretation is keen and his ability as a Teacher of Voice was most decidedly impressed upon me while I had the pleasure of listening to his teaching."

Marjorie Squires, Contralto, Concert and Oratorio Soloist, August, Ga., Oct. 1st, 1925.

Personally, and as a club woman, it affords me great pleasure to commend Mr. James B. Bartch as an artist, and a Teacher of Voice.

It has been my good fortune to observe the splendid progress made by his most gifted pupils, and also to note his unerring judgment in detecting latent talent and his ability and success in the development of such voices.

The Club Women of America are urging our people to patronize their own artists, to make music a force in every community; and to prepare for the renaissance of music which is fast coming to our land. Mr. Bartch will be a tremendous force in helping to bring that about.

Eleanor L. Brenner, Vice President of large Georgia Federation, Retiring President, Augusta Womans Club.

"Mr. James B. Bartch has been a member of the choir of The Reid Memorial Church for the past five years and during that time I have had the opportunity to know him quite intimately.

It gives me great pleasure to state that, in common with the congregation of this church, I esteem Mr. Bartch very highly both as a man and as a musician. His work in the choir has been most acceptable and has won universal praise. Being endowed with unusual gifts and having had excellent opportunities for culture, he has put forth conscientious and diligent effort and has won for himself a high place in his chosen field.

I gladly commend him to any who may desire his services as a teacher of voice."

S. L. McCarty, D. D., Pastor, Reid Memorial Church, Augusta, Ga., Oct. 10, 1925.

WAS SYLVAN RESIDENT SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS

Joseph H. Weber Passed Away At Home of Daughter on Saturday.

Joseph H. Weber, for over seventy-five years a well known resident of this community, died Saturday afternoon, October 24, 1925, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Schulte, 67 South Main street, with whom he has made his home for the past fifteen years. Mr. Weber had been in failing health for several months past.

Mr. Weber was born in Sylvan township, September 11, 1850 and was a son of Simon and Genevieve Weber. He was united in marriage February 1, 1872, with Miss Elizabeth Hindelang, who died July 7, 1901.

For several years following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Weber resided on the farm at present owned by Simon Weber, opposite the homestead of John Wortley in Sylvan. After leaving the farm they became residents of Chelsea.

He is survived by one son, J. Edward Weber, one daughter, Mrs. Estella Schulte, five grandchildren, one brother, Simon Weber of Sylvan, three sisters, Mrs. Pete Merkel and Mrs. Jacob Hummel of Chelsea, and Mrs. Kate Fomer of Jackson, and several nephews and nieces.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning in St. Mary's church. The mass was celebrated by his pastor, Rev. Father Fallon. Interment in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

COUCH C. DORR PASSED AWAY LAST FRIDAY

Couch C. Dorr, 83, a pioneer resident of Sharon township, died Friday, October 23, at the farm home where he was born, August 24, 1842. He was married October 17, 1867, to Miss Myra Cole of Norvell, who died February 5, 1923.

Mr. Dorr was a member of Company F, 20th Michigan Infantry in the Civil war and for 14 years was a county poor commissioner. He was also a member of the soldiers' relief.

He is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Belle VanArnum, Mrs. Florence Gage, Mrs. Maude Raymond and Mrs. Susie Davidson, all of Grass Lake, and Mrs. James Hathaway of Williamston; two sons, Rex Dorr of Grass Lake and Earl P. SUPERVISORS APPOINTMENT SYLVAN TOWNSHIP TAXES

At the closing session of the board of supervisors Friday the amount of taxes for state, county and road funds were fixed as follows for Sylvan township: Valuation $3,104,235; state tax $9,759.80; county road $3,661.87; county road $3,661.87; county tax $3,965.16.

This does not include the appropriations for the township which was voted for at the April election which amounts for all purposes to $10,740.00. This does not include the funds for each school district to be raised by direct tax.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES WILL MEET AT PINCKNEY

The Jackson Association of Congregational churches will hold its annual meeting in the Congregational Community church at Pinckney, the dates being Tuesday and Wednesday, November 10 and 11. Rev. L. E. Hague, of the Plymouth Congregational church of Jackson, is the present moderator of the association, which governs about 18 churches in the district.

The dedication of the Congregational Community church at Pinckney recently was a source of pride not only to the village and community but to all who are interested in the progress of this movement.

The consolidation of the Methodist Episcopal and Congregational churches of the village was considered for some years before the project materialized, it being necessary to bring the matter before the authorities of both bodies.

At present the newly formed organization is in possession of the church property of both congregations, which are located side by side. The Methodist church was selected for the main use of the organization, being the larger of the two buildings.

The entire building has been remodeled with Sunday school rooms, dining and kitchen rooms arranged on the first floor.

The auditorium has been enlarged. The removal of the pipe organ from the Congregational church to the present edifice completed the making of a modern and well equipped community church.

Rev. H. E. Mayeroff is the successful and active pastor of the church, which is meeting the needs of the community in a gratifying manner.

THE FARMER AND THE PESKY HUNTER

There seems to be a continued protest among the farmers to keep lawless hunters from breaking down fences and shooting their stock. One farmer says he has had at least one cow or animal killed each season as long as he can remember, while he would not object to hunting on his farm if the above damage was not done.

While in most cases this season farmers are posting "No Hunting" signs on their farms against lawless hunters which also keeps the careful ones from enjoying the sport, we understand the law provides that permission must be gained from the owner of the property before entering upon his premises whether posted or not.—Adrian Courier.

NOTICE TO HUNTERS

No hunting or trespassing will be allowed on our farms. All persons who do so will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. Also all dogs found running at large on our premises will be shot.

SEEK COLD CURE

The Health Laboratory at the University of Amsterdam, Holland, will seek this winter to discover a sure cure for every cold—also preventives. To this end 8,000 investigators and observers will be put to work in all parts of Holland. The common cold is described by authorities at the University as "the scourge of humanity" and they believe it is time something really serious is done about it.

WHAT OF LOCARNO?

The meeting at Locarno is over, and agreements have been reached and initiated for signature and acceptance by the principal nations of Europe.

France and Germany have agreed that there shall be no more war between these two countries. England, Italy and Belgium have okayed these agreements, promising to throw their strength to the power that is innocent should the other start anything. Czechoslovakia and Poland have signed arbitration agreements, also okayed by all the other powers. These agreements, the representatives of the various countries involved, claim, will be the beginning of a long peace. It will prevent nations declaring war upon each other without the advice and consent of other powers to these compacts. Those who made the agreements say they mean an end to war for all time.

Pe-haps. We shall wait patiently with as much hope and confidence as it is possible to muster, since we have read history, since we know the European nature since we are appraised of the advance, greed and grandeur, which has always characterized these countries; since we know that human nature is human nature, and that nations are not born again in a decade, and that the peoples of the world do not change over night.

We hope for the best. And that is all we can say for the Locarno treaties. They may last a year, a decade, a cycle—or for all time—but we shall believe that when we know it.

Based on the Locarno treaties, President Coolidge wishes to call another disarmament conference of the nations at Washington.

History teaches us to mean anything to us. Have we forgotten, or do we appreciate the damage to this country wrought by the disarmament conference called for Washington, and held there under the call and the blessing of President Harding? Do we realize that America has been cheated and defrauded into forsaking a naval program that would have made her first on the high seas, when it was finished, and that it would have been finished in a few years after the conference was held. We do not seem to realize that while we are supposed to be the equal of England on the high seas, and a 5 to 3 superior of Japan, that we are not only far inferior to England but we are far inferior to Japan. Either this is true or every military man, every naval man, every official or semi-official who has studied the situation in the past year is a prevaricator of such character—that would make Annanias of old appeal like a paragon of virtuous truth.

There is only one thing for America to do today, and that is to sit steady in the boat, get control of the air over this continent so that it can not be taken away from us, and keep our powder dry. To have guns as great or greater than any other nation, and to be prepared at all times to resist any attack that may be made upon us.

We are now in the position of a great giant, bound at his feet so that he can not aggressively attack, or successfully retreat if either should be necessary. If we hold another conference, we shall be a prone giant with hands and feet tied, and a gag in his mouth so that he can not even yell for help.

When we get in that position, we shall be a fat old defenseless goose, ready for the plucking—and fear not we shall be plucked and plucked and plucked until our very pin feathers of wealth and national resources will go to make a European holiday.

There is only one thing for rich, fat, defenseless Uncle Sam to do, and that is to keep in his own yard, keep himself in readiness to unleash his eagles in the air if need be, and to unleash his dogs of war on earth if compelled to.

Let us keep our tongues out of Europe, and our minds centered on building up a national defense that will resist any attack from anywhere or everywhere at any time, and for all time.

Unless we do that, we of this generation shall live to have our faces bathed in bitter tears of regret!

TRAMPLING THE LAW

The harvest of lawlessness we are reaping in every line, ranging from bootlegging to arson, theft and murder, is no more than might be expected of a nation grown indifferent to the punishment of crime, and accustomed to winking at law violations which bring in material for the cocktail.

There can be but one answer to conditions as they are—we must either teach and observe respect for the law, no matter what it is, or find ourselves inevitably drifting to chaos and anarchy.

Banditry—hold-ups, wherein large payrolls are taken and sometimes lives are lost, are as common as births and marriages once were in the small city daily news.

If we are to better the condition, the citizen must awaken to his duty. The first that destroys our neighbor's house, unless checked, will surely destroy our own. The contempt for law brings the dead corpse of the son of one mother and lays it on her doorstep, will just as surely, one day bring your own boy to your own doorstep, cold and bloody.

It is as impossible for a nation to sow the wind and escape reaping the whirlwind, as it is impossible for the individual to do it.

PRISONER BEGS NEW CELLS

A life prisoner in Sing Sing has added his voice in favor of the $100,000,000 bond issue which will allow the building of new cells at Sing Sing prison. The prisoner has appealed for better prison conditions in a letter to Governor Smith in which he tells how each morning for eight years he has put on clothing moist from the dampness of the century-old cell in which he is confined, and in which he describes the unsanitary conditions have prevailed for years. The Governor has given the letter out for publication in metropolitan newspapers.

COUNTRY NEEDS RELIGION

Need for "a strong and vigorous determination on the part of the people to observe the law" was urged by President Coolidge in an address before the annual council of the Congregational Churches, recently.

The president declared, "The country needs more religion," adding that he knows of no "adequate support for our form of government except that which comes from religion."

The government, he emphasized, "will be able to get out of the people only such virtue as religion has placed there." He said:

"Lawlessness is altogether too prevalent and a lack of respect for government and the conventions of enlightened society is altogether too apparent."

Honorable Toil Exalts

If you perform a slave and a free man, the difference of their birth produces none in the soul; and the scent is perceived as soon in the one as the other, but the odor of honorable toil, as it is acquired with great pains and application, is ever sweet and worthy of a brave man.—Xenophon (Greek historian, Fourth century B. C.)

SUCCESSFUL HELICOPTER

From London comes the official announcement that Don Juan De La Cierva has invented a successful helicopter. He had his third successful flight on Monday, achieving a speed of seventy miles an hour, then hovering in the air and landing gently after an almost vertical descent.

"It needs no piloting skill whatever," said Capt. Courteney, who flew the machine.

De La Cierva tried about thirty designs before evolving the present successful type. He said the autogyro needs a take-off space of only twenty yards and will be able to land on a ship's deck or carry mail to the center of a city and alight on a platform erected above the buildings.

Such an invention will revolutionize the airplane industry, and will make air development progress more rapidly in the next decade than it has advanced in the whole period since the invention of the airplane. It will, if as successful as reported, revolutionize the passenger-carrying business of the world, and will make possible the transportation of people living at distances greater than 100 miles in the country, to their duties in the city, where they will descend into the building and their work. It will also destroy the present type of battleship, and revolutionize fighting on the high seas.

And who knows what such an invention might bring about in making possible exploration of the outer crust of our planet?

BALKANS' BOIL AGAIN

The Balkan states, that devil's kitchen where most of the world's war broth is brewed, are again threatening trouble.

Bulgarians and Greeks clashed on the Macedonian frontier. Greece demanded a large money payment and an apology. Before the Bulgars could accept, Greece and Bulgarian troops clashed near Petrich, and several were killed. Then came the news that Bulgaria had accepted the Greek peace terms.

Now, will the Bulgars, a war-like people under all circumstances, make demands on Greece for damages at Petrich?

You can start a war in the Balkans by dropping the silk-cord off a military hat.

DIVORCED AT LAST

James G. Phelps Stokes, who married Rose Pastor some twenty years ago, has divorced his wife. Rose Pastor was one of the leading communists in America when Millionaire Stokes took her for better or for worse. After a twenty-year trial, and the communistic spirit did not grow any less in his wife, Stokes resorted to the divorce courts, and cited statutory improper conduct to warrant the granting of a divorce. Thus ends a romance that was heralded twenty years ago as "the romance of the century—the wedding of the commorant and the commune."

METHODIST EPISCOPAL
Rev. C. S. Risley, pastor.
This very vital subject for Sunday morning—"Is Jesus Christ Unchanging?" This is a "changing world." Progress is the chief concern—will it outgrow Christianity? Sunday evening—"The Torch of Conscience." Can it be put out? Does conscience have its rewards and punishments? It seems to us that these topics are worth our consideration. They are given with us. Let us consider them together Sunday. Some one said—"Church going is a good habit—get the habit. Staying away is a bad habit—break it. Give God a chance to come to church."

Sunday school is doing finely. Come to that, but come to church—it looks better. Attendance has been fairly good during the rainy Sundays. May we all be at Divine worship.

CONGREGATIONAL
E. L. Sutherland, Minister
Sunday, November 1st, 1925—
Hours of worship—10 a. m., 11:15 a. m. and 7 p. m., to which all are invited. The theme for the morning worship is "The Debt of Power." Theme for evening, "The Need of the Hour." As I carry on my thought of searching the Scriptures, let me add more to this thought. The Word is the greatest and most rational means to association with Christ—coming into understanding of His thoughts, feelings, purposes, acts and into harmony with them, and thus being moulded into His likeness by persistent association. Pore over the life of Christ to drink in its spirit. And so the Word becomes the greatest and most rational means to personal acquaintance with God. We may as certainly and truly come to know God through His Word, as we come to know a correspondent whom we have never seen through his letters. The one road to faith in God is knowledge of Him, and this knowledge is in His Word. A man can say very reverently this is God's Word, and then let the dust settle on the pages of it. One does not reverence the Bible simply by saying beautiful things about it, he reverences it most when he goes into it most deeply, questions it, wrestles with it, compels it to give up its deep secrets. Remember you are welcome to worship with us. A welcome hand and a Gospel message awaits you. If you are a new-comer in our midst, I invite you to make some church your home.

The Girl He Left Behind

By FRANK WALL

(Copyright, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

THE old home town basking drowsily in the warm sunshine, looked good to John MacNeil after his three years in New York. He stood at the corner of the block which he came out of the depot. This was where he had proposed to her, he remembered, his eyes twinkling. It was in the middle of winter and there had been a heavy snowstorm; and just as he stooped for her answer an avalanche of snow slumped off the roof and stretched them flat on the sidewalk.

"And I held her there until she said, 'Yes,' he muttered. 'Cave man stuff,' she called it, but she liked it. Goah! They all do."

And away he swung again down the little street where her firm was located.

He asked the girl at the information desk for Edna Burke. She smiled at his question.

"Miss Burke?" he said again, and there was a map in his voice this time.

"You mean Mrs. Marshall," she said at last.

"I mean Miss Burke."

"She's Mrs. Marshall now. It's the same one. She used to be Edna Burke."

MacNeil passed his hand slowly across his cheek. He felt as if his face were frozen. "Dye mean she's married?" he said quietly.

"I guess so. Next, please."

"Thank you," he said mechanically, and he walked out.

Some men would have insisted on seeing her, but what was the use? He called up her firm and asked for Mrs. Marshall, and when he heard her voice he put the receiver back on the hook and went to take up his new job without even speaking to her.

He had planned to surprise her with his return. Well, she had surprised him; that was all.

When he was recently offered the editorship of the paper where he had started his newspaper career as a cub reporter, he thought it was the most wonderful thing that had ever happened in his life. His three years in New York had not weakened his longing for the old home town. In all of his letters to Edna Burke he had dwelt on his ambition to make good in metropolitan newspaper work; and all she would say was, "You're too proud to own it, after the way he had reproached her for not wanting him to go—he had just longed to get back."

No, it wasn't that at all, he told himself savagely. It was Edna he wanted to get back to. Manlike, he was twisting the knife in his wound, merely hurting himself to prove, he didn't care. He went up the old stone steps of the Eagle with a heart like lead, and walked through the big editorial room, where he had planned to make such a triumphal entry, with his face all white and set.

He entered the editorial sanctum unannounced and nodded grumpily to old Lennon, whom he was to replace. The old man greeted him affectionately.

"But you don't look well," he quavered. "I guess New York didn't agree with you."

"I'm all right," said MacNeil vaguely, and he began to ask questions about the paper.

Lennon showed him what was necessary and said he was staying on for a few weeks to get him started. He insisted on MacNeil taking the editorial chair by the window and went to a desk at the other side of the room.

Boys were rushing in all the time with proofs. Hopper, the editorial writer, came to suggest a change in one of the editorials in the noon edition. Lennon referred them all to MacNeil and he answered them in his quick incisive fashion, but his face was like a mask over the despair that was gnawing at his heart.

"Then you think this editorial should be changed?" said Hopper.

MacNeil was staring out of the window. He saw Edna coming slowly across the square, her arm linked with that of a good-looking young fellow, at whom she was glancing continually.

MacNeil turned slowly. He hadn't heard a word the other man had said but he nodded vaguely. He couldn't speak just then.

Hopper went out and Lennon went with him to get his lunch. MacNeil slumped back in his chair his face haggard. When the boy presently opened the door he didn't even look up. He didn't hear the footsteps that came swiftly into the room. It was the sight of a small hand resting on his desk that roused him. He looked up at her, his heart beating wildly.

"You shouldn't be here," he said. "You're married, you know."

And then her arms were round his neck. She was crying and laughing and speaking all at once. "I called myself Mrs. Marshall because in my other place the men were always asking me to go out," she said.

"But that man you were with in the square?"

"It's my brother back from South America. Don't you remember? I told you about him."

MacNeil sat up and pushed his hand through his hair. "Mrs. Marshall," he said thoughtfully, "I've a new job for you, and this time you may call yourself Mrs. MacNeil."

The Guile of Esther

By WILLIS BRINDLEY

(Copyright, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN Esther Goetz came to work for the Great Western Lumber company, she carried in a little patent-leather-covered trunk, two powder puffs, three sticks of chewing gum and a complete set of little black caps to go over typewriter keys.

Miss Wimmer, strawboss of typists for the Great Western, assigned Miss Goetz a typewriter and chair and handed her a cylinder to transcribe. Miss Goetz, before beginning work, first covered each little key with its little black cap, thus announcing to the world and more especially to Miss Wimmer and any competitors, that there, in person, was a typist.

But, alas and alack! Miss Esther Goetz knew not the language of mail order lumber—this chap who had talked into the dictating machine used strange words like number-two-common, selected-common, slash-grain-finish, conk (Esther, unable to find it in a pocket dictionary, plunged and spelled it conque), and joists, which Esther translated holists.

Near the close then, of this first day's typing, an office boy collected from Esther Goetz the letters she had typed and delivered these to the dictator. When he perused them and came upon conque and holist, and the other faux pas of the unfortunate Esther, he proceeded to Miss Wimmer, upon whose desk he dumped the cargo, with maledictions. And Miss Wimmer promptly demoted Esther Goetz from the proud post of transcriber to the humble job of diller-in-of-form letters and helper on the files.

During the weeks, however, Esther Goetz, being naturally an intelligent person, learned the high spots of the mail-order lumber business. She convinced herself that, given an opportunity, she could type anything that any person in that office was competent to dictate, but convincing Miss Wimmer was a different matter.

"I suppose," she would say, "you'd like to have me arrange for you to take Mr. Filker's cylinders. He'd take one look and—"

Esther Goetz, from her desk near the incoming mail table, watched Mr. Filker every morning as he stopped for the mail.

At night, again, she loved to watch while he took a quick look at the outgoing mail, shaking his head in disapproval of a letter that was not letter-perfect in its typing, arrangement and absence of error, and every night, sending many letters back to be done over. Here, said Esther Goetz to Esther Goetz, was a man competent to appreciate flawless typing. With a heart full of misgiving, she thought out a letter to the Jisgood Manufacturing company, six-four-six-two—South—Dubuque street, and during the noon hour, she typed it on company stationery.

"I am an expert typist," said the letter, "and seek a change because my present position gives me no chance to show what I can do. I will work for you for $25 a week. My present work pays me $18 and is worth no more, but for expert typing I would expect $25. I am willing to make the change at any time."

Three mornings later Esther Goetz, watching from her corner, saw the great Mr. Filker carry several pieces of mail into his cubby. A few minutes later, Miss Wimmer summoned her into his presence. Filker waved Miss Wimmer out and gave full attention to Esther. A beautifully manicured finger pointed to an opened letter addressed, in the perfect typing of Esther Goetz, to the Jisgood Manufacturing company, atop which lay an envelope bearing the identifying stamp of the postoffice. "Return to sender; no such street and number."

"You write this," demanded Mr. Filker.

"Yes," faltered Esther.

"I wanted a job typing letters."

"Well, isn't this a good enough place for you to type letters?"

"Yes, but they won't let me type. I tried—once, before I knew lumber terms, and made some mistakes, and Miss Wimmer put me on the files and the form letters and—"

"Listen, Miss Goetz, I want somebody to do my own typing that can write letters that are perfect. Twenty-five dollars a week will be all right if you can hold the job."

"Oh, thank you, Mr. Filker, I'll do my best," said Esther Goetz, and faded from the presence.

Half an hour later, Miss Wimmer brought to her a cylinder and showed her a new typewriter and desk.

"It's all right with me, of course," said Miss Wimmer. "I like to see girls get on, but answer me this: why did you send a phony letter of application to a phony firm at a phony address, if it wasn't with the hope that it would come back and the boss see it?"

"Why, Miss Wimmer?" said Esther Goetz. "Why Miss Wimmer, I'm surprised at you!"

Average American Home Uses
485 K. W. H. of Electricity

The 'average' American with his average of 485 K. W. H. per year thinks his home is satisfactorily lighted. However, the time is near when home decorative schemes will be radically changed by electricity.

Instead of waiting for a paper hanger to redecorate once in every two or three years, the American housewife will have her choice of many color effects, instantly, by snapping switches on or off. In the process she will use more kilowatts but the amazing beauties made possible by illuminating inventions will well be worth the cost to her. This is the future of residential lighting as forecasted.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY MAKES NEW RECORD

The Ford Motor Company reached the highest production peak in the records of the company Friday when 8,165 cars and trucks went off the assembly line of domestic branches. Friday's record, however, is expected to be short lived, for production will reach 8,500 daily before the end of the month, making possible a total output of approximately 200,000 for October, the greatest in Ford history.

This information was contained in a statement issued at the company's general offices here Saturday afternoon, which details the remarkable industrial accomplishment effected in producing the improved Ford cars and which at the same time definitely dispels all fictitious rumors regarding Ford production.

Since the new cars were announced, "Less than sixty days after discontinuing its former style passenger cars the Ford Motor Company has brought the improved types into normal production in all its assembly plants throughout the United States" it was stated.

"The former type passenger cars went out of production in August during which month 4,616 passenger cars were produced.

"Because of the many changes and improvements made in Ford bodies it was necessary to rearrange departments in all assembly plants, install considerable equipment, and lengthen paint ovens to permit longer baking and an increase in the number of paint given the cars. This was accomplished and production started in the plants early in September.

Output of the improved cars increased rapidly and for the week ending September 19 the production total showed 22,376 cars and trucks.

"Since that time output has been growing steadily. During the last few weeks the company has been shipping through its branches to dealers more than 7,000 cars and trucks a day, the shipments increasing to the record reached Friday, October 16, when 8,165 cars and trucks were produced. This output will be increased to 8,500 a day before the end of the month. Production for October will run close to 200,000, a new high record.

"These figures assure the public that cars will be forthcoming in such large quantities from now on that deliveries can be made to customers without any great delay.

"Preparations for bringing in the new cars, which entailed the changing to all steel bodies, were begun months back, but the actual work of placing cars in production and bringing the output up to the normal average of more than 7,000 a day has all been accomplished within sixty days.

"Aside from the engineering work, the task of producing the improved cars involved in part, the preparation of tools for 8,291 new operations necessitating more than 3 million hours of work by expert toolmakers, complete changes of whole departments, the installation of 1,074 new machines in the Highland Park and River Rouge plants and in other manufacturing units, the designing and making of 803 new and different small tools totalling 75,800 pieces and the educating of thousands of men in making new automobile parts.

"The increase in production together with constantly expanding activities has brought employment in the Ford organization in the United States to a new high figure. At present the number of those employed exceeds 178,000."

WASHTENAW FARMERS FIND BADLY INFESTED CORN

Last Thursday about one hundred Michigan farmers visited Essex and Kent counties, Ontario, to see the effect of the European Corn Borer upon the crop in that area. The destruction of the crop is appalling. In one thirty acre field the crop was an entire loss. This crop was grown on especially good corn land. It might be said that it was so badly destroyed that there was not a crate of corn developed on the whole acre. It was only five years since the borer was first found in that section. Arthur Lutz who was one of the Washtenaw farmers to make the trip took fifteen worms from about twelve inches in length of stalk. The seriousness of this pest cannot be too greatly emphasized.

Delegations were there from as far west as Berrien and Van Buren counties. In addition to farmers present there were representatives of Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs.

The Corn Borer will attack large numbers of other plants and may cause considerable loss to florists and market gardeners. At present the best control measures recommended are through cleaning up and burning of all stalks and stubble left in the field and feeding lots. If this is done in the late fall or early spring it will do much to reduce infestation and further spread. The majority of those present on the tour seemed to be for legislative enactment making clean up work compulsory on each farm.

Those making the trip from Washtenaw county were: Arthur Lutz, Saline; E. C. Simmons and John Padgett from Ypsilanti; and H. S. Osler from Ann Arbor.

REPORT OF WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the M. E. church in its work in Chelsea has met the standard of success that Jesus emphasized when He was here upon earth. "By their fruits ye shall know them." The past year, in the local Society, has been true to the slogan set forth by the National organization—"More Faith, more Facts, more Folks, more Funds." The past year also saw the organization of the "Mothers' Jewels," and under the very able leadership of Mrs. Henry Dancer a strong band of eighteen members and seven life members is being cared for. They are now sending a box of supplies to our children's home in Alaska.

The local Auxiliary, met at the home of Mrs. John Alber, Wednesday of this week with a goodly number present. Mrs. N. F. Prudden led the meeting and with the help of Mrs. Benton, Mrs. Hewes and Mrs. Risley discussed the first chapter in the new study book on the European Background of the Stars.

Mrs. Hewes conducted the Home Mission Enigma after which Miss Riemenschneider had charge of the Traveling Basket. The Society sent this week three boxes of provisions to the Esther Home in Detroit.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Evert Benton.

EXTENSION WORK CLASS MEETS
Mrs. A. L. Bradbury's class in Home Management met at the home of Mrs. Breininger on Wednesday, October 21. Twenty-four were present, some of whom will form the nucleus of a Solo class. Business occupied the forenoon. This afternoon was taken up with the extension work, which aimed for expense saving in the kitchen. The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Fischer, on November 18.

P. T. A. ENTERTAINED
The P. T. A. of Lima, district No. 4, was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wiseman on Thursday, October 22. The color scheme was black and yellow, also witches and jack-o'-lanterns beautifully decorated the home.

When the numerous guests arrived they were received by ghosts, who carefully led them through the dark passages to the stairs. After this a business meeting was held, followed by a Halloween program given by school children.

After the guests had partaken of a luncheon of doughnuts and pumpkin pie, they left for their various homes, thanking Mr. and Mrs. Wiseman for their hospitality.

Wood as Polisher
An interesting use of rotten wood is in the polishing of the fine parts of the highest grade Swiss and French watches. Formerly this material was more extensively employed than at present, being largely supplanted by machinery and benzine. The "escape parts" and small screws are still in large part polished by hand and rotten wood. The value of the rotten wood used annually in Switzerland for this purpose is about $4,000, the best quality bringing a price of $1 a pound. What is wanted is a yellowish white silky material, soft and spongy, in which the growth rings are still visible. J. S. Record, in American Forests and Forest Life.

Tomato Not Long Popular
Tomatoes were probably first grown in the sixteenth century in Peru. They were grown in an ancient time in Mexico; but they did not become an economic fruit until about 100 years ago. Up until that time (1680) they were grown for ornament and were called the love apple. It was not until about 1870 that decided steps were taken to improve the tomato commercially. A. W. Livingston, seedman in Columbus, Ohio, brought out the old variety known as Trophy. The tomato was grown as early as 1506 in England, mostly in hothouses, and as early as 1812 in Italy.

Wanted to Be Sure
Father had promised his small daughter that if she were very good she should go to a vaudeville theater in the evening on condition that she behaved nicely during the performance.

She maintained an unusually subdued manner all day, and just before starting for the theater inquired anxiously:

"If there should be a joke, would they mind if I laugh?"

Licensed to Drink Coffee
Prohibition applied to coffee drinking at one time. In the year 1781 in Germany only a few rich holders of government licenses drank coffee and deputies were employed to spy upon the common people to see that they did not have coffee. These deputies used to follow the smell of roasting coffee to seek out those who did not have permits. In consequence they were cordially disliked and were called "coffee sniffers" by the indignant populace. Family Herald.

No Change in Status
A man ran away with the wife of a neighbor. The local clergyman called upon the deserted husband to attempt to console him, but the man seemed singularly cheerful considering the nature of his loss.

"It's too bad; too bad," said the clergyman. "I understand that the man who persuaded your wife to elope with him was your best friend."

The husband smiled.

"Yes," he said, "he was—and he is!"

His Skirts Not Too Clean
The owner of a wireless installation was annoyed by the behavior of some boys of the neighborhood who disconnected his aerial. He wrote indignantly to the teacher of the school the culprit attended to complain of their conduct and to demand their punishment. "I won't prosecute them," he wrote, "only I haven't got a license for my wireless."

Officer Hoff will spend the next four weeks in this county visiting 62 rural schools and giving safety talks.

The rural children will be instructed in safety measures particularly in their journeys along the highways to and from school. They will be advised to walk on the left side of the highway in order to face traffic and be cautioned to confine their play to the school grounds and not on the roads.

Warnings against catching rides on slow-moving vehicles, against coasting on the highways in the winter season and roller skating on pavements also will be given the children during the campaign.
