PLAN AUDITORIUM AND GYMNASIUM FOR SCHOOL

Proposed New Building Would Connect Present Buildings With Much Needed Equipment for Public and School Use.

Plans which, if carried out, will see the erection of an auditorium and gymnasium combined, connecting the two main buildings housing Chelsea's public schools, have been submitted to the board of education by a Lansing architect, and it is expected definite steps will be taken at once toward submitting the proposal to voters of the school district for their approval. Should a bond issue sufficient to cover expense of erecting such a building be passed by the voters it is hoped by the board to have the building completed in time for the 1926-1927 term of school.

Exact figures on the size of the building, the expense involved, etc., are not available for publication as yet, but these will be given at an early date. However, the auditorium and gymnasium will be approximately 50 by 75 feet with balcony on three sides, and a stage in one end 25 by 45 feet. Seating capacity for 600 people is estimated in the advance information.

According to an architect's drawing being shown in the front window of Walworth & Strieter's clothing store, the auditorium will connect the two main buildings, west from the high school and on the north of the grade building, with easy entrance or exit from either of the buildings, and two outside passageways. No basement would be included, the floor being laid in concrete. Plans also call for installation of a new heating plant and ventilating system for all three buildings and re-roofing of the present buildings. Items which probably will be necessary whether or not a new building is erected.

While plans for such a building are in the making and it is hoped they will be consummated, residents of the district have reason to be elated at the prospect of such a building program. Intimation of the cost of the building places the figures at a reasonable sum, and need for such a place has long been felt by the community as well as the school. No gathering place suitable for a crowd of ordinary size has been available to the public without serious inconvenience, while athletics and recreation, a recognized department of school work, have been seriously retarded because of lack of room and equipment. Finances of the athletic department have been curtailed by lack of accommodations for spectators.

In the proposed school auditorium and gymnasium is found the answer to many of the questions confronting school authorities and the public alike. In fact there is a splendid opportunity to develop a community center which will foster public school development, social activities in the proper environment, and many of the things lacking in community life. All at a minimum of expense to taxpayers.

FRANK H. BALDWIN FORMER CHELSEA RESIDENT

Frank Henry Baldwin was born in Chelsea, Michigan, November 7th, 1861, and died December 23, 1925, aged 64 years, 1 month and 16 days. In early life he realized the advantage of an education and after completing the work in the Chelsea school, he entered Olivet college where he graduated in 1889.

In June, 1893, he was united in marriage with Miss Theresa Bollman of Hopkinton, Iowa. To them was born four children of whom three still survive: Alvin James of Jersey City, N. J., Margaret Francis and Mary Eleanor of Ames, Iowa. The fourth, Harry Duane, died in Virginia in 1909 at the age of 3 years.

The wife and mother also died in Virginia on July 28th, 1918. The funeral was held in Hopkinton, Iowa, on Sunday, December 27th, and he was buried beside his wife, just out of Hopkinton and within sight of the College where he had spent some years.

In early years he united with the Congregational church and has always remained firm in the Christian faith.

Besides his family he also leaves one brother, Alvin D., of Lima.

HERBERT D. VOGEL TAKES BRIDE IN CAPITAL CITY

Of much interest to friends in Chelsea and vicinity is announcement of the wedding of Miss Lorelei Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Eugene Elliott, of Washington, D. C., and Lieut. Herbert D. Vogel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis P. Vogel, Chelsea, the ceremony being performed at the First Baptist church in Washington at 8:30 o'clock on Wednesday, December 23.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The groom is a native of Chelsea, a graduate of Chelsea high school and the Military Training Academy at West Point, finishing his work at the latter place in 1923. News of his marriage will be received with great interest by a legion of friends in and about Chelsea where he is widely and favorably known.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to New York city Mr. and Mrs. Vogel will reside at Fort Humphrey, Va.

L. P. Vogel, father of the groom, was in attendance at the wedding.

H. H. AHNEMILLER PURCHASES CRESCENT HOTEL BUILDING

Will Operate Modern Hostelry in North Main Street Property Purchased From H. S. Holmes Estate.

Painters and decorators are busy this week refinishing the interior of the Crescent Hotel building on North Main street, recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ahnemiller from the H. S. Holmes Estate, and on January first, 1926, will open under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Ahnemiller. Complete refinishing of the interior of the building is contemplated by Mr. Ahnemiller, who is personally supervising the work of decorating.

Elaborate plans and expenditures of much time and money is included in the new proprietor's program for entertaining Chelsea's home as well as transient trade. When finished the lobby will present a comfortable appearance with a finish of pale green and corresponding trimming, while the dining room is finished in a paneled blue and white trimming, with a blended pale blue and yellow ceiling casting a mellow effect upon the entire room. Re-arrangement of tables in this room is expected to furnish seating capacity for more than forty guests without crowding. The hotel parlors are also undergoing the same artistic alteration as well as the guest rooms, while in the kitchen extensive repairs and sanitary measures are being furnished.

When finished, Chelsea's hostelry will be rated as among the best in any town of this size and much larger and it is expected that patronage and profits will be commensurate with efforts of its owner. Announcement of a formal opening will probably appear in next week's issue of The Standard.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy French, who have operated the hotel for a number of years, will go to Ann Arbor the latter part of this week where they purchased and have operated a rooming house since September. Although Chelsea regrets very much the loss of Mr. and Mrs. French they have the best wishes of friends for success in the Ann Arbor venture.

METHODIST COMPLETE NEW ADDITION TO HOME HERE

Twenty-Eight Rooms Contained in Latest Structure Built on North End of Main Building.

Completion of an addition to the Old People's Home at the foot of West Middle street, sees the finish of a notable piece of work begun by Methodists in the early part of this last summer. The new building is situated on the north side of the main structure and forms a wing similar in size and architecture to the one on the south. Final work on the new building has been completed and it is being made ready for occupancy.

Twenty-eight additional rooms are made available by erection of this building, rooms which have been very much in demand and sorely needed by the Home. Added to the ninety rooms already in use in other portions of the building it is expected accommodations will be made possible for a greatly increased family, applications for entrance being constantly on file for months ahead of their acceptance.

GRAIN, LUMBER AND COAL COMPANIES MERGE INTERESTS

Chelsea Lumber, Grain and Coal Company Formed When Leading Concerns Consummate Sale of Properties.

Consummation of a deal which has been in the making for several weeks and which takes effect on January second, brings about the consolidation of two of Chelsea's leading businesses when the Chelsea Lumber, Grain and Coal Co., take over the interests of both the Chelsea Elevator Co. and the Chelsea Lumber and Coal Co.

The new company, incorporated under the laws of Michigan, is capitalized at $50,000 and has for its officers P. E. Storms, president; Edwin Koebbe, vice president, and W. R. Daniels, secretary and treasurer. In the transaction real estate as well as stocks and good will of the companies will come into possession of the new company and makes one of the biggest business transactions recorded here in recent years.

Office of the new company will be located in the present office building of the Chelsea Lumber and Coal Co., an arrangement which is believed will prove advantageous, affording plenty of office room and ease of access by the public.

Continuance of all lines covered by these businesses is expected by officers of the new concern, these including grain elevator, lumber, coal and building supplies. That the combination would prove of benefit to the general public is the belief of company officials who state that in the general business of the two companies much duplication of effort, stocks and expenses were experienced, such factors being eliminated in the future. That a reduction of overhead expense will be reflected in price of materials was also the belief of those in charge of the business.

Consolidation of these two businesses brings together two of Chelsea's oldest enterprises. The Chelsea Elevator Co. came into being in 1898 and has continued in the present location since that time. Reorganization of the Wm. Bacon-Holmes interests about a year ago brought into being the Chelsea Lumber & Coal Co., which has carried on a successful business during that period. However, fusion of the two interests into one will be received with gratification on the part of the public and should result in greater service on the part of the Chelsea Lumber, Grain and Coal Co. with results equally gratifying to members of the company.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

Notice is hereby given that the Chelsea Elevator Company have sold their entire stock in trade, goods, wares and merchandise to the Chelsea Lumber, Grain and Coal Company, corporation, and that all persons having any claim, and all creditors, are hereby given notice thereof, and must present their claim or claims at the office of the Chelsea Elevator Company, Chelsea, Mich., pursuant to the requirements of the laws of the State of Michigan. Dated, Dec. 30th, 1925. 1-21 new-heating plant for the entire building, the north wing lends additional beauty to an already attractive picture. Built of brick and stone, two stories and basement throughout, well balanced in its architecture, and set amid a landscape where flowers, shrubs and trees lend their artistic colorings in summer, the view as one approaches the Home is altogether of a very pleasing nature. Added to this is the careful planning of landscape gardening and caretaking of employees of the home which make it a most desirable residence for elderly people who wish to make it their home for declining years.

The main building of the home was erected in 1904 when citizens of Chelsea contributed to its financing. Later the south wing was built and its capacity enlarged. And with erection of the Dr. and Mrs. M. F. High Memorial Hall, as it will be known, on the north, Methodists have reached another milestone in building a lasting monument to the veneration and advanced years of their people.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Probus, superintendent and matron of the Home, have been in charge there for a period covering several years, discharging the tasks of their offices with credit to themselves and the Home.

"Glad to get it at any Price"

As we close the door of 1925 and step across the threshold of a new year, let's pause for a moment and think how times are improving—in the matter of gas rates, for instance.

Sixty years ago, in certain districts, housewives considered gas service cheap at $4.25 a thousand feet, including a war tax. For years before that, gas had been so much more expensive that folks declared it would never be anything but a rich man's fad.

Today, you see the almost universal use of gas. For cooking alone, it requires seven million gas appliances to prepare the nation's food.

Gas is cheaper on the whole, better regulated, more helpful, more widely used than at any time in history.

Editorial

PRESIDENTIAL PAPERS

The Congressional Library at Washington is quite concerned because of a lack of papers and letters written by President Harding during his incumbency of the White House. Mrs. Harding, before her death, burned the letters which were in her possession after her husband's death, and of course, they can not be recovered. The only means the librarian of Congress has of securing such letters, is to locate persons to whom the president wrote while in office, and through this means secure all the letters possible to complete the letters and papers of presidents on files in the library at Washington. The Harding shortage is the only serious gap in the line of transmissions of letters and papers. These form the basis of insight into acts of the presidents and policy of government which are deemed as of great value to coming generations which will want to study the various phases through which our government has passed, and possess an understanding of men and events that brought about certain policies of government, and influenced the action of a chief magistrate of the country.

Such persons as may be in possession of letters written by President Harding during his administration should get in communication with the Librarian of Congress at Washington, D. C.

FAIRIES ARE OUT

News from England, concerning the celebration of Christmas 1925, inform us that England is discarding the fairies, and that few were used in Christmas celebrations. The fairies may be out, but the American people will be a long time forgetting the fairy tales told our government about England's inability to pay her war debt, and the consequent spreading of it over a term of 62 years, at a very low rate of interest.

STOCK DIVIDENDS

Standard Oil Company, in addition to paying out very large cash dividends, paid out a twenty-five per cent stock dividend on 1925 earnings. The bad feature of this is that in the future, consumers of oil and oil products will be called upon to pay cash dividends on this additional stock. That means that the price of gasoline will be higher, fuel oil will cost more, and all oil products will be more expensive to the consumer. All industry is entitled to a fair return on the investment. But, wouldn't the sensible thing be, to take the surplus earnings in good years, and put them at interest, to take care of losses, if any might occur in the leaner years?

The ultimate consumer is the man who pays all the bills, and makes profits possible. Isn't he entitled to something by way of protection, if not from the monopolistic corporations, then from his government?

SHIVERING OVER RUBBER

Some of our good friends who are interested in international loans and collecting money from foreign countries, are much exercised over the statement of Secretary Hoover of the Department of Commerce that the American people should cut down on their automobile tire consumption 25 per cent to bring down the price of raw rubber, now controlled by the British government. They are much alarmed, or at least they profess much alarm, because they say the attitude of Mr. Hoover may engender bad feeling between our government and that of Great Britain. If our good will from our English cousins hangs by a thread so slender, then, indeed, do we need to do something to strengthen it?

But no nation has ever strengthened ties with Great Britain by a policy of subservience. A bold, straightforward, honest, open and above-board policy is the only kind that will get us either respect or friendliness from Great Britain or any other country. That the control of rubber is a deliberate plan on the part of the British government to force the American people to pay the British war debt with interest, is so plain that a blind man can sense it. And English newspapers are constantly boasting of the way they put it over on us by putting their debt settlement sixty-two years in the future, with the American people pledged to pay a goodly part of the interest. It is all well enough to do what we can, reasonably, for suffering Europe—but America needs something, and her interests should be first with every sound American. There should be no sympathy on the part of any group of Americans, to belittle Secretary Hoover, and to cause British pride in the reprehensible manner in which they have dealt with us in relation to what they owe us.

AND NOW CHINA

European nations have no sooner signed pacts looking to a permanent peace, than China imparts a soviet bull which promises to give the world's china show.

McGraw is reported to support General Fong in Manchuria. This threatens a clash between Russia and Japan.

The United States and powers expose their anti-war ships to the danger.

BUSINESS TO EMPLOYEES

Morris Rosenwasser came to America thirty-eight years ago. He was a shoemaker. He built up a business in shoemaking. He announced his retirement on January 1, turning over his business to fifty of his employees to be operated for the benefit of those who helped make the business, said Mr. Rosenwasser. He quits at 55 with "all the money I need."

This thing is growing in industry, and it is causing a better feeling between employer and employee. There is no guessing who the next big captain of industry will be to follow the policy of men like Rosenwasser who "have made plenty" and want to see "those who helped" suitably rewarded.

FOR SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH

Dr. John Grier Hibben, President of Princeton University announced a "Christmas Gift" of $1,000,000 to be used to promote scientific research at Princeton.

The tendency of the rich men of the period to give large sums to aid scientists seeking nature's secrets, indicates a greatly aroused interest in science, which ought to bring us great benefits.

Human beings will make such progress under such stimuli in the next century, that the world will have the key to many mysteries of life and the universe, not known to mankind in the past.

GOVERNMENT HOUSING

Governor Smith of New York is advocating state aid for the housing problem in New York. He wants the legislature of his state to pass measures authorizing the use of state money to build apartments in New York City to take care of the rapidly increasing population.

The governor's critics are calling him "communist," socialistic and sovietic—but he insists that he sees no other means of properly providing living quarters for the people.

PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

Lincoln C. Andrews, chief of prohibition enforcement for the United States government, reports that enforcement is gaining rapidly. In one eastern district there was seized 1,625,200 gallons of bootleg booze, or its equivalent. The value of these seizures is estimated at more than $22,000,000. Prohibition laws can be enforced anywhere in America if the government turns its hand to it with determination that the violations of the law shall cease.

The general attitude of the American public is that the law should be rigidly enforced. If it proves to be a good law, it should be retained. If it proves to be a bad thing for the people, it should be repealed, but the great majority of sentiment favors enforcement before any change is made in the law or the program of the government.

If you want to start the New Year right, keep your foot off the accelerator.

TRY IT ON PAGES

Vice President Dawes, failing to make any impression on the United States senators by lecturing them in the public prints, has turned his attention to the senate pages. He delivered a lecture to the boys at Christmas time, urging them to cease smoking and swearing. If some of the boys indulged a dry grin, having in mind a picture of the vice president with his upside-down pipe in his mouth—a necessary part of any Dawesian picture, he might be excused.

A man who is an inveterate smoker, and has made his chief reputation by saying "Hell 'an Maria," is not a man to seriously impress boys with advice against smoking and swearing.

BOSTON CELEBRATES

If we are to believe the news from Boston, the dry enforcement officers did not keep "the cup that cheers"—and blinks and kills, out of the bean eating center. Press dispatches from that city stated that on Christmas eve Boston saw three suns and five rainbows.

The census of snakes seen was not reported.

CHRISTMAS SPENDING

Christmas has come and gone again, and left behind the usual presents, many of them useless, and the usual toll of Christmas bills. Christmas cheer is a fine thing. The proper observation of the Holy Day Christmas original represented is one of the finest things in our civilization, and should be held far more sacred than it is—but don't we sometimes miss the whole point of Christmas and its meaning of civilization?

The whole world can "listen in" on the same radio broadcasting on New Year's night, when the world will be connected through the stations of the Radio Corporation of America. That will make Fock's declaration "I will put a giraffe round the earth in thirty minutes," seem like a promise rather than a flippancy.

Earliest Egyptians

Further discoveries of a new prehistoric people, who came long before the later prehistoric Egyptians, have been made. This people, according to Sir Flinders Petrie, the director of the British School of Archaeology in Egypt, may be the earliest inhabitants of the country with a regular civilization. They may be identified with the race which occupied the deserts of Egypt and Palestine in a less arid period.

The Shawl

The shawl first was introduced into Europe at the time of Napoleon's return from Egypt, where he was fascinated by the alluring garments worn so tastefully by the orientals. It is said that he bought for the Empress Josephine over four hundred of these shawls at one time, and that one of his caprices was that he should never see the same shawl upon her shoulders twice in succession.

Dan Shell, who has been confined to his home by illness for about four weeks, was out again Saturday, greeting old friends, and says if there are any old "fren' heads" who would like to play a game of checkers he would be glad to entertain them at his home at any time. Mr. Shell will be 82 years old the third of January.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Boyd and Miss St. Clair, of Chelsea and Ray Thomas of Detroit, were Christmas guests of relatives at Monroe, Indiana. On their return to Chelsea the party had a narrow escape from asphyxiation when a heater in the rear of the car leaked gas into the enclosed car. As luck would have it the party stopped in Homer for lunch and up until this time the escaping gas had not been noticed. However, when they had entered a restaurant Mr. Boyd collapsed and a physician was called to his assistance. Mrs. Boyd was also affected by the gas but managed to overcome the effects without serious result. However they were ill for several hours after their return to Chelsea.

Visions of foul play or a casualty caused by the extremely cold weather is believed to have played through the minds of railroad men and local officials when on Wednesday morning a telephone message advised that there was believed to be a dead man in one of the cars of a freight train due here shortly afterward. Hastily summoning Coroner Howard Brooks and Constable Frank Leach, the freight was stopped and due examination made. And in a lonely gondola car the huddled form was found done up in a burlap sack which, when opened, proved to be a sack of tin cans and rubbish. "Tis said the sack did look suspicious from a distance.

LAKEVIEW SCHOOL NOTES

Frank C. Essick visited our school recently.

Those neither absent nor tardy for the month of December were as follows: Harold Denlar, Flora Grissom, James Grissom, Lauretta Johnson, Harry Johnson and Carl Johnson.

The Christmas program given by this school was very well attended and pleased everyone present. The recipient of the prize for the best actor or actress was Miss Flora Grissom, who was chosen by the audience.

Mrs. Wm. Goodband was the fortunate one to draw the quilt which was given away Christmas eve by the school. The money raised will be used to purchase a sanitary drinking fountain.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our beloved Harold Hinderer—Weep no more fond parents, For your son is gone on high; Weep no more for him, For you shall meet him by and by. He's not dead, but only slumbering, In a slumber, O so sweet; And when the time for Awakening, Angels he will surely meet. It is and to think we never, Never more shall see him here; But we hope to meet him, And to meet him over there. Angels they were singing praises, When they heard Our Father call; "Harold, come to Heavenly places, There is rest for you and all."

THE MACCABEE MERGER

IN MEMORIAM

Local members of the Maccabees are greatly interested in a proposed merger between that society and the Ladies of The Maccabees which will be voted on at The Maccabees international convention in Detroit, Michigan, January 7.

The Ladies of The Maccabees approved the merger by a two thirds majority at a convention on December 11, and if it carries in the other society, the combination will result in one of the strongest fraternal benefit associations in the world, with a membership of over 250,000, nearly 5000 local lodges, assets in excess of $29,000,000, and fully organized departments of men, women and children. An affirmative vote in The Maccabees' convention is practically certain, according to A. W. Frye, supreme commander, and the merger will go into effect ninety days after its approval by the Michigan confederation of insurance.

While The Maccabees and the Ladies of The Maccabees have hitherto had no official connection, they have been brother and sister societies ever since the organization of the latter in 1886, with mutual aims and interests. In the opinion of leaders in both societies, these can be better carried out by operating as one association instead of two, with competition eliminated, reduced expense, and one society giving whole family protection instead of the husband belonging to one and the wife to another.

Under The Maccabees plan of operation, men and women members are on an absolute equality in voting in separate bodies, and when mutually interested in a matter, The L. O. M. and the L. O. W. thus retain the full control of their own affairs, and the two societies are able to give the best protection to their members.

When the days begin to lengthen, then the road begins to stretch before you, and the heart is glad to be on the road again.

In loving remembrance of Harold G. Hinderer, who departed his life Sunday, December 20, 1925:

A precious one of us has gone.

A voice we loved is still.

A place is vacant in their home.

God in His wisdom has recalled.

The boon his love had given.

And though the body slumbers here,

His soul is safe in Heaven.

We have lost our darling Brother,

He has bid us all adieu.

He has gone to live in Heaven,

And his form is lost to view.

Oh, that dear one, how we loved him!

But an angel came down for him,

And removed him from our flock.

—A Friend.

No Longer Lost

A recent advertisement in the personal column of a English newspaper, evoked a kindly response in the same column two days later: "Pony that lost purse containing $200 now won."

No longer lost, it has been found.

STOCKBRIDGE—Rev. and Mrs. Adair expect to leave the middle of next month for a three months' visit to Palestine and other places of interest in the Holy Land.—Brief-Sun.

HOWELL—The state administrative board last week Tuesday ordered the improvement of the last stretch of old road in trunk line M-16 between Grand Rapids and Detroit.

The highway department was instructed to prepare plans and secure right-of-way for widening and straightening the trunk line between Howellville and Howell. The present road is narrow, rough, and crooked. The pavement between Howell and Howellville was one of the first pieces of M-16 to be paved.

The visibility and was made only a few feet wide. The people of Livingston county will be glad to know that this vital link of road is to be widened and resurfaced with the rest of the trunk line.

A TALK WITH A CHELSEA MAN

Mr. Kelly Tells Something of Interest to Chelsea Folks.

There's nothing more convincing than the statement of someone you know and have confidence in. That's why this talk with Mr. Kelly of W. Middle Street, should be mighty helpful here in Chelsea.

John Kelly, W. Middle St., Chelsea, says: "My work started my kidney trouble. The recreations contained sediment, passed irregularly and were sore and stiff and I suffered from rheumatic pains. I was often nervous and dizzy. I used Doan's Pills and they completely relieved me."

Statement given March 1, 1919. On April 27, 1920, Mr. Kelly said: "Doan's Pills are all right and I gladly confirm the statement I gave some time ago."

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE

Whereas, Stanley J. Richard and Susie C. Richard, husband and wife, of the Township of Dexter, Washtenaw County, Michigan, made and executed a certain mortgage bearing date the 27th day of March, A. D. 1920, to William S. Baird and Addie S. Baird, husband and wife, of the Township of Sylvan, Washtenaw County, Michigan, which was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Washtenaw, on the 2nd day of April, A. D. 1920, at 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon in Liber 163 of Mortgages on page 24;

And whereas the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of $5960.83, and no suit or proceeding has been instituted at law or in equity to recover the debt now remaining secured thereby or any part thereof;

And whereas, it is provided in said mortgage that should any default be made in the payment of the interest thereon on any day when the same is payable, and should the same remain unpaid in arrears for the space of thirty days, then and from that date, the said mortgage shall be a lien in favor of the said William S. Baird and Addie S. Baird, parties of the second part, become due and payable immediately thereafter, and whereas default has been made in the payment of the interest and principal sum, and the same has remained unpaid in arrears for more than thirty days, and the said parties of the second part have, by virtue of the provisions in said mortgage, on account of said default, declared the whole amount of the principal sum, together with all arrears of interest due and payable, and default has been made in the payment of the same, whereby the power of sale contained therein has become operative;

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale and in pursuance thereof of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage-premises will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises at public vendue to the highest bidder at the south front door of the court house at the City of Ann Arbor, in said County of Washtenaw, that being the place of holding the Circuit Court within said county, on the FIFTH day of February, A. D. 1926, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, Eastern Standard time; the description of which said premises contained in said mortgage is as follows: All those certain pieces or parcels of land situated and being in the Township of Dexter, County of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, and described as follows, to-wit: All that part of the south east quarter of section sixteen (16), which lies east of the lands of Schultz and Dwyer and south of the road or highway extending east and west near the center of said section. Subject to a lease for ninety nine years to the Township of Dexter of the site whereon is located the Dexter Town Hall and said lease being recorded in Liber 104, page 413. All in Town one South, Range four East.

Addie S. Baird, as the Administratrix of the estate of William S. Baird, and Addie S. Baird, Mortgagee, Chelsea, Michigan.

Little is Understood of Insect Migration

There is, of course, a great deal that we do not know. In the field "migratory," "all things go into mystery," and your most dry-as-dust professor is left at the counter of his laboratory with his mouth open and his short-sighted eyes ruled in a childish query. Still, he has detected law and order and reasonableness, and the succession of cause and effect in many branches of biology, including bird migration.

It is not so with insect migration, which may be on a big scale. This remains a thorough-going mystery, still quite unexplored. In England we get a considerable number of butterflies from overseas, though their arrival or passage over the sea is rarely observed. But much little flight of a hundred miles or so are as nothing compared with some recent examples.

Butterflies will fly 8,000 miles on occasion. That lovely creature—not so common here as we could wish—the painted lady, has appeared in Iceland at the end of a journey—so it is credibly alleged—from Africa! Quite large groups of white butterflies have settled on ships in the Mediterranean, on their way from south to north. So Africa certainly exchanges insects with Europe.—Sir W. Beach Thomas in the Outlook.

Mythical Greek Hero
In Greek mythology Adonis was a beautiful young boy, beloved by Venus and Proserpine. They quarreled about his possession, but the dispute was settled by Jupiter, who decreed that Adonis should annually spend eight months with Venus in the upper world and four months with Proserpine in the lower world. Adonis was fatally wounded by a wild boar, during the chase, and was changed by Venus into an anemone. She yearly mourned him on the anniversary of his death.
Shakespeare has commemorated the love of Venus for Adonis in a long descriptive poem, entitled, "Venus and Adonis."—Kansas City Times

Proper Valuation
The real value of a woman is not in her possessions or possessions
but in her character.

Ancient and Modern Systems of Currency

In the early days of our civilization, when a man's flocks and herds were his only possessions, they also constituted his money, and when metal coins were first introduced many bad
cattle stamped on them.

The Latin for cattle is "pecunia," and it is not a far stretch from this to our word "pecuniary," which is usually associated with money.

Again, the word "cattle" is derived from "capital," the origin of which is the Latin word "caput," meaning a head, and from the very earliest times beasts have been spoken of as so much per head.

It is curious, too, how agriculture has indirectly affected our system of currency. When man found it easier to dig with a bronze or iron spade than with wood, it was not long before iron and bronze coins came into use. Later, when gold and silver were discovered, they were quickly adopted for currency.

The word "salary" comes from
"saline." When the Romans dominated Britain they took possession of a great many of the salt mines, because salt was then a valuable commodity; in addition, workmen in the salt mines were frequently paid with salt, and it was not long before this form of remuneration became known as salary.

Would Have History
Recorded on Tablets

If we of today were very much concerned that people 10,000 or 15,000 years hence shall know who we were and what we did, we suppose we should follow the advice of Albert Vanderlaan, ceramic expert, and make a pictorial record of ourselves and our achievements on clay plaques. Newsprint crumbles in a few decades, books and manuscripts are perishable, wood turns to dust and iron to rust, brick becomes earth, the marble tombstone weathers into a limestone devoid of inscriptions, and, as we have learned,
our national capitol is built of rotten sandstone which only repeated coats of weatherproof paint have kept from disintegration. Nothing lasts except glazed pottery—a thing more enduring than stone or metal.

It is looking a long way ahead,
but there would be point in reproducing
the characteristic physiognomies, edifices, machines and products of our civilization in baked clay. Anyway, we wish prehistoric man had done more systematic work of this kind for the benefit of his successors.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Hymns Form Links

The Old and the New worlds have been linked by hymns. Doctor Reeves tells how American history opened with the singing of a Christian hymn.
"On the evening of September 26, 1492,
one of the companions of Columbus saw what he thought to be land lying dimly in the west. From all three of the ships, as Columbus himself gives the account in his diary,
there rose the sound of the old 'Gloria in Excelsis Deo.' We learn that later in the history of Christian America
"The Bay Psalm Book" was printed in the modest dwelling of the first president of Harvard, president Dixwell of Yale, who was a chaplain in the Revolutionary army, edited and partly wrote what was for years the leading hymn and psalm book in the country. In 1787 at Charleston, S. C., John Wesley, an Anglican missionary, published the first hymn book of the Church of England.—W. M. Letts in Yale Review.

Famous American Society

The Society of Officers of the Continental army called the Society of the Cincinnatus, was founded by regular officers of the Continental army at the headquarters of Baron von Steuben on the Hudson, 1783, was named for a traditional Roman dictator, Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus, born about 510
A. D. The name was adopted in allusion to the approaching change from military to civil pursuits and referred to the fact that Cincinnatus when named dictator was discovered by the deputies sent to apprise him of the honor, digging on his farm beyond the Tiber, an occupation he was loath to leave and eager to resume after much military glory.

No Mail for Him

The postal service is laughing at the story of a post-office inspector who went into the hills of Arkansas to check up a village post office. The neighbors said the E. M. had gone fishing. Finding him, the inspector asked, "Are you the postmaster?"
After a minute the E. M. said, "Yep, What's your name?" "P. D. Smith."
The E. M. reached into his back pocket, took out a bunch of letters and putting over them for the addressee, said:
"None. Nothing for ya," and went on fishing.—Copper Weekly.

Miserable Despair

Despair makes a despicable figure
and is descended from a mean original.
It is the offspring of fear, laziness and impatience. It argues a defect of spirit and resolution, and oftentimes of honesty, too. After all, the exercise of this passion is so troublesome that nothing but dint of evidence and demonstration should force it upon us. I would not despair unless I knew the irrevocable decree was passed, I saw my misfortune recorded in the book of fate, and signed and sealed by necessity.—Jeremy Taylor.

Can Always Do That

Biff—You know, when I get so old and feeble that I can't do anything but sit around I want to die off.
Bang—I don't. I want to live just as long as possible.
Biff—What do you think you'll get out of life when you get old like that?
Bang—Boy, I'll get a big kick out of just sitting around and crabbing about how the younger generation is getting to be the way.

HOUSE ON WIDMAYER FARM
DESTROYED BY FIRE TODAY

The house, which stood in the attic
at about 2300 years ago, was completely destroyed by the fire today.
Several outbuildings on the Albert Widmayer farm three miles southeast of Chelsea. The barn was saved from any damage. Furniture on the first floor belonging to Mr. and Mrs.
Fred Kennedy, residents there, was saved by the aid of neighbors who rushed to their assistance, but contents on the second floor, some of which belonged to the Kennedys and some to Don Widmayer, were consumed in the blaze.

The fire was discovered by the family while breakfast was being prepared and children of the Kennedys were being dressed. The youngsters were carried from the burning building in their night clothes, no time being available for securing garments.

The Chelsea fire department responded to a call to the farm home
but by the time they arrived the fire was under control and no assistance needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy and family moved into the Widmayer house recently as a temporary residence until spring when they planned to move to the Fletcher farm, purchased by them last fall. Their property is believed to have been insured and the Widmayer property was amply covered by insurance.

Made Millions Laugh

The real name of the famous circus
clown, Dan Rice, was Daniel McLaren and he was nicknamed as a child for an old Irish clown. He began his professional career as an acrobat and clown with Seth B. Howe, circus owner, 1840. He was a partner in Spaulding's circus until the outbreak of the Civil war. After the Civil war he was financially unfortunate, but was engaged by Dan Krough at a salary of $35,000 a year, afterward increased to $10,000 a week. He retired from the stage in 1882. He was exceedingly lavish with money for charity. On one occasion he gave President Lincoln $32,000 for the benefit of wounded soldiers and their dependents. He died in February, 1900.

Stinks Prey on Bees

The biological survey says that skunks have the reputation of eating yellow jackets andumblebees. It is generally supposed that the juicy larvae of these is most appreciated, but the adults are also eaten and probably the honey stored by humb-lebees. The skunk approaches the yet-low jackets' nest cautiously and scratches on the outside of it until its occupants rush from the entrance to repel the intruder. The skunk then rushes in, capturing the insects and dislodging them from his long hair, where it pays little attention.

Sunlit Minds

Studies by physicalists and scientists
in England reported at the congress of the Royal Institute of Medicine held at Brighton, England, indicate that sunlight, rather than artificial, when properly administered,
may have a definitely beneficial effect on mental activity. It was found that children handicapped in their work by illness, when cured with the aid of sunlight caught up with and even outdistanced their classmates.

Love at First Hand

Great Thing in Life

First love comes before the age of knowledge. It is the only love entirely unencumbered with ideas and preconceptions. How little it has to do with words, with talk! It knows no terms. It is the thing itself, from which terms and institutions have grown up. First love is not love's first hand. Instead of getting first the idea of romance into which to try to fit themselves and other people, Louie
Townsend Nicoll writes, in the Century.
They seldom talk. They get acquainted in other ways—by being near each other, by looking at each other, by softly shy touching hands.
They sit together—play games,
run in the sun, watchful as small animals, and when a minute each about the other, they do not talk.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know
each other, they know each other.They know each other, they know each other, they know each other.
