Frederic Steiner On Albion Debate Team

Albion, Mich., Nov. 20.—Four members of the men's debate squad of Albion College will take a trip to participate in contests in Illinois and Indiana.

The four men are: Stuart Anderson, Elmore, Ohio; Dwight Large, South Haven; Harry Running, Traverse City; and Frederic Steiner, Chelsea. They are scheduled to meet teams representing Northwestern University, Purdue University, and Manchester College, Indiana, with two debates at each institution.

All four of these men are seniors in Albion College, and all are veterans on the debate squad. Prof. N. J. Weiss is the coach of the men's squad.

This will be the second series of debates for the men's squad, the first having consisted of two encounters with the University of Michigan two weeks ago.

The topic which these men will discuss is: Resolved, That at least 50 per cent of all state and local revenues should be derived from sources other than tangible property.

Give County Agents Vote of Approval

Evidence that Michigan people approve of agricultural extension work is contained in the reports on votes received by the state leaders office which show that all 66 county agricultural agents received the financial assistance needed from their counties to continue their work.

Funds were provided by favorable votes of the boards of supervisors in 61 counties. The work was approved by a majority of the voters in three counties in a popular vote which brought out the largest vote in the history of the counties. Private subscriptions by individuals and organizations will provide the necessary county funds in the two remaining counties.

A few counties made a small increase in their appropriations but salaries and mileage or other expenses of the agents have been reduced in nearly every county so the cost of the work has been materially reduced.

R. J. Baldwin, director of extension work in Michigan, finds a great deal of satisfaction in the approval of this work by the people of the state. Extension work began in Michigan in 1912 with the appointment of a county agricultural agent in Alpena county. The work has been going on continuously since, so that the value of the work and not its novelty was the basis upon which it was judged.

The present number of 66 county agricultural agents equals the number at work at any one time except during the war, when an agent was placed in every county as a war emergency measure. L. E. Walker, agent of Marquette county, has the record of staying on the job there since July 1, 1915.

Ready For Christmas Shoppers

With only 20 shopping days until Christmas, local merchants are busily engaged in decorating their stores and trimming windows in anticipation of a liberal amount of holiday shopping.

Gift suggestions are being advertised in this issue, covering all lines of staple and specialty goods, and the prices quoted are far below prevailing price levels of the past few years.

Many of the merchants are carrying larger stocks for the Christmas trade than ever before, believing that the low prices will attract shoppers in large numbers.

Christmas spirit is in the air—do your shopping early—and read the advertisements in The Standard before you buy if you desire to take full advantage of the many gift bargains which are being offered!

Economic Leaders To Meet Dec. 1-2

The regular meetings of the next home economics group leaders will be held Thursday and Friday, Dec. 1 and 2. On account of the long distance the group leaders have had to come from the southwestern corner of the county, arrangements have been made to hold one meeting for local leaders living in the southern and western part of the county at the Manchester High School building. In order to carry this out it was necessary to make some changes in the days some of the groups have been attending. The meeting on Dec. 1 will be held at the Ann Arbor Y. M. C. A. Leaders in the following groups are to attend this meeting: North Superior, South Superior, Delhi, Worden, Salem, Webster, Geddes, Pittsfield, Ann Arbor, Platt and Scio.

Leaders for the following groups will attend the meeting on Friday, Dec. 2, at the Manchester High School building—North Bridgwater, South Bridgwater, West Bridgwater, Iron Creek, Lyndon, Lima, Freedom and Saline.

Miss Taylor will begin the meetings promptly at 10:00 o'clock, and will be through at 4:00 o'clock.

Former Chelsea Girl Weds Gr. Rapids Man

Miss Helen Schulte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schulte of Grand Rapids, Mich., formerly of this place, and Sylvester Beasecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beasecker of the same city, spoke their marriage vows Saturday, Nov. 10. Rev. J. S. Plummer, pastor of Holy Name church, performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a tulle gray dress with matching accessories and carried a mixed bouquet of pink roses, snapdragons and baby mums. Her sister, Miss Lucille Schulte, who attended her, chose a dress of gray with matching accessories carrying a similar bouquet.

Raymond Kehoe of Parnell, Mich., acted as best man.

After the ceremony a three-course dinner and reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for 30 guests. The table was decorated in pink and white with a center piece of chrysanthemums of the same color.

It is expected that Wallace Watt, Washenaw County Scout Executive, will attend with the Scouts. The purpose of this service is to acquaint the public with the purposes of Scouting, the benefits derived therefrom, and to outline a program which has been proposed for the continuance of this work locally. An invitation is extended to everyone interested in Scout work to attend the service.

Clark Storeroom Destroyed By Fire

The storeroom adjacent to the A. B. Clark retail grocery store on Park street, with its contents, was completely destroyed by fire which was discovered shortly before four o'clock this morning. The origin of the fire is unknown, the only theory being that it may have started from a short circuit in an electric egg candler in the room.

Wm. Atkinson, village marshal, discovered flames emerging from the front window of the storeroom, and the interior of the building was a mass of flames when the fire department arrived a few minutes later.

A large stock of seeds, feeds and surplus grocery stock was carried in the storeroom by Mr. Clark, and the stock of merchandise in the room was much larger at this season of the year than normally.

In addition to the complete loss of the building and stock, the adjoining grocery store is badly damaged by smoke and the Economy Shoe Store, on the west side of the storeroom, is water soaked.

Mr. Clark was unable to estimate the damage this morning, but stated that it will amount to several thousands of dollars.

Red School P. T. A. Meets at Grau Home

About 45 members of the P. T. A. of School District No. 7, Sylvan, were present at the November meeting held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Grau. At the business meeting it was voted to purchase another swing for the school ground. A musical program was rendered as follows:

Vocal Solo—"Bells of the Sea," and "Three For Jack," George Atkinson.

Cornet Solo—"Warum," by Schumann, Claude Isham.

Roaming in the Gloaming," Dorothy Pritchard, Bert Gray and Edward Smith.

Coronet Solo—"Grillon," Claude Isham.

Community Singing—"Old Folks at Home."

Progressive Euchre furnished diversion for the evening, high honors going to Mrs. Reuben Grieb and Joseph Merkel and consolation to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Atkinson. A pot-luck lunch was served.

Special Features at M. E. Church Sunday

An exceptionally fine program has been arranged for Sunday evening at the Methodist Church. Miss M. C. Drescher of India will deliver a thrilling message on her experiences in India. She is an able speaker and is in big demand; we are therefore fortunate in having this opportunity of hearing her.

Labor Can Be Used In State Forests

Constructive work which will add to the beauty and recreational facilities of Michigan and to future income from state timber lands can be performed by men on Michigan wage lists, according to the forestry department at Michigan State College, which offers to furnish trained men to help plan ways of using well-fare labor profitably.

The value of the resort trade to Michigan is enormous, but the forestry department points out that it is a part time income and that the improvement of the timber resources of the northern part of the state will aid an industry which brought the original wealth and population to the state.

The reforestation of cut-over lands will make the state more attractive to summer guests.

Communities in southern Michigan can use men to make roadside plantings, to thin farm timber lots, and to make plantings on lands which are undesirable for general farm crops. The forestry department at the college will furnish men to survey woodlots and to mark trees which should be taken out to improve the stand if the owner of the woodlot will co-operate with welfare officers in permitting the cutting of fuel on shares.

A trained forester will be sent by the department to any communities which wish to undertake a plan to plant and beautify the roadside in its district. The forester will draw plans and instruct men how the work should be done. Untrained help can then be used to complete the work.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has some funds which can be loaned to finance reforestation projects. Information concerning these funds can be obtained from the college forestry department.

Superseded Quills

The wooden pen holder is one hundred years old. It was such an immediate success that makers of quill pens were left with huge stocks on their hands and would have been ruined but for the brilliant idea of one man, who turned the unsold pens into toothpicks.

LIMA CENTER SCHOOL

The pupils of Lima Center school have displayed their code in the form of ships sailing across the top of the black board, in the front of the room. Each ship has a name and each name is a rule taken from the code.

Among the pupils of the Lima Center school there are eight who had a record of perfect attendance. These are Edna Steinway, L. Dean Steinway, Veryl Steinway, Clara Trinkle, Helen Trinkle, Ruth Lulick, Jeanne Lulick and Joan Pierce.

A spelling contest between the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades has been in session for two months. The lower grades have emerged victorious and are awaiting eagerly for the party the sixth and seventh grades are to give in recognition of their victory. Edna Steinway secured the most one hundred's and is to receive a prize.

Editorial

The following quotations are taken directly from an article in the November, 1932 issue of the University of Michigan School of Education Bulletin, written by Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the university:

"The apparent dilemma often presented to teachers is that of choice between letting the student do as he pleases and develop as he will, or of exercising a dictatorial control over every phase of his life that may get him into trouble if improperly pursued. The dilemma is not a true one. The conscientious student must be protected from his unconscious fellows; each generation must be made to understand that the institution belongs to other generations as well as his own and that order is essential to civilized existence; and the teacher must realize that he is always, to some extent at least, a moralist. It is a mistake, however, to conclude that teachers can best secure these results by dictatorial methods or by a refusal to accept responsibility. The student needs not only discipline but also inspiration, and he seldom gets inspiration through legislation.

"Theorists argue that the student must be thrown upon his own resources, for only by his own efforts and with entire freedom of action can he develop moral stamina. But this means that failure is in every case the fault of the student, and many persons will not subscribe to this view in practice. Parents who object to the punishment of a child for infraction of institutional rules, criticize teachers for the ultimate failure of their offspring, and citizens who observe blandly that 'boys will be boys' condemn the school for lack of control when student publications injure their feelings. Incidentally, it is curious that the general body of criticism of student derelictions and shortcomings nearly all attaches itself to the schools and that there is little attempt to allocate a proportionate share to parents and the home.

"Whenever and wherever students will accept full responsibility for establishing and enforcing their code, they should be allowed to do so. It will always be vicious practice and equally bad pedagogy, however, to give students privileges without responsibilities. It is a saying no less pertinent for students than for others, that 'responsibility walks hand in hand with capacity and power.' Student government in its best sense means liberty to deal with student affairs to the extent to which responsibility may be assumed by the government and on the basis of prevailing standards of human conduct."

Anyone interested in the Chelsea schools who will take the trouble to read the series of articles by the superintendent, published in The Standard last summer, and, in particular a statement in column two of the July 28th issue, will see that President Ruthven's ideas are exactly in line with those of the Chelsea superintendent.

We have a few students in the Chelsea High School who refuse, either to behave themselves in school or to work at their studies under the teachers' direction. The parents of some of these pupils have lately been criticizing the superintendent and teachers quite severely. For these parents we recommend a careful reading and rereading of the ideas quoted above from President Ruthven.

A few parents and other persons have recently given voice to a criticism of the Chelsea schools for the abandonment of the old-fashioned, traditional, monthly report card. On this point we invite your attention to the following, taken from the University of Michigan School of Education Bulletin for November, 1932:

"Members of the University Elementary School staff have given much thought to the form which teacher reports to the parents should take. In common with many educational workers, they shared the current dissatisfaction with the usual routine types of report card. In preliminary conferences it was agreed that the emphasis of any report should be on individual growth and should cover social and emotional as well as intellectual development. It was felt that the plan of reporting adopted should avoid discouraging a child by administratively imposed failure or developing a priggish attitude in a child by a social overemphasis of his successes. A constructive emphasis on development was believed to be sound mental hygiene.

"It was decided to have the report to the parents take the form of a letter to be mailed at the end of each semester. In order to have a factual basis for such a letter, a check list of 86 items covering the work of the day and term was evolved for use by the teachers. The outline includes items under social behavior, routine, attitudes, creative activities, reading, writing, number, and so on. The data reported vary somewhat for the nursery, the kindergarten, and the grades,

A Correction

The sport pages of the Detroit and Ypsilanti papers have recently come out with the statement that Chelsea High School had 'quit' the Huron Valley League. An interview with Miss Barrus reveals that this is not true. The thing that happened is that Principal Vander Ven, faculty manager of athletics, wrote to the president of the League, stating that Chelsea was strongly considering withdrawal for geographic reasons.

Mr. Vander Ven had talked the matter over with Mr. Moore and they had come to an agreement that the matter should be thoroughly thrashed out before the League meeting on Dec. 5, and the letter to the League was written so that if Chelsea decided to withdraw, the action would not be a complete surprise.

The geographic considerations that Messrs. Moore and Vander Ven thought important are as follows: If you draw a straight line north and south through Chelsea and another straight line east and west, intersecting the first line at Chelsea, all of Chelsea's opponents in the League are located east of the first line and south of the second.

As a member of the Huron League, Chelsea has very little opportunity to arrange games with schools to the west and north, some of which, in the view of the superintendent and principal, should be natural opponents.

However, the matter of withdrawing from the League is opposed by the students almost unanimously. They believe that the geographic factors are overcome by the added interest that arises from competition for championships within the League. In this situation, Mr. Moore has advised the writer that unless some unexpected elements are introduced into the question before the League meeting next week, Chelsea will continue as a member and carry out the League schedule in basketball during the coming season.

Changes in Football

Now that only a few scattering games remain before the drawing of the curtain on the 1932 season of football, it is time for us arm-chair and kitchen-stove critics to come forth with our prescriptions on how to save the grand old game.

This observer has seen about a dozen games during the season just past, either as official or spectator. Of the various new rules put into operation this year, the impressions are varied. No doubt the stricter regulations on the use of the hands by defensive linemen has resulted in less punishment to the offensive team. This certainly marks a step forward in the progress of the game. The rule against the flying block and flying tackle has had little effect because, first, these violations are almost impossible to detect, and secondly, because they don't happen in games between well-coached teams; for they are not good football.

The one change in the rules which has been most productive of change in the game itself is the "dead ball" rule—that the ball is dead whenever any part of the ball-carriers body except hands or feet touches the ground. This rule has stopped many a potential touchdown and shortened many a good gain. What is the advantage of this rule? It was intended to prevent injury to the ball-carrier from players piling-up on top of him.

To this observer the season of 1932 saw just as much piling-up as ever before. The net result of the "dead ball" rule has simply been the removal from the game of one of its essential elements of interest and value; namely, the drive forward of the ball-carrier until he is actually stopped. In my humble opinion the verdict on the "dead ball" rule is "thumbs down."

The one thing that this old game of football needs most, is the elimination of the advantage that comes to the team which happens to "get the breaks." When you come right down to plain thinking, there is no justice in the final result of a game won by a team on a desperate forward pass made in the last five minutes of play, after being completely outplayed for more than three quarters. This same objection carries over into the matter of tie games. Many a tie game fails to reveal in the score a decided difference in the quality of the contending teams. For example, in the first of Chelsea High School's 1932 home games, the local team made three times as many first downs as its opponent and demonstrated an unmistakable superiority, but the final score was 0-0.

What the old game needs most is a change in the method of scoring. My suggestions for curing the situation may be full of holes, but I believe they point in the right direction. Here they are:

Eliminate the "dead ball" rule. Leave all the present methods of scoring points as they are but add the following:

One point for each first down. In case of a game that would otherwise end in a tie, give one additional point to the team making the greater number of first downs.

The net result of these changes in scoring would be interesting, and, in my view, entirely satisfactory. Tie scores would be reduced to a minimum. They could never happen except when a game produced the same number of points for each team; with the same number of first downs, and this seldom occurs. The result of every game would be definitely doubtful until the final whistle. The stalling tactics of a team that has made three points, as in the Michigan-Minnesota game, would be largely eliminated.

What is wrong with this plan? Maybe a lot, but I'd be glad to look at the ideas of any reader who disagrees. If you think I'm all wet, whittle off the end of the little old pencil and give us a look at your viewpoint.

How Our Teachers Spent Thanksgiving

Miss Barrus spent her vacation in Clinton, Wis. And does she "rate?" We guess. The president of the Michigan Central Railroad ordered the train to stop at Chelsea Sunday night for the sole purpose of dropping Miss Barrus in our fair city.

Miss Hazard and Miss Dorothy Knoelk drove to Syracuse, N. Y., to visit Mrs. Wm. Lawler, the former Miss Gertrude Holton. On the return trip they stopped to visit the famous Niagara Falls.

Miss Boileau drove to her home in Alpena, Mich., accompanied by her sister. It sure took long enough for you to get home, Miss Boileau. Hope you don't break anymore connecting rods.

The Mendon City Herald reveals the following item: "A local boy, Howard Thompson, is home for Thanksgiving dinner because he reports that 'the turkeys around Chelsea' were not thriving as well as he expected."

"A Hunting He Did Go." How's the other fellow feeling? Did the "wee" bunny scare you? So sorry to hear that you've contracted a serious case of sunburn poisoning. Mr. Cross, a veteran dinner in West Unity, Ohio, was the main attraction for Miss Yager.

Chelsea wouldn't have had enough room for Mr. Thayer after he ate all that turkey, so we shipped him off to Ypsilanti.

Miss Cash was Miss Dancer's guest for Thanksgiving dinner. Because she ate so much it was necessary for a long hike in the country. Friday she spent the day in Detroit.

Progress Requires Change; an Editorial

A few critics of the local school system have attacked the present administration in charge of the schools. As a principal basis of attack they point out that changes have been made; that things are not all done as they once were.

Science has a word for resistance to change. The word is "inertia." The scientist says that all things resist being moved and that, once in motion, all things resist being stopped. Much more power is required to start an automobile than to keep it rolling. Once rolling, you can turn off the power and it will continue to roll until it is stopped by the downward pull of gravity or obstacles in its way.

Many human beings possess this same characteristic "inertia." They resist any change. They want neither to see a new thing started nor an old thing stopped. They are the champions of the "status quo."

In one of his recent radio sermons, the great preacher, S. Parker Curtis, said: "Away with the idea that things are good enough as they are. Everything alive is in a state of flux. When it ceases to change, it is already dead. What is good enough for one generation is not good enough for the next. We live in a warring world. Do we want our children to continue killing each other? We have poverty, disease, starvation, pestilence. Shall we sit calmly back and say that these evils must always be?"

No, the truth is that thinking people are not afraid to face facts. There is much in this world of ours that needs mending, and only change can bring better conditions.

Because we have "inertia," it is natural for parents and pupils to question every change in school policy and procedure.

It is not here argued that mere change possesses any virtue of its own, that the only thing necessary for improvement is simply to change something. Not at all. But, it is undeniably true that no progress, no improvement can be accomplished without change. The point of importance is that no change should be condemned until it has been carefully investigated as to its purpose and its effect.

This is true of changes in general and changes in the Chelsea schools in particular. Go to the sources of the change and get the facts; then draw your conclusions as to whether the change means a forward or a backward step.

Ye Ol' Snooper's Column

Chelsea Public School. Sometime in November.

Dear Readers: Your old Snooper is still snooping around and all ready to give you some hints about the future.

—Pye.

ed under the auspices of the senior class, the night of Dec. 9.

Do you want to go to a free show? The museum club will hold open house some time in the near future. There is going to be a party—and a fancy-dress, masquerade party at that. The orchestra is going to be composed of local talent—faculty and students. Ye Ol' Snooper will probably announce the date next week.

Did you know that the sophomores are having try-outs for their play which is called "Nothing But the Truth." I'm sure we can expect nothing else from sophomores. Well, anyway, they're starting early as their play is scheduled for sometime in February—and that's "nothing but the truth."

Our principal, Mr. Vander Ven, is very busy these days directing an opera. This is to be another big event of the school year.

Next week, Wednesday, we are going to have a football banquet to honor our valiant heroes of the gridiron. The juniors and seniors are taking the lead in this event. We will have a notable football speaker at this banquet and lots to eat. Let's everybody go!

The last, but not the least, item Ye Ol' Snooper wishes to forecast is our big Christmas vacation—from Dec. 21 to Jan. 8.

Ye Ol' Snooper's pen is getting dry, so as she must stop snooping sometime, she will stop snooping now and sign off till next time.

"So long" everybody. Ye Ol' Snooper.

P. S.—Hope you are recovering from the disease of "too much turkey dinner."

Dorothy Wilson, Hollywood's "Cinderella" has the feminine lead.

Child Care—Training

Is Extension Project

A new extension project in understanding your child will be offered to the folks of Washtenaw county during the next three months.

A series of five meetings have been arranged with Mrs. Lydia Ann Lynde, extension specialist in child care and training, Michigan State College. This project will be of special interest to all parents and other folks interested in the training and development of children.

Last year two general lectures were given by Mrs. Lynde on "Understanding Your Child." H. S. Oiler, county agricultural agent, reports that these lectures were well received, and that each lecture was attended by 50 people.

The first meeting in the series this year will be held Thursday evening, Dec. 8, in the Circuit Court room on the second floor of the Court House, Ann Arbor, beginning at 8:00 o'clock.

This meeting will be a general discussion by Mrs. Lynde on "The Up-to-date Parent and the Modern Child." Following this first meeting on Dec. 8, will be four subsequent meetings as follows:

Jan. 19—"Reviewing Your Child Through His Environment."

Feb. 16—"Your Child's Emotions and His Behavior."

Mar. 16—"Your Child's Fears and His Affections."

April 7—"Discipline and Your Child."

In these discussions Mrs. Lynde will endeavor to help those attending the discussions to get a better understanding of home life, and relationships, as well as to bring to parents the newer knowledge in the field of child development, and help them adapt their knowledge to meet the needs of all children in the home.

Individual conferences with parents and Mrs. Lynde will be arranged for the discussion of special problems. These meetings will be open to all interested in child welfare, including parents, grandparents, nurses, doctors, welfare workers, etc.

Postage Stamps and Taxes

At the present time the postage stamp is not a form of taxation. The entire revenue derived from the sale of postage stamps is applied to the cost of maintaining the Post Office department and handling the mail. With an increase in postage rate beyond the expense of postal service, such stamps are a form of taxation.

Important Point

A teacher gave the following problem to her pupils: If a woman gathers five eggs a day, how many eggs would she gather in a week? After studying for a few minutes, William, with a puzzled brow, inquired: "Teacher, do hens lay on Sundays?"—Indianapolis News.

Bad Risks

"The grasshopper," says a farming expert, "is one of nature's foolhest children. He's almost always in trouble." And what about the centipede? We'll bet he's forever putting one of his feet into something.—Farm and Fireside.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—What is the difference between a queen-bee egg and a worker-bee egg. And how long does it take them to hatch?

Ans.—The same egg that will produce a queen will produce a worker-bee. The duration of the hatching is 21 days. All working bees are females. The larvae of the worker-bee is fed a coarser food by the nurse-bees in the hive, and for that reason it is not developed into a perfect female like the queen and not so quickly. In this way the bees can, of their own will, produce either a queen-bee or a worker-bee from one and the same egg.

Ques.—I was born on December 25, 1891. Will you please tell me what day of the month this was?

Ans.—December 25, 1891, was on Friday, the day on which you were born.

Ques.—I am curious to know what is meant by quartered oak. Can you tell me? And why is it any better than any other kind of oak?

Ans.—The oak log is first cut into quarters, and boards are then saved by cutting alternately from each face of the quarter. Such lumber not only shows the grain advantageously, but does not warp or check as much as lumber sawed in the ordinary way.

Ques.—I am writing to ask you to tell what the letters "D. F." after the name of Mexico means?

Ans.—This is the Spanish abbreviation of the words "Distrito Federal," which means "federal district." The capital of Mexico, like the city of Washington, is located in a district which is governed by the federal government, and referring to the City of Mexico, it is proper to say "Mexico D. F.," the same as you would say of "Washington, D. C."

Ques.—I am told that "U. S. S. R." means "United States of Soviet Russia." To settle the argument, will you please answer if that is right?

Ans.—"U. S. S. R." is the abbreviation for Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. There are only five nations that use the words "United States." They are: United States of America, the United States of Brazil, the United States of Mexico, the United States of Venezuela and the United States of Colombia.

Ques.—Is Gillette, the inventor of the safety razor, living. If so, how old is he and where does he live?

Ans.—King Camp Gillette, the inventor of the safety razor, died this summer at his home in Los Angeles, Cal. He was 77 years old when he died.

Ques.—How do sea-going vessels get fresh water when they make long trips on salt-water bodies?

Ans.—They store fresh water aboard. If they find they have not enough, they make fresh water by distillation. Salt water can be converted into fresh water in that manner. The water is converted into steam and is then condensed into water again, therefore it is the fresh, as salt cannot be converted into steam, but remains as a residue.

Ques.—Can you tell me how I can get rid of wrigglers in a rain barrel without being injurious to the water?

Ans.—According to the best authority we can find, the way to get rid of wrigglers in a rain barrel is to pour into the barrel a tablespoonful of powdered alum which has been dissolved in boiling water.

Ques.—Recently I asked a man for some money he owed me, and he said he was in dire straits. What did he mean by that?

Ans.—We don't know. Why didn't you ask him. Probably he meant he was so hard up that he hadn't enough money to buy gas for his car.

Ques.—Can you answer in your good paper how frost kills plants?

Ans.—Frost freezes the water inside the cells of plants and thus kills them.

Ques.—Why do people stand up when "The Star Spangled Banner" is played?

Ans.—It is a custom among the peoples of all countries to stand when their national anthem is played or sung. It is the perpetuation of an ancient custom that had its origin in the middle ages.

Pleading for Health

It is to bring a smile to sad, wistful faces like this little boy's—lifted from the sanatorium cot, his home for many long months—that the children on the 1932 tuberculosis Christmas seal are giving their gift. They are just a pretty picture to this tiny child, but tuberculosis is a grim reality. Already in his baby way he has learned to perform the act of precaution taught every sanatorium patient that he may prevent his disease spreading to others.

Tuberculosis is the "great, big, black, hoggy man" of the tales that such little children must hear until the "Good Fairy," Health, has sent the shadow of disease away. Happy endings to all their stories are hastened by the work done from funds which are built penny by penny, during the annual sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals.
