Waterloo Band Will Present Concert Here

People of this community cannot say that they are not blessed with plenty of free entertainment in the form of band concerts. The regular schedule for these musical events calls for a concert each Wednesday evening, the Chelsea High School Band and Isham's Band alternating.
In addition to this regular schedule, announcement has been made that the Waterloo Band will present a free concert in Chelsea on Saturday evening of this week. This band of thirty pieces has been giving a series of concerts in surrounding towns, and have included Chelsea in their schedule, in return for the courtesy extended their organization by several local musicians who play with them regularly. The concert will start about 8 o'clock.
A large crowd gathered last night to hear the popular Isham concert band.

Local Couple Speak Vows in Ann Arbor

Miss Viola Margaret Seyfried, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R.
Seyfried of Chelsea, became the bride of Fred Charles Weber, son of Mrs.
Ernest Myers of Sylvan township, at a quiet ceremony solemnized Saturday evening at St. Thomas rectory,
Ann Arbor, with Rev. Thomas R.
Carey officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Phelps of Detroit were the only attendants.
The bride was attired in a gown of Nile green satin, the fitted waist having a cream lace yoke, and the skirt flaring gracefully below the hips. She wore a corsage bouquet of Johanna Hill rose buds and lilies of the valley.
Mrs. Phelps was gown in pink chif-fon and her corsage was Briarcliff rose buds and lilies of the valley.
Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Weber left for their new home on North Prospect St., Ypsilanti, which was in readiness for their occupancy.
Prenuptial parties given in honor of the event included a kitchen shower Tuesday evening, given at the home of Mrs. Phelps, Detroit, and a party Thursday evening, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Faulkner in Sylvan township. The latter party was attended by 25 guests and an enjoyable evening was spent playing progressive euchre. Miss Seyfried and Mr. Weber received high honors, Miss Katherine Steele and E. S. Kennedy the consolation prizes. The honor guests were presented with a gift and light refreshments were served.

CORRECT METHODS OF DISPLAYING U. S. FLAG

During the past few weeks many of our subscribers have asked that we publish an article giving the correct methods of displaying the United States flag. It has been stated that many flags have been improperly displayed on recent patriotic holidays, and for the information of the public,
we are pleased to print the following article, taken from the Field Artillery Manual:

The flag should be displayed only from sunrise to sunset, or between such hours as may be designated by proper authority. It should be displayed on National and State holidays and on historic and special occasions.
The flag should always be hoisted briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously. (However, being the Emblem of our Country, it ought to fly from every pole every day throughout the year, weather permitting.)
When carried in a procession with another flag or flags, the flag of the United States of America should be either on the marching right, i. e., the flag's own right, or when there is a line of other flags, the flag of the United States of America may be in front of the center of that line.
When displayed with another flag against the wall from crossed staffs, the flag of the U. S. should be on the right, the flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.
When a number of flags of states or cities, or pennants of societies are grouped and displayed from staffs, with the flag, the latter should be at the center or at the highest point of the group.
When flags of states or cities or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the U. S. flag, the latter should always be at the peak.
When flown from adjacent staffs the flag should be hoisted first and lowered last. No such flag or pennant in the former position should be placed above or in the latter's position to the right of the U. S. flag, i. e., to the observer's left.
When the flags of two or more nations are displayed they should be flown from separate staffs of the same height and flags should be of approximately equal size. International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another nation in time of peace.
When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony or front of building, the union of the flag should go clear to the peak of the staff unless the flag is at half staff. (When the flag is suspended over a sidewalk from a pole, extending from a house to a pole at the edge of the sidewalk, the flag should be hoisted out from the building toward the pole, union first.)
When the flag is displayed in a manner other than by being flown from a staff, it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right—that is, to the observer's left.
When displayed in a window it should be displayed the same way—that is,
with the union or blue field to the left of the observer in the street. When festoons, rossettes, or drapings, of blue, white and red are desired, bunt-

Michigan Department of State

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich., June 29.—The new federal gasoline tax is entirely separate and distinct from the Michigan gasoline tax, which is collected by the department of state.

The federal levy of one-cent a gallon is known as a "production tax". Under this law the government collects its tax on the gasoline as soon as it is produced in the refinery; or when the gasoline reaches its port of entry into the United States. If imported the one-cent a gallon levy is in addition to an import tariff of two and one-half percent.

The state levy is known as a "source tax". Under state laws it is collectible when produced in Michigan refineries; or when it "comes to rest" in Michigan if imported from other states or countries. The law allows a refiner or importer to sell gasoline so produced or imported to another licensed wholesale distributor without collecting the tax on such sale. The licensed wholesale distributor who breaks up such shipments or imports for retail distribution, in this case, assumes and pays the state tax of three cents a gallon.

On account of the number of cars which are not being used because of lack of 1932 license plates, the Governor, Attorney General and Secretary of State sought a legal way to sell automobile license plates at half rate beginning July 1 instead of September 1. But, after studying Michigan laws, the Attorney General ruled that the department of state may not sell plates at half rate before September 1.

Copies of the Public Acts of 1932 (Special Session) will be available for distribution by the department of state about July 15. The new volume will conform in size with the Compiled Laws of 1929 and the Public Acts of 1931, and will be distributed gratis, under state laws, to all state, county and township officials entitled to receive free copies of the Public Acts of 1931.

Publishers Of State To Visit Alpena

The annual summer meeting of the Michigan Press Association will be held at Alpena on Thursday, June 30, July 1 and 2. Alpena is one of the most hospitable towns to be found anywhere, and the largest in northern Michigan. With a country ideally situated on the shores of Lake Huron and Thunder Bay, it has every advantage to present visitors looking for a quiet summer retreat, with all the outdoors anyone wants, with fishing, the best, golfing, bathing, boating, tennis, and every outdoor sport at your doorstep, regardless of where you may pitch your tent or rent a cottage, and at rates surprisingly low.

Long Lake, eight miles north of Alpena, will be the gathering place for the visitors. This body of water is from a mile and a half to two miles wide, and nine miles long. Several resorts dot the south and east side of the lake. There is the Oak Grove Hotel, operated by G. T. Montroy, that can care for nearly a hundred people.

The Long Lake Lodge adjoins the hotel property. This was formerly the Alpena Golf Club, and has a nine-hole golf course in connection, with ample sleeping and dining room accommodations. It is operated by Walter Blanche.

Many people desire a cottage so that they may take their entire family, so on the east side of the lake there is Tebo's Resort, operated by Charles Tebo. Mr. Tebo has about a dozen of the most comfy cottages you ever saw. Each one has three bedrooms, a fireplace and a kitchen.

Next to Mr. Tebo's is the Symour Resort, with cottages comparable to Mr. Tebo's. In front of both these resorts is one of the finest bathing beaches in Michigan—pure white sand with a gradual slope of two hundred feet before it becomes deep. The Michigan Press Association, which includes nearly 300 weekly newspapers of the state, is first of all "Michigan minded" for it realizes that Michigan is one of the most desirable states in the Union, with every advantage to be found elsewhere, and many besides.

Alpena in itself is one of the leading towns in the state and does not depend upon its resorts for summer business.

About 4,000,000 tons of limestone is quarried at Alpena annually. One of these quarries operates electric ore cars, which are operated from a central station, and it is amusing to watch them start, stop, back up, switch, and load without apparent human aid.

With the famous Turtle Lake Club, which is perhaps responsible for most of the deer propagation in northern Michigan, and its 25,000 acre state forest, Alpena has everything to offer tourists, resorters, and home seekers.

The visit of the publishers to Alpena will be featured by numerous trips of inspection, a banquet at which Malcolm Bingay, editorial director of the Detroit Free Press, will be the chief speaker, numerous contests, and a big fish dinner as a climax to the three days of fun and recreation.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—I want to ask in your question column if you think marriage is a failure or a success?

Ans.—We'll say it's a success; many women get alimony within 6 months.

Ques.—Can you tell me what church Lindbergh belongs to?

Ans.—He is not affiliated with any denomination, but he was raised a Lutheran.

Ques.—Is there an Irish language, or do the people of Ireland speak the English language?

Ans.—While Ireland originally had a language of their own, known as Gaelic, English is the prevailing language of the country. Very few people in Ireland can now speak Gaelic.

Ques.—I want to ask in your question department if the District of Columbia is considered a state or a territory?

Ans.—The District of Columbia is neither a state nor a territory. It is classed as a federal district to distinguish it from a state or territory.

Ques.—It is true that a camel can go seven days without water? If so, how can they do it?

Ans.—Yes, they can go seven days without water, but they begin to suffer from thirst after the fifth day. Camels are peculiarly endowed with a system of storing water which they can drink at intervals as needed.

Ques.—Is it true that William Howard Taft didn't believe in the Bible and that he was an Atheist?

Ans.—William Howard Taft was not an Atheist, but he denied the Bible as the inspired word of God. He was a Unitarian.

Ques.—Will you please state if shoes are ever made of actual kangaroo leather?

Ans.—It is a fact that kangaroo skin makes valuable leather for shoes, but whether shoes so branded are actually made of kangaroo leather depends upon the honesty of the persons who manufacture them and the merchants who sell them. Many imitations are on the market.

Ques.—I would like a little information as to whether Los Angeles is a seaport town?

Ans.—Los Angeles, Calif., proper is back about twenty-four miles from San Pedro Bay, but the city has been classed as a seaport town since 1909 when the towns of San Pedro and Wilmington were annexed to Los Angeles.

Ques.—To settle a dispute will you kindly tell me what is the correct pronunciation of these three words: "Piano," "Columb" and "Columb"?

Ans.—Piano is pronounced "poo-ano" with accent on the second syllable. Columb is pronounced "col-um," with accent on the first syllable. Besides the illiterate, "Columb" is sometimes pronounced "col-yim" erroneously by supposedly educated people.

Ques.—I would like to ask in your good question column who first organized the Boy Scouts?

Ans.—The Boy Scouts was the outgrowth of Seton-Thompson's "Woodcraft Indians," an organization which he founded in the United States in 1900. Boy Scouts now exist in every civilized country in the world. The organization had its origin in the British Isles, and was conceived by Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell.

Ques.—A friend of mine was describing the great White Horse in England. Can you tell me anything about it, or was it just his imagination?

Ans.—Your friend probably referred to the White Horse of Berkshire, which is a gigantic outline of a horse cut on the side of a Berkshire hill in England. The figure of the horse is 374 feet in length and is clearly visible for more than five miles. It was formed by removing the turf in order to show the white chalky subsoil. The origin of this landmark is not known, but it is claimed that Alfred the Great made it to commemorate a victory over the Danes in the year A. D. 871.

JOHN D. WATSON

Word has been received by relatives here of the death of John D. Watson, formerly of Chelsea, who passed away Friday, June 24, at Walla Walla, Washington. Mr. Watson had been in poor health for several months.

Mr. Watson was born in Unadilla, the son of Albert and Flora (Dunning) Watson. For several years he was employed as assistant cashier at the Chelsea Savings Bank, later entering into partnership with A. K. Welch in the Chelsea Manufacturing Co.

He was united in marriage to Marie C. Staplah and they resided in Chelsea until their departure for the west about 25 years ago. After spending a short time in Echo, Oregon, they moved to Walla Walla, which had since been their home.

Mr. Watson is survived by the widow, a daughter, Charles, at home; a son, John D., of Yakima, Wash., and a brother, Albert, of California. Funeral services were held Monday, with interment in Walla Walla.

Coal Formation

Coal is not a rock. It is a black or brownish black solid combustible mineral substance formed by the partial decomposition of vegetable matter, without free access of air, under the influence of moisture and, in many cases, of increased pressure and temperature.

FEATURES OF FINGER-TIP Hot Water Service

Gives you endless joy in hot baths without wait, smooth shaves, luxurious shampoos and the fine feeling of fitness that comes only from scrupulous personal cleanliness.

Operates faithfully without need of human attention or thought.

Saves hours of time, thousands of steps and all the extra rubbing and scrubbing that cold water makes necessary.

Gives you an abundance of hot water, stored automatically in advance of your demand and ready to flow instantly.

THEY upset the daily schedule, interfere with comfort and convenience—ruin many an otherwise sweet disposition—simply because the water heater fails to cooperate.

But whose fault is it? The poor old water heater does its feeble best—but like the invalid it is—needs constant watching and attention. That kind of hot water service went out of date years ago.

Modern hot water service is "finger-tip" hot water service—constantly ready, at the faucet—the kind of service you get from an automatic gas water heater. All at such trifling cost you'll wonder why you ever gave it a thought.

Give Your Scissors This Exercise

Madam! Do you know that it's clever to be a clipper? Here's a habit you can readily cultivate, and you'll find many of your best friends following it.

To become a clipper at one clip, so to speak, just see that the shears are handy when you sit down to read your newspaper. As you spot an advertisement of something that interests you—especially some item that you want to examine when you're shopping next time—clip out the notice and take it with you.

The merchants who advertise with us are glad to have you ask for specific merchandise. And sometimes it's helpful to refer to the advertisement when you're right in the store.

At all events, a clipping pinned to your shopping list helps you to remember this particular errand. It simplifies and shortens a shopping trip so much to know what you want and where to get it!

MILAN.—Citizens of Milan are warned not to become alarmed if they should happen to see some of the responsible business men of the community rushing toward the park some night along about dusk, armed with heavy clubs and dangerous looking bludgeons—he is not intent on murder, neither is he going to do bodily violence—he is just going to play soft ball. Excitement is running high. Four teams have been organized and four games a week are being played in the league composed of four teams representing four local business houses.—Leader.

Standard Oil Explains Michigan Gas Tax Case

To answer questions which Standard Oil representatives in this community are being asked, indicating much public interest, P. A. Raupagh, local manager for the company, yesterday gave out the following statement explaining the Standard Oil position in contesting in federal court claims brought against it by the Michigan authorities for certain gasoline taxes:

"The question at issue in the gasoline tax case now before the federal court is simply one of technical interpretation of the Michigan law, especially of those provisions governing deductions for evaporation and other losses.

"Insinuations circulated to some extent that the company deliberately evaded payment of the taxes are ridiculous. In the period involved Standard Oil has paid the state of Michigan $30,222,170 in gasoline taxes, covering every cent it believed to be due under a proper construction of the law. By comparison the amount of $744,421 in dispute is small, though naturally of importance both to the company and to the state.

"Standard Oil has been the leader of the nation-wide campaign against gasoline tax evasion and has spent thousands of dollars of its own money to aid state authorities in adequate enforcement of gasoline tax laws.

"The claims of the Michigan authorities are based on a new interpretation of the gasoline tax laws after acceptance for nearly five years of payments based on a different interpretation. The law says very plainly that 9 per cent shall be deducted for evaporation and loss.

The Attorney General and the Secretary of State have taken the position that deduction may be made for evaporation.

The company believes that the words 'and loss' in the statute provide for the other losses besides evaporation. Being compelled to pay the gasoline taxes long before it collects them from the public, the company loses interest on the money invested in the interval. It loses entirely taxes it has paid on gasoline sold on credit when the customer fails to pay. It loses the expense of collecting the taxes and accounting for them. These and many other losses, in addition to evaporation and shrinkage, bring the total loss up to the 8 per cent deduction prescribed, or more. There is also involved a question of whether the amounts handled by steamer and through port tank storage are taxable on the basis of the amount put in storage or the amount actually taken out for distribution in Michigan. Unless the latter basis is used, shipments via port storage will pay a higher tax than shipments entering the state via railway tank cars.

"These questions are technical. The courts must decide how they should be settled.

"The company's desire has been at all times to pay the gasoline taxes in strict compliance with the law. If the court holds that the company's understanding of the law has been incorrect, due amounts will gladly be made. It will be expected, however, that the new interpretation will then be similarly enforced against all companies doing business in the state, and not against Standard Oil alone."

Make It A Habit To Meet Your Business Friends Here

BETWEEN RUSH HOURS HE TALKS ABOUT OIL

"Cars are like salads," Alfred Kelly tells R. J. Casey, famous Chicago News reporter, in his camp restaurant at Madison, Wisconsin. "You've got to lubricate them. He gives Casey a recipe not found in the cook book. Outside, a Chrysler sedan waits to take him home."

An Interview by ROBERT J. CASEY Chicago Daily News Reporter

WHATEVER the cook books may say about the best lubricant for a skillet, many a student of the University of Wisconsin owes his morning flapjacks to something besides lard substitute.

Take the word of Alfred Kelly for it, and Mr. Kelly ought to know inasmuch as he is the compiler of the flapjacks.

Mr. Kelly runs a restaurant at 814 University Avenue, Madison, Wisconsin, opens his place early in the morning and is the last one to leave it at night. Between there and home he drives a Chrysler. "I got to using Iso-Via Oil because somebody told me it would let you start your car on cold winter mornings and wouldn't burn out on hot summer days," Mr. Kelly told his interviewer. "That point may not mean much to some people but it means everything to me. My garage isn't heated and many winters before I began to use Iso-Via I had trouble getting out of it. If my car stalls it means no breakfast for quite a lot of customers.

"I've driven this car 39,000 miles and I've never had any sort of engine trouble with it."

Mr. Kelly's 39,000 trouble-free miles prove again what Iso-Via has demonstrated in laboratory tests and in A. A. A. tests on the Indianapolis Speedway—Positive Lubrication Protection. Iso-Via (a Standard Oil product) will not thin out from dilution. See the Ball and Bottle Test at Standard Oil service stations and dealers.

HER FAREWELL

As a rose in freshest beauty, or a field of golden grain,
May be smitten by the hoar frost, by the blight, or by the rain;
At the very dawn of summer, as we look toward harvest days,
Comes the voice of God through sorrows, "Mine can hardly be your ways."

Like a rose in blushing beauty, in the fullest prime of life,
Came the Father to receive her, to an even fuller life;
How we miss her in the circle, where her loved ones gather now,
But she beckons us, "Come higher," to the mansions just beyond.

Yes, she wept at thought of parting, more for loved ones than for self,
And there at the gate we lingered, saying farewells, weeping hard;
Ah, that gate seemed so foreboding, but with partings done, ere long,
She could think no more of sorrows, for she heard yon angel song.

Once beyond the bars, no longer were there tears upon the cheeks,
But the brightness of fair heaven strengthens, whether strong or weak;
And kind Jesus gives us welcome with his words of blessing there,
Guides us to the promised mansion, mansion oh so white and fair!

Can we wonder that she bade us, each and all, a fond adieu,
Wept beyond the gate no longer, with her mansion all in view?
Can we wonder that she simply waved her hand to us and smiled,
Turned and went beyond with Jesus like a good, obedient child?

President Offers New Plan for Arms Reduction—Senator Borah's Refusal to Support Hoover—Pre-Convention Doings of Democrats.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

PRESIDENT HOOVER called the correspondents to the White House Wednesday and gave out his new plan for reducing the armed forces of the world by one-third, thereby saving between ten and fifteen billion dollars during the next ten years. At the same time he proposed a conference in Geneva by Hugh Gibson.

Hugh Gibson

As a basis the President laid down these five principles:

1. The Kellogg-Rand pact, to which we are all signatories, can only mean that the nations of the world have agreed that they will use their arms solely for defense.
2. This reduction should be carried out not only by broad general cuts in armaments, but by increasing the comparative power of defense through decrease in the power of the attack.
3. The armaments of the world have grown up in general mutual relation to each other. And, speaking generally, such reduction should be preserved in making reductions.
4. The reductions must be real and not merely nominal.
5. There are three problems to deal with—land forces, air forces and naval forces. They are all interconnected. No other part of the proposals which make can be dissociated one from the other.

Upon this foundation he proposed:

1. Abolition of all tanks, chemical warfare and large mobile guns.
2. Reduction of one third in the strength of all land armies over and above the so-called police component.
3. The abolition of all bombing planes and the "total prohibition of all bombardment from the air."
4. Reduction in the treaty number and tonnage of all battleships by one-third.
5. Reduction in the treaty tonnage of aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers by one-fourth and of submarines by one-third, with no nation having more than 35,000 tons of submarines.

It was said authoritatively that Mr. Hoover's plan had the full approval of Secretaries Stimson, Hurley and Adams, the chief of staff of the army, the chief of naval operations and the entire American delegation in Geneva.

When Ambassador Gibson read the President's proposals to the Geneva conference the British seemed to give their cautious general approval, but the French were frankly hostile.

Premier Herriot said: "This is absolutely unacceptable. France again will have the question of security." The Germans and Italians both liked the Hoover plan.

Hurley and nearly all the smaller nations represented at Geneva let Mr. Gibson know at once that the proposal pleased them.

It was emphatically denied in Washington that the United States had made any suggestions of war debt reduction or cancellation in return for reduction in armaments.

SENATOR WILLIAM B. BORAH of Idaho can safely be counted upon to deliver the news at frequent intervals. He again furnished a "major topic of conversation" when, during a denunciation speech on the Republican platform, he flatly informed his fellow senators and world that he would not support President Hoover for re-election.

The gentleman from Idaho is extremely dry and he cannot stomach even the moderately moist plank which the Republican convention adopted. His conscience, rather than the party leaders, ever has been Borah's guide, and his action in this instance cannot be called inconsistent. The proposed revision of the Eighteenth Amendment, he declared, is equivalent to repeal. He denounced all mudslinging and compromise, laying down the issue as one demanding a clear cut choice between the status quo and outright repeal. He asserted that a great majority in the Republican convention were in favor of repeal but were dissuaded by the administration forces.

Senator George Norris of Nebraska, a dry Republican who often leaves his party lines, was pleased with Borah's statement, saying that now he, Norris, would not be the only renegade this fall. Later he made the surprising statement that he believed the United States must try some modified plan of dealing with the liquor question.

To the press Senator Borah said that if he had written the Republican prohibition plank it would have contained no resubmission proposal for either revision or repeal. It would, instead, have informed the country that the only constitutional method of change was through the election of members of congress pledged to submit a repeal amendment to the states.

AS THE Democrats gathered in Chicago for their national convention it became apparent that a great number of them, probably a majority, were in favor of a prohibition plank simpler and more explicit than that in the Republican platform. Most of those who had anything to say on the question wanted a resolution proposing that congress submit an amendment repealing the Eighteenth Amendment, but not declaring that the party is in favor of repeal. This, it was felt, would be a safe course, and it was the opinion of Joseph Shouse and others that such a plank would be adopted. In Washington it received the endorsement of Senators Carter Glass of Virginia and Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas.

Speaker John Garner of Texas, one of the candidates for the Presidential nomination, issued a prepared statement making an unequivocal demand for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, which he said he never had believed sound or workable; and this was declared by other Democratic leaders to clinch the repeal plank. Garner's statement also was taken as a bid for the support of Al Smith and the attack who were determined to prevent the nomination of Governor Roosevelt. In any event, it was believed, it hurt the chances of Roosevelt's being nominated in the early ballots.

Al Smith, on his arrival in Chicago, announced that he was for a repeal plank, and for himself as the nominee, first, last and all the time.

INDIANA Democrats in state convention unanimously adopted a plank calling on congress to submit to the states an amendment to the constitution repealing the Eighteenth Amendment and cutting off immediately repeal of the "bone dry" state law. It declared for state laws to prevent return of the saloon and for state control of the liquor traffic.

Paul V. McNutt was nominated for governor and Frederick Van Nuys of Indianapolis for United States senator. Van Nuys was introduced as "the man who can beat Jim Watson."

Franchises of the Republican, Democratic and Farmer-Labor parties were held in Minnesota. For the nine seats in congress most of the leaders in the race were classed as wets. In Maine the Democrats nominated Louis J. Brann, wet for governor, and the Republicans picked Burell Martin who is supposed to be a dry.

ROOSEVELT'S managers were by any account undismayed by any late developments and continued to predict victory on the first ballot or soon after. It was concluded by all that the governor would have enough delegates to organize the committee, and might even go to the length of trying to abrogate the old, two-thirds rule. The chief preliminary battle was to be over the selection of a permanent chairman, the Roosevelt forces insisting that Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana should be substituted for Joseph Shouse, who had been recommended for the position by the arrangements committee, and who was one of the Smith-Hoback group.

To present his name to the convention Governor Roosevelt selected John E. Mack, New York attorney and gentleman farmer, who was Roosevelt's political godfather when he first stood for public office 22 years ago. Mr. Mack is famous at home for oratory that appeals to the "common people."

He is not a member of Tammany, and as he was not one of the New York delegates, room had to be made for him in the delegation.

RIGHT in the middle of all the excitement over the prize fight between Max Schmeling of Germany, world's heavyweight champion, and Jack Sharkey of Boston, challenger for the title. The combat took place in a new "howl" on Long Island and attracted about 70,000 spectators. Many millions heard it described by radio. For 15 rounds the warriors fought warily, with never a knockdown, and then to the surprise of nearly everyone, including Sharkey himself, the Bostonian was declared the winner. Gene Tunney, former champion, and a majority of the sporting writers present agreed that it was an unfair decision. The general opinion was that Schmeling had won eight rounds, Sharkey four, and one was a draw. Judge George Kelly and Referee Gunboat Smith voted for Sharkey, Charles Mathison, the other judge, voted for Max. Jack himself thought he had lost and started for the German's corner to congratulate him.

JUST one month from the time she started on her solo flight to Ireland, Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam returned to New York and was given one of the characteristic receptions of the metropolis. All the big guns of the city were out to meet her, vast crowds swarmed along the route of the procession and the air was filled with ticker tape. At city hall, plaza the formal ceremonies took place, Mayor Walker presiding, the intrepid young woman—the gold medal of the city, while others loaded her down with roses. In Bryant park she received the cross of honor of the United States Flag association. Next day Mrs. Putnam flew to Washington, where President Hoover received her and presented to her the medal of the National Geographic society. Toward the close of the week she was in Chicago as a guest at the Washington bicentennial military tournament.

Through it all Mrs. Putnam won increased admiration by her modesty and her futile efforts to belittle her achievement. She blushed deeply when Mr. Hoover said that she deserved to be placed in spirit with the great pioneering women to whom every generation of Americans has looked up to with admiration.

CONGRESS made some progress with its work, but it was believed it would not be able to adjourn before July 2. The house passed the economy bill after adopting the administration plan for payless touring for federal employees and combining with it a cut in salaries of 10 per cent for members of congress and 15 per cent for the Vice President and the speaker of the house. The President and members of the Supreme court are invited to return part of their salaries to the treasury.

Although inflated to raise enough money to balance the budget, the measure still fell between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 short of the savings needed for the balancing of next year's budget. The size of the gap depended mainly on reductions to be made in the department supply bills that were still before congress.

The senate passed the Wagner Federal loan and construction relief bill after adding to the measure the Wagner $300,000,000 direct relief bill which it had already passed and which was pending in the house. The combined measure covers $2,200,000,000 for relief projects, divided as follows:

- For loans to states for the direct relief of the unemployed (the first Wagner bill), $300,000,000; for federal construction projects, $500,000,000; for loans to states and their political subdivisions and to private corporations for public, self-liquidating projects, as toll bridges, tunnels, water works, and canals, $1,400,000,000; for financing agricultural exports, $400,000,000.

HALF a million people from twenty-five nations gathered in Dublin for the thirty-first international Eucharistic congress, and the Irish capital enjoyed the great religious jubilation to the utmost. The protracted could hold only 2,400, but the throngs massed outside were enabled to hear the speeches and songs through loud speakers.

The procession, forming across the street in a school made temporarily a robing room, was led by Bishop Heylen of Namur, the president of the permanent congress committee. He followed by Archbishop Byrne of Dublin, sponsor of this congress; by Cardinal Lauri, the papal legate, and then by the ten other cardinals and their suites.

Archbishop Byrne, as sponsor of the congress, was the first speaker on the opening program, followed by Bishop Heylen and the papal legate. On succeeding days there were high masses, sectional meetings and a great mass gathering in Phoenix park.

CARLOS DAVILA, restored to the headship of the junta ruling Chile, was sick abed, but his associates were taking strong measures to suppress the latest attempt of the Communists to get control of the government. There was considerable rioting in which some men were killed, and the Reds tried to rescue Col. Marinaduke Grove, the extreme radical who for a short time had displaced Davila and was then made prisoner and started on the way to exile on lonely Juan Fernandez Island.

The ruling Socialist junta outlawed Communist agitation by decree, with exile, imprisonment or fines as the punishment for attempts to foment trouble. The garrison commander in Santiago issued a drastic set of martial law regulations to end the violence and unrest, and ordered that agitators guilty of rebellion, blinding or molesting authorities should be shot.

Governor Roosevelt transmitted to Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York City a copy of the charges made against the latter by Samuel Seabury and two citizens' organizations, and called on him to reply to them. The mayor answered that he was going to the national convention in Chicago and would take up the matter after his return.

Vast Tracts Set Apart as Gorilla Sanctuaries

The gorilla, alone among animals, has a country.

A 100-square-mile area in the heart of Africa constitutes Gorilla land—essentially a gorilla nation under a Belgian protectorate. Within this country, from which outsiders are excluded rigidly unless they are on scientific expeditions which meet the approval of the Belgian government, the great apes, who generally are recognized as man's closest relatives on earth, are free to manage their own affairs and select their own mates.

They are given prompter protection than is accorded any aboriginal tribe. They are immune from hunters and collectors.

This is one of the two places on earth where the gorilla still is found. The other area is a mountainous stretch of the British Cameroon region of West Africa. Here, although there is no special administrative provision for gorillas, the animals are protected by the most stringent laws, and it is doubtful whether the British government would allow the killing or capture of one of them under any circumstances.

There are only two or three thousand gorillas, at the most, in the world. Gorilla land has a population of only about 1,000. In the past the great apes, who breed very slowly, have been slaughtered ruthlessly. Few have been brought into captivity. It would be impossible to capture an adult, and the capture of an infant usually has been possible only by the slaughter of the whole family. Father, mother and children stick together when danger threatens.

Fruit of the East

In size the lychee is about that of a strawberry or small English walnut. The shape more nearly resembles that of the strawberry, however. When fresh the skin has the toughness of a thick-skinned grape. It is eaten like a grape, too—the pulp being removed after the skin is broken. When dried, though, the skin snaps open with the brittleness of our paper-shelled almonds. The dried fruit resembles a raisin.

ing should be used, but never the flag. When displayed over the middle of the street, the flag should be suspended vertically with the union to the north in an east and west street or to the east in a north and south street.

When used on a speaker's platform, the flag if displayed flat should be displayed above and behind the speaker. It should never be used to cover the speaker's desk nor to drape over the front of the platform. If flown from a staff it should be in position of honor at the speaker's right.

When used in connection with the unveiling of a statue or monument the flag should not be allowed to fall to the ground but should form a distinctive feature during the ceremony.

When flown at half-staff, the flag should be hoisted to the peak for an instant and then lowered to the half-staff position, but before lowering the flag for the day it should be raised again to the peak. By half-staff is meant hauling down the flag to one-half the distance between the top and the bottom of the staff. If local conditions require divergence from this position is permissible. On Memorial Day, May 30, the flag is displayed at half-staff from sunrise until noon and at full-staff from noon until sunset, for the Nation lives, and the flag is the symbol of the living Nation.

Flags flown from fixed staffs are placed at half-staff to indicate mourning. When the flag is displayed on a small staff, as when carried in a parade, mourning is indicated by attaching two streamers of black crepe to the spear head, allowing the streamers to fall naturally. Crepe is used on the flag-staff only by order of the President.

When used to cover a casket, the flag should be placed so that the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The flag should not be lowered into the grave nor allowed to touch the ground. The casket should be carried foot first.

When the flag is displayed in the body of the church, it should be from a staff placed in the position of honor on the congregation's right as they face the clergyman. The service flag, the State flag or other flags should be at the left of the congregation. If in the chapel, or on the platform the flag of the United States should be placed at the clergyman's right on the platform as he faces the congregation and the other flags at his left.
