COOLIDGE ECONOMY

President Coolidge says he wants the government to practice economy, and to perform its proper functions without diminution of service to the people. Very good. He objects to the government entering into any private business. Very good. We would like to point to the government and the printing business. Our government is doing good printing at a loss every day in the year that it works. It is in direct competition with private printing plants, and has long been doing a successful job in supplying various firms, corporations and individuals with their printing at a figure far below cost.

Why not stop that, Mr. Coolidge? The government has just as much right to enter the railroad business, the telephone or the telegraph business, or to deal in commodities, as it has to enter into the printing business. Cut out the waste in the printing division of the postoffice department, and there would not be anything like the drain on the people who buy and pay for stamps and the general service of the postoffice department, that it is meant to perform.

WET AND DRY

We have the Eighteenth Amendment which provides for national prohibition of the manufacture or sale of alcoholic beverages. We have the Volstead Act, passed for the purpose of enforcing prohibition laws in the nation, and yet the wet and dry question will be the question uppermost in the next national campaign, and the Lord knows for how much longer.

The Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals is warning the republican party that there shall be no tinkering with the Volstead act to weaken it. That the drys are a strong force in the nation than any political party, and that they will not tolerate any backward step.

The dry forces are stronger, then any political party, morally—but how about them politically? The drys do not always vote as they talk. They talk a great deal about law and the enforcement of law, and when they come to vote they are motivated by party adherences.

If there were a great dry party, just as the republican party was a great abolitionist party, there would be enough votes to elect, if all the dry sentiment were corralled under one banner.

The drys can defeat any man's nomination nationally in either party—but with both Republicans and democrats running for wet votes, and catering to wet sentiment, what would be the good of it?

Those who believe in law enforcement would do well to begin now to organize for 1928, and put a ticket in the field, strictly on the issue of dry law enforcement. They will never have enforcement with the two great political parties making a football of the issue.

HUMBLE BUMBLE BEES

List to the plea for the humble bumble bee!

They are worth more to the United States every year than all the products of all our gold mines, says an authority in the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington. Yes, they are worth more than all our gold and silver mines together, even if you multiply the mines by two. You can rate the humble bees at about $300,000,000.

Perhaps you did not know it, but we owe our clover hay crop to the bumble bee. And our clover hay crop is worth more than $300,000,000 every year. When Uncle Sam tried to introduce red clover in the Philippines he made a big discovery. Red clover would not reproduce itself in those islands.

It took considerable time to find out that the reason for the failure was absence of bumble bees. Those buzzing toilers are the chaps who fertilize red clover—distribute the pollen and so complete the yearly cycle of maturity. And no insect except the bumble bee, with his abnormally long tongue, can do that little trick in a red clover field.

When Uncle Sam took a cargo of bumble bees out to Manila, the job of raising red clover hay in the Philippines was accomplished.

THAT ITALIAN SETTLEMENT

We are getting a little backwash from the visit of the Italian Debt Commission, which came to "settle" the Italian debt, and got away with murder. We are told that Count Volpi, head of the commission is known as the "man who gets not fail."

Well, he didn't fail in this instance. The terms of the Italian debt "settlement" are such that before the time the bonds sold to the American people to secure the money loaned to Italy, are due to be paid, the American people will have paid in interest considerably more than the original loan that was made to Italy. The very thought of changing the farmers of the country five and six per cent and even higher for farm loans, while Italy pays an interest rate of less than one per cent on a period of 82 years is enough to make any American citizen exceedingly warm under the collar.

MAKING LIFE LONGER

Life can be made longer by preventive medicine, and the extension of ordinary care, says Dr. Cumming, Surgeon General of the United States, says the Milbank Memorial Fund experiments in Syracuse and Cattaraugus County, N. Y., prove that human life can be made longer at a cost of only $50 a year per person. Think of the ridiculously low cost—$50 a year per person for good health and longer life—that is less than the average family doctor's bill for each person in the average family.

Preventive medicine is going to be the key that will open the door of mystery and reveal the real secrets of health and longevity.

BULLET PROOF TANKS

Our government now and then shows signs of life by way of preparing to protect this country in case of war. The War Department at Washington has purchased, after exhaustive tests, two bullet-proof air plane gasoline tanks invented by Mario Garagnani del Pascara, Italian ace and brother of Marquis Pescara, who invented the helicopter used by the French government.

The new device, which was tested at McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio, by the Army Air Service according to instructions from Major General Mason M. Patrick, is considered of an importance comparable to the parachute as a means of saving the lives of pilots in peace time as well as war. Its use in peace will be to eliminate fires resulting from crashes.

The new tank operates upon the principle of two rotating cylinders, one within the other, which form the walls of the tank. When the tank is pierced by a bullet or otherwise, an electrical mechanism revolves the inner cylinder, closing the hole. Friction is avoided by the use of cork instead of rubber because of the latter's tendency to corrosion.

That is a drop in the bucket of war time efficiency. With its resources and opportunity to buy the latest inventions to prepare us against attack by any possible foreign foe, ought to make our country the best prepared country in the world, for its own defense.

None of us want war—but the best way to keep out of war is to be eternally prepared to defend ourselves.

JOHNSON-CAPPER BILL

There will be much opposition to the Johnson-Capper Bill in the senate at the next session, although the American Legion seems to be willing to favor it.

The bill, announces that it has for its aim the purpose of taking the profit out of war, and making the conscription of capital and property legal in times of war, and the conscription of men at any time the president may see fit to conscript them.

In the first section, Congress is authorized to declare an emergency which will permit the President to draft men in time of peace, both to army and to shops.

But the second section goes far beyond the first. In the second section the President is given power of conscription without waiting for Congress.

He need only say that he believes war to be imminent, and it need not even be foreign war. A domestic insurrection, a disorderly strike—and disorders can be provided in any strike by a reasonable payment to well known agents provocateurs—would be quite enough, under the Johnson-Capper bill, to allow the President to declare an emergency, and draft men to field or factory at his pleasure.

It is true that human beings are not specifically mentioned in the second section, but that word "services" will catch him, after the courts have had a chance to "interpret" it.

That is entirely too much power to entrust to any man who might be president of this country.

All conscription should be left to the emergency that would call for conscription, and there should never be such a draft law passed as was passed when we entered the world war—and no draft law passed to take men without at the same time providing that the government should take property and capital on its own terms, just as it takes men.

TO AMUSE

Statisticians report that there are 740 theatres in Greater New York now, to amuse the people of that center of population.

Next thing we would like to see would be a comparison of how many thin dimes could be covered by the clothes worn by these seven hundred theatregoers how far these costumes would reach in the direction of Coney Island, if they were laid end to end, starting at 42nd street.

Or, it might be interesting to know just how the weight of the costumes would compare with the bathing suits on the beach at Coney Island some summer Saturday afternoon.

There are a great many interesting sidelights that might be worked out of these suggestions.

And when they call them "show places" well, that is one time when the theatres tell the truth.

Early Europeans

The ancient name of France and Belgium was Gallia, and the Romans called the people generally Galli, for which the English equivalents are Gaul and Gulls. The Gauls were a Celtic people, who came originally from central Asia and at a very early time invaded Europe, settling mainly in what are now France and Belgium. Their degraded paganism was known as Druidism.

with backache, and rheumatic pains. For awhile I was compelled to leave work as the pains across my back were severe. My kidneys didn't regularly so I knew something had to be done. I saw Doan's Pills advertised and went to Fenn's Drug Store and got two boxes. I used them till the trouble left entirely.
