Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lapsing, Mich., Sept. 7.—"Enclosed find our check for $174.69 covering tax on kerosene used in blending gasoline," is the text of a letter received from a conscience-stricken Michigan dealer in gasoline by Frank D. Fitzgerald, Secretary of State. The conscience-money represents three cents per gallon on 5,823 gallons of kerosene which the dealer admits was used by him in blending gasoline over a period of approximately one year. The dealer further states that in order to produce a cheap grade of gasoline he mixed one gallon of kerosene to nine gallons of gasoline, also giving the information that the practice has been abandoned since the Federal law recently went into effect, which law defines a blender as a producer and necessitates the reporting of motor fuels compounded or blended and the payment of tax of one cent per gallon on the blended product.

The first service of the Gasoline Tax Division has, for the past several months, been extensively engaged in investigating the final disposition of all consignments of kerosene and distillate purchased by gasoline dealers from refineries, both within and without the State. Investigators have been stationed at several refineries to check all sales of kerosene and distillate to dealers. Recently an audit was made of one gasoline dealer's records and the purchase of 7,000 gallons of distillate was found unaccounted for in the sales records. Unless this dealer can produce evidence of actual sales of this non-taxable product, he will be assessed the state tax of three cents per gallon. The presumption, based on analysis of samples of gasoline taken from his station, is that the non-taxable product was intended to produce a motor fuel.

An audit of another company reveals no records were kept of sales of distillate. However, refinery records showed large purchases of distillate. Following an audit, samples were taken and immediately the dealer gave the information that a truck had had the previous day, dumped 500 gallons of distillate, by mistake, into the gasoline tank. No distillate storage was on the premises and the analysis of the sample of gasoline taken revealed a 40 per cent mixture of distillate. An assessment was made of three cents per gallon on the distillate used in blending, which the dealer paid, with the understanding future practices would result in a revocation of his license.

Investigations are being continued to ascertain if any other dealers have been evading payment of the tax on blended products. If such evidence is secured, proceedings will be instituted not only to collect the tax on all kerosene and distillate so used in blending, but the license of these dealers will be revoked, and the entire matter reported to the Federal authorities for further action under the Federal law.

RECEIVE HUGE CHERRY ORDER

The cherry industry at Traverse City was given a boost when the Atlantic & Pacific Stores placed an order for 60,000 dozen cans of Grand Traverse cherries, with the J. C. Morgan Co. and the Traverse City Packing Company, the largest single order in the history of the cherry packing plants, it is believed. The cherry industry has joined the long list of industries which are "turning the corner" and heading back to normalcy.

Sixty thousand dozens of No. 2 cans of cherries represents a solid trainload of 40 cars. While trucks went after the first order a solid trainload of the canned fruit will be shipped to large centers within a short time.

Are You Satisfied With The Knowledge You Possess?

The first meeting of the Chelsea Evening Law Class will occur on Monday evening, September 19th, at 8 o'clock at the high school. The members of this group are Chelsea people who believe that in adult life they should continue to acquire knowledge. The course of study is founded upon the law because there is no other subject which has such practical value and touches so many angles of useful information. Although the course includes every subject taught in a regular law school, its purpose is not to train lawyers, but to give the person in business or professional work such information as will contribute most toward proper preparedness for the affairs of everyday life.
A cordial invitation is extended to any interested person to attend two or three of the meetings of this class and observe the type of study which the members will pursue. The meetings are held weekly on Monday evening. Visits to these meetings will cost you nothing. If, after a visit or two, you decide that you would enjoy participating in this work, a welcome will be extended to join the class. The cost is trivial and the benefits are many.

ARE YOU SATISFIED WITH THE KNOWLEDGE YOU POSSESS?

Edward Weber and Arthur Weber.

HELD PICNIC MONDAY

The annual picnic of the Zion Lutheran Sunday school of Rogers Corners, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti and Bridgewater, which was held at Sott's grove, Pleasant Lake, on Monday, was a great success, and 700 were in attendance. The afternoon was spent in games and contests, and one of the main attractions was the tug-of-war between the rural residents and city residents, which was won by the former. The Chelsea High School Band gave the musical program. Refreshments were served.

JOHN R. ROOD

Candidate for State Senator

JOHN R. ROOD

One of the candidates for nomination on the Republican ticket at the September primaries for state senator in this district is John R. Rood of Ann Arbor.

Mr. Rood is the originator and promoter of the idea of tax limitation by constitutional amendment in Michigan. At the request of the men and women, who without any pay whatever spent weeks in circulating the petitions to put these amendments on the ballot, Mr. Rood has consented to stand as a candidate for nomination on the Republican ticket as State Senator from Oakland and Washtenaw counties.

The backers of these movements are very anxious to have in the next legislature persons who are in sympathy with these movements and familiar with the tax problems, because they feel that whether these amendments be adopted or not, there is bound to be a general revision of our tax system by the coming legislature; and therefore the backers of these proposals are very anxious to have in the legislature the leader of the movement to make them a part of the law in this state.

Mr. Rood is also the author of the law known as the "Horton Trespass Law", passed by the Legislature in 1927, forbidding hunting on farms without the consent of the owner or lessee.

He is a member of the executive committee of the Associations for Tax Reduction, Inc.

Mr. Rood was born in Lapeer, graduated from Lapeer High School and the University of Michigan, practiced law at Marquette, was a member of the Faculty of the University of Michigan Law School from 1908 to 1918, is the author of numerous law books, has lived in Ann Arbor for the past 34 years, and has been engaged in the active practice of law, with offices in Detroit, since leaving the University in 1918.

He says the tax question is the paramount issue at the present time, is largely responsible for the present depression, that foolish taxation has rendered one-third of the land in Michigan idle, so that it furnishes no revenue to the state, no service to the community, and is a total loss to the owner; and that there is no hope of permanent employment for any one until our tax laws are so revised that it will be safe and worth while for persons to own and operate property. He feels that taxation will be the paramount issue before the coming legislature, and that effective means must be devised of curbing official extravagance.

Buy all your needs that you can NOW, as we feel certain that there will be gradual general enhancement of values from now on. Practically all raw materials are decidedly higher and finished goods must naturally follow.

Our mail carries a continuous warning of rising values. We quote two letters from manufacturers received today.

FROM A MANUFACTURER OF COTTONS:

There is every indication of advances and if it is at all possible for you to anticipate your wants for the fall months, and will let us have your order by return mail, you will surely create a nice saving. Prices cannot go lower and with the market trend today we may advance our prices at any moment. These quotations are made subject to change without notice.

FROM KNITTING MILLS:

Gentlemen: You probably know that wool has advanced fifty per cent in the last thirty days. Yarn has advanced fifteen cents a pound and we are informed, from reliable sources, that another ten cents per pound advance will come through shortly. Rayon cloth is up ten cents a pound.

We cannot possibly hold our present prices on Sweaters, Sportswear and Rayon Underwear. We must advance our prices at least ten per cent if we are to stay in business.

All orders received after September 15th will be billed at an advance in price of from ten to fifteen per cent.

Please do not ask us to protect you after September 15th as we will be compelled to refuse your order.

Sincerely hope that you will understand that we are helpless in the matter.

We feel that these advances of raw materials is the best thing in the world for all of us. You, as well as your sources of supply should begin to make a little money this Fall and Winter. All of us need a little profit. We hope you get your share of it.

GRETA GARBO APPEARS IN

"AS YOU DESIRE ME"

"As You Desire Me" brings Greta Garbo to the Princess Theatre Sunday and Monday, September 11 and 12 in a filmisation of the sensational Luigi Pirandello play which scored an outstanding hit when presented on Broadway last season.

For one of the location journeys, Director George Fitzmaurice took his company to sea off the coast of Laguna, near the Mexican line. Here the Italian "Feast of Mid-summer," a traditional celebration for lovers, was reproduced with scores of native boats pushing out to sea to meet the rising sun. It is the legend, dating back to the days of old Rome, that the first couple to glimpse the dawn will be especially favored by the Goddess Fortuna, who brings good luck.

Miss Garbo has the role of a cabaret entertainer who poses as a nobleman's wife and then finds herself in the midst of a series of intriguing adventures in which she is hard put to convince the world that she is not a fraud.

That "Comfortable Feeling" Every Day

If your checking account balance is always up to the comfort point, the thought of it through the day is something like a tonic.

And why shouldn't you enjoy the feeling? For the average person it is really just as easy to keep a nice little balance ALL THE TIME as to let the balance slip every few days toward the zero and anxiety.

Think of the comfort and satisfaction which the knowledge of that margin at the bank gives you all through the year. It is hard to name another satisfaction so inexpensively bought.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—From what is cellophane made?

Ans.—The manufacture of cellophane is a trade secret. The base is known to contain a compound obtained from the action of acetic or sulphuric acid on cellulose.

Ques.—I wish to ask you why thunder will pour milk?

Ans.—The belief that thunder will pour milk is a myth without foundation. Thunderstorms usually occur toward the end of a hot summer day, and on these days milk is also likely to sour following the heat. This has given rise to the belief that thunder will pour milk.

Ques.—When a horse is galloping or trotting how many feet does it have on the ground at the same time?

Ans.—When a horse is galloping or trotting there are times that for a fraction of a second all four feet are on the ground, and at other times all four feet are off the ground.

Ques.—Will you kindly answer who wrote "The Star Spangled Banner?"

Ans.—Francis Scott Key was the author of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Ques.—Why is it that when a millionaire wants to give a big gift, he hunts up some already rich institution to bestow it upon?

Ans.—Don't know. Maybe it's because he can't find some poor small school that could be favored with a million-dollar endowment.

Ques.—I would like to ask in your question department what is the age of Mayor Walker of New York?

Ans.—Ex-Mayor Walker of New York is 51 years old.

Ques.—Can you tell me if Franklin D. Roosevelt or his wife is a Catholic?

Ans.—Neither one of them are Catholics. Gov. Roosevelt is an Episcopalian and his wife is a Presbyterian.

Ques.—I am curious to know how long the Chinese Wall is. Can you answer in an early issue of your paper?

Ans.—The Great Chinese Wall makes many curves, loops and spurs, and measured in that manner the wall is 2,550 miles long.

Ques.—Will you please tell me in your question column if civil service employees are permitted to take the stump in behalf of friends who are political candidates?

Ans.—No, they are not. Persons in the civil service of the United States, while retaining the right to vote as they please, may express privately their opinions in favor of any political candidate, but shall take no active part in political management or in political campaigns.

Ques.—In measuring distance, why do they say "as the crow flies"? Do crows fly in a straight line?

Ans.—This old saying is not based on actual fact, for the crow does not usually fly forward in a straight line. The phrase "as a crow flies," meaning in a straight line from starting point to the object or place of destination irrespective of buildings, rivers, roads, hills, etc., which would make the distance greater if a person were to travel it on the surface of the earth.

Ques.—To settle an argument will you kindly tell in your question department why a certain cotton fabric is called "calico"?

Ans.—At one time weavers in England became greatly alarmed because they feared that their trade would be destroyed by the weavers of Calicut, hence, "calico" is a corruption of Calicut, a city on the southwestern coast of India. Calicut should not be confused with Calcutta, which is a much larger city on the opposite side of the Indian peninsula.

Will you please answer if the Southern Confederacy paid their war debt to the United States after its collapse?

Ans.—After the fall of the Confederacy in the spring of 1865 it ceased to exist as a government and automatically its money was worthless and therefore its obligations as a government were never met.

The Old Saddle
by A. J. Dunlop

The dinky old saddle was ripped.
By what, cactus and thorn.
It carried deep scars without number.
On saddle-bow, canle and horn.
Its buckles were tarnished and rusty.
With rivets sunk deep in the leather.
That showed the old saddle had seen
Tough service in all kinds of weather.

But somehow I loved the old saddle
With all of its bruises and scars;
I loved the soft creak of its leather.
At night when we rode with the stars;
I loved its low laugh as we galloped
Through sunshine or wind-driven rains.
Its voice was the voice of my country—
My country of hills and plains.

It never was meant to be ridden
By men without courage to face
The ups and the downs of a life-time.
The strain and the stress of the race.
Wherever my tired spirit falters,
Whenever I fear I may fail,
The ghost of the old saddle whispers:
Ride on to the end of the trail!

For several weeks the students of the Senior High School have been reporting at the office of the superintendent for advance enrollment. This procedure has enabled them to determine their class schedules and to procure many used textbooks at reduced prices. It has also enabled the school management to procure the needed new books and to make plans for the opening of the year that will minimize waste.

The advance enrollment of Senior High School students is divided as follows:

Freshmen	58
Sophomores	48
Juniors	33
Seniors	38
Post Graduates	6

TOTAL 183

Eighty-six of this total are non-residents and for each of them the Chelsea district will receive $60 in tuition.

Some features of the work of the Junior-Senior High School students will be different from the practices which have prevailed in past years. Hence, certain explanations are here given for the benefit of the students and their parents.

Let us consider the daily schedule of a typical Freshman. He has an Algebra class in the first period, beginning at 8:30. He arrives at the high school building at 8:15. He has a choice of going to his Algebra class or to the gymnasium for 15 minutes of study in the library.

In either case, he will be responsible for his combination auditorium-gymnasium presence in Room 14 at 8:30. This without cost for one evening during class remains in session for 40 minutes of the school year to each of the students. At 9:10 he leaves Room 14. If he has a locker he will go to it and secure the books that he desires to take to his English class. If he does not have a locker he will make his exchange of books in the room where his storage desk is located. At 9:15 he must be in Room 24, where he attends a class in Composition. This period ends 40 minutes later. Next follows the Special Activities period. Let us assume that an assembly of students is scheduled for today. This Freshman then takes himself, along with all the other students, to the gymnasium.

He uses the third period for study. Hence, he goes next to the library, where he spends the 40 minutes from 10:35 to 11:15. There is no class in the fourth period, so he remains in the library until 12 o'clock.

At 1:20 his class in Citizenship begins in Room 14. Returning from his lunch recess, he may go to his room immediately or may study in the library until the warning bell rings at 1:15. The Citizenship class ends at 2 o'clock. He uses the next five minutes exchanging books and finding his way to Room 11, where he meets with a class in first year Latin. This class period ends at 2:45 and this Freshman then goes to the library, where he spends the last period in the school day in study. At no time in the school day is there a general assembly of students for the purpose of checking attendance. Each teacher checks the attendance in his or her room each period. The librarian checks the attendance of students who are scheduled for study periods in the library.

Pupils of the elementary school will report at their respective rooms on Monday morning. The kindergarten pupils and those of the first three grades are due at 9 o'clock. Grades 4, 5 and 6 are due at 8:30.

The students of the Junior-Senior High School (grades 7-12) will report at the gymnasium at 8:30. General instructions will be given them as a group, after which the regular daily schedule will be resumed, with shortened periods. Every student should plan to spend a full day at school on Monday.

Altho many Senior High School students will keep their books in steel lockers, a desk for storage of textbooks and other small items of personal property will be available to every student. Freshmen, Sophomores, and Post Graduates will make use of the desks in the library. Boys will use only the first five desks in each row, while the remaining desks will be made use of by girls. Juniors will be allotted the desks in Rooms 21 and 24, both of which are on the second floor of the building. Seniors will use those in Rooms 11 and 15, on the first floor.

By virtue of authority conferred at the last regular meeting of the Board of Education, the superintendent is studying in the library. In either case, he will be responsible for his combination auditorium-gymnasium presence in Room 14 at 8:30. This without cost for one evening during class remains in session for 40 minutes of the school year to each of the students. At 9:10 he leaves Room 14. If he has a locker he will go to it and secure the books that he desires to take to his English class. If he does not have a locker he will make his exchange of books in the room where his storage desk is located. At 9:15 he must be in Room 24, where he attends a class in Composition. This period ends 40 minutes later. Next follows the Special Activities period. Let us assume that an assembly of students is scheduled for today. This Freshman then takes himself, along with all the other students, to the gymnasium.

He uses the third period for study. Hence, he goes next to the library, where he spends the 40 minutes from 10:35 to 11:15. There is no class in the fourth period, so he remains in the library until 12 o'clock.

At 1:20 his class in Citizenship begins in Room 14. Returning from his lunch recess, he may go to his room immediately or may study in the library until the warning bell rings at 1:15. The Citizenship class ends at 2 o'clock. He uses the next five minutes exchanging books and finding his way to Room 11, where he meets with a class in first year Latin. This class period ends at 2:45 and this Freshman then goes to the library, where he spends the last period in the school day in study. At no time in the school day is there a general assembly of students for the purpose of checking attendance. Each teacher checks the attendance in his or her room each period. The librarian checks the attendance of students who are scheduled for study periods in the library.

merly occupied by a tennis court, will be used for parking. No student will be permitted to park his car during school hours on the streets adjacent to the school grounds nor on any residence street in the village.

Teachers have the choice of parking their cars in the parking space on the school grounds or parallel to the curb that abuts the north side of the grounds.

A fortunate circumstance has arisen by which the Chelsea Public Schools will have the advantage of a full-time librarian who is specially trained in library work. Miss Ruth Dancer, who has recently received a degree from the University of Michigan in Library Science and who had planned to spend the approaching school year at home in Chelsea, voluntarily offered her services in the rearrangement of the high school library. This offer was gratefully accepted by the school management and during the first day of Miss Dancer's work at the high school building a conversation between her and the superintendent revealed the possibility of obtaining her services throughout the entire school year at a minimum of cost to the school district. As a result of the resignation of Miss Wedemeyer and the employment of Miss Alma Cash to take her place a saving of $45 was effected; inasmuch as Miss Wedemeyer's salary was $125 per month and Miss Cash is entering the system at $120. The conversation between Miss Dancer and the superintendent occurred shortly before the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education in August and hence when this matter was placed before them a decision was reached to employ Miss Dancer with the understanding that she would be paid the amount saved in the recent exchange of teachers plus any additional sum that might be available from the library or other funds at the close of the school year. This arrangement means that we are obtaining the services of a highly trained librarian at virtually no cost and will add greatly to the efficiency of the school system. It is the opinion of the Board that the community owes a debt of gratitude to Miss Dancer for her public spirited attitude in agreeing to assume these duties with so small a compensation.

GRASS LAKE—The Grass Lake schools opened Monday with a larger enrollment of any previous year. Pupils are graded as follows: 1st and 2nd grades, 47; 3rd and 4th, 44; 5th and 7th, 41; 6th and 8th, 42; a total of 80 boys and 84 girls, among whom are 18 tuition pupils. The freshmen class has 36 students; sophomores 18; juniors 21 and seniors, 30, the largest in the history of the school. Among the 104 enrolled there are 59 paying tuition. The total enrollment, including the County Normal, numbers 310.

MASON—All the farm striking is not being done in lower and the Dakotas. Many farmers have been on strike here in Michigan and refuse to sell their produce until better prices are offered. Here in Mason is stored 15,000 pounds of high grade wool, the 20-year clip of William Couch. He has a warehouse stacked full of fleeces averaging about seven pounds each. This past week men have been going through the wool and searching for moth damage. No damage has yet occurred. To prevent moths from working in the wool Mr. Couch has liberally sprinkled the fleeces with moth balls.—News.

MILAN—Robert Allen returned last Monday afternoon from his trip to the Pacific coast. "It was all and more than he had anticipated and he played to good luck all the time. His pass to the Olympic games seated him at the finishing point of the contests and he had the same good luck in those contests not held in the stadium. California is a wonderful state in his judgment but not to be compared with Michigan.—Leader.

TECUMSEH—A Ford coupe belonging to Miss Gwendolyn Boltz was stolen Sunday evening from in front of the Methodist Episcopal church, where it was parked while she attended the evening service. The sheriff's department was notified immediately and the car was located Tuesday near Birdall where it had been abandoned when it ran out of gas and oil. It was taken to Adrian by members of the sheriff's department and returned to Miss Boltz Wednesday morning.—Herald.

PINCKNEY—More milk continues to be received at the local creamery. On Monday 5100 lbs. was taken in. This is an increase of 2000 lbs. since the creamery reopened two weeks ago. Mr. Quigley, who is in charge of the creamery, expects to move his family here from Adrian and has rented the Dwight Wagner house.—Dispatch.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—Having demonstrated the power of an extraordinary silence the "Black Box" which he has perfected, Owen Landis, young inventor, in the little town of Carthage, confides to his friend, Wally Markham, a plaster cast of the device, if exploited, might be used for evil purposes. That night the "Black Box" is stolen from a safe in Landis' laboratory.

CHAPTER II—Landis tells Markham the story of Canby's invention, a combination of the safe, is Betty Lawson, with whom the inventor is in love. Markham takes a plaster cast of a woman's footprint found beneath the window of the laboratory.

CHAPTER III—Betty, daughter of a college professor, is well known to Markham. Both he and Landis believe her to be above suspicion, but to assure himself he takes an opportunity to cast to one of Betty's shoes. They are identical. Betty tells him her father is a "promoter" and driven her home from the theater the previous night, and that she is going to the city. Markham does not tell Landis of his discovery. That the girl should have deliberately stolen the invention from Landis' safe is unthinkable. But the evidence of the plaster cast seems to prove she was present at the time of the robbery.

CHAPTER IV—Markham, vaguely the only person in town, who is posing as a "promoter," has driven her home from the theater the previous night, and that she is going to the city. Markham does not tell Landis of his discovery. That the girl should have deliberately stolen the invention from Landis' safe is unthinkable. But the evidence of the plaster cast seems to prove she was present at the time of the robbery.

CHAPTER V—At Perthshire they find confirmation of their fears. Three strangers, riding in a Plewting, and claiming to be business men of Louisville, are the only possible suspects. Markham and Landis decide to follow them, although advice from Louisville would be to wait for the morning. At St. Joseph Markham sees Canby's car, a Nordyke. He has a warehouse stacked full of fleeces averaging about seven pounds each. This past week men have been going through the wool and searching for moth damage. No damage has yet occurred. To prevent moths from working in the wool Mr. Couch has liberally sprinkled the fleeces with moth balls.—News.

"Colby, at two-fifty this afternoon," he said, "it's a junction point, and if we can't find what we want, we can get a train from there to Denver. Colby's our drop-off."

Accordingly they departed at Colby, where Markham found he was able to replace the wrecked roadster with a later model of the same make. Starting without loss of time they reached Limon, the point at which the two main auto roads, coincident west of Colby, split—one leading southwest to Colorado Springs, and the other north-west to Denver.

At the few stones they had made west of Colby they got no news of the Plewting or of Canby's car. But at Limon the lost trail reappeared. The Plewting had passed through some six hours earlier on the way to Denver, and Canby's limousine had taken the same route three or four hours later.

Markham looked at his watch. "Both parties are probably stopping over night in Denver. If we push along we can be there by midnight. What do you say?"

"I'm with you. I can spell you at the wheel when you are tired."

It was well past midnight when the lights of Denver came in sight. Reaching the city, Markham turned in at the first available garage he came to, and they forthwith, stiff, tired and dusty, to put up at the nearest hotel, and turned in at once.

The attempt to trace three newcomers—or at most six—in a city the size of Denver is much like looking for a needle in a haystack; and though they went short on sleep and were up early the next morning, eight o'clock found them still driving from one hotel to another, drawing blanks and losing time.

"There is simply no end to this," Wally Landis protested. "We might keep on all day in a city with as many hotels as there are here. Our best chance is the open road. We know where Canby is headed for. If we trail him, maybe we'll find the Black Box in the same gallery."

"You didn't beat me to it by more than half a minute," Markham returned, spreading the well-used road map on his knees. "Here's the nearest cut to the Timanion," he pointed out. "We'll get the grips and try our luck in the open, as you say."

gaining on them, in spite of the Denver delay. Where do you suppose this chase is going to wind up, Owen?"

"I'm not so much concerned about the 'where' as the 'how.' I may as well confess that I'm on the fence again. There haven't been any bank districts this side of the Missouri river."

"No; but there was a perfectly good roadster wrecked back there in Kansas," Markham put in pointedly. "Yes, but nothing in the wide world to connect the wrecking with these men we're chasing. Why would a trio of bank burglars, if that's what they are, pass up all the chances in six or seven hundred miles and go streaking off up here in these mountainous?"

"Just so," said Markham, with a short laugh. "It isn't decent. But there is something else I'd like to know. What has become of Canby and the Lawsons?"

This question was answered late in the afternoon, as they were running down the valley of the Pannikin toward Copah, still gaining upon the Plewting, as they learned by inquiry as they had come along. It was at a water tank station on the Pacific Northwest that the first heard of the Plewting was made.

They had apparently been ahead all day. They had stopped at a filling station to get gas, and to ask about the Plewting, and the gas man grinned.

"You'll have to step on it some to catch up with them fellers in the Eight," he told them. "They pulled up here couple hours ago and told me they'd made it from Denver since morning." Then, "What's the matter with that bunch? Everbody seems to be askin' about 'em."

"Who else, besides us?" Markham wanted to know.

"Three folks in a Nordyke limousine; right handsome young feller drivin' and doin' the talkin', with a girl pretty enough to wake the dead settin' in with him, and an oldish man in the back."

"About how long ago was this?"

"I disremember; about an hour, I reckon."

Markham was putting the gears in low for the start when Landis halted him to ask another question of the gas man.

"Did the limousine driver ask about anybody else?"

"The man scratched his head as if trying to remember. Suddenly he looked up with the wide-mouthed grin again in place. "Why, yes—come to think, I wanted to know if anybody else had been askin' about the Eight; two fellers, he said, but he couldn't tell me what kind of a car they'd be drivin'."

It was Landis who spoke first when the two were once more on their way.

"Wally, how is Bert Canby mixed up in this thing?" he demanded. "What is his connection with these fellows? And why is he keeping tab on us?"

"Why ask me?" Markham smirked. "Because I've had a feeling all along that you know more about this mystery than I do; more than you are willing to tell me."

"If you put it on the ground of knowledge, I don't, Owen; I'm just as much befuddled as you are. I can say that honestly."

"You are trying to shield somebody, Wally. Who is it?"

"Wait," said Markham shortly; then, "As I say, I'm just as much in the dark as you are. But, take the known facts in their order. On the night when you show me what your black box can do, you lose it, and the circumstantial evidence indicates that a man and a woman raided your shop. Next we hear of a bank wrecking that made the noise; then we get on the trail of these three men from Louisville and run into two more of the noise-makers. Further along, we discover that Canby is following us, or the Louisville bunch or both. Next we—"

"You needn't catalogue the twists and turns. If you know anything more than you've told me, you ought to turn it loose, Wally."

"I don't know anything—more's the pity; and that's the stubborn truth. But I'm going to know, before we quit and only it a day."

By this time the road had left the narrow valley of the Pannikin. Knowing from the library in the route book that there were hazards ahead on the descent to the Red desert edge mining town of Copah, and hoping to be able to have daylight for the negotiating of them, Markham did not spare the car on the way in. Nevertheless, it was coming on dusk when they found themselves entering upon the hazardous descent, with the lights of Copah winking in the distance.

TOWA farmers engaged in the "strike" for higher prices were being investigated by a grand jury in Council Bluffs which was instructed to inquire into willful obstruction of highways, destruction of property and intimidation of truck drivers. The "holiday" movement, started by C. P. Savery and other lenders, meanwhile was losing its peaceful aspect and there were conflicts between the pickets and sheriffs' possees at various points.

Generally the officers had the best of it, but not always. Near Cushing, Ia., a force of fifty deputies that undertook to escort five truckloads of hogs was attacked by hundreds of farmers armed with lead pipes and sticks, and eleven deputies were injured. The aroused sheriff declared the picket lines would be broken. It is noteworthy that many of the members of the late bonus army have entered the fray on the side of the striking farmers.

Gas Company Official Answers Petitioners Asking Lower Rates

This is typical of any business in these times.

I presented to the gentlemen present at this conference a schedule of gas rates in effect in all cities in the State of Michigan. I am enclosing a new rate schedule as of July 1, 1932.

A careful study of the rates of the 278 communities listed will show that only 44 have a lower gas rate than that charged in Chelsea and the other communities served by the same system.

All of the communities whose rates are lower are cities larger than Chelsea. On the other hand, there are many communities larger than Chelsea whose rates are considerably higher than those paid in Chelsea.

This alone should indicate that we are not overcharging for gas service, but are offering lower rates whenever it is possible. This is further substantiated by the fact that we reduced rates in 1925, again in 1928, and a further reduction in 1930. All of this occurred when commodity prices were rising.

In checking over the signers on the petition submitted, I find that there were 238 people who signed, and 55 of this number were not using gas at all. The average monthly consumption of the 183 using gas amounted to 2000 cu. ft. during the last month, with an average bill of $3.77, and of course 50 per cent were below this average.

Let us assume that the rate per thousand were reduced 5c, the average bill would be reduced only 10c each month, which would never be noticed by the average gas user because his bill may fluctuate more than such an amount during a single period of a month.

It is my belief that there is not an other item purchased for the household for which there is so much received for the small charge made for it. A careful analysis will soon show that the cost of gas service forms a very small part of the family budget in comparison with other commodities used in the home.

I have submitted the matter to my Board of Directors, and a careful study of the question indicates that the Village is being charged a fair and just rate for its service.

I appreciate the opportunity of being able to discuss the matter carefully with the various members of the Council, and the Council can rest assured that we will always be mindful of the situation and be ready to consider lower rates whenever conditions will permit us to do so. I will be glad to discuss the matter further with the Council at any time.

Very truly yours,
G. R. Henderson,
Vice Pres. and General Mgr.

Language That Live

The Breton and Welsh languages are by no means dead tongues, each being spoken today by more than a million people. The Celtic family of languages has also several other living members—Irish, Scottish Gaelic and Manx.

President's Business Conference Already Showing Results—R. F. C. Considers Loans—Court Establishes Roosevelt's Right to Remove Mayor Walker.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

IF PROSPERITY can be restored by the united efforts of individuals the business and industrial conference in Washington should have marked results.

The 800 men who participated pledged themselves to work along these lines:

To spread employment by shortening the hours of each worker to stimulate capital expenditures by industry, to expand employment and repair and replacement work on the railroads; to stimulate home improvement and repair; to assist home owners in carrying their mortgage burdens; to make credit affirmatively useful by making it available to those entitled to it.

The central committee named to carry out this program is headed by Henry M. Robinson of Los Angeles, a white-haired banker and lawyer who has been one of President Hoover's closest friends and unofficial advisers and who has previously served the public in various capacities, notably as a member of the commission that formulated the Dawes plan. It is said in Washington that Mr. Robinson may soon be known as the Colonel House of the Hoover administration.

Of the sub-committees named at the conference, the first to get into action was that on spreading employment. Its chairman, Walter C. Teague, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, said the committee intends to educate industry to do the most convenient thing to be worked out from the various methods already devised and operated by nearly 400 companies throughout the country, which reported to the unemployment relief organization in the course of its study of the program and its application to industry.

Dispatches received in Washington from all parts of the country indicated that the conference already was having an effect on the revival of industry, and the news from banks was especially cheerful.

ANDREW W. MELLON, ambassador to England and former secretary of the treasury, had a long talk with the President, and on emerging from the White House said he believed the current advance in stock prices was justified and would be maintained. Mr. Mellon's reputation as a financial wizard has been considerably lessened, but there are still many who think his judgment is sound.

MONTAGU C. NORMAN, governor of the Bank of England, came over to this country recently as "Prof. Clarence Skinner," ostensibly to spend a vacation in Maine. But it was not long before he was in New York consulting with some of our leading bankers, and then he was officially admitted in Washington that he would "see or communicate with" Oxden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury. In the minds of many this made it certain that the main object of Mr. Norman's visit was to discuss war debts. It also probably had to do with Britain's return to the gold standard in 1928, this being dependent on the settlement of the war debts and reparations and the lowering of world tariff barriers.

PRESIDENT HOOVER and Budget Director J. Clawson Roup have begun preparation of the budget for 1933 fiscal year which starts July 1 next. Cabinet members and all heads of independent establishments have submitted their estimates and Mr. Roup has begun hearings on them. Whether the budget will be larger or smaller than the one submitted to congress for the current fiscal year is not yet known, but probably it will. Sec'y Adams

The naval general board completed its new building program and laid it before Secretary Charles F. Adams. Whether or not he would submit it to the President with a recommendation that it be offered to congress in the near future was not decided until Secretary Adams had consulted with a number of ranking admirals.

It was understood the general board program included a one-year installment of the Vinson $800,000,000 ton year program. It recommended starting work on the seventeenth 8-inch gun cruiser permitted under the London treaty and already authorized. Other parts of the program presumably call for the laying down of two cruisers, one airplane carrier, and additional airplanes and submarines.

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE ELLIS J. STALEY at Albany ruled in the Walker case that Governor Roosevelt had the authority to sit in judgment on the mayor, and that the courts could not interfere in the executive acts of the governor. However, he also ruled that court action might be taken after the governor has given his decision on the Walker ouster charges, provided the mayor's three constitutional defenses had been violated.

Mayor Walker, however, decided not to await the governor's decision, and late Thursday night he resigned, turning his office over to Joseph V. McGraw, assistant president.

In a long statement Walker made a scorching attack on the governor, declaring the hearing had been conducted unfairly and developed into "travesty, a mock trial" in comparison with which a drumhead court martial would seem liberal. He said he was convinced the governor's verdict, whether for or against him, would be dictated by political expediency.

Walker closed by asserting he would seek vindication by running for reelection. He said he was taking the advice of "the most loyal and distinguished Democrat in this country," evidently alluding to Alfred E. Smith.

UNLESS late returns from the Democratic run-off primary upset present figures, "Mr. Ferguson will be governor of Texas again. At this writing she has a rather slight lead over Gov. Ross S. Sterling. The vote had veered and swayed from the incumbent to Mrs. Ferguson in such dramatic manner that A. P. Henning, head of the Texas election bureau, declined to forecast either the possible outcome of the race or the probable total vote.

The returns were still to be canvassed by the county committees and then by the state committee.

GOVERNOR'S day at Sanger, New Jersey, was taken by Franklin D. Roosevelt as the occasion for his first campaign speech on the prohibition question, and what he said to his 160,000 listeners was highly pleasing to the wet Democrats. Some of the Republican leaders, on the other hand, called it old stuff and ludicrous; and it did not have the approval of the Prohibitionists.

After spending a good word for genuine temperance, Mr. Roosevelt dealt with the "tax burden" that prohibition has brought, declaring "the only business in the country that was not helping to support the government was in a real sense being supported by this government."

Describing the Republican platform as "long, indirect, insincere and false," the governor compared its stand on prohibition repeal with "the concise sincerity of our own platform."

"The Democratic party squarely met the issue," said the governor, "while the Republican administration attempted to evade and confuse the issue."

ONE after another the state conventions of the American Legion are disregarding the advice of the leaders of the Legion and adopting resolutions calling for immediate payment of the veterans bonus in full. The meeting of the New York Legion in Brooklyn was enlivened by an almost violent demonstration against F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war for aviation and now an applicant for the Republican nomination for governor of New York.

Mr. Davison, defending the federal administration for the use of force in expelling the bonus army from Washington, charged that many members of the B. B. F. in the National Capital were "tramps and hoodlums" possessing "fake military discharges" that were produced by a "Communist-owned diploma mill." His speech was frequently interrupted by loud jeers and boos and cries of "put him out," and finally it was necessary to call the police reserves to restore order.

TWO major conditions on which it will make loans for self-liquidating projects were announced by the Reconstruction Finance corporation board. The applicant must prove that his project is self-liquidating; he must prove that it is adequately secured by good collateral; and he must be able to give the board complete information on all phases of the project. Among the minor conditions are the barring of convict labor; limitation of labor to 30 hours a week, and giving preference to war veterans with dependents.

When the applicants gathered in the corporation's offices Los Angeles was near the head of the line, asking $132,000,000 to carry to the city the water and power made available by the Bontor dam. New York wanted $75,000,000 for a bridge across the Hudson to the Weehawken and $65,000,000 for the projects' triborough bridge.

NATIONAL air races at Cleveland were almost disrupted at the start because the aviators learned that the prizes for closed events had been reduced to 28 per cent of their advertised value. But the flyers finally gave in and consented to go ahead with the contest. James O. Hatala, former army flyer, won the Honda dash from Burbank, Calif., to Cleveland in 8 hours 10 minutes elapsed time. He then continued to New York, establishing a new transcontinental record of 10 hours 10 minutes.

ENGLAND was confronted with one of the worst strikes of recent years when more than 125,000 cotton weavers in Lancashire quit work because of a wage cut and working conditions. While most of the mills were forced to close, some continued with depleted staffs and others, which made private arrangements with the workers, operated at full capacity. The leaders of the weavers' union estimate that the walkout was two-thirds effective on the first day and believe it will spread to all the mills.

A direct appeal to King George V to intervene through the government in the dispute was sent to Birmmham by Jos Compton, a former Laborite member of parliament, who wields great influence in the mill district.

It appears likely that the 20,000 conductors and drivers of London buses would strike soon because of wage reductions and changes in working conditions ordered by the London General Omnibus company.

GERMANY was tremendously excited when its parliament met for Adolf Hitler had decided that 200 Nazi members should not support the Von Papen government. At the last moment the chancellor had lunched with Hitler and in their discussion the breach between them was widened. Von Papen then went quickly to Neudeck, where President Von Hindenburg was resting on his estate, received from him authority to solve the rebelling at his disposal, giving him almost dictatorial powers. The aged president told the chancellor he was at liberty to take this step and the rebelling tried to vote no confidence in Von Papen's government and its $500,000,000 reconstruction program, which seemed a certainty. This would give the chancellor's tenure at least three months further life.

The entire German press features the Neudeck confab as of historic moment. There is no doubt that Von Papen enjoys the president's full confidence and the chancellor will not yield even to a Nazi-Catholic combination unless the president can be shown that such a coalition would set up a presidential and not a party cabinet, and that it would offer a concrete program of action, acceptable to the majority of the rebelling and at least as good or better than Von Papen's.

Clara Zetkin, seventy-five-year-old Communist, presided over the opening session of the rebelling, being elected to that prerogative by being the oldest member. She demanded the impeachment of the president and cabinet in a long speech. The National Socialists behaved with dignity and with the aid of the Catholic Centralists and Bavarian People's party, they elected as speaker Hermann Goring, one of Hitler's lieutenants. Goring declared he would act impartially but would stand for nothing derogatory to the national honor.

LAST will of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, signed by her just three weeks before her death, was filed for probate in Chicago. Edwin Krenn, the Austrian architect who was Mrs. Rockefeller's close friend and business associate, is the principal beneficiary, being bequeathed one-twelfth of the estate. To her daughter, Mrs. Hubert H. H. McCormick, she left one-third of the estate; to her daughter, Mrs. Hubert H. H. McCormick, she left one-third of the estate; to her daughter, Mrs. Hubert H. H. McCormick, she left one-third of the estate.

Muriel Oser, one-sixth; and to her son Fowler McCormick, one-twelfth. Edward A. Dato, Krenn's partner in a real estate firm, has announced that before Mrs. McCormick died Krenn signed an agreement with Dato by which he waived all claims to the estate as well as his interest in the firm of Krenn & Dato, and accepted in lieu thereof a guarantee of $200,000 a month income for life.

The estate was once estimated to have a value of $40,000,000, but it has been greatly depleted.
