SENIORS RETURN MONDAY FROM WASHINGTON TOUR

Many Places of Interest Visited in a
Bus Trip Which Carried Them
Through Six States.

The entire senior class, consisting of twenty-two members, Supt. and Mrs. E. L. Clark, the Misses Dorothy Powers, Frances Jerome and Elizabeth Henry, of the faculty, and Howard Branch, are busily engaged these days relating events of the interesting Washington and Philadelphia tour which began Friday, June 3, when they left Chelsea at four o'clock in the morning, and ended here when they returned Monday evening of this week. Note books were kept busy throughout the trip and definite accounts of places visited and scenery along the route have been jotted down for reference upon their return.

Their first night was spent in Wheeling, W. Va., reached via Columbus, Ohio; and their second day took them well into the mountains, staying Saturday night at Cumberland, Md. Sunday, June 5, took them into Washington where they visited points of interest, including Mt. Vernon, Arlington National cemetery, the Washington monument, Capitol buildings, Bureau of Printing and Engraving, etc. On their visit to the White House grounds they saw President Calvin Coolidge, although at a distance, and he very graciously acknowledged their applause with a tip of the hat and a smile.

Thursday morning they left for Philadelphia, stopping enroute at Annapolis where they visited the naval academy. In Philadelphia they visited the many yards, Independence Hall and other places of interest. Friday the group started toward home, stopping at Valley Forge during the day and staying at Lancaster, Pa., over night. Saturday they visited Gettysburg, and made their way up the Susquehanna Trail to Williamsport, Pa., where they stayed Sunday night. Sunday they reached Erie, Pa., and traveled from Erie to Chelsea Monday, arriving here at seven thirty Monday evening.

Students, as well as members of the faculty who accompanied them, are enthusiastic over their trip, which was made entirely in one of the M. E. R. buses, named the "Calvin Coolidge." Accommodations were of the best, only the finest hotels being patronized throughout the journey. While good time was made, the schedule included ample time for rest, and excessive fatigue was avoided. In order that as many places of interest as possible might be visited careful planning was necessary on the part of Superintendent Clark, in charge of the trip, so that no time should be unnecessarily wasted. In this respect Mr. Clark states his experience with the trip last year proved invaluable, and considerable time and money was saved through a knowledge of the cities and country visited gained in the previous tour.

That the Washington tour is appreciated by students as well as their parents, is the belief of Mr. Clark. Many of the young folks making the trip now take advantage of a vacation which, for many, would never offer in future years. A return trip to the nation's capital will be better appreciated by them because of the visit made in the company of school friends, during school days and at a time when impressions of a lasting kind are made on the student mind.

WHY SHOULDN'T CHELSEA CLEAN UP ITS BACK YARD

Since the time for the annual spring clean-up campaign is here and should be attended to, why shouldn't Chelsea get in line and present a clean and neat appearance to the summer resorters and tourists who will be passing our way during the summer months? Some rather pointed remarks have been heard about town relative to the untidy appearance of back yards and alleys—remarks that had plenty of cause for utterance and foundation sufficient to make Chelsea folks think about it seriously. Scarcely an alleyway about town that does not reflect the carelessness of someone in leaving refuse that should be hauled out of town. Most of such deposits of refuse provides breeding places for flies—and they are already making their appearance.

There are various methods for cleaning up a community. One of the most effective and one which is in effect in many other towns and cities is that of placing the garbage and refuse in barrels or boxes. At the curbing on a certain day or days, and then these boxes or barrels are gathered up by wagons or trucks furnished by the street department of the village. This plan is most effective because it sets a definite time for the clean-up, is less expensive to the individual and is of small cost to the village government.

Let's make the town clean! Motorists and vacationists do not care to frequent places which are not attractive and will go elsewhere. Their money is spent in the places which they visit. Consequently, if Chelsea is desirous of the vacation trade—and there will be lots of it this summer—the first duty lies in making the town an attractive place in which to trade.

BASS AND PANFISH BAN OFF JUNE 16TH

Today, Thursday, June 16, the season opens on black bass, bluegills, rock bass, calico bass and crappies, and the devotees of the short rod and the wooden plug, the spinning reel and the cane pole are to have their innings. Since the trout ban was lifted May 1, the bass and panfish anglers have looked on with anxious eyes and listened disconsolately while the disciples of the gentler art extolled their sport and recounted their trips. The complete ban on all lake fishing in the counties south of the north line of town 20 north makes the period of waiting all the more trying as there is scant chance for the fisherman to relieve his feelings on perch, pike, sunfish and other species not protected as to season. To at least 75 per cent of Michigan's anglers the real fishing season opens June 16, regardless of what trout anglers may say.

The present season sees no new regulations in effect on either bass or panfish. An act was passed by the last Legislature limiting the fisherman to 25 of all species of the latter, instead of 25 of each kind as formerly, but this act does not become effective until 90 days after the official date of adjournment, which postpones it until September 6. So for this summer the cane pole angler may still govern his creel limit by the old regulations.

The same rule holds good on the trout fishing license act passed by the solons late in the session. It will not go into effect until the season has closed for this year, so Michigan's mate trout anglers have the present summer as a period of grace in which to fish on equal terms with their feminine contemporaries.

The limit on large and small mouth black bass for the present year will be five in one day, 10 in possession, with a 12-inch length limit. Bluegills, sunfish, rock bass, calico bass and crappies may be taken to the number of 25 each in a day. The former must be six inches long, the bass and crappies seven. Perch must be seven inches in length and the fisherman is allowed a creel limit of 80 daily. Ex-

BROTHER OF CHELSEA WOMAN DROWNED FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Despite the desperate efforts of two companions to save him, during which he pulled both of them under the water four times, Ernest William Hanselman, 15 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Hanselman, Dexter township, was drowned Friday afternoon in a swimming hole in the Huron river near Camp Newkirk, the Boy Scout camp, at Dexter.

The body was recovered after it had been in the water about 20 minutes. A pulmonator rushed to the camp by members of the Ann Arbor fire department was not used.

Ernest and his two companions, Neil Nivor and Theodore Tucker, both of Dexter, went to the swimming hole together Friday afternoon, this making the second time that the Hanselman boy had been there. He got in water over his head and became frightened, thrashing about and calling to the other boys for help. At first his companions believed that he was not in earnest but when they saw him sink they realized his danger and plunged in after him. In the struggles that ensued between Ernest and the other two boys, they were dragged under the water four times. Exhausted, they were forced to abandon their efforts and swim to safety but a few minutes later the body of the Hanselman boy came to the surface and they recovered it.

Ernest Hanselman was born May 8, 1912, in Lima township. He was a pupil of the Dexter high school, having been in the ninth grade.

He is survived by his parents, five brothers, John and Jacob of Ann Arbor, Christian, Herman and Louis of Dexter and seven sisters, Mrs. Elmer Pasmer, Lodi; Mrs. Dan Parsons, Chelsea; Mrs. T. Newell and Mrs. Robert Snay, Ann Arbor, and Elizabeth, Edna and Frieda, at home.

Old Chinese Banknotes

The oldest banknotes on record are the "flying money" or "covenant money" issued in China in 2007 B. C. At first these notes were issued by the treasury department. But it was found that the attendant expense was large. This caused their transfer to banks which were under government inspection and control.

Thus China had a marvelous financial system centuries before the Christians era. The notes issued were printed in blue ink on paper made from the fiber of mulberry trees. Several specimens of Chinese notes issued during the Ming dynasty, in the Fourteenth century, are still in existence. That was about 50 years before the establishment of the first European Bank. Useful "Camphor Bug"

In a small insect discovered in the forests of Sumatra, an English naturalist sees a possible rival of the camphor tree as a source of the useful drug. The creature secretes a milky fluid which possesses the properties of camphor. It is said, and the suggestion has been made that these insects might be raised artificially, as are silkworms, to produce camphor, which is now obtained from trees. Popular Mechanics Magazine.

They Practice What They Preach

The faith that the gas industry has in gas for house-heating was forcibly demonstrated recently when a great thirteen story building, erected by a prominent gas company, was equipped with a modern gas heating unit.

The giant heating system for this skyscraper keeps over two million cubic feet of space in the building at a constant temperature of 70 degrees F. in zero weather. It is so perfectly regulated that the furnace varies minutely with the weather, an important contribution to health.

Consider the many savings that gas heat for a building of this magnitude represents. No storage space for fuel or ashes is required, a big item in valuable locations, and one engineer can handle the entire heating system, to say nothing of the great cleanliness, efficiency and comfort!

SCIENCE AND POLITICS

When Edmund Burke, pointing to the reporters' gallery in the house of commons, said that there sat a Fourth Estate more important by far than all the other three, he could not have dreamed that the press would so fully justify his appraisal of its place in countries where parliamentary government obtains.

But since the days of Burke there has risen a group of men and women scattered among the civilized nations who have deserved to be ranked as the Fifth Estate—the world's men and women of science. Their meetings in the past few years in the cultural centers of the world have brought their services to the attention of the public.

Numerically this Fifth Estate has always been feeble and insignificant, but not more so than the Fourth Estate was when Burke made his memorable gesture. It is estimated they number not more than 100,000 in all the world. Its political influence is nil and yet it has recast civilization through its study and application of the fundamental facts and laws of nature.

When its members sit in congress, as they do rarely, they sit in the gallery as mere onlookers. And yet this Estate possesses qualities of incalculable advantage to the public if they could be and were utilized. One wonders whether participation of the Fifth Estate in government would not be more advantageous to all than the participation of those representing a special interest, even though it be as extensive an interest as labor.

Why is it so many men of science and literature look upon politics as outside their sphere and neither seek nor are sought after for public office? Is it because they have so few opinions in common with the representative voter and know they could not be elected, or is it that they are so interested in science and art they are content to let others govern them?

A FORTUNE IN THIS

Man's day is triple, a work day which has been shortened, a leisure day which has been correspondingly lengthened, and a sleep day which, so far as is definitely known, has been neither shortened nor lengthened with the progress of mankind.

Greater mental activity, artificial light, more diversions, and the noises and distractions of the city may have subtracted something from the sleep period of millions. But it may be that modern man needs more sleep to knit up "the raveled sleeve of care."

The change is greater in this day of high-speed living than when man found it easier to make a living and less to rest when he wasn't engaged in the actual business of earning money.

It would be interesting to know how many hours the savage sleeps as compared with the chemist who proposes a chemical substitute for sleep. Science has come to look upon the body as a collection of elements whose reactions determine the physical state of man's being. This has led the chemist to consider the diet which may best supply what the body needs and has suggested to them the idea of discovering, or creating, a catalyst that will so revolve and recombine the elements which sleep has alone been able to convert from the poisonous to the benign that man may have longer days without lessened years.

No other discovery would work such a revolution in human society. It would fatigue the imagination to try to think of the social changes which would follow the discovery of a synthetic substitute for sleep.

Though man for ages has assumed that sleep was foreordained as a blessing to mankind, the scientist who makes sleep unnecessary will be blessed even more than "the man who first invented sleep."

EVOLUTION OF CHELSEA

What is the secret of Chelsea? Why has it enjoyed a steady growth, economic stability and a preeminence among communities equal or larger in population?

There must be a reason or reasons for the magnetic powers exerted by Chelsea in attracting new citizens and recalling those few old residents temporarily relinquished.

Patriotism, community loyalty and civic pride may blind some to the advantages of other towns and to the defects of their "old home town," but they alone cannot and do not account for the high esteem in which this community is held by the traveler and its own citizenry. There is some inspiration back of the extravagant praises of even the most enthusiastic civic booster.

Isn't the real secret of the success of Chelsea as a community the fact that it has, from its earliest beginnings, recognized and confessed its imperfections? A good diagnosis is half the cure. By being first in detecting its "sins of commission and omission," this community has been first in doing what it should do and in causing to do what it shouldn't do.

Some communities are born great, others acquire greatness, and still others have greatness thrust upon them. Chelsea is all three and into one. It was born with certain natural advantages. It acquired by the thriftiness and vision of its citizens industrial, commercial, social and residential superlatives. And greatness is being thrust upon it by every passing tourist, occasional enjoy of business and even more scrutinizing visitor.

World's most popular low-priced quality six

Pontiac Six sales are now at record-breaking heights. No other low-priced quality six ever enjoyed such popularity—and no other car ever deserved its popularity more! For the New and Finer Pontiac Six is exactly the car that hundreds of thousands had hoped some day would be available!... the highest type of six-cylinder performance... the finest type of bodies known to the industry... the most desirable mechanical features... and new low prices—the lowest prices ever placed on sixes of comparable size, performance and quality!... Small wonder that Pontiac Six popularity is sweeping the nation with wildfire speed! Small wonder that thousands of people are buying new Pontiac Sixes every week!

FORMER CHELSEA GIRL WEDS DETROIT MAN

A lovely wedding which took place Thursday, June 9, in Detroit, was that of Miss Josephine Loretta McQuillan, daughter of Mrs. Ella McQuillan, who was united in marriage with Joseph George Grix, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Grix, at nine o'clock at the Church of the Visitation. Rev. J. William Courtney, of Owosso, cousin of the bride, sung the nuptial mass. Tall standards of pink and white peonies and palms formed a lovely background.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her uncle, Mr. William T. Egan, was most attractive in a bouffant model of ivory satin. The bodice and long sleeves were marked with extreme simplicity, which was relieved by a wide band of Chantilly lace through the skirt. The long tulle veil was held in place by a band of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Cecelia McQuillan, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a model of pink chiffon fashioned with a long waist and three tiered skirt. Bands of chiffon formed a bateau neckline and fell to the bottom of the skirt. A large hat of pink horsehair trimmed in matching velvet and pink satin slippers completed her costume. Her flowers were Ophelia roses and pink larkspur tied with pink tulle.

Her bridesmaids, Misses Laleen and Florence McQuillan, sisters of the bride, were attired alike in orchid and green chiffon. Their gowns were fashioned with circular skirts and bolero berthas. Their hats and slippers were similar to those of the maid of honor. They carried Columbia roses and pink larkspur tied with tulle to match their gowns.

The little flower girl, Helen McGillivray, cousin of the bride, wore a dainty dress and bonnet of pink chiffon and carried a basket of pink rose buds.

Norbert Grix assisted his brother as best man, while Harold Meade of Jackson and Merle Grix acted as ushers.

Mrs. McQuillan, mother of the bride, wore a gown of blue crepe-roman trimmed in flesh and a blue hat. Her corsage was of roses and pink sweet peas.

Mrs. Grix, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in green crepe with a hat of the same shade. She wore a corsage of roses and orchid sweet peas.

A breakfast for the wedding party and immediate families followed at the home of the bride on Tuxedo Avenue.

The McQuillan family are former Chelsea residents, and the bride is a graduate of Chelsea high school.

on a package of French gloves. The consignee was refused the bill of lading until he was willing to pay the necessary duty. He discovered that all the goods were so handled. Then he refused to pay them. So the customs authorities were over and 'in due' course the goods were sold for a mere song. He then ordered a package of rich goods to arrive, and the same process was followed.

This was merely part of a scheme to cheat the customs. The packages of gloves were acquired at a low price, and the duty was not to be custom by the consignee at less than the duty payable, and the goods could be sold, for all the loss, at a profit. The same process was followed.

"Spooners" Long Known
Nowadays when lovers glide in the dark and whisper words of love, they are called "spooners." The origin of the word "spooning" goes back nearly 500 years. In the days of the young man called or the girl, some time he would spoon and she would present her with a "love spoon." There was a hand-made utensil with two bowls on a single stem, meaning that the engagement was soon to follow.

There would be fewer fights if everybody understood precisely what anybody else was trying to explain. Washington Star.

COOPERATION FROM GOVERNMENT GIVES FILM AUTHENTICITY

"Tell It To The Marines" an Authentic Picture of Life in the Marine Corps.

Through negotiations with the United States government and the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, life in the United States Marine Corps, aboard battleships, in barracks and in the field action, has been filmed in what is probably the most elaborate attempt ever made to picture the actual life of a great government service.

This was done in "Tell It To The Marines," the new epic of the Marine Corps, at the Princess Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, June 22 and 23. It was played aboard battleships and in Marine barracks, on the field with regular members of the Marine Corps in battle and maneuvers, in a romantic story in which a notable cast tells the life-story of the "soldiers of the sea."

Leon Chaney plays the principal character role in the gigantic production, in which the great battle fleet practice of the Pacific fleet is shown; in which the huge guns are seen in action; in which Marines, in the field, fight a battle against Chinese bandits in which 1,200 men take part, and other thrilling details.

The picture was staged on a huge scale; entire Chinese towns were built and destroyed; the whole Pacific fleet cooperated in some of the most spectacular scenes of the big picture, and the camera followed the Marine Corps all over the world.

George Hill directed the new picture, with William Haines in the romantic lead as a recruit under Chaney's tutelage, Eleanor Boardman as the heroine, and a cast that includes Carmel Myers, Eddie Gribbon, Mitchell Lewis, Maurice Kohn, Daniel C. Tomlinson, and others of note.

Several hundred regular Marines and officers take part in the spectacular details on board ship and in action in Manchuria.

FERTILIZER NEEDED FOR LIGHTER SOILS

Crops grown on soil that was limed returned $7.36 more an acre than upon untreated soil and the added value of crops grown on fertilized soil was $6.06 more than on unfertilized according to experiments conducted in Cass county by the soils department of Michigan State College.

These experiments have been carried on for the past 10 years and the figures given are the average yearly increase in the value of the crops of the soil upon which lime and fertilizers have been used. The soil where the experiments have been conducted is sandy and is underlain with a clay subsoil.

The trials of the values of fertilizers and lime have been conducted on 125 plots on the Cass County Farm near Cassopolis. A demonstration will be held on the farm June 21 at which all the data obtained in the past year will be explained to visitors.

During the ten years in which the trials have been conducted, a return of $90 an acre has been obtained by the use of lime. The costs of lime have been $16.35 per acre for the ten year period. The difference, $7.36, is the profit from the use of lime.

The figures that show the benefits from the use of fertilizers were obtained in a similar manner. The experiments showed that upon this type of soil a complete high-grade is needed.

Crystal Said to Hold World's Oldest Drink

In the Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia there is what is thought to be the oldest drink in the world, unless there are some older ones embedded in the earth, which is where this one came from. It is a specimen of water found in which there is a cavity several inches long and in this there is about a half a pint of liquid, presumably water. The information is contained in the country and the specimen has been there almost from the beginning, but until recently it has never been on public view. During its stay at the academy there has been no noticeable dipping of the material included in the specimen. There are other such specimens, but this is the largest known and has qualities which make it quite valuable in the eyes of the scientists who are watching it to see if the qualities become changed in any way. This was uncovered in Russia, N. Y., in 1898.

In one variety of blue quartz from Bucks county, Pennsylvania, in addition to the bubble there are minute crystals which are constantly in motion, which has possibly been continuous for millions of years.

But Why Quibble Over Small Matter of Name?

A San Francisco woman tells of an entertainment she wished to give to some friends, at which she desired the services of a mandolin quartet, of which one of her servants had spoken on many occasions. She, therefore, commissioned the maid to ask the quartet to come to the house and play for her guests.

That evening three colored men bearing saxophones appeared on her porch, and one of them announced himself solemnly as "de leader of de mandolin quartet."

"But where is the fourth musician?" asked the lady.

"We all is here," said the leader with pride. "We's de mandolin quartet."

"But aren't those saxophones you have in your hands?" feebly inquired the lady.

"Yas'm," said the man patiently. "Yas'm. Dey's three of us, an' we plays de saxophone, but we all's de grandio tin quartet."

Popular Malay Name

The name "Tina" is said to be almost as common in Malaya as Mary or Jane is here. Translated, it means "tin."

Mirages in Ocean

Mirages are frequent under favorable atmospheric conditions on the southern and eastern sides of the ice regions, where the cold and warm waters mix. Hugs often appear inverted and assume fantastic shapes, causing them to appear much larger than they prove to be when close by. There is a record of a berg the image of which was sighted over twenty miles away in the mixed waters south of the tail of the Grand Banks, appearing first as three bergs, one seen upon the other, with the mirage continually changing shape as the ship approached.

Cheer in Being Busy

Cheerfulness is the daughter of employment; and I have known a man come home in high spirits from a funeral, merely because he had had the management of it.—Bishop Horne.

Amethyst Superstitions

The amethyst was worn in ancient Egypt. Amethyst scarabs were highly esteemed by Egyptian soldiers, who wore them on the battlefield as a charm against death and the shafts of war. This practice survived into the Middle Ages, when the amethyst was regarded as the stone sacred to St. Valentine, who is said always to have carried one.

A powerful talisman for the protection of riders and their horses was a winged image of a horse engraved upon an amethyst. A modern version of this belief is that the ownership of an amethyst will give vigilance to business men, and sportsmen and soldiers' calmness in the hour of danger.

Lesson in Famous Painting

Briefly, the explanation of the famous painting called "The Huguenot" is as follows: By order of the Duc de Guise, issued before St. Bartolomew's day, "all good Catholics" were enjoined to wear a white scarf as a distinguishing badge. The young woman pleads with her lover as she strives to fasten the symbolic white scarf. The lover will die in the morning. As one writer suggests, the picture is reminiscent of the famous line, "I could not love thee, dear, so much, loved I not honor more."

The Object of Education

The entire object of true education is to make people not merely do the right things, but enjoy the right things—not merely industrious, but to love industry—not merely just, but to hunger and thirst after justice.—John Ruskin.
