Department of State
WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 1.—Michigan business showed only a very slight reduction during the past year, Department of State records show. An analysis of statistics of the corporation division of the department disclosed that the reduction was far less than was expected.

On Aug. 25, 1931, a total of 4,422 corporations had paid their annual privilege taxes amounting to $1,166,310. This averages about $260 per company. On the same date this year, 3,833 corporations had paid $898,101 in privilege taxes or $234 per company.

While annual corporation reports should have been filed with the department before Sept. 1, the law allows a 10-day period in which the reports can be filed without penalty. All corporations which fail to file by Sept. 10 automatically lose the right to transact business legally until the irregularities have been corrected.

A saving of at least $10,000 will be effected by the Department of State in 1933 through the use of new automobile plate application blank forms.

Because of "hit or miss" location of names, serial and motor numbers on the old blanks, it is estimated that about 20 per cent of the blanks were spoiled and wasted. A rearrangement of the questions on the 1933 blanks will eliminate this wastage, it is believed. Instead of the 2,200,000 blanks used in 1932, but 2,000,000 have been ordered for next year, and it is likely this figure will be further reduced.

House and senate journals, containing the official acts of the 1932 special session of the legislature, can be purchased from the Department of State for $2 per set. The journals have been indexed in the same manner as the journals of the regular session of 1931.

Folly of Anger
Anger is the most impotent passion that accompanies the mind of man; it effects nothing it goes about and hurts the man who is possessed by it more than any other against whom it is directed.—Clarendon.

CANDIDATES WARNED ABOUT
POSTING POLITICAL SIGNS

The Washtenaw County Board of Road Commissioners have made their perennial plea to candidates of all political parties not to litter the highways of this county with their advertising signs.

The attention of all citizens is invited to the State Law prohibiting such practice. This law states that "No person, firm or corporation shall erect or cause to be erected on or along any highway any sign, guide post, marker or advertising device, and no sign, marker or advertising device shall be painted upon, attached to or made to form a part of any fence, building, rock or other surface that marks, or is on the line of, the highway right of way."

The placing of any sign upon trees or shrubs is expressly prohibited and is covered in the law by a separate Act of the Legislature.

The cooperation received in the past has been appreciated and a like attitude is desired this year particularly due to reduced budgets, which are called upon to carry the expense of removing all unauthorized advertising.

BROOKLYN — Interest in the Brooklyn Business Men's picnic does not dim nor diminish. The 26th annual event at Eagle Point last Thursday well proved the point. It was a big and successful picnic from start to finish. The crowd, estimated at 1600, came early and had a good time all day. The morning started cool but before noon the sun had brought the right temperature.—Exponent.

HOWELL—When it comes to farming we tip our hats to John Slider of Oak Grove. And here is the reason. John threshed 167 1-2 bushels of wheat from a field lacking four rods of being 6 1-2 acres. The crop was self sowed. Mr. Slider never plowing a furrow, or sowing a kernel of seed. Can you better that record for either a wheat crop or an unbeatable method of farming?—Republican-Press.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—May I ask in your question column if Herbert Hoover is a 33rd degree Mason?

Ans.—Herbert Hoover is not a Mason at all.

Ques.—I am writing to ask in your question column why the sign "lb." means "pound."

Ans.—"lb." is the Latin abbreviation for "libra," which means "pound."

Ques.—I am told that it is unlawful to rent a postoffice box and receive mail under an assumed name. Is that the truth?

Ans.—No. It is not unlawful to rent a postoffice box to receive mail under an assumed name, providing no fraud is meant or intended.

Ques.—Will you please answer in the question department of your paper if a foreign-born person with American parents could be president of the United States?

Ans.—A foreign-born person whose parents were citizens of the United States, is eligible to the presidency.

Ques.—Who was it that shot William McKinley, and what was his motive?

Ans.—Leon Czolgosz shot McKinley while the latter was holding a reception at Buffalo, N. Y. He stated he shot the president because he belonged to an organization which believed in the assassination of all rulers.

Ques.—I am curious to know what the "black hand" is and what it means.

Ans.—The "Black Hand" was the name of a society of anarchists in Spain. They were suppressed in 1883. Then the Mafia, a similar organization sprung up in Italy, but they were suppressed by the Fascists. "Black hand" in this country is applied to groups of men who secretly organize for vengeance or blackmail.

Ques.—What causes whales to spout water high into the air with their nostrils?

Ans.—Whales do not spout water from their nostrils. In fact they do not spout water at all. Whales are mammals and have lungs. Hence they must come to the surface to breathe at intervals of about half an hour. When they come to the surface for this purpose they blow the air from their lungs with great force. The moisture in the whale's breath condenses upon contact with the cooler atmosphere and gives the appearance of a stream of water.

Ques.—If the people vote for presidential electors instead of president direct, will you tell me when and where the electors meet?

Ans.—While we do not vote direct for president, the electors of the various states are duty bound to cast their ballot for the nominee at the head of their party ticket unless something in the meantime reveals he is not qualified. This circumstance has never occurred. The electors meet in Washington on the first Wednesday in January following the November election.

Ques.—I would like to know how the state of Connecticut got the name of "Nutmeg State." Can you tell me in the questions and answers?

Ans.—A Nova Scotia writer wrote "Sam Slick" stories, and about the year 1840 he invented the story that the Connecticut Yankees were so shrewd in business that they made nutmegs of wood and sold them as genuine nutmegs. The idea was too absurd and ridiculous to be treated seriously, hence in a joke Connecticut was called the "nutmeg state."

Ques.—Who was it that gave Stonewall Jackson the name of "Stonewall"?

Ans.—At the first battle of Bull Run on July 2, 1861, Gen. Barnard E. Bee complained to Jackson that "the Yanks were beating them back." Jackson replied: "We will give them the bayonet." Bee galloped back to his command and shouted: "Look, boys, there stands Jackson like a stone wall." His men rallied and fought doggedly until the Federals were completely routed. However, Bee fell mortally wounded and died the next day. Thereafter Jackson was known as "Stonewall" Jackson.

JAMES E. LAWSON MAKES CAMPAIGN STATEMENT

James E. Lawson of Royal Oak, candidate for re-election to the State Senate, makes the following statement:

In announcing myself as a candidate for the second term in the State Senate, I desire to make this statement. In the eight years that I have served in the House and Senate, no legislation known to me as detrimental to my district has ever been passed and all important legislation sponsored by me has been passed. All legislation serving the best interests of my district, no matter by whom initiated, has had my support and most of it has been enacted into law.

The securing of good legislation and the defeating of bad legislation for your people is not done so much through public utterance and paper statements as it is by personal work with the various members of the legislature. This I am able to do because of my association with the members of the legislature for several seasons, knowing over seventy-five per cent of them intimately.

During the special session in which my district's interests were so vitally concerned, I took a firm stand in insisting that the entire weight tax be returned to the counties. As the bill was originally drafted, the $2,000,000 in 1933 to $4,000,000 in 1935 for township roads was to be taken out of the weight tax. I fought most earnestly to have this money taken out of the gas tax and won the fight. Through this action, my county and district will receive hundreds of thousands of dollars more than under the bill as first drafted.

I am familiar with the tax problems of my district and my state.

No one is more familiar with and anxious to relieve our farmers of their terrible road obligations.

No one is more in sympathy with the owner of real estate (for that is all I possess) and the reduction of his taxes than I am.

To the extent that people feel that I have at all times in the past represented them honestly, faithfully and earnestly and to the extent that they desire unselfish service, I solicit and shall deeply appreciate their support.

Altogether Animals

Since it is purely an animal product, since it is a secretion from silkworms, or the larvae of silkworms, from which they spin their cocoons.

BRIGHTON—Brighton people will be glad to learn that the Rev. M. H. That "Comfortable Feeling" Every Day

If your checking account balance is always up to the comfort point, the thought of it through the day is something like a tonic.

And why shouldn't you enjoy the feeling? For the average person it is really just as easy to keep a nice little balance ALL THE TIME as to let the balance slip every few days toward the zero and anxiety.

Think of the comfort and satisfaction which the knowledge of that margin at the bank gives you all through the year. It is hard to name another satisfaction so inexpensively bought.

Why We Behave Like Human Beings

By GEORGE DORSEY, Ph.D., LL.D.

The Failure Third Degree

A LL processes of thought function through reflex arcs which become conditioned, especially in childhood, and which tend to become habits. We learn to think logically just as we learn to speak correctly or to behave decently. I may think well, I may behave well—who shall say? My way of behaving and my way of thinking are my ways; the ways I have learned—they are my methods of response to certain stimuli in certain situations. I may change both tomorrow; some one is always inventing new ways of adjustment, new ways to excite human protoplasm to change its shaving soap.

New thought also, why not? We have new foods, new scandals, new songs, new elements, new logic, new things to think about. The new grows out of the old as corn grows out of wild grass, or as a submarine grows out of endless discarded models, or as chemistry grows out of alchemy, or as a poem grows out of trying-out of word combinations. Trial and error.

The point is that there is no thought without muscular or glandular activity; this is true whether the stomach thinks hunger, the dreamer thinks air-castles, the prisoner thinks freedom, or the maiden thinks of her lover. Thinking is a bodily act, as is coughing or scratching one's head. During thinking energy is consumed, mechanism is involved; and, as a rule, the whole body is interested and is listening in.

Can we listen in, can we read thought as we can test blood? Only when we can see it, as poem, as picture, on the golf links, behind the counter, at the ballot box. By works, overt and explicit action. Money talks also.

Put suppose no money is forthcoming, how can we know what he thinks about it? Overt explicit behavior is easily enough detected and is often of less consequence than the implicit response. I ask you to lend me five dollars. You hand it over. That is an explicit act. But your implicit reaction may be of far greater consequence to me: you may think me a cheap skate and decide to cut me from your list. As you give no sign of such resolve, I cannot know that my "Lend me" has cost me much.

Many methods have been tried out to read minds that would not be read, to detect an implicit response where the overt side had only been suspected. All these methods go on the justifiable assumption that what the individual does registers in the individual dynamic mechanism. Apply the proper test: the mechanism will yield its secret.

An extreme case will illustrate the methods. Suppose I return unexpectedly to my store some night, discover my partner in some questionable act. We quarrel. And I kill him. Then cut his body up and dispose of it. In the furnace—an extraordinarily difficult thing to do, but just suppose that I succeed.

The anger which prompts murder is an emotional impulse. There will be occasions and situations in which I shall have to be a man of iron to keep my emotions from betraying me. Charged with the crime, they might lead to changes in my respiration and vasomotor organization, even to increased sugar in my blood and urine.

Or in my reactions to words. Words worth has devised an emotional questionary to serve to detect implicit behavior. There are two types of word reactions: the free; the continuous. In the free, words are fired at the subject one at a time. He is to reply with the first word that pops into his head suggested by the word used: bull-moose; rat-trap; pen-ink; tea-pot; dome; etc. Then comes a word which brings no response from me, or I am unusually long in reacting to it, or too quick.

The continuous type throws all the work on the subject investigated. Only one word is shot at him: he is to reply to his own replies. One word will suggest another; until the subject stops—blocked, as it were. Then a new word is given to start the subject off again. And again he seems to run out of words, is blocked. Do the lines converge? Do I always stop short of "murder" or "furnace," or chopping up a human body? Is my free association of words shorn of its freedom wherever and whenever I approach a word which suggests the emotion or the deed? I am trying to conceal?

Dreams also may yield valuable clues to the nature of personal stress and general emotional life. Also postures, attitude, over and under reactions, poor adjustments, slips of word on pen, fumbling over names. But clues only. More often the "tests" fall completely—though they may lead to confession.

Conscience does make cowards of us all and hush, keeps us straight or crooked; fear of consequences makes us cover our tracks.

"Reading the mind" is a figure of speech. The cashier of the First National may be a good reader of counterfeit money. I dump a bag of cowrie shells on his desk. Cowrie shells are money in some parts of the world. Some of my cowries are counterfeit. Can he read them?

SPLENDOR OF MILITARY SCHOOL SHOWN IN FILM AT PRINCESS

The color and splendor of one of the country's greatest military schools forms the background for "Tom Brown of Culver," the highly interesting Universal drama which will be shown at the Princess Theatre, Wednesday, September 8.

Much of the picture was filmed at the Culver Military Academy in Indiana, and there are inspiring scenes of almost a thousand cadets marching as units of infantry, artillery and cavalry. In these picturesque surroundings is told a story which is always filled with interest, and at times with a quality of drama that grips the spectator.

Tom Brown, a young man of 19, plays the title role, and he acquires himself in a manner which stamps him as an actor of unusual ability. H. B. Warner is, as always, excellent in his role as the boy's father, and Slim Summerville is his usual jovial self as the ex-sergeant who is still reliving his part in the Great War. Others who do good work are Ben Alexander, Richard Cromwell, Tyrone Power, Jr., Dick Winslow, Kit Guard, Sidney Toler, Willard Robertson and Dick Winslow, while William Wyler must be credited with an outstanding job as the director of the picture.

SHARON

Floyd Niles and family spent Sunday with Mrs. Niles' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Fletcher, near Grass Lake.

Mahlon Ellis and family of Platt were Sunday visitors at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Ellis.

Ralph Davidson, Geraldine Gardner, Neva and Leon Sperry are attending high school in Grass Lake this year. School opened Monday morning.

A large number of relatives and friends attended the funeral services of the late Mrs. Alice Lehman last Wednesday afternoon at the Community church. Burial was at the Vermont cemetery. Mrs. Lehman will be sadly missed by the entire community.

The Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. Elmer Ahrens at her home near Pleasant Lake last Thursday. A pot luck supper was served.

BOARD OF EDUCATION ANNOUNCEMENTS

The following regulation regarding leaves of absence for teachers has been adopted by the Board of Education:

Each teacher shall be entitled to 10 half-days leave of absence throughout the school year, if such absence is occasioned by the illness of the teacher or by illness or death in the immediate family of the teacher. However, no two half-days of leave shall be consecutive. The teacher will receive full pay for the periods of official leave but no pay for additional absences. For example, let us assume that a teacher who has been teaching regularly is prevented by illness from appearing for duty on the first three days of a school week. She would be paid in full for Monday morning, Tuesday morning and Wednesday morning, but would receive no pay for the afternoons of any of these days. After ten half-days of leave have been used up, no pay will be received for periods of absence, regardless of their cause or duration. It should be noted that when a teacher is absent for reasons other than illness or death, or for the performance of official duty elsewhere, that teacher receives no pay for any part of the period of absence. The rate of payment for substitute teachers employed during the absence of the regular teacher shall be $17.50 per half-day.

The greatest of our educational leaders are agreed that vast importance attaches to a practical plan for the securing by teachers of what is termed "training in service." By this term is meant a definite program of professional advancement during the course of the regular school year.

In order that a useful plan along this line may be carried out during the coming year in Chelsea, the superintendent has tentatively arranged a schedule of weekly teachers' meetings. The proposal is to have all of the teachers meet at 3:45 on the first Wednesday afternoon of each school month for a general round table discussion of problems of common concern that have arisen in the local school system. At the same hour on the second Wednesday of each month the teachers in the elementary school will meet for a study of matters that are particularly important to teachers of the common branches. As a basis for this study the group will use a book by Professor Pyle of the Detroit Teachers College entitled, "The Psychology of the Common Branches."

On the third Wednesday the entire staff will again gather together, this time for a study of Character Education. The discussions in these meetings will be based upon a book by Professor and Mrs. Gernane of the University of Missouri entitled, "Education for Character." On the fourth Wednesday the meetings will be for teachers of the Jr.-Sr. High School grades. Their special subject for consideration will be methods of teaching such as well as child-bearing, pays me discussion they will use a book by Professor Morrison of the University of Chicago entitled, "The Practice of Teaching in the Secondary School."

It is sincerely hoped that the program of teachers' meetings will be a source of profit to the teachers individually and it is believed that such a systematic plan should prove indirectly valuable to the pupils of every grade. An increase in professional consciousness and an addition to professional knowledge will certainly serve to make a teacher more effective in the teaching process.

The first day of the regular school year for the Chelsea Public Schools will be Monday, September 12. Inasmuch as many other schools in this section of the State will begin their year during the week preceding the above date, a considerable advantage would be gained by these schools in the matter of football practice unless some special provision were made to take care of this item. Hence Coach Thayer has consented to spend his afternoons in Chelsea on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 6-9. At two o'clock on the afternoon of Tuesday, September 6, football equipment will be issued from the athletic storeroom in the High School Building to boys who report at that hour and who will promise to attend practices during the four afternoons mentioned above.

As a means of protecting the floors in the various school buildings, notice is hereby given that no student will be allowed to enter any of the buildings wearing shoes which are equipped with metal plates on the soles or heels. As a further safeguard against injury to floors and articles of furniture, there is hereby established a prohibition against students bringing into the school building any chewing gum or tobacco. This regulation is not intended for the purpose of directing the personal habits of students. Its intention is not to condemn on general principles either chewing gum or tobacco. However, it is certain that if either of these items is made use of inside the school buildings a degree of damage to the school property is sure to result. Abandoned chewing gum is frequently parked either on the floor or on desks. From tobacco there is the hazard of fire and the annoyance of stain and other disfigurement to floors and furniture.

At this date, prior to the first assembly of students for the approaching year, an announcement is being made of the general disciplinary regulations which will be in force throughout the school year. The volume and kinds of disciplinary rules that a school must have depend entirely upon the quality of citizenship of the student body. As a starting point we are establishing only two rules and we sincerely hope that it will never be necessary to add any others to this list. This, however, will, as suggested above, be determined entirely by the standard of personal conduct that the students themselves exhibit from day to day. The two fundamental rules of conduct which we desire that the student shall have in mind when he comes to school the first day are as follows:

1. Every student will be expected to conduct himself or herself according to the manner of ladies and gentlemen.

2. The conduct of every student must be such that there is no trespass upon the rights of others.

High school students may purchase their textbooks at the office of the superintendent any day next week. It is hoped that all students will have a full supply of books before the opening day arrives, so that none of that day will have to be devoted to the sale of books. Any student, however, who finds it impossible to secure books before Monday, September 12, may buy them on that day.

What Is The Fundamental Purpose Of The American Public School System?

A Digest of a Series of Articles by William McAndrew, Formerly Superintendent of the Chicago Public Schools, in "The Nation's Schools," September, 1930 to February, 1931.

By Earl Y. Poore, Superintendent, Chelsea Public Schools.

conclude that my main duty as a superintendent is to get our schools away from traditional and secondary pursuits into the active and direct training of the generation for civic, political duty, not as a by-product of the whole community, unimportant as well as child-bearing, pays me I must do my best to make sure that every teacher in every room is so conducting her work as to contribute toward this end.

One of education's greatest leaders, Prof. M. V. O'Shea, has this to say: "You can get practically all the conditions of a community in a school, and it is so much more simple than the adult organization of government that it should be the training ground for civic, social action. Subservience to authority imposed from above tends to make children run wild. They should be guided to form courts and laws. There is nothing so effective towards good government as the whole period of school life should be a practice in democratic society."

If you ask the next person you meet on the street this question: What are you doing for this community? you would probably get the stock answer: I'm being good. This means so much that it means nothing at all. Children in our schools must be taught aggressive citizenship. The enemies of their welfare are not passive. The kidnapper is not passive. The thief who breaks into business houses at night and the one who visits the chickenhouse while the rural family does its trading in town is not passive. These foes of society are alert, watchful, aggressive. Those persons who stand for law and order, for decent living, for safety of children, for wholesome social life—these citizens must match the efforts of their enemies with equal or superior alertness. The public school must be a place where children learn to respect the rights of others and learn to like it.

Whatever may be your ideas regarding the purpose of the school as a public corporation, it is certain that you can afford to ponder this question: Is the public school in my community turning out a product that makes my community better each year? It is my job to make it possible for you to answer this question in the affirmative.

KNOW YOUR SCHOOLS? The public school system is the property of the public. You can exercise your duty and privilege of participating intelligently in its management by getting thoroughly acquainted with it. We shall help you as much as possible by placing facts before you in the newspaper. But your best impressions are gained by actual contact with the institution in its everyday work. I have no illusions about my position as the educational leader in this community. I recognize that I am fallible, subject to mistakes. I realize that my aggressiveness annoys some people. I am fully aware that some citizens do not like me. But I am a servant of the whole public, and my guiding purpose is to make this school system a real force for the betterment of this community. If you agree with my policies and my methods of carrying them out, tell me so, and let me know that you recognize the worth of my efforts. On the other hand, if you sincerely doubt the wisdom of the things I do and the ideals that guide me, then I invite your criticism. But, whether you agree or disagree with the management of the schools, I am not asking that you tell others about it. Tell yourself in regard to that. Tell me about it. That, I believe, is a fair and reasonable request. And in that way you can be helpful.

KNOW YOUR SCHOOLS? Know them by seeing them in action.

MANCHESTER—According to reports the remains of Chief Tecumseh were secretly buried here and there by an Indian delegation by the tribe to look after them. Whenever he became afraid that some enemy had discovered the hiding place, he would secretly dig them up and carry them to another hiding place. It is now reported that they will be finally interred on Walpole Island, in the mouth of the eastern part of Lake St. Clair, in Canada. Years ago it was reported that Tecumseh was buried in the hillside on Little Wolf Lake, on the Kerr farm in sight of the Siam schoolhouse. And some old residents claimed to know when it was taken from there, but where the Indians took it they never learned. —Enterprise.

DEXTER—O. B. McLaughlin of Chelsea has purchased the property on Ann Arbor street owned by John Knope and will erect a modern service station on the lot. The work of razing the residence started last Friday. The building, which stood next to the Dexter opera house, was built many years ago and was an old landmark. —Leader.

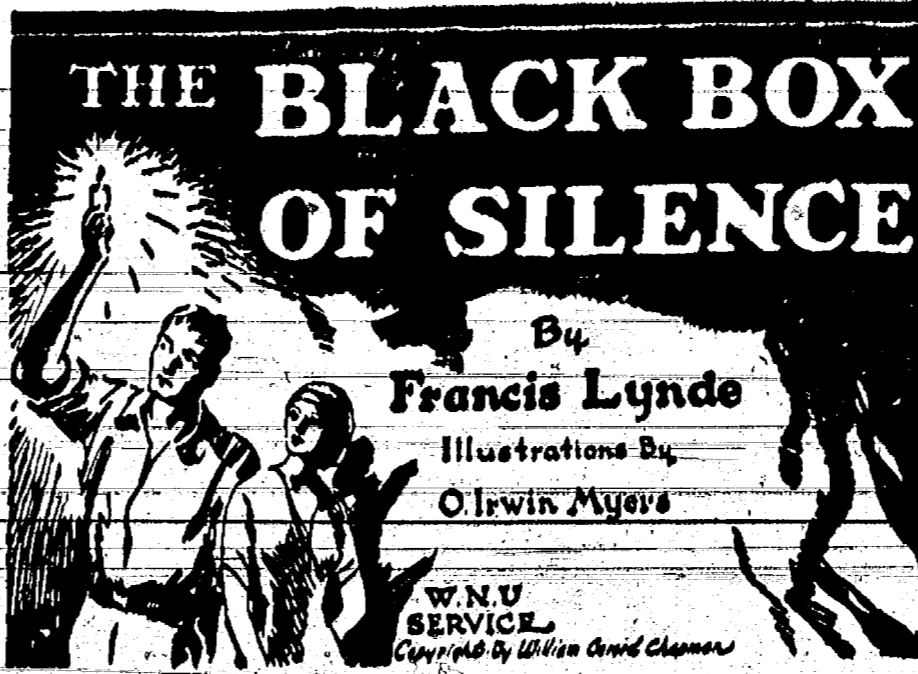

PINCKNEY—For a number of years Wayne Atley, who has been spending his summers at Highland Lake, has conducted a factory in Detroit which manufactured a contrivance for closing secret doors. Mr. Atley, we believe, holds a patent on this device. This factory is being moved to Pinckney and will be operated in the basement of Slayton and Son's garage. Production starts about January 1 and two or three men will be employed. Mr. Atley, several years ago, purchased the Hermon-Lacey farm near Highland Lake which he remodeled into a summer home. —Dispatch.

MASON—Several Mason men are planning to attend the annual encampment of veterans of the Spanish-American war, the reunion to be held at Island Lake near Brighton on Sunday, September 4. Island Lake was the mobilization point for Michigan regiments in 1898. The old camp grounds are now a part of the Island Lake state park. —News.

SOUTH LYON—We've some real honest-to-gosh farmers in this neck of the woods, judging by the crops they are raising. For the past couple of weeks we've been publishing an average of grain harvest of two prosperous farmers. Now comes Charles Cash who says he can go them one better as his barley crop this year averaged 54 1/2 bushels to the acre. Who can improve on that, we'd like to know. —Herald.

CROSWELL—It has become the popular diversion to blame all our ills to the 14th amendment, though some are ridiculous in their claims. The latest we have heard is that the tendency for immediate styles in dress is attributed to prohibition. It sounds ridiculous to us, and if it can be proven that this is a fact, though we have never gone on record in favor of repeal, we will do so in proof that the 14th amendment is responsible for the wearing of totem-pole figured pants. Jamaica outfits now being worn by our fair sex. —Jeffersonian.

But the fact remains that we've been right on the heels of some bunch that has been running with these country-town bunks, and doing it with the help of something that blows out noise. "Well, where does that leave us?" "Pretty well up in the air, I'll have to admit. We've been concentrating so pointedly upon those three Louisville gentlemen who left this morning. Are they friends of yours?"

ALL MICHIGAN INVITED TO ATTEND FAIR-NEXT WEEK

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 1.—General manager Fred A. Chapman of the Michigan state fair today issued a general and cordial invitation to all Michiganians to come to Detroit on Saturday, Sunday and Monday next, to witness the three days speed event, two days given over to the world's speed boat races between Kaye Don, the Englishman, and Gar Wood, the Yankee, and Sunday, right in the midst of the speed tournament, the day on which the American speedway championship will be decided in a 100 mile A. A. sanctioned auto race. Mr. Chapman says, judging from the entries received that this auto race, carrying $5,000 in prize money and 150 points to the winner, the last same event of the year, is attracting great interest among the drivers.

There are 35 world famous drivers entered. Fourteen are to start. They will race in the two star cars. "It happens that Fred Frame, Indianapolis winner, is now but 40 points ahead of Bob Carey and 70 points in front of 'Howdy' Wilcox and this race," says Mr. Chapman, "will decide the 1932 championship. Frame having a new car built for this event."

Another feature that will undoubtedly draw many fans is that Kaye Don will referee the auto race and Gar Wood, his opponent will be the starter. The race starts at 3 o'clock and the trials will start at 11 o'clock Sunday morning of the week, September 4.

BRIGHTON—Fox farming is said to be a very profitable industry. Thieves who are experts in handling foxes seemed to think so, at least, when they cut the wire and broke into the pens of the Silverchief Fox ranch near Wixom recently. They had a large truck handy to load the animals, but were scared off the job, getting away with only one adult female and four pups. Another fox that got away was found later rambling in the woods, and was re-captured. Argus.

STATE—politics in New York is getting lively, and the Republicans are preparing to select their candidates at the convention, which meets in September. To up nose United States.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, who seeks reelection, it is likely Charles S. Whitman will be picked by the O. O. P. He is a veteran in politics, having been elected governor in 1914 and re-elected two years later; but he was defeated in 1918 by Alfred E. Smith, since when he has not held or sought office. Mayor Kollin B. Marv of Syracuse is another possibility for the senatorial nomination.

For the Republican nomination for governor the most conspicuous aspirant to date is Col. William J. Donovan of Buffalo, who acquired the nickname of "Wild Bill" in the World War. He commanded the old "fighting Sixty-ninth" and won the Congressional Medal of Honor, the Distinguished Service medal and other decorations. During the Coolidge regime he was assistant attorney general.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Mayor Walker Presents His Defense—Progress of the Mid-West Farmers' Strike—Business Conference Opened by President Hoover.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

MAYOR JAMES J. WALKER opened his defense before Governor Roosevelt, and numerous witnesses were called to testify to the purity of his actions and motives. At the beginning of the week Walker's chief counsel, John J. Curtin, closed his plea to Supreme Court Justice Swayne to halt the removal proceedings, and with what seems to be his usual lack of tact wound up with the statement: "We can only go to court to avoid a physical conflict that might well ensue if a removal order were made without jurisdiction."

Henry Epstein of the attorney general's staff challenged the authority of the court to limit the governor's power.

The mayor's first witnesses were the members of the city tax board of control, one of them being L. E. Lorice, president of the Delaware and Hudson railroad. He and his colleagues testified that Walker did not attempt in any way to limit the number of cabs after the bond transaction with J. A. Sisto, which is the basis of one of Mr. Swayne's most serious charges. Four independent taxicab operators were called and swore the board of control had not tried to create a monopoly for the larger companies.

Paul Block, the newspaper publisher, was a loyal and stubborn witness for the mayor. Concerning their joint stock account, he testified that each took $102,000 from it in one year, and he told the governor that he never entertained the thought that his personal or business friendship for the mayor might be used to trade for favors.

Governor Roosevelt's questioning brought forth illuminating testimony regarding $140,000 that Mr. Block had put into a title manufacturing concern in which Senator John J. Hastings, another of the Walker group, owned a large interest. It was brought out that none of the title ever was sold to the city. It was also shown that if the plans to manufacture the title had not been dropped the city would have been interested in the product.

Walker's claim has been that the entire investigation was inspired by the Republicans to embarrass the Democratic party in the November election. In the attempt to bolster up this claim he summoned eight Republican state leaders, at the head of the list being W. Kingsland Macy, state chairman.

The governor, however, blocked this move by refusing to hear testimony regarding the motives of the legislators who ordered the investigation that resulted in the charges against the mayor.

The hearing has taken much more time than had been expected, so the governor decided on night sessions.

ALFRED E. SMITH, whom national leader of the Democratic party, is now an editor. When the Outlook, now re-named the New Outlook, resumes publication on October 1, Al will be filling the editorial chair, once occupied by Theodore Roosevelt. In his announcement of the fact he said he would carry on the traditions of Roosevelt and strive to make the magazine "a platform for the free and liberal expression of A. E. Smith on the economic, civic and spiritual problems of the day." As to its political complexion he had nothing to say.

"The Outlook, which suspended publication last spring, was recently purchased by Frank Tichenor, publisher of the Spur, Aero Digest and other magazines. It was founded by Henry Ward Beecher in 1860 and has included among its editors Lyman Abbott as well as Theodore Roosevelt. Four years ago it was combined with the Independent, which was founded by H. C. Bowen as an anti-slavery organ.

FARMERS of the Middle West were meeting with considerable success in their "strike" designed to force produce prices to higher levels. The movement, which started in Iowa, spread to other states, and two victories were scored in Nebraska where milk producers gained higher prices.

At Omaha officials of the Iowa-Nebraska Co-operative Milk association consented to pay $2 per hundredweight for milk, compared with a previous figure of $1.45, while at Lincoln milk dealers agreed to pay $1.80, an increase of 40 cents over the previous figure.

More than 1,000 agriculturists were assembled in camps along the main highway leading into Omaha, but there were reports that some of the picketers were in a dispute as to the best method of enforcing the farmers' "holiday."

Despite warnings from federal officials, the farmers in several instances interfered with rail shipments of live stock in Iowa and Nebraska. Wisconsin and Minnesota dairymen were planning meetings to decide whether or not to join in the strike.

Tear-bombs came into use at Council Bluffs, Iowa, when sheriffs' deputies employed them to scatter a crowd of 1,000 farm "strikers" and spectators who were blocking a highway. Each trucker en route to market was given a deputy escort and no violence resulted.

WHEN the White House conference on business and industry opened Friday with more than one hundred prominent men in attendance, President Hoover started the proceedings with a statement outlining the scope of the parley. He proposed several specific lines of action. One aims to bring about increased employment and includes the five-day week, though Mr. Hoover did not recommend its adoption universally. A second deals with easier and cheaper credit for certain industries that have not benefited by the loosening up that already has taken place. A third proposition is to seek better credit facilities for marketing of farm products and live stock, both in the United States and abroad.

Other speakers of the opening day were: Secretary of the Treasury Mills, Gov. Eugene Meyer of the federal reserve board, Chairman Atlee Spencer of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, Secretary of Commerce Ralph D. Chapin, Chairman Franklin W. Fort of the home loan bank board and Paul Bestor, farm loan commissioner.

It was decided that small committees should handle each specific problem of economic inertia, and that after the close of the conference the plans it may develop shall be given effect by local subcommittees.

Officials predicted that as a result of the conference a central or executive committee will be formed to include the biggest bankers and business men of the country. This body, they pointed out, may unify the activities of the business and industrial committees of the 12 federal reserve districts and become the spearhead of the recovery drive.

SOUTH TRIMBLE, clerk of the house of representatives, made good his promise and gave to the public a statement of the transactions of the Reconstruction Finance corporation from July 21 to July 31 inclusive. During those eleven days, the directors of the corporation authorized 437 new loans aggregating $45,057,550, and increases of former loans totaling $1,033,500 to banks and other credit institutions and to railroads.

The total loan was $46,111,050. Later it was revealed that some of the loans authorized to banks had not been drawn upon.

Chairman Stenwall of the house banking committee said he believed the publicity given the loans would tend to strengthen the confidence of depositors in the banks concerned.

Mr. Trimble was accused by Congressman Treadway of Massachusetts of acting as he did in order to gain favor with Speaker Garner, who advocated publicity for the reports. In reply the house clerk said this charge was ridiculous and that he acted on the legal advice of his son, who held the law gave him no discretion in the matter.

CONGRESSMAN SHANNON'S committee investigating the results of federal competition with private concerns in business went to South Bend, Ind., and there heard a lot more complaints against Uncle Sam as a trader. Manufacturers, business men and representatives of various industries declared they were being pushed to the wall through competition from government boards and bureaus that are financed by taxpayers' money. Their wall was presented by the Federation of American Business, and the lines of competition ran all the way from pickles and rubber stamps to department stores, wheat, coffee and cotton.

The Association of Railway Executives presented a brief attacking the inland waterways corporation, the government barge line that operates on the Mississippi, Illinois and Warrior rivers. The railway men argued that the government should get rid of the barge line as an unfair competitor of the rails.

Manufacturers in Illinois presented a brief giving specific lines in which competition by the government is reducing their business, cutting into the normal revenues, reducing their pay rolls and number of employees, meanwhile piling up the tax burden. One item of complaint is the growth of prison industries.

F. TRUBEN DAVISON, assistant secretary of war, has announced that he is a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination at the New York state Republican convention. The announcement followed formal notification to him that the executive committee of Nassau county Republican committee had adopted a resolution pronouncing him the candidate of the Nassau county Republicans.

PROSPECTS for civil war in Germany were heightened when a court at Dantzen, Upper Silesia, sentenced five National Socialists to death in connection with the killing of a Communist. Seven other Nazis were sentenced to prison at hard labor.

Adolf Hitler and his followers arose in mighty wrath, denouncing the sentence. Chancellor von Papen and the entire government of the reich and demanding pardon for the five. There were riotous demonstrations in Dantzen and other places, with attacks on Jews and Socialists, and the police and more conservative Nazi leaders had a hard time curbing the enraged Hitlerites.

Hitler issued a statement declaring the condemned men to be "martyrs" and assuring them that their freedom "from this minute is a question of our honor." He added: "It is our duty to battle the government which made this monstrous blood sentence possible. Heaven may send us a torture upon torture, but the National Socialist movement will soon be able to finish this guillotine government led by von Papen."

To meet the storm of protest and denunciation, the governments of the reich and of Prussia issued a joint manifesto that made it plain von Papen's cabinet would not tolerate any revolt against the laws of the reich. It declared that the severest penalties would be invoked against "every lawbreaker, regardless of person or party," and that the government would yield to no political pressure in considering the cases of the five condemned men.

PERHAPS the best piece of news of the week was the announcement by Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, that it would immediately spend $5,000,000 for replacements and new equipment. The expenditures are to be made in the corporation's plants in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Alabama and Pennsylvania.

"It would seem the buying movement cannot long be delayed," said Mr. Taylor, and his further remarks indicated that the directors of the huge corporation believe it is now safe for them to plan for better times in the industrial world.

On the other hand, a "sour note" is injected in the chorus of hope by a group of eminent engineers known as Technocracy who for more than ten years have been analyzing the American industrial and social system under the auspices of Columbia university. These men, using a yardstick called "energy production," have concluded that industry has reached the point of efficiency where further expansion is virtually impossible and where the creation of debt on an already overladen structure has passed its period of growth. They predict 20,000,000 unemployed within two years if a downward trend of basic commodities and services continues.

and consider little such efforts at re-ascendancy as the five-day week, the Reconstruction Finance corporation and low-cost housing schemes.

Technological efficiency, they hold, has increased production to such an extent that employment, no matter how many new industries are initiated, will continue its steady decrease from the peak of 1918, while the total debt claim against the physical equipment of all American industry has risen to "the fantastic figure of $218,000,000,000—a debt claim on posterity."

LONDON again hears that the prince of Wales is going to take a bride, and again the rumor is that the lady chosen is Princess Ingrid of Sweden.

The prince is to open a British exhibition at Copenhagen on September 24, and he is to attend the wedding of Prince Gustaf of Sweden at Coburg on October 20. Between those dates, according to the unconfirmed story, he will pay a visit to Stockholm, and it is expected the marriage will then be arranged.

The prince of Wales was thirty-eight years old last June. Ingrid, a pretty blond, is twenty-two. She is distantly related to the prince and is a frequent visitor in London, where she is often the guest of the British royal family. She is also one of the most eligible of the princesses in Europe.

GEN. KURT VON SCHLEICHER, minister of defense in the von Papen cabinet, is moving steadily toward realization of his ambition to become minister of Germany. "It reports from Berlin intimate that out of the political chaos may emerge a new government with that 'astounding man' as chancellor and Franz Bracht as premier of the state of Prussia. Von Schleicher is much more highly regarded than von Papen by the bankers, who have been urging that all pretense of parliamentary government be dropped.

Adolf Hitler, leader of the Nazis in conference with President von Hindenburg, demanded not only the chancellorship but the same power assumed by Mussolini after the march on Rome. This the aged president curiously refused, but he did offer to make Hitler vice chancellor and give his party other cabinet offices. Hitler would not accept the minor post, preferring to remain opposition as the prophet of the Nazis. The National Socialists thereupon began an attack on the von Papen government, and they now have the assistance of the Communists, numbering some 3,500,000. The latter decided to institute a nation-wide strike to force the government to take action for relief of unemployment.

EUSEBIO AYALA, who has become president of Paraguay, is as strong as his predecessor in determining not to yield to the demands of Bolivia concerning the Gran Chaco, but in a public statement he declared that war between the two nations over that issue would be "an absurdity," which was encouraging for the cause of peace.
