MASONS TO HONOR REV. HERBERT A. JUMP

The three Ann Arbor Masonic bodies to which Rev. H. A. Jump belongs are planning a banquet in his honor on Wednesday, June 15, at 6:15 p. m. Rev. Jump leaves the last of the month to accept a pastorate in Boston and the Masons of the city and county are uniting to give him this signal honor before he leaves their midst. He has been an untiring worker for Masonry and his lectures and talks to the various bodies have been generously received.

The committee appointed to have charge of the banquet are: William L. Walz, chairman, Fraternity Lodge No. 262, W. F. Vernor, Washtenaw Chapter, No. 6, R. A. M., and John Scherer, Ann Arbor Commandery No. 6, K. T. All local Masons belonging to Gold-Rule Lodge No. 159 or Ann Arbor Lodge No. 544, as well as visiting Masons are cordially invited to be present. All Washtenaw county judges have been notified of the date and are also very welcome. Plans are being made for at least three hundred at the banquet and tickets may be obtained from the committee or Gaylord Royce, Walter Grosshans and Paul E. Gibson.

COUNTY MAY BAN SUNDAY HUNTING

Approval by Gov. Fred W. Green of a bill to prohibit Sunday hunting in Washtenaw county, passed at the last session of the legislature, now enables the supervisors of the county to submit the proposition to a vote of the people. The governor approved the bill Thursday, according to a dispatch from Lansing. At their annual meeting last fall, the supervisors discussed the question on Sunday hunting, a majority of the rural members declaring they were in favor of abolishing it. The matter was taken up with Washtenaw's representatives in the legislature and the bill resulted.

Should the supervisors desire to have the question passed upon by the people, they may adopt a resolution providing for submitting it to a vote at the next general election. If approved, it will become effective. The governor's approval, it is explained, merely enables the supervisors to refer the question to a vote.

JEWELS
 The wearing of jewelry is one of the oldest of human customs and, even in this enlightened age, a more universal custom than the wearing of clothing. No tribe or race of man is known of that has not some form of jewelry and there still are peoples who do not observe the custom of wearing clothing.

Americans have always been fond of jewelry in moderation, but in recent years there have been evidences of an increasing use of jewelry and jewels in this country. People no longer confine their articles of jewelry within the limitations of necessity and utility, as did the Puritan fathers and the early Quakers; and a great part of the public since.

The average man today possesses and wears a watch, a tie pin, cuff links, of precious metal, a lapel button or vest pin of some form, a watch chain and chain, an ornamental belt buckle, at least one finger ring and perhaps such items of jewelry as a pen knife, cigarette case or cigar cutter. As for the average woman of modernity, her collection of jewelry includes rings, jeweled pins, hair ornaments, watches, necklaces, jeweled dress ornaments, pendants and boudoir articles. And then there is the average American home in the decoration and equipment of which this jewelry store is playing as large and important a part as it is in completing the attire of the occupants of the home.

Jewelry, both of the ornamental and useful varieties, stands preeminent among Christmas gifts because, though in universal demand and use, it remains a luxury and the most practical of people still insist upon combining in the Christmas gift the useful with the luxurious.

In the modern jewelry store has the gilded and jeweled dream-palaces of the Arabian Nights materialized to prove to the people of the United States that the imaginative treasures of Aladdin, the Spanish Main, and Captain Kidd were a beggar's alms as compared with the wealth of this nation.

MAKING AND SAVING
 Communities possess character—the same as individuals.

It is a gratifying thing to realize that Chelsea possesses the characteristic of thrift to a remarkable degree.

With the banks of this city continuously spreading the gospel of "make and save," and giving a service that is thrift educational in its functions it can be readily seen that a responsive public has been created. The man who saves a certain portion of his earnings every month is not only a wise, forehanded man preparing for ease and comfort and security in his old age, but he is also a better citizen. No matter what his motive is in adding to his bank or savings account month after month, he is a real builder of the community. He is adding to the store of liquid wealth of the community, enabling the constructive forces that are at work to have the wealth to work with. If a business man wants to build a new block—a citizen wants to build a home—a corporation an office building—he has helped to place the funds where these plans can be materialized.

The educational value of these "make and save" institutions is of incalculable good to the community. For too long, in this country the gospel of "nothing risk, nothing have," has been exploited. It is the text of the gambler and of the confidence man. It has been the means of wasting immense volumes of wealth all through this part of the country.

Persistent saving of money and the conservative investment of savings is what pays.

PUBLIC OPINION

The public has always been charged with making its own bed. That public opinion decides what the public gets. That the public, not the public servant, determines the service given the public. That what is in the movies, schools, stores, magazines, newspapers and churches is there because it is the public wish.

An illustration is provided by the announcement of a motion picture actress, who made her debut and fame in juvenile parts, that she was forced at maturity to retire because the public would only accept her in juvenile roles and they were no longer tasteful to her.

The will of the public can not be denied by business if business is to thrive. And not only business—but art, literature, education and religion must bow to this arbitrary Will or Opinion. Whatever the public taste may be—good or bad, high or low—it must be reckoned with—and acquiesced to.

That this general surrender to the public Will continues is not chargeable to the servants of the public. The servant must do as it is hidden or no longer be the servant. If public opinion is sometimes wrong only the public can be blamed.

Times change. In 1890, kids enjoyed pets, not petting.

Of course women are better swimmers. Little girls are reconciled to water long before boys are.

After you walk all over town in quest of bargains, you understand why a penny saved is a penny earned.

Rope No Protection

Superstitious folks claim that a snake won't crawl over a rope, and that if you surround your camp with a rope you can go to sleep without a thought of these invaders. A snake will crawl over a rope just as readily as it will surmount a tree branch lying in its path.

FARM BRIEFS

Miss Leona Gale, Superior township, who has been selected as one of the two 4-H club girls to represent the state of Michigan at the new national 4-H club camp at Washington, D. C., will leave for Washington Sunday, June 12. She will make the trip by car with the club leaders of the state, who will also go to Washington to attend a club leaders' conference. Plans are made to visit Niagara Falls, Cornell University, at Ithaca, New York, and Frank Essick, former club agent of Washtenaw county, who is now club agent of Chemung county, New York. The party will return from the camp Saturday, June 25th.

Several of the 4-H clubs of Washtenaw county are making plans for club tours. All of the members will assemble, and visit the projects of all of the members of the clubs.

O. I. Gregg, landscape specialist from Michigan State College, will be in the county Monday and Tuesday of next week to make arrangements for additional landscape projects for the coming year.

The camp committee of the rural women's camp have completed arrangements to hold this year's camp at the boy scout camp—Camp Newkirk, Dexter. The camp will be held the second or third week in August.

Mrs. Eugene Strang of Ypsilanti, is chairman of this committee, with Mrs. Howard Hall of Webster, Mrs. George V. Cook, Saline, Mrs. F. E. Leverette, Scio, and Mrs. Albert Koch, Lima.

The Lima's Big Four Club held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert

Koch, May 26. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Leatha Smith.

EXPECT BORER MOTHS TO MAKE "HOP" NEXT

With the flight of the corn borer moths expected to commence about June 15 in the state, according to the entomologists, a final appeal is made by the authorities to farmers in the borer infested area to complete the clean-up of their corn fields.

The entire surface of the quarantined area must be free of all corn refuse before this date if a 100 per cent control job is to be accomplished. The need of thoroughness is apparent when it is realized that the borers which are transformed into female moths are capable of laying 400 eggs. These eggs in turn hatch out into borers.

A corn borer moth is able to fly at least 20 miles, entomologists have observed, and by laying eggs at intervals is able to infest a wide territory. It is evident that every borer which escapes destruction constitutes a menace to control work.

To protect the interests of those farmers who have cleaned up their premises in a satisfactory manner, it is essential that those who have not completed their clean-up operations should do so without further delay. Only through the cooperation of every farmer in the area will the borer be controlled, authorities say.

They Practice What They Preach

The faith that the gas industry has in gas for house-heating was forcibly demonstrated recently when a great thirteen story building, erected by a prominent gas company, was equipped with a modern gas heating unit.

The giant heating system for this skyscraper keeps over two million cubic feet of space in the building at a constant temperature of 70 degrees in zero weather. It is so perfectly regulated that the furnace varies minutely with the weather, an important contribution to health.

Consider the many savings that gas heat for a building of this magnitude represents. No storage space for fuel or ashes is required, a big item in valuable locations, and one engineer can handle the entire heating system, to say nothing of the great cleanliness, efficiency and comfort!

JACKSON—Attempting to be economical by operating two motor trucks on one pair of license plates proved folly for a Jackson man Thursday afternoon. He was stopped by Traffic Officer Resor and following questioning was forced to post a bond of $40 before being given possession of his trucks, which had been taken to police headquarters. —Tribune.

PLYMOUTH—Many of Plymouth's business places were closed Wednesday afternoon in pursuance to the agreement which was published in last week's Mail, together with a list of those who will close on Wednesday afternoons during June, July and August. MASON—Yesterday, June 1, Mrs. Mary Fowler of Holt, began work in the office of the County School Commissioner Fred E. Searl. During the month of June Mrs. Fowler will do extra clerical work but on July 1 will become a deputy succeeding Mrs. Searl who has held the position continuously during the twelve years Mr. Searl has served as commissioner. BROOKLYN—Heavy and continued rains of the past week have delayed all road building somewhat. On Wednesday the cement pouring gang southwest of Brooklyn were at the middle of the sink hole fill at the Emory Neely place and it was estimated that within five days the cement would be completely laid to Cambridge Junction. This means that about next Wednesday the cement construction gang will be moving north of Brooklyn to start closing the hole gap. —Exponent.

NORTHVILLE—Water has again undermined the Ford dam on River Rouge built at the lower end of the Ambler pond, and as a result the big pond is now empty and Ford engineers are trying to figure out how to control the waters of the river. Sometime Wednesday, boys discovered two big boiling streams of water coming out from the ground just below the dam. The water looked just like two small guysers. They hurried to a telephone and notified local Ford company officials of the fact and engineers were sent out immediately from the Highland Park plant, in an effort to check the break. —Record.

PINCKNEY—Saturday night, May 28, the farm house of the late Harry Isham near Patterson Lake caught fire from unknown sources and burned to the ground. An alarm was sent in to the Pinckney fire department and they responded as soon as possible. The house was past help when they arrived so they devoted their efforts to saving the barn which had caught fire from flying sparks and in this they were successful. The loss was partially covered by insurance as the house was filled with antique furniture of considerable value. The place was unoccupied as Mrs. Isham has been living in Chelsea with her son, Ben, since the death of her husband. —Dispatch.

MANCHESTER—As soon as a settlement was established on the present site of Manchester, many small shops and factories were started by the thirty pioneers. A saw mill was among the first, then a flour and grist mill, followed by a foundry and machine shop where plows, drags, pots, kettles, and numerous other necessities were cast and finished. A wool-carding and after-ward a cloth-dressing mill were established, and wood turning such as broom handles, rake handles, etc. were turned out. There was also a distillery and a brewery, a tannery, a planing mill and door and sash factory, a chair factory and numerous other small concerns to supply the needs of settlers for miles around. A wagon shop was another of the industries. —Enterprise.

FINAL BORER SURVEY COMMENCED IN STATE

Final inspections of corn land throughout the borer infested area of the state were commenced this week by inspectors in the 23 counties affected to determine those farmers who are eligible for the extra labor award and in what amount. Under the provisions of the Federal Corn Borer Act, farmers who comply with the control regulations will be compensated for their extra labor in an amount not to exceed $2.00 per acre. Preliminary surveys of premises in the area have been made by inspectors during the past few weeks to advise farmers what further work, if any, was necessary to meet the requirements. Final inspections will continue until every farm in the quarantined region where corn was grown last year is passed on. The test for successful inspection is a clean surface.

Application forms for payment have been supplied to the inspectors which will be filled out in conjunction with the farmer in each case. The number of acres in corn last year, which were cleaned up and the extra cost per acre will be stated on the blank. By extra cost per acre is meant the labor and expense, not to exceed $2.00 per acre, which the farmer incurred incident to the cleaning up above the normal cost of his usual farm operations. The form will be certified to by the farmer and sent in by the inspector for payment. Payments will be made with a minimum of delay directly from Washington.

HAY DAYS TO TELL BETTER CROPS STORY

The method of handling hay which has been found to be most efficient in saving the leaves and finer stems will be shown in 30 Michigan counties this summer, through a series of special hay days, sponsored by the Michigan State College. This method also saves a great deal of labor in handling the crop, according to the college crops department. The ordinary machinery used in hay-making is used in the demonstrations, and sweet clover and red clover hay may be handled this way as well as alfalfa. Occasionally with good weather, hay that is cut in the forenoon of one day may be hauled the afternoon of the next day, and in nearly every case the hay is ready to put in the barn the second day after cutting. If rain falls on the hay, the swaths are rolled over with a side delivery rake and curing goes on rapidly. The schedule for hay days in Washtenaw county is set for June 21.

CARELESS USE OF EXPLOSIVES RESULTS IN MANY INJURIES

Approximately 500 children are crippled each year in the United States by playing with blasting caps which they have picked up in the vicinity of mines, quarries, or in the fields where agricultural blasting had been done. This appalling situation is commented on by the Institute of Makers of Explosives in a campaign now being conducted to reduce the casualties from the use of all forms of useful and necessary explosives. Because of the exceedingly useful place occupied by various explosives in agricultural work in removing stumps and rock and digging ditches, the United States department of agriculture is anxious that every effort be made in properly educating the users of such dangerous materials to prevent needless injury and loss of life. Too often explosives, blasting caps especially, are left where children may find them. This is inexcusable carelessness. Injuries are not confined to children, however. Many a man has crippled himself for life by using his teeth to fasten the blasting cap on the fuse instead of using a crimping tool made for the purpose. "Some day the biter will lose something big-side-teeth." In fact, being one of the Chicago anarchists committed suicide by biting a blasting cap between his teeth. "Accidentally stepping on a cap will often result in a mangled foot. Sparks, flame, heat, blows, friction, all serve to explode the cap to which they are applied. Explosives are very useful in connection with agricultural work. It is thoroughly safe to use them if a few simple rules are followed, but carelessness and unintelligent handling often result in terrible injury. It would be very unfortunate if these important agricultural aids were to acquire a bad name as a result of such accident, and to avoid this outcome as well as to prevent injury and loss of life it is extremely important that everyone shall be taught to realize the danger that lies in tampering and ignorant handling. Read the directions that come with blasting caps and other explosives, and heed them.

Frog Unable to Live Without Air and Food

An old natural history problem has once more cropped up, and unless a word or two of advice are given the same old, queer beliefs will persist, and frogs and toads will still be looked upon with suspicion as unwholesome creatures, says Charles H. Lea in Our Dumb Animals.

The problem is: Can a frog or a toad live embedded in a rock? Two men working on the rocks near Har mouth have found a live frog inside the solid rock, and it is believed that it must have been there for years.

Toads and frogs are often found imprisoned inside lumps of coal and rock, so it is not surprising that people marvel at the apparent endurance possessed by these reptiles. Yet the phenomenon has a prosaic explanation. When the creatures were little they must have crept through some crevice into a hole, and there existing on insects, they have grown larger. So long as they can get a little air and a few insects, they can live as long as ordinary frogs, so that there is nothing marvelous.

Dean Buckland is authority for the statement that frogs die in less than a year if they are deprived of air and food, and that they cannot live more than two years without food, even if given plenty of air, so that the old belief that they can live for centuries entombed in a solid rock is a fallacy. There must always be an air hole and a means for insects to crawl in, for the frog or toad to live many months.

Testimony to Value of Home Environment

Tests recently concluded to determine the moral and religious effects of various agencies on children have shown that home environment goes further in shaping character than any other single influence. Within the home circle, the influence of the mother is the strongest element.

This is true because it is a fact of child psychology that one's course in life is pretty well mapped out and charted during the first seven years. During that period of childhood when almost all influences are negligible excepting those of the home.

A famous writing worker on the New York borsery has found that almost without exception the human derelicts who have been rescued and regenerated through his efforts came originally from homes in which there was a wholesome moral atmosphere. No matter how low they may have sunk, the seed of goodness implanted within them in their childhood homes never died.—Thrill Magazine.

Icebergs Centuries Old

Estimated with glacial icebergs that are believed to have formed 150,000 years ago, when all northern Europe and Russia were enveloped in ice, a cave 20 miles long has been found in the "Great Mountains." It abounds with grotesque of extraordinary beauty, the roof is a mass of snow crystals that reflect the colors of the rainbow, and there are wide corridors, at the bottom of which a subterranean river probably flowed many years ago, says Popular Mechanics Magazine.

A mile from the entrance to the cavern is a small lake, near which were found several objects dating from the time of the Persian king Cyrus, and military fortifications probably built during the fourteenth century were unearthed near by.

Fighting Men Imported

Many soldiers from Germany and Poland were imported by the federal government for service in the Union army during the civil war, according to official correspondence between the Department of State and the United States consulate at Hamburg in 1903. The plan was operated extensively. It is said, and "large sums" were paid in bounties to the men obtained in that way. Many of those who came to fight remained in this country after the close of the war. It is believed the plan was largely directed by and in the interest of wealthy Eastern men who resorted to it to obtain substitutes for military service when the draft was adopted.—Detroit News.

Actor's Business Projects

John Jacob Astor, who became one of the outstanding financiers in this country, had only $75 when he arrived in America. He wanted his own skins to market, says Maude Stewart Welch in her book, "Vivian Kierkegaard." There were few musical instruments in the colonies and later Astor became a dealer in pianos, the Astors in London being engaged in the manufacture of these instruments. Through his connection with the fur and trapping industry, Astor founded the first fur settlement in Nebraska, and also the town of Astoria in Oregon.

Ancient Feared Beans

Wise men of old had a great fear of beans. Even stern old Hippocrates was frightened when the beans were on, for fear beans would come to his patients, and Pythagoras and his followers refrained from eating beans. The disaster should befall their parents. But Agonios helped upset the fear of the bean by ordering beans to be offered on the altar of the god of Day and of Fine Arts, but in parts of Europe, as late as the middle of the sixteenth century, there were communities where the fear of the bean and its blossom was to be found.

Hardest Known Metals
