Michigan Department of State

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich., June 22.—As a result of the staggered plan of part-time employment put into effect June 15, the Department of State is furnishing work to more persons than ever before during the slack summer months, while departmental payrolls, starting July 1, will be lower than during previous summers.

By the part-time plan of work, the department kept 38 workers upon the payrolls, who otherwise would have been dropped because of lack of work. The new system affects about 125 persons, whose duties for the most part, are of a routine nature.

Those who have no dependents work two out of every three weeks. Married employees, whose husbands or wives are dependent upon them, work four out of every five weeks, while employees with more than one person wholly dependent upon them for support, work six out of every seven weeks. Four exceptions to this rule have been made in cases of employees with six or seven dependents. These work full time.

Although the plan of staggering work has been in actual operation but a few days, inquiries have been made regarding the details of the plan with a view to adoption by other departments.

About 8,000 motorists will lose a truck or automobile license plate during 1932, it is estimated from department of state records. Duplicate plates are furnished by the department for $1 per plate.

METHODIST HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bunton and W. H. Guild of Highland Park visited with Mrs. Neff Wednesday. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Eldredge Bunton of Detroit.

Sunday, Mrs. Elvira Green and Mrs. Frankie Sanford entertained Mr. and Mrs. John Vogt, his mother, Mrs. Louisa Vogt, Mrs. Will Miner, all of Fowlerville.

George Wiese of Chicago was a caller of friends in the Home, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Phillips of Detroit were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Drake, Saturday.

Mrs. Nina Arend and her son Jack of Saline were callers of her mother, Mrs. Riley, Sunday. Mrs. Arend is doing a very worthy and commendable work in the caring of several crippled children in that village. She is entitled to much praise for her efforts. Children handicapped by bodily ailments are entitled to all the advantages that can be given them.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Fish and Miss Belle Ross of Ypsilanti were callers on Wednesday of Mrs. Emma Neff and Mrs. Frances Robtoy.

Mark Norris and daughter of Grand Rapids accompanied by his son from Charlotte were visitors of Miss Alameda Beach, Saturday.

Mrs. Emma Rowe entertained her nephew, H. R. Earl of Bloomfield Hills, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Struthers of Sharon on Saturday visited with the latter's sister, Miss Emma Leaman.

This was their first visit to their sister since she joined the family circle, and they were pleased to find her so comfortably and contentedly situated in her new home.

Mrs. Mary Lemon has been confined to her room and under the doctor's care for the past few days, and on Sunday received a visit from her son and wife of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Lemon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Emery of Detroit were visitors at the Home on Sunday.

Mr. Emery is a son of the late Mrs. Carrie Reed.

Mrs. Frances Robtoy received word Saturday of the death of a sister, Mrs. Delia Shankland at her home in Melvindale but on account of her affliction she was unable to attend the services. Mrs. Edna Cooper of Munith called on her aunt, Mrs. Ella Baldwin, on Wednesday.

Mrs. Margaret Riddle and Mrs. Nellie Smith are able to be out after some time of confinement to their rooms.

Rev. Marsh, pastor of the church at Grass Lake is on the sick list and Dr. Balmer supplied his pulpit last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Coogan spent Sunday afternoon with the latter's father, E. R. Reed.

Mrs. Myra Gage has improved of late so she is around the hall exercising her 94 years of life.

The entire family were shocked on Wednesday by the sudden and serious illness of Mrs. Lucille Brabb. Her daughter, Mrs. Alwood McAndrews of Ypsilanti is making daily visits to her mother's bedside and a son, E. M. Brabb of Rome was with her Monday. Everyone is wishing for her recovery.

Mrs. Dorothy Colegrove and her daughter Janis are located for the summer in a cottage at Wampala Lake, near the Irish Hills. Mr. and Mrs. Balmer expect to spend some time with their daughter there.

Mrs. Elizabeth Filer, entertained several old friends Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Mosher of Toledo. They were accompanied by a couple of friends from the same city. Later in the day, Mr. Manley of Detroit called on her.

Mrs. Margaret Bliss, who has been spending several weeks with an invalid sister in Ohio, is expected home the last of this week.

OUR NEIGHBORS

TECUMSEH.—A reduction of more than $400,000 in the assessed valuation of the village of Tecumseh and a sharp reduction in the value of both real and personal property in the township was forecast late Wednesday as the board of review, in an over-time session, proceeded with its work of equalizing and reducing assessed valuations in the township. The board, in all, was in session for five days and it was expected that a brief meeting this morning might be necessary to complete the work.—Herald.

MILAN.—Details for the organization of a community band for Milan is being worked out by a committee from the local post of the American Legion. Action was taken at the regular meeting of the organization last Monday night and it is expected that within a few days, the new musical organization will start rehearsing.—Leader.

MASON.—A thief or thieves stole about everything but the green on No. 4 hole at the Mason golf course Thursday morning. The caretaker sprinkled the green at 4 o'clock. Between then and daylight the tea marker, 50 feet of hose, a sprinkler and a ball washer and brushes were stolen. The theft has been reported to the sheriff and state police. It is believed that the articles were stolen by an operator of a private golf course. No. 4 hole is located at the northeast corner of the course. It adjoins US-127.—News.

GRASS LAKE.—78 years ago, R. J. Hammond, a farmer residing about four miles southeast of Grass Lake, attended the Rowley school near Wilmamston. On Friday of last week Mr. Hammond, who is now 83, attended a reunion of the school. He says he found only one person who started in school there in the same year he did. Mr. Hammond is a frequent visitor in Grass Lake, making the trip via a horse and buggy. Mr. Hammond does his own farm work and is enjoying good health.—News.

BROOKLYN.—The citizens of this place will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the founding of Brooklyn on Friday and Saturday, June 24-25.

SALINE.—One of those "lucky" accidents occurred a couple of miles west of Saline Monday morning, when two men and their wives escaped without injury from a large sedan that had gone into a ditch and turned completely over, after striking the side of a wagon belonging to Carl Hertler and driven by William Graf. The driver had gone to sleep at the wheel as a result of being on the road continuously for 24 hours. One axle on the wagon was broken. Mr. Graf settling for the damage for $5, only to learn later that a new one costs $9.50. The car was only slightly damaged.—Observer.

STOCKBRIDGE.—Andrew Sanford just recently finished drilling a well on the farm of Fred Marshall, Route 2, Stockbridge. Mr. Sanford struck water after two days drilling, a fine 3-inch gravel well at 109 feet, and states that no screen is necessary, which is unusual. This well is pumping 1,000 gallons of water per day. Mr. Sanford states that another driller had been on the job for seven months and had drilled to the depth of 195 feet without results.—Brief.

DEXTER.—Work at the new bridge site is still the center of interest. The temporary bridge, which was completed about two weeks ago, was used for a few days, while a by-pass which will carry the water while the bridge and dam are being built, was dug across the highway where the old feed mill flume had been filled up. This was bridged and traffic turned to the highway, while the temporary bridge is used by the steam shovel and crane. Steel sheet piling for the new dam has been driven, and 11 large girders for the new bridge, each weighing eight tons, have arrived and been brought up from the depot and unloaded at the foot of Main St. Reinforcing steel for abutments has also been delivered to the bridge site. Wednesday morning the traffic was again routed over the temporary bridge, the highway closed, and the work of taking down the old bridge begun.—Leader.

MANCHESTER.—Almost every day we see great trucks passing by loaded with horses, cattle, sheep and swine, on their way to Detroit or elsewhere. We wonder if people generally think what that means. We can tell them. It means the death of railroad operation to a great extent, especially as far as branch lines are concerned. Some of our people can remember the days when railroads were the life of the town. Now it is more like a graveyard—a memory of activities past and gone.—Enterprise.

BRIGHTON.—Mrs. Charles Jasper brought to the Argus office last week a small branch broken from a locust tree in her garden bearing heavy clusters of beautiful rose-colored blossoms. The blossoms were from a variety of the tree, known as rose locust. Mrs. Jasper says the rose locust is quite rare and rather difficult to start growing, but is very hardy and blooms three times each summer. The blossoms do not have the heavy fragrance of the common locust, but the tree must be rarely beautiful when in bloom and especially desirable because it blossoms so frequently.—Argus.

NO REGISTRATION HERE

There will be no re-registration in Sylvan township this year. The general laws of the state requires a re-registration every four years in all municipalities where voters number 5,000 and upwards. In all others where there is less than 5,000 a re-registration is not required, but by a vote of the small cities, village or township boards, a general re-registration may be had. The Sylvan township board has decided not to have a re-registration and electors in the township who are already on the poll list need not register.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Is it true that George Washington never told a lie?

Ans.—That's what they say—but probably nobody ever asked him when the depression would end.

Ques.—This question may sound silly, but I would like to ask if you think it is possible to love two women at the same time?
Ans.—That's hard to answer. But we rather think not if the two women know about it.

Ques.—I am told that when Albert B. Fall was freed from prison he was granted a pension. Is that true?
Ans.—No. However, Albert B. Fall former secretary of the interior, draws a pension of $72 a month as a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

Ques.—In adopting the designs on the United States money, will you please tell me who has the say-so?
Ans.—Congress has the power to approve or reject by special act. But the matter is usually left to the secretary of the treasury.

Ques.—Will you answer in your question department how old Franklin D. Roosevelt is, and also if he is related to the late Theodore Roosevelt?
Ans.—Franklin D. Roosevelt is 49 years old. He is a cousin of the late Theodore Roosevelt.

Ques.—To settle an argument I want to ask you how many members are in the Knights of Columbus in the United States?
Ans.—The membership of Knights of Columbus in the United States is a little over 620,000.

Ques.—Will you please answer what church Governor LaFollette of Wisconsin and United States Senator LaFollette belong to? Also are they related?
Ans.—Governor LaFollette of Wisconsin and United States Senator LaFollette of the same state are brothers. Both are sons of the deceased United States Senator Robert M. LaFollette. None of the family are or were affiliated with any church.

Ques.—May I ask in your question column if aviators have ever gone up higher than birds fly?
Ans.—Very few birds exceed a thousand feet in height, although there are some that are very high fliers. Wild geese have been seen by aviators at a height of 25,000 feet—nearly five miles. Lammergeiers, curlews and eagles (European members of the crow family) have been seen flying at a height of 20,000 feet.

Ques.—How can I exterminate toads in order to keep my children from getting warts?
Ans.—The handling of toads will not produce warts. Furthermore, toads are your best friends on your place and should not be killed or molested. They do no damage to crops or anything else on the farm or around the home. If those who are so ready to kill the toad or to look upon it as the producer of warts only knew how many harmful insects they destroy each summer, they would be more ready to protect this wonderful bug catcher. They are extremely efficient in destroying the crawling, hopping and low-flying insects.

Ques.—Can you tell me when the Spanish Inquisition existed, and what was the cause?
Ans.—The Spanish Inquisition was a system of ecclesiastical courts established in the 12th and 13th centuries for the trial and punishment of heretics. It was established largely as the result of the activities of the Albigenses and had jurisdiction only over Catholics and persons who had fallen away from the Catholic church. If the heretic tried could not be brought back into the fold he was turned over to the civil authorities for punishment provided in the civil law. In those days the criminal codes were cruel and usually prescribed death for heresy. The Spanish Inquisition became particularly notorious for its abuses, and it is frequently referred to as the height of tyrannical cruelty and unfairness. Catholic writers have always maintained that these abuses were greatly exaggerated, and that the Spanish Inquisition should be judged in the light of its own time, and not in the light of modern ideas.

Ques.—Will you please tell me what causes tidal waves on the oceans?
Ans.—Tides are the periodic rising and falling of the oceans caused by the attraction of the moon and sun. Gravitation has an equally strong influence upon the land and water, but since the latter is free to move, it tends to rise under the attraction of the moon and sun as these bodies pass their influence over the surface of the earth as it rotates upon its axis. The rolling waves are further advanced by strong winds blowing over the ocean.

PALMER MOTOR SALES
OBSERVE "TRUCK WEEK"

Remarkable improvements have been made in the Ford trucks which will bring a new measure of economy and efficiency, as well as driver comfort, to commercial haulage, according to L. G. Palmer, Ford dealer at Chelsea. The new trucks are being exhibited by Mr. Palmer today, and continuing throughout next week. Local business men are expected to visit the showing in large numbers, attracted by the news that the new trucks embody as many improvements as do the New Ford passenger cars.

There are two chassis wheelbases available and in addition, the special Standrive chassis and the commercial chassis. Many different body types, fitting any business, are available for these chassis. In addition to fine appearance, an air of great strength, power and stamina pervades the entire line, and speaks volumes for the service the new trucks may be expected to give local business men.

Can The American Government Endure?

Never before have the people of America had greater grounds for fear than right now!

Distress and perplexity are daily increasing, and hope is waning. Can the politicians and big business men stem the tide that grows more ominous as the months pass?

If you have had enough of men's guesses, and your fill of disappointment, peering around the corners for prosperity that doesn't come, and you want to hear the truth, then tune in on—

WILDCATS WIN SUNDAY

One of the most interesting ball games this year in this vicinity was seen at Barth field Sunday when the Lima Wildcats played the Red Arrow A. C. of Detroit. The Detroiters, who were snappy, clean players, obtained a fine run lead in the first three innings. In the sixth inning "Pete" Crocker hit a home run with the bases loaded. Probably the most exciting period of the game came in the ninth inning when the Arrows were still leading by one run. With two men out and two on, Arthur Barth tripled into right field, ending the game, 12 to 12 in favor of the Wildcats. Lyle Haselwerdt pitched a fine game for the local boys. Batteries for Lima, Haselwerdt and Crocker. For Detroit, Sharkey and Ballenger.

SOD BUSTERS WIN

The Lyndon Sod Busters defeated Fulmers Corners ball team Sunday on a very rough ground by a score of 12 to 8. Battery for Lyndon: Fowler and Boyce; for Fulmers Corners: Dowey, Simmons, Singleton and Barton. The big feature of the game was two home runs by Bill Keezer. Next Sunday the Sod Busters play Norvell at the home grounds.

PEARS AND BLOSSOMS

Ed Gantner has on display in the Standard office a branch taken from a pear tree on his lot, which contains a good crop of pears, and is also blossoming at the present time. Mr. Gantner states that the same condition existed last year but that the second crop did not mature.

WATERLOO

The wedding vows of Miss Evelyn Riethmiller and J. Paul Boushelle were spoken in the Westminster room of the First Presbyterian church in Jackson, last Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. Shannon A. Griffith read the service, which was witnessed by members of the immediate families. The bride is the daughter of Milton A. Riethmiller of Waterloo and Mr. Boushelle's parents reside in Detroit. After a short motor trip through the coast, Mr. and Mrs. Boushelle will be at home after July 1, for the summer at the Gorton farm near Waterloo, and after Sept. 1, they will reside at Carleton, Mich. Mrs. Boushelle will resume her teaching position in Carleton and Mr. Boushelle will teach at Garden City.

The Lima Rovers defeated the Chelsea Hoovers Sunday on the Lima field, with a score of 12 to 9.

MRS. GEORGIANA THOMPSON
Mrs. Georgiana Thompson, a former resident of Chelsea for many years, died Saturday afternoon, June 18, at the home of her son, Leroy Thompson, 87 Tenth St., Toledo.

Mrs. Thompson, formerly Georgiana Hays, was born July 4, 1847, in Greenville, Mich. November 24, 1869 she was united in marriage to Isaiah Smith and to this union was born one son. Mr. Smith died in 1875. In 1878 she was married to Irving Thompson, who died in 1889. A son was born to this union. Mrs. Thompson came to Chelsea in 1890, where she resided until October, 1930, when she went to Toledo to make her home.

Surviving are two sons, Charles Herman Smith of Michigan Center, and Leroy Thompson of Toledo, and one sister, Mrs. Emma Van Horn of Jackson. The body was brought to Chelsea and funeral services were held Monday afternoon at two o'clock at the Plankell funeral home, Rev. F. Matthews officiating. Interment was in Oak Grove cemetery.

MRS. BACON HONORED

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Jabez Bacon was the scene of an enjoyable family gathering on Saturday when a number of their children and grandchildren arrived to celebrate the 70th birthday of Mrs. Bacon. G. Wackenhut and daughter Lillie of Chelsea.

JACKSON MAN SPEAKS

Lewis O. Atherton, Secretary of the Jackson Employers' Association, addressed local Kiwanians at their regular meeting Monday evening. Mr. Atherton spoke on "The Future of the Small Town." According to figures produced by the speaker, many families are moving from their crowded quarters in cities to smaller towns, driving to their work in the cities. His advice to these small towns is that they advertise their advantages in an effort to bring families their way. Vance Ogden was in charge of the program.

ELECTED PRESIDENT

Beatrice Keusch, Chelsea, has been elected president of the State Normal college branch of the American Association of Childhood Education for the school year beginning in September.

Maxine Herrick, Lansing, was chosen vice president; Frances Bryant, Dowagiac, secretary; Mildred Stoerck, St. Johns, treasurer; and Doris Youngs, Marine City, reporter.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—From his fur post, Sunset House, in the Canadian north, Jim Stuart, trader in charge, sights an overthrown canoe in the lake. With the business-like efficiency of the drifter, who proves to be Aurora LeBlond, daughter of his rival in the fur business, LeBlond, with Paradise, his scrupulous half-breed lieutenant, Jim tries in search of the missing girl. Paradise displays animosity toward Jim, and the meeting is embarrassing. Though LeBlond acknowledges his debt of gratitude to Sunset House, CHAPTER II—Before leaving, Aurora and Jim arrange to exchange notes on a certain island. Going there, Jim is ambushed by Paradise and forced to travel toward the LeBlond post. On the way he overturns the boat, leaving his half-drowned enemy on the beach.

CHAPTER III—Jim, with Omar, goes to discuss plans with his superior, Andrew Christie, who is in charge of the trade house made by the post. Christie allows Stuart, at his request, one year to "make good." He leaves the post with a heavy heart, feeling he has been unjustly treated. Paradise brings an Indian to ambush Jim and Omar, but the attempt fails, and Jim takes the Indian to LeBlond.

CHAPTER IV—After hearing the story, LeBlond discharges Paradise. Jim and Aurora arrange a rendezvous. At the meeting, they acknowledge their mutual love, though realizing months must elapse before they see each other again. Aurora is returning to Winnipeg, and Jim is "making good" his position as factor of Sunset House, has planned a personal appeal to the Indians, who so far have persistently refused to trade their furs with the company he represents.

CHAPTER V—Jim, visiting the Indian camps in the Pipestone country, finds Paradise has enlisted the assistance of the natives to force trading with Stuart. Paradise men ambush Jim and Omar again, but they are not harmed.

CHAPTER VI—Jim and Omar travel from camp to camp, doing good work, "making good" as a paid agent of Paradise and LeBlond, meeting with some success. Esau, leaving his friends, or a mysterious hunter, which they hope will result in the overthrow of Jim and Omar, makes an open attack on Jim and Omar, but they drive off the attackers. Paradise escapes, after shooting Smoke, Jim's favorite dog.

CHAPTER VII—Camping for the night, the two travelers roll their blankets in the shape of men sleeping beside the fire, and hide in the bush nearby. Indians attempt to kill the men, but they are killed. Jim and Omar attack and kill them. Jim successfully treats the infected arm of Jim's friend, thereby saving his life. They set out to do their duty.

CHAPTER VIII—On his way down the river, Esau frustrates determined attempts to stop or kill him. Cornered by his enemies, the veteran canoeist successfully runs the Windigo rapids, a feat believed to be impossible. Indians, witnessing the feat, admit his passage, unhesitatingly admit his claim to be a great "shaman," superior to their own medicine man, Jimwak, of whom Esau makes mockery.

CHAPTER IX—Fate plays into Esau's hands, and he is successful in convincing the Indians that Jimwak is an impostor. The hitherto supreme "medicine man" is driven from the camps. Jim goes back to Sunset House with the Indians' promise that they will bring their furs to him for the Christmas trade. But he has lost his faithful dog, Smoke, finding no trace of him after the fight with Paradise.

CHAPTER X—Stuart returns to Sunset House, finding his standing as fur trader established and his hopes of winning Aurora increased. But at this point there is a letter which tells him that Paradise has been killed. Jim feels that he does not love her as she does him, he having chosen the path of duty, in his journey to the Pipestone country, when she had urged him to stay. The letter, Jim feels, is a final good-bye.

CHAPTER XI—Jim, on a journey which makes him feel of danger and death, takes the good news that he has won the Indians' confidence to Christie. All the while, he feels over that, however, is dispelled when he reads in a Winnipeg newspaper of the engagement of Aurora LeBlond to George McLaren, an official of the North-West Trading Company, her father's business connection.

Esau's seamed face beamed in his pleasure. "Your father, he feel happy now, to know dat Sunset House get de fur, ah-hah!"

The man who carried a wound no material success could smile at the quaint fancy of the loyal old Ojibwa. "Yes, father will be happy now. He knew he left Jim in good hands."

Through the dusk of one starless night, three trail-weary teams of huskies left the lake ice and turned into the clearing where the candle-lit windows of Sunset House beckoned. Warned by the yelping of the dogs, Omar threw open the trade-house door and hurried to the sleds with welcoming "bo-jo's."

"You get de fur?" demanded Omar, peering at the sled wrappings.

"Tumps of it, Omar!" cried Jim. "Jinaw and old Zolatre are bringing the whole hunt of the country with them. Christmas. We've got LeBlond licked to a standstill!"

When the sleds were unloaded at the trade-house door and the dogs fed, the hungry and tired factor of Sunset House sought his supper. In his kitchen he found Sarah busy over a pan of sizzling moose steaks.

"Bo-jo, bo-jo! Meester Jean!" cried the red-faced cook, brandishing a fork in one hand as she welcomed Stuart with the other. "You home all safe? You make de beeg trade, ah-hah! I heard you tell Omar. But you bring back de face so thin. Sarah, she feed you up?" Then, with a questioning look of her snapping black eyes, she asked, as she nodded toward the living room: "You see nothing een dere?"

"No, what d'yuh mean?"

Sarah's flat face divided in a wide grin. "You look!"

Curious, Jim walked into the living room. There on the table lay one of his own envelopes. Casually he picked it up. On the envelope he read his own name in the handwriting of Aurora LeBlond.

Dazed, mystified, Jim stared at the paper he held in his shaking hand. "Sarah!"

The Ojibwa stood in the room, her black eyes on the twitching face of the man who stared at the unopened letter.

"How did this get here?"

The Indian shook her head. "You look and see, you know den."

Jim studied the envelope. What could it mean? What trick were they playing on him now? She was at Winnipeg and yet here was her hand-writing on one of his own envelopes, without address or stamp.

He turned angrily on the woman who waited. "Who brought this?"

Why don't you tell me? What's the complaint smile of the Ojibwa as she fingered some dark stuff which circled her throat and was tucked into her woolen blouse, drove Jim to open the envelope.

She was bidding him good-by, telling him what he had already learned from the Winnipeg paper. Then he read:

"Jim darling, I've come back! I was hurt—tried to close my heart to you. But it was no use, you already were there, had all of it! You just wouldn't be driven out. Oh, I've been so unhappy since leaving that note. They tried to drive me into a hateful thing, but my magician in the forests held me with his spell. Jim, I couldn't wait for spring—I've come back to you, dear maker of magic. Do you want me, now, after the pain I gave you? I reached Bonne Chance by dog-team, yesterday, and here I am at Sunset House, writing you, so you may know on your return I wanted those big arms of yours around me again—wanted to know you still loved me."

"A big of you come to Bonne Chance when you get this, and tell me I haven't lost you—haven't brought my heart through the snows to you in vain. I love you—love you, Jim."

"Aurore!"

Jim Stuart read and reread the letter until the words grew illegible to his blurred eyes.

His blurred eyes. Like the thrust of a knife had come the shock of her first letter, and now, numb with the dull agony of despair, a joy more poignant than pain held him inarticulate.

He raised his hand to his hot forehead, as his dazed eyes turned to the woman who watched him.

"She come wid sled to see you," explained Sarah. "She cry w'en I tell her you travel nord wid de dog. I not let her een de house until she say she oes your woman. Den she write dat letter and tell me to say nothing until you read it."

Jim's heart was beating with delirious joy. She had come! MacLaurin aside—laughed at the lure of the city, to come to him. Her heart was too wild to be caged down there in Winnipeg; she belonged to the forests, to the land of the "long snows."

His face darkened with disappointment as he looked at his watch. It was too late—too late to gallop his tired dogs across ten miles of frozen lake. The post would be asleep. Tomorrow morning he would go to the girl who had flouted the smooth MacLaurin to come back to her fur trader, and demand his daughter of LeBlond—take her by force if it came to that; for she loved him, loved him. She had said she was his—his woman. In the face of LeBlond he'd take her. They'd be married by the missionary at Fort Hope. She'd never escape him again. For he was a made man, now. Sunset House would startle headquarters at Winnipeg with its trade. Now, he had more than a heart and empty hands to give her. Aurore! Aurore!

As the famished and half-mad Jim ate his supper, his eye was caught by the dark stuff circling the hovering Sarah's thick neck.

"What's that you've got around your neck?" he demanded.

The copper-hued features of the Ojibwa lit with pride. "Dat ees seek! aigan she beeng Sarah."

"What? A stocking? On your neck?"

Sarah straightened with dignity as she countered with disdain: "You tink I wear eet on my foot—dat ver nice seek?"

His pent emotion found release in uncontrolled laughter, while Sarah stoutly held her ground with nobler face. Then he appeased her with: "You'll be good to her now she's come back to Jim?"

The Ojibwa beamed until her black eyes were slits in her broad face. "W'en she go, she hug Sarah. She keeve her van beeg kiss on dis place."

And Sarah pointed proudly to an expanse of dusky cheek.

"That's like her—all heart and impulse. Sarah would die for her now," thought Stuart, as he rose and, taking his cap, went to the trade-house.

Already Omar had started opening the fur packs brought from the north, and the two men ran their fingers through the shimmering pelts, classifying their primeness and making an estimate of their value down on the railroad. They were admiring a large black fox which for size, thickness and sheen of its fur was the prize of the trip north.

"It will bring a thousand in Winnipeg, Omar," commented Jim. "I never saw a better one."

"Ah-hah! Dat ees good van for—"

The hurried entrance of Esau drew the eyes of the men at the counter.

"De sky look ver queer 'cross de lak," he announced. "I watch eet for long piece."

"Where?" Jim demanded, "south, toward LeBlond's?"

"Ah-hah! De sky ees light lak bush fire-mak een de summer."

"Then it's the buildings at LeBlond's," said Jim, starting for the door, followed by the others. "It's out of range of the northern lights, and there're none tonight, anyway! It's too thick!"

A fire at LeBlond's! What could it mean?

Outside in the snow the three men gazed through the gloom of the thick night across the frozen lake where a dull glow hung above the horizon.

"Dat ees fire for sure," muttered Omar.

First thought Jim. It might be the living quarters, the trade-house, too! If so, she'd have nothing but the Indian shacks for shelter. He would get "Hitch our dogs, Omar, I'm going over!"

"Why you worree eet dat place burn?" demanded the half-breed.

Jim thrust his face close to the almost invisible features of his friend. "Because," he said, "she's come back to me—my girl! She's there! She may need help; understand?"

For answer, a catfished hand fumbled in the dark, found Jim's, and closed in a hard grip. "Get de dog!" And Omar hurried away.

Ten miles of lake trail broken only by the passage of the sled which had carried Aurora to Sunset House lay before Jim and Omar, as they started with the empty sled through the murk of the starless night. There were reaches, where the snow had drifted as it had fallen, which drove the hurrying men ahead to break trail on their snowshoes, while the willing dogs floundered to their shoulders. On went the team toward the glow in the sky across the great lake, and, as they traveled, Stuart wondered what awaited him at what was once Bonne Chance. It was early; they couldn't have been caught in their beds he assured himself. She was there, safe, whatever had happened, this girl who had come back to him through the December snow. In an hour he'd have her in his arms.

—watch the blood pulse into her dark face and her eyes light with the joy of his coming.

They reached a strait between two of the islands through which the wind had swept as through a funnel, scouring the ice of snow. Shortly the post clearing would open up before them and they would know what had happened.

"Marche, Wolf!" Jim snapped his long dog-goad, in the biting air, as he called to the lead-dog who had taken the place of the lost Smoke. Shortly the racing team rounded a point of island and there, a mile away, an inferno of red flames leaped from the ruined trade-house of Louis LeBlond.

"The trade-house!" cried Jim with relief. "His quarters are safe!"

She was there, among those dark figures, and in minutes he would look in her eyes—hear her voice.

Cross-Word Puzzles

The first genuine cross-word puzzle of the modern type was composed by Arthur Winn, and appeared in a supplement of the New York Sunday World on December 21, 1913. The outbreak of the World war arrested the cross-word puzzle craze temporarily, but it was revived as a feature in the World in 1916.

Keep the Cobwebs Out of Your Doorway

Mark Twain

once edited a newspaper in Missouri

One of his subscribers wrote him he had found a spider in his paper and wanted to know whether it denoted good luck or bad.

This is what Mark Twain answered:

DEAR SUBSCRIBER:

"Finding a spider in your paper was neither good luck nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

Sincerely,
MARK TWAIN

Hoover and Curtis Stand on Platform Calling for Modification of 18th Amendment—Would Let State Decide for Themselves.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

At each state decide for itself whether it will be wet or dry. That is the prohibition plank adopted by the Republican national convention in Chicago. It was dictated by President Hoover, and the administration forces, in complete control of the convention, put it over after one of the most uproarious sessions in twenty years of Republican conventions.

The plank is not pleasing to the very wet Republicans and is completely obnoxious to the dry ones.

Under the Republican plan congress will at all times be in general control of liquor law enforcement in those states that elect to remain dry. Also, congress will control the manufacture, sale and distribution of liquor within the borders of the wet states.

With the platform out of the way the convention proceeded to do what had been whispered in some quarters they might do. They renominated Herbert Hoover for President and Charles C. Curtis for Vice President. The debate on the prohibition plank was the only thing that saved this convention from being a complete flop as far as thrills and excitement are concerned.

It was about as tame as a town meeting, the selection of standard bearers being a foregone conclusion. James R. Garfield, chairman of the resolutions committee, led the fight for the Hoover plank, while Senator Bingham and Nicholas Murray Butler headed the forces demanding a plank insisting on the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Senator Bingham's plank was defeated by a vote of 681 to 479. An analysis of the vote shows that the Republicans in the south swung the balance against the northern, eastern and middle western states which furnish the bulk of the electoral votes for the election of Republican Presidents.

The Hoover plank as adopted reads in part as follows: "We do not favor a submission limited to the issue of retention or repeal. For the American nation never in its history has gone back and forth in this case the progress which has been thus far made must be preserved, while the evils must be eliminated."

Hawaii should be maintained. President's "constructive program" lauded as an attack on the depression with "far-reaching objectives, but entailing no danger to the budget."

Republican control of the federal government will "insure the orderly recovery of the country."

While the Republicans were busy in Chicago, the Democrats made small progress in settling their pre-convention squabbles. One development was the rumor, originating in Chicago, that Melvin A. Traylor, the banker who is one of the dark horse possibilities for the Presidential nomination, might be put on the Roosevelt ticket in second place. It was said the New York governor would welcome this move. The Traylor campaign managers seemed to think the better ticket would be "Traylor and Roosevelt."

Support of the nominee, whoever he may be, was pledged by leaders of the party in a united appeal for completion of the party's $1,500,000 victory fund before the opening of the national convention on June 27. The message to the rank and file was signed by Alfred E. Smith, Gov. Franklin Roosevelt, Joseph P. Kamp, Owen D. Young, Newton D. Baker, former Gov. James M. Cox, John W. Davis and 64 other leaders.

Mr. Eslick stepped in to halt the debate on Representative Wright's amendment to the Eighteenth Amendment. Wright's amendment would have dropped the floor of the house from the floor of the house.

Mr. Eslick had a ten-minute speech in behalf of the amendment. He waved aside questions of finance and said:

"Mr. Speaker, I want to divert from the amendment. He never finished the sentence. As he collapsed, he clutched at a table and partially broke his fall. Dr. George W. Calver, Capitol physician, said he had died before he struck the floor. Mrs. Eslick was in the members' gallery at the time.

Tragedy added to tragedy is the history of this bonus bill. Hours of debate, largely for home consumption, wasted on a measure that was foredoomed before it was presented.

Without debate the senate adopted a resolution presented by Senator Joe T. Robinson, Democratic floor leader, calling on the President to specify how and where additional savings were to be accomplished. The resolution was introduced in answer to President Hoover's demand that congress save $150,000,000 in some quarters, the prediction was made that the need for additional budget balancing funds will serve to reduce the sales tax notwithstanding the fact that the billion dollar tax bill already has been enacted into law.

STANISLAUS FELIX HAUSER, the aviator, who attempted a flight from New York to Poland, was rescued by the steamship Circle Shell after drifting eight days on the Atlantic on his wrecked airplane. Hauser was completely exhausted when rescued and literally fell into the lifeboat that was lowered to pick him up. The captain of the ship reported by radio that Hauser had received only minor injuries and was progressing satisfactorily.

FOLLOWING the abortive attempt of three young Cubans to assassinate President Machado by throwing a bomb at him, the police of the island republic made a series of raids on the homes of prominent persons and arrested three separate plots against Machado's life.

Nearly a hundred leading citizens of Havana were put in prison, and arms and explosives were seized. Capt. Miguel Calvo, chief of the police expert bureau, said: "Cubans have turned to terrorism in a desperate effort to oust President Machado dead or alive. I am convinced that Havana's leading men and women have gone crazy. The revelations are astounding and most disappointing for the future of Cuba and the Cubans."

The "society terrorists" belong to the ABC organization which sought to overthrow the government on May 20. Independence day, but were foiled by the discovery of their plot. Police say that other government leaders besides Machado are "marked for death."

CARLOS DAVILA apparently was not sufficiently radical in his policies toward foreign interests in Chile, so he was forced by the military and socialist junta to resign as provisional President. Col. Marmaduke Grove, head of a secret unit in the overthrowing of President, Montero, remained in control, but there were rumors that an army group was plotting to bring ex-President Carlos Ibanez back from exile and form a new junta with Davila's aid. Capt. Alejandro Lazo, an intimate associate of Davila and of Ibanez, was arrested.

Extremist sentiment against Davila's continuance in the junta arose as a result of attacks against him by the latter newspaper opinion, which has led efforts of certain elements in northern Chile to force dissolution of the $375,000,000 Czech organization.

IT LOOKS as if Gaston B. Means, one of the wealthiest individuals in America, would have to spend another term in a federal penitentiary.

A federal jury in Washington found him guilty of stealing $104,000 entrusted to him by Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean for the purpose of raising Lindbergh's baby. The court inflicted a sentence of 15 years imprisonment and a fine of $2,000. He was acquitted on two other charges.

His attorney moved for a new trial and gave notice of appeal. And meanwhile Means was put back in jail.

POLICE action in the Lindbergh case is being attacked on both sides of the ocean, following the suicide of Violet Sharpe, English maid in the service of the Morrow family. The young woman had been questioned repeatedly by the police, and many persons in America and in England believe she had been so persecuted that she was driven to self-destruction, although it appears she was in no way implicated in the kidnapping. State Senator E. L. Richards of New Jersey attacked the administration of Governor Moore as responsible for blunders in the case and said a legislative investigation was "virtually certain."

In London a member of the house of commons brought up the matter by asking the foreign office if the government had its attention called to the suicide of Miss Sharpe and if it would make representations to the Washington government suggesting an inquiry as to what responsibility the police had for the girl's death.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS Council Rooms, Chelsea, Mich., June 28, 1932.

Council met in regular session. Meeting called to order by President McKune. Roll call. Present: Trustees Harris, Fahner, Spiegelberg, Schenk, Winans, Turnbull. Minutes of meeting May 16th read and approved. The following bills were read by the Clerk:

Cost Her $4.25 To Reduce 65 Pounds

"Worth It," Miss Bates Says. If you're young and fat read what Miss Bates of Beech, Iowa, has to say about Kruschen Salts—if you are middle age or old Kruschen shows you the way to lose fat the SAFE way.

"I took one bottle of Kruschen Salts a month for five months. It amounted to $4.25 and I reduced 65 lbs. but it was worth it. I imagine just 22 years old and weighing what I did, I could not get myself as other girls did. I think it is wonderful the results Kruschen Salts give."

To lose fat the safe, same way—take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—eat less fatty meats, potatoes and sweets—a jar that costs but a small sum lasts 4 weeks. Get it at Burg's Corner Drug Store or any drugstore in the world—but be sure for your health's sake to ask for and get Kruschen Salts. It's the little daily dose that does it. Adv.

Gives Polish Honor

The ambassador of Poland, Tamas Filipowicz, decorated Mrs. Woodrow Wilson with the Grand Cordons of the Order Polonia Restituta at a ceremony held at the embassy of Poland in Washington. This high decoration was bestowed upon Mrs. Wilson as the latest mark of gratitude for the influence of the great war president of the United States in the unification of Poland.

The Washington Trip

By Lucille Hawley.

The Senior Class of 1932 of Chelsea High School left on the annual trip to Washington, D. C., at three o'clock Friday morning, June 3. We were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Clark, two teachers, Miss Yager and Miss Thompson; four townspeople, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Strieter, Mrs. Oscar Schneider, and Miss Clara Hutzler; and five juniors, Verma Adams, Emma Dettling, Marian Goodell, Kathryn Stoffer, and Ben Hutzler.

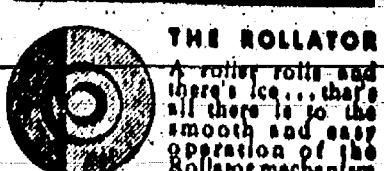

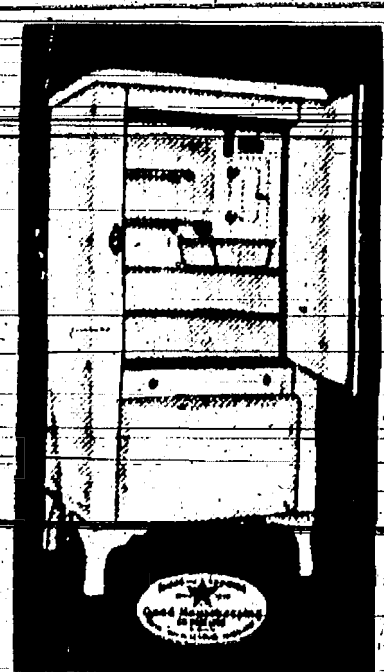

Mr. and Mrs. Clark tried to do their best to show us a good time and to help us understand the meaning and importance of each thing we saw. I am sure they succeeded in their aim and we all enjoyed their leadership.

Several automobiles followed us as we left Chelsea. The last one to leave us went as far as Columbus, O. A short distance from Marion, Ohio we stopped to see the Harding Memorial. This memorial was built in memory of President Harding. The tomb of President Harding and Mrs. Harding are within the memorial.

Passing through Delaware, Ohio, we saw Ohio Wesleyan College, and at Columbus we saw Ohio State University.

versity and the State capital building. In front of the capital building is a statue of President McKinley placed there as a memorial to him.

From Columbus, Ohio to Washington, D. C., we followed one of the national highways, U. S. 40, known as the Cumberland Pike. This highway is the only highway ever built by the United States Government and was partly surveyed by George Washington.

On the whole trip we were constantly seeing memorials to Washington, places where he stayed some time in his life, buildings in which he transacted some business, or places where he fought during a war. Nearly everything we saw was in some way connected with George Washington and his career. From Braddock's monument to the city of Washington, surveyed and planned by the French, artist L'Enfant and Washington to Valley Forge, everything showed the influence of George Washington. As you will see from the rest of the story.

On the national highway we saw the Headley Tavern, one of the last of the taverns or inns of "Covered Wagon Days." These inns were situated along the trail where the covered wagons and stage coaches made stops. At five-thirty Friday afternoon we reached Wheeling, West Virginia, where we stayed for the night.

Wheeling is one of the first original settlements on the Ohio River. Wheeling has many coal and iron mines and quite a bit of steel is manufactured there. Saturday morning we passed from West Virginia into Pennsylvania. We saw more and more coal mines and mining towns. We stopped to see the memorial erected to the memory of the "Pioneer Mothers of the Covered Wagon Days." This memorial was erected in 1928 in Washington County, Pennsylvania, the oldest county west of the Allegheny Mountains. This county was named in honor of George Washington.

We stopped at Summit Hotel, situated at the top of Mount Washington. The next point of interest was a monument erected in memory of General Braddock who was mortally wounded in 1755 in the French and Indian War. At the same time Washington was fighting with him. A little farther on we stopped at Fort Necessity where Washington was forced to build a fort when in 1754 he attempted to force the French from the Ohio Valley. He was surprised by the French and Indians and forced to evacuate Fort Necessity. A museum is under construction at this place. A short distance from Cumberland, Maryland we stopped at an old toll house.

Leaving Cumberland Sunday morning, we stopped at a tower on the top of Polaris Mountain. From this tower three States can be seen. These States are Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland in which State the tower is located.

After we left Hagerstown at noon, we passed over that part of the national highway between Hagerstown and Frederick, Maryland, over which Lee's army marched in an invasion of Maryland in 1862 just prior to the battle of Antietam. As the army marched into Frederick town with "Stonewall Jackson riding ahead," they saw an American flag waving from the window of Barbara Fritchie's home. Jackson ordered his men to stop. The staff of the flag had already been broken by rebels when Barbara Fritchie snatched it and shook it forth. "Shoot if you must this old gray head, but spare your country's flag!" she said. The bravery of this old lady bowed with her four score years and ten, surprised Jackson. A shade of sadness, a blush of shame over the face of the leader came. "Who shoots a hair of my gray head does like a rebel. March on!" he said. The rebels marched on and that street is now the main street of Frederick.

At the Bureau of Printing and Engraving we learned how our paper money of paper notes are printed. We visited the Corcoran Art Gallery and the Freer Gallery of Art, both of which have one of the best art collections in the world. The American Red Cross Building contains a large number of Red Cross exhibits and collections of relics.

The Smithsonian Institute was established by Congress in 1846 through the generosity of James Smithson, an Englishman, who, in 1823, bequeathed his entire property to the United States for that purpose. The National Museum is under the direction of the Smithsonian Institute. These buildings are filled with rare collections, exhibits and relics. One could spend weeks visiting these buildings. We stopped at the Pan American Union Building. This building is one of the most beautiful public buildings in the world. The Pan American Union is an international organization and offices maintained by the twenty-one American republics of North and South America.

The Union Station which we visited has the largest room in the world. The passenger concourse is seven hundred and fifty feet long and three hundred and forty-three feet wide. A standing army of fifty thousand men could be put in it.

We also visited the Folger Shakespeare Library which has the best collection of Shakespeareana in the world. At the end of the building is a Shakespearean stage.

The Lincoln Memorial is one of the most beautiful memorials ever erected. Surrounding the large hall is a beautiful colonnade, made up of thirty-six fluted columns. Above each column is the name of a State which was in the Union at the time of Lincoln's death. Above the colonnade are the names of forty-eight states now in the Union. In the hall is a large statue of Lincoln and above it are inscribed these words: "In this temple are in the hearts of the people for whom he saved the Union the memory of Abraham Lincoln is enshrined forever." Littered on the stone walls of the hall are Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and his Second Inaugural Address.

The Washington National Monument is the highest work of masonry

Maryland. The home of Barbara Fritchie still stands there.

A short distance from Frederick, Maryland, we stopped at Olivet Cemetery where Barbara Fritchie and Francis Scott Key, the author of "The Star Spangled Banner" are buried. Over these two graves the American flag waves day and night.

We reached Washington around five o'clock Sunday night. After supper we visited the Congressional Library. This library contains a copy of all of the leading newspapers and many historical manuscripts. It also contains a copy of every book printed. The building is very beautiful. There are many beautiful mural paintings in it.

Monday we visited Arlington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon. We crossed the Arlington Memorial Bridge which spans the Potomac River and connects with the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway, which leads to Mount Vernon.

At Arlington we visited the Arlington Cemetery. This is a national cemetery where many of our soldiers are buried. The beautiful Arlington Memorial Amphitheatre was built there in honor of the unknown soldier. The Temple of Fame at Arlington has the names of Washington, Lincoln, Grant and Farragut inscribed on the top and the names of prominent officers of the Civil War are inscribed on each of the eight columns. The tomb of the unknown dead has two thousand and eleven unidentified soldiers gathered there in one grave. The grave is marked by a large monument. We also saw the Custis Lee Mansion there. This was the home of Robert E. Lee for several years until he left to join the Confederate army in the Civil War.

At Alexandria we visited the Christ Church which Washington and Lee attended. We sat in the pew in which these two men sat. We also saw the old Carlyle House at Alexandria. Here Washington met with Braddock in 1755 to make plans for forcing the French from the Ohio Valley. At the Masonic Temple at Alexandria where Washington was worshipful master, a number of persons belonging to Washington have been gathered together to form a museum. The George Washington National Masonic Memorial at Alexandria is being built by the Masons of the United States.

Mount Vernon is the home of George Washington and is situated on the bank of the Potomac River. The rooms of the house and the beautiful gardens surrounding it are still arranged as they were when Washington lived there. The other buildings around the house have been kept in the same condition. The tombs of George and Martha Washington are at Mount Vernon.

Tuesday we took a tour of Washington, D. C., seeing all of the government buildings and homes of the foreign ministers and ambassadors and of the government officials.

When we visited the Capitol, we spent a short time listening to the debates before the Senate and the House of Representatives. The Senate was discussing the Bonus Bill and the House of Representatives was discussing the Garner Bill.

We did not see President Hoover but we did see his home. The White House is very beautifully furnished and is surrounded by beautiful gardens.

At the Bureau of Printing and Engraving we learned how our paper money of paper notes are printed. We visited the Corcoran Art Gallery and the Freer Gallery of Art, both of which have one of the best art collections in the world.

The American Red Cross Building contains a large number of Red Cross exhibits and collections of relics.

The Smithsonian Institute was established by Congress in 1846 through the generosity of James Smithson, an Englishman, who, in 1823, bequeathed his entire property to the United States for that purpose. Littered on the stone walls of the hall are Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and his Second Inaugural Address.

The Washington National Monument is the highest work of masonry in the world. It is an obelisk made of white marble. It is 555 feet high. In the inner walls are one hundred seventy-nine memorial stones contributed by various states and organizations as tributes to Washington.

The last place we visited in Washington was the Washington Cathedral or the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul. This Cathedral which is of fourteenth century Gothic architecture will take years to complete. The tomb of Woodrow Wilson and Admiral Dewey are in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Cathedral.

The first place we stopped after we left Washington, D. C. Thursday morning was the State House at Annapolis, Maryland. It was here that Washington resigned his commission as commander-in-chief of the colonial troops of the Revolutionary War. Our present United States Constitution originated there when representatives met to discuss trade conditions in the United States.

At the Naval Academy at Annapolis we visited the hall in which graduation exercises are held and the chapel where the tomb of John Paul Jones is. When we walked out on the wharf at Chesapeake we had the opportunity of going in a submarine.

We reached Philadelphia Thursday night. Friday morning we took a tour of the city. Among the places we saw on the tour were the Betsy Ross House and the cemetery where Benjamin Franklin is buried. We visited Congress Hall where our United States Senate and House of Representatives met until 1800, and Independence Hall where the Declaration of Independence was signed and adopted on July 4, 1776. The Liberty Bell is kept at Independence Hall. We visited the United States mint, where coins are made, and we watched them being made.

We rode through Fairmont Park, the largest city owned park in the world. This park covers over three thousand acres of ground and it has its own trolley and police system.

After we left Philadelphia Friday afternoon we stopped at Valley Forge. Here Washington's troops suffered during the winter of 1777-78 without sufficient food and clothing. This winter proved whether or not his troops could endure the winter, defeat the British the next summer and gain our independence from England. A beautiful little chapel has been built at Valley Forge in memory of George Washington. Connected with the chapel is a library and museum.

Friday night we stayed at Lancaster, Pennsylvania and Saturday morning we visited Gettysburg. There are many roads winding over this battlefield. These avenues follow the line of march of the Union and Confederate armies. The avenues are named after the generals of the Civil War. Many markers and monuments have been placed on these roads in memory of the various troops, generals and soldiers who fought in the Civil War. We visited the cemetery where many of the soldiers who fought in the Civil War are buried.

Saturday night we stayed at Williamsport, Pennsylvania. Sunday we took our last ride through the mountains as we were bound for home. We stayed at Erie, Pennsylvania, Sunday night and Monday morning we started on our last day of a perfect trip and a very good time. We arrived at Chelsea at seven o'clock with a crowd of parents and friends and the High School Band waiting to greet us.
