ST. PAUL'S LADIES' AID CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

Rev. C. Haag, Superintendent of the Deaconess Hospital of Detroit, Preaches Sermon.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's church celebrated the 40th anniversary of its organization on Sunday, May 8th in connection with Mother's Day at the morning service.

The church was appropriately decorated with palms and cut flowers. The Aid assembled at the schoolhouse in the rear of the church and marched in a body into the church, fifty-four members being present.

The services were opened by the pastor, Rev. P. H. Grabowski, followed by a song by the Ladies Aid, after which a report of the society was read by the president, Mrs. Louis Eppler. A ladies' quartet composed of the Misses Amanda Koch, Dorothy Weinman, Evelyn Bohner and Helen Lambert sang a song appropriate for Mother's Day.

The sermon was delivered by Rev. C. Haag, Supt. of the Deaconess hospital at Detroit, a former pastor of the church. He called attention to the fact that many a church would not exist today if it were not for the Ladies' Aid Societies, and that women in many respects were far superior to men. What we need most today is the "Old Fashioned Mothers," not in clothes but in home-making and the rearing of children, mothers should not neglect their homes in order to become popular in society. He praised the Aid for the work they had done in the past and while he was here as pastor, and hoped they would continue as in the past. He took for his text, Genesis 2nd Chap., 18th verse: "And the Lord God said, It is not good that man should be alone, I will make him an help meet for him."

Vocal solo "Mother, O My Mother," by Miss Dorothy Weinman. The services were conducted in the German language. The Ladies' Aid Society was organized May 14, 1887 at the parsonage, Rev. G. Robertus being the pastor. Eleven members were present. Mrs. George Mast of Chelsea and Mrs. M. J. Lehman of Ann Arbor are the only surviving charter members. At this meeting Mrs. George Mast was elected president and Mrs. J. G. Wackenhut and Mrs. M. J. Lehman held the other offices. The motto which the pastor gave to the ladies was: "Wenn es mit Gott an gefangen ist, so wird es bestehen, wenn nicht so wird es untergehen." Meaning that if it is started for God's purpose it would continue, if not it would fail.

It surely was started for God's purpose, with the little band of eleven members it has grown to number eighty-one. At one time the society numbered ninety-nine members, several having moved away and death claiming many old members as well as young. The motto of the former active workers from the society, in 1920 the society gave a fair, the proceeds of which they received, they paid the remainder of the debt on the first little church. In 1891-92 they started a building fund for a new church, the old one being far too small. In 1892 the present church was built by the help of the Ladies' Aid, the church costing the sum of $2,525. Mrs. Fredericka Dettling donated the bell, which cost $150.00 and Mrs. John Bagge gave the church a new Bible to replace the old one which was badly worn.

During the forty years, the society has taken in $16,945, most of the money having been used for building and remodeling the church, parsonage and schoolhouse, and in former days they even helped to pay the pastor's salary, for home and foreign mission and various other religious purposes. They have a balance in their treasury today of $2,200. The following are the newly elected officers: President—Mrs. Louis Eppler. Vice president—Mrs. Oscar Schneider. Secretary—Mrs. Fred Seitz. Asst. Secretary—Mrs. Julius Stricker. Treasurer—Mrs. Philip Seitz, Jr. Chairman of the Flower Committee—Mrs. E. Bahnmiller. Chairman of the Mission Committee—Mrs. Tom Vail.

The following were the pastors during the forty years:

Rev. G. Robertus, Rev. C. Haag, Rev. G. Eisen, Rev. L. Koebing, Rev. A. Schoen, Rev. G. Krause and Rev. P. H. Grabowski.

To the Ladies' Aid who never shirked, who gave them the credit of our church work.

Written by Lillian Mackonhnut, whose mother was a charter member of the Ladies' Aid.

CLOVERLEAF TRUCK BURNED FOLLOWING GAS EXPLOSION

Telephone Pole and Wires Destroyed in Monday Morning Blaze Along U. S. 12 Highway.

The Cloverleaf Motor Transportation Co. had one of their trucks totally destroyed by fire Monday forenoon on U.S. 12 between the Riggs and Schenk farms in Sylvan. The truck was driven by Joseph Mercer of Detroit, and he discovered that his truck was on fire when the cab became filled with smoke. The driver was unable to determine the cause of the blaze.

The truck was laden with eight acetylene gas tanks, a quantity of turpentine and other merchandise which was consumed by the blaze. Mercer disconnected two trailers loaded with merchandise, drove the truck to the roadside and abandoned it shortly before one of the acetylene tanks let go.

The turpentine scattered by the exploding acetylene gas tanks, set fire to the cross arms of the telephone pole carrying 33 phone circuits and soon cut off communication with the east, so that all business from the west had to be re-routed.

The contents of Mercer's truck, together with the machine were lost, but the amount of the loss has not yet been determined. A telephone repair crew was sent out from Jackson but because of the heat, were unable to do any work toward repairing the line for some time.

RED CROSS WILL ASK FUNDS FOR FLOOD DISTRICT

The local chapter of the Red Cross on Saturday will ask funds to help meet this chapter's quota toward relief of sufferers in the flood district of the lower Mississippi valley. Campaign stations will be established at both the Kemf Commercial and Savings Bank and at the Farmers and Merchants Bank, as well as at the postoffice.

No previous requests for funds for the flood sufferers have been made of Chelsea and vicinity, so that a liberal amount is being expected as the date for the campaign nears. At a recent meeting of the Kiwanis club a sum of $50.00 was voted to be paid into the local fund for this purpose and it is believed this will be considerably increased Saturday.

ANN ARBOR DAIKRY INSTALS NEW REFRIGERATING PLANT

Adding to the efficiency of their plant and increasing their ability to care for a growing custom, the plant of the Ann Arbor Dairy Co., corner of South Main and Orchard streets, has just completed installation of one of the most modern refrigerating plants on the market. In connection with the refrigerating apparatus a considerable addition has been made to the cooling box, this being practically doubled in capacity, assuring customers of a more complete supply of the company's product at the local plant.

In principle the plant works similar to other cooling apparatus, converting of ammonia into gas which is pumped through cooling pipes so that heat is absorbed, and then compressing it back to liquid form, comprising the method of operation. A 15-horse power motor and twin pump furnished power for the plant. Western and Campbell Refrigerating Engineers of Chicago, Ill., installed the apparatus, which will cool to a temperature as low as 30 degrees below zero.

According to Clarence McBride, local manager of the company, business of the Dairy is on the increase, and improvements here are in anticipation of a heavy demand for the company's products with coming of warmer weather.

HUGE LOSS SUFFERED WHEN BARN ARE BURNED

$20,000 Loss Estimated Following Fire Saturday Night on Sharon Township Farm.

Damage estimated at $20,000 to $25,000 was caused by fire Saturday night on the Mortimer L. Raymond farm in Sharon, when four barns, four calves and a quantity of farm machinery was burned to the ground.

The fire started in a straw stack in the rear of the largest barn, and was discovered by Sydney Troltz, tenant on the place. About $8,000 worth of machinery and live stock was removed from the burning structures, while an equal amount of hay and grain was destroyed. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

The Jackson county fire truck was summoned, as well as the Grass Lake fire department, and saved the house and another barn and bucket brigades were put into action along with streams from the well, in order to keep the roofs safe from flying embers.

Two large barns and two smaller ones were directly in the path of the fire and were a mass of flames when firemen arrived. Neighbors and firemen managed to get the livestock out of the trap. Several residents of Chelsea, who were in the vicinity, assisted in the work of saving a portion of the machinery and live stock.

Fanned by a moderate wind, the blaze soon stood off the fire fighters, and proved a hopeless cause in a short time.

The Troltz family had just returned from Jackson, where they spent the day, and knew of no one to be at the place during their absence. Troltz estimated that the fire must have been started about the time they arrived home. He went to the barn soon after and heard the crackling of flames in the straw stack, and realized that the buildings were doomed to destruction. He extended his efforts to removing livestock and other equipment, while members of the family sought aid.

Heroes of the Industry

They don't wear flowing plumes in their hats, nor ride milk steeds with fittings of scarlet and gold, but they're heroes just the same. Many times in the "gas house" there are performed deeds of valor as noble as those of the Knights of King Arthur's Round Table. Each year at the national convention of the American Gas Association, the heroes of the gas industry are awarded medals of honor for saving lives. These are not the men who sit in the swivel chairs and do the brain work, but those who make the wheels go round, those upon whom the service really depends. One of the men who received this highest honor is recognized to have saved the city of Santa Barbara from the disastrous fire that usually follows in the wake of an earthquake. He acted in a great emergency with foresight, judgment, intelligence, at the risk of his own safety. And there were many others whose bravery and good judgment saved the lives of others.

It is fitting that the gas industry so fully dedicated to serve the public should be as concerned with the protection of customers as with their convenience. The readiness with which gas men respond to the call to save a life bespeaks more eloquently than words the spirit of the service.

A GOOD PLACE TO LIVE

Work for and with your home town. Beautify it. Improve it. Make it attractive. Help make it the kind of a town that you really want to live in. The best advertisement of your business is the town you live in if it's the kind of a town it should be.

Towns get reputations as well as men. Reputation makes reputation. Make your town's reputation one that will attract favorable attention. It will thus draw people and where people come there is prosperity.

Help rid Chelsea of "one eyesore after another. Clean up vacant lots, and plant them in gardens. Make a cluttered yard a disgrace and an unpainted house a reproach. Cut the weeds, clean the streets and fix the sidewalks. Wash the store windows and discountenance the glaring sale sign. Be fair to your public officials and pay your taxes without grumbling so that they may give the best service possible back to you.

Make public opinion too hot for those who knock, refuse to cooperate for general good and who will not help.

Our town should be one where folks are friendly, where progressiveness is appreciated, where good roads make it accessible, where proper sanitary methods are conducive to healthfulness, where attractiveness is considered an asset, where education fits for the future, where recreations are plentiful for all, where government is efficient and popular, where living conditions are good, where the helping hand is extended to the unfortunate, where employment is plentiful, where investments are sound, where intolerance is unknown, and church spires point the way to Heaven.

That's the kind of a home town we want!

DEADLY

Traffic accidents kill a few thousands of men, women and children annually, causing the setting up of extensive safeguards for the protection of human life.

A citizen is killed by assassins in a foreign land, and diplomatic relations between two nations are strained and the indignation of millions is aroused to the point of violent outbreak.

An epidemic of infantile paralysis breaks out with the resultant loss of life of several hundred children, and the nation organizes every resource to combat the disease.

But germ-carrying insects, which yearly cause the death of millions of human lives and destroy vast quantities of man's food supplies, attract the concern of one or two governmental departments, provoke an occasional "swat the fly" or "clean-up" campaign and disturb not the public's peace of mind. The mosquito and fly are the most destructive enemies of man. They convey to man malaria, sleeping sickness, cholera, typhoid and other deadly diseases. Other insects destroy wheat and cotton crops, murder man's livestock or contaminate food supplies. And the only defense the public makes against his most powerful and destructive enemies is to screen in his house and spray his fields and orchards.

STRAW HATS AND HISTORY

The shop windows will soon be blooming with straw hats of the masculine variety and there are many bold spirits who will have donned the sunny skimmers, defying good form and bad weather at the same time. May 15 is the zero hour for going over with a new topper, and perhaps the sennits and millans, Bangkoks and Panamas, will take on added significance if some of their history is recalled.

Straw hats have been generally used in the United States for only 60 years, but their history reaches far back into antiquity. Mercury, messenger of the gods, and himself something of a god in his own way, is always shown wearing the commonest sort of a straw hat. Praxiteles' statue of June, which dates back to 350 B. C., is crowned with a "stephanos" which is another name for a straw hat.

In more recent times investigators have discovered that Edmund Spenser, author of the "Faerie Queene," depicted in a regulation straw hat in Elizabethan days, and the eighteenth century poet, Thomas Gray, of the "Elegy," boasted that his straw topper was lined with green.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATIVE LETTER

May 6, 1927.

The end of the legislative session of 1927 is plainly visible, even to myopic eyes. When legislators are willing to start the week's business on Monday and to hold sessions on Saturday, it is because they want to get the business of the session finished and hike for home.

With no session Tuesday, because a large number of the legislators wanted to take in the blossom time festival at Benton Harbor and St. Joe, every other day of the week has seen the mills steadily grinding, with morning sessions the rule instead of the exception, and much work has been completed and sent to the executive for his approval.

The capital punishment bill is still a bone of contention between the two branches of the legislature. The bill, which has been the main topic of acrimonious debate during the entire session, was reported out by the Senate Judiciary committee, which had held it up for two months, but with a string of amendments hanging to it, in this form the Senate passed the bill Wednesday afternoon and the bill went to the House for concurrence in the amendments. This the House refused to do, the vote being unanimous, and the bill went back to the Senate, which has asked for a conference, committees for which have been appointed. The House contends that the people of the state want the legislature to settle the question instead of passing the buck back to the voters of the state, who elected the legislature, and that the two-year delay which would be required to put the law into effect through a referendum is unnecessary. That if capital punishment is needed it is needed right now, without unnecessary delay. Both houses are now awaiting the report of the conference committee, which is looked for early in the week.

The death of Senator George Defer of the First District, which occurred at the Hotel Downey Monday evening, cast an air of gloom over the Capitol this week. Both houses passed resolutions of respect and sympathy, while Capitol flags were at half-mast. The senator had been in poor health for some time, but was back at his desk

Monday, taking an active interest in legislative matters. That evening, in his room at the hotel, while conversing with friends, he suddenly collapsed and death was immediate.

Circuit court judges throughout the state are given an increase in pay of $1,500 per year under a bill which has passed both houses and is now awaiting the signature of Governor Green. This will make the salary paid by the state $7,500 per year, but the county boards of supervisors are authorized, as heretofore, to increase this by any amount they see fit.

The University of Michigan appropriation bills as passed by the Senate Wednesday closely approximate the amounts requested by President Little. The bill, which now goes to the House, provides for $4,160,000 for the building program for the ensuing two years. Included in this program is land for a woman's league building, sites and buildings for women's dormitories, a modern elementary school building, two additional stories for the nurses' building and a new wing for Angell Hall. The limitation of $3,700,000 of the mill tax was removed and the tax cut down from 6-tenths of a mill to five and five-tenths. It is estimated that this will raise an amount of four and a quarter millions for maintenance and operation.

The senate finance committee has reported out the bill providing for half a million for the proposed new tuberculosis hospital at Ann Arbor. This has already passed the House and if it goes through the Senate and is approved by the Governor both the Ann Arbor and the Howell institutions will be taken care of and each will receive $250,000 in addition from the appropriation made by the legislature of 1925.

The Horton bill, with its rough form, undressed, weighs about four pounds, passed the Senate Wednesday. It is a codification of the school laws of the state and has been in preparation for more than a year by the Department of Education, with Superintendent Coffey as its sponsor. It clarifies and untangles many mooted questions, repeals a number of obsolete provisions, but makes very few real changes in the school laws.

Governor Green vetoes the Kustion bill, providing more severe penalties for armed robbery. His reason for the veto was given as the whipping post amendment which was hung on it in the House on motion of Representative Chas. Culver. So Michigan is evidently not going to the whipping post this year, if the Governor can help it. Other measures also pending have had the whipping post clause added.

The administrative gas tax proposition, introduced in the Senate by Senator George Leland of Fenville, has finally been approved by the House, after a stormy session. As amended by the House, the cities will get $2,000 per mile for trunk-line maintenance, the counties will get $7,000,000 to be divided in proportion to their weight tax, and another million will be split equally among the 83 counties of the state. The farm bureau took out on their proposition of no raise in the gas tax unless there was a decrease in the weight tax, for which the bloc has persistently fought. The bill was defeated in the House last week, but was reconsidered and enough votes were rallied to carry it through, 65 to 28. The Senate has concurred in the House amendments and the bill is now in the hands of the Governor.

An effort was made in the Senate Wednesday morning to recall for reconsideration the deficiency bill passed by that body late last week and which is now in committee in the House, but the effort failed. Only seven votes could be mustered, so if the House passes the bill there will be the proposed addition of about four and a half millions to the general tax for the next two years, to make up an alleged deficit in state funds.

Everything possible has been pushed aside to make clear sailing for Governor Green's proposed new contract with the Grand Trunk, to take the place of the one made two years ago by the then Governor Groesbeck. The new contract will limit payments to the state by the Grand Trunk to 15 years instead of 30 and will that much sooner abrogate the special charter now held by the railroad and bring it under the same tax clause under which the other Michigan railroads are operated. The bill has passed the House, with but five dissenting votes, and little if any opposition to it is anticipated in the Senate.

Practically all of the routine appropriation bills are now out of the way and there seems little doubt of adjournment at the end of next week. Increases of salaries have marked legislation this week. The state boxing commissioner, Tom Biggers, got his boost to $5,000, while the secretary of the commission gets $3,000. The limit of bouts was also raised to 15 rounds. This proposition went through the House, despite rather bitter opposition. It now goes to the Senate.

The House also passed the Ming bill, previously defeated but brought up for reconsideration, whereby the director of conservation, the state health commissioner and the chairman of the securities commission each get a liberal boost. Total appropriations, either passed or now under consideration, are claimed to total in the neighborhood of $40,000,000. Michigan is getting to be a great state, sure enough.

Senator Pulver's so-called "smell" bill, which would have empowered search warrant for any place where odor of liquor in process of manufacture could be smelled, and which had passed both houses after warm fights, was vetoed by Governor Green, who said he thought the cause of prohibition would be harmed more than helped by the proposed law.

It is hoped that by the time of the dedication, the outside work on the grounds and lawn will be completed. This work has been delayed by the weather and men are already at work taking out the old buildings. Dr. W. D. Henderson, head of the Extension Department of the University of Michigan, will give the dedicatory address. Dr. Henderson has several times spoken before Milan audiences.—Leader.

Middle Ages Coinage
Mark was the name of a coin pretty general throughout Europe during the Middle ages. The unit of the present currency of Germany is called the mark. The old English mark was worth 13s 4d, that is $3.25; but in the Middle ages the purchasing power of money was fully three times that of today.

Good-Natured Men
Everybody can tell a good-natured man by looking into his face. So it is that the good-natured ones of the country are those who are most imposed upon, but as they bear it cheerfully, thereby clinching their claim to good nature, nobody, not even the good-natured ones, need complain.—Exchange.

Why Firestone GUM-DIPPED TIRES Wear Longer

WE recently were given the tremendous advantage of having the mammoth Firestone factories brought to us. In Tire Educational Meetings we were shown, by means of motion pictures, charts, tire samples and complete engineering data, the details of Firestone tire design and construction—and how Firestone and Oldfield tires and tubes are made in the world's most efficient and economical rubber factories.

Firestone pioneered the original low-pressure tire and made it practical by Gum-Dipping. The motion pictures showed us how the cords of the carcass are dipped in a rubber solution, thoroughly saturating and insulating every fiber of every cord with rubber. Simple demonstrations and tests illustrated the great advantage of this process, which supplies the extra strength to withstand the extra flexing strains of low-pressure construction—one of the reasons why Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are establishing such unheard-of mileage records.

We learned why the Firestone Balloon Tread gives extra safety, comfort and long wear. We were shown why Firestone, from the very beginning, designed and continue to use the Round Balloon Tread, minimizing "shoulder breaks," so destructive to tires. Excess rubber at the edges of a Balloon Tread is wasted—actually detrimental to tire mileage. In the Firestone Tread the small units and sharp projections are scientifically placed to permit easy flexing, resulting in extraordinary riding comfort.

Come in and let us put a set of these Gum-Dipped Tires on your car—you can forget about tire trouble. Quality is higher than ever before—prices are lowest in history. Buy now!

LOCAL MASON HONORED IN POEM BY DETROIT MAN

Appearing in the May number of "Sprig of Acacia," Masonic magazine, appears a poem written by Wilber E. Campbell of Detroit, and dedicated to Past Master Geo. Ward, of Olive Lodge, No. 156, F. & A. M., Chelsea. Mr. Campbell was in Chelsea on April 9th when Past Masters night was held here, and was so greatly impressed with the masterful way in which Mr. Ward filled his office that he wrote the following poem in tribute to him.

I went back to visit my home lodge last fall
On that annual Past Master's night,
To sit once again in the old-fashioned hall
And witness the old-fashioned rite.

I sat at the table with comrades of yore
And ate of the bountiful feast,
Then repaired to the hall up over the store
Where all eyes were turned to the East.

"Brothers, be clothed and in order for work,"
Came the words from our Past Master Ward,
Who, eighty years young, not duty will shirk,
Be it serving as Master or guard.

With gavel in hand, he rapped loud and clear,
From refreshment to labor they came;
He stood as of old, a Master, a peer,
Forgot his rheumatics and pain.

With voice full and strong, his diction complete,
The lectures rolled from off his tongue,
Each word and each sentence, correct and replete,
A boy again eighty years young.

Not a look nor a monitor was there in sight
Nor was there one seen in the hall;
They gave the work right on that Past Masters' night—
Not only the Master, but all.

I've sat in vast temples where great organs peal,
With trained voices raised up in song;
Where trappings of silver and gold were all real,
And the ritual mixed up and all wrong.

It isn't the temple nor trappings of gold—
That make up the Sublime degree,
It's the way that the story of "Hiram" is told,
That brings "light" to those who would see.

So, off come our hats to the Past Masters' nights
In the lodge that meets over the store,
For it's here that they teach the true ancient lodge rites
And a real Mason doesn't need more.

"BISHOP" HANKINS ARRESTED BY SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT

Wednesday's Ann Arbor Times News carries an account of the arrest at Akron, Ohio, of Andrew Hankins, 32, negro, of Chicago, who is wanted in Ann Arbor on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. He will be remembered as "Bishop" Hankins who several months ago organized an African M. E. church among colored population of Chelsea. At that time some suspicion was cast on his authority to conduct such organization and collect money for building as was being done, but no evidence was available at that time to warrant arrest. Considerable money was collected among colored people and business places of the town.

Hankins, who told officers he was a minister, was arrested in Akron at the request of Ann Arbor authorities. He waived extradition and was returned here for trial.

According to the complaint against Hankins, sworn out by James Pullen, Chelsea, the man claimed he was legally authorized by the Order of Free and Accepted Masons to organize Masonic lodges in Michigan and collect from each of the charter members of these lodges $17 in dues. The complaint charges that he was not authorized to collect these fees.

Officers have been informed that Hankins' activities extend over a large section of the state.

World Made Brighter by "Mother's" Presence

"There is a little old lady on our street" writes C. F. W., "who creates sunshine for the whole neighborhood, and I felt that her story might interest your readers.

"The day is brighter for everyone when she elects to go downtown. She is short and plump and there is a kind and gay twinkle in her eyes. The street car and bus crews call her 'Mother' and though she lives in a nice house on a nice street, and wears good clothes, she evidently likes it.

"She shatters all the rules of traffic, but the hardest boiled motorist slows up to let her pass. All the other passengers in the cars and busses have to wait until she is safely and tenderly helped aboard. The conductor personally conducts her to the door when she gets off. All the passengers responded to her smiling, 'Good morning,' spoken to the world in general, although no one seems to know her name.

"I wish that when I grow old every one might be so glad to see me and to serve me, and I'm going to put in the intervening years trying to cultivate a winning smile like my little old lady's and overcome my present aversion to being called 'Mother' by the hip polloi. I shall have to exchange smoothness for winsomeness if I am to be a sunshine of the neighborhood when I grow old. Will I not?"

Early Majolica

The earliest date found on an Italian lustre-ware is 1489. The only men acquainted with the use of lustre were Pesaro, Gubbio and Deruta, and after a vogue of 80 years it became a lost art about 1870. The craft was revived with varying success, but the new enamels cannot compare in beauty with the old mod. The finest specimens of majolica were made in northeastern Italy. Vases, pitchers, plates, bottles and odd-shaped flasks were the most commonly decorated objects, but tiles were sometimes made for floors and walls.

VIGILANTES HOPE TO REDUCE MAJOR CRIME IN MICHIGAN

Bank robbers and other major criminals who make it a point to hide out in shacks and other obscure places after the first dash from the scene of their crime will find it necessary to use another method of throwing their pursuers off the scent until the hue and cry is over.

This is the statement of Paul J. Ullrich, Mr. Clemens, chairman of the bankers' state protective committee.

Part of the defensive plan of the vigilante chiefs in the various counties of the state, is to comb the countryside thoroughly to locate possible hiding places of bandits who sometimes, in their first dash after a robbery, only proceed ten or twelve miles. They then turn off the main road to some unused bypath and there conceal their cars until such a time as the pursuit has slackened and the vigilantes return to their homes.

"In seventy-five per cent of the cases of bank robbery in Michigan," Mr. Joseph Rylands, organizer for the bankers, said, "the robbers have not gone over ten or fifteen miles from the town where they made the attack."

"In advance, they have located one old building or shack, out of use for a long time and make it their headquarters. At this place they generally have another car. It is here where they sometimes distribute the loot, divide the gang and go off in other directions after the hue and cry of the vigilantes have died down."

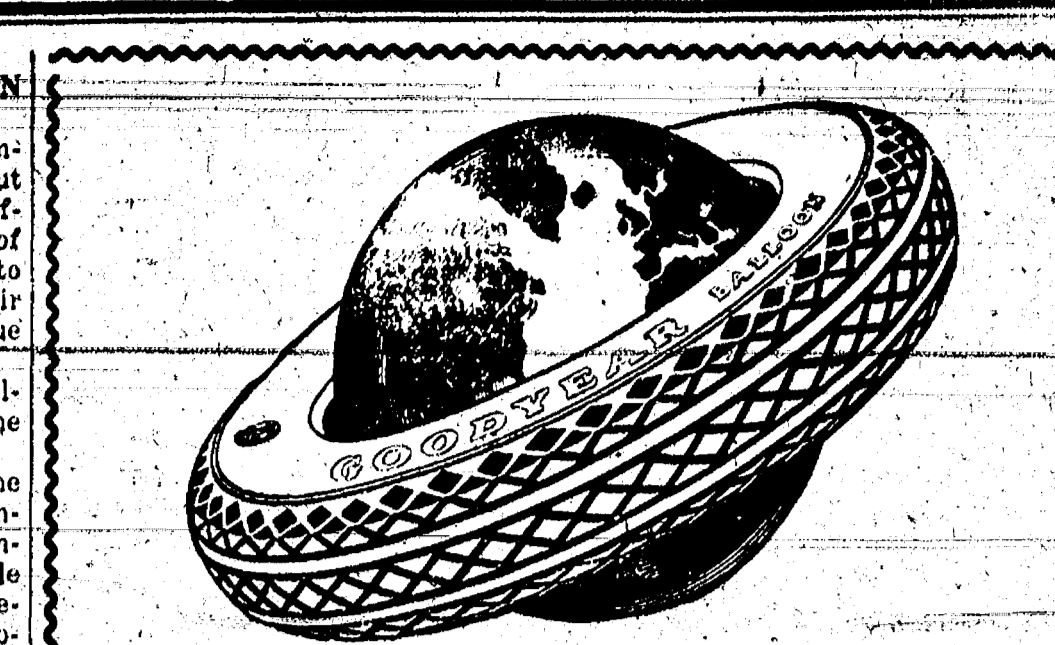

"Part of the vigilante plan anticipates just such moves. The different county protective committees are enlisting the aid of the farmers in the country adjacent to banking communities. These men together with the armed vigilantes are making preliminary surveys of the surrounding country to locate any possible hiding places, whether they be unused houses, gullies or depressions in the contour of the land that may provide hiding places."

"In the event of a bank attack," Mr. Rylands concluded, "We will immediately visit these places looking for game. We propose to drive these thugs out onto the highways where they may be captured or killed."

The Michigan State Police have joined forces with the bankers in their war on major criminals and are assigning men to assist the county vigilante committees in selecting and training men. In this way the state police force will be augmented by thousands of volunteer assistants who will make it difficult for major criminals to make their escape, according to Rylands.

Thus far twenty-four counties in the state have adopted the vigilante plan and are rushing their work to completion. It is expected, according to Rylands, that more than twelve hundred armed men will soon be designated as vigilantes from these counties.

Mr. Rylands has been scheduled to address one county bankers meeting each night where the plan is explained and adopted.

Habit Most Important

Good habits, carefully and deliberately formed, often serve us better than great natural gifts, for one bad habit has often proved capable of rendering the greatest gifts almost useless.—The little rift within the lute which, by and by, makes all the music mute.

Sponge Has Many Lives

Sponges may be cut up and recut up and bedded out like potatoes. Indeed, sponge farmers do exactly this. A piece of sponge may be minced and the minced sponge forced through a fine strainer, and this sponge-mush will gather itself together and develop into a small sponge. The sponge is no ancient, and it looks as if it must do some thinking.—Ohio State Journal.

Ranch Appellations

The name "Lazy" so often affixed to western ranches, refers to the brand used on its animals by the ranch. When letters of the alphabet are used they are often varied by their position. When tilted at an angle of 45 degrees they are said to be "tumbling"; when lying flat on their back or face, "lazy."

School's Distinction

The school of tropical medicine in San Juan, Porto Rico, was opened September 22, 1926. This school has the distinction of being the first college of its kind established in the Americas, although several of the leading medical schools of North and South America have departments devoted to the study of tropical medicine.

Priceless Oil Painting

The oldest oil painting in existence today, says the Market for Exchange, is believed to be one of the Madonna and Child, marked with the date DCCCXXXVI, which in Arabic numerals is 886, or about the time of Charlemagne. The painting, once formed part of the art treasure of a Florentine prince and was purchased by Benedictine from a broker in the street for a few livres.

The fellow who is not enjoying life is certainly missing something. Few men have nine lives.—Sylvauga (Ala.)—Advance.

Bearer of the Censer

The person who carries the thurible or censer in a church procession is known as a "thurifer." Formerly he was always an acolyte, but now he is often a layman.

Speed of Birds

The difficulties of timing birds in their wild state make it impossible to give exact information on their speed. The United States biological survey says that the greatest speed attained by birds is attained by the Indian swift, which is known to have traveled as fast as 200 miles an hour. Ordinary small birds do not travel faster than 35 or 40 miles an hour.

Humankind's Failing

What a great and glorious world this might be if we always kept the attitude toward one another which prevails in the hour of flood and fire and earthquake. Oh, the pity of it that we wait for some colossal disaster to awaken us to the real spirit of universal love.—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Ballooning Spiders

Ballooning, says the Denbora Independent, is the method of migration used by many species of spiders. Standing in an open space, with the body elevated, the spider projects from the spinnerets a line of silk which continues until the spider feels the pull of the wind. It releases its hold as it is borne away.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

Walter Firth, Pastor
The pulpit will be occupied next Sunday morning by Robert S. Womer of Detroit, an eighteen year old high school boy who is now touring Michigan, speaking to large audiences on the subject of "The Christian Sunday, Can We Save It?" One pastor in a large city says of him: "He presents a wealth of information in an attractive manner with the force of his own deep conviction." A Port Huron pastor says: "His presentation of The American Christian Sunday is a very worthy appeal, based on the irresistible logic of physical, intellectual, and spiritual well being." He is regarded as one of Northern's most brilliant lights, and is preparing to take up the study of law in the U. of M. this fall. Everybody should hear him without fail.

Blackstone said: "Sabbath desecration is followed by a flood of immorality." Shall we then save our Sunday and thus save our country? All young people are urged to hear this brilliant young man. Service at 10 a. m.

in a Nationwide "Demonstration Week"

Hudson dealers were never so busy—our sales were never so large—customers were never so pleased—the value never so great.
Thousands of cars have been sold without opportunity to demonstrate them. Demand has kept the market stripped so that few but imminent buyers have had an opportunity to ride. Now with Hudson dealers giving principle attention for one week to demonstrating the new Hudson Super-Six, all motorism may have first hand experience of what is possible with the Super-Six principle released in full capacity. Until you ride in the Hudson Super-Six there is a motoring thrill you can never know.
You see Hudsons everywhere. You admire their striking beauty. You note their flashing performance. And you see in them the greatest values motorism has ever offered.
In appearance, beauty of detail and finish, and in performance, you compare Hudson with cars costing twice as much. Make it stand out in your mind that Hudson's price is hundreds of dollars below any car with which it is compared.
Take advantage of this special demonstration opportunity. Ride in the New Hudson Super-Six even if you have no immediate intention of getting a new car.

DRUGS Burg's GROCERIES

Prized Testimonial by No Means Flattering
Have you ever been curious about a letter that some friend has written about you to introduce you to another? Then imagine how trying it would be to have the letter in a language you could not read! In the early days of the Hudson's Bay company they used to give "certificates" of good character to those Indians who seemed to deserve it. These certificates called "tenpots," since that was as near as they could get to the pronunciation. They valued them greatly, carried them around with them, and always presented them when they wished to do some trading with a white man. One old Indian kept one for years, presenting it whenever occasion offered, and never guessed that what it said was: "This old fellow is a regular scamp. Watch him or he will cheat you out of everything. He likes like the mischief."

Name Made Infamous
Jacobus was the name of a French politician who formed at the outbreak of the French revolution in 1790, and Paris, in which the meetings of the extreme party in the revolution, and it eventually resulted during the bloody "Reign of Terror" the fall of Robespierre, its president, in 1794, led to its dissolution.

Gas, and, Well—
Sir Walter Scott, author of the voluminous Waverley novels, was at the same time president of the Edinburgh Gas Light Company, according to the magazine Glas Lough. Apparently, adverse critics in Sir Walter's lifetime didn't have our slang phrases, or we should have heard of his side line industry long before. Don't you think?

Mixture of Races
The Welsh are a Celtic people. At the time of the coming of the Romans in 55 B. C. the natives of Wales were a mixture of the primitive Iberians and the later invading Celts all bearing the general name of Celts. Afterward the Celtic inhabitants of Britain took refuge in Wales where they were driven westward by the Anglo-Saxons. In time they merged with the natives.

Growth of Grandma
"Billy, aged four," says the Chicago News and Courier, "went on his way to visit his grandmother, who he had not seen for more than a year. 'Gosh!' he remarked, being a little boy, 'I'll bet grandma has grown so I won't know her!'" — Radio Transcript.

Helium Gas
Helium is the name of a gas present in the air in minute quantities. It is about twice as dense as hydrogen, and is slow to combine with other elements. It is present in the waters of most mineral springs.
