Scarlet Uniform Not Conspicuous in Field

The writers of American school histories have frequently taken occasion to remark scornfully upon the scarlet uniform worn by the British regulars in the campaigns against the Indians.

Scarlet comes next, with dark gray, blue and green in the order named. In target practice it has been found that all colors of scarlet are most difficult to hit. Light green is almost invisible under the violet tinge of electric lights, and would, therefore, be an excellent color for the uniforms of naval scouts who would be exposed to the rays of an enemy's searchlights.

Tracing Cliff Dwellers

The term "cliff dwellers" is used to designate the supposed extinct builders of the numerous cliff ruins scattered throughout the canyons of the Southwest, along the upper rivers of the Colorado and Rio Grande, in Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico.

For a long time their origin was a subject of much discussion, but recent investigation has proved that these ruins are not the work of any extinct race, but were built by the immediate ancestors of the modern Pueblo Indians, some of whom, notably the Hopi, still have their villages on the summits of almost inaccessible mesas.

Evidences of cliff dwellers have also been found in various parts of Europe, having existed during an early period in the history of man.

Midget Elephants

An English naturalist recently discovered in Sumatra an insect which produces a milky fluid having the properties of camphor. It has been suggested that in the future camphor may be obtained by raising these insects just as silk is produced by raising silkworms.

HELPING CRIPPLED CHILDREN IS HEARTILY ENDORSED

The work of making useful citizens out of helpless crippled children is finding hearty endorsement throughout the state, Paul H. King, of Detroit, secretary-treasurer of the Michigan Society for Crippled Children, declared in Detroit in reporting progress of the society's Thanksgiving enrollment, which closes November 24.

"The enrollment is progressing splendidly," he said. "Clare, Huron, Genesee, Isabella, Kalamazoo, Muskegon, Ontonagon, Oakland, Ottawa, Washtenaw and Wayne counties are already well started, and others will be going in the next few days. In most of these counties, annual meetings of the chapters are being held, to which others interested in the problem of the crippled child are also invited, and these members in turn bring in others. In several of the counties house-to-house canvasses are being made."

"The chief difficulty right now," Mr. King continued, is that some people seem to think that the passage of the new law has settled the problem. Nothing could be further from the fact. We have only just started. The passage of the new law simply means that the State of Michigan has begun to take an interest in the work. This is splendid, but we cannot relax our efforts in the slightest degree. We must see that the law is applied in every county, and we must present the needs so forcibly to the next legislature that the convalescent schools which we asked for this year but could not get, because of the condition of the treasury, are authorized. There is much to be done, and the cause merits the active support of every man, woman, and child in the state."

Long-Buried Treasure

Pacifica canyon, in the mountains west of San Fernando mission in California, contains, according to tradition, a great chest of gold-beaten into the form of plates and platters for altar and dining service. Some estimates place the value of the treasure at $1,000,000. Pacifica canyon is wild and rugged but men have time and again tried to find the treasure. Aided by a map on a tanned sheepskin, sketched with a hot metal point by a San Fernando padre himself, the seekers have been unable to find the chest.

If tradition is true history, the chest contains the largest assortment of gold plates and platters ever beaten into form by Indian smiths of any of the missions in the California, either below or above the Mexican boundary line. Rojero Rocha, gold and silver smith at the San Fernando mission, not only helped beat the plates and platters, but he was one of the trusted party that hid the golden vessels when word came that United States soldiers were marching down the San Fernando valley. A few weeks before Rocha died, he took from his old wooden chest a piece of tanned sheepskin, bearing traces of a hot metal point, and told one of his Indian friends it was a map showing the location of the buried gold. However, efforts to follow the map to the chest of gold have been futile.—Lantern McPhetridge, in the National Republic.

Nightingale No Right on Poetic Pedestal?

The poets have the nightingale wrong. He is the noisiest, most inconsiderate, most obstreperous and jaunty bird in the whole kingdom of birds. H. D. Lawrence, writing in the Forum, asserts. How John Keats managed to begin his "Ode to a Nightingale" with "My heart aches, and a drowsy numbness pains my senses," is a mystery to anybody acquainted with the actual thing. You hear the nightingale universally shouting: "What? What? What? John? Heartaches and a drowsy numbness pains? tra-lala, tri-li-li-li-li-li-li."

And why the Greeks said he, or she, was sobbing in a bush for a lost lover, again I don't know.

Because, in sober fact, the nightingale sings with a ringing, pinching vividness and a pristine assertiveness that makes a mere man stand still. The nightingale is the most unsexed thing in the world; even more unsexed than the peacock full of gleam. He has nothing to be sad about. He feels perfect with life.

Their Private Fish Pond

About every third fish in the North sea ends by being eaten either in England or in Holland. If you drop a ring, either in Boston or in London, your chance of seeing it again is very small. But if you will send it to the English fishery board, they will tie it to the tail of a fish and let it loose in the North sea; and every third time you will get your ring back.—Alfred North Whitehead in the Atlantic Monthly.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE WILL REGISTER PISTOLS HERE

In a letter to the Standard dated November 7, Sheriff Ernest M. Wurster of this county, states he will be in Chelsea at the Farmers & Merchants Bank this afternoon, November 10, for the purpose of inspecting and registering revolvers or pistols under the "Pistol Bill" No. 372, Public Acts of 1927, which makes it compulsory for every one owning or having in their possession a revolver or pistol under thirty inches in length over all.

Sheriff Wurster will also be at the Dexter Savings Bank, Dexter, Tuesday, Nov. 15th; The Union Savings Bank, Manchester, Thursday, Nov. 17, afternoons only in all places. Beside these times registration can be made any time at the sheriff's office in Ann Arbor. Every owner must appear in person and bring his gun.

WILL HAVE CITY BASKET BALL TEAM THIS WINTER

Various members of the city basketball team which played last winter met at the Firemen's hall on Monday evening preparatory to organizing for the coming winter. Practices will be started about Thanksgiving time and the promise is for a team as good if not better than last year. Two games are expected to be scheduled for about holiday time.

Next Monday evening at the same place at 8 o'clock the boys will have another meeting to which all interested are invited. Officers will be elected at this time.

AGED FARMER ROBBED OF $5,000 MONDAY NIGHT

George Richmond, an aged farmer, who with his sister, lives two miles east of Gregory, was held up and robbed by two armed men, Monday night, of $5,000 in mortgages, securities and money, which he kept in a small safe in his home.

About 9:30 in the evening an automobile stopped in front of the Richmond home and two men came to the door and knocked, asking for gasoline. They stepped into the house and one drew a revolver and compelled Mr. Richmond to open the safe, concealed under a stairway, and give them the money and securities. Then the pair jumped in the automobile, which Mr. Richmond believes contained two other men, and drove away.

When he endeavored to use the telephone to notify officers of the robbery Mr. Richmond discovered that the robbers had taken the precaution to cut the wires. He was compelled to walk a quarter of a mile to another telephone before he could give the alarm.

Finland's Claims to Fame

Finland is a land of superlatives. It is the northernmost republic on the globe; it was the first country to give absolute equal suffrage to women; it was the first nation to adopt prohibition; it has the greatest forest area of any country in Europe; it boasts the largest paper mill in Europe; it has the greatest number of lakes of any country—85,000—and it boasts of not merely a "thousand islands" but 30,000; says a travel writer in the Pathfinder Magazine, Finland for six centuries was under the sway of Sweden; then for a century it was dominated by Russia and finally, in 1918, the country attained its long cherished ambition and was formed into a republic. The government is headed by a President who is chosen for six years, and the laws are made by a diet consisting of a single chamber.

Humorous Definitions

London schoolboys either have an unusual penchant for what are generally known as howlers, or else the London schools have an unusually astute publicity agent. Anyway, says a correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, not the least of the humor that enlivens the London press arises in that way. The latest group of juvenile atrocities is:

Glacieren: A garden plant with green leaves.
Macadam: The first Scotchman.
Boudicca: A dangerous serpent found in ancient Britain.
Theodolite: A saint mentioned in a poem by Browning.
Artisan: A kind of wall.

J. Sibley, Central Railroad Company, are hereby notified that Company are hereby notified that at the time and place aforesaid, or at such other time and place thereafter to which said hearing may be adjourned, I shall proceed to receive bids for the construction of said "Hillside Tile Drain," in the manner hereinbefore stated; and also, that at a certain time of letting from nine o'clock in the forenoon until five o'clock in the afternoon the assessment for benefit of said drain shall be made.

And the lands comprised within
Sibley Tile Drain Special Assessment
Districts will be subject to review.
And You and Each of You, Own and persons interested in the aforesaid lands, are hereby cited to appear at the time and place of such letting as aforesaid, and be heard with respect to such special assessments and your interests in relation thereto, as you so desire.
Dated this 1st day of November

DAIRY CO-OP RANKS HIGHEST IN NATION

In his address to the delegates of the Michigan Milk Producers at their eleventh annual meeting held recently at Michigan State College, N. P. Hull, president, stated that the organization had accumulated more assets than any similar cooperative organization in the United States.
Directors elected at the meeting were Roy Potts, Washington; Fred Meyers, Fairhaven; H. D. Norton, sr., Howell; and E. T. Powers, Clio.
The president of the organization, Mr. Hull, said that the success of a cooperative venture depended, in a large measure, upon the ability of the person chosen to manage the business, and upon the loyalty of the members of the organization.
The report presented by secretary, John Near, showed that the area that supplies milk for Detroit had grown since 1920, from an area within a radius of 45 miles of Detroit, to one with a radius of 90 miles.
Mr. Near also said that members would find in the near future that it would be most profitable to produce milk that contained at least 3.5 per cent of butterfat.

FARM INCOMES DROP WITH TAX DECREASE

A slight decrease in taxes on rented farms in Michigan in 1925 did not result in an increased net income to their owners as the simultaneous decrease in farm rentals more than equaled the gain from reduced taxes, according to a survey made by Michigan State College cooperative with the United States Department of Agriculture.
The survey included figures on taxes and net returns from 614 rented farms located in the Lower Peninsula.
Farm owners in the southwestern counties of the State fared better than owners in other sections. Taxes were reduced from six to eight cents an acre in southwestern Michigan and there was an increase instead of a decrease in rentals.
Farm land owners in the Thumb and in the cut-over districts found themselves confronted with a slight decrease in taxes but a notable decrease in rentals. The rental decrease in the Thumb reduced the average net per acre from 83 cents to 35 cents.
The net returns in rents to owners of rented farms in Michigan in 1925 averaged 1.13 dollars. This was 10 cents per acre less than the returns in 1925.
Taxes on the farms included in this survey were 54.8 per cent of the net income before payment of taxes in 1925.

Editorial

COMMITTEES

Half a century ago John Hay wrote that "the American mind runs naturally to committees when great men fall." He should have merely said that the American mind runs naturally to committees. Every boy and girl in the United States may hope to be on a dozen or a hundred of them and participate to the height of endurance in that universal sway of committee government on all occasions and in all affairs.

This country has had congressional committees ad nauseam ad infinitum. The war produced committees of all descriptions and the movement to end war has produced as many more. Committees run the federal, state and municipal governments. Every zealot with a pet "cause" organizes a committee. One must search far and long for that which has not yet been made the work of a committee. Of late there have been "their" appearance self-appointed committees for the selection of the best books for the best people to read.

That peculiar twist in human nature which is the fruitful seed of the "association," another pestilence of modernity. Associations are fewer in number than committees only because every association is the father of another clan of committees. If there is anything for or against which no association has yet been formed it is due to an oversight.

Associations and committees have it within their power to do good, but few do. Most of them devote their time and effort to raising money and spending it in the oppression and suppression of those from whom it is solicited. They work principally through high-sounding proclamations, propaganda and statistics that serve their purpose. And they furnish employment to thousands lacking the energy and ability for useful occupations.

COMMON PURPOSE

Anthropologists tell us that man in his early state lived apart with his own little family, and archaeologists say the first communities were formed by confederated families brought together for a common purpose—protection against man's natural enemies. Today, man is distinctly a gregarious animal attracted more and more to community life. And men still build cities for a common purpose, or common cause.

In the city one finds protection against fire, disease and the enemies of society. One goes to the city for good schools and monumental churches, paved streets, employment, art, entertainment, the society of other men and comforts of life denied the rural citizen. There is found the front rank of civilization.

The people of Chelsea have a common purpose. It is the advancement of the community as a whole. That common purpose is hardly distinguishable from the purpose of each individual. That which benefits the individual usually benefits the entire community and that which benefits the community reacts to the benefits of each of its citizens.

Prosperity and progress come to those communities whose citizens have their eyes upon the largest number of common purposes. Success crowns the efforts of the man of purpose, and the city with a common purpose works as one man.

"Common purpose" creates new industries, increases business, minimizes unemployment, makes cities better places in which to live and performs miracles in community betterment.

BANKS AND PROGRESS

To people unacquainted with the inside workings of banking it appears that the bank, so far as progress is concerned, stands still. Change within the structure, of course, can take place but gradually, and for this reason it seems to many that the bank of today is pretty much the same in its essential characteristics and methods as the bank with which the great-grandfathers of this generation did business. The American bank, however, could not have stood still. Its importance in the economic scheme of the nation has forced it to grow with the country.

There are evidences that American banking movements now under way throughout the country promise to make stronger banks, more efficient banks, banks offering a wider service, better understanding of banking both in and out of the cage, closer alliance between banks and public, greater respect for the banking profession and wiser spending and more systematic saving.

Communities are vitally interested in bigger and better banks. The old-fashioned, tradition-bound bank that refuses to adjust itself to changed conditions not only throttles its own development but that of the territory it professes to serve. An efficient, progressive, helpful banking institution reflects itself in a prosperous and industrious community.

The fact that the United States and its thousands of cities and towns have prospered and made progress is the best proof that its banks have not stood still. To no small extent is the development of the country traceable to the functions ably assumed by its providers of credit. Bankers must keep step with progress, and usually do.

Inalienable rights depend upon many things, but chiefly on sleeping with one open.

Two is company, three is an organization that will ask for a congressional appropriation.

A born buck-passer is one who calls the result of his own folly "an act of Providence."

Pity the Egotist
The egotist does not take kindly to criticism, yet because of his exalted opinion of himself is overready to criticize. He is blind to his own mistakes and shortcomings, stubbornly persisting in chosen courses of conduct even after they have cost him dear and their folly has been pointed out to him.

Hamming Motors
With our growing passion for motor cars and airplanes and our neglect of home we may have to change the old song to "Hum, hum, sweet, sweet hum."

The Mechanical Tape Worm

Dependence on the tea kettle method is a nuisance and on the furnace coil method is costly of coal. The only fully satisfactory answer is "you can do it better with gas."

The evolution of water heating within the last ten years has been nothing short of phenomenal, and the result is a gas water heater as nearly perfect as science can produce. You will have one in your home sooner or later. Why not let us install it this month and give you that extra convenience for this winter?

Some folks have an idea that a coil in the furnace supplies hot water without any extra cost. But we are told by those who have made actual scientific tests that the hot water coil in a furnace is very expensive, using up fully one-fifth of every ton of fuel.

Many homes, modern in every other respect still maintain hot water systems that are as unsatisfactory as they are wasteful of time, energy and money.

A Marvel of Dusting Efficiency

PERHAPS you think of the Hoover simply as the finest, the most efficient cleaner of rugs and carpets. It is that. But it is more.

It is equally at home in the dusting of all your furnishings. It gives Hoover cleanliness—and that means thorough cleanliness—to everything it is used on. The dusting tools are light and easy to handle—each one carefully designed for its particular purpose. You'll need them in your housecleaning. And you can have them and the Hoover in your home for only a very small down payment—$6.25. The balance you pay in easy monthly amounts. We also make a liberal allowance for your old cleaner.

Why not telephone and have us bring a Hoover to your home for a test on your own rugs and furniture. You can have either the famous Model 700 Hoover—the finest electric cleaner obtainable today—or the new popular-priced model 543 Hoover, costing no more than an ordinary vacuum cleaner. Both have the famous cleaning principle, "Positive Agitation."

STORY OF THE WAR FINALLY TOLD IN "THE BIG PARADE"

King Vidor Film a Vivid and Stirring Account of Its Realties.

VERY HUMAN DOCUMENT

John Gilbert Does Magnificent Work as the Soldier Hero of Stallings' Story.

"The Big Parade," which will be shown at the Princess Theatre Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 15, 16 and 17, is without doubt the greatest picture in the history of laughter and bitterness are all a part of "The Big Parade." It is a great human document.

It has taken America a decade to attain a proper perspective on the late conflict, but now that the war is over and intelligent thought has been placed to passion and prejudice on the subject, we can at last appreciate a story depicting it faithfully. That is what "The Big Parade" does. There is no glorification of war, nor of flag waving; rather it glorifies heroism and tolerance.

MARL DANE, JOHN GILBERT, TOM O'BRIEN and RENEE ADORRE IN "THE BIG PARADE"

the screen. More vividly than any words ever printed do the scenes of this motion picture tell the story of the World War. It is a King Vidor production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring John Gilbert.

Laurence Stallings, the author, and King Vidor, the director, have conceived and executed a story so great it bears none of the earmarks of the average screen spectacle. It is simple, moving, genuine. Mirth, sorrow,

John Gilbert gives a great and unforgettable portrayal of the American doughboy. He endows the role with all his charm and creates a character that will live forever in the memories of those who see it. Renee Adore plays Mollie, the French girl, in a delightful and inspired manner. The love scenes between the two are romantic gems. Others in the cast who score distinct hits are Karl Dane and Tom O'Brien.
