INSTANT LIGHT
Aladdin
MANTLE LAMP

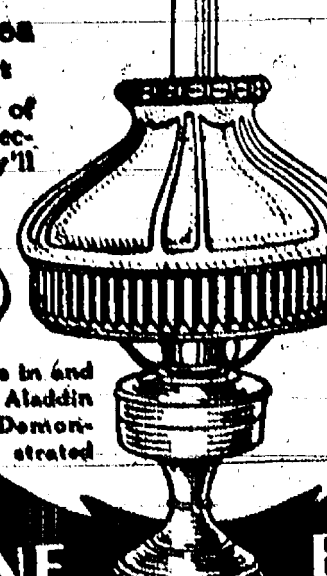

Hail to the lowly kerosene (coal-oil). Now by means of the new instant light Aladdin Mantle Lamp it has come unto its own. Aladdin turns it into light the closest approach to actual daylight of all artificial lights. Its light is soft, white and beautiful—so easy and restful to the eyes. Then, too, it is done so economically that it saves its cost in the lesser amount of oil consumed in a few months' time. It takes ten ordinary oil lamps to equal in strength and light, but they cannot and do not even approach Aladdin's pure white light in quality. Absolutely safe—no noise—no smoke—no trouble.

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing Mich., Oct. 28.—A decided change of mind regarding economic conditions is noticeable among men who transact business with the corporation division of the Department of State. During the past few weeks, it has been reported that "bright spots" of increased business activity are evident in various parts of the state.

The corporation tax this year, while not as large as in 1930, exceeds by about $500,000 the amount that it was estimated the state would receive. The total 1930 tax collected was $7,440,300. This year $6,622,869 has been paid by corporations thus far and is estimated that at least $130,000 more will be received before the end of the fiscal year June 30.

The new automobile drivers' license act, passed by the 1931 legislature, becomes effective Nov. 1 and it is estimated that 200,000 drivers who secured their original licenses prior to Jan. 1, 1925, will not have re-registered in accordance with the new law.

Applications for new licenses can be made to chiefs of police or sheriffs. The officer then issues a temporary license which is good for 20 days. Before the expiration of that period, the application will be checked by the department of state and the Department of Public Safety, and the new license issued, if no hindrances are discovered. The new licenses are good for only three years.

The Legislative Manual, familiarly known as the "Red Book" will be ready for distribution by the Department of State in about two weeks. The manual is published every two years under a law which orders its distribution without cost to county officials and libraries. Private individuals and companies may purchase the book from the department at cost.

ARE PLANNING WEEK OF STUDY AND PLAY

Tentative plans for Farm Women's Week at Michigan State College next year are already under way, according to Miss Edna Smith, head of the home economics extension department. At least two delegates from each county where extension groups have been organized are expected to attend the programs to be held the week preceding Farmer's Day in August.

Guests during the week are to be housed in the new women's dormitory, Mary Mayo Hall, which has recently been dedicated. The programs include both work and play, and a profitable as well as inexpensive vacation is offered to all farm women attending. It is estimated that six dollars will completely cover expenses during the week. This does not include transportation cost to and from East Lansing.

They took a fast train from Ann Arbor and a group of friends of both ladies were on the north porch of the Home to express their God speed and good wishes in a genuine chaqueta salute as the train rushed past. "THE MYSTERY OF LIFE" IS UNIQUE SCREEN PRODUCTION

Dramatized upon an outline of his ideas on Evolution the eminent scientist, lawyer and lecturer, Clarence Darrow, in "The Mystery of Life," which opens an engagement at the Princess Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 3 and 4, gives to the world for the first time the screen story of the loves and tragedies of the real "underworld"—the world under foot. This is the world where the scar-faced gangster gets his victim without fail and without expiating his crime—where love is elemental and hot with passion—where warfare is so skillfully organized that waste is not known, the bodies of the dead even being utilized to strengthen the fortitude of the victors—where death lurks at every hand and a breeze that turns a leaf may be the instrument of death to thousands.

This is also the "underworld" that now lies beneath the dark vegetation of the jungles, where, amid the towering stalks of rank grasses and plant life, the small woe of his mate and the "Dracula" of the insect kingdom skitters down the highways of darkness with murder in his heart and blood on his lips—the jungle that once covered the earth and in which in the early days of creation was forged in the heat of love and the iron of hate the thing that today we call man.

On this stage is enacted the whole drama of life with the players in the natural roles in which destiny cast them. They play their parts with consummate skill. Tragedy is real because it is taken from life; romance is sweetly intriguing because the actors are living their parts—not merely playing them.

The whole story of the universe has been epitomized in this production, the romance of life, the tragedy of death, and over all the eternal question mark, the riddle of the ages—the unanswerable mystery of life. As the story unfolds on the screen the voice of Darrow can be heard in the background presenting his arguments, building his case upon the premise that man and life resulted from chemical-electro disturbances in the warming swamplands of our early cosmic epoch.

Unusual photography abounds in this production and some of the most interesting shots of animal life ever seen are presented. Insect life is also shown in all its startling organized perfection. Armies of ants are seen in military maneuvers—training perhaps for the great war with man which is to prove the test of the mastery of the world. Strange birds are seen as they court and mate; mammals stealing homes for themselves and then camouflaging them so that the original owners would never recognize the place if they happened along.

"The Mystery of Life" is unique. Nothing like it has ever been seen upon the screen before. It has been in the making in the laboratories of science for ten years. Many of its scenes could not be duplicated. It has a most amazing interest for theatre-goers of all ages because it is life itself.

SCHOOL NOTES

Rev. Matthews of the Methodist church made his first appearance before the student body at Chapel on Tuesday morning. Rev. Matthews came as a stranger to most of us but before he left he had become a friend to us all. He opened the Chapel period by a reading from the Scripture and a prayer. The entire assembly then sang two songs. Mr. Vander Ven rendered three solos, which everyone enjoyed.

Rev. Matthews then talked to us on the subject of choosing the straight path. We should lead a straight life, we should not stoop to low things because others do. He stressed that we should all "stand up" and face the problems of life which confront us. He told stories to illustrate his ideas on straight-forwardness in life.

We start on Straight Street and for the first 5 or 6 years we live on Play Street, rest of school time we live on School Street, after school College Street, from College Street we move to whatever Street we happen to pick out—Joy, Sorrow, Sadness and many others.

The students enjoyed the talk and are looking forward to Rev. Matthews' next visit.

Senior Party
A strictly Senior Class Party was held Friday night, October 23 in the high school gym. Progressive card games, and dancing provided the evening's entertainment. A delightful lunch was served. This was the first Senior party of the year.

Style Changes

What is a fashionable costume to-day will be a caricature in 20 years.—Paul Poiret, Paris stylist.

From the Teuton

The name "Mildred" is of Teutonic origin, and came into English through Anglo-Saxon. The meaning of the name is "mild threatener."

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—I want to ask in the question department of your paper if you can tell me where the Maumee River is?

Ans.—The Maumee River flows in a northerly course through the northwestern part of Ohio and empties into Lake Erie near Toledo, Ohio.

Ques.—We hear a lot about the "eighteenth amendment," and now I wish to ask you how many amendments there are?

Ans.—There are nineteen amendments to the United States constitution.

Ques.—Is it unlawful to place sale bills, etc., in rural mail boxes without postage?

Ans.—Yes, it is. Nothing should be placed in rural mail boxes except mail matter which carries with it the proper postage and is properly addressed.

Ques.—I am curious to know what kind of ink the cartoonists of the daily papers use. Can you tell?

Ans.—Higgins' black waterproof India ink is the most famous for drawing cartoons, and is used by most of the artists.

Ques.—Will you kindly answer in your good question column what state in the United States raises the most corn?

Ans.—This distinction goes to Kansas, followed closely by Iowa.

Ques.—In a small town where one often passes an acquaintance several times in one day, should they speak each time they meet?

Ans.—No. The first time they meet they should speak. After that, on the same day, a bow, a smile or a look of recognition is all that is necessary to conform to polite etiquette.

Ques.—Do you believe women should be subject to criticism for smoking?

Ans.—Custom usually determines these things. While it is not as yet conventional for women to smoke, it appears they have as much right to do so as a man. When short skirts first made their appearance many were "shocked," but custom has wrought a change of sentiment. The man who was "shocked" would be the first to decry the ankle-length skirts. And thus it could be the same with smoking.

Ques.—Will you be kind enough to answer what kind of metal is "pinchbeck?"

Ans.—"Pinchbeck" is an alloy of copper and zinc, and was so named from its inventor, a London watchmaker who died in 1732. Pinchbeck made cheap jewelry from this alloy which had the appearance and luster of gold, although the counterfeit could be detected by its weight being less than that of gold and its want of resonance. The most common pinchbeck consists of about 15 per cent of zinc and the remainder copper, although a small quantity of tin is sometimes added.

Ques.—I have in my possession four old coins. One has the letter "o" on it, one has "s", one the letter "d", and the other is plain. Can you tell me what these letters are for, and whether there is a premium on any of them?

Ans.—These letters represent the mint where your pieces were coined. The letter "o" was New Orleans, the letter "s" was San Francisco, the letter "d" was Denver and your "plain" one was Philadelphia, which mint used no mint mark. There is no premium on these coins, with possibly the exception of New Orleans, which mint was discontinued twenty years ago, and its coinage is fast going out of circulation. However, only coin collectors will give premiums as they see fit.

Ques.—To settle a dispute will you please answer which side won the battle of Jutland which was fought between the Germans and the British in 1916 in the North Sea?

Ans.—This naval battle was not a decisive one, as the Germans seemed to have the better of the fight, but they withdrew from the field of battle and left the British in complete command of the North Sea. The fact that the Germans failed in their attempt to raise the British blockade the "victory" goes to the British fleet, notwithstanding they lost more heavily than the Germans.

NY TEAMS ENTERED IN PLOWING CONTEST

Four horses in big hitch hold the record in the State plowing contest. Multiple hitch demonstrations are being held at Michigan State College, East Lansing, and part of the horses will be sold at the annual consignment sale held in the stock pavilion November 4.

The hundred and fifty good type horses will be working in the field at one time. Teams include combinations of four, six, and eight horse teams pulling plows.

Winners will be decided on a basis of teammanship, quality of work, and amount of plowing done in the allotted time. Four horse teams will be required to plow one-half acre and other teams will plow one acre.

Each team must strike out his own land at the depth of plowing must be at least six inches.

Multiple hitches increase the amount of work one man can do, equalize the work for the horses, and make it possible to use more than one implement at a time in fitting soil. The contest starts at 10:00 a. m. on Saturday.

The consignment sale of draft horses is sponsored by the Michigan Breeders' association and is held at the forenoon of Nov. 4. Judging contests and demonstrations will be held the forenoon of that day at Michigan State College.

PURINA COMPANY ADOPTS NEW ECONOMY MEASURE

Beginning September 1, officers and employees of Purina Mills, makers of commercial feeds, received salary cuts up to 15 per cent, according to an announcement by the company's executives. This is one of the first of the companies doing business with the farmer to share with him the effects of the present business depression.

The announcement of the cuts in salaries was preceded by a cut in price of the company's products.

"We feel in making this salary cut and in cutting the price of our feeds that we are passing on to the feeder every extra dollar and every extra value that it is possible for us to give," says E. G. Cherbonnier, secretary of the Purina Mills. "We know that we are in a business that depends primarily on the prosperity of the American farmer and for that reason feel that we can most help to bring back good times by giving the farmer greater values today than ever before."

In cutting the price of our feed and in cutting the salary of thousands of employees, we have not taken away one bit of the quality that is in our products. Like the farmer, we know that we must at this time take less for our products and less for our laborers.

Every member of the Purina Mills field force has been urged to give diligently of his time and efforts to every livestock feeder to help him to reduce his production costs and to increase his margin of profit through better methods of care and feeding.

MASON—Taxpayers of Ingham county will gain some slight relief from the 1931 levy as compared with that of 1930. County tax will be $108,788 less than that of last year while the state levy which Ingham must collect amounts to $11,218 less than that of 1930.—News.

Furniture's "Golden Age"

During the latter half of the eighteenth century, Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Sheraton and the Brothers Adams produced distinctive furniture. Some of the finest furniture made in France and America as well as designed and constructed at the same time, so the era is designated as the "Golden Age."

Pigs Do Not Always Act Just Like Hogs

By Robert Lee

Pigs, which are popularly supposed to eat just like hogs, really are not so promiscuous in their appetites and the up-to-date livestock man can save money by feeding rations which permit the pigs to gain weight rapidly without undue strain on the grain bin, according to the animal husbandry department at Michigan State College.

The College department fed several lots of spring pigs running on rape pasture to determine the most efficient ration. The grain ration was placed in self feeders, and a mineral mixture was supplied. Similar pigs were included in each lot, and the animals weighed approximately 50 pounds each at the start of the feeding period.

The best daily gains and the greatest total gain was made by the pigs which was fed ground barley, ground oats, and tankage. These pigs increased their weight 1.45 pounds daily. The total gain of 138 pounds cost $3.75 per hundredweight. When corn was substituted for barley in this ration, the daily gain was 1.41 pounds, the total gain was 132.3 pounds, and the cost was $3.77 per hundred weight.

Barley and tankage put 1.22 pounds of meat per day on the pigs, which gained a total of 126.4 pounds at a cost of $3.82 per hundredweight. The figures for corn and tankage were 1.27 pounds daily gain, 125.4 pounds total gain, and $3.47 cost per hundredweight. For wheat and tankage, the daily gains were 1.33 pounds, the total gain 129.9 and the cost was $3.70.

Pigs made faster gains at less cost with barley alone than on barley and tankage.

The figures on costs of gains are for feed only.

Cheap Feeds Keep Idle Work Horses

Farm work horses doing only work enough to provide them with exercise need very little grain to carry them through the winter in good condition if they are fed roughages and some alfalfa hay, according to the animal husbandry department at Michigan State College.

Two lots of draft horses were carried through the winter at the College and received no grain from November until January 26 when the horses were given three pounds of ear corn daily and this amount was gradually increased until the horses were on full feed in March.

The horses were pastured on corn stubble or alfalfa during the first eight weeks of the test. They were then turned in the barnyards for exercise and one lot was given silage and the other carrots. At the conclusion of the feeding period, the horses which were fed carrots were in better condition than those fed silage.

All the horses maintained their weight on the feeds given them. Some two year old colts which were given the same ration held their weights, but did not make the gain in size which they should have made.

The horses which were carried through on the maintenance ration gained rapidly in weight when they were placed on full feed in March at the beginning of the work period. The cost of the daily ration given these horses was 13 cents per day, with feed prices much higher than they are now.

NEW INSECT-MAKES GARDENING HARDER

Those who are able to forget the trials of everyday life while working in their flower gardens will perhaps welcome the rose stem-girdler, an insect which promises to make the growing roses a problem which will take all of the gardener's attention, according to the entomology department at Michigan State College.

This beetle is a native of Europe and has become generally established in the eastern part of the United States. It is now fairly common in Michigan and its depredations have been reported to the College entomologists. It prefers certain varieties of roses but will undoubtedly attack all of them as soon as it becomes more numerous.

The adult beetles lay eggs on the rose canes in June or early July and the larvae, when hatched, cut through the bark and make spiral tunnels in the sapwood of the rose stems. These tunnels frequently almost completely girdle the canes. The portion of the cane above the tunnels turns light green at first, then brown, and later dies.

The injured canes break easily at the point where the larvae are working and there usually is a pronounced enlargement of the cane above the injured portion. There are usually several of these swellings or galls.

The only known control method at present is to cut and burn the infested canes before the adults emerge in June from the pupal stage in the canes.
