Getting ready for the next 150 years

On July Fourth this year we delebrated the nation's 150th birthday anniversary, and what citizen of these United States can but feel a glow of pride in the achievement of our country

Forty years after the Liberty Bell pealed out, the first gas company-was-organized in Baltimore, so that for more than two-thirds of the 130 years of her independence, America has enjoyed the conrenience and cleanliness of gas service

But, in our industry, we spend little time looking backwards. The future is always before us. Every year brings a greater demand for gas service. Every year it becomes more imperative to conserve the country's coal supply so that gas, the concentrated fuel, may meet the nations needs over a greater span of years.

The Gas Industry today is spending millions of dollars in providing today's supply of gas, and other millions in preparing for the next 150 years.

These two examples are cited not for the purpose of directing attention especially to those two citizens and their wealth, but to show how simple is the statement that the producer and consumer pay all the taxes.

You may not own a dollar's worth of property, and yet you may pay considerably more in indirect taxes, than the man who owes very considerable property.

It is therefore important to you, and to every producer and consumer in the land, to watch the growth of taxes—to do what you can to see that efficient men are in public offices, and that your government, municipal, state and national, is managed by the best brains you can employ to

Are you willing that your country should enter into a hostile World Court where a demand might and could be made upon you to take the burden of the debts of other nations upon your national shoulders and increase the amount you pay every year, directly or indirectly to the government, to pay debts you do not owe, and that you never should be made to pay? This is a small and restricted community of summer-homes, that's one of the reasons why Inverness Golf and Country Club, located on the shores of North Lake, are so popular. Here the entire family will find rest and recreation-safety for the children, peace and comfort for the grown-ups, missing all the objectionable features of the average summer

All forms of summer sports are possible here. There's fish--ing, swimming and boating for those who enjoy the water. Now playing 6 holes of the nine-hole golf course. A 12-roon club house, which the members of the community will own, is already on the property. You'll be as enthusiastic as those who have already purchased here, when you see thiscommunity. A membership in the Club goes with every lot.
