CHELSEA'S BURGLARS CAUGHT IN JACKSON

Finger Prints Secured Here Fastened
The Crime Upon Them And They
Confessed—Had Bad Record

Sheriff E. M. Wurster and Deputy Sheriff C. R. Snyder of Ann Arbor were Chelsea visitors last Thursday afternoon and while here they reported the result of their investigation of the recent robberies in Chelsea, when thieves entered David Mohrlock's garage and the Ann Arbor Dairy Company's plant. The morning of the robbery Mr. Snyder came to Chelsea and he secured some very good finger prints which were afterwards developed at the county jail. Two Chelsea boys were suspected and taken to Ann Arbor, but after taking their finger prints they were released from custody, a fact that pleased everybody here. Then began the search for the fellows who did pay Chelsea a visit. Monday of last week two young fellows by the name of Ingold Harris, aged 23, and Arthur Hanson, aged 22, who gave their home as Minnesota, were arrested by the police in Jackson under suspicion of having committed a number of robberies in that city. One of the fellows was shot in the arm as he tried to make his escape after having attempted to break into the safe of the Dean Fuel & Supply Co., of that city. On Tuesday they were confronted by John A. Pawelke, finger print expert of the State Bureau of Identification at Lansing, who had in his possession the "prints" secured here in Chelsea. "The effectiveness of the finger-print identification," stated the Jackson Tribune, "was proven in an illuminating manner when Pawelke showed Harris a small cheese carton and pointed out to him the left thumb impression of Arthur Hanson and described just how Hanson and Harris on the night of July 31, last, broke into the Ann Arbor Dairy Company and stole approximately $50 from the cash drawer. "The cheese carton furnished the only clue to the identity of the robbers. In his recklessness, Hanson picked up the carton of cheese and took one bite, leaving the impression of his left thumb and his lips. He then carelessly replaced the carton on the shelf. "Listening to this detailed account of their actions, Harris smiled and admitted that he and his companion did rob the creamery; and also that they robbed the Charles Farley filling station, at Leslie, on the night of August 29, 1924; and that they "pulled" at least two filling station robberies in Lansing, following the same job. "In his signed confession Tuesday Harris told a story of exciting life in Zion City, Ill., several towns in Wisconsin and finally how he and Hanson were arrested and "sent up" in Minnesota. Yesterday's confession brought the total of admitted robberies to 12, and police officials are confident that the major share of pilfering which has been going on in Jackson for the past two months, has been solved. Mr. Pawelke, through whose efforts the additional information was supplied in this case, has established an enviable reputation throughout this section of the country for his ability. He was directly responsible for the arrest of the famous trio, Peter and Stanley Janowski and Jimmie Fudge, in June, 1926. This gang confessed to 30 safe cracking jobs and 18 burglaries, six of which were done in Jackson. "These young fellows seemed to have lived a life of crime for many years. They were orphaned when young boys and had to shift for themselves, with the result that their paths lead them into trouble. They were at the reformatory in Minnesota for four years and soon after their release they drifted to Michigan where they continued their life of crime. "The Standard is pleased to be able to record the fact that no one in Chelsea had anything to do with these recent robberies. Two young fellows were suspected and were afterwards released, which ought to teach us all a good lesson—do not be too anxious to point the finger of scorn or condemnation until we are in possession of all the facts.

OUR COUNTY FAIR WILL OPEN TUESDAY

The Ninth Annual Fair Gives Promise
Of Excelling All Former Efforts
—Many Improvements Made
—Liberal Premiums

In a few more days the ninth annual Washtenaw County Fair will open its gates—Tuesday, August 28th is the time. The board of directors have all been working hard to make this year's fair excel anything that has been attempted before in the way of a fair. They feel that the fair has been established in the minds of the people of Washtenaw county and surrounding districts, as a real institution; something that is looked forward to every year by many people as the one event of the year, that it is a real county event, a real get-together time where families renew family ties, friend-renew acquaintances and where new friends are made. Where people meet and exchange ideas, see what the other fellow is doing, see what is new in the line of agriculture, industry and education. That is what we hope and feel that the Washtenaw County Fair should mean to its patrons.

CHELSEA'S PUBLIC SCHOOLS WILL OPEN SEPTEMBER 4

Teachers And Pupils Have Enjoyed
Their Vacation And Will Soon
Be Back At Work Again

The Chelsea public schools will open on Tuesday, September 4th, with an able corps of teachers. Everything about the building and grounds has been put in fine condition for a successful year's work. Classification of high school students will take place at the High School building on Monday, August 27th, between the hours of 9:00 a. m. and 4 p. m. All students should classify at that time. Chelsea has a reason to be proud of its fine school system and those in charge of the school solicit the cooperation of parents and all citizens in an effort to make the coming year the most successful and enjoyable in the history of our school. Teachers, no matter how competent and efficient, cannot do all the training—parents ought to be willing to help and assist the faculty in every way possible.

SATURDAY IS THE LAST DAY FOR REGISTRATION

Next Saturday will be the last day for electors to register for the primary election. The voters who have not registered, and there are several in Sylvan who have not as yet applied for registration, should do so at once if they desire to vote at the September election. The Sylvan board of registration will be in session in The Standard office next Saturday from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. You can have your name placed on the poll books any day this week, by calling on the clerk. All naturalized citizens should bring their papers with them so that the date of issuing them can be entered in the books. All voters who have moved from one voting precinct to another should also notify the clerk so that the change of location can be entered in the proper voting precinct.

OUR COUNTY FAIR WILL OPEN TUESDAY

The Ninth Annual Fair Gives Promise
Of Excelling All Former Efforts
—Many Improvements Made

In a few more days the ninth annual Washtenaw County Fair will open its gates—Tuesday, August 28th is the time. The board of directors have all been working hard to make this year's fair excel anything that has been attempted before in the way of a fair. They feel that the fair has been established in the minds of the people of Washtenaw county and surrounding districts, as a real institution; something that is looked forward to every year by many people as the one event of the year, that it is a real county event, a real get-together time where families renew family ties, friend-renew acquaintances and where new friends are made. Where people meet and exchange ideas, see what the other fellow is doing, see what is new in the line of agriculture, industry and education. That is what we hope and feel that the Washtenaw County Fair should mean to its patrons.

Considerable improvement has been made on the grounds and buildings, among them a new horticulture building, new addition to the poultry building for the dog show. This is a new department in the fair put on simply to take care of the dog fanciers. New seating arrangements have been made on the grand stand in the shape of box seats down in front, new band stand, buildings painted, new judging ring constructed. In fact everything has been done to make the visit to the fair this year more pleasant than ever before.

Next week is fair week and we hope that everybody in the county will take at least one day and night off and visit the Fair. We believe you will not be disappointed.

TWO CARS COLLIDE AT FLETCHER ROAD

Mrs. Machan, the wife of a Battle Creek grocer, and her son were motoring to Detroit last Friday night in order that she might be with her daughter who was to undergo an operation in a Detroit hospital the following morning. As they approached the intersection of U. S. 12 and the Fletcher road a car driven by Carl Barth came from the south and crashed into the side of their car, causing the young man who was driving to lose control, with the result that his car went off the north side of the pavement and in its flight struck a telephone pole fully a foot in diameter which was cut off just above the ground. As soon as Mr. Barth could get out of his car he rushed to the assistance of the occupants of the other machine and with rare presence of mind was able to break the glass in the rear of the car, a handsome new Hudson, and through the opening the young man was able to climb out and to assist his mother to safety.

Very soon after the car crashed into the pole the wrecked machine was enveloped in flames and how the two occupants escaped death is a mystery. Mrs. Machan was attended by Dr. A. A. Palmer of this village and was sent to her home in Battle Creek on a late car. About the time this accident occurred a daughter met with an accident in Battle Creek and suffered a broken ankle.

VILLAGE COUNCIL STILL CONSIDERING SEWER PROJECT

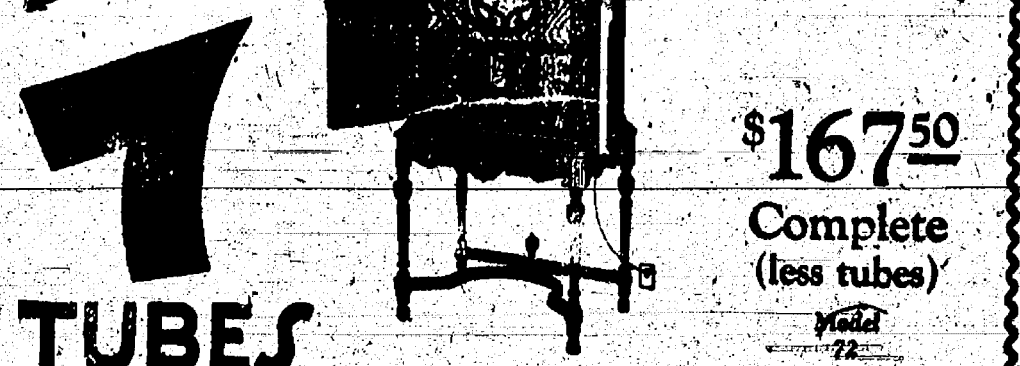

At the meeting of the Chelsea common council Monday evening, the committee which was appointed to investigate the sewer proposition several weeks ago, reported that they had received a communication from Engineer George Champe, of Toledo, in which he stated that he had been in communication with the state authorities and that they have waived the construction of septic tanks at present. He further stated that by this means a sewer connection could be made with the state one at the intersection of Main and Lincoln streets. Then west and north from Lincoln street to Mill creek. This, he thought, would furnish relief for South Main street.

County Drain Commissioner Deake and his engineers were present, and made no report. Tuesday by request of one of the engineers from Mr. Deake's office, a special meeting was called by President Haselswerdt for Friday night of this week to discuss the matter more fully.

CHELSEA'S RESORT BUSINESS

The business which has come to Chelsea this summer as a result of its nearness to the many numerous lakes which abound in this section has amounted to a good many thousands of dollars and our resort development is just in its infancy. To be sure we have had resorts at near-by lakes for years where many families in this section have gone for a few weeks or a few months, but that has not increased the business of the local merchants to any degree like the tourists who have visited this section this season. One can scarcely go out upon the streets without seeing a group of resorters from some lake situated not far from Chelsea. They come here for their provisions and for their mail and, naturally, while here they are visiting the numerous stores of the village where they frequently make purchases of various amounts.

The trouble has been we have been so close to these advantages and privileges so long that we have failed to appreciate them, and it is taking the visitors within our gates to show us just how these lakes and restful places are regarded by those who come from a distance. It would seem that the time has arrived to let the people of the state know what we have to offer as a summer play-ground. The season is now drawing to a close, but before another summer arrives there ought to be a concerted action taken to advertise our lakes to those who delight to get out in the open for a few days or a week or for week-end jaunts. The cost will not be great, but the results will be amazing.

As a matter of fact, we sometimes wonder if we fully appreciate all that we have to enjoy in this favored community. We have excellent schools, prosperous churches, an abundance of good, pure water, fine gas and electric service, good roads, prosperous farmers—what more can any community offer. And yet we are sitting so tight that we do not let the outside world know much about these benefits.

The merchants and business men of Chelsea have a wonderful opportunity to help themselves and at the same time help the community by uniting on some plan that will let our neighbors know what this section has to offer. This newspaper is anxious and willing to do its share, but we ought not to be expected to do all the boosting.

If every business firm in this village would advertise in this newspaper, the trading area of Chelsea could be greatly increased and business could be kept at home which now goes to other places.

THE BAND CONCERTS

The ease with which the summer band concerts were financed clearly demonstrates the truth of that old adage—"In union there is strength." So generous was the response on the part of those to whom the subscription paper was presented that more than enough money was subscribed to meet all the expenses of the concerts and no more collections will be made. Marshal William Atkinson very generously gave freely of his time to make the weekly collections until enough funds had been secured and turned over to H. S. Grove, who circulated the subscription paper and who has acted as chairman of the committee.

The concerts have been greatly enjoyed and they have attracted people to Chelsea from considerable distance. They were not planned as a money-making enterprise, but rather as a means of expressing the appreciation of the business men and citizens of Chelsea for the loyal support given local business enterprises by the people of the surrounding country. You do not, as a rule, expect your guests to pay for their entertainment. We are glad the concerts have been given and especially pleased because they have attracted to Chelsea on Wednesday nights a jolly, merry crowd of people who have thus been privileged to spend a pleasant evening, to meet and to greet their friends, and who, we are very sure, feel a kindly interest in the success of their home town.

A TRIBUTE TO HOWELL WOMEN

McPherson Memorial Hospital is today a reality. A dream of five years ago, today it stands a monument to the efforts of the women's organizations of our city. This hospital was conceived by our women, worked for by our women, and today it stands, an enduring memorial to the co-operative efforts of the women's societies of our community. The long list of donors, individually and collectively are but evidence of the spirit of our community when, led by persevering and united efforts of our women. All honor to a united womanhood and a community that follows the lead of these noble women.—Livingston County Press, Howell.

If all the women of every community could be made to realize the influence they might assert toward every worthy improvement they could accomplish a great deal. There are things here in Chelsea that the women of the village could do if they would become interested in the up-building and improving of the town, and once interested in these civic matters they would find they could accomplish a great deal.

PROTECT THIS COMMUNITY

Peddlers selling everything from mouse traps to rain coats ply their trade in this community with regularity and with more or less success. Dresses, and lingerie, silk hose and salve, coffee and vacuum cleaners, all are distributed by the ardent callers who work on women with their various wiles.

We ought to remember, when these folks call, that the men who are paying the bulk of our town taxes to keep things going, and through whose efforts the town is the good place to live in that it is, are selling the same articles of probably better quality at lower prices. It isn't fair to pay cash to the peddler and make the home merchant wait. It isn't fair to the merchant to buy of peddlers at all.

"WHAT SHALL WE DO?"

An editor's path is usually well filled, sometimes with flowers, and sometimes with thorns. Some find fault if they are not mentioned in the personal columns and others sputter when there whereabouts are mentioned. Question, what shall we do? We often find our position like the old couple who, ignorant of city life, stopped at a hotel to spend the night and as they were about to retire, observed a card hanging on the gas jet which read: "Don't blow out the gas," and just below it the words, "two dollars extra will be charged if the gas is allowed to burn all night." Upon seeing it the old man exclaimed, "Mother, what shall we do?"—Exchange.

WILLIAM FEATHER'S SAYINGS

A good thought, well expressed, is often a source of inspiration to thousands whom the author never sees.

A husband's first idea is to protect his wife but it slowly dawns on him that he'll be doing well if he protects himself.

By the time the members of a committee have eaten lunch and learned the purpose of the meeting, it's time to adjourn.

Life is sometimes like continuous vaudeville—half the people are looking around for "This Way Out" and the other half for "This Way In."

If a business man expects to hold his job he must please his customers.

just as a congressman must satisfy his constituency if he hopes to be returned to office.

If it weren't for women some men would never enjoy a sense of superiority, and other men would never suffer from a sense of inferiority.

Nobody likes compulsion but we must all submit to it if we hope to get along in this world.

Waterloo circuit still on the map for service. Only four more Sundays before annual conference, and much needs to be done by all. Redesigning all church organizations, and finishing all work of the year, and all finances met in full, that all reports might be in on time.

Benevolent interests, and seminary interests should be cared for at an early date, as it is needed to meet payments by Sept. 1, 1928.

We are making progress in the work and not making time wholly, but are seeing things accomplished. Planning things still to be done, and sometimes tackling the insurmountable.

The Word says, "Faith is the victory," so let us go on working and taking courage while we march. There are many things yet to be done. Each task done lessens those to be done and increases our credits and courage. Let us march on as a conqueror, not on to a victory that shall live forever.

Poetry and the Bible

Mrs. Mary's illustrated Bible Dictionary says, "If a man and a woman are thinking of getting married, they would have to be saved to the Bible also." For of rhyme, there is also truth, and as most depend upon production and accent, it has generally been regarded as hopeless to restore these essential elements, so long have they been lost in the translation of the language through con sonants alone.

Jane and Her Firefighter

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright)

A NOBLES fire on Bald Peak. Jane, from her hangover veranda, watched the menacing spiral of smoke rising above the bluffs of pines on the distant mountain. Probably the ranger had long ago detected it, and called out his firefighters. Valiant men who labored hard for hours and a dollar a day and yet over whom just now hovered a cloud of suspicion like that white smoke now settling upon old Bald Peak's slope.

For three weeks not a drop of rain had fallen. Everywhere the woods were tinder dry. And, in spite of posted warnings, one fire after another had blazed out to be conquered only after the most arduous efforts.

Already people were beginning to say, "Are the fires being set?" And, if they were, what was the object?

There were comparatively few men available in this part of the country. Jane ran them over in her mind.

A sudden snapping of a branch startled her. She turned to see a stranger coming up the path. A tall fellow in disreputable, sweated, patched trousers, shoes that were gray with dust. A mop of tow-colored hair surmounted a pair of handsome gray eyes.

"Wonder if you could give me a little information," he drawled. "Where do I go to join up with the fire brigade?"

Jane looked at him a moment curiously before replying. Then she said a funny thing, considering the needy appearance of the youth before her. "They only pay a dollar a day and board."

"There are times when that is a fortune."

Jane shrugged her shoulders. "Oh," she said, "Well, you go down to the fire warden's next to the post office. Likely he'll be glad to sign on another man." Then she turned away, but for the rest of the day she found herself curiously disturbed. Suppose that he was the man who had been setting the fires?

For several days she heard no more of him. Then, at the supper table, her brother, for whom she kept house, remarked casually, "I understand they think they've found the firebug. Some new fellow just come to town."

That night, fanned by a northwest wind, a whirlwind of flames swept Bald Peak. At midnight the church bells were started ringing, the fire siren screamed, automobiles collecting firefighters tore up and down the streets.

Jane, hastily donning flannel shirt, knickerbockers and heavy boots, insisted on climbing in beside her brother. "Do let me go," she said, and because Bill had no time to waste in argument, she hid her way.

All night long the lines of grimy, smoke-stained men labored mightily, digging trenches, building backfires, digging water. And side by side with them, Jane, herself grimy and smoke-stained, but cheerful to her in most being by the excitement of it.

And most of the time beside her worked the gray-eyed stranger who was the object of so many suspicious glances.

Yet he seemed to work more easily than any of them, whistling cheerfully and occasionally breaking into snatches of gay song.

Sometimes, he talked with Jane, asking casual questions about those around him. "Do you know that fellow over there in the torn gray jersey?"

"Surely. Known him all my life. He's the town clerk's son."

"And that man with the pall?"

"Eloy Libby. Runs the garage."

"And that boy in the overalls, the one that's had seventeen cups of coffee if he's had one?"

"Why, let me see, that must be—"

But Jane did not finish her sentence. At that moment one of those glimmers of the forest that have stood for generations and seem likely to stand for generations more, shimmered where it was, swayed, hesitated, then crashed to the ground three seconds after Jane had felt herself seized in a pair of strong young arms and thrown clear into a pile of brush.

And, strange though it may seem, for the instant that she was in his arms, Jane knew that she cared for this man of whom she knew so little and about whom such dreadful things were being whispered.

Dawn found the fire checked, after acres of green forest had been metamorphosed into a seared and desolate waste.

Jane, eating her seventh pancake pushed out by the busy crew of cooks, looked up to see a tall figure slip into the seat beside her. "We've got the firebug," he announced. "As I have sort of suspected from the first, it was that boy in overalls. Only fourteen years old and out on parole from the reformatory. He has just confessed he has started a dozen blazes out of sheer desire to get excitement. You see, that was what I came here for. Sent by the state to try and ferret out the criminal. Thought a stranger could do the job better. Tomorrow I've got to get back to my regular work, up at the state experiment station. Then, presently, I'm coming back in a decent suit of clothes and get acquainted all over again."

Jane threw him an odd little smile. Would she ever, she wondered, dare admit to him that it had been a case of love at first sight?

WHAT IT COSTS TO GOVERN US

By PROF. M. H. HUNTER

Those Who Do Not Feel the Taxes

ARE taxes felt only by those who pay them? It is frequently thought that those who have such a small amount of property or such a small income, as not to be subject to taxation escape the ordeal of being burdened by taxes. Frequently it is contended that only taxpayers should be allowed to vote when expenditure of funds is involved, since it is they who have to foot the bills in taxes.

Those who pay taxes certainly feel them in a definite, tangible way, for they are forced upon them with apparently nothing given in return. But do not others, in the end, help to re-coup those who make the direct payment?

A man may possess no real estate, but few there are who do not live in a house or part of a house for which they must pay rent. The owner of the house, apartment, or hotel must pay taxes upon it since it is a part of his property. To him the tax is a part of his cost and he would not have been willing to have spent his money in the construction of the building unless the rent were enough more than the tax to net him a fair return. The man who pays rent on a building is helping to pay the owner's tax.

Some people who own no property buy cigars and cigarettes. The many factories have been required to buy stamps and place them upon the packages. It is undoubtedly true that the price of cigars and cigarettes is higher because of this tax, and he who buys them is helping the manufacturer pay his tax.

When one numbers those who buy groceries, meats, clothing, and the many other things which satisfy our daily wants, the great mass of the people is accounted for. Whether these pay taxes directly or not, they buy from those who are taxed. The grocer either pays taxes on his store room or else pays rent to the owner out of which taxes must be paid. The same is true of the butcher, the baker, the clothier, and the jeweler.

Who are those, then, who do not feel the effects of taxes? Certainly not those who buy goods into the cost of production of which a tax has entered, for this is reflected in a higher price. It is only safe to say that those who do not buy goods, those in the insane asylums, prisons, and almshouses, do not help to pay the some $8,000,000,000 annual tax burden in the United States.

O. E. S. TO ERECT TEMPLE IN WASHINGTON D. C.

More Than $300,000 Has Already Been Raised For Project

Plans for carrying forward of the project for the erection of an imposing International Eastern Star Temple in Washington, D. C., for which more than $300,000 has been contributed so far, were discussed at the triennial meeting of the General Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, which concluded a seven-day convention at Denver, Col., recently. Prompt measures to guarantee the early erection of the structure were urged by the more than 50 delegates from Washington in attendance at the convention.

Construction of the temple was authorized at a meeting of the Grand Chapter held in 1922 at Louisville, Ky. At that time it was decided that Washington was the logical situation for the temple but no definite steps were taken looking to the construction of the building. The 1926 meeting in Toronto, Canada, gave impetus to the movement. A committee of twelve was appointed to arrange for the carrying on of the campaign and to care for the many details of the project.

Gov. John Hammill, of Iowa, was appointed chairman of the committee and Mrs. Alena Lamont, of Washington, who is also Grand Treasurer of the General Grand Chapter, was appointed treasurer of the committee. Far off China sent the first contribution and since then various chapters throughout the entire world have contributed more than $300,000 toward the erection of this temple. Each chapter of the order is pledged to contribute to the temple fund and a number of individual subscriptions have swelled this fund.

Mrs. Lamont, treasurer of the committee, which is preparing plans for the structure, is well known in Washington fraternal circles. She is senior past grand matron of the District of Columbia and for more than 20 years she has been president of the board of directors of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home.

THE RUNCIMAN REUNION

The ninth annual reunion of Clan Runciman was held at Potter Park, Lansing, Thursday, August 9, for a picnic dinner. About fifty sat down to a most bounteous dinner, which was enjoyed to the utmost. Watermelon and ice cream was much in evidence.

Members of this good old Scotch family were present from Chelsea, Waterloo, Lowell, Fowlerville, Williamston and Lansing.

A good program was enjoyed. Carlton Runciman of Lowell gave a splendid talk, telling much of the family tree.

At a business meeting the following officers were elected: Pres., Coy Allen of Fowlerville; vice pres., Geo. Runciman, Williamston; secy-treas., Mrs. Arthur Walz, Waterloo. The reunion next year will be held the last Thursday in June, at Clear Lake, near Waterloo.

BETTER BABY CONTEST TO FEATURE FAIR

A Child Health contest will be one of the "bigger and better" features of the Washtenaw County Fair which starts for a five-day program on Tuesday, August 28.

The baby show will get under way on Tuesday morning, August 28, and will end on Friday afternoon, August 31, at 3 o'clock. It will be held in the first aid room of the new administration building at the entrance of the grounds.

Dr. G. G. Alway of Ann Arbor will again have charge of the contest. There will be separate classes for boys and girls from six months to one year, one to two years, two to three years, three to four years, four to five years.

Those who desire to enter children in the contest are urged to get a blank from the fair office in the basement of the court house and have the baby measured by the family physician or by Dr. Alway. This may be done by the doctor in charge of the office at the fair grounds when the show opens on Tuesday.

A CENTURY OF RAILROAD HISTORY

Probably few Americans, to whom the spectacle and service of a great railroad train that carries them swiftly over thousands of miles of track is nothing unusual, know that it was but one hundred years ago that the modest, experimental antecedents of the great monsters of today came into being in this country.

In 1828 work was started on our first railroad line, the Baltimore and Ohio. And two years later, in 1830, there were but 18 miles of rail in use. In 1926, after the passage of less than a century, railroad mileage totaled 412,361; there were 1,833,398 employees, and the lines paid combined federal, state and local taxes of over $1,000,000 a day.

The story of this tremendous progress is one of the greatest of modern American romances. What our grandfathers laughed at were destined to become the necessities of the future. Few people of the time would have believed that the absurd little engines and cars were the beginning of an industry which was to be called the backbone of modern life.

The railroads were built by men of vision, working toward an ideal. They are an example of what American initiative, efficiency and science can do.

SUGGESTED AS A PARTY PLATFORM

How would you like to open a newspaper some morning and read the platform of a political party which ended with a simple declaration of principles with something like this, says the Duluth News Tribune. "While we recognize that the opposing party, being human, has made many mistakes, we hasten to add that the difficulties of the administration have been many and we believe that, in most cases, our opponents have striven to do what was best for the country."

We desire to desist from the usual belly-ache about the opposing party. We neither denounce it nor view its actions with alarm, and although we intend to oppose its candidates vigorously, we are convinced that the nation will survive, should it win at the coming election as it has a very good chance of doing.

While our opponents have the usual number of crooks and scoundrels that are to be found in every political party, we regret to say that we also have our share of yellow dogs, demagogues and misfits, and some of them are quite apt to get into office by some sort of skulduggery and chicanery, in which case we propose to bounce a few rocks off their heads and ask all decent citizens to assist us in landing them in the hoosegow.

"We believe that the time has come when sensible people will appreciate this platform and we would rather lose than go into office mouthing the usual hypocritical phrases which attract the

Would it surprise you to read a platform like that?
It would—but you never will.

WORTHLESS DOGS KILL VALUABLE SHEEP

During the past week dogs have been working in several flocks of sheep in the vicinity of Vermont cemetery on the Chelsea-Manchester road, and it is said by men who have seen at times during the last ten days four dogs on the farm where sheep have been killed. Otto Polenz, who owns what is known as the Ed. Spaulding place, had two sheep killed, four are missing and two badly wounded, one of which will probably die. Reuben Lesser, who occupies the John Jensen farm, had three sheep killed and one badly wounded.

The dogs were seen in the flocks of several of the farmers whose premises adjoin the two where the sheep were killed but none of them have reported any damage as having been done to their animals.

Justice of the peace O. J. Walworth, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Atkinson, visited the two farms where the sheep were killed. Mr. Walworth, after viewing the destroyed animals, made out a voucher for each owner and they will be paid by the county from the dog fund for their loss.

Tuesday morning a hunting party of eight men was formed and while going over the farm of Mr. Polenz they discovered a dog chasing his sheep. Julius Barth shot and killed the animal, which was a female police dog, about one year old, without any license tag and the owner of which is unknown. Upon examining the mouth of the dog wool was discovered in its teeth.

GOV. FRED W. GREEN PLEDGES AID TO FARMERS

Believes State Should Help To Dispose of Surplus Crops—Michigan Potatoes In Demand

Farm relief is not only a national but a state problem, Governor Fred W. Green told more than 30,000 persons Wednesday afternoon when he spoke at the Iowa Free Fair as a part of the program of the day set apart for the chief executive of the state.

Calling attention to the pledge of the republican party at the Kansas City Convention, to enact legislation looking toward the relief of the farmer in disposing of surplus crops, Governor Green said the movement to aid agriculture should not stop there, but should be carried on by every state in the union, and pledged Michigan to do all in her power to aid the agricultural interests of this state in establishing a market for Michigan produce.

"I have watched with much interest the work that has been carried on by the Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange," said the Governor. "This organization was formed as a co-operative body for Michigan potatoes, and as a result, the Michigan potato is now the 'super' spud of the nation."

This has been brought about through careful grading and a constant endeavor to yearly better the crop of seed potatoes. No better evidence of this work can be had than the fact that this year Michigan will produce more than 800,000 bushels of certified seed potatoes, and at this very moment there is a rush of buyers from the potato areas of the nation to buy up the Michigan seed.

"A year ago the potato exchange sold seed potatoes at prices ranging from $2.00 to $2.45 per bushel. This year buyers are offering still higher prices to the growers of certified seed potatoes. What they want is the Michigan product and they are willing to pay for it. The last legislature made an appropriation for an experimental farm on which to grow potatoes. This farm should be very helpful in still further improving our potato crop.

"Michigan, this summer, had led all other states in the production of cherries, and the growers are receiving a cent more a pound for them than they ever have in a bumper-crop year before, because the Michigan cherry has taken its place in the markets of the nation. Cannery men are bidding against each other for the crop. Michigan should have strict grading laws not only for potatoes, cherries, grapes, apples and other such fruits and vegetables, but for all other products of the farm, and then it would be the duty of the state through financial and other aids which can be offered by the Michigan State College and the state department of agriculture, to create a market for this produce.

"The bean growers of the state are beginning to awaken to the fact that they need state aid. A year ago the bean market of this country was glutted with Japanese beans, and Michigan beans were pouring into the market in competition with the cheaper product. We called a meeting of the bean men of the state in Lansing. We had there men who knew the bean business from start to finish. They told the Michigan growers that Michigan beans were unequaled, and to hold their crop. They did an, with this state aid, all Michigan beans were sold, and the growers realized more than $500,000 more than they would have had they gone ahead and consigned to pour their beans into a flooded market. We are getting in touch with other bean producers and believe a still higher price as a result of better marketing conditions is possible.

"California in co-operation with the orange growers has established a nation wide market for California oranges; Florida with an advertising campaign, has placed Florida citrus fruits in the homes of the country; and now it is up to Michigan, with her great diversity of crops, to establish her products in the markets of the nation and the state has a moral obligation to give all aid possible in seeing to it that this is done."

STATE TO STOP BUS SPEEDING

Utilities Official Says Interstate Drivers Out Of Detroit Ignore Limit

Lansing, August 11.—The state will clamp down the lid on violators of the Michigan public utilities commission's speed regulations for buses, J. Carl Shell, secretary of the commission said today.

Declaring that a majority of interstate bus lines out of Detroit were guilty of violating the maximum speed limit of 40 miles an hour, Shell said the commission is now conducting a drive for the arrest of speeding drivers. Nearly 100 have been apprehended in the Detroit area since the first of the year, William Jackson, inspector for the commission said.

Eight drivers were arrested this week by Jackson, as follows: Three drivers of the Yellowway line, three of the Greyhound line, and two of the Central States line.

Most of the interstate companies violate the commission's regulation, Shell said. Companies with buses out of Detroit to other states are: Greyhound, Ni-Sun, Sunny South, Central States, Grey line, Detroit, Toledo and Akron, and Yellowway. Little trouble is experienced with drivers of buses operating exclusively in Michigan, the secretary said.

"The public has been aroused over violations by bus drivers, Shell said, adding that many persons had suggested ruling them off the paved highways. Speeding buses are a menace, not only to passengers, but to other automobiles along the highway," he said.

Attention of the public utilities commission to speed violations may lead to a revision of schedules in some cases. Some drivers speed because of their fast schedules, the commission is informed.—Detroit Free Press.

TIMELY SOWN WHEAT SWATS HESSIAN FLY

Planting On Correct Dates Prevents Damage From Serious Cereal Pest

Serious damage from the Hessian fly can be avoided this fall if Michigan wheat growers will plant wheat at the "fly free dates."

The entomology department at Michigan State College explains that the Hessian fly produces two principal generations each year in Michigan. The fall generation lays its eggs on wheat recently seeded and spends the winter in the pupal state. In the spring, the adult flies emerge and lay their eggs on the wheat as it begins to lengthen out in May. The larvae or maggots from these eggs change to puparia just before harvest time. It is during this period of growth that the Hessian fly injures the wheat and causes much of it to fall poorly and to lodge.

Wheat may be sown so that it will come up too late for the Hessian fly to lay its eggs on the wheat, and yet be planted early enough to avoid winter-killing. This date is known as the "fly-free date." It is based on weather observations covering a 25-year period and is calculated for each county of the state, for areas of both high and low elevation.

Information concerning the "fly-free date" may be obtained by writing the Michigan State College for special bulletin No. 132. The Hessian fly is increasing in numbers in the state and if wheat is sown carelessly this fall, there is apt to be a larger increase next year, according to Prof. H. H. Pettit, entomologist.

VETERANS SUFFER IN HOT WEATHER

Theory That Players Do Best in Summer Is Bunk.

Tr. Cobb, who should be quite an authority on the subject, says there is nothing but the bunk in the theory that old ball players do their best in the hot summer months. "As a fact," Cobb said recently, "old players actually suffer in the hot part of midseason. It isn't a matter of scorpions and legs melting out in the hot sun, it is the effect of hard, baked ground on sore legs. Old players can go best in early season when the moisture has not been baked out by the sun and late in the fall. It's not punishment to run on soft ground but it's murder to pound the legs on concrete." It will be recalled that during his last days with the Tigers the base-lines and Cobb's spot in the outfield was watered down so thoroughly each night that other clubs protested about wet grounds. "It is obvious even to a casual glance," Cobb is almost in pain when he has to do any walking or running for the night Philadelphia Athletics. At least the fans are lead to believe that from his actions. But the ball players say that he is toying and grandstanding. And that he has fooled several clubs this season into thinking that when he gets to first it takes a triple to get him around. Cobb apparently enjoys the role of being a poor crippled old ball player trying to get along but he has overdone the acting so much that he hasn't fooled the smart teams. "It is quite certain, however, that this is Cobb's last year. If you had all his dough you wouldn't work and you wouldn't even play."

Four Runs Are Scored as Player Strikes Out

Frank plays are numerous in baseball, but Barney Burch, owner of the Omaha Western league club, describes what he believes was the greatest of all. It was four runs on a strikeout. It happened in the Des Moines Omaha game on May 24, 1926. With two out, an Omaha player singled. Two others walked, filling the bases. Then Chuck Carroll, Omaha shortstop, fanned out a low ball, which rolled to the grandstand. Instead of retrieving the ball and touching Carroll or the home plate, the Des Moines catcher, Ikenor, flung the ball to the pitcher's box.

The three Omaha base runners started to leave for their positions, but Burch, noticing the situation, sent them back to their bases and ordered them to run home. They did, scoring four runs, while the Des Moines players looked on in bewilderment. "Our men on first passed the line on second in the home run," Burch said, "but the umpires didn't notice it. The runs were allowed and even that day, however, was the most particularly run in baseball about the third strike."

New York Yankees Will Win, Says Art Fletcher

Art Fletcher, New York Yankees coach, is convinced the Yankees will win the pennant, but he bases his conviction on their work from day to day, and not on the size of the lead they hold at present. "I lost a lot of faith in more leads," he said, "as long ago as 1914. That year the Giants, of whom I was one, had a 12-game lead on the fourth of July but the Braves won the pennant." "I lost faith because the Giants were frightened stiff," said Babe Ruth. "Maybe," said Fletcher, "but if that was so, fear must have been contagious that year, because the Braves beat the Athletics four games in a row in the world's series."

Turkey to Have Native Golf Course at Angora

The first Turkish gold course is to be laid out at Angora soon for the new Angora Sports club. The only foreign links in the country are those at Constantinople, run by the British and American colonies. Foreign golf fans believe that the Turks will take well to the new sport, thanks to their oriental gifts of patience and fatalism and thanks to the fact that golf does not require team play, the spirit of which is alien to their character.

Still Pays on Time

Rogers Hornsby says the Boston Braves may not be the greatest team in baseball but the management continues to pay on time.

A CROP FAILURE BROUGHT SUCCESS

Because Of Poor Apple Crop A Good Jelly Business Was Started By A Woman

In a recent issue of the Michigan Farmer there appeared the following article from the pen of Robert H. Powers, which we are glad to publish for the inspiration it may bring to some one else who may desire to expand the sources of their income.

On August 11, 1924, on the Chicago-Detroit highway between Paw Paw and Kalamazoo there appeared at a farm a modest little sign which read GRAPE JELLY FOR SALE. The words were timidly scratched on a grape basket cover. Five minutes after the sign was put up, a car from Oklauma stopped and its occupants bought the entire supply of twelve quarts.

The incident opened the eyes of Mrs. Lone M. Easter and her business associate, Edward D. Young, to the possibilities of marketing homemade jellies at the roadside. Within two years the idea had developed so well that during their business anniversary month, Mrs. Easter and Mr. Young sold 7,000 jars of jellies and jams.

Mrs. Easter, who was at one time complaint adjuster at the Chicago Tribune, decided to come to Michigan when her husband brought a box of fresh strawberries and six eggs from a farm near Paw Paw, which he had inspected with the intention of buying.

She was not interested in the size of the farm, its cost, its location from town, but the fresh eggs and the box of strawberries won her over at a glance.

"Let's take it," she said and her career as a farm owner began.

However, the change from adjusting Tribune complaints to diagnosing the ills of a 65-acre farm laid out to grapes and tree fruit was more of an undertaking than Mrs. Easter had figured on. Expenses were high; the price of farm products low. In 1924 when Mrs. Easter received a check for $60 in payment of 1,000 bushels of apples, she realized that some other way of making money on the farm must be introduced.

Mr. Young, a public service statistician in Chicago, with some friends, visited Mrs. Easter when the famously low check came in for the equally famous 1,000 bushels of apples.

ADOLPH E. GROSS,
Township Clerk.

"Why not sell some of that grape jelly you have in the cellar?" Mr. Young suggested, at the same time offering to make a sign.

Mrs. Easter, who is a wonderfully sweet-natured woman, thought Mr. Young's remark a passing brain throb, but let him do as he liked, that explains the hastily-made GRAPE JELLY FOR SALE sign and the resulting sell-out five minutes later. Mr. Young soon afterwards gave up his position in Chicago and took charge of the business end of the new enterprise.

Today, Mrs. Easter and Mr. Young have nearly 500 regular customers, mail jellies and jams to every state in the union, supply the tables of exclusive clubs, such as the Illinois Athletic Club, also the Sherman Hotel and the private Pullman cars with their jellies known the country over as Dixie Farm Jellies.

The name "Dixie Farm Jellies" was suggested by the Dixie Highway move physically known as U. S. 12 at whose wayside Mrs. Easter and Mr. Young carry on their distinctive business. Throughout the entire year, day and night, an immaculately scrubbed white enamel table stands at the highway stacked high with jars of jams and jellies. It is a colorful display that greets the tourist, for Mrs. Easter makes jellies whose beauty is exceeded only by their wonderful taste. Since she makes 20 different varieties each of which has a characteristic color of its own, the gleam before the sunlight, or the electric searchlight, makes the jellies sparkle as the familiar drug store bowls used to shine.
