Chelsea Defeats Milan In First League Game

Hi School Scribe Displaying a well-balanced team of veterans with a smooth passing attack and a strong defense the Purple and Gold came through with a victory over Milan HI at the local auditorium last Friday night. Milan tuffed first on a free throw, but Chelsea soon went into the lead which was held throughout the game. The score was 7 to 1 in favor of the home team at the quarter. The half ended with Chelsea in the lead, 12 to 3. Milan was unable to penetrate the home team's defense to score a field goal in the first half.

Milan came back stronger in the third quarter, however, most of their points were scored on free throws. Chelsea's one fault was their tendency to foul. Milan scored 8 points on free throws. In the final period the inspired Milan team came within one point of tying Chelsea but the Purple and Gold steadied down and scored two baskets and a free throw to finish strong as the final whistle sounded.

Wednesday, December 30, at 7 o'clock the older Chelsea Alumni takes on a Saline Alumni in the preliminary, while in the main event the Chelsea Varsity takes on the Chelsea Alumni of the past two years. SOUTH LYON—The State Board of Aeronautics is said to be giving favorable consideration to a proposal of the Koehler Aircraft Co. to establish an emergency landing field at Walled Lake. This company has a route from Milwaukee and Grand Rapids to Detroit, and fog conditions in the Walled Lake area make a landing field in that vicinity desirable. The decision has yet to be made, however, and there is some question about the policy of the state providing airports for private airlines.—Herald.

MILAN—Milan again got squarely behind the local efforts of the Rod Cross and in the drive that closed Thanksgiving Day the local people showed an increase in memberships over last year. The campaign, locally, was conducted by the members of the Milan Woman's Club under the direction of a committee headed by Mrs. G. H. Allen. For a number of years, local people have continued to support the efforts of the great humanitarian organization and its local efforts. A portion of the money subscribed is being used in local relief.—Leader.

The Grass Lake Farmers Club was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Conklin recently. John Seitz of Lima, while examining a dynamite cartridge a few days ago lost two fingers and a thumb when the cartridge exploded in his hand. Somebody who was a little worse for liquor fell against the barber pole of Thorndyke & Schatz and knocked it through a $60 plate glass window. As Wm. Gray was returning to his home from Chelsea this morning the horses gave a sudden jump, throwing him from the sleigh to the ground and one of his ribs was broken. 1929 Was A Tough Year

The following article, published in "The Wedge," a magazine issued by Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, Inc., one of the world's largest and best known advertising agencies, deals with the present economic situation, and is published herewith for the benefit of the public mind in regard to conditions as they now exist.

Business was sick in 1929 and didn't know it. It was burning up with fever. What it mistook for energy was merely overstimulation from its thyroid gland. Towards the end it became delirious.

The automotive industry had been wasting away from a dangerous use-car malady. Instead of calling in the doctor, it tried to pretend that everything was all right. Factories kept on producing more cars than were needed, and dealers sank their capital in basements and back yards full of used cars. Then the industry went to bed and dealers went broke.

Shoestrings Into Apartment Houses
After the war there was a shortage of homes, and everybody piled into real estate. Shoestrings were stretched into apartment houses and suburban developments. Land values skyrocketed. Fake loan companies took enormous bonuses for lending money they didn't possess; said loans often being greater than the actual value of the property, and then passed on these fraudulent loans to sucker investors in the form of mortgage bonds. Then that bubble burst.

The installment buying germ got into the business blood, and a vast quantity of merchandise was unloaded on a public that couldn't afford it, even after the country was hopelessly overstocked with everything, industry kept right on producing. If the old model could no longer be sold, a new model was brought out and everyone was urged to throw away last year's purchase even before the installments on it were cleaned up.

Crazy Way Made Crazy Profits
While it lasted, this crazy way of doing business made crazy profits. Hundreds of concerns which were unsoundly financed showed big earnings. Common stocks were unloaded on amateur investors on the expectancy of still greater earnings, although hardly worth the paper on which they were printed.

The general public suddenly grasped the idea that quick fortunes were to be made by dabbling in anything and everything that looked like a common stock, with the result that stocks worth less than nothing bounded upward five to ten points a day. Clerks counted that day lost that didn't net them five hundred to a thousand dollars. With all this easy money coming in, it was natural that suppressed desires should be gratified for milk coats, jewelry, night clubs, travel, double lives, new cars, fine homes, butlers, yachts, fancy clothes, country clubs, and all the other luxuries people plan to buy when they get rich—wherever possible on the installment plan, for most of the profits were fed back to the golden goose for more stock.

Then the fever passed its crisis and business collapsed.

A Long Convalescence Followed
A long period of convalescence followed. The poison was gone but so were strength and courage, and will. The patient took to its bed, and gazed with lack-lustre eyes upon a world of busted dreams.

Today, business is in better health than it has been since the world went mad in 1914. It is still wobbly in the knees, but its head is clear and its body is purged. Strength is slowly returning to wasted muscles. Its paunch of piled-up surpluses has disappeared, and honest hunger is bringing back the old fighting courage.

Used cars are about worn out, and the price of new cars has been forced down to a level which does not allow for wild trade-in deals. From now on, there will be a reasonable replacement of cars which will insure the automotive industry's getting its fair share of the nation's income.

Assets May Be Frozen, But Safe
Millions have been lost and billions of assets are frozen in real estate, but the property is valuable and the investment is safer than it would be in some of the securities the New Era boys were dishing up in 1929.

From a common need there is slowly but surely growing a new conception of international morality.

Stocks of merchandise are low. Shoes wore out first, and the shoe industry is already picking up. The clothing business is due for a big comeback. Eugenes were a break for hat manufacturers.

Our country has just about as much real wealth as it ever had, even though the vision of sudden riches for all of us has passed. We took an awful licking that was coming to us, but it didn't kill us.

Put the Wheel Chair Away
The time has come, it seems to us, to put the wheel chair up in the attic and get back on the job. The American people are too virile to go in for neurasthenia. The bolder spirits who always seem to get to the trough first have already snatched out of the morbid fear and cowardice of those dependent days of convalescence. No problem was ever solved by grieving about it.

The sickness of 1929 was a general condition. It hit everyone. There

DEARBORN—Unemployment in Dearborn will be ended by January 17 according to a prediction made this week by James P. Casey, director of Dearborn Welfare Department. The Ford Motor Company gave employment to more than 500 Dearborn men last week and will continue to place from 50 to 75 a week until unemployment in the city is ended.

MANCHESTER—Mr. Riley, from the State Department of Weights and Measures was here Tuesday and left weight tickets at Burtloss & Henzie's scales for weighing trucks under the new regulations. If truck owners, farmers as well as others, are not posted on the new laws, they should give the matter their attention at once, for there will be officers on the lookout for violators of this law.—Enterprise.

Michigan Department of State

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 23.—The mileage allowance of department of state employees who use their own private automobiles on state business, will be reduced from six to five cents a mile on January 1, 1932, it was announced by Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald.

The reduction was ordered after the department made an analysis of automobile operating costs and were convinced that five cents a mile was sufficient to operate a medium-sized automobile.

About two weeks ago, higher-paid employees of the department voluntarily accepted a salary reduction ranging from two per cent for those receiving $1,300 a year to five per cent for those receiving $5,000 a year.

The new regulations for the weighing of trucks and trailers before 1932 licenses can be obtained, will benefit honest truck owners, instead of working a hardship on them, it was pointed out by Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald.

The new regulations require that the truck owners secure an official weight receipt after having their vehicles weighed on a designated scale. This receipt then must be presented when 1932 licenses are obtained.

In the past, honest truck owners always have paid their full tax to the state, but they have been penalized by dishonest owners who have not borne their full share of the cost of operating the state, it was pointed out. Under the new system, the honest owner will pay the same tax as in other years and will have the satisfaction of knowing that others are not defrauding the state and thereby gaining an advantage in lower operating costs.

The new regulations are expected to add at least $500,000 to the state's revenues in 1932.

MASON. Two Mexican thieves, Roscoe Delgado, 39, and Jose Gonzalez, 30, both of Mt. Pleasant, came to grief as a result of stealing a pair of silk pajamas from Parkhurst's dry goods store Saturday afternoon. Quick work on the part of Mary Elizabeth Parkhurst, and the co-operation of the Ingham sheriff's department and the Jackson police made capture of the thieves possible within an hour of the theft.—News.

The teacher, Mrs. Violet Frinkle, is to be commended for her efforts and wonderful success in bringing out unsuspected talent among the pupils of the Red School. The intense silence in the rooms, especially during the impressive Cathedral scene, showed the interest and appreciation of all. The cooperation of H. Frinkle in arranging scenery and lights, the hearty support of the patrons, the earnest helpfulness of the children, the assistance of the musicians and the kindness of the host and hostess made memorable the Christmas program of 1931.

WILLIAM HAINES HAS BEST ROLE OF CAREER IN COMEDY

"New Adventures of Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," hilarious romance of high finance and love, with William Haines in the role of the happy-go-lucky grafter of the George Randolph Chester "Get-Rich-Quick" stories, will come Friday and Saturday, December 25 and 26, to the Princess Theatre, and incidentally, brings to the screen a Haines that will surprise the fans. As the pimple-witted, wise-cracking bunco man, in a story suggested by the famous Wallingford series in Cosmopolitan Magazine, Haines has a unique blend of comedy mixed with a few heart interest moments that give him opportunity for some fine dramatic action.

Incidentally, the picture introduces to the screen a new type of laugh-maker in the person of Jimmy "Schmozzle" Durante, New York's "11 Ups to Him" comic, who makes his talkie debut in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production.

Ernest Torrence plays the famous role of Blackie Daw, Wallingford's companion in the gentle occupation of milking the unwary of their coin. Torrence and his saxophone add much to the laughs in the production.

Lella Hyams is the heroine as the girl for whom the irrepressible Wallingford finally reforms, and the cast includes Guy Kibbee, Hale Hamilton, Robert McWade, Clara Blandick and Walter Walker. Sam Wood directed.

Hilarious highlights in the new production are the fleecing of the Syracuse manufacturer in the bank, the comical escape from the detective the masquerade of Blackie as a chemist on the clay hill, and other sprightly incidents.

TECUMSEH—The Tecumseh Clearing House Association organized about a month ago for the purpose of accommodating responsible persons who have checks to cash or who desire change, is filling a big need in Tecumseh's commercial world, according to a report made public today by Frank S. Turner, secretary-treasurer and manager. According to Mr. Turner, since the organization of the association, checks amounting to about $12,000 have been cashed weekly. Herald.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Some would say that only those really mean anything by their wishes who have helped with their hands to make their wishes come true. And, for all we know, this may be good doctrine. At any rate we have been doing what we can through the medium of our business during the past months to make all the people we could happier and better prepared to enjoy life. Therefore when we wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year we are merely expressing in words what every working day in the year we express in actions.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Money, So Queer Peace, With Gas Masks Gandhi Goes Religion's Power

The more you study money the more fantastically mysterious it becomes. Japan abandons gold, won't let any gold go out, and closes the stock exchange. Does everything collapse? It does not!

The French, while interested in pacifist peace sobbing that goes on in the League of Nations, are also watching Mr. Hitler and Germany. Along the French frontier, French soldiers in the long line of powerful forts, and civilians also, provide themselves with gas-masks.

Gandhi sails for home, disappointed, predicting "hell" and trouble in India. Both have appeared already. One British magistrate has been killed. Just what the British will do to discourage killings if they become too numerous is uncertain.

One thing is sure, the British will not again resort to the ingenious idea of fastening natives to the mouths of cannon and blowing them to pieces. That worked well in the great rebellion, but such methods are out of date in these "peace days."

Before he left, Gandhi saw the king, who received him in his shawl and breech-clout. He did not see the pope. The latter to his regret, for he especially wanted to see Gandhi, but could not receive the mahatma in this particular dress which offends the traditions of the Vatican.

In Rome 12 professors in Catholic colleges sacrificed their positions and the opportunity to make a living by refusing to take the Fascist oath of allegiance to the Fascist state and fealty to King Victor Emmanuel and the royal family. This they did because their consciences demanded it, in spite of the fact that Pope Pius has recently approved the oath, because

"Fascism is not a political party, but the government of the nation."

For religious conviction men will endure anything. The courage of these men, giving up their livelihood, is admirable, but does not compare with past sacrifices, as described in the stories of martyrdom among early Christians.

For instance, in Strasbourg at one time 300 Jews that were burned alive could have saved themselves by denying their religion.

And one plucky Englishman that had signed a religious statement against his conscience, and was subsequently burned alive, first held his hand in the fire and burned it off to punish himself for having been false to his own faith, saying, "This unworthy hand hath offended."

While the League of Nations tells Japan "you must not fight," Associated Press reports describe fighting between Japanese troops and Chinese irregulars. "It is not pleasant, fighting in a temperature 30- or 40 below zero, making it impossible to dig trenches and compelling the experienced Japanese soldiers to expose themselves."

Nevertheless they kill about ten Chinese for one dead Japanese. If this continued indefinitely all the Chinese would be killed, with about 20,000,000 Japanese left to start over again.

Adolf Hitler, denouncing the German chancellor, Brüning, and the rest of the government, says he will "stop talking and go to work" in Germany will give him the opportunity.

Meanwhile he compares himself with Washington and Lincoln. If Hitler should come to power, and make a success of it, some would say, "Another Washington, another Lincoln," or "another Mussolini."

If Mussolini had fallen the people would have said, "Another-Riensi." Riensi declared that he would restore the ancient glory of Rome, and was welcomed by the pope, as Mussolini, later, was welcomed by the Italian king.

But Riensi, who fell from power, twice in succession, was murdered by an ordinary butcher, who thrust into his stomach a big, sharp knife.

Russia tells of big wheat crops. The most violent anti-bolshevik will be glad to hear that Russian women and children will have enough to eat.

The prince of Wales produced a good line when he said to an association of British traveling salesmen, "Early to bed and early to rise, but you will go bust if you don't advertise."

There's an American swing to that statement, but, American or British, it is true.

Automobile Insurance Depends Very Largely Upon the Financial Strength of the Organization Back of the Policy

THIS INSURANCE EXCHANGE of and for members of the Automobile Club of Michigan was founded upon the proposition of better, stronger, surer automobile insurance. Strong and sure insurance depends upon money. It is gratifying to report that this Club members' Exchange has more assets, and more surplus in proportion to business written than any major automobile casualty insurance company in America.

The figures below are from the certified statement on file with the State of Michigan department of insurance as of December 31, 1930.

Table with 2 columns: Category and Amount. Assets: $4,492,705; Surplus: $2,162,350; Securities: $3,991,209.

*The assets at November 1st, 1931 have increased to $4,617,934. The surplus has increased to $2,583,265, and the securities owned have increased to $4,069,929.
