NEW STATE HIGHWAY TO OHIO STATE LINE

Mass Meetings Being Held To Promote A New State Highway From Ohio State Line To U. S. 12

The people over in Lewanoe county are very much interested in a project to promote a new state highway leading from Matamoras on the Ohio state line to connect with U. S. 12 at this place, running through Ogden Center, Palmyra, Holloway, Tecumseh, Clinton and Manchester. The Chamber of Commerce of Tecumseh started the movement which has grown in a most remarkable manner, with the result that a great deal of interest has been aroused over the proposed new road.
Meetings were held at Tecumseh and Holloway earlier in the summer and fall and on Monday evening a large and enthusiastic meeting was held at Clinton, at which upwards of 100 representative men were present, all pledging their support to the movement.

An invitation was extended to Chelsea to send a delegation for the meeting and in response to the request
some of the members of the highway committee of the Kiwanis Club—
Messrs. H. M. McGuffin, George
Staffin, Vance Ogden and E. L. Brown
"flew" over to Clinton to attend the dinner and meeting which followed.
We say flew, because the 21 miles were covered in less than 35 minutes, Mr. Ogden, setting the pace in his new Buick. He just touched the "high" spots—did not get down in the valleys at all.

Arriving at Clinton the crowd gathered about the Hotel Clintonian, where dinner was served to nearly a hundred men. After all had been served the gathering re-assembled in the Legion hall across the street, which was filled with about an enthusiastic group of men, as one could wish to find. The meeting was called to order by Edwin Braun, president of the Tecumseh Chamber of Commerce, who outlined the purpose of the meeting and told of the progress that had thus far been made and the encouragement that had been received from the people in Lewanoe county.
John Richards, county engineer for the Lewanoe highway commission,
Fred W. Wood of Tecumseh, George
Taylor and Charles Beamer of Ogden spoke in behalf of the project and explained some of the details of the proposed movement. Mr. Ogden told the meeting what had been done by the people of this section in furthering the progress of M-92, running from U. S. 12 to Stockbridge, and it was the opinion of the men present that the proposed new highway would ultimately continue on north through Chelsea to Stockbridge and Lansing.

That was the expressed wish of all and that is the goal for which the promoters of the plan are working.
On Monday evening next another meeting will be held at Manchester and this section is urged to send a good sized delegation, in fact all who can go are urged to do so. Dinner will be served by the Manchester committee and a mass meeting will follow,
and Chelsea residents and those living along the proposed highway are especially invited to attend.

It is very likely that a meeting will be held here within a week or two and every citizen interested in Chelsea is urged to join in the effort that will be put forth to make the gathering a success. If this new highway is constructed it will mean a great deal to this entire community.
Vance Ogden seemed to know about everybody at the meeting and they all greeted him with a cheery welcome.

Chelsea Young People
MARRIED SATURDAY

The marriage of Miss Zelma Hepburn and Mr. Victor Miller, both of Chelsea, took place at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, September 29, at the Methodist parsonage, Rev. Fred I.
Walker officiating. The attendants were Miss Margaret Krontz and Herbert Hepburn, the latter a brother of the bride. Mrs. Miller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hepburn and is a graduate of Chelsea high school. Following the ceremony, the couple left for Ann Arbor, where they will make their home.

CHARTER WAS EXTENDED FOR THIRTY YEARS

A. J. Easton of Lima, secretary-treasurer of the Northwestern Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company was in Lansing on Tuesday of last week, when he presented the petition of the stockholders of the company to the Commissioner of Insurance for an extension of their charter. The request was granted and the charter was extended for a period of thirty years.

The Chelsea All-Stars and Plymouth Merchants baseball teams will play a game at Holmes' field, at 2:30 o'clock
Sunday afternoon.

VILLAGE COUNCIL HELD AN IMPORTANT SESSION

Progress Being Made On The Proposed
Sewer System—Bids Accepted
Conditionally—Two Trunk Lines Proposed.

The Chelsea common council held its regular meeting Monday evening with every member of the board present. A number of bills were presented which were read by the clerk. They were allowed and orders drawn on the treasurer for the several amounts.
The most of the session was devoted to discussion of the bids from engineers for plans, the supervision, laying out and submission to the state authorities for approval of two trunk line drain sewers which would be about eight miles in length for the two.

Bids were received from Geo. W.
Champe, of Toledo, the Wolverine Engineering Co., of Mason, Francis Engineering Co., of Saginaw, and Menefee & Dodge, of Ann Arbor.

The bid of Mr. Champe seemed to be the lowest one, and finally, to end
the discussion, Trustee Lawrence offered a resolution which was seconded by Trustee Dancer. Trustee Hummel offered an amendment to the original motion which was accepted by Messrs. Lawrence and Dancer. The motion was accepted by the five trustees voting "yes" and Trustee Koebbe remaining silent.

The resolution contains several items that were not fully understood by the board and a contract is to be drawn that will include the items and they will be submitted to Mr. Champe for his acceptance or rejection.

The estimated cost of the two trunk lines will be about $70,000. The council, if they go ahead as proposed at present, will use the money that is on hand in the general fund and issue bonds for the remainder extending over a period of years.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL TO LIMA BOY CAUGHT IN BELT

Leonard Satterthwaite Died Sunday
At U. of M. Hospital After A Week Of Intense Suffering

Sympathy, tender and sincere was expressed by the people of this community for Mr. and Mrs. George Satterthwaite of Lima township, when the news of the death of their son
Leonard, became current Sunday.
Death occurred at the U. of M. hospital in Ann Arbor, where he was taken after the distressing accident which befell him while assisting with corn shredding at the homestead a few days before.

He suffered the amputation of his leg on Saturday and his condition had become so weakened by the terrible injuries received that he failed to rally after the operation, and he failed to peacefully away Sunday afternoon.

Leonard was born in Jackson, May 18, 1913, and came to Lima township with his parents several years ago. He was an active, aggressive boy, ambitious and always striving to do something to assist with the work about the farm. He was an active member of the Lima 4-H club and his untimely death was a great affliction to his many friends.

Besides his parents he is survived by two sisters and two brothers, Mrs.
Leon Chapman of Sylvan, Arlene, Leonard and Vernon Satterthwaite at home.
Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Congregational church at two o'clock and were conducted by Rev. A. E. Potts. Burial took place in the Vermont cemetery. A wealth of beautiful flowers attested to the esteem in which Leonard was held and the sympathy people desired to express for the bereaved family.

LOCAL ITEMS

The Chelsea public schools and most of the rural schools in this vicinity will probably be closed on Thursday and Friday, October 18 and 19. Many of the teachers will undoubtedly attend the ninth district convention of the Michigan Educational association which will be held in Detroit.

Between twenty-five and thirty automobiles are parked every day on Harrison street that are driven here by pupils from the rural districts who are attending the Chelsea high school. A number of cars are also parked on Congdon street by the students who are in daily attendance at St. Mary school.

Col. C. McLaughlin spent the weekend at the home of his brother, O. B.
McLaughlin and family. For the past four years he has been assigned by the war department as military instructor at State College, Pennsylvania. He has been transferred by the U. S. military authorities to Hartford, Connecticut, where he will have charge of the national guards of the New England states.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Hoover spent Sunday in Detroit.

CHELSEA WINS AGAIN DEFEATED NORTHVILLE

A Snappy Game With Worthy Opponents Made The Victory Worth While—Play Ann Arbor
Friday.

Chelsea High romped over Northville 20 to 6 Friday. The second game of the season resulted in the second victory for Chelsea. The team has the "winning habit" now and we hope they don't break it.

Northville was surprised by a tricky pass play from the first scrimmage and never recovered their senses until it was too late. By a tripple attack running, plunging and passing, the Chelsea boys worked the ball over the line twice in the first seven minutes.
These touchdowns were followed by two perfect place-kicks by "Ann" Fahr-ner. That made an average of two points per minute in the first seven minutes of play. The other six points were made in the last quarter when Staffan by three successive tries carried the ball over. A pass for the extra point was grounded.

Northville's one touchdown was the result of a fumble. The ball was in Northville's possession and was fumbled during an end run. It was recovered by one of the Northville men
and carried over the line.

Chelsea's aerial attack was practically faultless. They completed more than a dozen passes. Two or three to each eligible man.

Interference, tackling, and ball carrying have been improved since last week. The presence of Adrian at guard strengthened the defense considerably. Baybour and Adrian are a pair of "heavies" that are hard to equal.

The High school would appreciate an increase of support on the part of the townspeople. Such fine games ought not to be neglected.

On October 12th Tecumseh will play on the home field. Come out and see what a fine team your school has.

The Chelsea line-up was as follows:
Quarterback Fahrner
Fullback Weber
Right half Steger
Left half Staffan
Right end Steiner
Right tackle D. Holmes
Right guard Adrian
Center H. Holmes Jr.
Left guard Barbou
Left tackle Schiller
Left end McLaughlin

Chelsea will play Ann Arbor Friday afternoon. Saturday afternoon the team and the High school students have been invited to attend the foot-ball game at Ferry field between Michigan and Ohio Weslyan, and of course, all will accept the invitation who can possibly do so.

THEY SURPRISED THEIR FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Cook played a happy surprise on their relatives and friends by keeping the fact that they were erecting a handsome new residence on U. S. 12 to themselves until a couple of weeks ago when the house was about completed. They invited their relatives to spend Sunday with them and during the day drove out to the new home and after they had greatly admired the structure, Mr.
Cook informed them it was the new Cook homestead. The new house has seven rooms and is modern in every way. Theo. Wood, a former Chelsea man, had the contract.

Mr. Cook purchased a few acres of land and he contemplates going into the poultry business on a large scale
as soon as he can make satisfactory arrangements.

CELEBRATED TWENTY-FIFTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

About thirty relatives of Mr. and Mrs. William Wheeler gathered at their home, Cavanaugh Lake, in celebration of the 25th anniversary of their marriage. A sumptuous dinner was served and Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler were the recipients of many lovely gifts in remembrance of the occasion.
Those present were John P. Foster,
Miss Lena Foster, Mr. and Mrs. R. G.
Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Foster and Miss Gladys Wheeler of Ann Arbor,
Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Foster, daughter Margaret and William Wheeler Jr. of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McNaney of Jackson; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wheeler and family, of Albion; Mr.
and Mrs. Justin Wheeler and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beissel and family of Chelsea.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES

Edwin Ostrander, who was a resident of Chelsea several years ago, died at his home in Ann Arbor, Tuesday evening, aged 94 years. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. G. H.
Purshouse. Funeral services were held in Ann Arbor. Interment at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

OFFICERS LEARNING TO SHOOT

At the recent national shoot, conducted by the United States government at Camp Perry, Ohio, to give training in use of revolvers and rifles, there were present a great many hundred rifle and revolver shooters from all over the country.

In addition to other contestants, there were 75 police officers comprising 14 teams at least five men each, representing such cities as Los Angeles, Portland, New York, Detroit, Seattle, Toledo and Hartford, Connecticut. They were sent to better fit themselves to carry out their official duties in the communities they serve, and thus render better public service. The results of instruction received by these men will be far-reaching and each year the number of police officers sent to take this course increases.

Police officers, fully trained in the correct use of small arms, and private citizens who receive similar training in these national shoots, and who go out to create enthusiasm for this branch of sport and defense, automatically increase the number of citizens who are better able to protect life, liberty and property in this nation. Never did we have a greater need for a straight shooting, police force to handle abnormal crime conditions such as now exist in some of our leading cities.

SOME COMMON-TARIFF FACTS

The protective tariff is the basis on which the prosperity of our farmers and industrial workers largely depend. It stands between our standards of wages and living and cheap foreign labor production. It should be common knowledge that practically everything the farmer uses is sold him in a free trade market. Practically everything of importance which he raises, he sells in a protected market. American farmers sell the bulk of their produce at home. If we did away with the tariff and allowed the American manufacturing market to be crippled by cheap labor, foreign production, it would mean unemployment or low wages and poor living conditions for millions of our industrial workers. This would restrict the great home farm market and farmers would be offering to sell to those who were short of money to buy.

A reasonable tariff is our insurance for still greater industrial and agricultural growth, which means national solidarity, prosperity and contentment.

REMARKABLE OIL RECORD

According to the United States Department of Labor, gasoline was the cheapest commodity in general use last year. During 1922, compared with 1913, the price of gasoline was but 11.4 per cent higher, while such items as house furnishings advanced 123.8 per cent, coal 100 per cent and meats 50 per cent.

The oil industry has made a remarkable record in meeting a tremendous growing demand for its products with a steady, low and ample supply. It has been able to do this by epochal progress in the matters of drilling, refining and marketing.

There is hardly a single element necessary to the production of oil that has not been appreciably improved in the past few years.

The result has been economy and efficiency in public service that is outstanding even in this age of industrial miracles.

BOYS BEWARE

It is really too bad that farmers in this section have to be annoyed by boys from this village who thoughtlessly or otherwise break down fences and destroy crops. The parents of these boys would make a terrible fuss if some farmer boys were to come to Chelsea and destroy growing gardens and raise the devil generally. Unless the guilty ones take due notice and turn over a new leaf they are going to get into trouble, and their days of grace are not far off either.

AMERICA'S CROSS OF FIRE

A fire prevention artist aptly pictured a great cross amid a sea of flames. Upon the cross he lettered the word CARELESSNESS and called the complete sketch "America's Great Cross." There is a fire every minute of every day somewhere throughout the length and breadth of our land.

If, from above, we could photograph simultaneously all the fires that rage in the course of a year, America would indeed appear as a sea of flames. Two companion crosses, however, should be reared alongside the first one and be labeled False Economy in Building Construction and False Economy in Fire Prevention. These factors, with carelessness, are largely responsible for our shameful annual fire loss which amounted to nearly $500,000,000 in 1922.

The organizations that are endeavoring to "lift America's great cross from her shoulders" advocate an all-year fire prevention campaign, but special efforts are put forth during fire prevention week, which this year falls on October 7th to 13th. An intensive program at that time aims to center public interest upon the things people should practice all year to make America safer against fire.

During fire prevention week the people of Chelsea could, doubtless, do something which would lessen the risk of fires here. At least all stovepipes and chimneys ought to be inspected and made safe for winter use. Rubbish piles should be removed or burned and throughout the business section some kind of receptacles should be provided for the burning of waste paper. Under present practices fires are started in alleys or on vacant lots adjacent to buildings. Some day this will lead to a bad fire, notwithstanding we have escaped thus far. It is a dangerous practice and it leaves unsightly litter about the village which could very easily be done away with.

A roll of heavy wire makes a very good receptacle for burning paper and other rubbish and by its use fire brands are prevented from being carried in the air by the wind.

ANNUAL FALL FASHION SHOW

Mack & Company, Ann Arbor's pioneer dry goods store, invites the public to attend their annual fall fashion show this evening at 7:30, when a wonderful array of selected merchandise will be displayed. The Mack store has been a popular trading place in Ann Arbor for many years and the business has kept well in advance of the growth and expansion of the city.

The people of this section are cordially invited to attend.

THE SEWER PROPOSITION

The village sewer proposition has progressed so far that it begins to look as though the village council will soon enter into a contract—a conditional one at least—for the construction of two main line sewers to cost approximately $70,000. Just what disposition will be made of the sewage gathered by these lines is not yet disclosed. Certainly whatever plan that is adopted by the council should contain some provision for disposal of the sewage besides dumping into an open creek at the edge of town.

The proposed expenditure represents a lot of money and the taxpayers should arouse themselves and determine whether the plan proposed is what they want and to make sure it will meet the needs of the village in years to come. Before any contract is signed the members of the council ought to make a full and complete statement of what they propose to do.

CHELSEA BOYS ANNOY FARMERS

I would like to call the attention of the parents of some of the boys of Chelsea that they should keep an eye on their boys, who like to take Saturdays and Sundays to go roaming over the farms around Chelsea, hunting for nuts, melons and fruit, climbing over fences and breaking them down, and in other ways destroying crops and other property.

We farmers are advised by our Agricultural College how to combat and kill the 4, 6, 8, and 10 legged worms and insects that destroy our crops, but after we have succeeded in growing them to maturity by hard work, they don't tell us how to get rid of the two-legged worm that comes along and destroys the crops, in one short hour.

If these boys continue this practice much longer, some day they will get an invitation to go to school at Lansing.

Geo. T. English.

Bible Thought and Prayer

HEART WISDOM—When wisdom entereth into thine heart, and knowledge is pleasant unto thy soul; discretion shall preserve thee; understanding shall keep thee.—Prov. 2:10, 11.

"The Cheapest Hot Water I've Ever Enjoyed"

This is the enthusiastic praise from hundreds of satisfied users of our Special Heater.

Why is it so economical? One of the many features that make it so, is the small orifice through which all the gas burned must pass. This heater actually burns less gas than the small simmer burner on your gas stove!

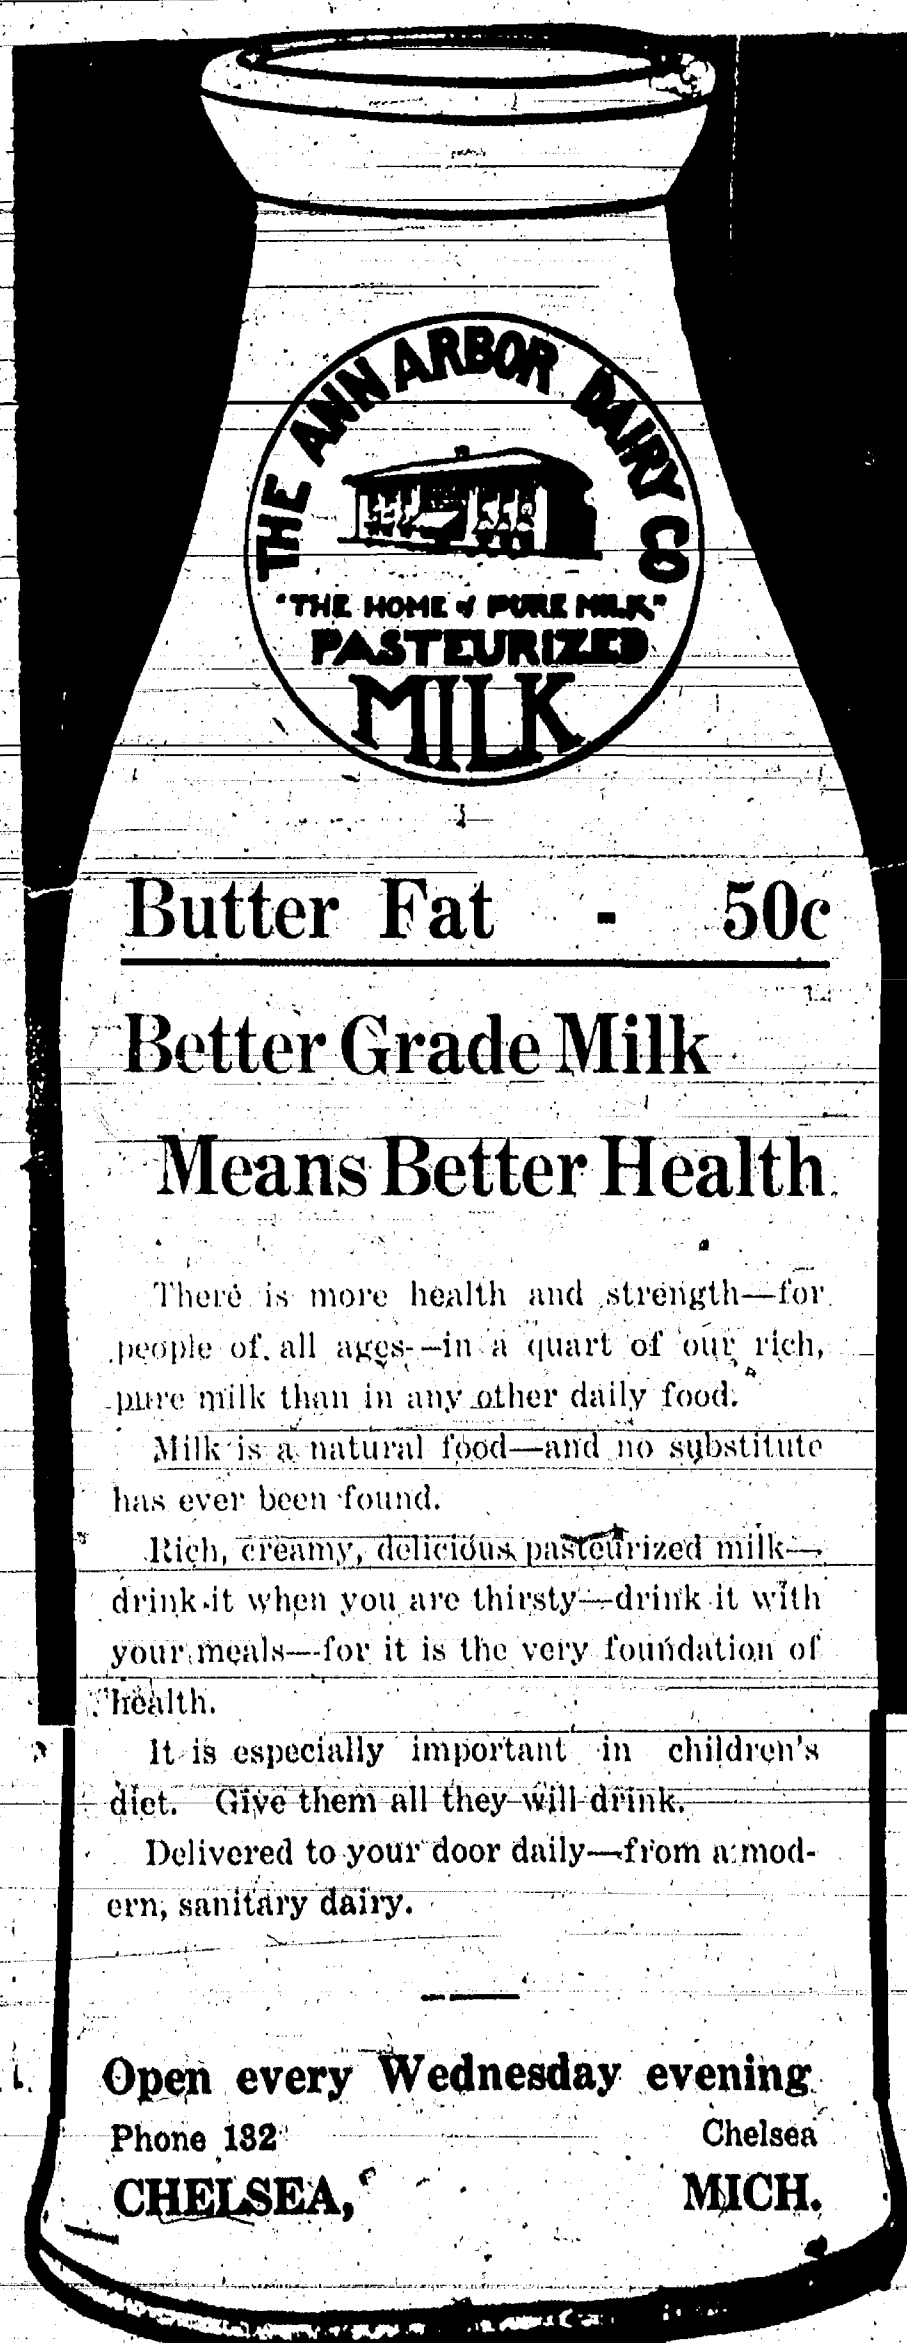

This orifice, combined with other features such as "thermos bottle" insulation brings you low-cost, ever-ready hot water.

With a small down payment you can also be enjoying the benefits of the Handley Brown Heater.

ANN ARBOR MAN
DIES OF INJURIES

Lloyd F. Ernst, a member of the firm of Ernst Brothers of Ann Arbor, died while returning from Saline to his store in the city. No one seems to know just how the accident by which he was so badly injured that he died a short time afterwards occurred. The truck he was driving suddenly left the roadway and overturned because a passer by found Mr.

Ernst under the body of the truck. He was held in high esteem by all who enjoyed his acquaintance, and his sudden and tragic death is universally mourned.

A GOOD MEMORY

Judge: "It seems to me that I have seen you before."
Prisoner: "You have, your honor, I taught your daughter singing lessons."
Judge: "Thirty years."

NORTH LAKE

Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stoffer and daughter, Irene, took Mrs. Harriet Platt and children to their home in Mansfield, Ohio. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Stoffer visited Miss Dorothy Wood at Findlay, Ohio. Mrs. Mattie Schultz, Mrs. Bertha Noah and daughter, Mildred, visited Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Boyce of Jackson, Saturday and Sunday.

Misses Lucy Webb and Margaret Thompson of Ypsilanti were Sunday guests at the home of George Webb. The Booth Festival held Saturday afternoon, September 30, at the church house by the Epworth League of the Ann Arbor district was attended by about ninety young people. Gifts of fruit, vegetables, towels, etc., made by the various leagues were on display in the booths. The Wayne Oakland booth received a prize for the most artistic arrangements and decorations; the Monroe-Lenawee for the most valuable exhibit; the Washtenaw-Ingham, Jackson-Lenawee for the most original. LITTLE CAT TURNS
OUT TO BE JAGUAR

Queer Pet Set at Liberty in Auto Accident.

Washington.—The wildcat which was set at liberty by an automobile accident here recently and was thought to be roaming the streets of Washington was not a wildcat at all, but worse still, was a jaguar cub and was captured a few minutes after the collision by Fred Redwood when it ran into his home, throwing the house into a high state of excitement and confusion.

The cub is three and a half months old and was captured in the jungles of Nicaragua. William J. Slatery, the owner, returned from Nicaragua a short time ago following the expiration of his enlistment in the navy and brought the animal with him for a pet. He says that it is very tame despite the fact that four men were required to corner it and get it safely inclosed in a chicken coop.

Redmond said that he heard the automobile crash and went out to see if he could be of any assistance. As he opened the front door of his home he popped the young jaguar. As the animal is about the size of an ordinary cat, although slightly longer, he thought it was the house cat. When he returned his wife met him at the door, greatly excited and with the information that "that was a funny kind of cat you just let in."

The "kitty" was found hiding under the bathtub, snarling and striking out with its claws. Redmond finally got hold of the chain attached to the beast's collar by reaching into the room with a broom. He tied it on the doorknob and went for help and a chicken crate at the corner store. He brought back three men with him and it took the efforts of all four to get the little "kitty" inside the crate.

The next morning "Kitty" was more docile and submitted to fondling and a meal of raw beef.

Slatery was taking the jaguar for an airing at the time of the accident. Slatery sustained a sprained ankle, cuts and bruises and when he regained consciousness at the hospital the first thing he asked for was his "wildcat." For a time it was thought that the full extent of his injuries had not been determined. After a few minutes he convinced the doctors that he was sane, however, but it was not until the next day that his pet was found.

Famed German Castle
Is Slowly Decaying

Hamburg.—Schloss Friedrichsthor, the beautiful castle built by and for Empress Victoria, wife of Emperor Frederick and mother of the deposed former kaiser, is slowly decaying. Her daughter, the grand duchess of Hesse, who inherited this work of art, is unable to meet the cost of upkeep.

The castle was built in accordance with the personal wishes of the empress, a daughter of Queen Victoria of England. She insisted upon taking stone from the quarries of the Taunus mountains, though warned that this stone contained saltpeter. The interior was furnished with costly art treasures.

In the course of time it developed that the walls could be prevented from "sweating out" saltpeter only if the rooms were kept quite warm. The grand duchess of Hesse and her husband find that this takes more coal than they can afford and have consequently taken up their residence in the adjacent smaller palace, which formerly served as the home of the empress' master of ceremonies.

Pair to Be Tried
Under Anti-Duel Law

Atlantic City, N. J.—A century old law against duelling was raised up from Atlantic county's past recently, and when William Rushton, twenty-four years old, of Cologne came out of the city hospital he was arrested under it. His opponent not only is named as a duellist, but is charged with assault and battery as well.

Some time ago the young man called at a girl's home and shortly after Charles Stewart, sixty-five, came in. A quarrel followed, according to the police, and the men agreed to "shoot it out" with shotguns. Standing several feet from one another, they fired. Stewart was not hit, but Rushton received a charge in the arm and abdomen.

According to the county prosecutor's detectives, the pair will be the first ever to be brought to trial for violation of the anti-duelling act.

Crowd Gathers to See
Girl Take Sun Bath

London.—Sun bathing has its comedy side. A girl living in Bayswater crawled out on the ledge beneath her fourth-story window, 60 feet above the ground, and reclined in the hot rays, clad only in lingerie.

A crowd gathered and some one cried, "She is going to fall." The police and the fire department were called but with their arrival the girl looked down, saw the commotion and climbed back into her room.

She told the police that she was attempting to take full advantage of the sunshine.

MACCABEES TO MEET
AT WHITMORE LAKE

The annual convention of the Washtenaw County Maccabee association will be held on Tuesday, October 9, at Whitmore Lake and plans are being made by the Whitmore Lake to give the visitors a splendid program and entertainment.

The Ann Arbor hive will confer the initiatory work at the morning session, using the new ritual of the order. Mrs. Vera Krasny and the color bearers of Whitmore Lake will return the banner which it won last year for the largest percentage of members present at the convention.

The address of welcome will be extended by Mrs. Ella McClellan and the response will be made by Mrs. Agnes Gehlke of Ann Arbor. Each hive in the county will answer roll by telling how they keep up interest in their organization. The sessions and dinner will be held at the Whitmore Lake hotel.

Mrs. Lucy Albro will have charge of the afternoon program and Dr. Emma Bower of Detroit and other state hive officers are announced as speakers.

Environment of Home and School Molds All for Better or for Worse

By REV. JOHN HAYNES HOLMES, New York.

The conservative mind is first of all a biological product. It is a part of the process of growing old. As the body hardens so the mind hardens. As we get less and less fluid and flexible in our physical reactions, as we get along in years, so we get less fluid and flexible in our mental reactions.

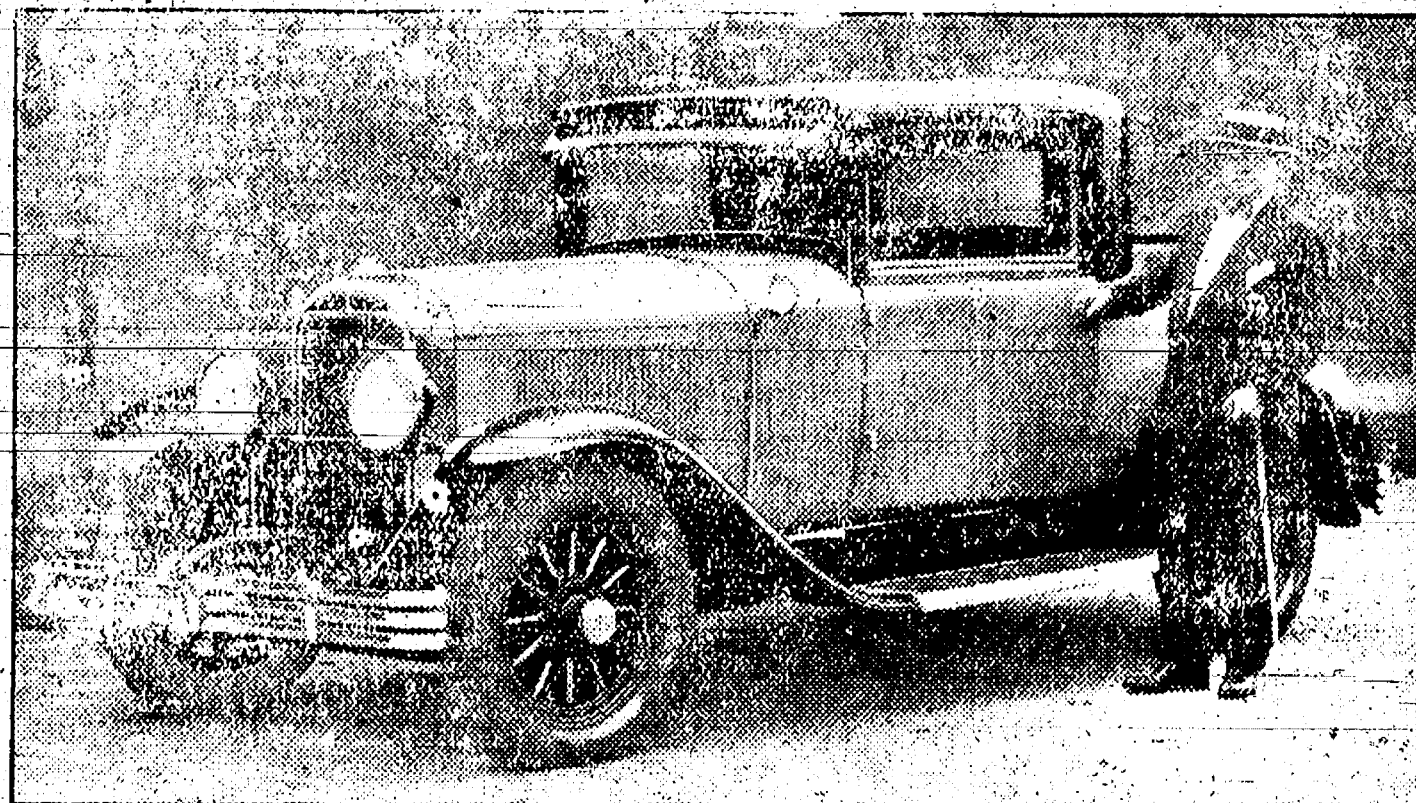

At the bottom no man can escape the doom of becoming fixed in his ideas and therefore unadaptable to the ever-changing world. But he can escape a closed mind and an intolerant spirit. Even if we find it impossible to accept or even to comprehend new ideas, we can be considerate of them and give them welcome to the freest opportunity to win their way. An open-minded free-spirited conservative is one of the finest sights in all the world.

The conservative mind is an educational product. To a greater extent than we realize we are all the children of our fathers. We are made for better or for worse by the environment of home and school into which we are thrust. Each generation carries over and revives the ideas and habits of the former generation.

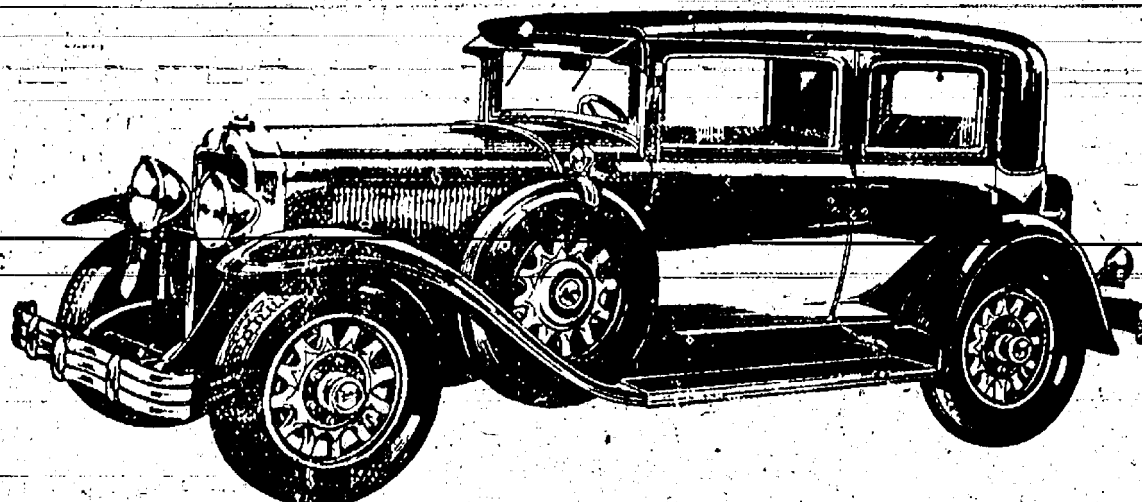

This is curiously true, even of some of our radicals. Take Russia, for example, where a whole generation of young people is being trained hard and fast in the ideas of Communism. These young people will grow up to be conservatives of the deepest dye. They will have their orthodoxy as forced upon them by their fathers, even though it chances to consist of ideas commonly called radical.

Betty and Her Old Barn

By BENTON JAMES
(Copyright)

WHEN the wolf prowled near enough to the door of the old Wycliff estate to cause young Betty Wycliff serious anxiety she decided that the most sensible thing to do was to sell the old home itself and take up her abode in the stable—commonly called the barn. The new owners were quite willing that she should keep the barn since they would be putting up modern garages.

His position was in direct line of the railway approach to the growing little suburb, which, before its tendency to sprout, was justly called Outhemph. But with a generous supply of the fertilizers—builders, estate offices, butchers, etc.—the growth began and they wisely changed the name to Outhemph.

So Betty's old barn stood like a veritable lighthouse in its prominent position on High street and its three great sides gazed flatly at anyone approaching from any of three directions. The front, fortunately, held a secluded southern approach all to itself and this little right-of-way Betty had lined with tall hollyhocks and slim upright birches.

The prowling footpads of the wolf were too close for Betty to have done much except install a bathroom and kitchen and hardwood floors in her barn. She wanted very much to make good in the little village in which all her forefathers had been reared. An attractive sign down at the rustic gate leading to the barn informed the passerby that Miss Wycliff taught dancing and elocution.

It was between a dancing and an elocution lesson that Betty watched the approach of a young man.

Betty soon learned that he was the owner of the new department store that was even then nearing completion in the heart of Outhemph's shopping district.

"Miss Wycliff," he jumped straightway into his reason for intruding. "I will pay you $500 down and another $500 when the sign is finished if you will rent out that east wall of your barn to me for advertising purposes."

"Wait a moment," cried Betty. "Until my brain regains its poise. I never see the outside of my barn—at least not on that side and a thousand dollars a year would mean an awful lot to me. Do you think—that is, could it be done without a lot of printing?"

The young man thought most anything could be done if Betty were just to keep on looking at him with those limpid eyes.

"I have my artist chap consult you before beginning will that do? And if Outhemph grows as big as London and takes my store along with it, you shall have double that rent in another year." And being contented Betty's eyes he arose, squeezed her hand until she nearly squeaked and was off to arrange with his artist.

He had not been gone an hour when the owner of the new butcher shop came up the path with the self-same dream of an advertisement in his head and the exact same figures in the way of rental.

"But I simply couldn't stand it to have pictures of sausages and those sides of lamb and beef hanging on my barn walls," cried Betty. "The decorative scheme shall be left entirely to you," said the young butcher, quite overjoyed at the site he had secured.

The town baker secured the third and remaining wall and Betty knew that the old prowling wolf was gone.

She retired in a somewhat wilted state to her little kitchen to brew herself a cupful of tea. Certainly having walls to one's barn was a greater asset than having a train in one's back yard for the teaching of dancing and elocution.

So while Betty slipped her comforting cupful of tea the owners of the department store, the butcher shop and the baker shop were one by one deciphering with the only artist that Outhemph had ever known. He was but a visitor.

His efforts to secure fame and fortune in miniature painting had so far failed, and it was with extreme joy that he welcomed the orders to take up his brushes in the interest of advertising.

"But you must consult the owner of the barn," each had warned him. "I have a scheme that will suit her," laughed the artist. "We will simply paint crowds of well-dressed people rushing toward the open doors of the shops of you three good gentlemen."

And because Betty had a "barn" in her hand she promptly started a tea-and-coffee room in conjunction with elocution and dancing. Young Martin Wells, swinging on his painting scaffold, thought the world a lovely place and wondered why he had ever puzzled about with little dashes of paint when he could splash it in bucketsful on the barn walls of the most lovely girl that either town or suburb had ever produced.

Betty stepped out from time to time to admire the work of the young artist and to gaze wonderingly up at anyone who could so transform the flat walls of a barn into dreams of color. She knew, too, that he would one day be a leading mural decorator and that she—but what else Betty knew was being expressed beautifully in young Wells' eyes as he gazed happily down at her.

Back to Methuselah

A message from Madrid, Spain, states that a happy family of centenarians has been discovered. The mother is aged one hundred and twenty-seven and her five sons range from one hundred and eleven to one hundred and five. According to these figures the mother must have been only fifteen when her eldest son was born. It was further stated that all the sons are at work; doubtless they are the sole support of their aged mother.

Townships Without Names

If you should send a letter to some one in Letter C, Maine, or to Long A, Maine, or to No. 1, R. A. and so on, the postmaster would see that the letters reached their destination safely or to the nearest postal point, for these are the designations of some of the unnamed townships in Maine. There are 17 of these townships known only by the number, range and county.

TO GIVE PUMPKIN SOCIAL

The United Club wants you to be sure to attend its pumpkin social which is to be held on Saturday evening, October 13th, at the home of Miss Leatha Smith. Girls bring jack-o-lanterns, corn-cob dolls, or something equally ridiculous and the boys should come prepared to buy them at auction. This is an original and very unique affair and you'll enjoy it. A fine entertainment is planned.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to relatives and friends for the many kindnesses shown us during the loss of our son and brother. Especially do we appreciate the consoling words of Rev. A. E. Potts, the music rendered by Mr. Niehaus, the helpfulness of all, and the floral contributions. Your sympathy is deeply appreciated. Mr. and Mrs. George Satterthwaite and family.

Republican County Committee...

That the voters of Washtenaw county may know and be sure of the qualifications of Herbert C. Hoover for the presidency, I quote from the New York world of January 21, 1920—the World being the greatest democratic paper printed in this country—the following splendid endorsement of Mr. Hoover:

"In the judgment of the World, the best equipped and most qualified man to succeed Woodrow Wilson as President of the United States is Herbert C. Hoover."

"For itself the World does not care whether Mr. Hoover calls himself a Republican or a Democrat or a Progressive. He is the kind of a man that ought to be President of the United States."

This was written just at the close Mr. Hoover's work as Food Distributor during the world war as an appointee of President Wilson, and in recognition of his splendid efforts to keep the people of Europe from starving. But now of course, Mr. Hoover is a Republican nominee, and crawlingish as usual, the World is supporting Mr. Smith, because "Mr. Hoover is not the man he was."

But the endorsement of the democratic World stands just the same, and if he was good enough for the World then, he is good enough for the country at large for the office of President of the United States.

How the Useful Plants Came to Mankind

By T. E. STEWARD
WNU Service

The Watermelon

ONE becomes convinced that there is nothing new in the world when he learns that the watermelon comes from Africa and grows wild by the sands in the native home of the race which fancies it most. It is one of the relatively few widely dispersed food plants that come in the first instance from the Dark Continent.

Even as recent a biologist as the great Swede, Linnæus, believed the watermelon to have come from southern Italy, where he had seen it growing in abundance. The plant had spread during the days of ancient civilizations, and at the opening of the Christian era was grown in Egypt, Palestine, Greece, the Roman empire, and probably in India.

That its origin should have been shrouded in mystery is not strange when one remembers that Africa was little explored until the middle of the nineteenth century. In fact, living stories—the famous missionary, who have been the first to establish it as African. In his travels he found it growing wild in abundance and established beyond a doubt that it was in origin from that land.

The watermelon is one of the food plants shown in drawings on ancient Egyptian monuments, proving that they were familiar with it. This makes it likely that it was known also to the ancient Israelites, who carried on commerce with Egypt and were carried into captivity in that country. Spanish and Berber names, with antique characteristics go to show that it was also grown in the western end of the Mediterranean in days very long ago.

Not until the tenth century A. D. was this melon introduced into China where it goes under the name, "shu kin," but the Sanskrit name, "chunya," indicates its ancient cultivation in India.

Wild watermelons are frequently bitter, a character that has been bred out of the domesticated varieties. The native negroes burst the melons with a club and taste the juice, saving the sweet ones and leaving the bitter ones where they lie.

Further proof of its African origin lies in the fact that scientists have failed to find the watermelon growing wild in any other part of the world. It is a member of the citrullus family, scientifically known as citrullus vulgaris.

MARY BELL, leaning back in the old, half-bottomed skiff and watching the white clouds with lazy enjoyment. The green river flowed sluggishly and the old boat idled with one oar as a rubber, heedless of the puffs of wind that came racing up from nowhere and scarcely noticing when the boat increased its speed. White-lids wavered over her supple eyes, closed, and Mary Bell braced herself for the sleep of careless, twenty-one on a drowsy day in August.

Suddenly there was a violent shock of impact as the skiff struck a rock on the shore of Sandy Island. Mary Bell was neatly dumped upon the wet sand and the skiff, righting itself, bounded away on its collecting anger down the now swift-flowing stream.

"What the dickens!" wailed Mary Bell, staring at the mainland half a mile away.

"What's the racket?" asked a cool voice, and Mary Bell turned a loving, frightened face to discover that there was another inhabitant of Sandy Island—a fine, bronzed youth with bold black eyes and strong white teeth, which he was displaying in a wide smile.

Mary Bell jumped to her feet instantly. "I ran around—that is, my boat struck a rock and threw me out. Then it drifted away. I must get to the mainland at once—my people will be worried if the boat is found. How did you get here?"

"Walked," he said simply.

Mary Bell gave him a scathing glance, and her voice shook a little. "Of course it is not a joke to me—she paled suddenly and swayed. 'I believe my ankle is sprained—' she sank suddenly down on the sand.

At once his voice became grave, concerned. "Sprained? I'm sorry. Let me see it a moment—I am a doctor—my name's Stoddard."

"No—no—please do not touch it, Mr. Stoddard."

"Why not?"

"Because your name is Stoddard," she said in a low tone, her face hidden in her hands. The wind was blowing her hair into a halo about her pretty head.

"I can't help my name," he said shortly, "any more than you can help yours—may I ask what it is?"

"Branch,"

"Good night!" he ejaculated indignantly. "Are you dragging in the old family feud at this late day? An old uncle of mine told me about it last night when I arrived—forget it! My father had lived North as long as he supposed the hatchet was buried, and in token of it he named me after his grandfather's ancient enemy—Branch is my name, too. Branch Stoddard, M. D., if you please!"

Mary Bell looked up at him from wet eyes. "I think I could dislike you very much," she said rudely, and twisting away sharply so that she could not see the black eyes grow softer, she cried out and fainted away.

A sleeve torn from his shirt made a strong bandage for the swollen ankle. First, he bathed the injured foot in the cold river water until it ached, then the throbbing was relieved when the skilled fingers fastened the snug bandage. A dash of cold water restored Mary Bell to consciousness and she discovered that she had been removed from the water's edge to a dry spot under a wild thorn apple tree and that her ankle had ceased to throb.

"I'm going to the other side of the island a moment," he explained. "I'll fetch something so that I can get you home."

She heard the bushes "swish" as he passed through, then silence fell on the sandy island. Mary Bell thought of the young doctor's pleasant voice, his kind eyes, the tender touch of his deft fingers. How foolish she had been to cherish the old tales that Uncle Joshua had told her why she had grown to hate the very name of Stoddard—just because her aunt and uncle were not speaking terms with the two Stoddards who lived in the house opposite the island. The four old people cherished the feud, though they had almost forgotten what it was all about.

There was a pleasant rumbling sound as if wheels were crossing a bridge, then the crashing of bushes, and Doctor Stoddard again with a wheel chair and a steamer rug.

"I came across the bridge," he explained.

"Bridge?" she echoed.

"New one—foot bridge over to our place—told you I walked over here, didn't I? Now, Miss Branch—there, let me lift you—I will be careful—so all comfortable?"

"Yes—thank you so much—and I am sorry that I was rude."

"Forgiven long ago—please don't worry about that. I am taking you up to my aunt's house—they want you. You will have tea, and then I am going up to see your uncle and aunt. Here are four lonely old people dying to get acquainted with each other. Shall we do it?" he asked excitedly.

As for Mary Bell Branch, she smiled adorably, and perhaps just at that moment her heart and her ankle throbbed in unison, but it is a fact that not many months afterward the feud was ended and Mary Bell Branch married the doctor, for she had indeed learned to love her enemy.

...Timely Agitation...

THE melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year—Housecleaning time is here again to rob the home of cheer. The furniture is yanked around, the rugs are taken up. Poor dad feels like a homeless or, at least, a chastened pup.

"Tis noon and Saturday at that, the time dad calls his own—But mother says, "Go beat those rugs!" and dad lets out a groan And as he turns and walks away, I hear him say, "Gol Dorn!" For every dog will have his day, and every worm will turn!

As mother goes about her task with cloth and broom and mop, Poor father beats, and beats, and beats. He doesn't dare to stop. 'Tis thus in Spring as well as Fall—expenditure of force—Till father's ire begins to rise in favor of divorce!

He packs his bag and gets his hat and, starting down the stairs, He hears the doorbell. "Who is that?" And mentally he swears. As mother's voice says, "Yes, come in!" he has to hesitate. And soon he learns the Hoover man has come to demonstrate!

And now here once a tragedy was eminently near No trace of dust or argument are in the atmosphere; Where raven perched, now sits the dove, who nevermore shall roam! While dad and mother sing its praise, The Hoover cleans the home!

Keeping in Shape

Persons keeping fit, what foot ball heroes do in the summer time might be a good caution for this year's shot of Joss Hubs, captain-elect of the University of Southern California, who keeps fit for the fall activity by working for a construction company. Hubs plans to build himself up to 200 pounds to start the season.

St. Louis Infielder Was Unable to Tell Colors

Here is one they tell on a certain infielder of the St. Louis Browns. Sam Gray was pitching and Lu Blue was playing first base. A ball was hit to this infielder; Blue went over to catch him, and Gray made haste to catch the ball.

The infielder got the ball, then made a senseless throw in the general direction of nowhere.

"Why in the name of Gawd," said Manager Dan Howley, "didn't you make the throw to Gray at first?"

"Well, manager," alibied the infielder, "I guess I am color blind. I couldn't tell Gray from Blue, and so I just shut my eyes and threw."
