Substantial reductions in both water and power rates for Chelsea are in prospect as a result of recommendation made by village council at their meeting on Thursday, March 11, and approved at the same meeting. Water rates which have stood at 20 cents per thousand gallons for residence and 10c for factory have been placed on a straight basis of 15c per thousand gallons for the first 20,000 and 10c per thousand for all over that amount. A minimum charge of 50c per month remains in effect.

Light rates which have stood at 11c per KWH first 30 hours use; 8c per KWH next 30 hours use; 6c per KWH all over 60 hours, will be changed to read: 10c first 30 KWH use; 6c next 30 KWH use; 4c all over 60 KWH use. Stove rate has been reduced from 11 to 10 cents on the first 30 KWH used, all over that amount remaining at 4c as in the past. The general power remains unchanged according to the recommendations made to the Electric Light and Water Works Commission.

The rates if adopted by the commission will take effect as of March 1st and it is expected will represent a substantial saving to residents of the community. Financial report of the Electric Light and Water Department show the local plant to be in a flourishing condition with a gain for the fiscal year ending March 1, 1926, of $11,435.29. It is this splendid condition of financial affairs which makes it possible and advisable to reduce water and light rates accordingly.

HUGH FULLER, HUMORIST

WILL COME TO CHELSEA

"All of life is not lived in the cities," maintains Hugh Fuller, popular impersonator, known as the "philosophin' fun-maker," who comes here Thursday evening, March 25th, on the local Lyceum course.

So Mr. Fuller has gone to the small country village for much of his program material. With the aid of costumes and make-up, he sympathetically presents a "speaking likeness" of various village characters.

There is "Hen" Hoskins, the village philosopher who runs the gamut of humor and pithy with his story of the football game, his country store song, his anapestic spring song and numerous original poems such as "In the Way," "Grandma," "The Oatmeal" and "Marla Goes Away."

In "Sammy Goes A-Calling" appears a sentimental grocery boy who reveals his woes and tribulations. From the village comes also Aunt Sue Brundage, a wholesome, lovable type. This sketch offers a striking comparison of two contrasting characters—Aunt Sue's sons, who have been invited home from distant cities for mother's birthday party.

Mr. Fuller is a talented writer, humorist and impersonator. All of his stories and poems are new and original.

SCHOOL NEWS

Rev. Riley gave a very inspiring talk to the student body at chapel Tuesday morning. He spoke of Joseph as an example for the youth of today. He had visions, lofty visions and "lofty visions make a lofty life." He stressed the point that we should have an ideal, and be loyal to it.

E. P. STEINER RETURNS FROM HOLY LAND TOUR

E. P. Steiner returned Saturday afternoon from an eight weeks tour which took him to Egypt and the pyramids, Jerusalem and the Holy Land, Constantinople, Rome and numerous other places of interest. Many interesting experiences are related by the judge who managed to keep his equilibrium on the ocean trips of the fact that at one time more than two hundred were experiencing the ocean wave in the region of their digestive organs.

Be sure and hear Hugh Fuller, the "philosophin' fun maker" at Town Hall, Thursday evening, March 25th. Adv.

BANQUET-DANCE FEATURES ST. PATRICK'S DAY AFFAIR

F. C. O'Meara, Detroit, Delivers Special Address in Honor of Ireland's Saint, Tuesday Evening.

With more than 450 persons seated at the banquet tables in Herbert J. McKune Memorial Hall, Catholics and non-Catholics alike celebrated the observance of St. Patrick's day with a sumptuous supper served by ladies of the Catholic church, and a program of music and addresses appropriate for the occasion. F. C. O'Meara, Detroit, delivered the main address of the evening, stressing the church's influence on, and benefit to the community, the value of religious tolerance and more brotherly feeling toward each other in the church life of the city. Rev. Fr. Command of Ann Arbor also addressed banquets for a few minutes.

J. H. Boyd, baritone, provided the musical treat of the evening, rendering several solo numbers to the delight of his audience, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Geo. W. Witherell. Attorney Frank DeVine, of Ann Arbor, presided as toastmaster following his introduction by Rev. Fr. T. J. Fallon, pastor of St. Mary's church.

Following the banquet tables were cleared away and Schneider's orchestra furnished music for old-fashioned and modern dancing. An immense crowd participated in this entertainment.

MORE ARRESTS EXPECTED SINCE CONVICT'S CAPTURE

Following closely on the heels of the arrest of Wm. Sudomire, alleged escaped convict from Ionia, Constable Frank Leach on Friday evening of last week took into custody Albert Langowski, 17, of North Street. Langowski was taken to Ann Arbor Friday evening and on Saturday was taken to Detroit where he was wanted on suspicion of being implicated in robberies on recent occasions. According to Constable Leach, Langowski admitted implication in the burglary and on his person was found a watch for which police had a ticket of identification.

On Sunday Detroit detectives raided the Langowski home on North street, confiscating 2 revolvers, a watch and two automobile headlights. On Monday police raided the home of Sudomire's brother in Detroit, confiscating two rifles, two shotguns and three revolvers.

Three automobiles, one a Chrysler belonging to the Edison Light and Power Co., were found in possession of the trio. The Chrysler had been wrecked by young Langowski and another of the cars has been claimed by a Detroit party.

That the trio were members of a gang which had periodically participated in burglaries in Detroit, then retiring to smaller villages until suspicion had somewhat subsided, was the belief of Detroit police, according to Constable Leach who was in Detroit Monday submitting evidence in the case. Further arrests are expected to be made within the week which will probably clear up a string of robberies heretofore unsolved.

MRS. CONRAD HAEFNER

Genevieve Koch was born at Hasen, Germany, January 25, 1846, and died at her home, March 11, 1926, at the age of 81 years.

She came to this country in 1887 at the age of 42 years, and 2 years later married Conrad Haefer, a widower with four small children. To these children and her own son who came to bless her life and be her comforter in her old age, she devoted her entire life and gave them the love and care of the devoted mother that she was.

In 1904 she added to her family Aug. J. Lambert, a 9 year old orphaned son of a cousin.

It is such as she that makes "Blessed" the name of "Mother."

She leaves to mourn their loss, her husband, son William; Joseph and George Haefer, Mrs. J. C. Drayner, all of Chelsea, Mrs. Chas. J. Myers of Battle Creek; a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Swickard of Detroit, and a brother, Erhart Koch of Perryburg, Ohio, besides 5 grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held at 9 o'clock Monday morning, March 15, from St. Mary's church, of which she was a devoted member. She was also a member of St. Mary's Altar Society and of the League of the Sacred Heart.

FINAL EUCHER PARTY

We as a committee wish to announce to all I. O. O. F. Masons, and K. of P. members that a supper will be held Thursday, March 25, at 7:00 p. m. at the Masonic hall. We request all members of the above lodges to come.

At this final setting the cup will be played for. This cup was taken last year by the K. of P. and at this party it will be interesting to watch the players of the three lodges play their best to hold the cup for 1926.

Committee.

When Tobacco Passed Current

In colonial times school teachers, preachers and other public servants were paid in corn, tobacco, or other agricultural products. The fact that it could not be carried as coin made it necessary to store it until such time as it should be exchanged for other commodities. In storage some of it spoiled, and sometimes it depreciated in value with time. At any rate it did not have the same value when spent as when it was received.

Today our monetary system has become so perfected that a piece of paper in the form of a check passes current anytime, anywhere, and its face value does not change with time.

This Bank is here for the convenience of the community. We invite you to use freely not only the checking department but every other department.

EDISON

What Mr. H. T. Plumb of Salt Lake City has to say about Thomas A. Edison:
"Nearly everything you eat, wear or use is manufactured in a motor-driven factory. Count your electrical comforts all day long and when night comes think of Edison. Recall how many of his inventions you have used during the day. Telegraph, telephone, phonograph, moving pictures, electric lights, dynamo, motors, transmission lines, power plants, street cars, batteries, street lights, radio and hundreds of other devices were invented by him or greatly improved by his marvelous ingenuity. He had something to do with every one of the electrical appliances in common use today. He profits most who serves best. Fame and fortune and great honor have come to Edison but he will be remembered by what he has done. Humanity will share forever in the rich dividends of his life. He was a master worker, a great builder, a burden lifter for humanity, the greatest inventor, the 'Grand Old Man of Electricity.' All honor to Edison."

FIFTY YEARS

ON EXHIBITION

At the Centennial Exhibit, fifty years ago, your grandmother in a shawl and bonnet, crowded up to the booth of one of the baking powder companies to get a glimpse of the new stoves in which cakes were being baked. These stoves required no coal or wood, the fuel came in through a pipe. There were no ashes to remove and no soot or black to smudge a clean apron. Grandmother was interested in the cakes, of course, she was somewhat of a cake-baker herself—but the gas cooking stoves were the real source of her wonderment. Would they ever be practical? Would women really be able to have them in their home kitchens?

Now, fifty years later, gas ranges appear at another exhibition. The National Apple Show was on in Spokane, Washington. The apple growers wanted to demonstrate new apple dishes, so they put a battery of gas ranges along the wall, with a young woman in charge of each range. The apple dishes were prepared and served over a counter as samples.

Nobody paid much attention to the gas ranges. They were such a commonplace at home, why should they excite any curiosity here? Fifty years had proved the practicability of gas for cooking.

Editorial

PROFESSIONAL REFORMERS

The breaking down of the home, the church, the degeneracy of our boys and girls, all are being charged by the professional reformers who go about the country painting dark-hued pictures, because without these dark pictures they would shortly be out of a job. No matter how far they may be from being correct in their surmises, no matter how much they may be given to exaggeration, there is always somebody ready to listen to their story and to dig down into their pockets in response to that "ready touch" that is always so much in evidence when one of these technicians upon the social body puts in an appearance.

We believe our homes are just as wholesome, that our churches are just as much on the job, that our boys and girls are just as moral and just as upright as in any other generation in history. This talk of our social fabric crumbling is all bunk—it is being painted by professional reformers whose job is to put as much black in the picture as possible. The world would be better off without them.

HARD TIMES A LEVELER

A prominent American recently predicted a hundred years of interrupted prosperity. Such a prediction is just as empty and just as silly as would be the prophecy that in the same length of time the world will be inhabited by a race of super men and women. Only trials, struggles, privations, actual misery and want, are able to separate the dross from those finer qualities necessary to improve the human race. When we are prosperous over any long period we are prone to flabbiness, both in flesh and in the spirit. Prosperity breeds lack of church attendance, lack of interest in the sociology of society, lack of interest in improving the race for tomorrow—one hundred years of milk and honey and we would be a race of nincompoops.

We may abhor hard times, we may find it hard to change our present mode of living, but better a season of actual want, occasionally, better a season in which to take up the slack and settling back into the groove of hard work, than to drift unhampered and unhindered into an obstetrical oblivion.

SELLING MICHIGAN

Unconsciously, Florida has been teaching Michigan a valuable lesson. The spirit of the Everglade country, that could turn a land of swamps and pestilence into a veritable garden of Eden, can well be emulated in this state, making for Michigan during the summer what Florida has become to the nation during the winter. Of all the states in the Union nature has done more for us than any of the sister commonwealths in providing us with climate and scenery, with sparkling lakes and streams to make us a paradise during hot weather. Florida turned an immense winter population in the direction of that state by simply calling attention to her natural settings and the winter suns, so why can we not line our highways with tourist travel during the summer by telling the world that right here we have the garden spot of the entire universe. We believe that the sleeping giant is about to awaken—that within a comparatively few years we will have a summer population that will rival any other spot on the globe. All that we need to do is to put our shoulders to the wheel.

WHEN TIMBER BURNS

Michigan seems at last awakening to the enormous losses caused annually by the forest fires that rage in the northern part of the state, especially in the cut-over lands where seedling and all vegetation is virtually wiped out by the flames. Recently the Conservation department sent out a special "Fire Prevention" train on a tour through the north country, the object being to picture the devastation caused by forest fires, together with modern preventative measures.

During the past few days, the Michigan Press Association has undertaken a campaign for the prevention of forest fires, working in conjunction with the Scene-in-Action Corporation of Detroit. It is planned to place in all of the hotels, railway stations and other public places in the state one of these scene-in-action pictures, which vividly depicts a forest fire raging in the woods. The scene, which is the most realistic thing ever devised, cannot help but bring a powerful appeal to everybody to join in the campaign for forest fire prevention to which this newspaper stands pledged. "Everybody loses when timber burns"—let us do our part in helping to prevent this enormous economical loss.

GRADE CROSSINGS

A body of determined citizens in New York State is pushing the raising of three hundred millions of dollars for the purpose of abolishing grade crossings. It is desirable to do away with grade crossings, of course, but it is desirable for many states to have some small change left to tattle around in its pocket. Grade crossings are dangerous to the careless and forgetful, and even those who anxiously try to be careful are at times forgetful. No one willingly surrenders his life, though often such surrender seems wilful. A very much smaller sum than three hundred millions would do something to implant and foster in the public mind the thought of exercising care when crossing railroad tracks.

"EVERYBODY LOSES WHEN TIMBER BURNS"

Educational Campaign to Prevent Forest Fires in Michigan.

The Michigan Press Association through its member papers and by means of animated picture signs is fostering an extensive campaign to aid the state in educating citizens and tourists to the importance of watchful care in avoiding forest fires. Devastating forest fires not only affect the owners of timber but indirectly every business interest and property owner in the state.

Specially prepared advertisements placed in all papers which are members of the Michigan Press Association, will reach the people in every locality of the state and forcibly impress upon them the serious results of forest fires.

The Scene-in-Action Corporation will place in hotel lobbies—particularly along tourist routes—schools and other places where people congregate, a scene depicting a ravaging forest fire. In this "Scene-in-Action" picture the flickering of the flames flare and stink as though actually fanned by the breeze, lighting on the surrounding landscape with vivid, colorful flames. The smoke rolls upward exactly as it would do in a real fire, now whirling in mad spirals, now floating serenely. Only the heat and crackle of flames are wanting to make the illusion perfect.

This part of the campaign will reach the resort tourist, many of whom are visiting the state for the first time, little realizing that a careless toss of a lighted match or an unquenched camp fire may start a conflagration of incalculable loss.

This picture confronting them in every hotel lobby along their route cannot help but make a strong and lasting impression upon them. Only the vandal deliberately destroys property.

Inspiration

If you ever get to feeling concealed about what you have accomplished in life, read a little biography and find out how some others with half your opportunities have won world-wide recognition before they were anywhere near your age. And if you should feel depressed you might note the number who have won both fame and fortune after they were far older than you.—Carthage Press.

FORM LOCAL ASSOCIATION RURAL SCHOOL OFFICERS

On the evening of March 9th the rural school officers of Lima township and others interested in the rural schools, met at Lima Center to form a local association of rural school officers and to discuss some questions of interest at the present time. The meeting proved to be a very live one, being attended by more than a hundred people.

Every school district in the township was represented by its officers and others and each question that came up was discussed at length, decisions on the most of them being made in no uncertain terms. Those present put themselves on record as follows:

1. We are in favor of continuing with improvements, the present system of rural schools in preference to consolidation.

2. We are in favor of retaining the present system of administration of rural schools by local school boards rather than by a centralized county system.

3. We are not, at present, in favor of the advisory system.

4. We do not recommend any revision of the tax system at the present time.

5. We are not in favor of introducing city methods of instruction into our rural schools.

6. We are not in favor of giving the entire supervision of our rural schools into the hands of county and state officials.

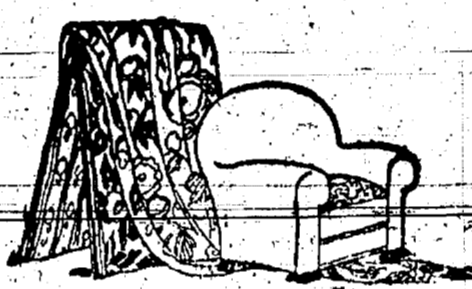

7. We believe the officers of our county organization should cooperate with the county and state officials in arranging meetings, to the end that we may have questions discussed from both sides.

8. We do not approve of so much of the literature sent out from the county commissioner's office being in the nature of propaganda.

The chairman appointed committees to investigate and report on the following subjects: A. The Present Tax System. B. Present School Laws. The officers of the Lima organization are: President, Elba Gage; vice president, Leigh Beach; secretary, treasurer, Alvin D. Baldwin.

Melting Ice Forms Bay

Two glaciers in northern Canada have melted and opened the district to a good harbor. When the international boundary line was fixed between Alaska and Yukon territory it ran through two big glaciers, from which Glacier Bay derived its name. Since that time the glaciers have melted and the bay now extends across the Canadian territory.

"YOU ARE ENTITLED TO KNOW THE FACTS"
DODGE BROTHERS, INC.

A careless driver . . . A triple somersault over a cliff . . . and this is the car—a Dodge Brothers all-steel safety car.

A triple somersault over a cliff with the car you see in this picture! Such was the experience of its owner, who came through the fall uninjured.

After an hour of repair work, he drove the car from Montana to Minneapolis—a more sensible driver and much wiser.

All steel construction saved his life, as it has saved many other lives in the past, and will save thousands more in the future

Dodge Brothers print this advertisement because they believe motorists are entitled to all-steel safety and should insist upon it.

That's why Dodge Brothers introduced all steel construction more than eleven years ago—and recently announced additional all steel safety features.

The streets are swarming with 20,000,000 motor cars—millions more are on the way. Safety is the issue. Armor yourself and your family with steel.

Dodge Brothers Motor Cars—both open and closed—are all steel in the strictest sense of the term. Steel reinforced by steel—framed, braced and buttressed by steel—with all seams solidly and permanently welded together by electricity.

Slim steel pillars replace the old bulky wooden corner posts—permitting unparalleled driving vision—a safety feature of the first importance.

Compare such bodies with the usual wood, or wood-and-metal body, and you will be astonished that every automobile builder has not adopted this advanced safety construction.

Remember, also, that safety is the watchword of Dodge Brothers' construction throughout, as witnessed by Dodge Brothers' exceptionally large, quick-action brakes, and the exceptional ruggedness and dependability of Dodge Brothers' axles, frames, steering parts, and other vital units.

This car will continue to be a "four."

PINCKNEY—The Livingston County Older Boys' Conference will be held at Pinckney this year, March 18th and 20th. This conference is held yearly in some town in Livingston county. CLINTON—At a meeting of Frederick R. Pieper Post, No. 176, American Legion, Tuesday night, a committee was appointed to actively co-operate with the village officers in getting the local streets properly marked with traffic signs to arrange protective traffic signals in our school zone, and to co-operate at all times with the village in maintaining efficient traffic control.—Local.

SHARON—A Hillsdale veteran claimed to be the last person to shake hands with Lincoln before he was assassinated. Our townsman Daniel Burch was on duty in Washington at the time and attended a reception just before the tragedy and shook hands with the president. Boston Corbett, who it is claimed, shot the assassin, Booth, was a member of the same battalion with Mr. Burch.—Manchester Enterprise.

It seems that some finger prints that the officers got at the time induced him to change his story. He was bound over to the circuit court by Justice Collett.—Argus.

MASON—In order that the voters of the county may have official information upon which they may rely in casting their ballots upon the question of building a new jail for the county, the eleven members of the special committee appointed by the board of supervisors have prepared a detailed statement of all the facts pertaining to the project. This statement was first presented to the board for its approval who then by resolutions provided that it be made public through the newspapers of the county.—News.

Controlling Climate
Climate is controlled to suit the most exacting needs in the work of the horticulturist and plant breeder in the greenhouse as at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. Gives What All Buyers Long Demanded in Vain!

With a swiftness that borders on the sensational, the new Pontiac Six is achieving a position of commanding leadership.

Everywhere, and instantly, motorists saw in this new General Motors Six these definite tangible qualities that they have always wanted, and wanted in vain—

—a stamina inherent in quality design and quality manufacture. And finding these qualities at a price so low that only General Motors could achieve it, buyers have not hesitated to pronounce the Pontiac Six a value that cannot be matched.

Easy Enough

Dear Sir—I see where some fellow kept awake 100 hours to win a $200 bet. A certain son of a certain father I know was home two weeks during the holidays, and so far as I know, he never slept a wink during the entire fortnight. He didn't do it on a bet, either, although it cost me considerably more than $200.—PA.—Mobile Register.

The Home Question

The little hospital patient came from a very poor home where evidently there were other children. There was a nurse and a patient bled in her question when the nurse handed her a glass of warm milk. "How far down can I drink it?" she asked appealingly.—Boston Transcript.

Old-Fashioned Ideas

The banking business like other things has progressed with the times, taking advantage of modern developments such as typewriters, telephones, adding machines, loose-leaf ledgers, etc., all of which greatly increases their efficiency and service.

This institution, while constantly on the outlook for modern improvements, still clings to the old-fashioned ideas of courtesy and hospitality.

We endeavor at all times to make our customers and friends feel entirely at home, and for that reason they like to conduct their business here. We believe you would too.

"MANY YEARS LATER, Mr. Hyzer said: "The cure Doan's made for me has remained permanent."

Finn's Double Christmas
For centuries before the year 1772 the people of Finland had four Christmas holidays, but a Swedish royal decree issued that year abolished the third and fourth, as it was thought desirable to curtail the festival in the interest of work. But the Finns still have two Christmas holidays, December 25 and 26 (St. Stephen's day).

Bubbles Indicate Leak
Air bubbles seen in the radiator section indicate some sort of cylinder head-gasket leak. The bubbles are the result of compression leaking out around the head and getting into the cooling system. This air, being under pressure, naturally finds its way to the surface of the water in the radiator.

Tobacco in England
Many authorities have stated that smoking was unknown in England before 1634. But it is certain that, long before this period, herbs such as coltsfoot and yarrow were smoked in dried and prepared. Pipes have been found belonging to an earlier date than the sixteenth century. There is a difference of opinion as to whom belongs the distinction of introducing tobacco into Great Britain—Sir Walter Raleigh, Sir John Hawkins, Mr. Ralph Lane (governor of Virginia) or Captain Amidas and Harlow.

Measuring Time
In a wondrous test made at Johns Hopkins university men and women were requested to sit at ease for a definite time—two minutes was the actual period. They were then asked to estimate how long they had been seated. The miles—half measured the time as being within half a minute and three minutes. The calculations of the women ranged all the way from ten seconds to twelve minutes.—Los Angeles Times.

Cheese Color Contest
A novel competition has been devised by the editor of a French radio journal. Listeners are invited to state the color of the hair of the various singers being broadcast. Science has established that blind persons can often tell the color of a speaker's singer's hair by the sound of the voice and the purpose of the competition is to determine whether ordinary persons, when deprived of sight of the speaker, can exercise a similar gift.

Food of Butterflies
Butterflies feed on the nectar of flowers and the sap of trees and plants. The various flowers, etc., vary with those found in a locality. All adult bees feed on succarine juices, particularly the nectar of flowers. It is the habit of bees to devote their searching to a single sort of flower as long as it serves their purpose, each individual visiting blossom after blossom of that kind, instead of searching flowers indiscriminately. This varies with the locality.

Pugnacious Crayfish
Crayfish are so pugnacious that if two of them are put in the same crate or open pen one will kill the other, or, like the farmer's dog, will bark at the hole. That is why, when the University of Washington shipped a dozen crayfish specimens from its aquarium in Seattle to the fish pen in New York, the shippers wound up each crayfish in yards of wet cheesecloth. The consequence came through white and healthy—Youth's Companion.

Worms in Soil
The best treatment for the worms in the soil, which are not likely to be doing any harm, is watering several times with lime water, as recommended recently. Different kinds of worms are found in soil in which there is decaying vegetable matter, but they are harmless. Castor oil is not likely to do your plants any good, and we should not advise using it.—Montreal Evening Herald.

How We Got Collars
It is about a hundred years since the collar came into being as a commercial proposition. It has been suggested that the neckpiece of teeth or claws or string of beads with which our early ancestors adorned themselves was the forerunner of the modern collar.

Parliament of Bats
The parliament which met on March 12, during the reign of Henry VI, was called the parliament of bats, because when the members were forbidden by royal decree to carry swords, they came armed with long staves.

Regulations which will be forwarded to all county schools about March 20, briefly are:

The design shall be the original work of the student submitting it. Not more than two colors of ink used with no blending.

It is suggested that the design represent as far as possible, the agricultural and industrial activities of Washenaw County.

WASHTENAW DAIRYMEN TO HOLD COUNTY MEETING

One hundred twenty-five Cow Testing Association members and their wives are planning on a big county dairywomen's banquet on Saturday noon March 27, at 12 o'clock at the Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce. At present Washenaw County has four Cow Testing Associations in operation, located in the territory tributary to Chelsea, Ann Arbor, Saline, and Ypsilanti and Milan. Each association has 26 herds enrolled. These associations have proven very valuable to many of the members. The Ann Arbor Association has been in continuous operation for three years. The meeting on the 27th will be for the purpose of emphasizing the importance of Cow Testing Association to the continued development of the dairy interest in this county. The meeting is not limited to members only but anyone interested in the dairy industry is welcome to attend. Reservations should be sent to the County Agent's office by noon, March 22nd.

Playing Cards Known Since Earliest Ages

Doctor Le Cour, delving in Carchemish ruins, says the ancients had a play similar to our card game. They used small tablets on which were painted figures. There is also mention to one of St. Augustine's works of cards that are used for gambling. Still the playing-cards we now use were invented in the fourteenth century by a French painter named Jacques Gringonneur. It is said that he invented them to amuse the mad King Charles VI of France. The kings were David, Alexander, Caesar and Charles; the queens were Argine, Esthelle, Judith and Pallas; the four knights, now called knaves and vulgarly "jacks," were Ogier, the Dane, Lancelot, La Hire and Hector de Garland, knights of old romance. The Cardmakers' company was incorporated in 1629, and as early as the reign of James I. cards were taken to England. The first game played in England was called "trump." All the most important historical events have been at one time or another depicted on playing cards and some of the packs are very rare and valuable.—Pittsburgh Courier.

Blood Analysis Helps Doctor in Diagnosis

The doctor who used to feel his patient's pulse or gaze into a glistening mouth to determine the cause of illness nowadays takes a drop of blood to analyze. The quest for much of human suffering has been traced to the germs, tiny but deadly, which force their entrance into the human body and which can only be detected by such analysis.

Blood tests provide us with clues to an ever-growing number of ailments, said a doctor to the writer. "It is being found, for instance, that eye complaints are often due to the absorption of germs which have affected other parts of the body, such as the tonsils. We can often detect them by testing the blood."

Many cases of illness are due to something taken in from without—usually microscopic germs. More and more of these germs are becoming known to us every day. There is reason to believe that the origins of many diseases which are still unknown may be found in the same cause.

High-Sounding Names

It seems to be the practice for leading towns or cities to adopt titles in self-praise. "The old Venetians used to say, 'See Venice and die,' and Rome has always styled itself the Eternal City. Boston calls itself 'The City of the Universe,' whilst London has shrunk from calling itself the Metropolis of the World. It is a moot point whether Babylon or Sarcobore was first in the field with the subtitle 'Queen of Watering Places,' but it is certain that both use it and believe in its truth. Pittsburgh styles itself the 'Modern Athens,' and thus boasts that it is the second city of the empire. Seattle says that he who has not seen Seattle has seen no marvel. Manchester calls itself 'Cottonopolis,' and Liverpool the 'Gateway of the West.'

Italy Guards Antiques

In Italy one of the most serious crimes is the stealing or unauthorized excavation of antiquities. The government claims as its property all objects of artistic or archeological interest over 100 years old, and permits for their exportation are obtained only rarely and with difficulty. Rights to excavate or even to study white excavations are proceeding rarely granted to foreign students. The other day some archeological pickpockets who removed some ancient vases and marbles from tombs that were being excavated near Comacchio were convicted in court. The leader was sentenced to seven years in prison—a punishment rare in Italy for any crime less than murder.

Taking the Profit Out of War

By BERNARD M. BARUCH

Reprinted from The Atlantic Monthly.

[The February issue of the Atlantic for 1925 carried a paper by Mr. Slaley Huddleston dealing with the general subject of "taking the profit out of war." The phrase was put into the language of the War Industries Board in the closing of the World War through its efforts to eliminate all war profits. Mr. Huddleston's article came to the attention of Mr. Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board and administrator of the non-profit plan, and (as he writes us), since it seemed to indicate a growing interest in the subject, induced him to make a presentation to bring about a full comprehension of taking the profit out of war in the various great countries of the world. To this end he responded to a suggestion of Mr. Owen D. Young, of the Page School of International Relations at Johns Hopkins University, that he establish a course of lectures there to expound the War Industries Board plan in detail. Later he will proceed to make similar arrangements at leading universities in Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, and Japan. Agreeing with Mr. Baruch that the subject calls for public knowledge and discussion, it was natural for the Atlantic to turn to him for the following paper.—The Editors of THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY.]

War was once described as Prussia's most profitable industry. It needs only a scant examination of history to learn that other countries were open to the same indictment. The methods of the Robber Barons did not pass with the end of feudalism. Annexation by conquest did not cease. But when America entered the World War President Wilson fathered a doctrine that shall always govern us—that never a foot of territory would be added to our boundaries by force.

So, as America has taken the lead toward making impossible national profit through war, it too may be America's privilege to point the way toward making impossible individual profit through war. To take the profit out of war is to take a long step toward creating an economic destitution of war. The experience of the United States in the World War affords a basis for the belief that the plan herein discussed is practical. In fact, it is more than a belief—it is a certainty, although not widely known. The world is such a busy place, and the radius of human activity has been so greatly enlarged because of modern inventions, that it is not strange that there are but few people who are conversant with what was quietly but effectively taking place in this country in the mobilization and use of its material resources in the World War—a process that would have eventually eliminated all improper profits.

Strength is given to the public administration of the war industries by both President Harding and President Coolidge—Mr. Coolidge as recently as last October in his Omaha speech to the American Legion—by the fact that the plan they advocated as a part of the regular national war agencies had once been set up and successfully operated under the War Industries Board.

Preceding the President's recent clear exposition of this subject, some degree of public interest had been kindled by an exchange of letters between Owen D. Young, of the Dawes plan fame, in behalf of the Walter Hines Page School of International Relations, and the writer. The correspondence resulted in the establishment of lectures at the Page School (of Johns Hopkins University) on this theme. Previously the Atlantic Monthly printed an article by Slaley Huddleston, who pointed out that Europe saw great strides toward peace in the American idea of "taking the profit out of war" in a systematic way. His article referred to the plan of the War Industries Board.

The resources of a country might be referred to as the five M's: (1) man power; (2) money; (3) materials; (4) machinery; and (5) morale. The intelligence with which the first four are directed and coordinated as a whole will determine the fifth, the morale of the community. It early became evident to those who were charged with the responsibility of mobilizing the resources that there was a just sentiment among the people against profiteering. Profiteering might be willful and profit making might be involuntary, but whatever its form, there was a just determination to stop it. So it became necessary to fix prices where the supply was limited.

Where the government operated a shortage by its demands, prices were fixed not only for the Army, Navy and the Allies, but for the civilian population as well. And in addition to price fixing on war essentials (such as steel, wool, copper, and so forth), the balance, after the war program had been fixed, was rationed or distributed according to the priority needs of the various civilian demands. In other words, where the price of the product of an industry was fixed, the industry had to deliver the part which the government did not need to the civilian population, not in the way the industry chose, but as the government directed.

It must be remembered that when the war came there was no adequate preparation. Indeed, it is doubted by the best authorities whether any effective form of preparation then known would have been of much avail in view of the widespread and engulfing results of the war and the lack of knowledge of the various instruments of destruction which were being devised and which it became necessary to combat.

Our own Army had several divisions competing one with another for materials, transportation, housing, and so forth. On top of that there prevailed the demands of the Shipping Board, with the slogan that ships would win the war, and of the Food Administration, with the slogan that food would win the war. Further, there was the Railroad Administration with its need for material and labor, and finally there was the housing question for labor and supplies on the part of the munition makers—all competing for labor, money, materials, transportation, fuel, power, and each insisting on the greater importance of its activity. All this while the labor supply was being lessened by the flow of men into the

The railways by the board were made known through the issuance of official bulletins at irregular intervals and were widely distributed by the press, which co-operated in this most important work with a whole-hearted purpose that gave to the orders of the War Industries Board the instant and broad circulation they required.

Mr. Hoover already was doing much to perfect his control of food products and prices. There was also talk of fixing rents, and in some cities this was done.

If we were to start, in the event of another war, at the place where we were industrially when the World War ended, the President, acting through an agency similar to the War Industries Board, would have the right to a price of all things as of a date previous to the declaration of war when there was a fair relation of value between the various activities of the nation. It would be illegal to buy, sell, serve or rent at any other than these prices. Brakes would be applied to every agency of inflation before the hurtful process started. An intelligent control of the flow of men, money and materials would be imposed, instead of having the blind panic heretofore ensuing on the first appearance of the frantic demands of war. The Draft Board would have before it the ruling of the priority committee, together with the estimated needs of every business and profession in its relationship to the conduct of the war, and men would be selected accordingly. The Draft Board could more intelligently decide, with the advice of the priority committee, many of the problems with which it would be faced. There would be no sending of men to the trenches who were needed for expert industrial work and then bringing them back again. Businessmen would be necessary to the winning of the war would be required. The Draft Board would have that information before it.

The prices of all things being fixed, the price fixing committee would make any necessary adjustments as were done during the war. Under the system used in 1918 these prices were made public and adjusted every three months, so that any consumer or producer had his day in court when he considered prices unfair. Those who complained that during the war prices were too high had this ready recourse to hand.

In the meantime all the industries of the country would have been mobilized by the formation of committees representative of each industry as was done in the World War. Over them would be placed a government director or commodity chief. The various government departments would appoint committees representing their requirements, so that on one committee the resources of the nation would be represented and on the other the demands of the government. The government director would stand between to decide, in conjunction with the priority committee, to what department supplies should go.

Money would be controlled and directed like any other resource. "Taking the profit out of war" is not synonymous with "conscripting wealth," as it is sometimes regarded. The latter is a theoretical project, prohibited by our Constitution, contrary to the spirit of our social and political institutions, and impossible in practice. Taking the profit out of war is an orderly and scientific development of the economics and conduct of modern war, necessary to the effective mobilization of national resources and indispensable to equalizing the burden of war among the armed and civilian population. Room of experience and proved by practice, it removes some of the most destructive concomitants of modern war—the confusion and waste incident to war time inflation.

This term "conscripting of wealth," used by so many, has created a hope among those of socialistic tendencies, and a fear among those who, like me, believe in our system based upon personal initiative and reward, of a taking of money without payment, for the use of State. Neither the hope nor the fear is justified by the recommendation herein contained or by our experience in the war. The use of money should be controlled and directed in a national emergency. A man should no more be permitted to use his money as he wishes than he should be permitted to use the production of his mine, mill or factory except through the general supervising agency. This was being done toward the end of the war.

During the final phase of the World War no man or corporation or institution could raise money without the approval of the Capital Issues Committee of the Treasury Department, which committee in turn would not permit the borrowing of money unless the War Industries Board approved the use to which it was to be put. Thus the City of New York was not permitted to spend $8,000,000 for the building of schools. The City of Philadelphia was prevented from making improvements that in peace time would have been necessary, but in war time were not. Various states, counties and cities, and a vast number of private concerns, were denied the use of money and materials for purposes not necessary for the winning of the war. Each part of the community had to adjust its wants to the whole great undertaking.

Watch Used as Compass

The statement that all watches are compasses refers to the fact that the directions are easily ascertainable with the aid of a watch. Let the watch be set in the hand with the hour hand pointing toward the sun, and the point on the circle half way between the hour hand and XII will be directly north in the northern hemisphere and directly south in the southern hemisphere.

Its Boundaries Restricted

Oceania or Oenotria was a designation which embraced the land surface which remained after appropriating the continents of Eurasia, Africa and the Americas. The term covered Australia, the Indian archipelago and the Pacific Islands. After Australasia was set apart as a continent Oceania was restricted to the Malay archipelago and the Islands of the Pacific.

Stubborn Coughs Quickly Stopped This New Way

It is often surprising how the most persistent, hacking cough that not only robs you of strength and sleep, but often leads to more serious trouble, yields quickly to a simple but wonderfully effective treatment.

This treatment is based on the prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You take just one teaspoonful at bed time and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it. The prescription has a double action: It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but it quickly removes the phlegm and congestion which are the real cause of the coughing. So with the cause removed, the coughing quickly ceases. Your throat is cleared, and the entire cough condition soon disappears.

Dr. King's New Discovery is for coughs, chest colds, sore throat, hoarseness, bronchitis, spasmodic croup, etc. Fine for children as well as grown-ups. No harmful drugs. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good druggists. Ask for

Ryan was said to be one of a party of four men and five girls whose machine broke down on M-47. A. R. Jones pulled their machine to his garage on South Main street, and a free-for-all is said to have broken out among the early morning tourists. Constable Leach was called but when he arrived all had departed but two men and one girl. METHODIST EPISCOPAL

Rev. C. S. Raley, pastor.

We are in perfect accord with some others—"that non-church going is a sin," and the Bible seems to teach the same truth. "The Mind of Christ" is the subject for Sunday morning. What is the mind of Christ for these times? What is the mind of this century? Is it spiritual or materialistic? Pagan or Christian? There is no more important question confronting this present age than this one. If nowhere else, we invite you to join with us in worship. Sunday evening, "Fanny Crosby Evening." Wear her favorite flower, the violet, to this service. The Church school at the usual hour—our goal by Easter Sunday, 225. Special program for the evening hour. Duet, quartet and songs written by this famous blind composer. Also a brief sketch of her life.

There will be special music and appropriate words to make this service an effective one for all in attendance. It is well for all of us in the Lenten season to study her life anew and see how fully she incarnated the spirit of her Master.
