One Hundred Attend Masonic Get-Together

The get-together meeting held Tuesday evening at Masonic hall in commemoration of the founding of the Masonic order in Chelsea was a most enjoyable affair, and was attended by about one hundred members and friends of the lodge.

A pot-luck supper was served at 7 o'clock by the ladies of the O. E. S. The program of the evening, in charge of Rev. A. E. Potts as toastmaster, opened with a history of the F. and A. M., prepared by Chester Miller, W. M., and read by Rev. Potts. As the names of the charter members and charter initiates were read, older members of the lodge gave interesting bits of information concerning their characters and several interesting anecdotes were told in connection with their history. One of the interesting points brought out was that Warren K. Guerit had been personally acquainted with every master of the lodge since its inception.

The lodge began its work in 1864, under a special dispensation granted by Grand Master Lowell Moore, and the charter was granted in 1865. A feature of the program was a reading by Frank E. Storms. This was followed by a solo, "On the Road to Mandalay", by Stuart Vander Ven, who responded to an encore, "Danny Boy." He was accompanied at the piano by Claude Isham. Jay Weinberg responded to the toast "To the Youth and to the Future of the Lodge", expressing his thoughts exceptionally well. A resume of the achievements of the lodge during the year 1931 was given by Chester Miller.

A special hit of the evening was the rendition of a group of Negro spirituals and popular ballads by I. G. Morse, superintendent of schools at Stockbridge, who accompanied himself on the Hawaiian guitar.

Following the program, Dietle's 8-piece orchestra furnished music for dancing.

The evening's entertainment was highly successful and very much enjoyed. The success of the affair is largely due to the efforts of Mrs. E. G. Lindemann, worthy matron of the O. E. S., and Rev. A. E. Potts, chairman of the F. & A. M. committee.

CHELSEA BANKS JOIN NATIONAL CREDIT ASS'N

Local Institutions Are Accepted As Members Of Greatest Credit System Ever Insituated.

The Kemps Commercial and Savings Bank and the Farmers and Merchants Bank recently received notice of their acceptance into the National Credit Association, the billion dollar organization sponsored by President Hoover.

This huge financial institution is already functioning and is one part of the comprehensive program being worked out by the government and business in the re-establishment of normal activity in the United States. Through its immense capital member banks are enabled to properly handle the needs of local industries and, in such sections as have been adversely affected, confidence is being restored by enabling the banks to function normally.

Our community should be congratulated on the fact that its banks are not only able to qualify for membership in such an organization, but that their officers and directors are progressive in their efforts to keep their institutions in the forefront of every constructive move for general business recovery.

Nuptial Vows Spoken At Home Ceremony

The home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Baxter was the scene of a quiet wedding on Friday evening, January 8, at eight o'clock, when their daughter, Hazel, was united in marriage to Lawrence Wacker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Wacker of Lima. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wacker, brother and sister-in-law of the groom. Rev. A. E. Potts officiated.

Bouquets of pink and white spring flowers decorated the room and the bride's table was centered with a beautifully decorated wedding cake flanked with pink tapers. Dainty refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Wacker have rented the Mahalock apartments on South Main street.

University Hi Defeated Chelsea Hi Friday

By High School Scribe
Chelsea suffered her first defeat in the Huron Valley Loop last Friday night, being defeated by University High of Ann Arbor, 22-7.

After playing an about even team during the first half, U. High's inspired team came back to romp away with an easy victory. The game was fast and well played, but U. High's well trained team was superior to the home team.

In the preliminary game the C. H. S. Reserves defeated the U. H. S. Reserves in a close fast game, 8-6.

Tuesday night, Chelsea was the victor in a game with Manchester in the home gymnasium. Manchester came over inspired to win but was turned back by smooth-working passing attack of the local boys, the final score being 23-20.

In the preliminary game the Manchester Reserves won a fast, well-played game, 13-11. Our Reserve team has come along nicely in the last two games and much can be expected of them in future games.

Next Friday, January 15, Chelsea High will again meet the Alumni. A real game is expected. The High School will be seeking revenge for the defeat handed them by the Alumni earlier in the season.

The Reserves will play the Dexter Reserves in the preliminary.

M. C. Advocate Article Tells Of M. E. Home

An interesting article telling of the Quarter-Centennial of the Chelsea Methodist Home appeared in the December 24th issue of the Michigan Christian Advocate. As written by J. E. Jacklin, Executive Secretary, the story follows:

The Home closed twenty-five years of useful service with the close of last month (November). On December 1, 1900, the doors of the Home were opened for guests and two old people, husband and wife, were welcomed to its hospitality by Rev. and Mrs. Seth Reed, who were in charge. Along through the years 241 weary men and women have found rest and peace within its walls—44 men, 202 women. Twenty of these were married couples, 174 were widows or widowers and 52 were unmarried. Their average, at entrance, was 75 years and 5 months and the average life in the Home has been 5 years and 2 months. The cost of care now is $400 a year for each member. The average cost of each during the whole 25 year period has been $220. Of this amount the average member has himself paid $1,400 and the church $800. Of course some have brought more and some less; the figures have ranged from $500 to $6,700. Two hundred and thirteen had less than $2,400 and 140 (more than half) had only $1,000 or less. Two-fifths, i. e. 100 of the 240 could not furnish any money at all and had houses, or vacant lots and other miscellaneous forms of property to contribute to wards their care.

There have been eight superintendents and warden. Each has shown fine qualifications, and possibly some lack of suitability. None have administered as wisely as the present ones, Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Balmer. The present family of 85 is happy and restful under their gentle care. The Home has paid for its property and has paid all its expenses to date and "owes no man anything," but the reduced contributions from churches the past two years are seriously threatening and unless the figures of last year are advanced 20 percent the Board of Managers may be forced to turn away all applicants of small means.

Make Final Payment To Sewer Contractors

At a special meeting of the Chelsea common council, held Monday evening, final settlement was made with Van Pannel & Glickstein, contractor who installed the local sewer system. The sewer system, which was completed in the fall of 1930, was given a final inspection by the council, Geo. Chapiro, engineer, and the contractors last Saturday, and everything was found to be satisfactory.

Village authorities held back the sum of $4,058.08 when the contractors had completed the installation, to insure the village in case any defects of operation were discovered. Of this amount $365.00 was retained by the village for repair work which had been necessary before the system passed as entirely satisfactory.

Keusch & Fahrner Sell Grocery Stock

As the result of a business transaction consummated last Thursday afternoon, H. Patok, of Detroit, became the owner of the Keusch & Fahrner stock of groceries. After conducting a clean-up sale for two days, the remainder of the goods were moved to Mr. Patok's warehouse in Detroit late Saturday night.

Mr. Keusch was the oldest grocery man in Chelsea in point of service, having first entered the business as a partner of the late John Farrell twenty-four years ago. Ten years later Mr. Fahrner acquired the interest of Mr. Farrell and the firm name was Keusch & Fahrner since that time.

Neither Mr. Keusch or Mr. Fahrner have any definite plans for the future, except that they expect to enjoy a good vacation.

Plan Ways To Cut Horse Power Cost

Due to the steady increase in the demand for good farm horses and cheaper farm power, B. S. Hudson of the farm and horse department at Michigan State College is beginning an extensive project to determine the most economical method of developing draft colts.

Twenty-four average farm foals have been purchased for the experiment, from Michigan farmers. They will be sheltered in cheap straw sheds and allowed to run outside the year around. The feed will consist of corn, oats and alfalfa fed in liberal and limited amounts.

Accurate records will be kept of feed and development by weights and measurements for three years, at the end of which time the colts will be broken and put to work. At this time it will be possible to make definite conclusions as to the efficiency of the various methods.

The colts are located at the south end of the College farm at which place visitors are always welcome.

Radio Brings News On Low Cost Meals

Planning low cost meals for the family will be discussed by Mrs. Amy Newberg of the home economics faculty of Michigan State College over station WKAR during the regular afternoon period of broadcast during the week of January 11. The broadcasts are on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons at 3:05 o'clock.

The first talk will be based on the problems encountered in planning low cost meals and why there is a special need of carefully planning low cost meals. Tuesday's discussion will be on the foods to include in this type of menu with an explanation of how substitution of less expensive materials for more costly ones may be gained, retaining the same food value.

Hints will be given in the third of the series as to planning of low cost menus, followed the next day by suggestions of typical menus for the infant, the pre-school child, the adolescent, and the adult.

Study outlines based on the home economics programs will be completed within the next few weeks and will be sent on request to those who listen to WKAR, which broadcasts on a frequency of 1040 kilocycles or 288.9 meters.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of our dear wife and mother, who passed away one year ago today, January 16, 1931.

When evening shades are falling, And we are sitting alone, There comes a silent longing, If you only could come home.

You hide no one a last farewell, You said good-bye to "forever," Your loving heart just ceased to beat, And before we knew it, you were gone.

Henry Kalmbach and children.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—How many families in this town gather for evening prayer before they go to bed? Ans.—We don't know, but we do know a "right smart" of them gather to hear Amos and Andy.

Ques.—Will you please name the different makes of automobiles manufactured in the United States? Ans.—No. We haven't the space to spare. Furthermore, it would be advertising. While there are about 700 different kinds of cars manufactured in the United States, the reputable firms manufacturing automobiles and commercial vehicles number between 150 and 160.

Ques.—Why do they call a certain kind of dance "fox trot"? Does it mean that it is the way a fox trots? Ans.—The fox trot is a dance that was invented in 1914 by a New York vaudeville dancer named Fox, hence it is called the "fox trot." The steps of this dance has no connection with the gait of the animal known as a fox.

Ques.—I would like to ask in your question column if whale meat is good to eat, and what are they used for? Ans.—The flesh of whales is not palatable. The principal use of the whale is to extract the oil. Whale meat is ground into whale-meat meal and fed to cattle, and it is also ground and mixed with bones into fertilizer.

Ques.—Will you kindly answer in your good question column who was Naomi, as spoken of in the Bible? Ans.—Naomi in the Bible was the mother-in-law of Ruth.

Ques.—Why do we say "good-bye" to each other when parting? What does it mean? Ans.—Originally this was a short form of saying: "God be with you." It was meant as a blessing. Since then it has become customary for the response to be "good-bye" also.

Ques.—Is there any liquor legally manufactured in the United States? Ans.—Yes. Congress permits two million gallons of liquor to be distilled annually for medicinal purposes.

Ques.—Who invented ice cream and when was it invented? Ans.—It is not known who invented ice cream, nor is the time known. It originated in Italy about the sixteenth century, and later was introduced into France and other countries farther north. It appeared in the United States about the time of the American Revolution.

Ques.—To settle an argument, will you please state if Charles Dawes was ever vice-president of the United States? Ans.—Yes, Dawes was vice-president when Coolidge was president.

Ques.—What do you think of an auto driver who won't give an inch of ground? Ans.—What we think is not printable. Such boys that won't give an inch of ground may get "six feet" themselves.

Ques.—When was the first airplane made around the world? Ans.—On Dec. 3, 1977, Sir Francis Blandford started on a trip around the world in a sailing vessel. That was the first we have any record of.

Ques.—Who was it that said: "Our country, right or wrong?" And what was meant? Ans.—This was a part of a toast given by Stephen Decatur, an American naval officer, at a banquet given in his honor as follows: "Our country; in the intercourse with foreign nations, may she always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."

Mirages Seen No More Certain parts of Kansas were formerly noted for the number of mirages to be encountered there at rather frequent intervals, but in recent years these interesting pictures have disappeared and the reason is said to rest in the fact that the state has been largely planted with wheat and the lack of variety in the landscape gives an opportunity for the formation of a mirage.

Elephant No Longer Venerated Now that Siamese princess go to Oxford and Siamese girls bob their hair, the so-called sacred white elephants no longer command the veneration of the natives. They were once thought to embody the spirits of wise princes and heroes and the happy discoverer of one had his mouth stuffed with gold as a reward.

Mae Marsh Back After 12 Years

Idol of Silent Days Returns To Films In Fox Drama "Over The Hill"

Bringing to an end a retirement of twelve long years, Mae Marsh, still remembered for her heart stirring portrayals in "The Birth Of A Nation" and "Intolerance," returns to the screen to enact the featured role of "Ma" Shelby in the Fox romantic drama, "Over The Hill," which will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday, January 19-20 at the Princess Theatre and which brings together again those delightful stars of "Bad Girl," James Dunn and Sally Ebers.

At the completion of her last silent picture, "The White Rose," Miss Marsh, while at the height of her popularity gave up her screen career to engage upon the more important career of motherhood. And in the years that followed she refused offer after offer to return to the films. But it was not until Mr. Winfield Sheehan, Vice President and General Manager in charge of production for Fox Films, aroused her enthusiasm in the mother role in "Over The Hill" and convinced her that her own experience as a mother marked her as the one actress who could lend the necessary humaneness to the impersonation, that she finally consented to again face the cameras.

"Over The Hill" details the life of a typically modern American family, telling the double story of love, between a boy and his childhood sweetheart, the roles impersonated by Dunn and Miss Eilers, and between the same boy and his mother, the part enacted by Miss Marsh. It shows pointedly that there is a place for two women in the life of every man—his mother and his sweetheart. James Kirkwood, Claire Maynard and Edward Crandall enact the other important roles under the direction of Henry King.

World's Rough Weather
Mother Said Die
A Real Flying Boat
Silk From Seaweed

On the ocean, in rough weather, it is some comfort to know that all the mass of water around you for 1,000 miles is disturbed, and your ship is not responsible for the rolling and pitching.

It is a comfort in this rough weather of finance, industry and public affairs generally to know that what we feel is not alone our own foolishness, but the education and troubles of the whole world, readjusting itself after the tempest of the great war.

Every country has its troubles, some so violent as to make our own seem trifling. In every direction are repudiated bond issues, international quarrelling, unemployment.

Even little Switzerland, marvelously secure as regards value of her bonds and currency, is troubled because Englishmen that climb mountains and Americans that admire them no longer crowd her hotels.

On a chilly day in Florida, California or on the Riviera "tourists" study weather reports from New York and Chicago. Americans can find comfort in the condition of nations around them. It should make us deeply grateful for what we have and what we have escaped.

Gloomy Puritan preachers of the Cotton Mather type told their congregations that the blessed in Heaven have their joys greatly increased as they look down on less fortunate friends and relatives burning in hell.

Such gloomy pleasure might be ours if we realized conditions in other nations.

The young brothers Harry and Jennings killed a man then killed six others in a fight for freedom. Their mother, nearly seventy, sent word through the newspapers "Kill yourselves, rather than be caught." They did it, shot each other to death, one in his last breath calling out to the besieging posse "Come and get us, we are dead." Nothing in Wild West literature can surpass that.

The prison of this life has a very thin wall. Those that will go through easily and settle with all authorities, except those on the other side. That except keeps many here.

Holland is about to build the biggest flying boat that ever was, twice the size of Germany's DO-X.

The ship will have ten motors, totaling 10,000 horsepower, each motor driving three propellers. The boat, weighing 100 tons, is expected to carry a 40-ton load at 140 miles an hour. It would go from Amsterdam to New York and back, comfortably over a week-end.

An Irish scientist extracts a marvelously fine imitation of silk from the seaweed "kelp." That weed yields a large part of the world's iodine and will now appear on young ladies' legs as "sueper stockings."

Nobody knows what wealth the ocean contains and will yield.

There is in it, for instance, a thousand times as much gold as the world's total supply. Some scientists may find a way to extract that from the rushing waters of the world's highest tides in Newfoundland, England, China.

The many buildings in Rockefeller City, that John D. Rockefeller, Jr. is erecting, with squares, towers, parks and trees on roofs, in the heart of New York, will include a "British Empire building." Anxious not to compete with other buildings hurt by the depression, which began after Rockefeller City was started, Mr. Rockefeller has sent agents abroad to create new noncompetitive lenses.

The British building at Fifth avenue and Fifth street, official headquarters for British financial and industrial concerns in America, will fly a British flag, carry the British coat of arms, under the management of Baron Southborough.

You know that he is British when you read his full name, Sir Francis John Stephen Hopwood, P. C., G. C. B., G. C. M. G., G. C. V. O., K. C. S. I. The head of the whole scheme is not so rich in initials. His are only John D., S., O.

But the last two, meaning Standard Oil, are equal to a many others.

Congress is in session, with nine thousand bills before it, and the number growing rapidly.

A feeble Democratic majority in one house, a feeble Republican majority in the other, give the American people cause to pray for divine guidance and harmony.

It is probable, unfortunately, that the bill that is noted, if such a bill is conceivable, is not included among the 9,000.

Only a little while ago Walter E. Prusan was worth $5,000,000. Important real estate operator, head of a manufacturing corporation, money came easy. Recently he lost everything. The other day he killed himself, leaving this message: "I was a fool when I had money."

Many that still have money are fools, but they will not take warning. (© 1932, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.) (WNU Service)

Farmers Week Draws Fine Farm Products

A livestock show, held for the first time, and a turkey show which replaces the usual egg show are the newest magnets used to attract fine farm and farmyard products for exhibit during Farmers Week at East Lansing, February 1-5.

The livestock shown will be the property of Michigan breeders who are cooperating with the College in livestock improvement programs. Colts, sheep, hogs, and cattle will be exhibited to show what can be done to better the quality of farm animals.

New methods of raising turkeys have taken a great deal of the hazard out of this line of the poultry business.

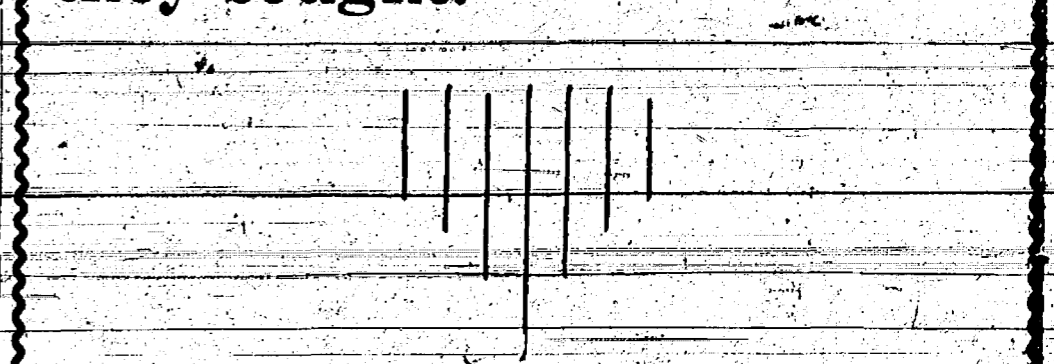

and growers in this State are becoming more interested in the possibilities of deriving profits from supplying the Thanksgiving Day meat course. The show at the College will bring in the better, more profitable types of turkeys.

The grain and potato shows will be held as usual. The quality of grains was good last harvest and some fine exhibits will confront the judges. The potato show will bring together some of the best samples shown at previous exhibitions in the State.

An electrical show set up by the College engineering department will contain some of the latest developments in electrical equipment and its uses. This show will be held in the engineering building.

Steger at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The ladies, who are veterans at the game, suffered defeat at the hands of the young novices to the tune of 1819 in 18 rubbers. The game ended at 12:00 p. m. when the ladies were forced to admit defeat. The men attained an early lead which they maintained throughout. Even though a sequel to the Lenz-Culbertson match in New York City, the match has caused quite a furor, the details of which can be heard at any tea table.

Sore Throat Is Dangerous

A sore throat often leads to serious illness. Stop it at once. Take Thoxine, a prescription made exclusively for throat ailments; not a gargle. The first swallow relieves the soreness in a few minutes; and goes direct to the internal cause, preventing further trouble.

Most coughs are caused by an irritated throat. Thoxine stops these at once. Safe for the whole family—guaranteed no dope. Money back if not satisfied. 36c.

Then and Now

A century ago the Kalamazoo river at Toledo afforded more fish, and in greater varieties, than any other river in that territory. The most numerous and valuable were the wall-eyed pike, the muskellunge, catfish and bass. Fishing was done with hooks, spears, and dipnets. The fish were so numerous, it was quite common for the Indians to spear from one to three at a single stroke.

African Strong Man

The great African explorer, H. M. Stanley, used to tell of Simba, overseer of an Arab caravan, who stood 6 feet 6 inches, barefooted, and could toss an ordinary man 10 feet into the air and catch him like a cricket ball. He could carry a three-year-old bullock a hundred yards, and once carried twelve men at once round his master's house.

Better Days Now

"Is there any truth in the gruesome saying, 'From marriages in May, all the bairns die and decay'?" has been asked. None. The saying arose in olden times because infants born in February stood a poor chance, owing to lack of knowledge of infant welfare.—London T. I. B. I.

Spines Protect Globefish

The body of the globefish is studded with numerous spines. In times of danger this fish inflates itself with air until the skin of its abdomen is so distended that it turns over and floats back downward. With the skin thus tautly stretched the spines become a prickly armor.

Blessings of the Mind The blessings of fortune are the lowest; the next are the bodily advantages of strength and health; but the superlative blessings, in line, are those of the mind.

SIX CYLINDER SENTENCES

By DR. JOHN W. HOLLAND

The moment you become passive, you are passive. More men are slain by face powder than by gun powder. Fault-finders have never yet discovered anything of value in the world. We like money for the reason that it can purchase things of greater value than it self. The youth who burns the candle at both ends will get singed in the process. Nothing is better to take the crookedness out of a man than a good straight look ahead.

Friend Vitamin C Vitamin C prevents what is known as latent scurvy. This is characterized by dullness, congestion of the alimentary tract, and pains in the joints resembling rheumatism. This vitamin is also important for preventing decay of the teeth.

HARRY FOLTZ INJURED

Harry Foltz, electrician at the Chelsea Milling Company, suffered serious injury to both hands and arms last Thursday afternoon while testing the electric lines at the starting box of a motor. Believing that "fuses" had blown out, causing the motor to stop, Mr. Foltz was trying to locate the trouble when a short circuit caused the shock which sent 440 volts of electricity through his body. A local physician was called and Mr. Foltz was pushed to the local hospital, where it is reported he is recovering satisfactorily.

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Man West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment." Fat folks should take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast. It's the S.A.P.E., harmless way to reduce a mass of thousands of men and women know. For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at Burge's Corner Drug Store or any druggist—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.

DAIRY

MILK PRODUCTION MOST IMPORTANT

Poor Economy to Substitute Feed for Shelter.

Feed given the dairy cow should be used for milk production and body maintenance rather than as a substitute for proper housing. "When cows are unduly exposed to bad weather, a large part of their ration is used to keep their bodies warm, leaving only a small portion for milk production," asserts John A. Army, dairy extension specialist at the North Carolina State college. "Every effort should be made to keep the cows comfortable during the disagreeable periods. If this is not done, profits will be reduced. It is poor economy to substitute feed for shelter at any time."

Arvey believes the cow stall should be well lighted, nicely bedged and properly ventilated but free from air currents. He says he has seen many cow barns and sheds in the state of such poor construction that they afford little protection against the cold winter wind. The sides of the barn or shed should be made tight with the air being admitted through properly located windows. The practice also of requiring cows to wade through mud and ice to secure drinking water is expensive. This kind of exposure chills the cow's body and prevents her from drinking the amount of water needed for good milk production. A cow weighing from 800 to 900 pounds and producing about 30 pounds of milk a day needs from 30 to 60 pounds of water each day. She will not drink this amount unless it is convenient and of medium temperature, says Mr. Arvey.

Practical Dairyman Is Admirer of Modern Barn

The modern dairy barn is as far removed almost from the old cow stable in use a third of a century ago as is mechanical power from that furnished by a yoke of oxen in pioneer days. A well-ventilated, well-lighted barn equipped with a concrete floor, adjustable stalls that can easily be kept clean and in strictly sanitary condition, fully is an inspiration to the practical dairyman. With proper ventilation, not only can the foul air be removed, but also the excess moisture that used to accumulate in the old stables. This means better herd health and more economical use of feed by the cows. Plenty of sunshine and fresh pure air are two of the most important factors and keys for the health of the cow. The air for the cow barn is not only for the cow but for the man who milks and butters.

Colostrum Is Helpful to Newborn Calves

A new-born calf should always be given the opportunity to suck its dam at least once so as to get the colostrum which nature has especially prepared for it. This colostrum is laxative in character and also contains some stimulating products which help to start the digestive system into activity. If for any reason it is impossible to give the colostrum to the calf, it should be given one ounce of curd or shortly after birth and before it is given any food. After that the calf may be given milk from any cow if the mother's milk is not available.

Give Cows Free Access to Water to Help Yield

Giving cows free access to water any time they want it, increased milk yield 4 per cent and the butter yield 12 per cent. Cows which had access to water took a definite average of 10.3 tons in early 24 hours and drank over 18 per cent more water than cows which were fed exactly the same but watered outside. These are the results of tests conducted by C. V. Cannon of Iowa State college. They indicate that there are thousands of defectors who could greatly increase their profits by using drinking cups.

Dairy Facts

Water is the cheapest and one of the most important dairy feeds, if we can class it as a feed. When several small calves are kept together small stanchions are a great convenience at feeding time. Where skim milk is left on the farm the raising of calves is comparatively simple if supplemental foods are used. About 87 per cent of milk is water. Poor plenty of milk don't forget to give the cow all the water she cares to drink. Cows give more milk if milked three times a day instead of twice. In observed cases the increase has been from 10 to 30 per cent. The life of an average woman wire fence when posts are replaced and the fence is re-erected, is 18 to 27 years, according to estimates made by 146 Iowa farmers.

BETTY'S BILL

By CORONA REMINGTON

Bill Collingsworth rode up the front steps of the Westmore home with the air of a conquering hero. He gave the door bell a sharp little punch and in a moment Betty herself had opened the door and stood before him, pink and radiant.

"I knew it was you by the way you rang," she said, when they had exchanged the usual greetings. "You have good news, too." By this time they were walking slowly toward the living room, his arm slung lightly about her shoulder.

"I have," he answered standing stock still. "The greatest news that anyone ever had in the whole world. Get your frills ready, we're going to be married soon." "Biff!" she exclaimed, giving his hand a little squeeze. "Tell me, do I can't wait to hear. Let's sit down quick before I fall!"

"You know old John Tollman? Mean old devil, but he's got the kate all right. Well, he was in a street car accident not long ago and he's engaged me to take the case and recover damages. Me! Can you believe it? We might be able to get married on the spot."

"Bill Collingsworth, you're the greatest lawyer in this whole city, full of 'em. I've always known it and now the world's brightening to find it out," said Betty, looking adoringly at her fiance. "When old Tollman entered Bill Collingsworth's office the next day the young lawyer experienced a sudden realization of feeling as his swift glance took in the granite old face, the eagle-like nose, the diamond-studded and the heavy fur coat of his prospective client.

"Well, young man," he began, throwing off his coat and dropping wearily into a chair. "I hear you're a smart chap and that's the very kind I'm looking for. What's going to be a hard case, the company will contest it on the grounds that it was my fault, but I'm a good client. I'll do and say what my lawyer tells me." He winked at young Collingsworth and continued, "and I got a bunch of witnesses who are willing to do the same," he ended, laughing loudly and slipping his leg.

"I'm sorry," said Collingsworth, looking at his face drawn and white, "but I'm afraid I'm not just the kind of an attorney you need. I don't believe I could handle your case." "I guess I must have come to the wrong place," angled Tollman, his jaw-line manner suddenly gone. "I reckon you ain't a lawyer at all but a Sunday school teacher."

With that he walked out, and a moment later a very sad young man left the office building and made his way to the Des Moines home. "I'm proud of my Bill," said Betty after she had heard the story, "and what do you care? Something better may come along any day."

"Disconsolately, he returned to his office. It rained all day and not client came near. The whole week was a nightmare. It seemed as if every one had forgotten him. After days of silence the ringing of the telephone at his elbow made him start suddenly. "This is Harrison of the Railway and Light company, and a heavy voice. "Could you come down to my office some time this afternoon?" Collingsworth silently swallowed amazement and consulted a blank date book.

"That's see," he said over the wire. "One o'clock. Two. I only see you for half an hour from three thirty to four. Will that do?" "Fine," answered Harrison. "I'll expect you then, Monday." "Now, what if you suppose he wants with me?" muttered Collingsworth after he had hung up. "But he can't not solve the problem, and it was nearly four o'clock before he found out.

"I heard something about you the other day," said Harrison when greetings were over. "Somebody told me that you had refused the Tollman case because you didn't think he was using honest methods." "I didn't say anything of the sort," answered Collingsworth hotly. "I simply refused the case without explanation. My reason for doing so are my own."

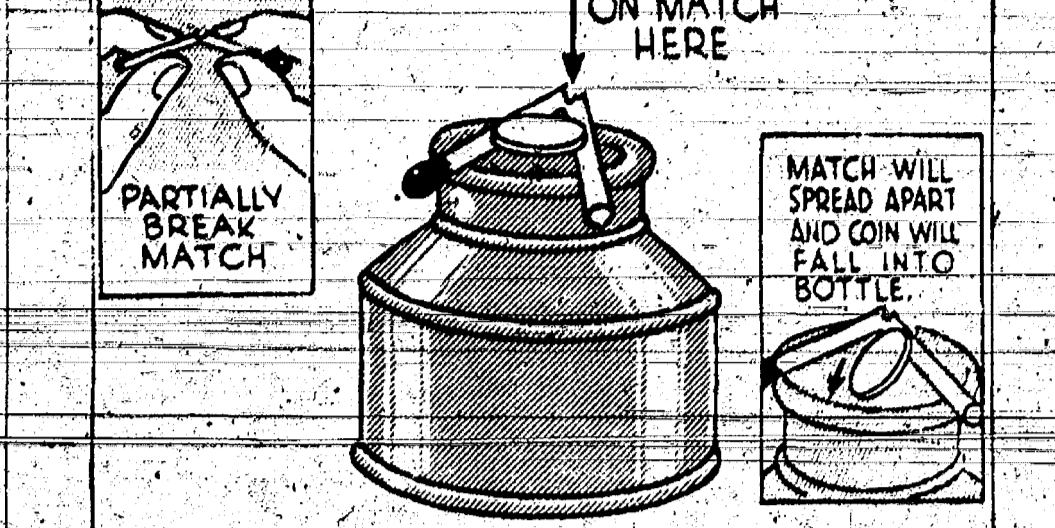

"That's all right, son, I understand," soothed the older man. "I just want to tell you that you've got a backbone and I like your business methods. Crookedness may get by for awhile but honesty stands the test of time. Now, I've been wondering about you and you seem to be a pretty smart young man. Mr. Bikel, our attorney for the past twenty years, is retiring the first of the year and going ahead to live. How'd you like to step into his shoes?" Collingsworth gripped the arm of his chair and struggled to modify the ecstasy in his voice as he spoke. "Frankly, I think I'd like it mighty well," he answered after a moment. "That's the way for a man to talk, no beating around the bush. All right, you can come around the first of the week and we'll fix up the papers."

Collingsworth rose abruptly. "I have an important engagement," he said abruptly. "All right, young man, you run along and tell her," laughed Harrison, clapping him on the back. "I had just such an engagement once myself."

TRICKS OF MAGIC EXPLAINED

By Will Lindhorst

DROP OF WATER MAKES COIN FALL INTO BOTTLE

An ink bottle or other small bottle, a match and a dime or penny are required for this trick. Crack the match so that it will be bent and yet hold together. Place the match on top of the bottle with its broken center on one side and the head and tail on the other. Lay the coin on the match and spread the match apart under the coin, so that the slightest movement of the match will cause the coin to fall. Then tell your audience that you will drop water on the match, and coin will fall in the bottle. Carefully drop the water on the broken end of the match, which will cause them to draw together, and in doing so will pull the head and tail of the match further apart, thereby taking the support of the match from under the coin, and causing the coin to fall.

STATIONERY SUE

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS (By McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) (WNU Service) TOM JACKS didn't suspect, when he got into the subway that morning, that he was stepping into the presence of the only girl who could one day tear his heart to shreds if she said "no" instead of "yes."

There were plenty of seats because it was just past the rush hour, so Tom sat down beside a perfect paragon in a delicate mauve costume. Apparently she was a business girl, for she was reading over a batch of letters with business headings.

Not so now. He went outside to a public telephone booth and called up Sue Wentworth, Inc. A delightful voice crisp, but pleasant, answered him.

"But I'm in a desperate hurry—not a sheet of letter paper in the office," Tom said, and in his mind's eye saw the well-stocked shelves. "Is there no way I can get my order in?"

"Certainly. If you care to send someone along to my office—I can put your order straight through then."

"No—I wouldn't have you carry these great albums about like that. I can come here very easily—no trouble at all."

"You are no doubt pure and businesslike, but you're far from being a bit of it," said the latest of Sue's admirers. And with that sort of personal note he thought it best to go back to his own office and break the news about the new stationery to the girls.

"But Mr. Jacks, we're completely stocked up—you ordered everything from pens to paper clips last month," expostulated Miss Smith.

"Ah, ha," laughed Tom; "but that was last month. Anyway, I've decided that distinctive stationery in business is a great asset. From now on Jacks, Inc., will revel in the finest that's to be had."

And Tom Jacks, Inc., certainly did blossom forth in some pretty fine specimens of the stationer's art and printing. His associates began to suspect that Tom was acquiring temperament and hoped for the best.

Up to Date Method Professor The motto of today should spend more time burning midnight oil.

Bill's Party Bill's party was a success. He had invited all the neighbors and the neighbors had brought their own party.

TRAIN—2 O'CLOCK

By ELIZABETH S. LUDLOW "THANK the Lord?" Bill had said, "grabbing his friend, Anthony Harcourt by the arm."

But, I say, I— Tony Harcourt had begun hopelessly. "Oh, yes," Bill had stopped long enough to shout back at him.

Harcourt was trying to meet every two o'clock train arriving at the Grand Central terminal. He didn't know where she was coming from and worst of all, he had forgotten her name.

Not every day, though, Tony approached three brunettes who had seemed a bit undecided, but each had frozen him with a glance almost before he could make his usually prepared speech.

"I thought so, but the passage you speak of is not true." "Caution" Speak gently, it is better far. At least while facing the crowd. The mob may be a pusher. And heavy on the point.

IT'S A BITTER BLOW

Cop—Madam, didn't you see me hold up my hand? Woman at the Wheel—I did not. "Didn't you hear me blow my whistle?"

"I did not." "Didn't you hear me tolling at you to stop?" "I did not."

"Well, I guess I might as well go home. I don't seem to be doing any good here."

"Just think! While I was out with some of the fellows the other night, a burglar broke into our house."

"Did he get anything?" "I'll say he did—my wife thought it was me coming home."

Prison Chaplain Speaks At Fellowship Meeting

Notwithstanding the rainy night and other local attractions the Fellowship club gathering, which was held at the Methodist church Tuesday night, was very successful.

The program opened with a selection from a musical play, followed by community singing, led by Rev. Lenz of Salem (German M. E. church).

Rev. Fred Matthews briefly introduced the speaker, Dr. H. W. McLean, chaplain of the Jackson prison.

In a lengthy but interesting speech, he laid bare the conditions of American life.

To say the least, the audience was jarred and awakened by many serious conditions in our social, moral and religious spheres.

The speaker laid bare the conditions of the Daily Press and repeals of the Eighteenth Amendment as untrue when they state that prohibition is the cause of the crowded conditions of prisons and reform schools.

From his information it was learned that though the prisons are at the lower end of the muddy stream of human life, nevertheless, they are doing the best that is possible under the circumstances.

The benediction closed the meeting.
