Two-Day Cooking School Will Be Held at Chelsea High Auditorium on Next Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 8-9th

Washtenaw Gas Company and Chelsea Milling Company Will Co-operate in Special Food Preparation Demonstrations—Magic Chef Gas Range To Be Given Away—Also Other Prizes.

A special feature of the cooking school, of more than usual interest locally, is the fact that all flour used in the demonstrations during the two days will be furnished by the Chelsea Milling Co.

This flour will be taken from the new lines of specialties which have recently been developed by the local company, and will include Jiffy biscuit flour and a special cake flour, with the trade name of "Fa-ree Fluff." These brands, and other package brands of specialties have been placed on the market in local and in the Detroit area and the steady increase in sales volume proves their distinctive quality.

Many other brands of flour products are being developed in the laboratories of the company and will be placed on the market in the near future, under the "Jiffy" trade name. According to H. S. Holmes, manager of new marketing facilities, are being constantly developed, with the idea in mind of entering the retail markets of the entire East and Middle West.

Possibilities of this local industry are unlimited, and with increased production of their new lines, an increase in the number of people employed will result, so that the Chelsea Milling Co. will maintain their position of ranking as one of Chelsea's leading industries.

Jiffy Biscuit and Fa-ree Fluff cake flour is being stocked by local home-owned groceries. These stores will make a special display of the flour on the two days when the cooking school is being held.

A blank is provided by the examining officer which also must be filled in and signed by the examining officer, to be mailed to the Secretary of State.

The section of the statute which makes this action mandatory is as follows:

"Any operator or chauffeur, who shall change his residence previous to the expiration of a license granted under this act shall immediately return such license to the local examining board or the department, whose duty it shall be to write on said license the new address in the proper space provided thereon and the date of change. Failure to have such change recorded as herein provided may be cause for revocation or suspension of the same."

WENK-SCHMID

Beautiful in its simplicity was the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Ida A. Wenk and Julius F. Schmid, both of Chelsea, Jan. 28, at two o'clock p. m. The marriage vows were spoken at the parsonage of the Ev. Luth. Salem church at Scio, Rev. Paul Schults officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmid left immediately on a motor tour to Saginaw and other points and will be at home after Feb. 1 at their home in Lima township.

A two-day Cooking School, which promises to be the greatest event of its kind ever staged in Chelsea, is announced by the Washtenaw Gas Co., to be held at the Chelsea public school auditorium on Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 8 and 9, from 2:30 to 4:00 o'clock each afternoon. Miss Charibel Adams, who will conduct the school, is Home Service Director for the Washtenaw Gas Co.

Miss Adams received her Home Economics Training at Kansas State Agricultural college, Cornell University and received her master's degree in nutrition at the University of Wisconsin, doing research in nutrition and experimental cookery.

She obtained her practical work as teacher of cookery in the Chicago public schools, as hospital buyer and dietitian and also as owner of a tea room. She believes in the practical and efficient application of cookery science. It makes every day cooking interesting and joyous.

Many prizes will be given away each day the cooking school is being held, and a Magic Chef Gas Range will be given away the last day, in addition to the other prizes.

Everyone is invited to attend the cooking school—where new ideas will be learned for entertaining and new economical ways of preparing simple every day food. New ideas not only make the meals more interesting for the family, but also put thrills in the home-makers work.

There will be new frivolous pies with perky meringues and crusts which never fail even a beginner! There will be cookies and cakes and the secret of their fluffiness will be disclosed.

There will be the little touches which make entertaining distinctive. One day will be devoted to ideas for nutritious, easily prepared meals. The proper combination of foods for a well-balanced diet will also be explained.

Fabulate your cooking questions—Miss Adams will be glad to answer them.

Why does my custard pie have a soggy crust?
Why is my meringue tough or watery? These and scores of other questions will be gladly answered. Bring your cookery problems with you.

Mrs. Eddy, who will assist Miss Adams is a Home Economics graduate from Michigan State Agricultural college.

A treat is in store for the whole community, Sunday evening at the Methodist church. The pastor has persuaded Mrs. Allison Ray Heaps of Ann Arbor, the wife of the Congregational minister, and a dramatic reader of wonderful ability, to present Channing Pollock's play, "The House Beautiful."

She has recently presented this in Ann Arbor and Detroit and those present speak in the highest terms of the dramatic presentation of the play. The play itself takes in three acts and 15 scenes; it is a story that stirs the emotions and quickens the heart. It promises to be one of the best programs the church has presented. Everyone is urged to attend.

UNPAID TAXES ALARMS STATE

Early Checks Show That Total Will Be Greatest In History of State.

By Elton R. Eaton.

Lansing, Mich.—Michigan farmers, home owners, industrialists and merchants, unable longer to bear the tremendous tax burden heaped upon their shoulders by tax spending governmental units have surrendered the fight to maintain their possessions. The message of their abdication in the uneven struggle to make ends meet is written in the startling mass of unpaid taxes being reported daily to officials.

One state official declared that if returns on 1932 unpaid taxes keep mounting until the final day for county treasurer returns on March 1, the total delinquent tax for last year will exceed that of the total state tax collected just a few years ago.

The total state delinquent tax for 1932, as reported on March 1, 1933 amounted to only $1,796,816.34. Much of this was later paid.

In 1920 the amount was $5,615,361.17. For 1930, the amount jumped to $6,945,937.47 and in 1931 it reached the staggering total of $9,192,092.02, as reported by county treasurers up to March 1, 1932.

There is no way of estimating just what it will be for 1932 but early reports from county treasurers indicate a most distressing condition among the taxpayers of Michigan. That the total may go to $15,000,000 or even higher is not a wild statement and when the figures are checked at the end of next month, it will tell plainly the plight of Michigan property owners.

Legislative observers have wondered why high state executives did not detect through these rapidly mounting totals year after year the distressed conditions of the taxpayers. But Michigan like the rest of the nation was riding on the crest of a tax spending orgy that seemingly knew no limit.

The spite is now over and the day of reckoning is at hand. The potato grower up in Montcalm county, the celery grower around Oscoda, the lumberman of Northern Michigan, the little home owners who have paid the bills for these good times in the past are no longer able to do so. That is what the delinquent tax reports say.

The one big question around Lansing at present is, who is going to pay for the last big colossal, where is the money coming from?

With a deficit in all of the state funds, a delinquent tax list that is mounting daily to a total that officials fear to estimate, state finances are providing no easy problem for those trying to solve it.

There is talk of new forms of taxation, but members of the legislature are wondering who will be able to pay any new taxes. Governor Coons is sponsoring a sales tax. There are all kinds of schemes and plans for raising more tax money, but if one is to correctly read the minds of the senators and representatives, there is not much prospect of any form of new taxation right away not until there is a decided change of heart on the part of the legislators. One prominent member of the legislature who started fighting for economy in days when others thought such a word was a joke, declared that he was sure the members of the legislature would not approve a single appropriation or vote a new tax of any kind until state expenses had been cut to the very limit. There is going to be no half-way work about the economy program the legislature has in mind and any bill providing new taxation will get nowhere until first there is a rock-bottom cut in state expenses, and that includes every institution, as well as department.

With the discovery that the Stack Lumber Co. of Escanaba, which Auditor General Stack is official, has thousands and thousands of acres of timber lands on the delinquent tax list to be advertised for sale this year, his action in suppressing the list for publication is now regarded in an entirely different light. His personal interest had at no time been suspected. The surprising discovery of his own interest in a matter involving an important official act taken by him has caused no end of comment in Lansing. In one county the treasurer reports that the auditor general's company has delinquent taxes on timber lands amounting to over $10,000. It is stated that he has delinquent tax holdings in at least three Upper Peninsula counties. Not only are his taxes delinquent in these counties, but they are to be offered for sale in May. Stack insisted he took this action against publication of these lists as an economy measure. Now that the facts are available it is very evident to those pockets the economy was intended to imply.

Members of the legislature are still waiting for the administration's economy program. While they are waiting, they are not letting the days go to waste however because of the fact that they are advancing legislation along economy lines recommended by the commission that made a study of state affairs last year. When it is all over with, one member of the legislature says, it will be found that much of the economy legislation will be that recommended by this commission.

Senator Francis Culp of Battle Creek has let it be known that he is not in favor of loading down the taxpayers with more taxes to pay in order to build more roads, more buildings and more whatnots to provide employment for the idle. Senator Culp declares that he favors less government and more individual initiative. "Take the tax burden off the people and they will soon find their way out of this condition. But to tax people more in order to give the unemployed work would be about the gravest mistake we can make," he declares. It is quite evident that the legislature is being divided into two groups, one that wants more money for public work to give employment and the other group opposing additional taxation for improvements in order to provide jobs. This faction seems to hold the predominant position.

Michigan Department of State

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Frank D. Fitzgerald Secretary of State

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 2.—Announcement was made by Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald, Monday, that use of 1932 license plates will be legal in Michigan until March 1. At the same time he advocated a reduction in automobile and truck license fees in future years when the acute need for use of weight tax funds for the reduction of local highway tax burdens has disappeared.

The decision to extend the legal use of 1932 plates to March 1, the full limit allowed by the 1931 statute, was reached after records of the Department of State showed that automobile weight tax fees collected for the first 25 days of January, 1933, were $2,390,746 as compared with $2,444,406 for the same period in 1932. This decrease in funds shows that it is becoming increasingly more difficult for vehicle owners to obtain funds to pay the present weight tax.

"Weight tax revenue is needed badly by the state but the financial condition of the vast majority of Michigan citizens demands that they be given every possible extension of time," Mr. Fitzgerald said. "But every citizen who is financially able to do so, should purchase his 1933 plates as soon as possible, as practically all of this money will ultimately find its way into welfare channels, by providing employment on our highways."

In advocating a sharp reduction in the annual weight tax on motor vehicles, Mr. Fitzgerald pointed out that at the present time all weight tax funds are returned to local governmental units for the retirement of highway bonds and the reduction of local highway, road and bridge taxes. Until the need for this local tax relief is past, he asserted, there appears no clear way to lower license plate fees.

"Citizens have shown that they cannot afford to purchase plates under the present cost system, but they can pay the gasoline tax," he said. "The number of automobiles in use on Michigan highways is decreasing at the rate of more than 80,000 a year, which means that high fees are depriving citizens of the use of their property and also depriving the state of gasoline tax revenue."

"I believe plans should be made looking toward a drastic reduction of automobile license plate fees in the future. Pleasure car plates certainly should be reduced and there is every justification for reduction of costs of license plates for trucks that are not engaged in commercial business, but are used in an incidental manner in connection with another business. In this class I would put trucks owned by farmers for hauling their own products and trucks used by small businesses such as grocery stores."

"Such a law would see a tremendous increase in gasoline taxes and would provide welcome relief to more than one million citizens each year."

Will Wild Beasts Attack? They Will!

There is one question which Frank Buck, noted collector and leader of the "Bring 'Em Back Alive" expedition, has had to answer so many times that he can always tell when it is coming. The question is: Will animals attack a human being without provocation?

Mr. Buck has boiled his answer down to one word: Yes.

In the 20 years of bringing jungle animals back alive which qualified Mr. Buck to lead the expedition which filmed the beasts in their native habitat, for RKO-Radio release, he has learned several cardinal points about animals. One is that it is foolish to generalize about animals. It is just as foolish to say that all elephants are kind as it is to say that all Scotsmen are thrifty. Some elephants are "rogues," they are called—cannot be equaled for savagery. As a class, elephants are tractable; but to say that they are all playful, friendly beasts is ridiculous, according to Mr. Buck.

By the same token it cannot be said that every tiger is a man-eater, but once he has tasted human flesh he never again is highly pleased with anything else. All this is not to say that a tiger will not kill a man when aroused. He will. But he does not seek human flesh until after he has tasted it.

"Bring 'Em Back Alive," directed by Clyde E. Elliott, is set for its screen debut in this city at the Princess Theatre next Friday and Saturday, Feb. 3 and 4.

Question And Answer Dept.

Ques.—Will you kindly tell me about the big bell at Moscow, which is claimed to be the largest in the world and breaks windows when it rings—or is that just bunk?

Ans.—As there are two famous bells in Moscow which are remarkable for their size, we do not know which one you refer to. However, we will endeavor to tell you a little about both. The "Tsar Kolokol," which is Russian for "king of bells," was cast in 1733, and is the largest bell ever cast. It is seven feet thick, 21 feet in diameter, 22 feet high, and weighs considerably over 400,000 pounds. But the bell was never rung, so it could not have been this bell that "cracked windows," as you say. The bell became damaged in some unknown way in which a huge piece weighing 11 tons was broken from the side. The other famous bell at Moscow, known as the "Kremlin," was given to St. John's cathedral by the czar, weighs about 125 tons. It is still in use, and is considered the largest in the world. No windows are broken by the terrific sound of this bell, but it jars surrounding buildings to some extent. Its detonation can be heard for 12 miles.

Ques.—I wish to ask in your question department why the Progressive political party in 1912 was called the "Bull Moose" party?

Ans.—The party was given this nickname from a remark made by Theodore Roosevelt when asked how he felt. He replied: "I feel as fit as a bull moose." It was quickly taken up by cartoonists and journalists, and thus it became the emblem of the Progressive party and took its place beside the G. O. P. elephant and the Democratic donkey.

Ques.—Will you answer in your interesting question column if there are any snakes in the United States which can bite through a rubber boot?

Ans.—There are no snakes in the United States which can bite through a rubber boot that is properly fitted. A snake can get through the rubber which the snake has a more soft surface, such as the foot, which is made ordinarily in a leather shoe. Hence the possibility of being bitten by our snakes is rather remote, as all boots fit loosely above the foot, and the fact that snakes never strike higher than two feet from the ground.

Ques.—Can you answer which material was used first in making clothing—wool, cotton, silk or linen?

Ans.—It is not known definitely which was the first, as all these were used more than 3,000 years B. C. except linen. It is thought wool was first and then came cotton, which was widely used by the Egyptians and Hindus.

Ques.—I want to know on what day of the week I was born. The date was January 7, 1899.

Ans.—January 7, 1899, was on Saturday, which was the day you were born.

Ques.—Were there ever any wild camels in the southern states or Mexico? If so, when?

Ans.—There were never any native wild camels on this continent before the Civil War in the United States an attempt was made by this government to naturalize camels in the arid regions of the Southwest for the purpose of developing the animals for carrying supplies to army posts. Much money was spent to acclimate the camels. When the Civil War broke out these animals were turned loose along the Mexican border where they ran wild for years. They multiplied very little, and they are now extinct.

Ques.—What is "chop suey"? Is it Chinese or an American dish?

Ans.—Chop suey is purely the creation of English-speaking Chinese restaurant keepers in the United States. The origin of the words "chop suey" is uncertain, but good authority says it is a combination of the English "chop" and the Chinese "suei" which means bits, fragments or the pieces, for chop suey is only a mixture of fine bits of various meats and vegetables.

Ques.—Does the United States government receive the rent which is collected for boxes in the postoffice?

Ans.—In first and second-class postoffices the U. S. government receives all the box rent, as the postmaster receives a salary only. In third and fourth class postoffices the postmaster receives a percentage of receipts.

Tecumseh-Chelsea Basketball Game

Assembly Held on Friday of Last Week

It was last Friday, during our period set aside for activities, that we gathered and held an interesting and novel assembly. Mr. Moore, our superintendent, first made a few announcements. It was then that he complimented our boys on the basketball squad for their fine showing they had made this far this season...

Ye Ol' Snooper's Scoop

"Unless the legislature take measures that will offset the tax revenue loss that will incur through state adoption of the 15 mill tax limitation amendment, the Chelsea public schools will be forced to operate on either a part-time basis for the 1933-34 school year or admit a school calendar of not more than six months," E. Y. Moore, superintendent of schools, declared this week. Estimating a revenue loss for the local school system of more than $5,000 in tax receipts, on an assumption that five out of the 15 mills allowed by the amendment will be allocated by the State Legislature to school districts for tax levies, Supr. Moore said that collections would be entirely inadequate to meet operating requirements. "Even if all taxes levied would be collected, the returns on a five mill basis would be insufficient. Present economy measures now in operation in the local system will not allow for further reductions that will in any proximity offset the loss."

Chelsea Scores Second League Victory, 22 - 15

The Chelsea High School basketball team scored its second league victory over Saline by the tune of 22-15. The reserve squad lost 16-17. The reserve team lost through its inability to stop Tawors, who scored 12 points. The reserve squad showed an improvement since the Tecumseh game. J. Panaris was high point man with five points, followed by his younger brother, C. Panaris, who scored three points. The Chelsea High first team, scoring its second league victory over Saline, showed that it will give Belleville a hard fight. The team worked up an excellent team work. In the first half Chelsea played on even terms with the Saline boys. The teams were fouling quite often with Chelsea being the major offender. In the third quarter the Chelsea team won the game by steadily pulling away from their opponents. Two of the Chelsea boys, Hutzel and Seitz, were rejected on personal fouls. The scoring was very evenly divided among the Chelsea lads. Noves was high point man with six points, followed by N. Panaris and H. Wallace who scored five points.

Eighth Grade Skating Party

Way back in Revolutionary times Washington and his brave army crossed the wintry Delaware in little boats. Once across they won a decisive victory. Monday evening, just a little more than a century and a half later, 20 valiant eighth graders, already victorious in their battles, made a second gallant crossing. This time, however, the whole army was forced to cross the dangerous West Mill creek on a perilously icy log. Some fell in, but the army moved merrily on to a big roaring fire and a playground of ice, and play they did. The cats ran out and the firing ceased. Once more the perilous log was crossed and now the happy eighth graders are ready for another victory march.

ists in maintaining public schools in Michigan. We, the undersigned voters and supporters of the public schools of Michigan, hereby approve the principle of the greater support of public schools by the State with an equal reduction of local taxes on property. "WE ENDORSE THE PRINCIPLE of raising future revenue for the support of the state government and public education by means of such taxes as the inheritance and gift taxes, the graduated income tax, sales tax, utility tax, truck and bus tax, or any other tax which may be feasible, except a property tax." "WE REQUEST that the above taxes levied for education be placed in the Primary School Fund and a Central State School Fund for the purpose of equalizing school costs, and be used to replace present taxes collected on the home and the farm." "WE REQUEST THAT ECONOMIC MISBEHAVED THAT WILL place the total operating costs of the schools of Michigan on a basis comparable with those of 1922-23, and that a cash income for such amount be provided."

Editorial

"WE HEREBY PETITION the Governor and the Legislature of the State of Michigan to enact laws in accordance with the foregoing." Relieving property tax of a large portion of the cost of education has long been one of the leading demands of the leading educators for years. The shifting of the main burden from the property owner will in effect bring the major responsibility for the schools' support back to the state, in accordance with the original concept of the framers of the Constitution. Maintenance of the present Primary Fund would be fundamental. The creation of a Central State School Fund would be a part of the plan to equalize educational costs and opportunities. The petition asks the State to provide sufficient revenue so that the public schools of Michigan may be maintained at least on the 1923 level of operating costs.

Belknap's hired thug put my superintendent out of the picture. The camp foreman, Mark Saunders, isn't up to the job. Two others who are good loggers won't come now that the story has got around that Tom Belknap is after the Richards hide.

"That is the situation," she ended abruptly. "That's what a superintendent will have to confront. Who are you to do it?" She smiled, despite the unpleasant conviction that this Ellen Richards was going to be amazingly hard to deal with, and reached into a pocket for his bill-fold.

"A fellow doesn't like to push his own medals," he laughed, a bit nervously, as he considered the thin ice on which he was treading. "I've only held one job that amounted to anything"—flicking through the papers in the wallet. "I've had four years in forestry school, but the value of that remains to be proven, I suppose." He handed over Sandy's letter. "I don't know what you expect in the way of personal qualifications. I swear when it isn't always necessary, I smoke cigarettes; I've been known to drink some. I don't know all that there is to know about hardwood logging by a long shot."

She was not reading the letter; watching him, instead, as though his words or manner intrigued her. "I'd be interested in this job principally because it would show what I could do, and I'm curious to know how good or how bad I am. I've done my best to size up my own shortcomings; as for the rest, I'll leave it to Sandy Melver," gesturing towards the letter she held.

"The girl's eyes dropped to the scrawl and her mouth twitched. It was coming now, he felt! She was going to jump at the chance of getting help! He leaned forward a bit.

"That's a fine letter, Mr. Steele," she said. "I don't know, I don't know the company." She looked at him as if slightly puzzled and paused a moment. Then, decisively: "I'd like to have you go to camp with me tomorrow morning. After a few hours on the job I'll give you an answer."

She rose with a manner of dismissal and John Belknop, unacquainted now as John Steele, got to his feet, annoyed and confounded. (To Be Continued)

CHARLOTTE.—G. W. Brown, publisher of the Belleve Gazette, had a narrow escape last Thursday morning when the Ford coupe he was driving crashed through thin ice on Houghton lake and sank in about eight feet of water and muck. Mr. Brown went down with the car but was able to extricate himself, coming to the surface and by grasping the edge of solid ice was able to hang on until several nearby fishermen came to his rescue. The accident occurred about a mile off shore. Using a beaten path across the ice over which more than a hundred other cars had passed that day, Mr. Brown was returning to shore when a fish house, driven across the ice by the heavy wind that swept the lake struck the front bumper of his car, throwing the machine from its course and onto a patch of ice which later proved to be not more than a few inches in thickness.—Republican-Tribune.

Claud Ray Coleman, a resident of Sharon township near Chelsea, died Friday morning, Jan. 20, at 3 o'clock, at the age of 61.

He was born in Rome township, Lenawee county, March 25, 1871, the son of Alvin and Aurila Abbie Coleman.

Mr. Coleman was married in 1905 to Lucinda Smith of Blissfield, Mich., and to them were born two daughters, Aurila and Helen. They lived many years in Lenawee county before moving to St. Louis, Mich., and later to Ypsilanti.

Only three weeks ago Mr. Coleman lost his step-mother, Mrs. Mary E. Coleman, and her sudden death greatly weakened him and hastened the end of a two-year illness.

Surviving, besides the widow and two daughters, are a sister, Mrs. Frank B. Boomer of Tipton, and five grandchildren and one great grandchild. Funeral services were held at the Wellsville church, with interment in Pleasant View cemetery, Blissfield.

A TRIBUTE

A dear old friend once blest our lives, Our home and children, too. This friend was just an old bay mare, Faithful, kind and true.

Was almost human, so to speak, Our language well she knew; Of gee and haw, kiddap and whou, Was natural for her, too.

The extra hour or extra mile, She'd go with willing gait, And gladly take her oats and hay Or even just a bite.

Never complaining, true as steel, Would go where she was led, With children plenty on her back And more around her head.

The cultivator, wagon, plow, Or buggy 'twas just the same, Pricked up her ears and started off, If you but spoke her name.

Almost a score of years went by Before she took her rest, And if there's heaven for horses, sure I know it's there she's blest.

Methods sometimes by pastures green I may be wandering through, By sparkling waters, pebbly stream, I'll live this life anew.

And should I think a God of Love Would do so much for me, And leave the picture I have drawn A blank eternally.

No-No! I cannot think it so, And still more I would fain, To put my arms around her neck And love OLD LID again.

—Arthur Carlton

"Great Horn Spoon" Authorities differ in regard to the origin of the expression "the great horn spoon," but the Cook Museum of Natural History has spoons made from the horns of big-horn sheep in its collection, and it seems probable that the expression was evolved from the horny hules, which were in com-mor use by the Sioux and other tribes before trade intonsls from the whites were acinted.

Motor Car Versus Bicycle A great countryman of my acquaintance, now approaching three score years of age, makes this curious claim. He has just concluded a three weeks' cycling tour in Wales, with the following result: "I discovered a fact which I had suspected and have now tested. I can ride the hundred miles on my bicycle with less fatigue than I can drive a car one hundred miles. It is curious, but confirms a remark which one of the greatest of racing tricyclists made to me. He said that on his tricycles over twenty-four hours he would beat any motorist not of the trained racing class. He can do nearly four hundred miles in twenty-four hours on the tricycle. There are very few ordinary men who could drive a car four hundred miles at a stretch."—London Spectator.

Caesar's Funeral Pyre Julius Caesar's body was burned on a funeral pyre upon which were piled chairs, actors' dresses, musicians' instruments, soldiers' swords, women's scarfs, children's toys. "The remains were collected with affectionate care and deposited in the tomb of the Caesars in the Campus Martius."—James Froide.

Toy Spaniel The King Charles spaniel is a fairly popular toy breed, which is at least three hundred years old, since specimens of it occur in French paintings of the sixteenth century. Princess Henriette of Orleans, the sister of King Charles II of England is reputed to have introduced this breed into England, hence its name.
