Thanksgiving

The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage.
Psalm 16:6.
We give thanks, O Lord, for the pleasant places, the goodly heritage. We are the heirs to all the ages. Other men have labored and we enter into their labors. All the resources of industry, of science, of art, of literature, are at our command. We give thanks for the opportunities that thus have come to us; the opportunities to have happy homes illumined with friendship and love, suffused with the myriad sides of culture; the opportunities to do useful work, to contribute our part to the complex fabric of civilization, to serve the present age. We give thanks for the great advantage of living, with all its risks of joy and sorrow. If happiness be our portion, may we accept it with joyous hearts; if sorrow, may we find strength to fulfill our obligation with courage, knowing that, in so doing, happiness will break through.

Bradbury Home Scene Of Pretty Wedding

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bradbury in Lima township was the scene of a pretty wedding Thursday evening, when their daughter, Mary Alameda, became the bride of Mr. Clarence R. Toney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Toney, also of Lima. The double ring ceremony was performed at seven o'clock by Rev. Andrew E. Kurth of Ann Arbor, and the wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. Kurth.

The bride chose for her wedding a gown of medium blue crepe, with trimmings of white, embroidered with steel beads. She wore a corsage bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. Her two little nieces, Joan Coy and Barbara Bradbury, of Webster, as flower girls, gave her only attendants. The former attired in pink and the latter in green crepe, carried baskets of gypsophylla.

Following the ceremony, a three-course wedding supper was served to thirty guests. Green candles in crystal holders, with green rose baskets as favors, featured the table decorations.

The bride was a member of the graduating class of 1929, Chelsea high school. Mr. and Mrs. Toney will make their home on the Robert Toney farm in Lima.

Technically Sweet
Topsy-Turvy Russia
This Strange World
Mr. Morgan Knew

Learn, if it can give you satisfaction, that conditions in Wall Street are "technically" much better. That won't give satisfaction to little people that were gambling gaily a year ago. When Wall Street gets "technically" better it means that small accounts are wiped out, little gamblers are dead and buried financially and must save up for the next foolishness.

Stocks are in "strong hands," which means that those that put them out at a high price have bought them back at a low price.

Call money lends at 1 per cent. 90 day money lends at 2 per cent. Everything is "technically" much better, but it will not be.

News that comes from Russia seems as topsy-turvy as though it came from "Alice in Wonderland."

American engineers are developing asbestos resources in Russia, adding another surprise concerning Russian resources generally.

United States engineers are operating an asbestos pit two miles wide, in a place far off from Moscow and the other centers, that had 10,000 population a short time ago, now has 55,000 population, and within two years will yield twice as much as the world's total output of asbestos in 1928. More reason for worrying about "Russian dumping."

Mr. Thomas of the British labor cabinet says the world's trouble is the sudden end of great buying power.

Four hundred million people in China, 300,000,000 in India, 100,000,000 in Russia, half the buying population of the world, suddenly stopped buying.

Boycotting silver, which India and China use for money, plus civil war and rebellion, are responsible for part of the trouble.

And the United States boycott of Russia is responsible for part.

This is an extraordinary world, in which too much of everything, too much wheat, coal, copper, sugar and even too much money, mean disaster.

T. W. Lamont of Morgan and company, reviews a story about Julius Morgan, father of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, grandfather of today's head of the firm.

When the late J. Morgan was very young, crossing the ocean with his father, the latter gave him this advice:

"Remember, my son, that any man who is a heir on the future of this country will go broke."

That is as true now as it was half a century ago, and citizens will do well to remember it.

Railroad men, including the great one in the United States, representing 90 per cent of all the railroads, pledged themselves to avoid cutting wages or threatening men and to employ as many more men as possible.

This they do in the face of decreased railroad earnings, an excellent example to other employers.

The firm here has held up the price of American wheat by spending a million dollars a day to buy grain and take it out of the market.

Wheat has been selling at 10 cents and Liverpool as low as 18 cents below the American price.

This means that other wheat producing countries have been changing their wheat into money, and sending it where it will be eaten.

Regular airplane travel is planned between Chicago and New York in eight and a half hours or less.

That interests railroad men.

Automobile travel also interests railroads.

Four young people in Buffalo decided to see the Yale-Princeton game at Princeton, N. J. They made the trip in one day in a small automobile for gas and oil the cost was $1.10.

Without tickets for the four, not including pullman, would cost $72.

Permitting railroads to increase their rates would not solve that problem.

When Mussolini encounters a problem he does something.

Italy faces a deficit of $30,450,000. Mussolini cuts all official salaries 12 per cent.

He cuts cabinet members at the top and all the way down, army and navy officers, school teachers, police clerks.

That would not be popular here, and it isn't necessary.

The Oxford dictionary is finished, with more than 414,825 words in it. You can get a copy of it for $1,500, but if you don't hurry you won't get any. Only a few copies are left and no more of the present expensive kind will be printed.

Thirteen hundred men and women have worked on that dictionary more than seventy years. And the average man gets along comfortably with 2,000 words, including "Go," "Swallow" and "Taste." Millions of peasants use fewer than 500 words.

The Twenty-third Psalm:

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: For Thou art with me: Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

The Candidate

In ancient Rome during political campaigns, it was customary for persons seeking office to appear in public places wearing white togas, and the white of the natural wool was brightened with chalk. The Latin word for white is candidus. An office seeker was called—candidatus, from which comes our word candidate.

Truth About Porcupine
A porcupine, contrary to popular belief, has not the power to release the quills from its body and throw them. The quills must actually come in contact with the object and thus be loosened from the porcupine.

The Call of the Hills

Did you ever sit in the saddle alone
And hear the grey coyotes cry,
As the moonlight fell on the dun dead hills
And stars leeked the tranquil sky?
Have you felt the spell of the brooding night,
The lure of the stars that shone
Till you longed to live for a thousand years
Out there in the hills alone?

There are those who patter a penciled prayer
Or murmur a man-made creed
In the stress of life as they seek a peace,
To answer the tired souls need,
But a deeper peace for the hearts of men
Is out where the bright stars shine,
Where from dusk to dawn you can always feel
The nearness of things Divine.

Lincoln High Loses To Chelsea Eleven

By Alvin Schiller

Chelsea High continued their series of football victories by defeating Lincoln High of Detroit, 6 to 0, in a game played at Holmes field last Friday. Following is a summary of the game: Lincoln kicked off to Chelsea to start the game, and soon found that they were bucking up against a tough team when they went up against Chelsea, for Chelsea began their march for the goal but were held long enough to render the first quarter scoreless.

In the second quarter they just could not hold Chelsea any longer and Schneider plunged over for the lone touchdown of the game. The extra point was missed when Chelsea tried a fake place kick.

There wasn't much excitement in the third quarter, but in the last quarter the Lincoln boys realized that it was their last and only chance and opened up on wide end runs and passes, succeeding in getting five first downs but were stopped in time to save the game.

This was Chelsea's last game and they ended the season in victory, with only one defeat against them.

After a mock marriage ceremony, a musical program, including two violin solos by Mr. Gundersen, two piano solos by Mrs. Rasmussen, and two piano solos by little Ellnor Gundersen, was given.

The "bride" cut a silver decorated bride's cake. After the refreshments Mr. and Mrs. Hoppe were presented with a generous silver chest filled with new silver coins.—North-end Herald, Seattle, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoppe were former well-known residents of Chelsea.

Kantlehner Announces 60th Anniversary Sale

Walter F. Kantlehner, the "Jeweler on the corner," in an advertisement in this issue of The Standard, announces a big sale, commemorating the 60th anniversary of the Kantlehner Jewelry Store in Chelsea.

With the exception of a very few articles, the entire stock of jewelry, silverware, clocks, etc., have been drastically reduced in price for the Anniversary Sale.

The Kantlehner store was started sixty years ago by C. F. Kantlehner, father of the present owner, who was actively engaged in the business until 1910. In that year, Walter F., who had been associated with his father for several years, assumed control of the business.

Three sons of C. F. Kantlehner learned the trade under his direction: R. L. Kantlehner, of Jackson, Wm. O. Kantlehner, of Lansing, and Walter F. Kantlehner, all of whom are now engaged in the jewelry business. The father passed away in 1925.

Handbag vs. Boy's Pocket

To determine whether the traditional boy's pocket or the modern woman's handbag hold the greatest and widest variety of things was the subject of an unique survey in England recently. The handbag won, for one woman's receptacle contained a powder case, a diary, handkerchief, cigarette case, lighter, mirror, bundle of letters, purse, comb, notepad, lipstick, stocking, mending outfit, patterns of cloth, keys, and a shoe lace.

Tunic Frocks Reflects Russian Influence

Stylists turn to Russia for inspiration. The influence of their picturesque dress is felt all along the line in daytime fashions, and has resulted in the revival of the tunic frock and the return of the over-blouse which was debauched last season by the precocious little tuck-ins.

Summer Camps Prove Value

The organized summer camp had its beginning about 50 years ago. In 1880 Ernest Balch established a camp for boys on Lake Assquam in New Hampshire. Shortly afterward other camps were established, and the movement began to grow rapidly. The health, educational and recreational values of summer camps for boys had become so well organized by 1900 that a similar movement for camps for girls was launched at that time.

'Round Home

CHAS. S. KINNISON

Witty-Pity

When I sit down to read a tale,
And find it very funny,
I then indulge in laughter hale
And wear a grin that's sunny.
I laugh until I shed a tear.
My eyes with tear-drops glisten.
And then I say to Wife Dear:
"I'm going to read this. Listen!"

And usually SHE has a book
At times like this I mention—
And lifts her eyes and gives a look
That does NOT spell attention.
But still I start to read to her
Steamed up with high emotion.
But she sits there without a stir,
And wears a bored expression.

In what I read she finds no fun;
She listens with resentment.
And finally, when I am done,
She sighs in sweet contentment.
A favorite trick is this of mine—
To read her stories witty,
But while I laugh with eyes ashine,
She looks at me with PITY!

SIX CYLINDER SENTENCES

By DR. JOHN W. HOLLAND

ooo

The golden age of the home is parenthood. Inquiries and slurs are the words weapons of the weak minded.

Accountability is simply the moral ability to be of some account.

A life is like a line. It can not be straight and crooked at the same time.

A stir point for the young. Make friends of those only who can teach and inspire you.

When life brings us into deep waters, it is not to drown us, but merely to make us swim.

Michigan Happenings

Complete isolation from the rest of the world faces the fourth University of Michigan-Greenland expedition, according to radio reports received at Ann Arbor, by Prof. William Herbert Hobbs of the geology department. With winter settling down on the little camp, 250 miles north of God Haven, Greenland, the last of the supply of radio tubes have been smashed and there is no prospect of obtaining new ones. While the expedition's sending apparatus is functioning, no news from the outside world can be received.

For the first time since Pellston, Emmet County village was founded 50 years ago, the shrieking of band saws will be absent this winter. The sawmill has turned almost every available sawlog of the vicinity into lumber. The run of last year was supplemented by timber from the Upper Peninsula, but this source of supply was exhausted early in the spring. Pellston had the reputation of being the lumber capital of Northern Michigan, but now it is improbable further lumber manufacture will take place there.

Recently granted a license by the department of commerce, Dr. Jones, who is 59 years old and lives in Bay City, is believed to be Michigan's only flying physician and one of the oldest pilots in this section of the country. Dr. Jones took his flight training during the spring and summer at James Clements airport, Bay City, where he was instructed by Henry Dorn, the airport manager. In pursuing the doctor's skill at the controls, Dorn declared him to be "a natural navigator with an unerring sense of direction."

Retail prices of food in Detroit have fallen 12 per cent during the 12 months ending October 15, the department of labor announced at Washington, D. C. This reduction was expected in Butte and Portland, Ore., where the drop was 14 per cent, and in Los Angeles where the reduction was 13 per cent. It was equalled by decreases in Kansas City, Louisville and Seattle. In none of the 51 cities from which statistics were collected was an increase shown.

Bay City State Park, three miles north of the city on Saginaw Bay, led all State parks in attendance during last summer, figures prepared by P. J. Hoffmaster, superintendent of parks, disclose. The attendance at the park exceeded 1,500,000 persons and exceeded that of Grand Haven State Park, which was second, by 400,000. The Bay City park also led in the number of campers registered with 16,418, as compared with 10,399 at Piquette City Park.

The world's first convention of war veterans will be held by the American Legion, local post 1224 in Detroit, state headquarters and adjutant to the legion in 1942, after a tour of Detroit's hotel and railroad facilities. It will be the first of a series of conventions which will attend the next Legion convention, they said. This means an estimated 100,000 veterans will be in Detroit to 35,000.

The body of a woman, about 45 years old, protruding from a shallow grave was found by two hunters five miles west of Pontiac, near Manistee river. The woman's identity had been dead about a year. She was wearing a dress and had only clothing was a heavy black skirt. The body had been wrapped in a blanket and tied with heavy window sash cord. The face had been covered in a black cloth.

Edgar Quilty, an Algonquin street owned by William E. Scripps, of Chicago, was awarded the grand champion of the American Royal Livestock show at Kansas City. The award was made after the three judges had called in a fourth livestock expert to aid them in making the points of the steer owned by Scripps with those of other entries.

Officials of the Humber Furnace Co. of Coldwater, announced that sufficient orders had been received to warrant continuous day and night operation. For months the concern has operated on a four-day-a-week schedule. Heads of the Titus Foundry made a similar announcement.

A new vogue in stench bombing was introduced in Pontiac by persons who buried a skunk into the Maude pharmacy, 205 Voorhees road. The animal was dead. Police were unable to locate the offenders, believed to have been a band of boys about whom complaints have been received.

Marquette is one of the few counties in Michigan that continues to pay a bounty upon wildcats, wolves and coyotes. During the last 12 months it has cost the taxpayers of that county $4,498 in bounties for the carcasses of 170 coyotes, 78 wildcats and 27 timber wolves.

Contractors have started work on a $300,000 hospital building for the United States Veterans Bureau at Camp Custer, near Battle Creek. It will take care of 136 patients.

Miss Boulé Fry, 18 years old, was dragged to her death at the bottom of the Saginaw river in Bay City, when she became entangled in the anchor rope of a boat that capsized. Miss Fry was in a rowboat with her parents, her brother and sister-in-law, all of Flint. The boat was overloaded and capsized when struck broadside by a wave. The occupants were all thrown into the water but managed to save themselves, the exception being Miss Fry. Her ankle was entangled in the anchor rope and as the heavy weight sank to the bottom of the 18-foot channel, she was dragged down with it.

Within four hours after he had confessed that he had slain his mother, Albert Gruno, 21 years old, a farmer, was sentenced at Harrison to life imprisonment at Marquette. Gruno's confession ended a week's investigation of the murder of Mrs. Paquette Gruno, 63 years old, who had been found dead in the kitchen of her home. According to his confession, Gruno killed his mother after she had refused to lend him $300 to pay off a mortgage on some cattle. His confession told how he deliberately had shot his mother in the back.

In the Upper Peninsula near Munising an old-timer stood at the side of M-28, rifle in hand. A game warden approached him, and the hunter asked if he knew where he might find deer. "Sure, uncle," replied the warden, "sit down on that stump and you are apt to see a deer." The warden drove away, chuckling. A few hours later he drove by. The old-timer called him. "Say, I did what you told me and just a few minutes ago I killed a big buck. Here's a cigar."

Approximately $12,000,000 was distributed to tens of thousands of Michigan men, women and children during the latter part of November in the form of Christmas Club checks. Reports from 23 of the principal cities collected by the Associated Press, reveals a total of $11,295,300 released by clubs in those centers. The figures not heard from, on the basis of those reporting, would bring the total close to $12,000,000.

While excavating for a tomb's corner stone, St. Louis, Mo., excavators found $100 in gold coins. The coins bore dates from 1852 to 1915. Day of Thanks in Old City of Leyden

There is a singular and most interesting connection between the Thanksgiving day in far-away Dutch-Leyden and that first celebrated by the Pilgrim Fathers.

Four centuries ago a bitter struggle was in progress between all-powerful Spain and her little dominion of the Netherlands—a struggle for liberty, freedom in religion and the right of self-government. The odds were terribly heavy against those tiny low countries, but they had the advantage of an indomitable courage and a remarkable leader, William the Silent, of Orange-Nassau.

The first great turning point in their favor during the long struggle was the siege of Leyden and the city's miraculous delivery in 1574, relates the Youth's Companion. In that year suddenly, without the slightest warning, this city, one of the most beautiful in all the Netherlands, found itself surrounded by a huge Spanish army under General Valdez. A siege was begun that was to last five months and reduce the city to its very extremity of starvation, plague and despair.

William of Orange was at the time in Delft, but he sent many messages to the people of Leyden, urging them to hold out bravely for the sake of their country, and counseled their burgomaster, Adrian van der Werf, to take every measure of precaution in economizing food.

William of Orange had conceived a startling scheme for the relief of the city and lost no time in putting it into effect. He commanded all the dykes that kept out the sea to be broken down.

Spaniards in Panic. This accomplished, the water gradually flowed in over the land and was finally deep enough to float a great fleet of vessels laden with defenders as well as supplies, and commanded by Admiral Boisson. But this was not effected until the town had been reduced to utter despair and had sent messages to William of Orange that it could hold out no longer.

It was on the night of October 2 that a strange thing happened. A great storm had come up from the northwest, blowing in a huge wall of water from the German ocean. The fleet of Admiral Boisson had advanced to the first great barrier held by the Spaniards, Fort Luinck, and was awaiting a last sharp encounter in the morning. The Spaniards, thus hemmed in between the city, the sea and the oncoming fleet, began to think themselves in danger.

Suddenly, during the night, there was a hideous crash—a sound so terrifying that the poor citizens of Leyden thought that now at last the Spaniards had broken in and would butcher them all! The Spaniards, on their part, were sure the Leydenese had broken out and were making a last desperate sortie. Evidently they were convinced, was the only hope of safety.

So it came to pass that in the storm and darkness, over the only remaining causeway, leading to "The Hague," the Spanish army silently took its ignominious departure.

City Really Defenseless. The curious thing about it all was that this horrible sound which had alarmed both contending parties, equally, was caused by the falling in of a part of the city wall for the space of nearly a quarter of a mile. Not to this day is it definitely known just why it happened. Probably it had been undermined by the incoming water, but at any rate, had the Spaniards only known it, they could have entered the defenseless city without opposition.

Singularly enough, the only soul in or about the city of Leyden who happened to witness the flight of the Spaniards that night was a little boy, Gysbert Cornelissen by name. He saw the long procession of lights flitting over the causeway, guessed at the retreat of the Spanish, and when all was silent and dark again, made his way to the headquarters of General Valdez. Here he found all deserted, but in such a hurry had they been that an iron pot filled with "hodge-podge" (stewing meat and vegetables) was still cooking over the camp fire.

At dawn the next morning Boisson's fleet prepared for the attack, but what was their astonishment to find an empty fort, with one small boy on the breastworks, waving his cap in one hand and brandishing a pot of hodge-podge in the other.

Historic Thanksgiving. There was rejoicing in the city that day. The famished populace, with the crew of the conquering fleet, repaired at once to the cathedral of St. Peter's and there went up such prayers of thanksgiving as only a miraculously delivered city could render. In the midst of singing the great battle hymn, voice after voice broke down till the whole congregation wept in the intensity of its emotion.

From that day to this Thanksgiving has been celebrated in Leyden on October 3, and the crowning dish of the feast is the hodge-podge, eaten in memory of the great relief.

But this is not all. More than 30 years later, when the Netherlands was at last a free and peaceful country, there went to Leyden a band of Puritans who had left England to seek a more congenial spot. In that city they lived for a number of years, sharing the hospitality of the Dutch and joining with them in their feasts and holiday customs. Many a time did they eat hodge-podge on October 3.

When at last, in 1620, they left the kindly city and sailed for their destination in the New world, they doubtless took with them the memory of Leyden's thanksgiving. In the succeeding years they found that they had their own causes for thankfulness, and in celebrating this New world festival they deemed it expedient to substitute roast turkey and pumpkin pie in place of the historic hodge-podge of Leyden.

Soldiers and Citizens
The inscription, "When we assumed the soldier we did not lay aside the citizen," appears above the stage of the amphitheater in Arlington National cemetery.

Bees This Out
An average colony of bees contains from 50,000 to 75,000 workers during the time of storing surplus honey. During the winter the colony decreases in population until it numbers only about 10,000 or 15,000 in the early spring.

Drawing Power
A man may think he is the ruler in his house, but it's his wife who draws the line.—London, Tit-Bits.

WAYNE—Plans for a second skating rink for the winter season have been started on W. Main street near the Graham Paige factory. Another rink will be constructed on S. Wayne Road on the same location as last year. The rinks which are being erected by the village are due to the activity of the sports committee of the Kiwanis Club which has made preparations for a sports program for the community during the present winter.—Review

NORTHVILLE—It was just 41 years ago on November 16 that Northville turned on its first electric light. Sam Wilkinson, who is one of the pioneers of Michigan in the development of the electric lighting business and who since that day to this has been associated with the electric lighting system of the village, happened to recall the date as he walked by the Record office a few days ago.—Record.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Will you kindly tell me through your query and answers how many bushels of wheat are raised in the world?
Ans.—The amount varies from year to year. In the civilized world there were approximately three billion six hundred and seventy-eight million and eighty thousand (3,678,080,000) bushels of wheat raised in 1929.

Ques.—I wish to ask in your good paper when golf was first played in this country, and who introduced the sport here?
Ans.—This is a matter of much debate. From the most authentic records we can find Andrew Bell, the son of a wealthy Burlington (Iowa) merchant was sent to Edinburg University in Scotland in the latter part of 1870. On returning to this country he brought with him a full set of golf equipment even to knickers and plaid stockings. Bell laid out a nine-hole course just off Madison avenue in Burlington and there played golf for two or three years and tried to interest others in the sport. He failed utterly and left Burlington and went to Chicago about 1890. Shortly after that Chicago began to take an interest in golf and Bell developed into a professional.

Ques.—It seems Americans are crazy about going to Europe. Can you tell me what is the best thing over there?
Ans.—The best thing we know of in Europe is the ticket back to the United States.

Ques.—My husband gives me the "willies" with his driving, and he invariably takes on too heavy a load. What should I say to him?
Ans.—If you are a good back-seat driver and your husband has too heavy a load just tell him to throw out the clutch.

Ques.—To settle an argument will you please state how large do rattlesnakes grow?
Ans.—The largest rattlesnakes, the diamond-back species, sometimes attain a length of more than eight feet and as big around as a fire-engine hose.

Ques.—Does the new government of the Vatican coin their own money or do they use the Italian money?
Ans.—Under the Vatican treaty, signed by the Vatican and the government of Mussolini, the Vatican mints its own money.

Ques.—Can you tell me how many children Lincoln had and if any of them are living?
Ans.—Lincoln had four children, all of whom are dead, one died in the White House, one died in 1871, and Robert, the eldest died in 1882.

Ques.—Will you be obliging enough to answer what is the nickname for the District of Columbia?
Ans.—It has none.

Ques.—Why is an intimate friend referred to as a "pal"? What is the origin of the word?
Ans.—The word literally means a chum. It originated among the gypsies, where "pal" means "brother."

Ques.—Will you please explain why the word "ye" is used in such expressions as "Ye Olden Times"?
Ans.—"Ye" is the Old English method of printing the article "the," but it is not pronounced like it is spelled. Many people erroneously pronounce "ye" just like it is spelled, whereas it is correctly pronounced "the."

Ques.—How large is Yellowstone Park?
Ans.—Yellowstone Park covers 3,312 square miles, and is nearly three times as large as the state of Rhode Island.

Ques.—Will you be kind enough to answer in your question department what political faith was Calvin Coolidge's father, as I am told he was not a Republican?
Ans.—The father of Calvin Coolidge was a Democrat. He voted the Democratic ticket, it is said, when his son ran for the presidency on the Republican ticket.

OUR NEIGHBORS
MILAN—More than three hundred attended one of the most successful parties ever given in Milan last Friday night when the Milan Chamber of Commerce were hosts to the Milan and Dundee football teams and the Dundee business men. The banquet and program followed the annual football game between the two high schools and developed into a victory celebration for the local school leader.

TECUMSEH—The village council, at an informal session Tuesday, took a hand in local unemployment conditions and approved a plan whereby the village clerk may set up an unofficial free employment agency, his office to act as a clearing house for persons seeking employment and those seeking employes.—Herald.

HOWELL—The water situation in Howell city is rapidly becoming more and more complicated. Just when it was thought that the supply had been sufficiently augmented to meet the need by driving a deep rock well, the well fails to deliver over 65 gallons per minute, and according to reports showed more oil than many of the oil wells drilled in this county. The question of adequate water supply becomes more acute as time goes on and the mayor and council have a real problem on their hands.—Republican Press.

BROOKLYN—The Prospect oil well being driven at a location two miles east and a half mile north of Hanover has struck gas in small quantity at a depth of about 1500 feet. The wild-cutters putting down the well are mildly wild about the good sign. The well drilled at Napoleon at 1900 feet kept a gas pipe burning for a long time after it was abandoned several years ago.—Exponent.

PINCKNEY—James Kane, Raymond Downall and Clifford Witty, all of Howell, pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny before Judge Collins at Howell and were sentenced to serve from three to fifteen years at Pontiac. The men were accused of taking goods from the Anderson freight house belonging to Michael Roche.—Dispatch.

MANCHESTER—Section men set fire to brush along the Cincinnati Northern track in Napoleon township on the 2nd of August and it is claimed to have spread to the lands of Ora and Olive McGraw, destroying property valued at $50,000 or thereabouts. On Saturday a suit was started in circuit court. It is reported that the McGraws tried to get a peaceable settlement for their loss, and not being able to agree on a price satisfactory to them, they began the action.—Enterprise.

HOWELL—While rummaging thru a box of articles purchased at an auction by Darwin Briggs last Tuesday an American flag bearing the words "Lincoln-Johnson" printed on one of the white stripes was found. The flag has 21 stars. City Clerk Crittendon has the flag in his window.—Republican Press.

MORENCI—A calf was born on the U. S. Tewsley farm Saturday night, equipped with five legs and three toes on one of its three hind legs. In spite of the odd production of external members, the calf is reported to be healthy and strong.—Observer.

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The introduction of the new Chevrolet Six marks the most impressive forward step in Chevrolet's twenty-year record of constant progress and improvement. For this Bigger and Better Six offers new beauty, new luxury, new completeness and new quality—yet it sells at lower prices!

In every curve and sweep of Chevrolet's modern lines—in every detail of its new Fisher bodies, you will see the fine hand of the master designer and the skillful craftsman. And the more closely you inspect it, the more deeply impressed you will be.

The improvements in the new Chevrolet Six begin at the smart new chrome-plated headlamps and extend throughout the entire car. The radiator is deeper. The lines are longer and lower, giving an air of exceptional sleekness and grace. And the interiors of the new Fisher bodies provide a new degree of comfort and luxury; greater roominess; fine quality mohair or broadcloth upholstery; more pleasing interior fittings; and a new, completely equipped instrument panel.

The chassis of the new Chevrolet Six has also been refined and advanced in a number of different ways. The frame is heavier, deeper and stronger than before. There is a smoother operating, long-lived clutch; a sturdier front axle; an entirely new steering mechanism; an easier shifting transmission. In fact, every vital feature of the new car has been made better to provide more thorough satisfaction for the owner.

And along with these improvements, Chevrolet offers the smooth performance of a 50-horsepower, six-cylinder motor—four long semi-elliptic springs—four hydraulic shock absorbers—a safety gasoline tank at the rear of the car—and an economy of operation not surpassed by any automobile.

Maine First to Give Thanks for Mercy?

We are apt to think that Thanksgiving was originally a New England festival and belonged exclusively to the Puritans. This is a mistake. Neither Boston Puritans nor Plymouth Pilgrims had anything to do with it, for it was first practiced by the Popish colonists of Monhegan, Maine, and it was in a Church of England thanksgiving service—a "giving of God Thanks for a Safe Voyage"—that a writer in the Kansas City Times says:

The practice of setting aside certain days for thanksgiving had become a custom long before the Reformation. Protestants followed the practice, especially in the established church, where it had become a fixed practice long before New England began the observance. It seems a strange thing that the Pilgrims, who hated so heartily all the observances of the Church of England, should have been so willing to follow this practice so early in their history.

The first Thanksgiving day of New England was, however, never appointed nor intended for a day of religious worship. It had nothing in common with the Church of England day of prayer and praise for past blessings and future need. It was appointed as a day of recreation and freedom from work, which made the colonists' days one ceaseless grind of care.

Indians Helped Provide Meat. But those who are wont to think of the Pilgrims as a group of sober and morose men and women, with no idea in life beyond work and prayer, would do well to read an account of that week of Thanksgiving, the first real play time of the Pilgrims.

Edward Winslow wrote to a friend in England on December 11, 1621: "Our harvest being gotten in, our governor sent four men out fowling, so that after a special manner we might rejoice together, after we had gained the fruit of our labors. That four killed as much fowl as, with little help beside, served the whole company about a week. At which time, among other recreations, we exercised our arms, many of the Indians coming among us, and among the rest, their great King-Masasoit, with some ninety men, who for three days we entertained and feasted. They went out and killed five deer, which they brought and bestowed upon our governor, upon the captain and others."

Governor Bradford in his account speaks of the great number of water fowl and wild "turkie." The record goes on to tell that the Pilgrims, without doubt, fared decidedly better than did their English brothers that year, as "turkie" was scarce.

There were only 50 Englishmen to eat the Thanksgiving feast that first year, but 50 Indians came as guests. They did not come empty-handed, but brought generous gifts. The kindly spirit of friendliness was worth even more at that time.

Only Five Women to Get Meals.

The games were tests in jumping, leaping and running, in which they all took part. But in spite of all this, it could not have been a week of unalloyed recreation and pleasure, for there were only four women to do the cooking, with the help of one maid servant, and a few maidens. There were 140 men to be served, and 90 of them Indians, whose hunger had to be appeased for three days. Even more noticeable and pathetic was the very small number of children in the stockade to participate in this first Thanksgiving celebration.

There is no record of any kind of religious service or prayer during the week. One writer says: "Lost in the week—terrified by lions—terrified by grinning wolves—half frozen in the poorly built houses—sickened by poor food, and half famished—almost half the company dead, after two years of suffering and hardship. In spite of these heavy hardships, and after the drought of 1621, a nine-days-of-prayer for rain was answered, and the second Thanksgiving day was appointed and observed."

The first Thanksgiving day which was publicly appointed, was set for February 22, 1630, in gratitude for the "Friend-bringing and food-bearing ships." November 4, 1631, Winthrop wrote: "We kept Thanksgiving day today in Boston." Until 1634 the day was celebrated about every two years.

Thankful for Clean Teeth.

We have no certain record when it became a fixed annual observance in New England. But in 1742 there were two Thanksgiving days and Massachusetts and Connecticut celebrated with out reference to each other. As time passed, it became more and more a day of prayer and thanksgiving. "For it becomes more hard," one Connecticut writer says, "to settle upon any special day."

It was not regularly observed until 1786, and then more as a day of worship than a day of feasting. One writer speaks of a service in which a long list of special blessings was specified. "For the healing of breaches, the abatement of disease, the arrival of persons of quality, gratitude for plentiful harvest, that God has sent us no want of bread, and for clean teeth."

These early Thanksgiving days were of many different days of the week, and of no certain month for many years. After the day began to be observed annually, it came to be the custom to hold the festival in the fall, and following harvest. The feast was usually prepared for by some days of fasting.

No Celebration Without Pie.

But among the early Thanksgiving celebrations of Colonial days is one which has no counterpart in history. The records say that the governor of Connecticut appointed a certain day to be observed throughout the state as a time of thanksgiving. But, for reasons of their own, the residents of the town of Colchester ignored the governor's appointed day. They sent a committee to him stating that they were not able to accept the day he had selected, but "would gladly celebrate Thanksgiving one week later."

As this had never happened before, the governor was at a loss to know how to proceed. Fortunately, he was a patient man, and not easily affronted, and one who was blessed with a sense of humor.

Finding he was not going to make the matter disagreeable for them, he was again visited and the matter explained. A sloop expected from New York had been delayed a week. On board was a hoghead of molasses for making pies, without which no Thanksgiving celebration could proceed.

Being a man of good sense, and perhaps, too, having the New England appreciation for pie, the good people of Colchester were allowed to hold their Thanksgiving when the hoghead of molasses came in, a week later.

In 1877 the first regular Thanksgiving proclamation was printed, and it is said a copy still is in existence.

Howard Ziemer, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ziemer, of the South Custer road, near Monroe, is in the Monroe Hospital with a fractured skull and a broken jaw, suffered when he was kicked by a horse.

Miss Clara Wray, 15 years old, was killed instantly two miles west of Sanford when a truck in which she was riding struck a tree as it swerved to avoid a collision. The truck was driven by Burton Berry, of Alma. The girl's father and Berry were slightly hurt.

A new high population for Michigan State Prison at Jackson, was reached recently with a count of 5,204. In 15 days 187 prisoners were received at the prison.
