Soldier a Good Risk

Under favorable conditions of peace the mortality among soldiers is the lowest in any class of men, says the New York Times, the death rate being only 5 in 1,000. The placid days of a clergyman's life, compared with that of a soldier, are full of danger; for, proportionately, more than twice as many clergymen die in the course of the year, their rate of mortality being 11 to the 1,000.

LETTERS PROVE POPULARITY OF CONGREGATIONAL MINISTER

Testimonials and Recommendations Showered on Lansing Pastor Who Comes to Chelsea

Evidence of the esteem in which Rev. Albert E. Potts, new pastor of the Congregational church here, is held at Lansing is contained in letters from various business and professional men in that city to Rev. Potts upon the eve of his departure for his charge in Chelsea. Rev. Potts will assume charge here on Sunday, September 12, when he will preach at both morning and evening services.

Expressing the sentiment of Lansing in general, Mayor Alfred H. Doughty writes Rev. Potts as follows:

To Whom These Presence May Come:

Greetings:

The bearer of this letter, the Rev. Albert E. Potts, has been a very close personal friend for more than six years. Perhaps no one in a community can better judge a preacher in his work than the mayor of the city.

It has been extremely gratifying, knowing the chaotic condition existing in the church prior to the time of Mr. Potts, to watch the wonderful work that Mr. Potts has performed not alone to the church but service to the community in general. He not only increased the membership of the church but he brought into the church service, and church work men of ability and the work done by him in this community will ever stand as a monument to the Rev. Potts' personal ability.

I unhesitatingly recommend him to the courteous consideration of any requests that he may make. It is with a feeling of extreme deep regret that I see him leave the city of Lansing.

Yours very truly,

ALFRED H. DOUGHTY,

Mayor of the City of Lansing, Mich.
From the Young Men's Christian Association Try Narvesen, general secretary, expresses his regret at Rev. Potts' leaving, and wishes him well in his new undertaking. His letter follows:

My dear Rev. Potts:
It is with keen regret that I learn of your plan to leave the city. I never thought of you merely as a pastor of a local church, because you certainly have been a power for good in the city at large. Your dynamic inspirational talks to the Foremen and other industrial men revealed unmistakably your understanding of these men, coupled with an enviable ability to produce impressions of lasting value.

More power to you as you enter your new sphere of influence.

Most cordially yours,

TRY NARVESEN,

General Secretary.

"He is an open-minded, broad, intellectual, sympathetic and a devoted worker in civic and church life. As an after dinner speaker he is equal to any emergency," says W. M. Dowden, president of the Lansing Business University.

"You have given us good and faithful work during that time and have added many new friends to the church, and during your leadership the church has enjoyed a very enviable relation with the many organizations of the city." This from E. E. Harris, chairman of the Board of Trustees of Mayflower Congregational church, Lansing, of which Rev. Potts has been pastor for five years.

N. E. Glassbrook, state manager of the Ohio National Life Insurance Co., writes: "I consider him one of my most trustworthy and respected friends. You will find that he will be true to any confidence that may be placed in him and that he is in every way an upright, respected and honored citizen."

—And from Louis M. Kostichuk, of the Jewish faith, comes a testimonial to Rev. Potts' community work: "Your untiring efforts in behalf of the Boy Scout movement will always remain a cherished thought."

"His sermons are most invariably gospel sermons and plainly and forcefully given, which leaves a deep impression on attentive listeners," says A. N. Bateman, clerk of the Mayflower church.

From Alfred Seymour, chief of police at Lansing, comes this: "I have always found him to be a whole-souled, conscientious man, ever striv-

TODAY IS LAST THURSDAY STORES WILL BE CLOSED

With the end of vacation season comes the last of the Thursday afternoon closing on the part of Chelsea business places, this afternoon being the last. Today is "Chelsea day" at the Washtenaw county fair and it is expected the town will be nearly deserted while folks take in the exhibition at Ann Arbor. Good attendance has marked the opening days of the fair, and with weather favorable it is expected record crowds will pass through the gates on the last three days.

WILL HOLD INSTITUTE FOR RURAL TEACHERS

The opening institute for rural teachers of Washtenaw county, will be held at the court house in Ann Arbor, Saturday, September 11, at 10 a. m. The program is as follows:

General session 10 a. m.

10:00 Enrollment of teachers and distribution of supplies.

10:15 Introduction of county leaders.

10:30 Presentation of health objectives for 1926-27; Miss Edith M. Stoff, county health officer.

10:30 Preliminary instructions with demonstrations in use of new child accounting forms, Florence V. Essery, commissioner.

11:00 Talk—"From the Ox Team to the Auto," E. E. Gallup, state supervisor of Agricultural Education.

11:30 Extension service available from Michigan State Normal College, W. C. Hoppes, M. S. N. C.

11:45 Adjournment of General session, collection of unpaid institute fees and issuing of unclaimed certificates.

12:00 Special meeting during luncheon for zone teachers participating in rural school supervisory program. This meeting will be held at a luncheon in order to avoid keeping zone teachers over for an afternoon meeting.

The details of the special meeting for zone teachers will be mailed to zone teachers.

GOV. GROESBECK WILL SPEAK AT FAIR SATURDAY

Every person is probably planning to attend the Washtenaw County fair. If you are there Saturday, September 4th, you can hear Governor Groesbeck discuss the issues of the day at half past four in the afternoon. He will also speak on the east steps of the court house at half past seven that evening.

Under his administration the state property tax for Washtenaw county has dropped from $361,022.57 in 1921 to $299,123.70 in 1925. During the same period there has been an increase of $60,124.10 in the primary school money paid Washtenaw county by the state. Only $28 cents out of every dollar you paid for taxes last year went to the support of the state.

Under Governor Groesbeck's administration, as pointed out in the June issue of the Farm Journal, the state tax rate on personal property has been reduced from $3.75 per thousand in 1921 to $2.16 per thousand in 1925. This has been accomplished by the corporation tax sponsored by him, which cares for the building up of the state institutions without the necessity of a property tax, and the gas and weight tax measures which furnish the money needed for building and maintaining the highways.

At these two meetings he will explain the constructive features of his administration showing how it has benefited the individual taxpayer.

"He has been of great service to the community at large as well as his own church," says W. V. C. Jackson, vice president and general manager of the Auto Body Corporation, and Fred J. Weissinger, secretary of The Dudley Paper Co., says: "It was during my administration as president of the Exchanging club that I learned to know Rev. Albert E. Potts and his sterling character. As a member of the club he could always be depended upon to do his task, doing it willingly and well."

Coming to Chelsea as he does, with this abundance of recommendations and testimonials from prominent men of Lansing there can be only one conclusion and that is, that Chelsea is receiving in her midst an able, conscientious leader who is destined to find favor not only among church affairs but also in civic undertakings.

BASEBALL SEASON EXTENDS INTO MIDDLE OF SEPTEMBER

Postponed and Tie Games Cause Delays in Winding Up of Local Season's Sport

Rains, which caused postponement of games, and tie score in others, combine to delay the final wind up of Chelsea's baseball season, which should have ended this week. However, at least two more weeks will be necessary to complete the schedule and decide the winner.

It's still "anybody's series". Four teams are playing excellent baseball in an effort to come out on top and the next and last five games will tell the story. The Methodists, Catholics, I. O. O. F. and Kiwanis teams are still going strong, each with hopes of a final victory.

Crowds continue good, the public taking as much interest in outcome of the series as the teams. What they do after the season closes remains to be seen, but certain it is that about a hundred fans will be lost for want of a ball game at least twice a week.

HOME COMING AND CHURCH RE-OPENING

The Methodist church which has been undergoing a complete overhauling will be finished for our great day, September 12th.

The redecorating and varnishing of woodwork and pews has been in charge of the O. J. Kover & Son, artists and decorators, of Ft. Wayne, Ind. The work has been under the supervision of Clem Noll, foreman, and he has been ably assisted by Wm. Abbott, Vernon Lemp and Larry Gaffler, all of Ft. Wayne. The firm of O. J. Kover & Son is the oldest established church decorators in the country, and has frescoed more than 5000 churches. They are also direct importers of European Mineral Colors.

The church here will present a very beautiful appearance when completed and the congregation is to be congratulated in this accomplishment. The program for the home coming will be announced next week. Dinner will be served at 12:30 by our Ladies' Aid Society and free will offering to go toward repair expense.

WOMAN HIKER VISITS HERE ON WAY BACK TO SO. DAK.

Mrs. Margaret Sweeney Anderson, of Sioux Falls, So. Dak., called at the Standard office Tuesday afternoon on her journey back to the South Dakota city after hiking to Adrian, there to see her son who is a world war veteran. He is Joe Boyd Anderson.

Many interesting experiences are related by Mrs. Anderson as having happened on this and other hiking journeys. Lifts by friendly motorists along the way reduced actual walking to a negligible distance while kindly folks in the cities and towns she passed through assisted her with meals and financial aid. She started her journey to Adrian three weeks ago. On previous occasions she claims to have hiked to Washington, D. C. seven times, having eaten at the table of the late President Warren G. Harding. The aged lady is perhaps seventy years old.

SEPTEMBER 4TH IS THE LAST DAY FOR REGISTRATION

Apply to your township city clerk any day except Sunday. You may register on primary day if sickness or unavoidable absence prevents your doing so before that time. Ask the clerk of the election.

If you have moved and not re-registered get a certificate of transfer from the inspectors where you last voted, on election day.

DRAIN CONTRACT LET TO MERCIER OF DETROIT

Contract for the construction of the proposed Ann Arbor-Pittsfield drain was awarded Tuesday by drain commissioner, Clayton E. Deake, to R. A. Mercier of Detroit, whose bid of $690,000 was the lowest of the seven received. Construction of the drain will be started within the next two weeks, Mr. Deake said.

This drain will begin at Golden-av. in Ann Arbor and will continue about five miles to within a short distance of the Huron river, between Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor. This will serve a large portion of the country lying southeast of the city.

The two miles of the drain from Golden-av. to Stone school on Packard road are to be covered with circular concrete sections ranging in size from 5 feet to 10 feet, 3 inches in diameter. The last three miles, from Stone school to the point near the Huron, where the drain is to end, will be open.

The contract for selling bonds totaling $600,000 for the drain was awarded August 7 to the Ann Arbor firm of Brown, Cress & Co. These bonds are to be ready for delivery October 1.

Inward Beautifiers

A dear old Quaker lady was asked, says the Lyons News, what she used to make her complexion so lovely and her whole being so bright and attractive. She answered: "I use for the lips, truth; for the voice, prayer; for the eyes, pity; for the hands, charity; for the figure, uprighteousness; and for the heart, love."—Boston Transcript.

TO DRY UP NATION

"Andrews has new plan to Dry up Nation."—Newspaper headline. President Grant is credited with saying, in regard to the resumption of specie payments: "The way to resume is to resume."

He is also credited with saying: "No other terms than immediate surrender can be accepted."

Again we quote General Grant: "I know no method to secure the repeal of bad or obnoxious laws so effective as their stringent construction."
And still again from General Grant: "Let no guilty man escape, if it can be avoided. No personal consideration should stand in the way of performing a public duty."

Here are some suggestions, General Andrews, from our greatest American general. Follow them, and be absolutely assured you will do your duty to the American people and "dry up the country."

Some say the law is bad and obnoxious. Some say it is good. General Grant has given you the tip. The way to secure the repeal of bad or obnoxious laws is to enforce them. Enforce the Volstead act, then if the people say it is good, they will keep it. If a majority of the people say it is bad, they will repeal it.

That is the only sound way to proceed. Don't admit, or even infer that this great nation is either impotent or lax in its duty to its people to enforce its laws. Such an admission is wholly unworthy of any representative citizen of this nation in any capacity.

SEE FOR SUNDAY CLOSING
The Methodists of Philadelphia have brought a suit of mandamus to compel the officers and directors of the Sesqui-Centennial to close their doors on Sunday.
In this battle between God and Mammon, God will get the worst of it—in Philadelphia.

COURTS AND CRIMINALS
Now and then we hear of a case where the courts appear to be taking a determined stand against the criminal, and we are heartened. Judge William R. Sheppard of the United States District court, charging a federal grand jury, said:

"If there is going to be respect for law, the courts must do their duty. Judge Sheppard also cited that New York City has more crime in one year than all England has in five years, and he added:

"We stand idly by and permit the rich and powerful to use their influences with the courts while we let George do it whenever there is anything to be done for good citizenship."

That first sentence is worthy of posting in the public hat. Let's repeat it.

"If there is going to be respect for law, the courts must do their duty. It is refreshing to know that a judge knows he has a duty to the public that does not rest on protection of the criminal at the bar."

It would appear that the first duty of any court is to change the practice that has obtained for many years of allowing his old fetish to prevail, that "it is better that 100 guilty escape than that one innocent be punished." That is bad principle, and worse in practice. It makes the law a thing to protect the criminal, and leave the public wholly unprotected. The laws made for the protection of the public, and to prevent and punish crime. Any other view of it is wholly wrong and wholly out of line with justice and fair dealing with the public.

The courts are set up by the people and for the protection of the people. They belong to the people. The humblest and poorest citizen has the same right to the court of the country as the richest and the most powerful. The statement of Judge Sheppard above is an admission that they have no such rights, when he says: "We stand idly by and permit the rich and powerful to use their influences with the courts."

That is a severe indictment of the courts—and remember it comes from one of the highest judges of a powerful court. It ought to know what he is talking about.

WATER TRANSPORTATION
Helen Hoyer, secretary of commerce, speaking in Indiana, told the people that what the Middle West needs is the development of water routes to the sea, to lower transportation costs.

The Middle West saw that a quarter of a century ago. Wise men and able statesmen worked to the end that was theirs might be improved and utilized for transportation. Senator Mark Hanna said in his generation: "The rivers are where Nature put them. They must always remain there. Their beds and their waters are not taxable. They are not investments, and do not have to pay interest charges. Everyone of them should be developed as far as possible. It is not the tariff or the money question that will cause difficulties in America—it is the problem of transportation."

Uttered a long time ago, but every day since has proved its wisdom. Every day the government neglects to improve its waterways and make them fit for transportation, it increases transportation problems, and causes losses to the people of the United States.

PARIS IS PUTRID

Mayor Schwab of Buffalo has returned from a visit to Paris, and he found Paris a decidedly putrid place, according to his statement. He said: "If I were mayor of Paris for twenty-four hours I would turn the city upside down," he asserted. He said he found on his recent European tour that "Paris is no decent place for a decent woman because a decent woman is not respected there."

"I inspected the city with members of the Paris police and was amazed at the things that went on there. The reasons for conditions there is because the French policemen are not respected as are the American policemen. In Paris they believe in the iron shackle, the wagon and the judge. Buffalo policemen know humanity and are schooled in kindness and courtesy."

Paris is bad, judged by American standards. But Paris is just what some of our good American citizens would like to make New York City as Buffalo or any other big American city. They would have the same drinking privileges, the same wide open and immoral atmosphere; the same crime and evil conditions that prevail in Paris.

Much as they talk about prohibitions and their failure, no man knows anything about conditions in this country but know that there is far less drinking than in any European country, and that the prohibition law is not responsible for the disrespect of law. It is disrespect for law fostered and encouraged by those opposing prohibition, in order that the law may be put in bad odor with the public, that has brought about disrespect for law and the courts.

Mayor Schwab has himself been a contributor to conditions which have brought about evil conditions in this country. He controls the police of his city, and were he to vigorously prosecute a campaign to have the law obeyed, and violations punished, he would have Buffalo as dry as a bone, and a much better city than Paris, or than Buffalo is or has ever been from a law and morals standpoint.

FARM RELIEF
News comes from the summer White House that President Coolidge favors a banking syndicate with capital of $100,000,000 to help the American farmer.

Bad business! This government helped the banker by turning over to them through the federal reserve act, the function of issuing money, which has always been, and under a strict construction of the Constitution is a function that only the government could or should perform.

The government has made industries highly profitable by enacting a high protective tariff law that keeps American markets for Americans.
The government has put the railroads on their feet and made them prosperous by enacting the Esch-Cummins law, which gives them opportunity and has practically guaranteed them earning powers.

There is no reason why the government should not finance the farmer. The government has set up postal savings banks in the postoffices. It could easily establish farm loan banks in the postoffices, and make farm loans direct to the people at a rate of interest as low as the rate allowed the British government on what it owes the country.

Why should the government set up private banking syndicates with power to exploit the agricultural element of the country when it can finance them itself? Why shouldn't the government lend money to its own people at a rate as low as it lends to European countries?

Why limit the amount of money to $100,000,000? That would not be a drop in the bucket of the country's needs. The government should issue farm loan bonds to the extent of at least $1,000,000,000 and lend the money directly to the farmers who farm their own lands and to no other. That would be a relief. Anything less would be mere sham and mockery.

MASON—Members of the Virginia Raven's Orchestra, now more popularly known as the Virginia Buzzards are still languishing in jail. One of their number has pleaded guilty to the charge of assault with intent to rape and is waiting sentence from circuit court, the others remaining in Mason jail until their appearance in circuit court at the September term. The young girls involved are still in custody.—News.

HOWELL—Arrested four times for violation of the prohibition law, Mrs. Grace Tripp, 72, of Deerfield township, is held in county jail in default of $4,000 bonds. Mrs. Tripp was out on bonds for a previous offense when officers raided her home and found a gallon of moonshine whisky. She has served a term in county jail for violation of prohibition act and was arrested another time but released on a technicality.

SALINE—Our two marshals are having the time of their lives, making automobilists observe the stop street rules and properly negotiate the silent policeman at the intersection of Michigan avenue and Ann Arbor street. All day Sunday, about every ten minutes, the whistle blew, and some driver was compelled to back up to the mark across the street and start over again. Some obeyed smilingly, some sullenly, but all toed the mark, and the result will be less trouble from now on. But, the traffic laws are going to be more strictly enforced as time elapses, and if necessary, fines will be added to gentle reprimands until all are convinced the rules and regulations in Saline must be observed.—Observer.

UNDERTAKERS KEPT BUSY—The world's death rate is estimated at 68 a minute, 97,920 a day, or 35,740,800 a year.

EXPLICIT—A man who went to register just before election was asked his trade. "Mason and builder," he replied. The next man in line was an old fisherman. When the question was put to him he said: "Knight of Columbus and brick-layer."—The Christian Register.

BIG COMPANY HELPS LOCAL MERCHANTS KEEP BUSINESS AT HOME—How one of the largest manufacturing concerns in the country cooperates with their dealers to keep local business in the hands of local concerns, was interestingly brought out in a talk with one of our leading tire merchants last week.

There are several reasons, aside from the very good point of keeping home money at home, why our own local tire stores are the logical place to buy tires rather than the mail-order houses. Tires need looking after by an experienced tire man. He must have a well equipped and well stocked shop and be able to tell whether a tire is doing its work properly, and if not, why not.

For instance, an expert tire man can tell whether tires are wearing unduly because of the wheels being out of alignment and can correct the trouble in time. If improperly equalized brakes are causing tire wear, the tire man can tell that and warn the owner. This sort of service you cannot expect when you buy tires from mail order houses.

The United States Rubber Company started eleven years ago to educate people to their interest in supporting the legitimate home town tire dealer. In addition to running its own educational campaign in local papers without interruption for eleven consecutive years, the company encourages the dealer to supplement it with advertising of his own and helps him do it. Under certain conditions it even shares the expense of the dealer's own advertising. Recent improvements in production methods now enable the United States Rubber Company to market, through the local dealers, tires of known quality, bearing the company's trade mark and full warranty, for as little money or even less than the cost of mail order tires of off-brand tires of uncertain value.

Ancient British Pastimes—With the exception of archery, lawn bowling is the oldest British outdoor pastime and has been traced to the Thirteenth century.

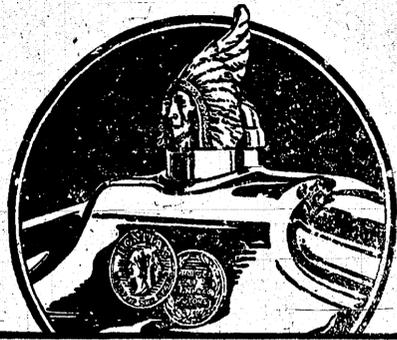

Our Merchant Marine—All the merchant vessels owned in America taken together are spoken of as our merchant marine. The term is general. It includes both publicly and privately owned ships. American-owned vessels which sail under foreign flags would be classed as part of our merchant marine.—Pathfinder Magazine.

A Small, Desirable Community---Less Than 300 Lots at Inverness Country Club

This is a small and restricted community of summer homes, that's one of the reasons why Inverness Golf and Country Club, located on the shores of North Lake, are so popular. Here the entire family will find rest and recreation—safety for the children, peace and comfort for the grown-ups, missing all the objectionable features of the average summer colony.

All forms of summer sports are possible here. There's fishing, swimming and boating for those who enjoy the water. Now playing 6 holes of the nine-hole golf course. A 12-room club-house, which the members of the community will own, is already on the property. You'll be as enthusiastic as those who have already purchased here, when you see this community. A membership in the Club goes with every lot.

In country driving keep at least 200 feet from car ahead if possible to do so. Don't try to pass a group of cars unless you watch sharp and use a horn with a loud voice. Give yourself a full 80 rods leeway before oncoming traffic. When meeting a group of oncoming cars, cut down to 25 miles and keep your eye skinned against the fellow who may be trying to pass the bunch on his side of the road. Practice driving close to the right on paved roads. Don't hug the center—nor your lady friend.

Marathon

A FEW years ago a young Canadian achieved fame by running from Marathon to Athens, and winning the classic "Marathon Race." But not every one knows why that race is classic and how and when it was first run.

One September morning in 490 B. C., 11,000 heavily armed men lined the crescent-shaped foothills of Mount Pentelion, overlooking the sea. Between hills and sea lay the plain of Marathon, six miles long and two in width. This plain, to seaward, was alive with a carnival of barbaric color. One hundred and ten thousand Persians were encamped there, while the six miles of beach and harbor were choked with their warships. They were invading Greece, and the only obstacle to their triumphant progress was that handful of Athenians on the hills, just one-tenth the size of the Persian force.

Greece, in those days, was made up of a number of small states, more or less independent of each other. Athens was not only a city, but a state, and represented the highest form of democracy the world had then known. It was divided into ten communities or districts, each ruled by the people, and each furnishing a general for the army. Each of these generals was in full command for only one day at a time.

Persia was then the strongest despotism on earth. Vast in wealth and resources, it was ruled by an emperor, Darius I, who reigned with absolute sway. Athens, Sparta and one or two other Greek states alone refused him submission. Hence, according to the imperial will, Athens and the other rebels must be crushed. A fleet of 1,200 ships, bearing 110,000 Persian fighting men had landed at Marathon, less than thirty miles to the northeast of the Athenian capital. Thither, to oppose the invasion, the ten Athenian generals hurried all the men that could be mustered at such short notice. Miltiades was Greece's greatest soldier, and the other generals wisely surrendered their "days of command" to him.

The fate of the world hung in the balance. Greece represented all that was highest in art, culture, government and civilization; Persia, all that was barbaric, despotic, non-progressive. A Persian victory must mean a setback of centuries in progress.

While the Persians waited, lazily considering the easiest means to attack their puny foe, they were dumbfounded to see the 11,000 Greeks, rush at full speed down the slopes and into the plain. Spread out in a thin line, so that they could not be outflanked, and shouting their wild battle hymn, the heavily armed Greeks—athletes all—ran furiously across the mile of level ground at the base of the mountain and hurled themselves on their unprepared enemies. Through the looser, more lightly equipped Persian lines—the two Athenian wings bored their way. The Greek center alone gave back before superior numbers. The wings then whirled and, reinforcing the center, again drove through the Persian ranks. The invaders, panic-stricken, fled to their ships. And there, in the confusion of embarking, a second and fiercer fight waged. The Persians got to sea at last, leaving more than 6,000 dead and seven captured Greeks in the victors' hands. The Greek loss was but 192.

Fearing lest the baffled foe might sail to the harbor of Athens and take the city unawares, Miltiades sent a swift runner to hear a warning and the news of the victory. Thus was the first "stratagem" a race run. Thus too—against odds of ten to one—was civilization saved.

Ten years later Xerxes, son of Darius, sought to wipe out his father's disgrace by invading Greece with an army of more than a million men. As the mighty host lay encamped before him the Persian monarch wept aloud at the thought that within a century the entire million or more would be dead. Eight hundred Persian warships entered the Gulf of Salamis. There they were attacked and routed by a far smaller Greek squadron.

A mighty land force of Persians, meantime, had invaded Greece, conquering, burning and slaying as they advanced. The only road from southern to northern Greece lay through a narrow pass, Thermopylae by name, between a steep mountain and a marsh. Here the Spartan king, Leonidas, gathered about 5,000 men from Sparta and other Greek states to block the invaders' way. For two long days the Persians hurled their vast legions against the dauntless 5,000. On the third day, through a traitor's secret road over the mountain was revealed to them and over this they marched an army to hear in the Greeks on both sides. The defenders, hearing of the approach of this flanking party, for the most part fled. But Leonidas, with 700 Spartans stood his ground. Though they could no longer check the invasion, they could and did oppose it. All save one or two lay dead. It was one of the most heroic defenses in history, and the names of the men who thus died were immortalized throughout all Greece, while the survivors were treated with contempt and their relatives went into mourning for their shame.

In this way, more than 2,000 years ago, Democracy defied Despotism.

CORN BORER INFESTATION SAID TO BE SPREADING

Recent examinations of infested corn fields in the eastern and southeastern part of Washtenaw county shows the seriousness of the spread of the European Corn Borer. Already government scouts have found the borer in fields as far west as Kalamazoo county. The spread south and west this year surprised government officials. The widespread infestation south and west is attributed to favorable weather conditions at the time of the flight of the moth early this summer. County Agent Osler reports that it is not an uncommon thing to find stalks with three to five worms, in many sections of the eastern and southeastern part of the county. If the infestation continues at this rate for another year or two the corn crop will be seriously injured in this county. At present no successful control measures have been found. The practice of picking ears from stalk and hogging down should be discontinued.

PRIMARY ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that a General Primary Election will be held in the Township of Sylvan, Prec. Nos. 1 and 2, County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan, at the Town Hall, Chelsea, Mich., within said Township, on TUESDAY, SEPT. 14, A. D. 1926, for the purpose of placing in nomination by all political parties participating therein, candidates for the following offices, viz:

State—One candidate for Governor; one candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

Congressional—One candidate for Representative in Congress for the Congressional district of which said Township forms a part.

Legislative—One candidate for Senator in the State Legislature for the Senatorial District of which said Township forms a part; one candidate for Representative in the State Legislature for the Legislative district of which said Township forms a part.

County—Also candidates for the following county offices, viz: Sheriff, County Clerk, County Treasurer, Register of Deeds, Prosecuting Attorney, 2 Circuit Court Commissioners, one County Drain Commissioner, one surveyor, two coroners.

Delegates to County Conventions—

There shall also be elected at said Primary, by direct vote of the registered and qualified voters of each political party in each county, as many delegates in each township, ward or precinct, as the case may be, as such political party in such township ward or precinct shall be entitled to by the call issued by the county committee of such political party for the county convention thereafter to be held by such political party within said county in that year for the purpose of electing delegates to the state convention called for the purpose of nominating candidates for state offices. In case of any vacancy in any delegation from any election precinct, township or ward, to the county convention, such vacancy shall be filled by the delegates present from the ward or township in which the vacancy occurs.

The state central committee of each political party shall, at least thirty days before the September primary herein provided for, cause to be forwarded by mail to the chairman of the county committee of such party a copy of the call for the Fall state convention showing the number of delegates to which such county shall be entitled in the state convention of such party; and the said state committee shall apportion such delegates to the several counties in proportion and according to the number of votes cast for the candidate of such party for secretary of state in each of said counties, respectively, at the last preceding November election.

The name of the candidate for delegate to the county convention and primary election ballot, but one or shall not be printed upon the official more such names may be placed on such ballot by printed or written slips pasted thereon by the voter, or the names may be written in by the voter.

Delegates to the Fall county convention shall be elected by election precincts and the county clerk shall notify by mail each person elected as such delegate.

The required number of electors to receive the highest number of votes for delegates to the Fall county convention of any political party shall be declared by the board of election inspectors to be elected.

The board of primary election inspectors shall certify to the county clerk the names of the electors elected as delegates, naming the political party upon whose ballots such electors were elected. The county clerk shall notify each delegate so elected of his election as such delegate, and shall certify to the chairman of the county committee of each political party of the county, the delegates elected by such political party as delegates to the fall county convention.

Suggestions Relative to Voting—Separate ballots for each political party will be provided. The elector must name the political party of his choice when asking for a ballot and in marking his ballot must make a cross in the square to the left of the name of each candidate for whom he desires to vote, and can vote for only one candidate except where two or more candidates are to be nominated in which case he should vote for two or the number to be nominated.

The Polls of said election will be open at 7 o'clock a. m. and will remain open until 5 o'clock p. m. of said day of election, unless the Board of Election Inspectors shall, in their discretion, adjourn the Polls at 12 o'clock noon, for one hour. Dated August 20, A. D. 1926. GEO. S. DAVIS used unless all stalks left in field are destroyed. Early cutting and putting in silo should be practiced. Corn should be cut as low as possible. It is advisable for best control measures to fall plow corn stubbles.

MUST CLEAN SPORTS FROM KIDNEY BEANS

That Michigan farmers who are producing kidney beans this year must clean out all sports from their fields if they are to be insured best marketing opportunities, is the warning being sent out by H. R. Pettigrove, crops department of Michigan State College.

"Many kidney bean fields in Michigan have been found to be severely contaminated during the past year or two, while practically all fields have shown the presence of some of the sports," says Mr. Pettigrove. "The sport is a bean which produces a long, vine-like plant and is very prolific. It is easily distinguished in the field from the bush type kidney bean plant."

"It is important this year that farmers go through their fields and remove all plants which have a foreign look or are of foreign nature to the kidney bean itself. A day or so in the field will make sure that all beans are pulled which do not belong there."

"Farmers who have had severe contaminations in the past have found it a bit hard to market their beans, because of the presence of the sport. The canners object to it because the sport fades out during the process of canning. The housewife objects for the same reason."

"With the large amount of disease which is coming into the bean fields at the present time, all precautions should be taken to insure a better product for the market this fall."

PROVE FERTILIZER RETURNS PROFIT

Fertilizing for wheat and rye has proven profitable on numerous cooperative fertilizer trials conducted by the soils department at M. S. C., as well as on long time experiments on permanent fields at the college farms. "It is no longer necessary for the farmer to debate the value of fertilizer," says O. B. Price, extension specialist in soils. "The question to consider is the proper analysis of fertilizers to be used under different conditions and different systems of farming and soil management."

"The phosphoric acid content of fertilizers for wheat and rye," says Mr. Price, "should be high. On many of the heavy soils, acid-phosphate alone is the most profitable. On the more sandy types, a complete fertilizer should be used unless heavy applications of manure are made as a top dressing. Where manure is used on sandy loams, acid phosphate alone is usually sufficient."

"High analysis fertilizers, 2-16-2, or 2-12-2, have given the best results for wheat and rye. Where these crops are to be used as a nurse crop for alfalfa or sweet clover, 2-12-6 should be used instead. The rate of application should range from 300 to 250 pounds per acre. In the spring of the year, an application of from 75 to 100 pounds per acre of sulphate of ammonia or nitrate of soda can often be profitably used, especially if the spring is cold and wet."

"An application of lime is very often directly beneficial to wheat. Rye does not respond much. If the soil is acid, however, it is well to lime first in order to make the fertilizers more available to the growing crop. In many sections of the state, poor results from fertilizers are obtained on wheat because the soil was very strongly acid and low in organic matter."

PONTIAC SIX AGAIN COMES OUT IN FRONT

The stamina of the Pontiac Six has again been demonstrated through the recent establishment of three successive records on long endurance runs in the west.

The latest achievement is a new record for the 1,070 miles round trip between Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and San Antonio, Texas. The trip was made in the last running time of 22 hours, 21 minutes, an average of 47.87 miles per hour. The first half of the trip was made in 11 hours, 25 minutes, while the return journey required only 10 hours 56 minutes.

The car was piloted by Leo Rice for the Hogle Motor Company of Oklahoma City. His time was checked by Western Union officials at both cities and by Guy Webb, a newspaper observer from Oklahoma City.

The trip, much of it over hilly country and muddy roads, was made under exceptionally unfavorable weather conditions including a strong head wind during the entire run. San Antonio. The difference of 20 minutes in the time recorded for the two legs of the trip is attributed principally to the wind conditions. This record followed closely the establishment of two other records by Reeve Gartzman, Oakland-Pontiac dealer at Los Angeles.

In the first of Mr. Gartzman's two runs, a Pontiac Six coach made the 1,836 mile round trip over the deserts and mountains between Los Angeles and Albuquerque, N. M., at a new record speed of 30.02 miles per hour, lowering the best previous time by 56 minutes.

Mr. Gartzman then clipped five hours and 50 minutes from the record between Los Angeles and El Paso, Texas, a distance of 993 miles, the average speed being 46.61 miles per hour. His time of 21 hours 18 minutes beat the schedule of the Golden State Limited by two hours two minutes.

The cars finished all three of the record runs in perfect mechanical condition.

THE WORLD'S GREAT EVENTS

ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE
(By Dodd, Mead & Company.)

Hannibal

A LITTLE boy, nine years old, stood one day in 238 B. C. and, at his father's dictation, swore a solemn oath that he would be destined to change the fortunes of the world and to cost a half million lives.

The boy was Hannibal, one of the greatest military geniuses of history. His father, Hamilcar, was a famous Carthaginian general. His three fierce sons were known as "the Lion's Brood." Carthage, a sovereign city, whose domains extended for hundreds of miles, was situated on the north coast of Africa, near modern Tunis. It was settled by Phoenicians and rose to pre-eminent commercial and educational greatness. In 246 B. C. Carthage clashed with Rome over the possession of Sicily. This is known as the First Punic or (Phoenician) war. Rome won.

Hannibal made his nine-year-old son, Hannibal, swear eternal enmity to Rome; then took him on a campaign against Spain. The boy grew up in camps and, at the age of twenty-six, was made commander-in-chief of the Carthaginian armies. His first act of power was to set about fulfilling his childish oath. With this in view he completed the conquest of Spain, meaning to use that country as a base of supplies in his proposed war with Rome.

He then picked a quarrel with Rome's allies at Saguntum and stormed their city. This brought forth a prompt protest from the Romans, and in 219 B. C. the Second Punic war was on. The next spring Hannibal crossed the Pyrenees with 12,000 men and 37 war elephants, sweeping all hostile tribes before him like chaff. Before reaching what is now France, on his march to Italy, Hannibal weeded out his ranks, sending back all except the bravest, hardest men. This cut down his former vast army to less than 30,000. But he knew that in such a campaign as he planned it was quality, not quantity, that counted. He crossed the Rhone, eluding the Roman army sent to stop him, and reached the Alps. The passage of this range of mountains involved tremendous work. The track was impassable for his elephants, and the snows and bitter cold chilled his Africans and Spaniards to the bone. He cleared a road, blasting rocks. It is said, with a preparation of vinegar, and transported his whole army over into northern Italy in 16 days.

Publius Scipio, the Roman consul, again barred his way, but was badly beaten in a battle near Verceil. At this conflict the consul's seventeen-year-old son, later known to history as "Scipio Africanus," fought his first battle. The Romans, reinforced to 40,000, again attacked Hannibal and again were beaten. The Carthaginian, in the spring of 217 B. C., lured a great Roman army into a trap in a mountain defile near Lake Trasimene and mastered them. Rome, agast at the invader's progress, chose Fabius Maximus, nicknamed "the Delayer," for general-in-chief. Fabius would risk no general engagement with his terrible foe, but pursued a course of most tactically that has since become known in warfare as "Fabian tactics."

After wasting northern Italy Hannibal the following spring encountered a Roman army, 80,000 strong—far larger than his own near Cannae and literally cut it to pieces. Onward towards the city of Rome itself Hannibal advanced. Nons dared to oppose him. He held Rome and all Italy in the hollow of his hand. The road to Rome was clear. But, instead of continuing to the city itself, he foolishly went into winter quarters at Capua. When spring came, Hannibal's great chance was gone. Rome was ready for him. His once invincible army was now a disolute, overfed horde.

True, for years later he ravaged Italy, once encamping within three miles of Rome and sending his skirmishing parties up to the very gates of the city. But never again did he succeed in placing the enemy wholly at his mercy. His star was on the decline. Yet even then no Roman general dared attack him, for in all his 15 years of invasion he was never personally defeated in battle. The younger Scipio hit on a plan to rid Italy of the terrible foe. He crossed with an army into Carthaginian territory, thus carrying the war into Africa. Carthage, being menaced, sent in haste for Hannibal to protect his home city, and he left Italy never to return. Hannibal, with an inferior force, met Scipio at Zama, Africa, and for the first time in his life was beaten. This defeat ended the Second Punic war. Carthage was, for the time, crushed.

Hannibal turned his attention to statesmanship, with such success that within a very few years he had built up Carthage's shattered finances and power. Rome, still dreading him, demanded his surrender. Sooner than move his country in another war Hannibal voluntarily went into exile. But wherever he went Rome's hatred pursued him.

At last, brought to bay and knowing what treatment he might expect from the relentless Romans, Hannibal took poison from a ring he always wore, and once more fled his lifelong foes by dying before they could capture him.

Mersey Cut No Figure in Old-Time Justice

The torturing of criminals on "the wheel" is a very ancient form of punishment. In an "improved" form it was revived in Germany in the fourteenth century. The unfortunate victim was laid upon a very large cart wheel, his legs and arms extended and fastened to the spokes, and in that position, as the wheel was turned around, his limbs were broken by successive blows with an iron bar. In France, where the wheel was used only to punish criminals of the most atrocious sort, the victim was first bound to a frame of wood in the form of a St. Andrew's cross—that is, two bars of equal length laid crosswise like an X. Grooves were cut transversely in the bars, above and below the knees and elbows, and the executioner struck the limbs of the victim three blows so as to break them in these places. Sometimes he finished his work by striking the criminal two or three blows on the chest or stomach, which usually put an end to the sufferer's life, and therefore were called blows of mercy. The punishment of the wheel was abolished in France at the revolution. In Germany it was occasionally inflicted early in the last century for the crimes of treason and parricide.

Foolish Beliefs Not Confined to Sailors

In defense of the supposedly superstitious fisherman, Lorenzo Sabine, in 1853, in an article on the American fisherman, wrote:

"It is said that he is credulous and superstitious. Admit that Kidd's money has been dug for in every dark nook of the coast, or talked about in every cuddy for a century and a half, and that horsehoes are nailed upon the masts of fishing vessels to keep off witches; what then? Is he the only one who has been or still is guilty of the same follies?"

"In 1825 the duchess de Berri visited a watering place in France and indulged in sea bathing. Salt water and fish which were afterward taken from the spot were articles of immense value and sold at enormous prices. Indeed, those persons who could not purchase a whole fish gladly possessed themselves of a few scales or a fin! The water where the 'royal person' had been washed, when bottled and offered for sale, was known as 'Berri wine.' Have fishermen committed greater follies than these fashionable people of France?"

Good for Lorenzo! Today horsehoes are so scarce that fishermen no longer nail them to the masts of their schooners to keep off witches, although they do hang used automobile casings over the side to keep off other craft that might rub their planking.

MICKIE SAYS—

WE HATE TO APPEAR UNSOCIAL, BUT A BIZZY NEWSPAPER OFFICE IS NO PLACE TO LOAF. WE LIKE CALLERS, BUT FOR THE CHRONIC COMPANY THAT MESSES UP THE EXCHANGES AND GETS IN THE ROAD, WE HIGHLY RECOMMEND THE PUBLIC PARK AND THE WAITING ROOM AT THE DEPOT.

Odd Masks Worn at Festivals for Dead

One of the queer and interesting customs of the Melanesians, dark-skinned inhabitants of the South Sea Islands, is the festival in honor of their dead. At their festivals masks of grotesque appearance play an important part, says the Detroit News.

A collection of such masks has been made for the American Museum of Natural History. One of them resembles a crested helmet. Masks of this type, it is said, must be carved in secret and presented to the public view only during the funeral ceremonies. The crest of the mask represents an earlier custom of hairdress of the natives when they were in mourning. In the early days they shaved their heads on such occasions, leaving only a single ridge of hair.

One particular type has long, wangle processes. The face is carved from wood and the fibrous parts of plants are used in working out the other parts of the head. With such masks bark is used as a covering for the neck. Masks from the Grenade peninsula, New Britain, are made from the facial bones of skulls. The flesh is removed and replaced by sticky lumps of earth.

Early Newspapers Met Opposition of Church

The first newspaper was produced when written accounts of the imperial armies of Rome were sent to the generals in command in all parts of the provinces.

In 1568 the first official news sheets were published in Venice. They were written by hand and exhibited in public places. People paid the small coin of a gazetta to read them. Hence the name. The church opposed the enterprise, and Pope Gregory even prosecuted the editors.

The oldest form of newspaper in England was in the beginning of the reign of James II—the so-called Newsletters, written by hand, and sent by post to subscribers in the country. In 1709 the first daily paper, the Daily Courant, was issued.

The oldest of the London daily papers, the Morning Chronicle, appeared in 1768. The Morning Post is the oldest of existing morning papers. Founded in 1772, it was followed about 1788 by the first daily evening paper, the Star.

The Times first appeared in 1788 as a continuation of the Daily Universal Register. Its originator and owner, Mr. John Walter, succeeded in 1814 in printing the Times by steam.

In 1845 the Daily News was founded with the help of Charles Dickens. It was the first paper to lower its price from 6 pence to 3 pence, (12 to 6 cents).

Will It Come to This?

Mistress of House (to prospective new maid)—I think you'll do, and I'll engage you.

Maid—Yessum. But dey's jes' one mouh thing Ah wants to make shuah of. Is dey anyone in de house who's learnin' de saxophone?

Mistress—Oh, yes; we are a very musical family and my husband and the two boys are taking up that instrument.

Maid—Den it's all off. Ah can't stay.

Mistress—What! Don't you like music?

Maid—Oh, yes; Ah likes music all right. Dat's jes' it. I've learnin' de saxophone mahself, soze Ah kin play in de lodge band, an' it busts me all up to have othas in de house practicing all de time. Ah busts to have it quiet where Ah practices.

Dickens' Clock

Charles Dickens once wrote to his clockmaker as follows, says the Scientific Monthly:

"Since my hall clock was sent to your establishment to be cleaned it has gone (as indeed it always had) perfectly well, but has struck the hours with great reluctance, and after enduring internal agonies of a most distressing nature, it now has ceased striking altogether. Though a happy release for the clock, this is not convenient for the household. If you can, send down any confidential person with whom the clock can confer. I think it may have something on its works that it would be glad to make a clean breast of."

"Dyed in the Wool"

Dyeing woollens is done in three ways—in the wool, in the thread after it is spun, or in the piece after it is woven. To say that a man is "dyed in the wool" therefore, means that he acquired his character of his talk or

Exposure a Factor for Window Plants

Results in window boxes are largely dependent upon the right flowers for the exposure. It is not possible to have window boxes at every window identical with those at every other window if the exposure is different, but they may harmonize.

For sunny locations use hasturiums, verbena, sweet alyssum, petunia, pansy, cornflower, snapdragon and marigolds; for shady places, nonflowering plants—the ferns, palms, English ivy, begonia, trailing vinovinus, asparagus sprenger. Drooping effects may be had from lobelia, sweet alyssum and others. For half shady windows, hanging fuselia with bush fuselia, or bush fuselia with marigolds and vincas or hanging petunia, white marigolds and vincas can be combined. Verbenas may be planted alone as they form a luxuriant mass of bloom and foliage. Fuschias and sweet alyssum are a delightful combination.

Geraniums and English ivy are formal and go well in a formal house or along a dusty street which would thwart the growth of something more delicate. Any effective results may be had by training ivy upon a heavy cord to frame the window.—The Delinquent.

Wives and Coal

It is not cruelty for a wife to be forced to light the furnace fire and carry coal, if she is physically fit. This from a ruling of an eastern divorce judge. Which makes it hard on the married girls who have taught the husband class that no one but a brute makes a wife tend the furnace.

Venerable English Oak

The "Major Oak" is perhaps the most impressive tree in England. Its age must exceed a thousand years; five feet up the trunk it measures thirty feet in circumference and the circumference of the spread of its great branches is 270 feet. In the spring it puts forth its leaves with the freshness of a sapling, yet it has probably been hollow for centuries.

Midnight Sun to Be Seen Only in Summer

The midnight sun is visible within the Arctic circle at and near midsummer. The sun is then observed to skirt the horizon without dipping below it. This results from the inclination of the earth's axis to the plane of its orbit. The elevation of the pole at any given spot is equal to the latitude of that spot; and the sun's day being 66 2/3 degrees, the sun can barely graze the horizon. Still further north the midnight sun is observed for some days before and after midsummer; and at the pole itself a day of six months begins at the spring equinox, the sun circling at first round the rim of the horizon, then in gradually more elevated circles parallel to it. At the North Cape, latitude 71 1/2 degrees north, the midnight sun is visible from May 12 to July 29. At no place in England has the sun been visible at

PRIMARY ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that a General Primary Election will be held in the Township of Lima, County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan, at the Lima Town Hall, within said township, on TUESDAY, SEPT. 14, A. D. 1926, for the purpose of placing in nomination by all political parties participating therein, candidates for the following offices, viz:

State—One candidate for Governor, one candidate for Lieut. Governor.

Congressional—One candidate for Representative in Congress for the Congressional district of which said Township forms a part.

Legislative—One candidate for Senator in the State Legislature for the Senatorial District of which said Township forms a part; one candidate for Representative in the State Legislature for the Legislative district of which said Township forms a part.

County—Also candidates for the following county offices, viz: Sheriff, County Clerk, County Treasurer, Register of Deeds, Prosecuting Attorney, County Drain Commissioner, one surveyor, two coroners.

Delegates to County Conventions—There shall also be elected at said primary, by direct vote of the registered and qualified voters of each political party in each county, as many delegates in each township, ward or precinct, as the case may be, as such political party in such township, ward or precinct shall be entitled to by the call issued by the county committee of such political party for the county convention thereafter to be held by such political party within said county in that year for the purpose of electing delegates to the state convention called for the purpose of nominating candidates for state offices, to be voted for at the November election. In case of any vacancy in any delegation from any election precinct, township or ward, to the county convention, such vacancy shall be filled by the delegates present from the ward or township in which the vacancy occurs.

The state central committee of each political party shall, at least thirty days before the September primary herein provided for, cause to be forwarded by mail to the chairman of the county committee of such party a copy of the call for the Fall state convention showing the number of delegates to which such county shall be entitled in the state convention of such party; and the said state central committee shall apportion such delegates to the several counties in proportion and according to the number of votes cast for the candidate of such party for secretary of state in each of said counties, respectively, at the last preceding November election.

The name of the candidate for delegate to the county convention shall not be printed upon the official primary election ballot, but one or more such names may be placed on such ballot by printed or written slips pasted thereon by the voter, or the names may be written in by the voter.

Delegates to the Fall county convention shall be elected by election precincts and the county clerk shall notify by mail each person elected as such delegate.

The required number of electors to receive the highest number of votes for delegates to the Fall county convention of any political party shall be declared by the board of primary election inspectors to be elected.

The board of primary election inspectors shall certify to the county clerk the names of the electors so elected, as delegates, naming the political party upon whose ballots such electors were elected. The county clerk shall notify each delegate so elected of his election as such delegate, and shall certify to the chairman of the county committee of each political party of the county, the delegates elected by such political party as delegates to the fall county convention.

Suggestions Relative to Voting—Separate Ballots for each political party will be provided. The elector must name the political party of his choice when asking for a ballot and in marking his ballot must make a cross in the square to the left of the name of each candidate for whom he desires to vote, and can vote for only one candidate except where two or more candidates are to be nominated in which case he should vote for two or the number to be nominated.

Notice Relative to Opening and Closing of the Polls. Act 361—Part IV—Chapter VIII, Public Acts of 1925, Sec. 1. On the day of any election the polls shall be opened at seven o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as may be, and shall be continued open until five o'clock in the afternoon and no longer. Provided, That in townships the board of inspectors of election may, in its discretion, adjourn the polls at twelve o'clock noon, for one hour, and that the township board in townships and the legislative body in cities and villages may, by resolution adopted fifteen days prior to the election and published with the notice of the election, provide that the polls shall be opened at six o'clock in the forenoon and may also provide that the polls shall be kept open not later than eight o'clock in the evening of the same day.

The Polls of said election will be open at 7 o'clock a. m. and will remain open until 5 o'clock p. m. of said day of election, unless the Board of Election Inspectors shall, in their discretion, adjourn the Polls at 12 o'clock noon, for one hour.
