Ball, executive secretary of the Washtenaw county chapter of the American Red Cross. This third order brings the total number of barrels for this county up to 3,500. G. H. S. PLACED ON ACCREDITED LIST FOR 2-YEAR PERIOD

Inspector Recommends Changes; Superintendent's Contract Extended Two Years.

Michigan high schools are inspected by three different accrediting agencies, namely, the State Department of Education, the University of Michigan, and the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

These accrediting bodies maintain a very close relation to one another. The State Department and the University have a working agreement whereby the inspection made by either is accepted as official by the other. Thus, a school may be inspected by a representative from Lansing or from Ann Arbor and in either case the report of the inspection will be filed as a part of the records of both institutions.

Membership in the North Central Association is a matter of choice with the high schools. Those which maintain standards acceptable to the association are admitted to membership upon their voluntary application. It is logical that the men responsible for carrying out the inspection work for the University should be utilized by the North Central governing body for the purposes of its inspections. This condition prevails in many of the approximately 20 states covered by the North Central group. In Michigan, it so happens that for this year the head of the University's inspection department is also the chairman of the high school division of the entire North Central Association.

It thus becomes clear that although a high school is accredited by three separate and distinct agencies, the data upon which the school is accredited may be gathered by one inspector.

The Chelsea High School has been continuously accredited by the University of Michigan and the State Department of Education since 1899. In 1928 the school made application for membership in the North Central Association and has been accredited continuously by that organization since its admission in that year.

The University recognizes three levels of attainment for high schools, and these levels are indicated by the length of the accrediting period. Thus a few schools in the State, having unusually fine buildings and equipment, as well as teaching staffs with unusually large professional training, are accredited by the University for a period of three years. These schools, therefore, are inspected only once every three years. Other schools, which maintain good standards in all respects but which are not so completely equipped as those of the three-

Dairymen Will Hear Cow Tester's Report

Dairymen agree that great progress has been made through improved feeding methods for dairy cattle in bringing about higher production. Further progress in this field, it is believed will occur through more careful selection of cows and breeding stock.

Members of the Tri-County herd improvement association will listen to the annual report of Jack Wittman, cow tester, and be able to take part in a herdsbook demonstration at the time of the annual meeting which will be held Friday, Dec. 30, at 12:30 p. m. at Stockbridge town hall, according to H. H. Barnum, Ingham county agricultural agent.

C. W. Batters, extension dairyman of the Michigan State college, will be present to conduct this demonstration. The purpose of the demonstration is to explain that there are no short-cuts in sire selection and that the present variations that are known to exist in dairy cattle result from the variation in hereditary factors transmitted through dairy sires. It is believed that improving the dairy herds in the future will largely result through more careful choice of sires known to carry the factors for more efficient milk and butterfat production.

In so far as Michigan is one of the leading dairy states, Michigan dairymen members of herd improvement associations will be anxious to learn how to develop herds with the ability to return a larger net profit. Every dairymen is invited.

APOLOGY TO PATRONS

The Patron Class wish to give their humblest apology to all the people who had the desire and intention of seeing the Mountaineers, Monday night, at the High School Gymnasium.

On Monday, Dec. 19, a written contract was signed, hiring the W. X. Y. Z. Mountaineers to play at the Senior dance, Monday, Dec. 26. Due to a theatre engagement of a run of four nights at a higher paying basis which the W. X. Y. Z. Mountaineers were offered, it became their desire to break the contract. The Seniors were at a loss as to what to do. Therefore, the Mountaineers sent out a substitute orchestra which turned out to be the orchestra playing over WMBC. We hope that those who attended were satisfied and had a good time, which by the way, seemed to be evident. But, in spite of this fact, the Seniors give you their sincerest apology and assure you that it won't happen again.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to all who so kindly assisted us in our sad bereavement; to the many neighbors and friends for the beautiful floral offerings and expressions of sympathy.

Michigan Department of State

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN Frank D. Fitzgerald, Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 28.—Michigan's actual vote for president will be cast Jan. 4 when the state's 19 presidential electors meet in the senate chamber.

The electors are required by law to sign six copies of the report of their meeting. The first copy is sent to the President of the United States Senate; the next two copies are sent to the Federal Department of State; the next two copies are delivered to the Michigan Department of State; and the last copy sent to the Senior Federal Judge in Michigan.

Until 1929, it was necessary for a messenger to carry the report from Lansing to Washington every four years. The need for the messenger was eliminated by preparing the six copies of the report and sending them to the various officials.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 28.—Copies of 1933 motor vehicle registration lists will cost $40.00.

In 1931, the lists were sold at $200 a set. As a result of competitive bidding the 1932 motor vehicle lists were sold at $50 a set while next year bids resulted in a still further saving.

State laws provide that motor vehicle registration lists be compiled annually by the Department of State and distributed without cost to various law enforcing agencies throughout the state, and also permits the sale of additional copies at a price to be fixed by the department.

Question And Answer Dept.

Quos.—Why don't they use capital letters for "f, o, b." the same as they do for "C. O. D."? Ans.—The origin of this distinction is grounded in the theory that manufacturers were not prone to display or emphasize the fact that "f, o, b." means they would not pay the freight, which, if added, would make their product seem high in price.

OUR WONDERFUL CAR

Have you seen the new Car that's on Exhibition? It's a great little Car of today. Of its marvelous birth, its genuine worth, I think I have something to say. No doubt it is nice and if I have the price, I suppose I will drive one away.

But I have a Car of a different Ignition. Of different battery, too. It picks up its speed whenever you need it. More power, to carry you through.

It has gone over Mountain; it has traversed the Vale, Thru Slough, thru Jungle, and Mire, Thru Heat, thru Cold, thru Snowdrift and Rain.

Yet never has known to Missfire. The Modern Inventors have tried to improve. They have caused only friction and loss.

The Prints were perfect when first they were drawn, The Patterns all Stamped at the Cross.

This Car has a name, a Wonderful Name. Its record has ever been true. The promise is made, the price has been paid.

And there's one Assembled for you. No doubt but your heart will spring with a start. When you hear of this great Proclamation, But yet it is true; it is Assembled for you.

And its name is the Car of Salvation. Arthur Carlton, M. E. Home, Chelsea, Mich.

CHARLOTTE.—H. L. Weisman, local manager of the Morris store, was good and mad Monday morning. Some one after stealing the string of lights from the tree in front of the Morris store, evidently discovered the bulbs could not be used on ordinary sockets and the thief in his disappointment threw each of the 13 stolen bulbs against the front of the store, where, broken in many pieces, they were found in the morning. The theft of strings of lights from these miniature trees has not been as common as usual.—Republican-Tribune.

Program Will Keep Women Visitors Busy

Music, drama, lectures, and entertainment features are crowded to the limit on the women's program during Farmers Week, Jan. 30 to Feb. 3, but the program also provides enough free hours so any visitors to Michigan State College can enjoy any of the general programs in the afternoon or inspect the exhibits at the shows.

Clothes, children, and food are the factors around which most of the special women's program is built, but home furnishing and home beautification also have been given attention.

The speakers will be members of the college staff and nationally known authorities in certain lines of work.

Nutrition work with emphasis on getting the most food value with the least expenditure of money will perhaps be one of the most popular subjects discussed.

The women who attend the Farmers Week meetings in many cases are local leaders in special projects in their communities and the things learned by them are relayed groups of their neighbors in community meetings.

How to make the clothing dollar more elastic than during previous years will be another subject with a popular appeal. Children wear out clothes as fast when they wear 40 cents a bushel as when it brings a dollar.

The homemakers problem is to make the 40 cents do the same work as the dollar, and some of them are doing a better job of it than some financial wizards who are trying to do the same thing.

The annual homemakers' banquet will be held this year on Tuesday evening, Jan. 31.

USE GAS the modern, dependable, economical fuel FOR COOKING

Fifteen million women use gas for cooking. Let us show you the modern gas ranges and learn for yourself the many new improvements that have been made. There are new type non-clog burners, sanitary burner trays, insulated ovens, automatic oven controls, closed tops, porcelain finishes and many other new features.

Automatic Refrigeration

The gas refrigerator is the only silent automatic refrigerator. There is no machinery to make a noise, no fans or belts to require repairs. Just a small gas flame and a tiny trickle of water are all that is needed to make constant cold. There is no end to the variety of frozen desserts that can be made. Food can be bought in larger quantities at greater savings and the cost of operating is surprisingly low—much lower than what you now pay for ice.

WATER HEATING

Be sure of instant hot water at all times with an automatic water heater. A Modern Self Action Gas Water Heater can be installed in your home in a few hours. The tank, built like a huge thermos bottle, is solidly insulated, to save on heat. A thermostat automatically controls water temperature; requires no attention whatever. The cost, in actual practice, amounts to a few cents per day. Thirty days free trial, if desired.

SIX CYLINDER SENTENCES

By DR. JOHN W. HOLLAND. Adversity whets the blade of ability. Those who net upish prove that they are in the lower class. The young man who keeps a sharp lookout will have a much better outlook. Fathers, mix up with your boys, and they will be less likely to get into "mix ups." Experience, like happiness, is what we stumble upon while looking for something else. If God has given you one real true friend, be can scarcely give to you a greater gift. (© 1932 Western Newspaper Union)

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

A Christmas program was beautifully given Friday evening by the members of St. Paul's Sunday school before a very large attendance. The program opened with recitations and dialogues by the beginners department. This was followed by a pageant, "Star Gleanings," by the primary and junior departments. The pageant opened with a violin solo, "Sweet Night" by Adolph Duer, accompanied by Mrs. Milda Lindauer. Then came the star and her gleams to portray to the maiden of the modern world, played by Eileen Adam, that the material tokens of Christmas are all beautiful and that they have their place, but should not take the place of the Christ child, and the ideals His coming gave to the world. This was portrayed through the following characters: Christmas Star—Betty Seitz. Stars—Lawrence Dietle, Caroline Brietenwischer, Earl Grieb, Luther Kusterer, Margaret Knapp, Bobbie Strieter, Richard Schmidt and Ronald Schairer. Christmas Spirits—Muriel Marth, Edna Steinaway, Irma Dettling, Maynard Oesterle, David Strieter, Willis Mayer, Estell Seitz and Lucille Martin. Shepherds—Paul Schneider, Norman Niehaus, Lawrence and Leon Koch, Billy Stierle, Frank Novass and Earl Koch. Angels—Jean Mosevva, Ruth Luick, Helen and Clara Trinkle. Wise Men—Arthur Lindauer, Frederick Strieter and Phillip Novass. Innkeeper—Ralph Oesterle. Mary—Helen Grybowski. Solists—Mrs. J. N. Strieter and Mrs. W. Kusterer. Pianist—Mrs. Oscar Lindauer.

MILBURN S. EMBURY

Milburn S. Embury of Gregory, who was injured early Wednesday morning, Dec. 21, in an automobile collision on US-12, near the Staebler road about eight miles east of Chelsea, died Thursday in St. Joseph's Mercy hospital, Ann Arbor. Both cars caught fire and the occupants of the other car were burned to death. Mr. Embury was born April 17, 1905, in Lyndon township, the son of Leonard and Minnie (Schweikert) Embury. He is survived by the widow, formerly Mary Culhane; a son and two daughters at home; his father, Leonard Embury of Lyndon; a brother Clarence of Lyndon and a sister, Mrs. Clyde Meabon of Ann Arbor. Funeral services were held at one o'clock Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Embury, Rev. J. Rheingans officiated and burial was in North Lake cemetery.

FORD LEADS

Despite virtual absence from the market for several months early in 1932 due to the introduction of new models, Ford led all competitors during the first ten months of the year in sales of commercial cars and trucks, according to announcement today by L. G. Palmer of Palmer Motor Sales, local Ford dealer. The statement, which was based upon official figures reported by R. L. Polk & Co., showed that Ford, during this period had registered a total of 67,991 units, or 33.1 per cent of the total of 160,582 units of all makes. This compared with 55,754, or 34.7 per cent of the total, for the next make. It also was pointed out that since Ford re-entered the market in the spring, Ford sales of commercial cars and trucks consistently have exceeded sales of other makes.

As We Look to the FUTURE

What the past has been, we cannot help, but the future gives promise. It is before us and ours is the opportunity to make the best of it. For our part, we want to make it a good year—a year of progress and of better times and we are going to do our best to contribute somewhat at least to this end. We hope it will be a good year for you and at its close that you will be richer, happier, healthier and better in every way than you have ever been before. Surely we could not make a better New Year's wish for our friends.

$10,000,000 Saving is Seen If 1933 Legislature Adopts Report of Cost Commission

Investigators Recommend Shake-up of State Government to Relieve Taxpayer's Burden

Securities Commission Will Be Abolished and Other Departments Will Be Restricted in Activities If Report of Investigating Committee Is Adopted.

Abolishment of useless boards and bureaus; restriction of state administrative board powers; cutting away of fancy ideas in education; drastic slashes in pay in high-salaried governmental positions; return of control over appropriations and revenues to the legislature—these and other revolutionary measures are among the recommendations made in the report of the committee of inquiry into the costs of state government. It is said that more than $10,000,000 will be topped from the biennial budget bill during the approaching session of the state legislature, if the recommendations are made effective.

The securities commission will be abolished, the activities of the department of public instruction will be curbed with a resultant saving of $300,000, many unnecessary duties of the department of agriculture will be dropped, inspections of apiaries, pine blisters, rust and fruit flies will be stopped, with a saving of $50,000. The state highway department will be given the control of state parks, the conservation department will not be supported by property taxes, the health department duties will be curtailed with a saving of $100,000, and the expensive plumbing code, class legislation, will be cast aside if the recommendations of the nine-man commission that has probed state expense the past six months are adopted by the new legislature elected on a tax reduction platform.

State normal colleges will be brought under control and high salaries reduced. The competition now existing between the various state educational institutions will be cast aside and the schools made to work in harmony with a resultant saving to taxpayers. Circuit judges who have been protected against salary slashes will be cut from $0,000 to $5,000 a year. The power of fixing salaries of probate judges will be given to the boards of supervisors instead of the legislature. Circuit court stenographers will "take a slash." These regulations will be made if the legislature gives its approval.

Services Expanded. "There is a maximum burden which government can impose upon its people," the report recites. The commission report then points out that as a result of "more than two decades of unprecedented expansion of public service, unwise public spending, ventures into new fields of governmental functions and a general disregard for the taxpayer and his ability to pay," Michigan has been brought to a condition approaching bankruptcy.

University Slashed. Nearly $2,000,000 will be saved at the University of Michigan alone. A holiday will be declared in building. The university will receive only the tax collected and not the full amount of the assessment as in the past. A limitation will be placed on the mill tax. Michigan State college costs will also be reduced by restricting it in a similar manner. The saving at East Lansing will approximate $710,000, it is estimated.

State normal colleges will be brought under control and high salaries reduced. The competition now existing between the various state educational institutions will be cast aside and the schools made to work in harmony with a resultant saving to taxpayers. Circuit judges who have been protected against salary slashes will be cut from $0,000 to $5,000 a year. The power of fixing salaries of probate judges will be given to the boards of supervisors instead of the legislature. Circuit court stenographers will "take a slash." These regulations will be made if the legislature gives its approval.

County Boards of Supervisors. Supervisors of music instruction hatched for the state department at Lansing, for what purpose yet undetermined, supervisors of athletics to keep school heads from quarrelling with heads of competing schools will have to seek other employment; the extravagant system of child accounting will be abandoned and a simple system of computing the census for apportioning the primary money will be reinstated, provided always the new legislature is willing to go this far in economy.

County boards of supervisors have complained during the past year or two because statutes enacted several years ago set a certain salary for county and local officials. The commission recommends that in each instance the existing statute be repealed and full authority as to salaries for all local officials be returned to local governing bodies.

The commission was directed by the act creating it to inquire into the feasibility of instituting a system of civil service in state employment. This the commission has decided against, pointing out that present economic conditions does not warrant it. Complete classification of all positions in state service and a schedule of uniform salaries for each made comparable with salaries paid for similar services in private employment have been agreed upon and included as a part of the report. It will be found that many salaries provided are far below those paid at present and much below those paid in state service prior to the 15 per cent reduction decreed by the 1932 special session, those familiar with the report declare.

County Boards of Supervisors. Supervisors of music instruction hatched for the state department at Lansing, for what purpose yet undetermined, supervisors of athletics to keep school heads from quarrelling with heads of competing schools will have to seek other employment; the extravagant system of child accounting will be abandoned and a simple system of computing the census for apportioning the primary money will be reinstated, provided always the new legislature is willing to go this far in economy.

County boards of supervisors have complained during the past year or two because statutes enacted several years ago set a certain salary for county and local officials. The commission recommends that in each instance the existing statute be repealed and full authority as to salaries for all local officials be returned to local governing bodies.

JUST KIDS—During The Sermon By Ad Cartor

Curb Administration Board. The subject of the state administrative board and its elaborate organization for purchasing and accounting has long been the source of much conflict of opinion. The commission went into this matter at considerable length. In several instances the commission proposes that the legislature return to itself the constitutional responsibility which it relinquished in 1921 and subsequent years. It is proposed that hereafter all fees and license monies except highway and conservation revenues be returned to the state treasurer and by him disbursed only as appropriated by the legislature. Both the departments expected are told they must live on the monies collected for their particular use and that the treasury must hereafter be expended only for the purposes specified. Tax levies are recommended to be made by the legislature instead of the administrative board. Another recommendation is that hereafter no building projects are to be undertaken until all the money appropriated for such purpose by the legislature shall have been accumulated. Distressing deficits are thus sought to be avoided, it being further recommended that any deficit accruing must be included as an item in the next ensuing biennial budget.

Another field of argument has been explored and findings made public. That is the field of accounting. The report sets forth at length just where duplication of accounting is found and contains definite proposals for reducing such duplications. Certain phases of accounting and auditing in the office of the auditor general are severely criticized. The Hartman building act of 1929 providing for a five-year $80,000,000 program of expansion of state institutions is slated for repeal in the report. The author of the act is a member of the commission which proposes abandonment of the expansion program.

The 1931 act which required townships, villages and cities to provide exhaustive reports to the state treasurer also comes in for severe hounding. Repeal of the measure said to have cost the taxpayers of Michigan $100,000 in its first year is demanded.

Educational Costs. In no other field are savings to be made as readily as in the realm of education, it appears from the report. More than half of the promised savings to taxpayers is to be found in the chapter devoted to education. From the little red school house in the back of the ornate structures at Ann Arbor a severe pruning is recommended. The commission proposes to curtail the university and the state college to live strictly within the mill tax revenues, including all new structures and expansions. In addition to the foregoing it is proposed that hereafter only that portion of the mill tax actually collected from property owners shall hereafter be paid over to the board of regents and the state board of agriculture. Limit of the amount to be spread as mill tax is also proposed.

Teacher training colleges are criticized for an alleged growing tendency to expand as liberal arts colleges, duplicating the university and state college in this respect. It is proposed that the so-called normal group return to the strict field of teacher training, leaving degree and title seekers to attend other seats of learning. Tuition fees for students at all teacher training colleges should be increased to an amount not less than one-fourth the actual cost of instruction, the commission declares, thus returning an additional amount of $375,000 to the general fund of the state from which the teacher colleges are supported. Drastic reductions in salaries, personnel and courses offered are also proposed which again will save approximately $175,000 annually, it is believed.

Power Given Counties. Severe criticism has been aimed at the legislature in past years because at each session it has yielded to demands for centralized control of local expenditures. Also it is pointed out that local school officers have been clothed with too much authority over budgets and especially their own salaries. Proposed changes in the school code would result, if adopted, in returning to the people who pay the bills, full control over their requirements. It will no longer be necessary in case the school stove poker wears out to install a complete new heating and ventilating system. Neither will it be necessary, under proposed changes in the school code to send to Lansing for an expert to tell the school board where to locate the wood shed or the teacher where to set her geraniums.

Supervisors of music instruction hatched for the state department at Lansing, for what purpose yet undetermined, supervisors of athletics to keep school heads from quarrelling with heads of competing schools will have to seek other employment; the extravagant system of child accounting will be abandoned and a simple system of computing the census for apportioning the primary money will be reinstated, provided always the new legislature is willing to go this far in economy.

Farmers Week Shows Feature Livestock Michigan livestock owners will find their special interests given plenty of attention at the various stock shows to be held Farmers Week at Michigan State College, Jan. 30 to Feb. 3.

Colts, beef calves, and sheep owned by Michigan farmers who are co-operating with the college in livestock improvement projects will bring the best of their herds to the college for show that week. Students will use college livestock to stage the Little International, a contest in which the showmanship ability of the students is judged and some of the world's best livestock is exhibited.

Good livestock has lost none of its appeal to farm owners and reports from the shows held throughout the country indicate that crowds attending and interest in these events have equalled any previous records.

A horse-pulling contest which will pit some of the best pulling teams against each other will be repeated on this year's program. This feature has been one of the most popular of Farmers Week events. Lack of seating facilities for the crowd which wanted to watch the pulling contest caused the program committee last year to place two feature night programs on the calendar for the week. This plan will be followed again.

Poultry and turkeys in particular will also be given good spots on the entertainment bill. A turkey show and exhibit of R. O. P. stock will divide honors as points of interest for poultrymen.

In addition to the shows, each line of livestock will have sectional meetings at which experts in those lines will address audiences daily.

Hail Impossible in Cold Air Hail falls only in hot weather and during thunderstorms, says the United States weather bureau. What many persons think is hail in winter is usually sleet and consists of frozen raindrops.

ALINE.—The depositors of the Savings bank received $50,000 on Dec. 15. The bank was closed on Dec. 15, 1931, and re-opened on Dec. 15, 1931.—Observer.

TECUMSEH.—On Christmas Day, December 25, 1930, every adult in town sat down to a dinner of wild turkey at the home of Mrs. Benjamin Cole in a log house on the site of the late Dr. A. F. Tuttle's residence. It was now the home of Edway Cole.—Herald.

BRIGHTON.—Harlow Pleck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pleck of Genoa township, met with a very serious accident Monday of this week, when driving a cow. The animal kicked at him, throwing him violently, and it is thought his head struck the ground. As a consequence one of the vertebrae of the neck was fractured, and taken to the McPherson hospital at Howell, the bone set and the neck placed in a plaster cast. He is in a serious condition, but hopes are maintained for his recovery eventually.—Argus.

STOCKBRIDGE.—If beauty is an art to worship, and we believe it is, those who assemble in the Presbyterian church on Christmas morning must feel a bit more reverent and thankful than before the destroying fire that took place there a few weeks ago. The church has been redecorated on the basement to the roof and in part presents a beautiful sight to the eye and mind. The Fellowship room and kitchen have been remodeled to a great convenience, the woodwork finished, walls papered and the ceiling in the large room painted.—Herald.

He Put It Over

By H. IRVING KING (A Michigan Newspaper Syndicate) (WNU Service)

ALTHOUGH Roderick McKesson was guardian for his niece, Alice Randolph, and for Gerald, the son of his deceased friend, Simon Culbert, he had no idea of allowing his two wards to marry. He regarded Gerald as too lacking in business ability to ever really get on in the world. He was too light and airy in his talk and behavior to suit old Roderick, who was a ponderous person and liked solemnity and ponderosity in others. Roderick's idea of the proper sort of a husband for Alice was Gilbert Anderson. Anderson was a hustler, always in business-up to his neck; full of schemes for making vast amounts of money. He had not made any yet, but there had always been a plausible reason why the particular scheme he had been trying to put over, had not succeeded. Anderson had married Roderick as his own and devoted to him.

Alice intended to marry Gerald, and she was going to marry Gerald. Her uncle said emphatically that she was not to do that. "You just wait and see." When she had said "No" to Gerald on his proposing, he had replied: "Say, old girl, you don't really mean that—do you?" To which she had answered: "Why, of course I don't, you silly. Only we have got to wait. Uncle is dead set against you and is touting for that Anderson fellow. But—eh—be twenty-five in six months and my own mistress. Under the terms of father's will if I marry before I am twenty-five without uncle's consent, I forfeit my money, and I don't want to do that. In six months you come and ask me again."

This set Gerald to thinking. Six months was a long time to wait; but Alice was a level-headed girl and quite right to want to avoid anything her fortune. When Gerald had turned twenty-one Roderick had called him into his office and shown him a lot of figures of which he comprehended only enough to know that they represented a considerable fortune, and he had insisted that the old man go on managing his affairs. "The next day Gerald went to call upon Roderick McKesson. "Oh, you!" said Roderick. "What is it? Make it short, I am busy."

As a rule Gerald was a trifle loud in his dress; today he was attired soberly. The manner was generally a trifle frivolous; today he had an air of seriousness and suppressed anger. You would have spotted him anywhere for a business man accustomed to deal with important questions. It was not for nothing that Gerald had been a star in amateur theatricals. "Sit," said he, brusquely. "I called to ask if you could not reconsider your objection to my marriage, with your niece?"

"No," rumbled Roderick. "I never reconsider." Gerald saw a large envelope lying on Roderick's desk in the upper left-hand corner of which was printed in large type: "The Agawgnuk Finishing Company." "Have you ever—have you, if it is not an impertinent question, invested anything in that concern?" And he pointed to the envelope. "I have," snapped Roderick. "What of it?"

"Well," replied Gerald, "I have been taking rather an interest in business matters of late, especially new enterprises, and the Agawgnuk company is a rather doubtful concern." "Nonsense," cried Roderick. "They have contracts ahead for twenty years."

"Yes," said Gerald, "and they show these contracts to late investors. The fact is they are losing two cents a yard on every yard of cloth they finish."

"I am too busy to talk further with you today," said Roderick. The old man got exceedingly busy after Gerald left, calling up credit concerns and financial men who kept well informed of all that was going on. Roderick himself had been rather "out of it" for some years, joggling along in old ruts. He had been lured into the Agawgnuk scheme by Gilbert Anderson—and he had invested ten thousand dollars of Gerald Culbert's money in the concern. When the old man had finished his investigations he had a grim look. The first thing he did was to transfer the Agawgnuk bonds to his own account and deposit a certified check for ten thousand to the account of Gerald. "The young whippersnapper has business ability after all," he grudgingly thought.

As a matter of fact Gerald was so intensely jealous of Gilbert Anderson that he kept his ears open for anything concerning him. Having overheard two business men mention Gilbert's name at the club in a slighting manner he had taken one of them aside, demanding further information. And it had taken Lester Craddock an hour and a half to get through Gerald's head a full comprehension of the status of the Agawgnuk company. "Alice," said Roderick to his niece that night. "Young Culbert is getting to be quite a business man; I have changed my opinion of him." "And he plays a rattling game of tennis," said Alice. Roderick frowned. "In spite of that," said he, "you might do worse than marry him."

They were married, and the Agawgnuk Finishing company blew up two months after their marriage.

Why We Behave Like Human Beings

"America is a Nation of Morons"

THE great by-product of our patriotism in the World War was the startling discovery that "America is a nation of morons." Moron means dull or stupid, and is technically applied to children with permanently arrested mental development. Defective mentality due to congenital deficiency is "amentia"; if due to deterioration, "dementia." Congenital imbecility is generally accompanied by a thin and poorly organized brain cortex.
 Nearly two million American adults were tested by the army as to their intelligence. The average was that of a normal school child of twelve. As the test sampled the nation, the cry went up, "Nation of morons!" And much bunk was and is talked and written.

C. H. S. Placed on Accredited List For Two-Year Period

 year group, are accredited for two years and given a biennial inspection. All of the remaining accredited schools are inspected annually.
 It is obvious that a school which is accredited for one year may be continued on the accredited list for an additional year or may be advanced to the two-year list. In cases where extremely low standards are discovered, the school may be dropped entirely from the lists of accredited schools.
 Since the Chelsea High School was first accredited in 1909, the school has been at all times on either the one-year or the two-year list. All schools accredited by the University are given an official certificate bearing the signatures of the president and secretary of the University. This certificate is usually placed in a conspicuous place in the school building, commonly in the office of the superintendent or principal.
 The accrediting periods are from June 30th to June 30th. The latest certificate received by Chelsea High School states that the school is accredited for a period of one year, from June 30, 1932, to June 30, 1933. This certificate was based upon an inspection made in February, 1932.
 The University uses a considerable number of its prominent faculty members for purposes of inspecting high schools, as well as outstanding professors of education in the various other higher institutions of the State. On December 6th of the present school year, our school was inspected by Professor H. A. Kenyon of the Department of Modern Languages of the University. The Chelsea Board of Education has received Prof. Kenyon's official letter giving a report of his inspection. It is dated December 15, 1932. The first paragraph reads as follows:
 "When I inspected your high school on December 6th I was glad to find that conditions were much improved over the previous inspections. There are a few things, however, in which I feel still further improvement can be made."
 Then follows a series of three specific suggestions for improvement. The first of these had reference to the teaching staff, the second to the janitor service, and the third recommended "a further tightening of discipline in your school."
 Following these three paragraphs of suggestions for improvement is the closing sentence, which reads as follows:
 "I am recommending to the Committee on Relations with Secondary Schools that your school be restored to its previous status (the two-year list) and accredited for two years."
 The Chelsea Board of Education feels that this official letter from the University inspector places our high school in line with the best of its size in the State. The members of the Board fully realize that a school cannot be brought to the point of meriting this approval by the University except as a result of the co-operation of many persons. Therefore, the Board desires to express its appreciation to teachers, students, and parents whose efforts have aided in making it possible for our high school to take a step forward in the official records of the University.

 The Board of Education announces the formation of a new contract with the superintendent of schools, whereby the term of office of Mr. Poore is extended to June, 1935.
