MILK PRODUCERS PLAN CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY FOR INCREASED PROFITS

A meeting of representative farmers from Chelsea, Dexter, Pinckney and adjoining territory, held in Dexter on Monday, was well attended. Addresses were given by Mr. Potius and Mr. Sheldon, of the Lima Co-operative Creamery Co., of Lima, Ohio, and Mr. Harwood of the Adrian Creamery Co.

The object of the meeting was to discuss methods for disposing of the surplus milk now being sent to Detroit. It seems that approximately one-half of the milk now sent to Detroit is surplus, notwithstanding the closing of milk stations at Pinckney, Dexter, Chelsea, Manchester, one station at Grass Lake, and the proposed closing of several more stations in the county and a few in Jackson county. The surplus is said to be due to the large increase in dairy cows in the state during the past year, and the farmers keep pushing in more milk than the city can use.

The State is taking an interest in the matter and with the College, is behind a movement to build several creameries in the Detroit milk shed district, and favors a co-operative plan of such building. Arguments were made that the farmer would produce better milk in more reasonable amounts, would dispose of worthless cows, would purchase less butter substitutes, feed calves less milk substitutes and would possibly turn his dairy business now operated at a serious loss, into a profitable business.

Figures furnished indicated that the cost of building a creamery at Chelsea, Dexter or Pinckney would approximate $30,000 and at least 200 farmers must subscribe and pay in $100 each at the beginning, and as many more must arrange to pay the balance in a short time.

It also developed that memberships must be consolidated to prevent excessive collection costs by several trucks covering the same territory daily.

A committee of three from Dexter, Chelsea and Pinckney was appointed to meet as soon as convenient to develop plans of organization, location, subscriptions, etc.

The organization of a creamery would benefit the entire district by consuming the surplus at a slightly higher price, leaving the skim milk on the farms, saving cartage, and eventually causing the milk producers to get higher prices for their base milk from the Detroit market, it is said. It is for the interest of every dairy man to get behind the movement and help it in every possible way, if a satisfactory plan is adopted.

Chelsea Hi Wins Two Basketball Games

Hi School Scribe
Chelsea added two more victories to their record during the last week, defeating Clinton, 22-8, and Manchester, 18-17, on the opponent's court.

Last Friday, January 22, Chelsea journeyed to Clinton to play two games. In the preliminary the Clinton Reserves defeated the Chelsea Reserves in an overtime game. The score was 13-13 at the end of the regulation time. In the five minute overtime period Clinton made four points, holding Chelsea scoreless, to win by a score of 17-13.

In the big game the Chelsea Varsity and Clinton played on even terms during the first half. The score at the end of the half was 8-8. But Chelsea came back in the third quarter with a smooth passing attack, accurate basket shooting and an impenetrable defense to romp away to an easy victory. The Chelsea defense was so perfected that Clinton was unable to score a single point during the entire second half.

Tuesday night, January 26, Chelsea again defeated Manchester in a thrilling game. Manchester got the lead on Chelsea and held it for nearly three quarters. Chelsea was unable to find themselves during the first half, being handicapped by the small court. The score at the half was 12-5 in Manchester's favor. Chelsea again displayed the ability to come back in the second half, and clearly outplayed their opponents to take the lead in the fourth quarter which was held for the remainder of the game. Final score was 18-17 in Chelsea's favor.

In the preliminary game the Chelsea Reserves completely outplayed the Manchester Reserves, defeating them by the one-sided score of 37-8. The Manchester team was unable to score until the fourth quarter.

This Friday, Chelsea will play two games at Saline. This will be the fourth League game for Chelsea. They are tied for second place in the League with two victories and one defeat.

MORE ABOUT Electric Ranges!

It does seem the flame type of range would be faster than an electric, doesn't it? And for heating a gallon of water it probably would be faster. But how often do you cook anything that requires a gallon of water? One of the important things in using a modern electric is to use less water. It takes as long to heat a pound of water as to heat ten pounds of iron; so why use a quart of water when half a cup is enough?

For a three quart pan of potatoes, for instance, on an electric range we use not more than a half cup of water. On another type of range you would ordinarily cover the vegetable with water and then perhaps add more before you finished. Using less water is one of the things that help to gain speed in surface cookery on the modern electric.

Michigan Department of State

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich., January 27. — A movement toward uniform traffic and motor vehicle registration laws in all states east of the Mississippi river has been started by the Michigan Department of State. In this regard the department is acting under authority of a resolution adopted by both houses of the 1931 legislature.

Negotiations towards uniformity and reciprocity have been under way in 14 mid-Western states for several months and it is very likely that the legislatures of all these states will be asked to pass laws next year to standardize traffic and motor vehicle laws.
If this succeeds, the motorist who knows the laws of one state will be equally conversant with the laws of adjoining states.

In widening the scope of efforts toward uniformity, Orville E. Atwood, chief of the motor vehicle license division, has asked that those subjects be made the main topics of the meeting of the Eastern Association of Motor Vehicle Registration Officials, to be held in Washington, D. C., during April or May. This association embraces 22 states in the eastern part of the United States and two Canadian provinces. Several of the member states have attended meetings of the mid-Western group.

Records of the Department of State show that many persons, financially able to do so, have purchased their 1932 license plates, even though 1931 plates can be used legally until March 1. The records disclose, however, that the sale of 1932 licenses has been much slower than in 1931. Because the money from the sale of plates is being used to finance the state's winter highway relief program, an appeal has been made for those able to do so, to purchase new license plates as soon as possible.

Up to January 20, plates had been purchased for only 107,752 cars as compared with 328,148 for the same period a year ago. This shows that the sale of plates has dropped off 67 percent over 1931. But at the same time, plate sale has yielded $2,408,902, as compared with $5,760,983 in 1931; a decline of only about 55 percent in actual revenue. The explanation is that owners of large expensive cars are purchasing 1932 plates at a much faster rate than the owners of smaller automobiles for whose benefit the extension of time was granted.

Oldest Store In Wash- tenaw Co., Celebrates Its 75th Anniversary

By Christiana Coon, A. A. Daily News

Development from a general store of the type familiar to the citizens of three quarters of a century ago to its present proportions with 66 distinctive departments is the history of Mack & Co., who are now starting to celebrate their Diamond Jubilee.

Throughout the successive stages of its development, the firm has kept pace with the civic progress and expansion of Ann Arbor and from its establishment has been a leading mercantile interest. Its policy has been service to its patrons, and with the observance of the seventy-fifth anniversary this year, the firm is renewing this pledge of continued progressive service to the public.

Decreasingly few of the present citizens of Washtenaw County recall the store of 75 years ago, but many remember other developments in intervening years, the gradual growth into the department store of today.
The large sign the length of the store 25 years ago bearing the words "drygoods, cloaks, shoes, and household goods" and another at the side "leading furniture and carpet house", the shelvy-type glass display cases, on Liberty St., the hitching rail and posts, are well remembered and were as familiar to Ann Arbor and as typical of the business section then, as the modern dignified front, the display windows and the electric sign today, herald Mack & Co. as a representative leader of present business interests.

The firm has had only two heads during its 75 years of existence, Christian Mack, who founded the store, and Walter C. Mack, who succeeded his father, and has been the firm's active manager for 43 years. The elder Mr. Mack came to Ann Arbor in 1861 from Ohio, and established the store in March, 1867, having spent the intervening six years in the employ of a local merchant. He died in August, 1901.

The store building of Mack & Co., northwest corner of Main & Liberty streets, was constructed during the first year and while it then had the frontage of an average store width on Main street, subsequent expansions have increased the store to its present size. From the beginning the store consisted of first floor and basement, the original firm occupying 3700 sq. feet, compared to 120,000 sq. feet, the present floor space of the company.

A clearer conception of its space is gained by comparison with the size of an average store. It occupies the space of two stores on West Liberty St., two on South Ashley St., and two on West Washington St., while on Main St. the first floor is equal to four average stores, and the basement and second and third floors each extend over space equal to seven.

From the original staff of four employees, the personnel of the store has increased steadily with its expansion until the company now employs between 150 and 200 persons continuously. Mr. Mack heads the organization and is assisted in the management of the business by department heads and buyers.

His efforts in purchasing stock an-tipating the trend of the mode and filling the needs of patrons, is facilitated by the Dry Goods Alliance, an ost buying organization of its type in the country, with which the Ann Arbor firm became affiliated and part owner about two years ago. Mr.
Mack is a director of the Alliance, which includes 26 stores, mostly in the eastern part of the country, and has been existent over 38 years. Its headquarters are in New York City.

Clothing, groceries and dry goods, mostly yard goods, formed the principal stock of the store during its early years, but as it developed the dry goods and household goods divisions expanded remarkably and the other divisions became minor and in some instances, such as groceries, have ceased to exist. The principal departments of the 66 divisions today are its women's ready-to-wear, household goods, yard goods, and drugs.

The drug department, which is under the management of a registered pharmacist and a graduate of Iowa State University, Mrs. Elsie Jacobson, a member of a family of retail and manufacturing druggists, has been a part of the store for several years. "Both the sales and the department have increased steadily, and they have not been affected by economic conditions," Mr. Mack commented. Electrical appliances, with an accompanying repair service, form one of the newer divisions of the firm, and the stock of radios of diversified makes and of washing machines also is comparatively new, but with increasing sales, merit definite departments.

The Christian Mack Agency, handling every type of insurance, is the oldest agency in Washtenaw County, and was started by the late Christian Mack during the first few years of the firm. It represents many of the largest insurance companies of the United States, and its offices are located near the executive offices on the second floor.

Another of the older divisions, is the postoffice, a sub-station of the main postoffice. This has been included for more than 20 years, and offers all services of the central office. With the hours of the central station has attracted increasing patronage. It was pointed out by officials during the lifetime of the late Christian Mack, the firm was called upon to act as banker for many residents of the surrounding farming community.

The company is serving its sixth generation of patrons, with the generations in the Mack family itself attesting to this fact.
Its patrons are not restricted to the boundaries of Washtenaw County within which it offers a regular delivery service. Numerous orders, particularly for furniture, are received from cities throughout the state.

Six trucks give an adequate delivery service in Ann Arbor and Washtenaw County and previous to the motorized service, horse drawn wagons were used. Mack & Co. used their horse delivery to advertise their store by having all black horses which became well known and were recognized because of their beauty and sameness of color. The change from horses to automobiles was gradual and in 1916 the firm still used one or two horses for this work.

Many of the present employees have been with Mack & Co. for long periods. During the past year, Gerhard Johannsen was honored on the completion of 60 years in the firm and in the history of the store; one other, Henry J. Mann, was forced to leave a few months before celebrating his 60th anniversary because of his failing health. Several have been with the firm from 40 to 50 years, and a number of the women employees have records of 20 to 30 years service.

Walter C. Mack became associated with the firm established by his father in April, 1884, having varied duties similar to other employees during the first few years. He became a member of the firm and was given the entire details of management in 1889. It was incorporated as Mack & Co. in 1890. Mr. Mack's determination to set a continued policy of broadening the scope and facilities of the business, fostered by a spirit of enterprise, has been responsible for the firm's expansion and progress to its present proportions.

They have taken the opportunity of expanding wherever the demand for new departments to meet definite needs has been justified. It has all followed a policy of service to the community. The merchandising business last year was quite remarkable, considering the great reductions in price units, inasmuch as the store endeavors at all times to keep the prices of goods strictly in line with public demand and existing conditions. The sales in 1931 kept up to within two and three-quarters per cent. of the year before in dollar volume. Their past records give basis for optimistic predictions for the future.

"Dixie Service Saved Me A Bad Trip"

"It was already dark when I drove into a Dixie station. I was starting on a forty mile trip. With the usual courtesy and efficiency the attendant checked my car and put it in trim for the drive. Then I don't know how - he discovered that my fan wasn't working, and in a minute he drew out a ragged strip of rubber, worse than useless. I don't know how much money he saved me, but I do know that without a fan those forty miles at high speed would have been a nasty trip."

"I've come to expect the best service in Dixie stations, but this extra measure of care always impresses me. Believe me, I'm a booster for Dixie!"

Fish Law Digest Will Be Ready March 1st

Regulations governing open and closed lakes and streams as determined by the Conservation Commission will remain unchanged for two years.

This action was taken by the Commission on recommendation of the Fish Division as a public convenience and a measure of economy in eliminating the issuance of a new digest of fishing laws for the 1933 season.

Changes in the list of streams open to trout fishing during season, lake lakes, trout lakes and other matters were acted on at the January meeting of the Commission.

Few important changes were made by the Commission in lake and stream designations.

After some discussion the Commission voted to change the status of Lake Mitchell, Wexford County, from a lake to a trout lake and to continue adjacent Lake Cadillac as a lake.

The 1932 Digest of Fishing Laws, incorporating these changes as well as changes in the laws by the legislature is now being prepared for distribution about March 1.

Guests Use Rifles
At Michigan State

East Lansing, January 27—Guests of Michigan State College during Farmers Week, Feb. 1-5, who are farmers hurrying about the campus with long squirrel rifles need not fear that the open season on good-time prophets is about to open, as the rumors are merely competitors in the annual rifle shooting contest.

Other men with sheep shears sharpened to razor edges will not be about to settle personal grudges but will be looking for records in removing the fleece from more or less willing sheep in the shearing contest. College cooks with milk buckets in their hands will not be looking for trouble but will be practicing ways to keep the bucket right side up while a nervous cow is standing on the milkers' feet during the milking contest.

High and low notes that resound from the gymnasium annex Friday afternoon of that week will not be echoes from a meeting of the taxpayers' league but will be the vocal efforts of competitors in the Grange singing contest. Likewise, facial coatings of grease paint and sets of false whiskers are not preparatory measures for ridding banks but are only disguises for the players who declaim their lines in the rural drama contest.

It is going to be a hard week for judges but everyone else is going to enjoy several days of work and play. When the judges finish with the contests, they can start on the antics in the shows and no one has yet invented a show where every entry can win first place, so any individual seen running furiously to escape a pursuing mob will be just one of the judges who guessed wrong.

Need Spare Parts
For Farmers Week

East Lansing, January 27—Spare wings, replacement parts for the ear drums, second sight, and an India rubber stomach will be the equipment needed by Michigan State College guests who expect to attend all meetings, see all the shows and exhibits, and attend all the luncheons and banquets during Farmers Week, February 1-5.

The annual meeting at East Lansing brings together each year one of the largest groups of farmers which assemble in the United States for a yearly event. Attendance figures released by other Colleges indicate that Michigan State attracts the largest Farmers Week audience.

One evening meeting last year drew such a crowd that the Demonstration Hall doors were closed when more than 4,000 people had squeezed inside and thousands more were trying to wedge themselves into the building.

This year's feature program has been split between two nights to avoid disappointing College visitors.

This year two new shows are planned. One of them will bring to the College five types of livestock and the other will attract the State's best turkeys. The grain and potato shows will be held as usual.

Nearly 200 speakers are scheduled for the general and sectional programs which are held during the week. Sectional programs are held early in the day and are adjourned to permit everyone to attend the general meetings.

SOUTH LYON—Masons of South Lyon will observe the Bi-Centennial of Washington's birth on Monday evening, February 22, and are already making plans for the event. The public is to be invited. Something good is expected.—Herald.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Recently I got a letter from a friend, and at the end he had the letters "T. L." in parenthesis. Do you know what those letters mean?

Ans.—In social intercourse "T. L." means "trade law". The significance of this is that they have a complicit for you they will tell if you have one you can tell about them.

Ques.—Will you please tell me what the charges are against Bishop Cannon? Also has the case been settled?

Ans.—Bishop Cannon was arraigned in criminal court in Washington for violation of the federal corrupt practice act in failing to report political contributions to the anti-Smith campaign funds in 1928. The case is still in the courts.

Ques.—To settle an argument will you please answer in your question column if the following sentence is or is not correct: "Not a one came to the meeting"?

Ans.—It is not. The article "a" is not necessary. You should simply say "Not one came to the meeting."

Ques.—Why does the letter "C" stand for 100, and the letter "M" for 1,000? Also why is a ten-cent piece called a "dime"?

Ans.—The "C" and "M" were the Roman numerals for 100 and 1,000 respectively. The "C" is the abbreviation of the Latin word centum, meaning 100, and the "M" is the abbreviation of mille (1,000). The dime is so called from the Latin "decim", meaning "ten."

Ques.—Why is the moon sometimes called "wet" and sometimes a dry moon? How can one tell when it is wet or dry?

Ans.—There is a popular belief that if the horns of the moon point upward that it is a dry moon, and that if the horns point downward wet weather or will soon follow. This sign of wet and dry moon exists in the imagination only. The position of the points of the moon's path makes with the horizon, and is always the same in places having the same latitude.

Ques.—What is the origin of the expression "Oh, yeah"?

Ans.—It is a present-day expression which grew out of the tail of "Do tell" of other days.

Ques.—Why do they all say that people should not marry in haste?

Ans.—Well, maybe if there's any repenting to be done, the time won't be so long.

Ques.—I would like to ask in your question column if there ever was a road or bridge across the Everglades in Florida?

Ans.—Yes. There is a road called the Tamiami Trail from Miami to Ft. Meyer. The name is in commemoration of Tampa and Miami.

Ques.—Are there any countries that hold their elections on Sundays? And why?

Ans.—There are several countries that hold their national elections on Sundays. This is done for convenience and industrial economy. It enables the largest number of voters to take advantage of their franchise with the least interruption of work or business.

Ques.—Can you tell me where Devil's Island is?

Ans.—This is one of a group of three small islands about thirty-five miles off the coast of French Guiana, which are used for a French penal settlement. Devil's Island became particularly notorious because it was on this island that Capt. Dreyfus, the innocent French army officer, was held in solitary confinement for several years, having been convicted on a trumped-up charge of giving French army secrets to Germany.

Ques.—I am writing to ask in your question column where does Ripley, the cartoonist who draws "Believe It or Not," live. I wish to get his home address. Is he married?

Ans.—Ripley the cartoonist, who has become famous for his "Believe It or Not," lives in New York. He is not married. He has a suite of rooms at the New York Athletic Club, where he receives his mail.

NORTHVILLE—Northville took new courage Monday when Judge Arthur J. Lacy, widely known banking authority from Detroit, presented two plans for the formation of a bank to approximately 500 depositors of the Northville State Savings bank and the Lapham State Savings bank at a mass meeting held in the Penniman Allen theatre here. The meeting was called by business men and leaders of the town.—Record.

BLISSFIELD—Nine members of two families, including four children, all of them Mexicans and members of a colony here, will be deported to their native country in about three weeks, according to a ruling of the United States immigration commission. An inspector of the immigration department visited the colony here on Monday and according to his report, the Mexicans ordered deported entered the United States illegally.

BUD JONES

Welfare Boxing Match
At Adrian On Monday

When Bud Jones of Elkhart meets Eddie Koppa of Detroit in a 10-round bout Monday evening, February 1, at 8:30 in the Adrian Armory he will probably be up against the best opponent he has ever faced. Certainly the best he has ever met in the Adrian ring. Koppa is a natural lightweight weighing 135 pounds and has had 38 fights, winning 22 by knockouts. He has taken the count only once—that was by Ray Miller. However, he had Miller down for counts twice before he was counted out. Koppa is known as Michigan's best lightweight and as the hardest hitter in the ring today at this weight. He is a slugger, preferring to go in and mix rather than box, which is also Bud's style of fighting.

His last four fights have been in Chicago. He has fought Harry Dubinsky, Ray Miller, Tracy Cox, Eddie Anderson and Alverado. Sam Henney, Detroit referee, predicts this will be the best slugger match Adrian fans have ever seen. He has worked in the ring with both boys and while he would not attempt to pick the winner, he stated the fans would certainly find out if Jones could take punishment as well as he gives it out. Koppa had the experience of killing Micky Darnon in the Olympia ring in Detroit a year ago with a single punch. Darnon was knocked out and died shortly after, never regaining consciousness.

Other bouts scheduled for Monday evening are: Don McLeod, Northville vs. Bobby Young, Detroit, 6 rounds; Freddy Mitchell, Elkhart vs. Eddie Felton, Detroit, 6 rounds; Chester Taylor, Monroeville vs. Russell Keith, Lyons, O., 4 rounds; Leo Hueson, Adrian vs. Franklyn Venia, Jasper, 4 rounds; Cricket Stewart, Adrian vs. Jimmie Newcomb (Morrie Hoffman), Chelsea, 4 rounds.

Proceeds from the event, which is sponsored by the American Legion of that city, will be used for welfare work.

GRASS LAKE—Labor conditions are improving in Jackson and a number of men in this vicinity, who have been out of work for a year or more, have been called back to the shops. Present industrial activity indicates the beginning of the end of hard times.—News.

JOS. L. ARNET

208 W. Huron, Ann Arbor

WAYNE—The number of families receiving aid from Nunkin township is now approximately a dozen, it was revealed by township officials this week. This compares with several hundred on the welfare list several months ago. The decrease has been brought about in great part when the Reel, Cross and the Ford Motor Co. took over the welfare work in Inkster. On the other hand quite a few bread-winners of families formerly on the welfare list have been given employment.—Review.

Complex Problem of Night Ride

By C. E. M'CORMACK

(By McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

(N.S. Service)

The night was cold, bleak, and dark. "Ugh! what a beastly night to start on a long journey," said a traveler, "but it cannot be postponed.

The business-in-hand will brook no delay."

He shivered in his fur coat as the high wind sent him scudding along at a rapid pace to the railway station.

A miserable little place, as cold and cheerless as the night. One passenger, a pretty, young woman, sat on a dilap-dated bench and looked about her in fear and trepidation, as though she feared some monster would pounce upon her and devour her. Apparently she had never traveled alone before.

When the traveler came in, her face brightened up, for a moment then looked fearful again. He watched her furtively. "What brought her out on such a night," he muttered.

In about ten minutes the train pulled into the station and both travelers got on and went into the same car. The woman sat in front of the man. He gazed at her for a moment, then forgot all about her, so absorbed was he in thinking of "the business-in-hand."

Presently, however, he became painfully conscious that something was wrong when he heard a half stifled cry, and looking at the woman, saw that she was sobbing.

He hesitated to speak to her, thinking she might resent what she considered impudent interference. As he sat pondering the matter, wondering what to do, the train suddenly stopped with a great jolt and the woman, at-righted, jumped up and screamed,

"There! I knew it would happen.

We've jumped the track!" And she continued to scream and scream.

The few other passengers in the car mostly men, looked at her and one of them laughed.

"Stop that laughing," commanded another one, jumping up, "or you'll break every bone in your body."

"Oh, you will, will you?" snarled the laughing one. "Well, come on, just you try."

During this maelstrom the woman kept screaming. "Oh, I knew it would happen. I knew it. Why did they insist upon my taking this journey?"

The traveler, hoping to quell what promised to be a riot, cried out, "Be-lence, gentlemen, I beg of you, until we find out what is the matter with this lady."

"Mind your own business," they shouted, "the lady, doubtless, is capable of minding hers. And, anyway, if she wanted to scream she had a perfect right to, since the train stopped where it shouldn't."

And they continued to argue. The battle of words was distracting. "This noise must be stopped," cried the traveler. At that moment the lights went out. This had the contrary effect to what he expected. The lady stopped screaming and the men stopped talking.

After a few moments of intense silence the lights flashed on again and the train started. The traveler looked at the lady. Now she was composed and tranquil. The men likewise.

"What a curious psychological problem has presented itself for my observation tonight," was the thought that flashed through his mind.

For the moment this problem drove all thought of his business out of his mind, and in trying to solve it he sat deep in thought. Then, "Eureka! I have it. The lady no doubt, has been reading something that made so deep an impression on her mind that it became almost an obsession causing her much mental anxiety. The thought of the possible danger if the train did jump the track assumed such gigantic proportions in her mind that all other matters were relegated to second place.

So, naturally, when she was obliged to set out alone on a journey she immediately began to conjure up all sorts of dire happenings. That was why she cried. And when the train stopped suddenly with a jolt, which is a common occurrence when traveling, her mind was so overwrought she immediately imagined the worst and began to scream. But when the lights went out, which was an occurrence that might justifiably have caused fearful forebodings, she became calm again. When the real cause for mental anxiety presented itself, the unreal cause became apparent at once, and she saw how foolish she had been."

At this moment the lady was making desperate efforts to control her tremor. But to no avail. After a short struggle it had its way and a merry laugh rang out in which everybody joined. Whereupon she said, "Fellow passengers, I owe you an apology for causing so much disturbance. I am glad it had no unfortunate or lasting effect. But I wish to sound this note of warning. Don't ever read a book like this," and she held it up, "before starting on a long journey. If you are sensitive it may have the same effect on you that it had on me. It is responsible for what might have been a great misfortune, but, happily, turned out all right."

All the passengers crowded around her to see the book. It was entitled

"The Railroad Wreck." Again the car resounded with hearty laughter.

And now comes the most interesting part of this story. As a result of that chance encounter the lady and the traveler, Matthew Blake, Esq., came to the wise conclusion that this world would be a dreary old place to live in if they did not share one another's joys and sorrows.

WHITE "MISSY"

By STANDISH BRADLEY REAMER

(With Service)

A SMALL town down in Oklahoma—disgustedly named after a former president. A town of twenty-two hundred beings—only one white and that one a woman. It's at the edge of the oil regions; but it retains its identity as a shipping point for plantation products—largely cotton.

Mrs. Nettie Young sat at the telephone desk as the train pulled in. She was operator at the station—a life appointment, first because of the husband which brought death to her husband and second because she was competent enough as an operator to take the few messages regarding train movements—for a personal message to or from a town inhabitant was a rarity. Two years had passed since her husband was killed by a passing train from the path of which he had hurled a toddling "pickaninny" to safety. Two years of such activities of an unusual character for a woman in her position that sadness at her loss had been softened.

As she dispatched the regular train passing formula, she noticed that a man—a white man—was standing on the station platform, evidently having alighted from the train.

After gazing fixedly at the one main street of the town a few moments, the man turned into the station. Raising his hat, he said:

"I'm wondering if there is a hotel in this town—or some place where I can put up for awhile."

Mrs. Young smiled in a friendly manner and replied, "No, we have no hotel here, only traveling men stop here—and get out as quickly as they can. You see, well, I am the only white person in the town."

"What?" the man cried in surprise. "Do you mean that the entire population is colored?"

"Yes, the people here—that is the men—all work in the oil fields, going over on the train—and the women work in the cotton fields, or do housework on the plantations."

"Well, why do you stay here?" Mrs. Young finished pleasantly, for she could not resist indulgent at the honesty of his searching eyes. Before she could reply, a small colored girl entered the station, weeping, and putting out a dark finger cut and bleeding, and cried out, "Miss, Missy, fix."

Mrs. Young turned apologetically to the man. "That is my answer," she said. "These people—all of them—depend upon me. I am their 'first aid' on almost every occasion—injury, like this, their family troubles, even their love affairs. It is my life work."

When she had finished and the child had scampered off without even a "thank you," she turned to the stranger and said, "You cannot find any place in town where you would want to room."

"My name is Ralston—Charles Ralston. This town is near to a locality in which I have certain interests. You see, I am a rancher—far western part of the state. Had a ranch—left to me to carry on when he died, although my college training fitted me for city business life. I suppose I must go on to Tulsa to find a hotel—but he hesitated, then resumed haltingly, as he continued studying her features, "I wish there was some place here. You see, well, it's no wonder where I want to be."

Nettie had been moved strangely by Ralston's appearance and his evident appreciation of her neat, mature beauty.

"There is a vacant cottage on the street back of the station," she said. "It is clean and neat. If you could 'match' it—probably you can get some one of the neighboring women to cook and clean house for you."

"Just the thing," Ralston replied, heartily. "I'll take it solely upon your recommendation."

Nettie closed the station office and went with him to the cottage and also called upon a colored woman of the old "mammy" type who agreed to cook for Ralston.

Days passed and Nettie and Ralston became friends. Ralston never tired of hearing Nettie's tales of how she took part in the lives of the colored people about her. To them she was "Missy"—to young and old she was the arbiter of disputes, the healer of family jars, the refuge of youth and maiden when hearts were wrung with doubt or jealousy. But her work among the children interested Ralston the most. Unprovided with school facilities, "Missy" undertook to instruct the children through twice-a-week "school" held in the station office.

Ralston finally told Nettie he had invested a considerable sum in the oil regions about Tulsa and had come to keep a watch on affairs without his presence being known. Their friendship developed quickly—grew into the steady, lasting love of mature lives and shortly Ralston insisted upon their marriage. Nettie, however, refused to consider wedding Ralston unless he would consent to erecting a home outside of the town and establishing a school, to be under her direction and maintained by him until the school district should see fit to take control. Ralston not only promised all she asked, but moved his headquarters by having construction work on both home and school started while awaiting the arrival of their wedding day.

When "Missy" was married the entire population of the town joined in a wild celebration at which "Missy" was overwhelmed with the people's crude expressions of gratitude for what she had done for them.

Noahs Enjoy Freakish California Weather

According to a letter received by The Standard from Perry Noah of North Lake who, with Mrs. Noah, is spending the winter in California, they are getting a big "kick" out of the winter weather they are experiencing there, along with excuses offered by natives of that state. The letter follows:

San Bernardino, Calif., January 18, 1932.

Editor Chelsea Standard:

Since our communication of December 1st found a place in your valuable columns, will try and tell you how we are enjoying Michigan weather in California. We get quite a kick out of the excuses made here for the freakish weather. They say "I have lived here 6, 8 or 10 years," as the case may be, and never saw anything like this.

On Friday last the ground was white with snow. Great excitement prevailed among young and old. Newspapers contained large headlines and accounts of the terrific storm. The weather report for that day showed a depth of 62-100 inches, so you see these storms seem rather a joke to us.

The rainfall for the season, up to date, is 11 inches. We are enjoying the rains, too. There are no winds or electricity connected with the rain. It just rains.

On New Year's day we motored with the Gilberts to Pasadena to the "Flower Parade." We arrived there at 9:30 a. m. and found a front seat on the cement curb along the line of march. Back of us were six or eight rows of people sitting on auto cushions, camp chairs, boxes, etc. We spread blankets and cushions on the cement to take off the "repression."

We had three hours of waiting before the Parade reached us, and then 1-2 hours of wonderful sights. A million people were gathered on either side of the street as far as one could see. The newsmen were the first installment "fall about the Parade," then popcorn and candy, ice cream and eskimo pies. Among the peanut vendors were two colored boys drawing an express wagon loaded with a large bag of peanuts, crying out "Indigestion Agitations." They found numerous customers and furnished some amusement for the waiting crowds.

Well at last here comes the 43rd annual Rose Parade! First the announcers, the color-bearers—Division No. 1, followed by officers of the day with Mounted Police using trained horses. Occasionally one would rear up, right about face, drop back in line at time with the band. Just following—the Trojan Band, with beautiful golden silk uniforms sparkling in the California sunshine; and such music—almost equal to the Chelsea Band! Next came the city officials, state officials and a few floats made up the first division. The second was even better and so on for the whole four-teen divisions, each headed by music and interesting to the last. No artificial flowers can be used. The theme carried out featured the Olympic Games to be staged here this summer.

They surely can say it with flow—er!—Save your pennies, friends, and come out next year and see for yourself. We expect to live in California for some time—after, we come back to Michigan.

We got our first glimpse of the Pacific Ocean at Long Beach. We looked out over the waters toward China—but could not quite see it.

While at Long Beach we called on Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sweeney, formerly of North Lake, and found them well, in the grocery business in the residential district of the city. Later we went down to the beach where we had great sport gathering sea shells. The tide, of course, put the sport into this. We recently paid a visit to Smiley Heights, overlooking the Redland district—the city on the one side a very pretty picture and the 6,000 were orange grove on the other. We have visited Lake Elsinore, which is one of the few natural lakes here. We also saw a natural mineral spring at this place.

Near Corona we visited the Norconian club, owned and operated by millionaires—a wonderful sight!

With best regards to all our Michigan friends—

Electrolux makes pure, sparkling ice cubes, constant steady cold—but never a whisper of sound

An automatic refrigerator may be new and shiny to look at. But listen to it. If it makes a sound, it's as hopelessly out of date as a hansom cab.

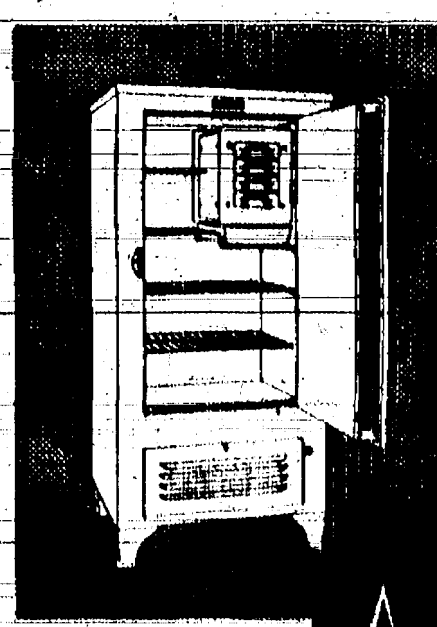

Electrolux is the one automatic refrigerator that can't make noise, because it has no moving parts to create noise. Silent when you buy it, Electrolux remains silent forever after.

A tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water take the place of all machinery in Electrolux. They act on a liquid refrigerant which is hermetically sealed in rigid steel. The refrigerant is ordinary ammonia. The tiny gas flame is completely protected by an automatic shut-off.

See Electrolux at our showrooms before you buy any automatic refrigerator. It comes in 10 household models, ranging from 8 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity. Despite its many advantages, Electrolux prices are no higher. For complete information by mail, write or phone us.

COSTS LESS TO OPERATE
Electrolux operates for only 5 to 10 cents a day—less than the cost of ice—less than any other automatic refrigerator.

A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts.

The DAIRY

CUT DOWN DAIRY CHORES BY SILO

Labor Saving Plan of Moving Feed Is Big Help.

Farmers travel farther in feeding than in any other operation connected with dairy production. Any practical method of reducing travel should be beneficial. Convenient silos and feed bins, with a labor saving plan of moving feed to the cows or live stock, are a big help. The dairy carrier trucks which will hold enough ensilage or silage for several cows will cut the work in two, as compared with carrying feed in baskets. Arrangement of the barn, smooth floors, accessible mangers that are easily cleaned, are all factors in making feeding a shorter task.

Live stock men know that silo location affects time required to feed. Silage should not have to be hauled to distant feed bins. A valuable silage cart is described in Circular No. 76, prepared at Iowa State college. The feed bins are built in a long row out from the silo, and the cart runs on a track supported by posts over the bank.

Conveniently located milk houses save time for dairy operators. Construction is also important. Smooth floors and walls which can be easily cleaned will prove a good investment. Handy arrangement of equipment, such as wash troughs, drying racks and sterilizers for the milk, often bring thanks from hurried workers. Running water and some means of heating it should be considered essential.

It is hard to conceive of a well managed barn today that does not have a convenient means of removing litter. Carriers are indispensable in transporting manure to a storage pit, but some barns are now constructed so that the spreader can be driven between rows of stalls. This saves time when weather conditions are not fit for hauling manure to the field immediately.

Steel stanchions and stalls have proved themselves more economical than those of wooden construction. They are easier to keep sanitary and are far more durable. Single stalls protect the cows and help make them comfortable. Drinking cups are nearly as essential from a financial standpoint as are mangers or any other standard dairy fixtures.

Silage Excellent for Winter Dairy Feeding

With the exception of legumes in the dairy ration, there is nothing that will make as much improvement or help as much in winter feeding as silage.

"Silage is of advantage in dairy feeding, for it furnishes succulence. It is nearly an approach to summer pasture as it is possible to get," according to J. W. Linn, extension dairyman, Kansas State Agricultural college, in way of encouraging the growing of silage for winter dairy profits in Kansas the coming year.

"Silage furnishes a cheap, changing rationing with more protein of food value per acre than any other common farm-grown feed."

But to get the most feed per acre it is essential to select the right silage crop for any particular section of the state, warns the dairy specialist. Since it is found that the dairy man wants in silage and because the silage is sweet, stable, and of the succulents usually grow more forage yield and the stock requires more time or hay, they are generally considered best for silage purposes. Acre per acre, one will average making 20 to 30 per cent more milk per acre than corn.

Practical Plan to Build Profitable Dairy Herd

It is a well established fact that there is only one way for the dairy man to build up a profitable herd and that consists in breeding to good registered bulls and raising the better calves from his best cows to take the place of the old ones or such as prove to be unprofitable or for other reasons undesirable. The man who sells cream finds no difficulties in the way of such a program, because he has an abundance of skim milk available at all times. Where whole milk is sold, the question is different. When there is no surplus milk available he can raise his calves on a very small amount of whole milk and supplement this with powdered skim milk or powdered buttermilk, both of which products may be secured from almost any feed dealer.

Wheat for Cows

Durum wheat has been proved to be a very palatable feed for dairy cows and in some cases it has been possible to use it for as much as two-thirds of the ration. In North Dakota, tests with a basal ration of oats, corn, bran, and alfalfa hay, together with corn silage, ground wheat compared very favorably with ground barley. If wheat becomes too low in price, this will be found to be one satisfactory disposition of at least a part of the crop.

One Valuable Idea
Gold, Always Welcome
Europe's Sour Loans
Hiccoughs and Bubbles

Mr. Knickerbocker, exploring Germany for Mr. Cyrus H. K. Curtis, says the German chemical formula for making gasoline from coal is of such gigantic value that it may pay all German debts. That would be good news for France and for some of our bankers.

It is not unbelievable. A simple formula for making power out of steam enabled the British government to pay with ease the load of debt carried after Waterloo, which was believed to be unpayable.

That steam formula kept Britain at the head of the world's industry and commerce for a hundred years. One idea can do more than all of high finance.

No matter what happens, Laval says Germany will have to pay. "France will not forego her right of reparation," he says. "Perhaps Europe will think up some plan to let the United States pay the German reparations to ease Germany's debt."

Mexico's government discovers ancient Aztec tombs with treasures as rich as those in the tomb of Tut-Ank-Amen.

Dozens of golden crowns, pearls enormous in size, precious stones of all kinds, lead to the belief that the hidden gold treasure of the Incas will be found. The Spanish conquerors were never able to discover this treasure, even by hideous torture.

The discovery might change Mexico suddenly to a gold-hungry nation of the first order and fill us all with profound respect.

Gold interests the world, especially the amount of it that India possesses. Since England went off the gold basis India has sent her $100,000,000 in gold.

Intelligent gentlemen of the Bank of France seem to accumulate most of it. They even continue to draw on our gold reserves and took from us $12,000,000 gold a few days ago. There is no doubt in the French mind as to the value of a gold basis.

Mournful news comes from Europe in installments. One of Mr. Ochs' correspondents wires from Vienna that Austria, Bulgaria, Greece and Yugoslavia will default on $600,000,000 of private loans made by American bankers.

It is a comfort to know, on the authority of one of the ablest bankers, that this amount is much exaggerated. It refers to private loans.

Also, if those countries decide, responsibly, to call off private loans, putting government loans ahead of them, they will hear of something to their disadvantage from American bankers.

The bankers will see to it that countries deliberately defaulting do not do any business in this country until they pay what they owe. This applies to those that show bad faith.

Mrs. Patrick of New York shot two women, killing one, then shot herself. The current was about a man. You could hardly guess what she wrote to her husband: "Take my insurance money and bury me. Give my clothes to the poor. If the two women I shot are dead, bury them. Feed our two dogs; do not put them on the street. Even. Your darling wife."

It was truly written in the song of songs, "Love is as strong as death; jealousy is cruel as the grave."

Political agitation in Spain is of the worst kind, based on religious hatreds. A mob of 3,000 gathered around the bull at Bilbao, intent on lynching forty-one Catholics held as prisoners following the killing of four persons in a clash between Catholics and non-Catholics.

Artillerymen protected the Catholic prisoners, and the mob made up of Communists starting a general strike, pacified by the release of two Communist prisoners, marched away with them in triumph, waving the red flag and singing the Internationale.

On the same day at dawn crowds attempted to burn Catholic churches in three towns—Moncada, Alfaro del Patriarcho and Mazarrocho. Police and watchmen saved the churches.

Mrs. Edith Currell of Humphrey, Ark., suffering with hiccoughs for twenty-four days, sees relief in sight. L. P. McLaughlin, mayor of Hot Springs, has sent her two bottles of champagne and this information: Properly fed, and in moderate doses, this will effect a cure, the gas in the wine retching against the gas in the stomach, which brings about the hiccoughs.

A Chinese gentleman who calls himself Mr. Henry Pu-Yi is the plaything of fate just now. He became Chinese emperor when he was a baby, was put off the throne by the Chinese republic at the age of six. Now he is said to be in the hands of the Japanese, planning to use him as a dummy emperor in Manchuria, with Japanese ruling in his name.

The Chinese government in Nanking orders the arrest of Henry Pu-Yi, but the Japanese may, nevertheless, make him head of the new "Independent state of Manchuria and Mongolia," supporting him with flying machines and bayonets.

SCHOOL NOTES

On Tuesday morning of this week the student body and the faculty enjoyed a very delightful chapel period.

The period was opened by the reading of the First Psalm by Mr. Vander Ven, which was followed by a song from the assembly.

For the remainder of the time we were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Niehaus. Mr. Niehaus told of their trip through the south, bringing in an account of the procedure at an all-Negro church. He also sang several songs in imitation of those he had heard along with an example of some Southern Negro preaching.

Mrs. Niehaus favored us with two vocal solos, also two piano solos, as well as some songs with Mr. Niehaus. Their presence was greatly enjoyed by all and we are looking forward to the next time they come to entertain us at some later date.
