HELP WIN THE FIGHT

Men and women of middle age can easily remember when people stricken with tuberculosis were given up for lost. The disease and its fatal consequences were taken for granted. Beyond the help which the local physician and the family could provide nothing more could be done. Invariably the victim died within a few months or a year after being pronounced tubercular. These same people can recall the ghastly tragedies which surrounded such cases, the long family vigil waiting for death to come and take their loved one away into eternity. That is no longer true. Science and correct treatment for the patient is winning the fight against this great monster. Most of those stricken with the dread disease are being cured. That takes time and patience. It costs money, but it is money spent for a very humanitarian purpose. The Christmas seal campaign is a campaign to provide funds for this gallant fight. It deserves your support. Buy Christmas seals today.

BEWARE THE TRICKSTER

Fakirs, working every conceivable kind of a racket, are abroad in the state. You find them ringing doorbells in the city, and going from farm home to farm home in the country. Their purpose is to cheat the unsuspecting and uninformed citizen. Whoever deals with them is bound to suffer a loss. There are no exceptions. During hard times they reap a rich harvest. Many people are induced to part with things of great value because they happen to need a little ready money.

You will find these tricksters in search of bonds and securities which have passed interest payments, but which still have a market value. Old jewelry, gems, and even old books are being sought. Because their numbers continue to increase it is evident that victims are being found. Never do they offer more than a fraction of what a thing is worth. If you don't want to get stung, then don't deal with a stranger. Kick them off the front steps when they put in an appearance. That's just common sense.

IT'S EVERYBODY'S JOB

There is a genuine desire among the people of Michigan to be helpful to the democratic party when it assumes control of the machinery of state government. Never has a political party been given such an opportunity for service. By almost universal consent has the power been delegated to them to iron out the troubles which beset us upon every hand.

A political holiday has been declared pending the duration of the battle against our economic ills. It will be a hard task. It will take party leadership and party courage to accomplish the job. The will of the people expressed a clear mandate. No longer are they going to be content with political promises.

The democratic party does not need our specific advice, but it does need the assistance of every citizen regardless of his or her political faith. To render assistance at a time like this will be a mark of good citizenship.

BEER VS. BREAD AND BUTTER

It now looks as if the boys were not going to get their beer kegs out of the trenches by Christmas. To a nation that has survived 12 heartless winters the addition of one more moistureless season is not likely to prove fatal—even though it may be disappointing. Defeat of the repeal resolution on the opening day of congress will likely have the effect of shelving the issue during the balance of the short session. Some say the liquor question may remain status quo until the new administration takes office on March 4.

As usual farm relief furnishes one of the greatest problems facing the country outside immediate balancing the budget and drastic reduction in the cost of government. Agriculture has suffered greatly in recent years. In many respects it has been the victim of its friends. Measures adopted for its relief have only helped to plunge it deeper into despair. Certainly relief longer delayed will result in thousands more farmers losing their farms. The picture is a tragic one.

Most economists are agreed that until the purchasing power of the farm is restored there will be no real prosperity. Agriculture directly affects the lives of millions of people. Given purchasing power commensurate with labor and investment it will start the wheels of industry moving. And for every wheel set in motion one man and one woman will leave the breadlines of the nation and return to normal life and living. Legislators should have no trouble selecting the two graces—bread and butter.

Win Honors At Livestock Show

The Detroit Junior Livestock show was held at Detroit stockyards Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 6, 7 and 8. The following placings were made by Washtenaw county exhibitors: Forsythe McCrone, Augusta township, won first on his Angus steers; Harley Prudden, Lima township, won tenth in a large class of 25 Hereford steers, and LeRoy Wing, Scio township, won fifth on his pen of grade lambs.

The animals were judged on Wednesday, Dec. 7, and were sold at public auction the following day. Forsythe McCrone received 16c per pound for his steer. Harley Prudden received 8c a pound, and LeRoy Wing received 5 1/2c a pound for his lambs.

The show is sponsored by the Detroit stock yards, the commission firms doing business at the yards and Michigan State College. The exhibitors and leaders were given a complimentary theater party on Tuesday evening, and a big banquet at the Fort Shelby hotel on Wednesday evening.

Combined Dairy and Beef Club. The Salmon Junior Farmers club, which has been a dairy club in the past, decided at their last meeting on Dec. 9 to make it a combined dairy and beef club. They have at least eight boys who are planning to feed steers as their project next year. Part of them will plan to finish their steers at state fair time so they can be sold at public auction at that time, and the rest of them will finish theirs for the Detroit Junior Livestock show in December 1933.

E. Porath & Sons, breeders of Herefords and Brown Swiss cattle, is co-operating with the boys to make it possible for them to secure calves for their projects.

4-H Banquet, Dec. 28. The annual 4-H achievement banquet for summer club work, which is sponsored by the Ann Arbor Kivans club, will be held at the Masonic Temple, Wednesday evening, Dec. 28. This will be the seventh event of its kind that the Ann Arbor Kivans club has sponsored.

At least 500 people will be present. All the boys and girls who have completed their summer club project for 1932, their parents and their leaders will be invited to attend.

All the awards for the season will be made at this banquet.

SLATS' DIARY

By Ross Farquhar

Friday—Cluzen Clarence has got himself in a hole. He is engaged to a girl to marry her and he is dis-satisfied. He says he is just as well off not to get married as he is married. He is a confessor to her and told her he was a bootlegger and now she has went and made him trade in his 2nd Hand Ford for a new car which costed 11 hundred $ & he is still in-curred.

Saturday—Pa says all this worrying about Teaching Evaluation in the schools is foolishness. He said they have been teaching Spelling in the schools for a couple 100 yrs. and it hasn't had much affect yet.

Sunday—Elsy made me sore at her today. I was talking about Jane and I just happened to remark that No girl ever made a fool out of me and she just wandered who it was then and it made me about 1/2 sore at her.

Monday—Teacher wanted each 1 of us to tell when we had the best time in all our lives but I was stumped. I couldn't decide whether it was the time I put a hand full of ants in Aunt Emmy's corset or the time I put Aunt in the salad pa was eating.

Tuesday—Pa says if Condishuns keep on happening every body will half to live on what they make and no more.

Wednesday—Lem Hix has got his self a new truck and is halting things for people with want things hauled and pa set him was making much munny and Lem said: Well so far it has tuk about all his presents to pay Damidges for hitting other peoples curs so he has not started to Clear much yet.

Thursday—Lena pa is still sore over the Election for today I seen him writing for the paper and the peace sed. The Republican party can fool sum of the people sum of the time and all of the people sum of the time and then the Democrats has to take the job over.

Dates Are Chosen For Farmers Week

Dates for the annual gathering of the agricultural class of Michigan have been set for Jan. 30 to Feb. 3, when farmers' organizations from all parts of the state will meet at Farmers Week at Michigan State College. Farmers Week had its origin in the years when farmers' institutes were held in most of the counties of the state. Several speakers on agricultural subjects were sent from the college to meet groups of farmers who lived near enough to the meeting place so they could steer a horse and cutter through the snow drifts and still have time enough at the meeting to thaw out before it was chore time. The institutes became so popular and the demand for speakers so numerous that often it was impossible to send a member of the college staff who had technical training in the line of farm work of most interest to the audience. Crops men talked in fruit growing sections, livestock specialists discussed better pigs before groups of dairymen, and dairy husbandry professors told how to produce milk when the audience wanted to know the correct sprays for potatoes. Insufficient funds at the college made it impossible to secure enough speakers for the numerous meetings so Farmers Week was created to meet the demands for information in all types of farm activities. Thirty organized groups now have special programs at the college during the week. General meetings provide entertainment, shows bring in the best products of the farms, and contests permit visitors to put their abilities against each other. MILAN.—At the special election last Tuesday the plan to purchase fire equipment was voted down. Only 299 votes were cast.—Leader.

PLYMOUTH.—Chief Wagoner of the Plymouth fire department suffered a badly cut hand from falling glass when fire badly damaged home of Mrs. Lucy Ware, 1017 Brook last Saturday evening.—Mail.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Will you kindly tell me if Arbor Day is observed in every state?

Ans.—Arbor Day is observed in all the states and in Alaska and Hawaii. The dates vary with the climatic conditions. In Alaska it is observed in the Fall. In the warm states it is observed in early Spring, but in most other states the dates occur in April or May.

Ques.—A familiar picture is one in which Atlas is shown as carrying the world on his shoulders. Why is it that Atlas is pictured carrying a globe when the ancients believed the world was flat?

Ans.—The ancients were familiar with the fact that earth is a globe. This knowledge was not lost until the dark ages. The earth was known to be round over 200 years before Christ. The reason he is pictured as carrying the globe on his shoulders, according to one mythological story, is that Atlas, as leader of the Titans, tried to storm heaven. As a punishment for this rebellion Zeus compelled him to bear the heavens on his hands and head. In ancient times the terrestrial globe was often substituted for the vault of the heavens in connection with the Atlas story.

Ques.—Has there ever been a cross between the lowest type of human and the highest type of ape or other animal?

Ans.—No. According to the Smithsonian Institute there is no authentic record of a cross between the human race and the lower animals.

Ques.—To settle an argument will you please answer in your question department if a person is in her 32nd or 33rd year. A new-born babe is in its first?

Ans.—A person 32 years old is in the 33rd year. A new-born babe is in its first year; a baby one year old is in its second year, and a baby two years old is in its third year, and so on.

Ques.—Can you tell us if John Quincy Adams was the son or grandson of John Adams?

Ans.—John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States, was the son of John Adams, the second president.

Ques.—I would like to know if the wives of officers and soldiers may be buried in Arlington cemetery alongside their husbands?

Ans.—Yes. The wives and unmarried children of officers and soldiers may be buried in Arlington cemetery alongside their husbands and fathers if they so desire.

Ques.—I wish to ask you if John, Ethel and Lionel Barrymore are related to each other? If so, what is the relationship?

Ans.—These three stars of the theatrical world are brothers and sister. They are the children of Herbert, Blythe, a noted actor and playwright, who assumed the name of Maurice Barrymore. The elder Barrymore was born in 1847 in India and was educated in England. He went on the stage in America and won a wide reputation as an actor and playwright. He married Georgiana Drew of the well-known theatrical family, and to this union were born John, Ethel, and Lionel Barrymore.

Ques.—I wish to know what becomes of a swarm of bees if the queen bee is in a hive dies and there is no young queen?

Ans.—Scientists say that bees left without a queen will usually provide themselves with one by transforming and enlarging a worker's cell which contains an egg or a very young larva. The process of converting a worker larva into a queen frequently occurs in several parts of a hive at the same time. If more than one queen is produced they will fight until only one survives or until the others leave the hive with a part of the swarm.

Ques.—I would like to know what becomes of all the birds, as so few of them are found dead?

Ans.—Birds as well as all other wild creatures of any kind are rarely found dead because they usually creep away in some out-of-the-way place to die. In the case of birds it is probable that most of them when sick are captured by their enemies, such as cats and rats, before they die a natural death.

Ques.—Could you please tell me what country's chief export is tortoise shell?

Ans.—Madagascar claims this distinction, but a much greater volume comes from Japan. Several other tropical countries have a high percentage of tortoise shell exports.

"Golden West" Is Thrilling Film

George O'Brien plays dual role in film based on Zane Grey story. No more thrilling or interesting drama of pioneer days has been transferred to the screen than Zane Grey's "Golden West," the new Fox picture featuring the always popular George O'Brien in the leading role, which will be shown at the Princess Theatre, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 16 and 17.

In the early part of the picture they are lovers, but a family feud ruthlessly tears them apart. In the second part of the film, a lapse of 20 years having been provided, they are again seen as lovers, O'Brien appearing as his own son and Miss Chandler as the daughter of the character she played before the time lapse.

Christmas Essentially the Day of the Child

DECEMBER the 25th is the day of the child.

It is upon this day of days that countless men and women and little ones barely able to speak their language utter the great rejoicing: "For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given."

Even those who hold creeds in which there is no Christmas feel the splendor of that cry. And those who have no formal creed at all, will know there is one of the best portions of the year which is essentially the Day of the Child.

It is the day when even the most unsentimental adult, long since engendered and hardened by the years, can hear in his heart the footsteps of the little ones. "Tiny tiny are running about an eagerly all over the world, patterling to see what good gifts may have been received, ardent with a hope that only young hearts can feel."

On this day the mature scientist who has almost quit believing in the very laws of astronomy which recently seemed so sure and stable, but which now seem dissolving in a mist of relativity—this careful professional skeptic becomes a child himself, and considers it hard indeed if he cannot believe in Santa Claus, bearded fairly "godfather" of the children.

On this day even those who have been the most cynical feel that any lover, reverently that beautiful prayer for wisdom in the reading of children:

"Almighty and heavenly Father, who hast blessed us with the joy and care of children; give us light and strength so to train them, that they may love whatever things are true and pure and lovely and of good report."

For on this day of the Child we all remember that the most precious gift we can bestow upon our children is a capacity for feeling just such tender and generous and helpful emotions as today stir in the hearts of all good men and women. —Monte Post-Intelligencer.

Peacock Dinner English Custom Many Years Ago

PEACOCK dinner, a Christmas dinner custom and feast in England, next in importance to the turkey, was a Christmas dish was the peacock. To prepare the bird for the table was a task entailing no little trouble. The skin was first carefully stripped off with the plucking adhering. The bird was then roasted; when done, and partially cooled it was sewed up again in its feathers. Its back painted with gilt and so sent to the table. Some times the whole body was covered with leaf gold and a piece of cotton saturated with spirits placed in its back and lighted before the carving commenced operations. This "food for lovers and meat for lords" was stuffed with apples and sweets, basted with yolks of eggs and served with plenty of gravy.

The noble bird was not served by common hands; that privilege was reserved for the lady guests most distinguished by birth or beauty. One of them carried it into the dining hall to the sounds of music, the rest of the ladies following in due order. The first was set down before the master of the house or his most honored guest. The latter, in answer of peacock eating recorded was at a dinner given to William IV., when Duke of Clarence, by the governor of Trinidad.

Michigan Department of State

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald
Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 14.—Michigan won a $100,000 a year victory when the United States Supreme Court upheld the ruling of the Department of State that the Detroit International Bridge company should pay a yearly corporation tax of approximately $3,000.

The case before the high tribunal marked the first time in the state's history when Michigan was represented in the United States Supreme Court by a state employee who was not a member of the attorney general's staff. In this case, Mrs. Alice E. Alexander, an attorney and head of the corporation division of the department, successfully defended her ruling by representing the state in Washington.

The bridge company sought to avoid tax payment on the ground that it was engaged in international commerce. The Department of State levied the tax on the theory that the company was not engaged in foreign commerce but merely received a rental for use of the bridge. Other bridge, dock and tunnel companies that pay the state approximately $100,000 a year in corporation taxes planned similar appeals had the bridge company been successful.

More than 146 times as many votes were cast for president in November 1932, as there were during Michigan's first presidential election in 1836, according to records of the Department of State.

In 1832 Martin Van Buren received 7,332 votes while William Henry Harrison polled 4,045. The total vote cast at that election was 11,377. In 1932, the total presidential vote was 1,664,765.

State election records show that Michigan has had but one prolonged slump in population. This started in 1900 when a total of 544,602 presidential votes were cast, reached its lowest point in 1904 when the popular vote was 525,027 and ended in 1912 when the popular vote was 550,876.

In the eight years that followed the state's population grew rapidly so that in 1920 the popular presidential vote went over the million mark for the first time, 1,048,411 ballots being cast. The 1932 vote was 292,683 larger than in 1928.

The Problem of the Railroads

THE difficulty of solving the railroad problem has been greatly increased by the development of competing means of transportation by highway, waterway and airway, which are aided by subsidies by our national and state governments, and by exemption from such regulation as is applied to the railroads. The importance of the railroads to the economic welfare of the country is such that constructive efforts to solve the problem must be made at once, confronted as we are by evidence of the effects produced upon the entire industry and commerce of the country by the decline in railroad earnings.

THE SERVICE OF THE RAILWAYS IS INDISPENSABLE FOR HANDLING THE GREAT BULK OF OUR COMMERCE.

HERE are the facts as to the decline in railway earnings during this depression. The gross earnings in 1929 were $6,360,000,000 while in 1932 they will approximate only $3,200,000,000. Railroad operating expenses are 45 per cent less than they were in 1929, a decline of $2,052,000,000. This was effected by the reduction in the number of employees by about 620,000 and in the total wages paid them about $1,325,000,000. Purchases of fuel, materials and equipment have been cut about $1,430,000,000. The total reduction in wages paid, and purchases, exceeds $2,750,000,000.

THE recovery of the railways is essential to the recovery of national prosperity and they cannot recover under government policies that promote every kind of competition with them and at the same time impose every kind of restriction upon the steam lines to prevent them from meeting this competition.

EXPERIENCE AND COMMON SENSE DICTATE THAT EQUALIZATION OF TAXATION AND EQUITABLE REGULATION ARE NEEDED IN ALL BRANCHES OF TRANSPORTATION.

IMMEDIATE, vigorous action by national, state and local executives and legislators is required. They alone have the opportunity and the power to enact and enforce the remedial legislation on taxation and regulation so necessary in this extreme exigency.

THROUGH forthright action the tide can be turned, and by bringing back the railroads' purchasing power, and by their larger employment of labor, all industry will be quickened simultaneously. Every man, woman and child in the country would be benefited by this correction of basic causes.

To the Editor of
The Chelsea Standard:
Dear Sir:

The amount of space that you allow in your paper for the weekly school news, shows how very interested you must be in Chelsea educational problems. Could you be so liberal as to reprint this article, which I am enclosing, by Dean Edmonson, head of Michigan School of Education?

As an educator, familiar with modern school situations, states so clearly what the present day school needs. I think all those interested in Chelsea schools will want to read them.

His advocacy of a Parents and Teachers Association is noteworthy, and his insistence on parents demanding only the best teachers, is well fortified by the fact that he knows what constitutes a good teacher.

A School Patron.

December 6, 1932.

If one were to speculate on some of the requirements for teachers that intelligent parents would define, one would doubtless include some such proposals as the following nine statements:

"First, 'Parents want teachers to be sufficiently interested in knowing them as parents to take advantage of opportunities to meet and to talk with them about their children.' Parent-Teacher clubs can furnish a real opportunity for teachers to make the acquaintance of parents, but teachers who have a real desire to know parents will themselves create many occasions to meet the parents of their pupils.

"Second, 'Parents want teachers to develop such a spirit of good will and success in the school as will make their children desire to go to school.' Teachers who can meet this requirement will in a short time decrease or eliminate irregular attendance, making it much easier for parents to keep their children in school.

"Third, 'Parents want teachers to know their children well enough to appreciate their virtues as well as their faults.' It is always well for a teacher to remember that most parents are strong believers in the laws of heredity and are therefore very sensitive to adverse criticisms of their children. The teachers who would win the confidence and goodwill of parents should stress the virtues and minimize the faults of pupils, especially in early conferences with parents.

"Fourth, 'Parents want teachers to place special emphasis on instruction in matters of honesty, fairness, co-operation, respect for the rights of others, purity of speech, and desirable qualities of conduct.' Our schools have always stressed character training as a major proposal. In fact the emphasis on character training is greater than is commonly realized by parents.

"Fifth, 'Parents want teachers to train their children to play with others, to sing with others, to work with others, and above all, to be happy with others.' In the present period of social unrest the teacher has an unusually splendid opportunity to promote the happiness of many discouraged pupils by increasing the happiness of children. In my opinion teachers can contribute more than any other group towards the happiness of the home in the community by helping the children to play, to sing, and to work co-operatively and happily.

"Sixth, 'Parents want teachers to give special attention to matters pertaining to the health of their children.' In many communities this coming winter the teacher will have to meet unusual demands on time, energy, and money if the health of children from the homes of the unemployed are to be adequately safeguarded.

"Seventh, 'Parents want teachers to emphasize the mastery of certain fundamental skills in reading, writing and other tool subjects.' Parents have good cause for complaint when teachers neglect to give thorough training and fundamental skills in the three 'R's.' In view of the improved instructional materials and our increased knowledge of the laws of learning, parents have a right to expect more thorough instruction in these fundamental skills than was formerly given. It might be added that the evidence shows that in most schools this instruction is more thorough than formerly.

"Eighth, 'Parents want teachers to emphasize the training of children in certain effective habits of study appropriate to various levels of learning.' In view of our increasing knowledge of the importance of acquiring effective habits of study, there is little excuse for the failure of teachers to give major consideration to this requirement.

"Ninth, 'Parents want teachers to train their children in such a way as to enable them to make reasonable progress in their school subjects, and if pupils are not successful they want the teachers to be able to diagnose their difficulties.' Every teacher should be sufficiently expert in the use of diagnostic tests and the use of other measures of achievement or ability to discuss some of the causes for the inability of pupils to make reasonable progress in school subjects. In many of our larger schools the teachers also have the service of consulting psychologists and other experts in the handling of the more difficult problems. Parents should no longer be satisfied with the common explanation for failure—namely, that the pupil does not work—because too many cases of failure are traceable to a great variety of other causes.

"I should be pleased to furnish a copy of these nine requirements to teachers and officials of parent-teacher clubs. It is my opinion that some discussion of these requirements would bring about a better appreciation of the point of view of parents as well as a better understanding of the unusual value to a community of teachers who satisfy these requirements."

Mince Pies Prohibited

in Days of the Puritans

The mince pie has had many enemies.

The Puritans would have none of it, and even in the eighteenth century it was a forbidden delicacy to a large number of clergymen. During the Commonwealth the holding of Christmas festivals was forbidden.

In 1844 parliament passed an act ordering all citizens to observe Christmas day as a solemn fast, to be spent in silent atonement for previous festivals that had passed in riotous living and merry making. This order remained in force for 12 years.

The authorities in several towns tried to reduce Christmas day to the level of other days. In Canterbury, by order of the mayor, it was proclaimed that "Christmas day and all other superstitious festivals should be put down."

People who attended service in the cathedral were mobbed. The inhabitants formed themselves into two parties, and feeling in the matter frequently resulted in the exchange of blows.

In 1852 it was proclaimed that "no observation shall be had of the five and twentieth day of December, commonly called Christmas day, nor any solemnity used or exercised in churches."

This order was enforced by soldiers. Officers and soldiers were searched, and where reasonable dainties or decorations were found they were carried off and destroyed. A changed attitude towards the Puritan dislike of Christmas festivities came with the restoration of King Charles.

Ghostly Christmas Bells

to Greet Merry Yuletide

A BONGST the bells which will ring out to greet the coming Yuletide will be many ghostly peals, heard on no other night in the year; for tradition says that the bells of all buried churches join the chorus every Christmas eve.

There are the bells of Raleigh, once a prosperous village in Nottinghamshire, now only a country village. All sign of habitation was swallowed up many years ago by an earthquake. It is said that every Christmas eve the bells of the old church are heard to ring again. A legend of this kind is told of a country church near Preston, the very name of which nobody knows.

In Holland the story of the city of Beem is told every Christmas. This wonderful place was famous for its magnificence and beauty, and also for its wickedness and shamelessness. One day the whole city was swallowed up by the sea.

The submerged bells of Dunwich, now covered by the sea, are said to join the ghostly chorus.

First Christmas Trees

Originated in Germany

ON THIS wild, sunny northland of the North German plain the dark-leaved fir trees have flourished for many centuries. It is not strange, therefore, that the "Christmas Tree" should have its origin there. It dates back prior to the days of Christianity. The early Egyptians used to employ decorated trees in their festive season celebrations. It is a fact well known by all botanists that the palm tree puts forth a shoot each month, and at the time of the winter solstice, a spray of palm, bearing twelve shoots, was employed in the temple of Osiris to mark the completion of the year. Curiously enough, England did not adopt Christmas trees until the middle of the last century. The prince consort, shortly after his marriage to Queen Victoria, introduced them into Great Britain.

LIKE COLORFUL TREE

If there be young children in the home, you should have a real Christmas tree, as nothing else can take its place. Older people may like stunning effects that appeal to the imagination, or symbols in a fairy manner that will do this, but children want it loaded to overflowing with baggies of colored glass, lopped around with tinsel strands that gleam and glitter.

THREE Christmas celebrations are celebrated every year in the Church of Nativity at Bethlehem. The first occurs in the Roman Catholic season on December 25; 14 days later the Greek Orthodox church hold their celebrations to be followed by those of the Armenian church in another 15 days.

Selecting Christmas Cards

We unconsciously betray our true selves when we select Christmas cards. People who live in city apartments are apt to send drawings of farmhouses that nestle cozily among tall trees; a lawyer's holiday card is likely to be sugary with sentiment.—Collier's Weekly.

Student Body Hears Big Broadcast

One of the cleverest and most original programs presented for the entertainment of the senior high school was given by the sophomore class Friday, during activities period.

The program was a mock broadcast from station C.P.S. Jay Howe, seated in front of the curtain in an easy chair, played the part of interested listener (at times), and tuned in and out on the different programs. Richard Sowers was the staff announcer and believe me he took his part very well. Charles Panarites was by Lyon announcing the football game between the Chelsea All-Stars and the All-Americans.

Beatrice Killjoy (Helen Hindelang) in disguise, gave advice to the love-lorn and how they need it. Marie Wenk, Prudence Butterfingers (staff pianist), gave several selections. Ben Burney (Lynn Dancer) sang "Pink Elephants" in his smoldering baritone. "I Hope You Liked It," Geraldine Mast, Zilpha Shaver, Leona Merkel (Olara, Lou and Em) and the Supper Thuds (Gladys and Helen) how tables could talk got all mixed up and then the staff mixed up as Ruth Eiting and sang "Sweet Sue." Due to the absence of Leo Allhouse, who was to take the part of Ruddy Vallee. Last, but not least, Kate Smith (Helen Barker), once more helped "The Moon Comes Over the Mountain."

Believe It Or Not

This column is written with the sincerest apologies to our dear friend, Mr. Ripley. "Bangers" have once more made themselves prominent. Helen Barker appeared yesterday with them and she looked for all the world like a sweet young thing of 20 years ago.

Kate Staffan got a letter from Freddy. "Well, Well, Well, How unusual."

Harold Alexander says he likes blondes, brunettes and red-heads, but the rest must stay away.

Dor Shenk has the cutest little rubber mouse. And, does it squeak? Especially when a teacher is standing high. Tisk...Tisk.

Luella, Betty and Verna were graciously, decorate the blackboards and everything else available for all Senior activities.

Santa Claus is once more, broadcasting over the radio. Two of his most ardent listeners are Charles Panarites and Ruth Faust.

Speaking of Santa Claus, I've looked in all the closets, down the cellar, under the beds, in the icebox, and still can't find any Christmas presents. What must I do? The suspense is terrible. I am beginning to think that ain't no such person as S. C.

Don't worry if your names haven't been mentioned this week. You'd better look out 'cause there are still many more columns in the weeks to come.

Student Slips

Miss Cash—"What is the Indian Summer of a man's life?" Howard—"After he gets married."

Max (giving descriptive talk of con hunt)—"There was a party of five men, including three dogs." We think Max was insulting, but he says "Don't be silly."

Charles (during synonymy drill)—"Dripe."

Miss Barrus—"Dripe." "Is that word in the dictionary?"

Charles—"Well, I don't know, but someone told me." (You incessant chatter-boxes!) (He really meant grilles.)

Miss Barrus says—"What deplorable story."

Young lady at first football game—"My goodness, how do the players get clean?"

Jim—"Well, what do you suppose the scrubs are for?"

Bill had a board bill. He also had a billboard. The board bill bored Bill. So he sold the billboard. To pay the board bill. So the board bill. No longer bored Bill.

Read backwards—"Do fools all, it do would you knew we?"

We could tell you some more but you would only laugh at them.

The Story of the Opera.

The scene of the story is laid in medieval England on Christmas Eve.

In the cathedral there is a shrine believed by many to contain the crown and scarlet robe once worn by Caspar, one of the Three Wise Men. Tradition says that once each year at the Christmas season, Caspar appears again on earth, wearing his scarlet robe and jeweled crown, and walks up and down the highways giving a gift of gold and a heavenly blessing to all who chance to meet him. Just as he brought a gift to the Little King so long ago.

Elisbeth, a little girl who lives at the Inn, believes with all her heart in this legend. Her life is not a very happy one, as she is living with the innkeeper, old Thomas Moreley, whom she calls her uncle. Elisbeth has only a faint recollection of her father and mother, and Moreley will not allow her to speak of them, and tries in every way to convince her that what she says she remembers is not true.

On Christmas Eve, Sir Arthur Hertford, a Crusader, had recently returned from Palestine, comes to visit the rich people in the Manor House. He has been away from England for over five years, during which time he has learned of the death of his father and mother and little sister. The news of Sir Arthur's arrival frightens Moreley so that he plans to send Elisbeth to another part of England. However, before he can do so, Elisbeth meets Sir Arthur, and as he is wearing the white tunic of the Crusader, and a long scarlet cloak, takes him to be the Magi she has so long expected. Sir Arthur, in talking to the little girl discovers she is his sister whom he believed to be dead; he also recognizes in Moreley the old coachman who was with his family for many years. Moreley is forced to confess that after the death of Elisbeth's parents who were killed in an accident, he was to take Elisbeth and a considerable sum of money to some distant relatives. However, he was tempted by the sight of so much gold and so he reported that the little one had been killed with her parents, and disappeared with the child and the money. He produces proofs of Elisbeth's identity and the greater portion of the gold which he has never dared spend. So Elisbeth receives her gold and the greatest happiness she could ask for in the return of her brother and finds that she has really received the Magi's gift.

Chelsea High School Squad Honored at Football Banquet

On Dec. 7 a football banquet was held in the gymnasium in honor of the 1932 football squad. The banquet was sponsored by the junior and senior girls and through the co-operation of the students, parents and faculty.

The gymnasium was beautifully decorated in the school colors with numerous footballs suspended from the ceiling. The tables were decorated in purple and gold with placards in the form of gold footballs. These paper footballs are probably the only footballs the senior football players will receive, which incidentally are not very substantial to wear on a watch chain.

A two-course dinner was served at 6:30 by the freshmen and sophomore girls. After the dinner Harold Alexander presided as toastmaster and performed a very good job. Mr. Pogue, our superintendent, was the first speaker of the evening. He gave a toast to the football squad. In his speech he said, while Chelsea has not had a very successful season in football, nevertheless the main object of football was to be a good sport and play the game, win or lose, the same as they will have to play the game of life. Ren Hutzel returned the toast and told us of the good prospects of having a championship football team in the near future.

The next feature on the program was the radio cronies who unfortunately lost their voices near the end of their crooning. Mr. Thayer, our head coach, then gave a short but interesting talk in which he thanked the football squad for the co-operation and spirit they had shown. "A talk on football spirit was then given by Mr. Cross, our assistant coach. We were honored to have with us Wallace Weber, the main speaker of the evening. Mr. Weber, as you probably know, is an assistant coach of the University of Michigan football squad. Mr. Weber gave a very long and lengthy speech in which he gave us some of the fundamental points of the Yost football system. His speech was very much enjoyed by everyone and we hope we may be able to hear him again.

After this, the assembly joined together in singing a few popular songs. Tables were cleared away and dancing was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening.

Kindlings From The Elementary Grades

All the people of the elementary grades can think of is the opera. Do you think that much about it? We hope so.

Second Grade.

The best place to do your Christmas shopping this year is in Our Toy Shop. We have everything any child could want. Every toy has its own little price tag and name attached to it. We made and filled out these tags last week. We are busy making toys and learning all about it.

Friday morning will find us out shopping. Dick Schenk and Richard Unstead will be back of the counter. We invite the other children in the building to come into our shop and look around.

The second grade news board said Monday that, "Clayton Myers returned to Chelsea after spending the past two months in Manchester."

We wish to thank Mr. Cooper for the work he did on our fire-place.

Third Grade.

The third grade is beginning to get their room ready for Christmas. We have a fire-place. Jean Meservy, Virginia Burr and Richard Kinsey brought chairs to put by our fire-place. Marion Eleese brought a rug.

We are painting "Don't" Christmas trees on our boards and windows.

Some of our third graders are ready to start on their subtraction project. We hope that all of us will be able to work on it before long.

Library News

A group of girls belonging to the library club have gone over to the elementary library and selected a large group of Christmas stories. These books have been placed on a table, which arrangement makes it more convenient for the children to select the Christmas stories they wish to read. They have also made posters to illustrate the different Christmas stories. They thought of Santa Claus, Christmas trees and Christmas toys. These posters also show the kind of Christmas spirit we should have, and the kind of stories we should read. The girls that have been working in this group are Janet Dancer, Marjorie Sott, Doris Boone, Helen Baxter, Margaret Merkel, Alice Osborne, Zilpha Shaver and Mildred Tompkins.

Last Thursday the weekly meeting of the club was held. Business matters of the club were brought up and discussed and two book reports given, "Ride of the Empire," by Peter D. Kyne and "Whisper on the Stair," by Lyon Mearson. Next week at the meeting Ruth Green will report on "Ramona" and Jennie Scripser on "Red Pepper Burns."

Miss Dancer and the club have arranged to have "book talks" occasionally throughout the rest of the year. The first of the series will be given by Mrs. Algernon Palmer and Miss Cash, sometime soon after Christmas.

PINCKNEY.—Burglars visited this village last Wednesday night and got away with about $1,000 worth of loot. It was not discovered until about 7:30 a. m. Thursday morning when Mr. Kennedy opened his store. Everything was in great disorder. Goods had been pulled from the shelves and thrown on the floor. A hundred pound bag of rice had been cut open and emptied into a box of dry goods and the same thing had been done with a bag of pancake flour. Bonfires had been started in different parts of the store with papers. At first it was thought this was done for the purpose of setting fire to the store but later it was decided this was done to get a light as the thieves evidently had no flashlight. The greater part of the stolen goods were later found hidden in an old building at the rear of the store. All the thieves got away with was what they could carry and wear.

This was due to the fact that three Buick sedans, which had been stolen by the robbers, had been abandoned. Two were found in the ditch and the third driven without oil or water.—Dispatch.

BROOKLYN.—While L. S. Mann of Onsted was working on his farm near here this week he killed two blue racer snakes measuring four and a half and three feet respectively. Mr. Mann says the presence of the snakes at this season of the year indicates an open and mild winter.—Exponent.

CHARLOTTE.—Assistant Postmaster Ray W. Murray was a queer looking sight when he reported for work Monday morning. He had six or eight pieces of tape about his face, representing areas which had been hit by bullets from a 12-gauge pump gun in the hands of Rural Letter Carrier Robert Widrig. The boys were hunting with friends, on the Ames Bros. farm in Chester when a rabbit dashed up between the brace of hunters who stood perhaps 150 feet apart. Widrig shot, but the rabbit was not totally down and in pumping his gun to take a second shot, Widrig stepped back into a low spot and his gun exploded as his footing became uncertain. One of the shots pierced Murray's ear and a second hit in the corner of one of his eyes. He felt the patter of the charge on his hunting coat and did not appreciate that he had been shot until he started to bleed profusely from several small wounds.—Republican-Tribune.
