Red Cross To Furnish Cloth For Relief Work

Through an Act passed by the last session of Congress, 500,000 bales of cotton owned by the federal government have been donated to the American Red Cross to be made up into yard goods for distribution to needy families during the coming fall and winter.

Local agencies interested in relief work in this vicinity are requested to take their requisitions for cloth to Mrs. A. L. Steger on Friday of this week so that local requisitions can be sent to county Red Cross headquarters immediately, in order that the materials can be secured in the near future.

Materials which can be secured include prints, gingham, muslin, outing flannel, shirting and birdseye—to be used for women's dresses, children's dresses and wash suits, men's and boys' shirts, slips for women and girls, night clothing for men, women and children, and diapers for infants. The limit which can be secured for each needy family is placed at 20 yards of materials.

Relief agencies are requested to be fair in asking for requisitions of materials, and to order only for those who are actually in need of charity.

Amount Of Primary Money Is Announced

The Superintendent of Public Instruction has forwarded to the Sylvan clerk the amount each school district will receive from the primary school funds. There are, according to the census of 1931, 645 pupils in the township schools, and the rate of the apportionment is $15.14 per pupil. Following is the amount each district will receive:

No. 2, Sylvan, 16 pupils	$242.44
No. 3, fr. Sylvan and Lima, 609 pupils	7706.26
No. 4, Sylvan, 69 pupils	899.26
No. 5, fr. Sylvan and Sharon, 18 pupils	196.82
No. 6, fr. Sylvan and Grass Lake, 12 pupils	181.68
No. 7, Sylvan, 32 pupils	484.48
No. 8, Sylvan, 13 pupils	196.82

The Sylvan treasurer has not yet received the funds from the county treasurer, nor has the amount of the library money that each school will receive from fines paid to the county treasurer from the various courts been reported.

Factory Smoke Stack Leveled By Wrecker

As a result of the wrecking of the tall brick smoke stack at the old Glazier Stove Co. plant last Friday, Chelsea loses an old landmark which was the pride of every resident during the more rosy days in local manufacturing history.

The stack was erected about 25 years ago by the stove company. It was 132 feet in height and 12 feet in circumference at the base, containing an estimated 50,000 circular blocks, with brick base.

W. W. Scribner of Jackson was in charge of felling operations. The huge stack was felled in a manner similar to that of cutting down a tree. Bricks were taken from the northwest corner of the base and prys were used at the opposite corner to tip the stack in a northwesterly direction.

J. A. Merrill of the Chelsea Foundry and Manufacturing Co. will salvage the bricks and blocks and offer them for sale to the public.

Village Taxes Must Be Paid By October 17th

At the regular meeting of the Chelsea common council, held Monday evening, action was taken to extend the time limit for payment of village taxes to Monday, October 17th, which is positively the last day that the treasurer is permitted to accept the taxes.

According to J. L. Kilmer, village treasurer, he has received $5465.70 to date. The total tax to be collected is $9759.21. It is expected that practically all of the amount will be collected, due to the low rate, which was reduced this year to $6.50 per thousand valuation.

BARNHART-HOFFMAN WEDDING

Henry Van Dyke officiating. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McDonald of Adrian, the latter a sister of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at the home of the groom's parents on Lincoln St. Covers were laid for sixteen, the guests including Mr. and Mrs. McDonald and Mr. and Mrs. Alban Hoffman of Adrian, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stiller of Ann Arbor, Philip Hoffman and daughter Patricia of Detroit, and Douglas Watkins of Manchester.

FORMER LOCAL RESIDENT VICTIM OF AUTO CRASH

Paul O. Bacon, former well known resident of Chelsea, died at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning at Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit, of injuries received several hours earlier when the automobile in which he was riding alone collided with a truck driven by Leo Walker of Detroit, at the intersection of Michigan Ave. and Greenfield Road, Detroit. Mr. Bacon had spent the evening with Chelsea relatives and was en route to his home at the Shrine club when the accident occurred.

Walker was released after making a statement to the police. Mr. Bacon was the son of William and Lela Congdon-Bacon, and was born in Chelsea, July 3, 1888. His grandfather, James Congdon, was one of the founders of Chelsea village. He graduated from Chelsea public school in 1906, later completing a course at Michigan State College, Lansing.

For several years he was associated with his father in the office of the Wm. Bacon-Holmes Co. He enlisted for service in the World war, and served in the Flying Squadrons stationed at Champaign, Ill., Arkansas and Florida. He had been a resident of Detroit since 1919 and for the past five years had held a position with the Detroit Gasket and Mfg. Co.

Mr. Bacon was a member of Olive Lodge, No. 186, F. & A. M. and Olive Chapter, No. 140, R. A. M., of Chelsea, and the Mystic Shrine, of Detroit. Surviving are a brother, Wirt, of Ypsilanti, and four sisters, Mrs. Guy Thompson of Lapeer, Mrs. George Leonard of Detroit, and Mrs. Verna Fordyce and Mrs. A. A. Palmer of Chelsea.

Funeral services will be held at two o'clock this afternoon at the Methodist church. Rev. Wm. J. Palmer will officiate and interment will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

Sunday Hunting Laws Vary In Provisions

Sunday hunting laws, now applicable to 14 counties in the lower peninsula of Michigan are not uniform in their provisions and regulations in one county "closed" to Sunday hunting may not pertain to another county listed similarly, according to the Department of Conservation.

In only three of these counties is all hunting on Sunday prohibited. These counties are Lenawee, Monroe and Sanilac. Monroe excepts the marshes and permits hunting for migratory game birds on the marshes of Lake Erie on Sunday.

In Tuscola, Shiawassee and Washtenaw counties, Sunday hunting is permitted only to owners and lessees of property hunting on their own lands. All others are forbidden to hunt.

In all other counties listed as having "no Sunday hunting," hunting is permitted if one obtains the consent of the owner or lessee. These counties include Huron, Lapeer, Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, St. Clair and Macomb counties. The townships in Wayne and Macomb listed under these regulations are: Greenfield, Redford, Plymouth, Gratiot, Hamtramck, Livonia, Grosse Pointe, and Northville. The regulations for these townships in Wayne and Macomb counties do not apply to shooting wild water fowl in the Detroit and St. Clair Rivers and Lake St. Clair.

The Sunday hunting regulations in Huron and Tuscola counties do not prohibit hunting wild water fowl on Sundays on the marshes of Lake Huron and Saginaw Bays.

Weber Buys Geddes Interest In Princess

A business transaction which will be of interest locally was consummated last Thursday, when J. E. Weber purchased the interest of his partner, W. G. Geddes, in the Princess Theatre. Geddes & Weber have operated the Princess in partnership since July 1, 1919, when they purchased the enterprise from Glory Dennis. They have at all times maintained a policy of showing only pictures of the best class that could be obtained, and have kept up to date in the line of equipment, having added sound mechanism soon after this invention became practical.

Mr. Weber states that he will maintain the policy of showing only the best in pictures, and that he will inaugurate some new features in the near future which he is sure will meet with the approval of the local theatre-going public.

Mr. Geddes has not decided upon any plans for the future.

Prohibition Rally To Be Held In Ann Arbor

What is predicted to be the greatest prohibition rally in the history of Washtenaw County will take place on October 19, when Dr. Daniel Poling, New York, America's prohibition leader, will address a luncheon for men and women at the Michigan League, Ann Arbor.

Prof. E. C. Goddard of the University law faculty, will be the county chairman of the luncheon committee, sponsored by the Washtenaw County Civic League and the County W. C. T. U. Chairmen in the communities of the county are being appointed by Prof. Goddard.

Dr. Poling is chairman of the Allied Forces for Prohibition, Editor of the Christian Herald, President of the World's Christian Endeavor Union and is widely known as a Rodeo preacher. He headed the Allied Prohibition speakers who held a series of meetings in Ann Arbor last October. Associated with him for the past thirteen months was Colonel Raymond Robins, Social Economist and prohibition speaker, who disappeared mysteriously recently in New York when he had an appointment with President Hoover.

Dr. Poling is known the world over as a magnetic speaker and leader of social reform.

Game License Necessary
If Carrying Firearms

The use of gun permits to legalize the carrying of firearms in hunting areas become ineffective October 1 and will remain ineffective until after the close of the various hunting seasons during the coming winter.

Beginning October 1 when the first of the hunting season opens and until January 31, 1933 when the last of the open season ends, everyone carrying a gun in game areas must have a small game or a deer hunting license, and persons carrying only gun permits will be apprehended for hunting without a license, according to the Department of Conservation.

DEXTER—Considerable comment is made concerning the heavy growth of vegetation on the flats along Mill Creek, which have been dry this summer, for the first time of any length, it is probable, since the original dam was built, possibly nearly 100 years ago. Where did those seeds come from?—Leader.

WEEKLY NEWS PULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 21.—Michigan home owners will be benefited by the new Federal Home Loan bank system which was established in the closing hours of the recent session of Congress.

President Hoover promptly appointed the following board of directors: Franklin W. Ford, banker, of New Jersey, chairman; Wm. H. Best, lawyer, of Pennsylvania, President of the U. S. Building and Loan League; H. Morton Bodfish, of Illinois, executive manager of the U. S. Building and Loan League; Nathan Adams, banker, of Dallas, Texas; Dr. John M. Gries, economist, of Ohio. These men are all very eminent in their business and professional lines.

The new board has divided the country into twelve districts, each to have a home loan bank. Michigan and Indiana comprise the sixth district and a home loan bank will be located at Indianapolis, with a capital of $8,000,000. The members of the home loan banks, that is, the subscribers of their stock, are confined to building and loan associations, savings and loan associations, cooperative banks, homestead associations and insurance companies.

Building and loan associations who become members of the home loan bank will have to make an original stock subscription of one percent of the aggregate of the unpaid principal of the subscribers' home mortgage loans, but not less than $1500.00. The Government will put in a part of the capital on the start, but this will be gradually withdrawn. It is impossible to go into all the details of the home loan bank system in this space.

The following contains the chief points relative to the functions and objectives of the Home Loan Bank system:

1. To refinance existing mortgages with a view of reducing installment payments, and to meet the needs of withdrawing members and depositors of the subscribing institutions. In the present depression many such individuals have found that their funds are frozen and unavailable.

2. To provide members with funds temporarily to carry worthy borrowers who are not able to meet their obligations.

3. To assist such borrowers to pay taxes and insurance.

4. To finance modernization, repair and maintenance of houses.

5. To provide funds for lifting short time mortgages which have been unexpectedly called for payment, due to bank failures and general financial stress.

6. For the building of desired and needed small houses.

OUR NEIGHBORS

MILAN—Work of re-surfacing the Milan-Saline road has been started, according to announcements from the Washtenaw County Board of Road Commissioners. The complete re-surfacing of the road was placed in the county road program last spring, giving Milan another hard surface road to the north. The scraping, leveling and coating work will take about four weeks, according to the commissioners and during that time the road will be closed to traffic.—Leader.

BROOKLYN—Thieves broke into the local hand car shop Thursday night, stealing two picks, a hammer and a mail. With these they got into the Brooklyn Co-op shop, where they helped themselves to four five-gallon cans of lubricating oils. Either they were frightened away or the one-gallon cans sitting nearby were too small to attract them, for nothing else was taken. Sheriff Lavitt was called and made investigation. The same night a new stove was stolen from Dwight Foster's shack south of Walter Reading's farm.—Exponent.

MANCHESTER—It is reported on the street that the railroad company will discontinue the morning and evening trains on the Toledo-Jackson branch but postmaster Leeson has no information on the subject. That would be a distinct inconvenience to the business and other people, as a large amount of mail is carried on the morning train and we do not want it discontinued. Since 1855 these trains have carried passengers and for over 75 years, mail, and we could not well do without it.—Enterprise.

WAYNE—Enrollment in the three Wayne schools at the close of the first week of school, reached 1204. There is expected to be little, if any increase in this figure as it is thought that all children who intend to attend school this year have enrolled to date. This figure is an increase of 35 over the average attendance last year.—Review.

TROUSSE—The village council has authorized the chief of police here to issue permits for the extermination of birds by firearms, such permits to be good until November 1. The council also instructed the clerk to appeal to the state for aid in the purchase of ammunition in abating the nuisance.—Herald.

METHODIST HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carlton entertained one day last week, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Boyd, Mrs. Etta Lane and Mrs. S. M. Poole, all of Highland Park.

Mrs. Helen Miller had as her guest Thursday, Mrs. J. M. Miller of Gladwin, Mrs. C. A. Canfield of Royal Oak, Mrs. Jennie Wilcox and Mrs. C. N. Miller of Brown City.

Mrs. Dora Davis had as a caller, Mr. Ripley, of Jackson.

Mrs. Isaac H. Field of Albion was a caller Saturday. She takes pride in her son, Rev. Frank Field, the district superintendent of the Port Huron District.

Miss Estella Wright of Ypsilanti was a visitor of Mrs. Frances Robtoy on Sunday.

Miss Edith Warner is spending the week with her sister and nieces in Adrian.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Sanderson and daughters of Wayne were Sunday callers of Mrs. Josephine Brewer.

Mr. and Mrs. James Struthers of Sharon were early callers of the latter's sister, Miss Emma Leeman, on Saturday.

Miss Bertha Malone, a teacher of German in the Detroit schools, and Miss Mae Helmers, a nurse in the Highland Park schools, gave Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carlton a surprise visit Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Brabb has so far recovered from her recent illness that she was able Monday afternoon to take a motor ride.

Charles Park has returned from his month's visit with his daughter in Harbor Springs.

Mrs. Carlton of Ypsilanti was a visitor of Mrs. Alice B. Chapin on Monday.

Mrs. Margaret Biddle, after spending a month with other Riddles in Detroit, brought her Riddle back to the Home on Sunday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Filer entertained on Sunday her sister, Mrs. Mattie Stroud of Detroit. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Vivian Durham and her son, Harold Durham of the same city.

Dr. Palmer left Wednesday morning to attend the annual conference which holds its sessions in Mt. Clemens this week. Of course we expect and trust that he will be returned here in another five days.

John Hubbard, who has been under the doctor's care for some weeks, does not improve much.

Clarence Field, Mrs. Helen Reeves and Mrs. May Hall of Stockbridge visited the Home on Friday. They had never visited the place before and were very much surprised at the magnitude and appearance and the apparent content of all they talked with. The writer wonders if they could find any other sentiment among the members.

Last Sunday an unusual incident happened at the Home. Four generations in one family were visiting each other: Arthur Carlton, his son, his grandson and his great grandson. Four generations of Carltons, and not one ashamed of the other!

Rev. John Somers, pastor of the Methodist church in Royal Oak, and his wife were guests of Rev. and Mrs. Palmer on Friday.

Mrs. Emma Neff spent a couple of days last week at her old home in Ypsilanti.

Rev. Rial Simons of Davison Methodist church called one day last week. Sunday, Mrs. Charles Kellogg of Highland Park was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carlton.

Sunday, Mrs. M. E. Andrews entertained her sister, Mrs. W. F. Switzer, her son and daughter of Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Mary Howe's visitors Sunday were her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Richards, her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Newell Hubbard, all of Detroit.

Miss Kathryn Lawyer, Irvin Balgan and Joe Barkman of Wayne visited the Home.

Morris B. Chapin of Flint called on his mother, Mrs. Alice B. Chapin on Monday.

Sunday, Mrs. Anna Kennedy, Mrs. James Gardner and Mrs. Rose Bell, all of Detroit, motored out just to see the Home they had heard so much about.

Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carlton's callers were Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Carlton and Mrs. N. Fraud, all of Highland Park.

Mrs. Sarah MacGregor returned from her three weeks' visit at Romeo.

Her brother, John P. Gilmore, and his daughter accompanied her.

Mrs. Susan Danson writes from Detroit that she is having a fine time there and that she enjoyed her 88th birthday on Thursday. She reminds us of the boy's answer to his teacher's question why the lions did not devour Daniel when he was thrown in their den—"because he was all backbone and nerves."

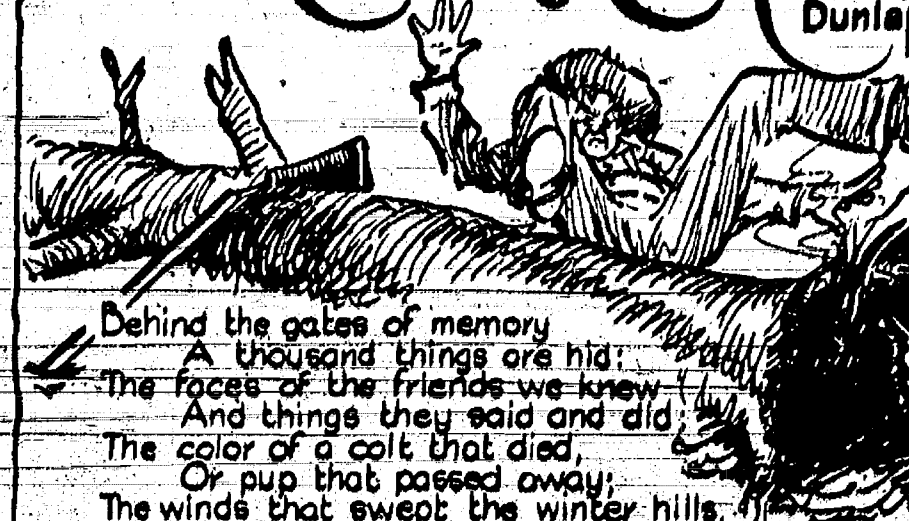

WATERLOO

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Austin of Argentine spent Sunday at the home of the latter's brother, Walter, Vicary and family.

Rev. Reed has been transferred to Detroit and Rev. Highly will preach at both churches here next Sunday. All services at the usual time.

The Ladies' Aid have planned to hold their annual Fair and supper on December 2nd this year.

The Civet Cat

by
A. J. Dunlap

Behind the gates of memory
A thousand things are hid;
The faces of the friends we knew
And things they said and did;
The color of a coat that died,
Or pup that passed away;
The winds that swept the winter hills,
The flowers that bloomed in May
And sweet perfumes still linger there,
The winds have blown away;
The fragrance of the orchard lot,
And swaths of new-cut hay;
The odor of the civet cat,
Uncivilized and wild,
That in the early autumn time
The evening air defied.

It floated from the pasture lands
And by the breezes borne
It drifted over stubble fields
And ranks of ripening corn.
It's tangled in my memory
With games we used to play
Around the barn and cattle sheds
And ricks of grain and hay
If I should buy a thousand farms
Whatever else I'd do,
On every farm I'd propagate
A civet cat or two.

New Regulations Rule State Hunting Season

With the opening of the waterfowl hunting season throughout the state October 1, upper peninsula hunters will have their first opportunity in years to hunt Ruffed Grouse. The 1932 rabbit and fox squirrel hunting seasons also open October 1, north of the Straits of Mackinac.

In addition to changes in the length of the waterfowl hunting season this year, several changes were made in other waterfowl hunting regulations by the federal government and the Conservation Commission has acted to make state regulations conform to the federal requirements.

Woodducks, elders and ruddy ducks and buffleheads (butterballs) may not be taken this year. The total daily possession limit remains unchanged at 15, but of the 15 not more than 10 may be of any one or the aggregate of canvasback, redhead, greater and lesser scaup, ringneck, bluewing, greenwing, cinnamon teal, shoveller and gadwall.

The possession limit is two days' legal bag and the season's limit is 100 ducks, and birds may not be held in possession more than 10 days after the close of the season, which is November 30.

The limit of geese and brant is four in a day and eight in the season. Ross' and cackling geese are protected.

Ten Florida gallinules or rails may be taken in one day with a limit of 20 in possession at one time. The season for these birds opens simultaneously with that of the waterfowl.

The waterfowl and shore bird seasons open at noon, Eastern Standard Time, Saturday, October 1.

While the hunting season for fox squirrels opens October 1 in the upper peninsula, lower peninsula hunters must wait until October 15. The daily bag limit of squirrels is five, with ten in possession at one time and 15 in the season. The fox squirrel season lasts but ten days, closing October 10 in the northern peninsula.

The rabbit season opens in the upper peninsula October 1 and will remain open until January 31. The daily limit is five, with ten in possession at one time and 50 in a season. The rabbit season in the lower peninsula will be 15 days shorter than in the upper peninsula, opening October 15 and closing January 31.

The 12 days open partridge season north of the Straits begins the morning of October 1 and closes October 12. The possession limit is five in one day, 10 at any one time and 10 in a season. Partridges may not be held in possession more than 10 days after the season closes. The lower peninsula partridge season does not open until Oct. 15 to be simultaneous with the open season on other game birds in that part of the state.

Ask Onion Growers To Destroy All Culls
Michigan onion growers are advised by the entomology department of Michigan State College that a great deal of trouble with next year's crop can be avoided if the piles of cull onions from the present harvest are destroyed.

The piles of culls furnish ideal places for the deposit of eggs which hatch into onion maggots. These larvae pupate in the culls or in the soil beneath the piles and emerge as adult flies in time to deposit eggs on the seed onions as they appear above ground.

Adult flies do not all emerge at one time so the laying of eggs is prolonged over a considerable period. All these insects do not pass the winter in piles of culls but the number which go through the winter as adult flies in sheltered places is much smaller than the number surviving in the trash piles.

The College entomologists estimate that one-half or more of the damage done by onion maggots could be eliminated if the cull piles were destroyed immediately after harvest. The destruction can be accomplished by burying the culls a foot or more beneath compacted soil or by burning.

Any culls left in the field until spring should be plowed under as deeply as possible. This is much less effective than destruction in the fall but is better than permitting the flies to develop unhindered.

Destruction of the culls should be adopted as a practice by all growers in a district as neglect by a few growers may lessen the value of work done by their more careful neighbors.

Rev. Henry W. Lenz, pastor of Salem M. E. church, was the speaker at the Monday evening Kiwanis meeting, choosing for his subject "Optimism vs. Pessimism." Rev. Lenz is a forceful speaker, and he brought out a great many good points which, if practiced daily by the public, would do much to cure present-day ills. He severely criticized the radical pessimists and also warned against undue optimism in meeting conditions as they now exist.

A Section of The Standard Devoted to Items Concerning the Chelsea Public Schools

EDITED BY THE STUDENTS OF CHELSEA HIGH SCHOOL

Chelsea Hi School Football Outlook

(By Richard Sowers)

The Chelsea High football squad was called out for the first practice on September 6. Coach Thayer issued squads and lockers to all reporting. The squad numbers twenty-eight in all, and about ten men with experience are on the squad.

The first few days were spent in light exercises and passing. The squad reported in excellent condition and were introduced to Coach Thayer's new helper, Mr. Cross.

The second week of practice saw the light work being done away with and hard scrimmages taking its place. The team is in fine spirits and is in excellent condition. No injuries as yet mar the fitness of the squad.

Election for the purpose of choosing a captain took place on the Friday prior to the opening game. Ren Hutzel was elected and Glenwood Novoss by running second was chosen his lieutenant.

The first team will be outfitted in new jerseys and pants. The jerseys are solid gold in color with purple numerals both front and rear.

At the present time a movement is under foot for the idea of having a second team with regular games. This team if organized will be coached by Mr. Cross.

The first game takes place on Friday, September 23, at Dundee. The Dundee team is reported to be one of the strongest in the league.

Football Schedule

Books Now On Sale

(By Harold Alexander)

The Chelsea High School Seniors have received their new football schedule books, donated and printed by The Chelsea Standard, which contains "Seepie's" illustrations of the changes and major violations of the football rules. It also contains many new plays.

Many persons go to a football game to see the boys get chucked up and the ball kicked around. This is only half of the game. The other half is to understand the game step by step. Schedules are provided for this. By right up with the crowd and know what is going on. When you get a schedule you help to do two things. First, you learn to understand the game, and second, help the Seniors to earn a trip to the other Seniors' home town.

Many of our local merchants have been very kind in contributing to the book by putting their advertisements in the schedule. The booklets retail at ten cents (10c) from any C. H. S. Senior.

Our Hall Patrol

(By Edward Steiner)

Desks have been placed at the north and west entrances to the high school building for the purpose of carrying out an efficient system of hall patrol. During all hours of the school session, some student is stationed at each of these desks. The rotation of students holding these positions is such that each of a group of seven spend one period a day at a desk for a period of one week, following which another group of seven divide their time accordingly.

The duties of the person stationed at the north entrance are to aid visitors in reaching the particular class they wish to observe or to assist them in locating the particular student or teacher with whom they may have business to transact.

The student stationed at the west end of the main corridor makes it his business to know the whereabouts of every student each hour of the school session. The process by which this check on students is obtained is as follows: Every student who passes through the hall or up and down the stairs is questioned as to his destination, and is checked upon his return from said destination. Attendance slips, which teachers place on a spindle outside each classroom door, are collected, recorded, and turned in to the office of the superintendent.

Thus far, this method has proved very successful, inasmuch as it keeps a perfect tab on the activities of each and every high school student during the school day.

The Staff's Plea

(By Richard Sowers)

This is your first newspaper. You have been lucky enough to have been donated three newspaper columns in which to print news of your school's activities. It is up to you to make Seepie's worth while. Do not only read Seepie's, but send in your ideas—things that happen in the school.

Let's all try to make it the liveliest part of the Chelsea Standard. Don't leave it up to the staff. If you do your share the staff will be overjoyed.

Your paper should promote loyalty to the Chelsea Public School. Will it? And it should endeavor to obtain the interest of the entire community. Will it?

Remember—your paper is a mirror. If you don't like it, don't blame the newspaper, blame yourself. It's up to you.

Journalism Club To Include Large Staff

(By Richard Sowers)

With an Editor, Betty Wise, an Assistant Editor, Anna Geddes, and an Editor, Miss Barrus, our Journalism Club hopes to make rapid progress. The remainder of the staff will consist of a Sports Editor, Assistant Sports Editor, Club Editor, Feature Editor and News Editor. These are to be chosen by a committee, appointed by the Editor, and will be announced in the near future.

The club, formed as a result of Mr. McClure's generosity, intends to edit a three column school paper in the Chelsea Standard under the heading of "Seepie's" (CPS).

The meetings will be held every Tuesday during Activities Period. Greater membership is desired.

First Impressions Of 1932-33

(Written by a Senior)

When the school bell first rang to usher in the New Year at Chelsea High School, a band of thirty-eight Seniors, and countless undergraduates were given a startling surprise.

We wondered whether we were in Chelsea High School after all. Maybe we were somewhere else. In fact, we are still getting acquainted.

We found that the time-honored institution of the Study-Hall was quite passé and that in its place we had a real library. The bookcases which used to be in a room by themselves surrounded by varied specimens of taxidermy were on the stage now, looking for all the world like three Musketeers, grim sentinels of study, holding the desks.

As for the desks, there were more of them, and they were all polished and smooth. No longer can we spend idle moments studying the meanings of the weird figures and mysterious initials carved or drawn hereon.

Then, there was silence in this library. Yes, in seven places the seven mounds of silence were pasted, seven reminders of the fate of all who enter here.

Another thing we noticed were the new lockers. No excuse now for anyone losing a lunch and their sense of humor before midday.

Changes, changes, everywhere we went. Clean, shiny floors—slippery, too—clear, sparkling window glass, and pictures that looked as if they too had undergone a thorough bath.

"We liked the pretty yellow curtains in the Superintendent's office. And, by the way, the Principal has his office, too, this year, located just off the second landing."

On the whole we were pleased with our revised school and expect to enjoy our last year here very much.

Museum Club Will Be a New Feature

(By Anna Grant)

We are planning to start a Museum Club under the capable direction of Miss Dancer and Mr. Thompson. The Club has two chief aims—Scientific and Historical. We already have a fairly large collection of stuffed birds, stuffed animals and old pictures. These are to be made ready for exhibit. The Club is much interested in collecting exhibits of rocks and other specimens of scientific interest, which will be put in shape for exhibit with the assistance of Mr. Thompson.

The second large project to be undertaken by the Club under the direction of Miss Dancer is to collect material to illustrate the history of Chelsea, Sylvan township, Washtenaw county, or any material of historical interest. Any contributions of such material by townspeople will be much appreciated. One room has been set apart as a museum. And the Club hopes to soon have some things ready for exhibit.

Happenings In The Elementary Grades

(By Verna Adam)

Kindergarten: In the kindergarten we find a group of 36 boys and girls between the ages of four and five years, starting out in the large field of education. Each child seems to be somewhat enthused about attending school and therefore seem happy at their new work. At present they are awaiting the arrival of their new equipment which is to arrive some time during the next week.

First Grade: The second year of schooling for 33 boys and girls, sixteen of which are girls. The children wish to inform you that they have been playing the game of "Hide and Seek" through which they are learning to read. They are also learning to count. And it seems that they are also interested in the appearance of their room for they are coloring leaves and flowers for its decoration.

Second Grade: The Second Grade consists of 30 boys and girls working industriously at their studies. They inform us that they have new shades and a new reading table of which they are glad. Miss Dancer has placed many educational posters on "Health," "Mother Goose Rhymes and Pets" about the room for the benefit of her pupils.

Third Grade: The Third Grade has 28 pupils, 9 girls and 19 boys. They are to have new slate boards in their room under which they are writing their names so that they will appear there until the building is torn down.

Fourth Grade: The Fourth Graders, consisting of 21 boys and girls are designing a border for the display section of the new slate boards which have been installed this year. This display section which has been added to the tops of all the boards, adds much to the attractiveness of the room as well as filling a long felt need.

Fifth Grade: The Fifth Grade has an enrollment of 29 pupils, 16 boys and 13 girls. The children are proud of their new slate boards, refurnished desks, etc. They have just completed a border of autumn leaves. The children are anxious to display their work on their new bulletin boards.

Sixth Grade: The Sixth Grade is the largest grade in the elementary school. In this grade there are 33 boys and girls. However, they are lacking five classmates. Namely, Irene Wahl, Helen Hughes, Robert Walsh, Duane Rowe and Chester Bowman.

Library News (By Margaret Goetz)

A Library Club, under the leadership of Miss Ruth Dancer, was organized Thursday. At this time we have a membership of 29. At a special meeting Monday, Doris Wolk was elected chairman and four committees were organized.

The chief work of this Club will be to assist Miss Dancer in the High School library and have charge of the elementary library. The club is making preparations to reorganize the books of the elementary library and to redecorate it and make it an attractive place for younger children to use.

The Library Club hopes to have the elementary library open for use early next week. Hours will be from 3:30 to 4:00 on Mondays and Thursdays of every week for children from the first through the sixth grade.

Our Safety Patrol (By Edward Steiner)

A temporary safety patrol has been appointed by Supt. Poore. Its chief function is to safeguard the passage of children at street intersections while going to and from school.

Mr. Poore states that next week there will be organized a permanent safety patrol, who will serve throughout the school year. We expect this patrol to serve in various other capacities to be decided upon at a later date.

THE BLACK BOX OF SILENCE

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—Having demonstrated the power of an extraordinary silence, the "Black Box" which he has perfected, Owen Landis, young inventor, in the little town of Carthage, confides to his neighbor, Markham, the device, which he expects to be used for evil purposes. That night the black box is stolen from a safe in Landis' laboratory.

CHAPTER II—Landis tells Markham the only person, beside himself, knowing the combination of the safe, is Betty Lawson, with whom the inventor has fallen in love. He tells her of a woman's portrait, found beneath the window of the laboratory.

CHAPTER III—Betty, daughter of a college professor, is well known to Markham. Both he and Landis believe her to be above suspicion, but to assure himself he takes an opportunity to tell her of the black box. He tells her of a woman's portrait, found beneath the window of the laboratory.

CHAPTER IV—Markham, vaguely suspicious of Canby's honesty, searches his room for the black box. He finds it in a trunk of a woman's, and a complete set of burglar's tools, which he takes to the police. He tells her of a woman's portrait, found beneath the window of the laboratory.

CHAPTER V—At Portland they find confirmation of their fears. Three strangers, riding in a Fleetwing, and a fourth, in a car, are seen to enter the town. They are the only possible suspects. Markham and Landis decide to follow them, although advised from Louisville that the black box is not in their hands.

CHAPTER VI—While he and Landis are sleeping, Markham's car is stolen and wrecked. He awakes, and, finding the car gone, he goes to the police. He tells her of a woman's portrait, found beneath the window of the laboratory.

They waited, perforce, and when the little man came out he said, "McDowell—keep the store—may have a cut or two."

There was another wait while the agent hammered on the door of McDowell's emporium; and when it was finally opened, more uncertainty ensued. "He might have some. He'd come down and see."

After a time the sleepy storekeeper came shuffling down, and a search was made for gas. It finally proved successful to the extent of unearthing three of the familiar five gallon cans, but the storekeeper had only a small funnel, and it had been carefully mended. After it had been found the clock on the router's dash had measured off the better part of another hour.

"We're out of the fight, so far as keeping cases on the Fleetwing is concerned," Markham grumbled, as the car stormed the grade.

They had surmounted the first long grade, of possibly five miles, when a sudden turn in the road brought a group of mine buildings into view, the scene partly lighted by the red glow of a conflagration at the roadside. Markham let the car roll slowly up. When he stopped, Broughton put a foot on the running board.

"Well, Red got us, after all. Blew the safe and the commissary all to hell, and set the wreck afire."

Landis saw two blanket-covered figures lying under a tree and said, "Casualties?"

"Yes; murder. My day foreman and the watchman. There was a gun battle; both of the foreman's guns were empty when we found them. But what's running us all ragged is the fact that nobody in the whole camp heard a sound while all this was going on; wouldn't have known about it till morning. I suppose it's a mine's gas."

"What's that?" Landis asked. "You say nobody heard the explosion? But perhaps there wasn't any explosion."

"Oh, yes, there was; sure looks as if it had been hit by an E. shell. Besides, there was gun fire."

Just here one of his men drew Broughton away.

"Not much doubt as to who has your black box now, is there?" Markham asked Landis. "Not very much. The circumstantial evidence is piling in too thick and fast to leave much room for doubt."

"I don't want to believe that these men are the criminals," said Landis. "Why not?"

"Don't you see? If they are, Herbert Canby is the fourth."

"He is going to marry Betty."

"Um! That's up to you, isn't it?"

"Not now. It has gone too far."

Markham made no comment upon this until after they had passed the point where the shorter road by way of Red Horse pass came in. Then he said, "You have only yourself to blame, Owen. It's just as I told you the night you showed me your invention; a girl can't wait forever. I don't suppose you have ever asked Betty to marry you."

"No, I haven't," was the straightforward confession. "It's this way. Betty has always had a small time of it as her father's daughter. The 'U' doesn't pay it's faculty members enough to warrant any other kind of time for their families. And she deserves something better."

"So you've been waiting until you could invent something that you could sell for enough money to let her wear diamonds? You don't know. Betty Lawson half as well as I do, even if you are her lover. I—hello—what's that?"

In the bottom of the gulch, some distance below the road, a fire, too large to figure as a campfire, was burning. Markham stopped the car.

"Quicker," said Landis. "Doesn't seem to be anything down there to burn."

"No; but I haven't curiosity enough to make me efface down there to find out what it is. I don't know how you feel, but I'm about dead for sleep. Let's go."

Due to a blowout which hit them shortly after passing the gulch of the mysterious fire, and which imposed a rather tedious job of casing changing, the early summer dawn was breaking as they skirted Lake Topaz. A little later they came to a group of mine buildings, one of which bore the legend:

"LITTLE ALICE MINING COMPANY
"MAXWELL & STARBUCK."

"By George!" Markham exclaimed, as he read the sign. "I never knew before just where that mine was."

"What about it?" Landis asked. "Why nothing much, except that I own a few shares of stock in it; one of the items in the little legacy my mother left me. She was distantly related to Starbuck; or rather to Mrs. Starbuck's family. I've never taken the trouble to look up the location of the mine. I dimly remember the Starbuck. They stopped over in Carthage with us on their wedding trip when I was a kid. If they live in Brewster, we'll look them up."

A few miles farther they found themselves looking down on a little city bespreading Timmingson river. A little later they stopped in front of a modern hotel, "turning the roadster over to the uniformed 'hostler' they went in to register."

"Night driving?" queried the clerk. "Yes; from Copah," Markham answered.

"Then you won't want to wait for the regular breakfast before you turn in. We can give you quick service in the grill. Or, if you like, I'll have it sent up to your suite."

"That will be better. Have you had anybody else in from the east this morning?"

"Yes; a party of three—came in a couple of hours ago. A Doctor Lawson and his daughter, and Mr. Canby. 'Nobody else?' Markham pressed.

"No. Were you expecting to meet friends here?"

"These three gentlemen from Louisville," said Markham, producing his memorandum of the three names.

The clerk read the names and smiled. "You've got your schedules mixed, some way," he suggested. "We have reservations made for these gentlemen for the twenty-eighth. You've beat them to it by a week or more."

"So?" said Markham. "That's a bit odd. They've been just ahead of us all the way across from Indiana, and they drove out of Copah last night a very short time before we did."

"Well," said the clerk, "they'll have to take what they can get, if they turn up now. Their date is the twenty-eighth. You say they left Copah ahead of you? Then you must have passed them somewhere on the road."

"Maybe we did," Markham offered; and with that they followed the boy to the elevator, somewhat mystified.

They were up in time to make the dining room for a late luncheon. At a table opposite sat an elderly man of a type which is fast disappearing, even in the farther West; the pioneer who had made good, and is at last able to take his ease in a civilization for which he was once one of the pathfinders.

Never hampered by the formality, Markham passed his card across the table and got precisely the reaction the elderly man's appearance presaged. "That's neighborly. Glad to know you, Mr. Markham. My name is Starbuck," and he reached across the table and shook hands.

"Thanks," said Markham, with his good-natured grin. Then, "Not, by any chance, Mr. William Starbuck, a partner in the Little Alice mine?"

"The 'bronzed-faced' mine," smiled. "There's only one of me, I guess."

"Um—You've just shaken my hand with a runaway coach by name Mr. Starbuck; also, with a very small fractional owner in your mine. My mother was a Fairbanks on her mother's side; and once I think it was on your wedding trip—you stopped off for a short time with us in Carthage. But excuse me; you shook hands with me, won't you repeat the operation with my friend, Owen Landis?"

"Sure! And he's as welcome to the Timmingson as you are, Walter."

"Ogh!" said Markham. "You don't mean to say you remember my name?"

"Sure I do; now that you've told me who you are. I recollect you as a fat-faced little chap, but, of course, I wouldn't have known you from Adam now. What are you and Mr. Landis doing?"

"No plans whatever; just driving about to see how far we can go on many gallons of gas."

"The mine owner nodded. 'I wouldn't believe it, to look at you now—but I was young once, myself, and I sure had a restless foot. I'm sorry Mr. Starbuck and the girls are on a trip east. If they were here we'd have you both out of this dump pronto; not that it isn't a pretty fair sort of posada, at that.'

"I'll say it is," said Markham. "Wouldn't you, Owen?"

Landis agreed. "The Carthage Banner would run double-headed editorial about it for a week. If we had a hotel as good as this at home."

"Speaking of Carthage reminds me," Starbuck put in. "There are three other people from your town in the hotel; got in this morning. Maybe you know 'em—or know about 'em."

Reckless Driver Of Motor Boat Fined

Convicted of driving his motor boat in a reckless manner, John McVeigh, Lenawee county, is the first to be arrested by conservation officers under the law adopted in 1931 making such an act a court offense.

McVeigh was convicted of driving his boat at a high rate of speed on Wampler's lake. Officers claimed he speeded between the beach and the diving tower at the Walter J. Hayes State Park, endangering persons swimming there. He paid a fine with costs of $9.

The new law has had considerable effect in protecting the safety of bathers from speeding boats according to the Parks Division of the Conservation Department.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Startling Victory of Democrats in the Maine Election—
Hoover Calls for Big Budget Cuts—Von Papen Triumphs Over Reichstag.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

GREAT rejoicing among the Democrats, and corresponding dismay in the Republican camp, Maine, normally a rock-ribbed Republican state, has gone Democratic, and everyone is quoting the old adage: "As Maine goes, so goes the Nation."

Other resolutions adopted called for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act, proposed cancellation of foreign war debts and favored adequate national defense. Chicago was selected for the 1933 convention, and Louis A. Johnson of Clarksburg, W. Va., was elected national commander.

HOW the problem of intergovernmental debts may best be solved is the puzzling question that is now being considered by a new organization of business leaders of the nation, seventy-six men prominent in industry, agriculture and labor. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, is the chairman, and the vice chairman include Henry A. Wallace, farm paper publisher, and A. P. Sloan, Jr., Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio, John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain, Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, E. A. O'Neil, president of the American Farm Bureau (agriculture), and Louis Tabor, master of the National Grange.

Mr. Sloan's new forum, it is announced, will devote itself to "highly practical opinion" on the international debts question. PRESIDENT HOOVER started off the week well by calling on the heads of departments and the executives of all other federal activities to cut out all non-essentials from budget requests for the next fiscal year. The President said he had requested Director of the Budget Robert C. Goetz to make every effort to secure a reduction of at least $500,000,000 in the estimates of appropriations for the next year from the appropriations made for the current year, and the co-operation of the responsible administrative officers is necessary to achieve this end. A part of this can be accomplished in reduction of construction activities which have been so greatly speeded up during the past few years as an aid to employment.

From administration sources it was learned the President hoped the total budget reduction might be $800,000,000. Just before sending his message to department heads, the President announced that the government would go ahead with that portion of the construction program which the relief act made contingent on the ability of the treasury to raise the necessary money. He said he had instructed the various departments to speed up the program by the amount of slightly less than $200,000,000.

On Tuesday the War department to advance the government's employment relief efforts, approved a great construction program that calls for the expenditure of $41,577,250 on flood control and rivers and harbors projects. The department expects these activities will provide work for 25,000 persons now jobless.

THOUGH supported by only one-fifth of the reichstag, the government of Chancellor Von Papen of Germany remains in power, for it has the backing of President Von Hindenburg who seems to agree with the chancellor that parliamentary government in the reich is a failure. When the reichstag met Monday Von Papen tried to read the command for its dissolution given him by the president, but Herman Goerring, the Nazi president of the parliament, refused to recognize him until after a vote of non-confidence in the government had been moved by a Nazi and carried by an overwhelming majority.

Von Papen walked out, leaving the decree of dissolution on Goerring's desk. That gentleman announced it was not valid since the reichstag had already overthrown the cabinet. Later he admitted that both the dissolution and the vote of non-confidence were legal, after being rebuked by the president for his action. Government officials said there would be new elections within sixty days, according to the constitution, but the Deutsche Zeitung, mouthpiece of the government, said: "There will be no new elections—no decision on a date of election is expected in the near future."

FOR several days it was believed the "Flying Family," made up of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Hutchinson, their two small daughters and a crew of four, had perished off the coast of Greenland on their flight by stages to Europe. Their huge amphibian plane was forced down and smashed in the ice, but all of them were found alive and unhurt in an Eskimo settlement and were taken to Angmagssalik by the British trawler Lord Talbot. The projected flight of the Hutchinsons over Greenland and Iceland was not approved by the Danish government, and the taking of the children has been severely criticized.

RECEIVERS for the Insull-Elliott Investments, Inc., report to Federal Judge Limley in Chicago that the concern is hopelessly insolvent, its assets being $27,473,394 and its liabilities $27,084,341. Aside from the $138,000,000 which 51,078 persons invested in the stock of the corporation and lost, there still remains a deficit of $78,474,403.

That apparently wipes out the purchasers of $55,045,029 of debenture bonds in the company, with still a deficit of nearly $20,000,000. That is nearly half of what the bankers loaned the corporation.

FOUR years ago John D. Rockefeller, Jr., conceived the idea of restoring the old town of Williamsburg, Va., to the conditions of colonial days. The first step in the project, the restoration of the historic Raleigh tavern, has been completed, and the structure, rebuilt on the original site and furnished in the style in vogue 150 years ago, was opened to the public on Friday.

This one-time has cost more than $200,000 of the $3,000,000 Mr. Rockefeller has contributed for the entire work.

Close by the tavern, which is situated on the "Duke of Gloucester" street, is the old Colonial Capitol building, another of the structure which has been included in the restoration plan and which is now nearing completion.

"Bird of Paradise" is perhaps one of the best known plays ever produced. The pathetic romance of Luana, a child of nature, who falls hopelessly in love with a white man, and as hopelessly sacrifices her love, required a setting in sympathy with the sublime character of her heroism.

That there could be no other setting than Hawaii was easily apparent to David O. Selznick, executive vice president in charge of all RKO production. Thus the production wheels were set in motion. King Vidor, a master a subtleties and poetic screen phrasing, was engaged to direct and the company made the long sea journey to Honolulu.

If there had been any doubts as to the wisdom of this expensive expedition, they were quickly dispelled. The natural beauties of Hawaii, with its waving palms, its placid, moonlight nights, its verdant, lush valleys, its beautiful seascapes and rugged coast line were a delight to Vidor's eyes. There he set up his cameras under the direction of Clyde De Vinna, who photographed "Trader Horn."

The barbaric beauty of the primitive Hawaiian mating dance was caught in all its wild, ecstatic splendor. Amid a circle of flames, Miss Del Rio undulates in the ominous night—a pathetic pawn of custom, waiting for some man to brave the fire and carry her off.

Joel McCrea—rescues her—braves the menacing circle of fire—and carries her off to a deserted, neighboring island, free from the dreaded tabu of her people, momentarily free to love the white girl who captured her. Then the theme of "Bird of Paradise" weaves its inevitable destiny. Luana's people wish to sacrifice her to Pele, the volcano, for having broken the tabu against mating with a white.

Luana is torn between love for Johnny (Joel McCrea) and the primitive terror of sorcery, and in the end makes a magnificent sacrifice that is a classic in the annals of drama.
