After two months of rehearsing under the leadership of Julius H. Niehaus, of Ann Arbor, the Chelsea community chorus will appear in a special program of vocal music at the public school auditorium on Tuesday evening, December 6.

While the program in detail has not yet been announced, the various numbers which have been in the course of preparation promise "an unusual quality of musical selections. This program will be announced next week. More than thirty voices, selected from the choirs of all four Chelsea churches and some from the rural districts, will appear in the chorus numbers. Solos, and quartet numbers, will also have a place in the program which will, probably, require almost two hours to render.

Mrs. Oscar Lindauer is accompanying the chorus at the piano.

More than half of these bills were presented by institutions for the care and maintenance of prisoners, patients and delinquents, this service costing $3,328.76. Sheep claims last month amounted to $426.86, which figure is considerably lower than the total for other previous months. Bounties for exterminating dogs found killing sheep were paid to persons for $150.24.

CATHOLIC FAIR WILL OPEN AT AUDITORIUM ON MONDAY

Three Days of Fun and Frolic Will Feature Seventh Annual Event; Various Attractions Offered.

Chelsea and vicinity will have their share of fun and frolic next week when the annual Catholic fair will be held at Herbert J. McKune Memorial Hall on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. This is the seventh event of this nature to be held by local Catholics who are using funds received from this source to defray indebtedness incurred in rebuilding the parish school destroyed by fire a few years ago. Liberal patronage has been accorded them during past years and it is expected this will be continued during next week.

No effort is being spared to show the patronizing public a good time. Entertainment features are numerous. On the opening evening of the fair (Monday) ladies of the church will serve a chicken supper, beginning at 5:30. The quality of these suppers has become traditional and large crowds look forward to a feast with the chicken as the center of attraction.

Door prizes are included in the many inducements offered for attendance, while on the last evening (Wednesday) there will be given away a Chevrolet coach, purchased from the local agency of Dancer & Walt.

She was a member of St. Paul's church and a charter member of the Ladies Aid Society of that church.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN B. COLE CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Cole celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Thursday, November 10, at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Faye Palmer. Mr. and Mrs. Cole were united in marriage November 10, 1877 at Eaton Rapids, and for the past 38 years have resided in Chelsea.

Members of the immediate family were guests at the home of their daughter Thursday evening at 6:00 o'clock dinner, covers being laid for eight guests. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Walworth, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. B. Gole of Wayne, and Dr. and Mrs. Faye Palmer. Centering the table was a beautiful glass basket of yellow baby chrysanthemums. Favors were small gold baskets, and place cards were decorated in gold. A large wedding cake, presented by the bride's sister, and lettered in gold, "1877-1927" was cut by the bride of 50 years ago. Gold and white were used in the decorative color scheme in the home and throughout the dinner.

Late in the evening the following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. Kent Walworth and son Tommie, Mr. and Mrs. George Walworth, and daughter Mary Jean, and Mrs. Jane Glover. Ice cream and cake was served.

A number of lovely gifts were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Cole and congratulations were received from their granddaughter, Miss Maurine Wood of San Francisco, and many others.

CHELSEA HIGH MEETS FIRST DEFEAT OF SEASON

Battling against odds which observers state were insurmountable (that of beating a referee) cost the local high school team their first defeat of this season when Clinton won their tilt last Friday afternoon on Clinton's field. Featured by consistent penalizing of the Chelsea team and many arguments which followed, the game resulted in considerable dissatisfaction of the part of local fans who witnessed the game, not so much for loss of the game, but because of the seeming partiality on the part of the referee.

Chelsea's opportunity for scoring was frustrated by the referee, according to Chelsea school officials, and fans, Kahmer, say witnesses, recovered the ball on a fumble made by a Clinton player and was tearing down the field for a touchdown when the referee blew his whistle and returned the ball to its original playing position in the center of the field. Protests were unavailing in spite of the fact that no valid excuse was given for the decision, and subsequent ones, it is said.

Chelsea won the first game played with Clinton several weeks ago, so now there is a game apiece for each camp. There seems to be only one way to decide the superior playing ability of the teams and that is to play off the tie. It is understood the challenge was given by the locals and turned down by Clinton at the finish of last Friday's game.

Chelsea will witness their last game of this season on the home field on Friday of this week when Manchester plays the first of a series of two games with the local team. The second game will be played on Thanksgiving day at Manchester, and will be the last game of the season so far as the Chelsea school is concerned.

The game Friday will start at 3:45 o'clock and it is hoped a large crowd will turn out to see the scrimmage which promises to be a good one.

SHERIFF WURSTER WILL BE IN CHELSEA AGAIN SOON

Because of the short notice given the public with reference to registration of pistols and revolvers with the sheriff's office, Sheriff Wurster will be in Chelsea again at a later date at which time local residents may register their firearms which measure under thirty inches in length. Sheriff Wurster was at the Farmers and Merchants bank last Thursday afternoon and registered several guns, but public notice of his presence there did not get out in time for many to know of his presence there.

COUNTY CLERK REPORTS OCTOBER FEES TO TREASURER

Fees amounting to $3,107.90 have been turned over to the county treasurer by Clarence L. Pray, county clerk, as the revenue of his department during the last month. This figure is twice the amount turned in last month and four times as large as the fees for August.

Hunting licenses brought the largest return, the clerk's report shows, $1,254.50 being turned in from the sale of these permits. Fines assessed in circuit court amounted to $700 and the costs taxed in criminal cases brought a revenue of $425.

From the sale of fishing licenses $125.40 was realized, the report shows. Justice court costs amounting to $59.25 were collected and stenographer's services brought $78.

Law and chancery fees amounted to $170, jury fees $36 and chancery decree fees $50. Fees from the issuance of marriage licenses amounted to $45 and the clerk collected $127 for making out naturalization papers, according to his report.

The Mechanical Tape Worm

Dependence on the tea kettle method is a nuisance and on the furnace coil method is costly of coal. The only fully satisfactory answer is "you can do it better with gas."

The evolution of water heating within the last ten years has been nothing short of phenomenal, and the result is a gas water heater as nearly perfect as science can produce. You will have one in your home sooner or later. Why not let us install it this month and give you that extra convenience for this winter?

Some folks have an idea that a coil in the furnace supplies hot water without any extra cost. But we are told by those who have made actual scientific tests that the hot water coil in a furnace is very extravagant, using up fully one-fifth of every ton of fuel.

Many homes, modern in every other respect still maintain hot water systems that are as unsatisfactory as they are wasteful of time, energy and money.

Editorial

LEADERS IN NAME ONLY

There is a continuous obligation owed by every individual to the community and especially by those most favored by fortune. Enlightened self-interest should quicken acceptance of the obligation. There is hardly room for argument that what is good for the community is, broadly considered, good for the individual in his work. Conversely, what is good for the individual in the best sense is good for every other man, woman and child in the community.

For much must not be expected from politicians and parties, too often approached from both sides on the basis of a horse trade. Governmental agents must be supplemented by the efforts of private persons who can envision things as they ought to be, and at long range. Politicians and officeholders, regardless of what they may say in their campaigns, are mostly concerned with getting into office and staying in. That is why they are in politics. They are in politics to get into office or to have a hand in putting others in office, as other men and women are in business or professions to make money or a career, or both.

But the politician and officeholder is usually wise enough to know that that which is beneficial to the community or state or nation will best react to his benefit. His motives for serving the public may be selfish but the service is no poorer for that.

No man can long remain in public office or in political control who consistently disregards the will and welfare of the voters. Public service is the foundation upon which he must build his political power. Failure to give satisfactory service has wrecked more political careers than anything else. Convince the majority of the voters that those in office are not giving a fair return, in service, on the dollar, in taxes, and it will take more than a slush fund and political machine to keep them in office.

DO WE HAVE THE COURAGE?

Do we have the courage, or the sense, to face our own shortcomings, to admit to ourselves and to all concerned our errors and mistakes? If we do not have, there is little chance that we shall ever be much better equipped to fight our battles than we are today.

Only obstinacy refuses to confess error and only vanity declines to admit defeat. Obstinacy and vanity are drags upon the chariot of progress. Unless we cut them loose we do not get very far.

The same truth holds for the individual, the group, the community, the nation. History is replete with instances of fine heads battered against the impenetrable wall of unalterable fact, of fine causes lost by enthusiasts who clung tenaciously to original error, of cities stunted because they were too proud to change their habits, of nations wrecked upon the shoals of their selfish desire.

There is no shame in admitting failure or mistake, either to ourselves or to observers. We cannot long delude those who watch, and they will respect us the more highly if we frankly confess, when we miff the ball, that it was our fault.

As long as we are not too vain to face the facts of our conduct there is hope for us. But we will never be useful to our teammates in life as long as we hypnotize ourselves into belief that we have made a home run with the bases full after we have just struck out.

SELF SERVICE

Many good folk are lamenting the passing of the era when men and women consecrated their lives to unselfish service and prepared themselves to become ministers, missionaries, teachers or country doctors that they might administer to the spiritual, mental and physical needs of humanity without thought of large worldly gain. They are not in error when they charge that modern men and women are choosing vocations today in which they can do the greatest service to themselves.

People today are coming to the belief that the best way they can help others is to produce much that their profit shall be large and that they shall never become dependent upon society. The old idea of service was direct. The new service is indirect. Twenty years ago it was still thought that only ministers, doctors and teachers served humanity. Today every workman who carries his whole day's wage home is known to have earned that wage in service to society.

Elbert Hubbard's version of the Golden Rule was, "Do unto others as though you were the others," but an even more up-to-date version is "Do yourself much good and no bad to others." Getting something for yourself is reprehensible only when it is gotten at the expense of another.

No matter which way you drive, if you don't drive the right way it may be the way to jail.

The nice thing about being a man is you don't have to stay home after you wash your head.

It may be that the mills of the gods grind slowly because they get paid for overtime.

And so the earth is losing speed. Well, that sounds hopeful. Perhaps it is on the up-grade.

THE CHELSEA STANDARD

Don't despair. If you can't run, you can sit on the fence and register scorn during the race.

Those German philosophers were nearly right. War won't make a people tough, but grubbing to pay for it will.

Wild Fowls' Triangle

Camels Failed to

Camels and their near relatives, the dromedaries, have been introduced into this country from the Old World at various times. Some were brought to Virginia in 1701. But, owing to lack of knowledge of their habits and of proper methods of caring for them, these attempts have proved failures.

No Asbestos Gas Mantles

Gas mantles are not made of asbestos. The essential elements are the oxides of thorium and cerium called "thoria" and "ceria." These oxides are mixed in certain proportions, usually about 90% per cent thoria to 10 per cent ceria. In order to support them there must be a fabric of some kind. This is usually made of cotton ramie or a celluloid called "artificial silk."

How Graphite is Mined

The mining and purification of graphite used in lead pencils is not unlike the process of silver ore. It is generally found mixed with quartz and mica. It is necessary to pulverize the rock with crushing machinery, which is followed by the extraction of the graphite. Before the graphite is mixed with the clay it is strained through very fine silk sieves, so that all particles the least bit coarse may be removed.

Polar Ice

In the region around the South pole, Sir Ernest Shackleton found various kinds of ice to which he gives interesting names in his new book, "South." Thus one kind he pictures as "young ice"; another as "light pack"; another as "drift ice." Heavy hummocked pack and close pack are the roughest in appearance, with ragged little crags covering all the surface.

Static Sparks

On a dry day the moving parts of machinery throw out sparks of static electricity which sometimes cause an explosion, like the gas in an automobile engine, if the air is heavily laden with dust or any kind of finely pulverized matter. Flour mills, dry cleaning establishments, coal mines and the vicinity of threshing machines are some of the places where fires may result from these explosions.

DEER HUNT IS DESCRIBED

BY JAMES GILBERT

Graphic Story of Trailing the Game Full of Thrills and Interest.

Old Timer, Camped on Runway, Shoots Deer Scared by Newcomer.

The following article was written by a former resident, James Gilbert, an uncle of Howard J. and Clarence Gilbert, of Chelsea, and appeared in a recent issue of the Detroit Times. Mr. Gilbert says:

The track at the edge of the lake was that of a big buck. His toes had spread apart as he straddled out to drink from the lapping shore waves. He had turned and walked slowly along the beach at the north end of the lake, stopping here and there to nibble a bit of wild rose bush and dried bunch grass.

Martin knelt on his knee and examined the track closely. The sun had not dried the loose sand made by the sharp hoofs. The deer was not far away, but as there was no track in the snow the hunter was somewhat handicapped.

Old Timer, with whom he was hunting this season and who had arrived the night before, had told him that the big buck would likely be lying in the hills west of the lake watching his every move. They had viewed the tracks on the beach together before breakfast and Old Timer was going in north to a place he knew, "a sort of a runway where he could sit and let the others run 'em on to him." Old Timer was a crack shot, but preferred to have the deer do the running and he the shooting.

Left to himself the younger man kept a sharp lookout about the lake as he sneaked along. He was all watchfulness and when he came near the tamarack swamp he redoubled his caution.

Suddenly he heard a distinct snort or sniffling, a sort of snorting whistle, dead ahead. He froze in his tracks, and moved not as much as an eyelash. The sound was not repeated. A crackling in the bushes far ahead was all he heard. He came to a plowed fireline and followed it, his feet sinking noiselessly into the sand. For perhaps an hour he sat almost motionless on a log. Soon he heard another crackling—following by a slight thrashing about of the bushes. He could see the tops of aspen saplings moving in the distance.

There followed another interval when no sound came from the bush. Then the hunter saw a light brown spot, almost matching the color of the frost-burned brakes and ferns. It was too far to chance a shot. The deer, a nice buck, about three years old, came into full view, jumping over some underbrush. It stood upright, a splendid target, although more than 300 yards away. Suddenly its head jerked to the side. It sniffed the air toward the hunter and, wheeling suddenly with a frightened whistle, it darted sharply about and crashed away through the woods toward the hardwood ridge west of the lake.

Old Timer shifted his position so as to command a view of the lower country toward the lake. From where he sat he commanded a good view of the two runways where they crossed, one going west toward the dense hardwood, the other north and south between the Lost Lake region and the big cranberry marsh. As he sat idly contemplating the warm and soft coloring in the forest depths, his eye caught a movement far down the hill. Then all was silent and still. A twig snapped far down toward the lake. Then the hurried patter of an animal trotting up toward the hill summit. The man tensed as if to receive a shock, carefully and silently cocked his rifle and waited expectantly. Bushes ahead of him moved perceptibly. Then a deer walked out into the open as unconcerned as a cow in a pasture. It was a young buck about three years old. The rifle cracked. The deer dropped without a move.

Twenty minutes later Martin joined his companion on the runway.

"I saw a deer where I was stationed," said Martin. "He came out but got my scent before I could fire. He made this way and I knew when I heard you shoot that you'd seen him."

Where did you "Got him ju. Cut the main art. Ball split when it never knew what

HOW TO PREVENT FIRES

1. Matches—Be sure your matches are dry and use them before you throw it away.
2. Tobacco—Be sure that pipe ashes and cigar or cigarette stubs are dead before throwing them away. Never throw them into brush, leaves or needles.
3. Making Camp—Before building a fire scrape away all inflammable material from a spot 5 feet in diameter. Dig a hole in the center and keep your camp fire small. Never build it against trees or logs of near brush.
4. Breaking Camp—Never break camp until your fire is out dead out.
5. Brush Burning—Never burn slash or brush in windy weather or while there is the slightest danger that the fire will get away.

A carelessly left campfire—a carelessly thrown match or spark—may mean acres of timber destroyed in a few hours. Only decades of slow growth will replace the loss.

Pine forests catch fire easily. Many travelers from states where there are no forests, or only hardwood forests, do not realize that our northern woods, composed largely of highly inflammable pine, will burn so easily. The mangle pine, will burn so easily. The underlying bed of leaves and dry pine needles acts like tinder in carrying fire from a spark dropped in it. Fires creep underneath this forest floor and appear in distant places.

Be careful! Help preserve the forest treasures for everybody's use.

DOLORES DEL RIO IS IDEAL SELECTION FOR THE EXOTIC ROLE OF PICTURE "CARMEN"

Beautiful Mexican Girl Has All the Fire That Goes With Great Romance of Spain.

The girl with the heart of a woman, the mind of a child and the soul of a woman, "Carmen," at last will be depicted by one who understands the emotions of the famous character born from the prolific pen of Prosper Merimee. Probably for the first time the celebrated story of the little gypsy girl with the flaming eyes and fiery emotions will be portrayed by a real Spanish beauty, one who doesn't need a vivid imagination to conceive of the proverbial passions of Old Seville, for through her veins courses the blood of "Carmen."

She is Dolores Del Rio, reared in romantic Mexico by parents of Spanish nobility, who will be seen in the title role of the William Fox screen version, titled "Loves of Carmen."

Like "Carmen," Miss Del Rio has found herself precipitated from her own circle of friends in the Mexican Capital to the heights of international adoration as a result of her unique beauty and heretofore unrevealed emotional power.

First we saw this raven haired, olive skinned, sinuous limbed bit of feminine loveliness as the adorable Charmaine, the most important attraction of Papa Cognac Pete's roadside inn behind the battlefront of France in "What Price Glory," and in a flash the world acclaimed her as a new star in the film firmament.

She possesses the vivacity, the warmth of feeling, the sexual attraction, the beauty of face, the attractiveness of figure, the racial characteristics, and, above all, the exotic temperament necessary to fit her for the part.

The stage has had "Carmens" of the opera in the persons of Geraldine Farrar, Raquel Meller, Mary Garden, Emma Calvé and others of more or less renown, and Theda Bara at the height of her vamping fame portrayed the wild-rose of Spain on the screen but none equalled the physical "Carmen" she will be seen in the form of Dolores Del Rio.

Again, as in the other Fox motion picture, "What Price Glory," Dolores is the foil to the amorous wooing of Victor McLaglen, the British soldier of fortune, the bronze giant with the infectious smile, the devil-may-care spirit and the ever youthful recklessness which has won a place in the hearts of picture lovers everywhere. "Loves of Carmen" will open an engagement of four days at the Arcade Theatre, Ann Arbor, Sunday, November 20.

FARMERS PAID LARGE SUM FOR BORER WORK

Michigan growers in the corn borer infested area of the state received exactly $1,403,044.83 from the federal government for their extra labor in fighting the European pest last spring, the Bureau of Entomology has advised Michigan State College authorities.

The corn borer act passed by the last Congress provided payment to farmers in five states in an amount not to exceed $2.00 for their extra work in ridding their premises of corn stalks and stubble. The result of the clean-up was a retarding of the increase and spread of the corn borer, surveys have shown.

Ohio, having the most corn acreage under quarantine, was first with $2,274,589.01 in the total amount received; Michigan, second, followed by Pennsylvania with $246,897.04; Indiana with $216,335.89; and New York with $47,662.51.

Payments by counties in Michigan were approximately as follows: Bay, $16,832; Branch, $1,739; Calhoun, $0.007; Genesee, $1,822; Hillsdale, $3,198; Huron, $2,890; Ingham, $3,287; Jackson, $2,203; Kalamazoo, $2,638; Lenawee, $2,596; Eapeer, $9,730; Livingston, $9,279; Macomb, $4,417; Monroe, $10,622; Oakland, $4,719; Saginaw, $2,855; St. Clair, $5,214; St. Joseph, $9,047; Sanilac, $5,589; Shiawassee, $5,698; Tuscola, $5,610; Washtenaw, $8,708; and Wayne, $2,021.

DEVELOPMENT OF CUT-OVER LAND

Old Lumber Town in Upper Peninsula Transformed Into Attractive Park Resort.

Blaney, Mich.—When the virgin timber supply was exhausted by lumber and logging operations, conducted for a number of years by the Wisconsin Land & Lumber Company of Hermansville, Mich., this town became merely an ugly blot on the landscape.

The important question then arose of how best to utilize the cut-over lands so that they become a real asset to the entire State of Michigan and especially to this part of the upper peninsula.

After exhaustive research and study, the idea was conceived to establish a resort that would be entirely different from the usual resort proposition. Blaney Park Resort, which was recently dedicated to the public, was the result of this idea. The 22,000 acres immediately adjacent to this point now presents to the passing tourist and to the more permanent visitor a scene of beauty and attractiveness unequalled anywhere in the northern country.

As the motorist speeds into sight of Blaney on either of two of the important trunk lines that penetrate the upper peninsula he finds a handsome commodious hotel; clean, attractive looking cottages and lawns, a complete water works and electric light system and in the distance a lovely little lake. A splendid nine-hole golf course is being laid out by a professional golf engineer and in the background is a forest of mixed hardwoods and pines that affords the lovers of nature every facility for exploring the woods and enjoying the trees, the birds, the game and the wild flowers.

Thus, an old lumbering operation has been transformed into something artistic and useful in the way of development of the upper peninsula.

Think It Over

You don't have to belong to the "golfing classes" to be honest; you don't have to belong to the "capitalistic class" to become wealthy. Most other popular beliefs are about as well founded as those.—Exchange.

Easier, Better CLEANING

Granted all the time and energy in the world, you still could not do as thorough a piece of housecleaning without the Hoover as you can with it. And you could never do it as easily. You aren't as tireless as this faithful helper—you can't stand up under the heavy tasks of cleaning and dusting which it does so lightly and so perfectly. Why try to do what the Hoover does better and more easily? You can have a Hoover for a down payment of only $6.25, balance monthly. Liberal allowance for your old cleaner.
